SOME HELPFUL TONIC Prescribed by Our Physician

Every organized body that suppresses the element of truth and veracity will die of its own weight. The creator of truth will war against it, it must die.

In this world we have deformed, reformers, informers, transformers, conformers. Pick out a good vocation, hook up to a star and let it drag you around.

Its going to be too bad for the tough element of this country if the people elect a man to the presidency who comes from a family who will use the big stick.

There is some talk of putting burglar alarms on the inside of some commercial institutions instead of the outside. There seems to be more chance of losing from within than from without.

Have a mind of your own. Before you drop a friend on the suggestion of another, have the facts for dropping him well investigated before you do so. If your friends are doing the right thing, stand by them.

Well, when we get back to using the old oil lamp again, then we can say that the depression has really begun. Up to now we have been enjoying one good sleep and three feeds every twenty-four hours. Not so bad.

A Scotchman tried to get into a show at half price because he only had one eye. A little later he had his twins picture taken by having the camera man take the picture of only one of them because he said they both looked alike anyway.

"Everybody for himself and the devil for us all" is the slogan in vogue. "Believe me I'm getting mine and if you don't get your its your funeral." "Aint no such thing as a community any more." "Home is a place to get ready to go some place else." "I do as I please, regardless." The above is what they say.

Boycotts win some times and some time they don't. The trouble with the boycott business the promoters have to change too many minds to put the underhand stuff over. And when the boycott seems almost complete the people just change their minds and we are right back where we were and the boycott fails. And then there's another thing. No organization can boycott a man that is thoroughly convinced that he is right. The loss of material things or a job by others boycotting him only strengthens him in the belief that he is right and increased his determination to the Nth degree.

Favorite Bible Passages of Morris Sheppard

U. S. Senator from Texas.

Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Matthew 22:37-39.

Comment: These verses, containing the reply of Christ to the lawyer in the temple, are my favorite ones because they announce the doctrine of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, making love of God and man the pre-eminent duty of the race. (Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

Humidity

The weather bureau says that relative humidity is the ratio of the amount of invisible water vapor in a given volume of air to the amount that would make this air saturated at the same temperature. In short, it is the ratio between the amount of invisible vapor present to the maximum amount that could be present at the same temperature. In measuring humidity, only the invisible water vapor is considered, and not the drops of rain or droplets of fog.

Alligators in Demand

Alligators are extensively utilized. Their hides can be tanned into an excellent leather, which has become expensive. The teeth, obtained by potting the skulls in the ground, are of fine ivory, and valued for carving into ornaments. Both flesh and eggs are eaten by some persons, and the eggs are valued because they can be hatched in boxes of warm sand, yielding young alligators to be sold as pets, or killed and made into curious ornaments.

Used Cars

1931 Model A Town Car, Sedan. Like New.
1928 Chevrolet Coupe in Excellent Condition
1924 Essex Coach
A Cheap One-Ton Truck
Also a good Work Horse

VISIT OUR DISPLAY AT THE HICKSVILLE FAIR THIS WEEK

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Doris Beams

—Teacher of—
PIANO AND VIOLIN

Anyone desiring to study Piano and Violin, please Telephone No. 2 at SPENCERVILLE

Make Prosperity a Family Habit...

Among our depositors are many families whose three living generations habitually bank with us. Invariably we have found that those who have learned and have taught their children to save regularly are the most prosperous families in Spencerville.

Saving Regularly Involves Self-Sacrifice

To a Certain—Healthful—Extent

It involves close adherence to a principle—but it results in a safe and sane prosperity. A bank, which has earned the confidence of three generations of many families, tells you this—and invites you to duplicate their prosperous history.

That Family Wins, Which Works and Saves Together

Farmers—Merchants St. Bank

Advertising

is the best medium in the world through which to let the people know you are a live business concern and a real booster for the old home town and community. Not only this but advertising

Will Help

you build up new business and hold old customers. Right now, when depression is hammering at the morale of the people is the time to impress upon the minds of the people that you and your business colleagues are doing every thing in your power to return the community to normalcy. Persistent advertising will

Bring Back

those customers whom you have lost through neglect of keeping informed about your store and the advantages gained through trading with you. Use the columns of your local newspaper. Let them know you can save them money by trading at home and at the same time keep a majority of the community wealth at home. This will go a long way towards the return to normalcy.

PROSPERITY

increases with confidence and Confidence can be established by advertising your business and showing the people of your community that you have faith, confidence and conviction that we are returning to normal times.

THE ST. JOE NEWS
St. Joe, Indiana

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Huge Liner Looks at Schneider Cup Racer

The Empress of Britain, England's latest and largest liner, passing Calshot as the Gloster Napier 4, one of the British seaplanes built for the Schneider cup races, was going down the slipway for a trial flight.

Nurse Marries Rich Woman-Hater

Romance Buds in Hospital After an Operation.

Atlanta, Ga.—An unusual June-December romance that flowered in the stillness and somberness of a hospital ward culminated here in wedding bells for a pretty young nurse and a wealthy bachelor.

The principals are Miss Lane and F. M. Barberi, an official of the Southern railway.

The marriage, performed by the Georgia Baptist hospital chaplain a few hours after Miss Lane received her diploma as a graduate nurse, came as a surprise. The couple kept their engagement secret until Miss Lane could get her diploma.

Once Woman-Hater Barberi was a woman-hater of wide reputation. Despite his good looks and wealth, he had escaped designing mothers with marriageable daughters for so long that his friends had given up hope that he would ever marry.

In fact, he had told them on innumerable occasions that he would never wed, which statements were received with considerable dismay in the debutante ranks.

"Get Barberi," became a slogan with the more forward of the debutantes and their mothers, but never a proposal did any of them get.

Then Barberi was stricken suddenly with appendicitis. He was rushed to George Baptist hospital and put under the knife. One of the nurses helping the surgeon was Miss Lane.

The pretty young nurse was instantly attracted to the patient. She was by his side when he came out from under the knife.

Ex-Slave, Declared Dead at 5, Is Nearing 100

Staunton, Va.—"Aunt Annie" Johnson, former slave, who, when a child and following a serious illness, was given up for dead and placed in a coffin for burial, is nearing her one hundredth birthday anniversary at her home at nearby Waynesboro.

Pronounced dead at the age of five years, a member of her family noticed her body move as she lay in her coffin and she was nursed back to health.

The ancient colored woman, who will pass the century mark December 1, is still active and a familiar figure about the streets of Waynesboro.

J. D. and His Great Grandchildren

A most unusual and exclusive photograph of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., oil king and one of the world's wealthiest men, with two of his great-grandchildren, made on his estate, at Lakewood, N. J. The youngsters are left to right, John (9 months) and Elizabeth (2 1/2 years) De Cuevas, offspring of Mr. and Mrs. George De Cuevas.

HE WILL BE DEPORTED

Charles Ponsi, the king of the "get-rich-quick boys," who will be deported to Italy as soon as he is paroled from the Massachusetts state prison, probably in October. This was announced by the Department of Labor.

Low Birth-Rate Causes Alarm in Britain

Only Sweden Has Fewer Infants Per Capita.

London.—Great Britain now has the lowest but one birth rate of any country in the world—the sole exception is Sweden—and economists are somewhat alarmed over the possibilities this forecasts.

The census, taken throughout Great Britain, reveals that there has been an almost unbroken fall in the birth rate during the last ten years. It has been reduced to the level of 16.3 per thousand population, which is more than half less than in 1890 and only about two-thirds of that recorded in previous years.

S. P. Vivian, the registrar-general, in his report warns: "Though further slight increments in the total population may be expected during the next two decades owing to a rapidly expiring but not quite exhausted momentum imparted by the higher birth rates of the past, there can be no doubt that, falling a considerable rise above the present birth-rate figure—of which there is no sign at present—the population maximum will then be reached and will be followed in its turn by a small but increasing decline."

Vivian adds that at its present rate the birth rate is insufficient to retain a stationary population in the future. The report points out that in spite of the fact that marriage rates have been well maintained, particularly at the younger ages at which the bulk of births occur, and of the further fact that the exceptional postwar spurt in the birth rate itself had passed its maximum at the beginning of the last period of ten years, the total births registered between 1921-1931 are more than a million and a quarter fewer than they were in the preceding period—a period which covered the war years, when the birth rate sank to levels never before recorded in this country.

The births were between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 fewer than those of the last completely normal ten years, from 1901 to 1911.

Majestic Swans Again Nesting in Yellowstone

Yellowstone Park.—The appearance of eight pairs of trumpeter swans was reported in Yellowstone National park during the month of May, which is their nesting period. Conservationists hail this as good news, for these majestic birds are one of the species which are facing extinction under changing conditions, and the Yellowstone is one of the points where it is hoped to check the apparently ebbing tide.

Unless the few remaining trumpeter swans in existence can nest and rear their young safely, the species will soon join the dodo and the passenger pigeon.

Bread From Seaweed Is Popular on West Coast

Ojai, Calif.—There's something new under the sun all the time—if an old proverb may be contradicted. For this describes the baking and selling of bread made of kelp, better known as "seaweed," which started in this town, located only a short distance from the Pacific ocean.

William Baker specializes in producing this bread and says there is quite a demand for it. "The kelp gives the bread a peculiar flavor," he said.

Smoker Starts Big Fire in Pennsylvania Forest

Harrisburg, Pa.—Reckless that smoking was a dangerous practice while cleaning the brush in a woodlot, a Cambria county farmer placed his pipe in the pocket of his coat. Unfortunately the pipe was not extinguished and burned through the coat, fell to the ground and started a forest fire that destroyed five acres of timberland.

DAIRY

BE SURE OF BULL'S VALUE AS BREEDER

Dairymen Often Too Quick to Condemn Him.

Turning good pure-bred bulls into beef before their actual value as breeders has been shown, in one of the most wasteful dairy practices, says a bulletin of the University of Minnesota. The real worth of a dairy bull cannot be determined until his daughters have been tested for butterfat production in comparison with their dams. Too often, however, before this has been done, the bull has been killed and all possibility of further service cut off. Nine such examples have been found in the four years of testing carried on by the East Polk County Dairy Herd Improvement association.

This association has proven nine pure-bred sires whose daughters produced more than their dams, the increases ranging from 20 to 82 per cent. One dairymen owned two of these sires, yet not one of the nine remained alive when their worth was known.

A recent sire to be proved was a pure-bred Guernsey owned by Tilford Hargrave of Foxton. Seven daughters of this bull, all that have been tested so far, have yearly production records averaging 507.64 pounds calculated on the basis of maturity. The seven dams have records averaging 338.87 pounds. The average increase of daughters over dams in yearly butterfat production is 273.77 pounds, or an increase of 82 per cent.

Had this bull been saved until the above records were available, he would not only have been worth a good price, but could have helped other dairymen improve their herds.

Likes Hay as Roughage for Dairy Cow Ration

Wherever silage crops can be grown successfully most farmers have by now been converted to the use of silos. The silo stores a large amount of feed in a small space and his come to be regarded as the cheapest source of winter succulence. Occasionally, however, a really successful farmer is found who has a silo but is not using it. Such a one recently expressed a strong preference for hay as a roughage for all kinds of live stock and particularly for dairy cows. His farm is well adapted to the growing of alfalfa and red clover and his two barns are filled with legume hay, all the straw being stacked in the barnyard. He finds that an acre of alfalfa hay will supply very nearly as much feed as an acre of corn and it is easier to grow three acres of alfalfa than one acre of corn. "Don't you find that you need succulence to keep the cows regulated?" was asked. "I have gone back to roots to meet that need," he answered.

Dairymen's Chance

Pure-bred bulls of the best type and from high-producing dams are cheap. Young sires carrying the best of dairy blood may be had for as little as $75. Where three or four farmers club together to secure the service of such an animal, the cost is almost negligible, yet the influence on the herd is tremendous in lowering production costs, says the Michigan Farmer. While the state college better sire truck is being exhibited at a series of meetings in six widely scattered counties to urge this action by dairy farmers, there is no limitations on the idea and groups of farmers everywhere in the state can have the advantages of these superior sires at little cost. It should be remembered that our outstanding farming estates were invariably started by men who made wise investments during some depression.

New Guernsey Record

Floram Bolla, a seven-and-a-half-year-old Guernsey cow owned by Floram farms, Madison, N. J., has established a new state record for butterfat production by Guernseys, according to the announcement of W. R. Roberts, superintendent of advanced registry for the New Jersey agricultural experiment station.

She has produced 16,050.4 pounds of milk and 635.9 pounds of butterfat in class A (mature age) for one year. This new record for butterfat production is 15.7 pounds more than the former record of 920.2 pounds, established last year by Monarch Ideal, a Guernsey in the herd of Charles D. Cleveland, Eatonville. The average production of Guernsey cows on advanced registry in class A is 11,305.55 pounds of milk and 553.2 pounds of butterfat.

Watch Cow's Health

One-sixth of the dairy cows of California were tested for tuberculosis in the first four months of the year. The 111,302 cows tested represented an increase of 82,145 tests over the number for the same period in 1930. Dr. J. F. Iverson, reported. He reports that dairymen are striving to rid their herds of tuberculosis "as they realize that healthy cattle lay the foundation for an improved dairy industry and a better market and higher prices for dairy products."

Sleeves Feature the Velvet Jacket

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

INTRIGUING little velvet wraps continue to flourish in the style picture, both for daytime and evening wear.

At this time of the year when the cool of autumn is being foretold during midseason days, the little velvet jacket made either of black or of bright colored transparent velvet comes as a lifesaver to many a pretty summer frock such as women love to wear and are loath to cast aside until the last call for summer ceases to resound through the realm of fashion.

And so, because of the little velvet jacket, which tops it so smartly and flatteringly, many a beloved summer frock at this very minute is being permitted to live on borrowed time.

While the velvet jackets shown in the picture are functioning as evening wraps, they may be just as suitably and effectively worn during the daytime hours. The back view of the very youthful model to the left calls attention to an exceedingly clever shallow yoke effect. As to the sleeves, they are the "last word" in artistry and novelty. The velvet which fashions this good-looking wrap is bright green and it is worn with a pale yellow firm-weave chiffon evening gown.

The other jacket, with its wide flowing sleeves and its scarf-like neckline, is highly colorful; the transparent velvet of which it is made being bright red with red, white and black printed chiffon for its lining. It contrasts strikingly the pajama costume of black satin over which it is posed.

If there is one thing which distinguishes the popular velvet short-jacket wrap more than its sleeves, it is its color. The intent of the mode seems to be to add a velvet jacket to the costume which shall intensify the color scheme. Throughout the early Paris collections arresting color contrasts are stressed. Most unusual colors are combined, such as deep jade for the velvet jacket over purplish dark blue for the dress, or perhaps a radiant brown velvet wrap with a pale blue evening frock. The new color card places emphasis on rich shades of green, red and blue for fall, these deep autumn-like hues being especially effective in velvet.

Some of the very lowest evening gowns show a stately silhouette made possible through the use of velvet which is stiffer and firmer than has been in favor for many a year. These late models mass the skirt fullness at the back and their sleeves are composed of two puffy quite like artists of the past delighted in portraying in pictures of "a lady."

(© 1931 Western Newspaper Union.)

WOOLENS FAVORED FOR AUTUMN WEAR

Woolens are in a most important place in the fashion picture for the coming season. And justly so, for wool no longer is a term synonymous with a heavy, bulky fabric designed for utility alone. Woolens of 1931 are in many weights and many surfaces, but the best of them, heavy or light, smooth or rough of finish, drape with the perfection which the new mode demands. They are as serviceable as they ever were, and they are beautiful as well, a fact borne in upon us recently when we visited one of the foremost woolen manufacturers of the country, says the New York Herald Tribune.

Coat fabrics for women are being woven so closely and thickly that they need no interlinings, which are clumsy things at best, and at the other end of the wool panorama are coarser woolens which make the woolen evening gown seem an eminently practical and desirable addition to the wardrobe, rather than an extravagance of the designer's imagination.

Women Learn to Make Permanent Waves Behave

Permanent waves are still going strong. Every woman concedes that the hot-bottled curl is a marvelous and wonderful idea. Methods have improved. Waves are wider. The process is completed in less than half the time that was necessary a few years back. Women have learned how to make permanent waves behave, to moisten them, pet them, pat them into alluring patterns. Brushing doesn't harm them; only makes them crazy for the moment. Combing out straight, applications of brilliantine or hot water together with clever manipulations put them in form again.

Cuban Heels Popular for Sports or Street

The Cuban heel is a smart choice for sports or street wear. It isn't like the square heel that was once characterized as Cuban but is gracefully shaped though sturdier than the spike heel. Usually of leather, it ornaments the shoe of calf or alligator. The spectator sports shoe is frequently seen with this conservative but very smart heel.

Spectator Sports Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Plaid transparent velvet in green and yellow fashions this tailored dress with velvet scotch beret to match. A green wool jacket tops this handsome one-piece frock which is collared and cuffed with white pique. Black kid pumps, a purse of black velvet with silver mountings and eggshell doorknobs complete this charming outfit.

Luxury Lingerie Smart When Laden With Lace

Luxury lingerie of crepe satin white or black is smartest when heavily laden with white lace of floral pattern. The silk slip for evening wear cut with a decollete back has its skirt finished up in an extravagantly deep flounce of the lace. Black satin night robe as well as chemises are stunning when bordered with white lace.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains Of Abraham

By James
Oliver
Curwood

Illustrations by Karl May

Copyright by Doubleday, Doran and Co., Inc.

THE STORY

With his English wife, Catherine, and son, Jeems, Henri Buisson, French settler in Canada in 1749, cultivates a farm adjacent to the Tontour seigneurie. As the story opens the Buissons are returning from a visit to the Tontours. Catherine's wandering brother, Hespithah, meets them with presents for the family. To Jeems he gives a pistol, giving him perfect himself in marksmanship. Jeems fights with Paul Tache, cousin of Tontour's Tontour, whom they both adore. Next day Jeems calls at the Tontour home and apologizes for brawling in front of Tontour. The Tontours go to Quebec. Four years pass. War between Britain and France rages. Jeems returns from a hunt to find his home burned and his father and mother slain. He goes to the seigneurie and finds the manor destroyed and Tontour and his servants dead. Believing him an enemy, Tontour wounds Jeems and denounces him as an Englishman.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

Jeems scarcely knew he spoke the words. They rang back through the years as if a ghost had come to life whose memory they had faded out of their hearts a long time ago.

"What are you doing here?" she demanded.

She might have asked that same question in those unimportant years when he had dared to visit Tontour manor with his foolish gifts. Why was he here? He turned in the direction from which he had come and held out his hand, not for her to take, but as a voice. She understood what his burden had been. Tears? Such trivial things could not exist in the consumed them. Pride, defying grief, raised her chin a little as she obeyed Jeems. She knew to what she was going. And when she came to the place which Jeems had prophesied, she was like a white angel who had appeared to gaze for a moment or two upon the dead.

With a tool he had found, Jeems had made a grave. It was shallow and made less unbecomingly with a bed of golden grass. Tontour did not seem unhappy as he lay upon it. The top of his head was covered as Tontour could not see. She knelt and prayed, and Jeems drew back, feeling that to kneel with her, with the marks of her hatred on his face and body, would be sacrilege.

Even now, when it should have known better, the mill wheel continued to whine and scream, and suddenly it occurred to Jeems that it could not have been that way yesterday when Tontour was alive. A devil must have come to abide at the top of the mill!

He waited, scanning the horizons that were thinning of their smoke. Death had passed and death might return over its own blackness trail. Tontour, beside her father, made him think of that. It seemed a long time before she rose to face him. She was not crying. Her eyes were blue stars in a countenance as pale as marble. The sun shone on her and gave an unearthly radiance to her hair. Her beauty held him stricken just as his own terriblest forced from her a gasp of protest when he drew off the coat borrowed from one of the dead men and spread it over Tontour. But she did not speak. Only the mill wheel continued its virulent plaint as the loose earth fell on the baron. Tontour looked steadily toward the sky, and when Jeems was done she accompanied him back to the mill. She watched him go for his bow, where he saw that the form he had thought was Tontour's was the wife of Peter the Younger.

He came back and spoke to her a second time. The lips she had broken with the musket barrel were swollen, and the brand across his forehead was turning a dark and angry color. The cloth he had twisted about his wounded arm was red. Sickness and pain were forcing their way into his eyes.

"I must take you away," he said. "There is not time to care for the others. If they come back—"

"They will not harm you," she said. "Jeems made no mistake, but looked away over the Richelieu toward Champlain and Dieppe."

"And they will not harm your father or your mother or anything that belongs to the Buissons, but will reward them for their loyalty to murder and outrage. Is not that true?"

Still Jeems did not answer, but stood listening for sound to come out of the distance.

She saw the sickness gathering in his face and eyes, but pity for him was as dead in her breast as her desire to live. She knew where he would take her. To his home—a place left unscathed by the killers. To his mother, the soft and pretty woman in whom her father had believed so faithfully. To Henri Buisson, the traitor, who had harbored his home for an English woman. Over her father's hill, in Forbidden valley, were safety and mercy at the hands of her country's enemies.

Her lips found a way to cut him deeper.

"Your father and mother are waiting for you," she said. "Go, and leave me here. I prefer to wait for the return of your Indian friends. And I am not sorry because I tried to kill you!"

He moved away from her to where Hebert and Juchereau and the simple-minded Randot lay on the ground. This time it was the idiot's coat he took, a fine coat made by the idiot's mother. The boy had loved birds and flowers, and on the lapel of the coat was a faded geranium bloom. Jeems took it off and tucked it between the dead lad's fingers.

Then he went back to Tontour and said, "We had better go." After that he added, "I am sorry, but I must go to my mother and father first."

He staggered as he set out, and Tontour's hand dipped and wobbled before his eyes. There was an ache like a splinter twisting in his head, and as he followed him, Tontour could see the effect of her unresisted blows with the iron gun barrel. For she did follow, out of the smoke fumes into the clearer air of the meadows and across them to the worn path that led to the Indian trail and the home of Catherine Buisson.

"They're down there," said Jeems, and pointed, speaking to Odd more than to her.

He took the hatchet from his belt and carried it in his hand. They entered the greater stillness of the Big forest, and Odd, who had traveled between them, dropped back to Tontour's side and thrust his muzzle against her hand.

She did not snatch it away from him now.

They came to the slope, and Jeems forgot that Tontour was behind him. He walked straight down like a tall, thin ghost—and the girl stopped and stood alone, staring at the place where his hand should have been, a cry wringing itself at last from her lips.

Jeems did not hear. He saw nothing but the clump of rose bushes and the place where his mother lay. He went to her first, oblivious of other presence, unconscious of the sun, of the ruins stung by his sword, of the sun more with the faint mad spark of incredulity. But she was dead. He saw her with clearer eyes, though he was sick with hurt. He knelt beside her calmly for a little while. He touched her face gently with his hand, and then went to his father, Odd, trailed at his heels. In the stump field was a shovel. Under his mother's big tree he planned to dig.

When he returned, his mother was not alone. Tontour was there, on the ground, with the English woman's head in her lap. His eyes blazed up at Jeems, and something like defiance was in them, something that was possessive and challenging and which hid whatever pity she might have had for him, or pleading for his forgiveness.

Her hands were pressing the cold face of the woman she had wanted to hate, and she continued to look at Jeems, so hard, so terribly, so understandingly that she seemed almost to be waiting for him to punish her with a blow.

Then she bowed her head over his mother, and the shining veil of her hair covered death.

Under the big tree he began to dig.

It was late afternoon when they left the valley, a still, slumbering hour when the sun was about to go to its early rest, leaving glows and sunset paintings behind that might have been made of swimming petals.

Tontour's hand lay in Jeems' as they went.

They were like a young god and goddess ready to face the hazards of a savage world with a strength wrought out of fire. The sickness had left Jeems. His wounded arm was cared for by fingers as gentle as his mother's had been. Hot tears caressing his flesh from Tontour's dark lashes had cured his physical pain. Words spoken in a voice he had never heard from her lips entreating his forgiveness for years of misunderstanding were like the peace of the day itself about his heart. Out of ruin she had raised his soul to splendid heights of courage and resolution.

*****

*****

*****

They passed his mother's gardens of flowers where choice blooms were nodding, filled to overflowing with ripening seeds; they skirted the turnip field where a purple-breasted crop lay waiting for spiky frosts to give crispness and flavor to its flesh. In a place where fresh dirt was scattered about were tools used yesterday—axes and shovels and hickory prying poles and the big double-bladed grub hoe which Hespithah had made at Tontour's forge. On a stump partly dug from the earth was one of Hespithah's pipes made of half a cornucopia with a hollow reed for a stem.

Jeems stopped and looked about, his throat almost tensing for the old familiar call to Hespithah. But the stillness warned him. Like a friend it was whispering the sacredness of another trust. His eyes turned to the lovely dead near his shoulder. In a moment Tontour raised her eyes to meet his, and even with his mother they had not been so deep and gentle. They may have caught an uncle out there," he said, keeping his voice steady and gazing over the forest tops of Forbidden valley. "He set the signal fire for us and then was killed. I would go and find him, if it were not for you."

"I will go with you," answered Tontour.

But Jeems turned west and did not look back at his home or betray the choking in his breast. He found himself talking to Tontour as if she were the child of the old days, and he, changed into a man, were explaining things. He described the first time how the savages had come while he was on his way home from Lussan's place, and gave his reasons for believing they had departed in haste, leaving many things, like the gathered crops of fruit and grain, which they would surely have taken had they not been pressed by circumstance. He was sure they had not gone farther down the Richelieu but had turned back through Forbidden valley to the Mohawk country. Their own hope was to swing westward out of the path of stragglers, then eastward again toward Lussan's. Tomorrow or the day following he would have her safely at the next seigneurie, and there she would find means to be taken to her friends in Quebec. He would then join Dieppeau to fight the English. The important thing was to reach Lussan's tonight. The Indians would not let near there where he believed all abandoned places to be inhabited by ghosts and evil spirits. If they stumbled upon it by accident they would get away as quickly as possible.

He still held her hand as darkness gathered closer. In this gloom she whispered:

"Does your arm hurt, Jeems?"

"No. I had forgotten it."

"And your face—where I struck you?"

"I had forgotten that, too."

Something touched his shoulder lightly. He could not tell what it was, for they were in a pool of darkness. But whatever it might have been, a falling leaf, a twig, even shadow itself—it filled him with a strange exaltation. Out of the wreck of a world obliterated in a scourge of horror he had a soul beside his own to fight for.

Twice in the next hour Odd halted and gave a grovel which warned of danger in the air. Jeems strained his eyes to see and his ears to hear—and once more, when they stopped to listen, he felt the gentle touch against his shoulder.

They struck a deer run and followed it into a plain between two lines of hills where a devastating fire had raged some years before. Here they traveled through a young growth of bushes and trees reaching scarcely above their heads, with the light of the stars falling on them. It stirred a soft radiance in Tontour's smile and gave a glow which warmed of the wounds made by her hands were plainly revealed. They climbed the northernmost hill after a time, and at the top of it stopped again to rest.

Jeems, like Odd, stood tense and listening, searching the ambiguous distances of the wilderness which lay about them. He caught all movement and all sound, the direction of the wind, the shifting play of the shadows, the almost noiseless sutter of an owl's wings over their heads.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

OBSESSION— TRAGEDY OF THE CAUSE

By Fannie Hurst

(© 1931, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

THE blazing August fitted down like a red hot stove lid over Clancey street.

In its way, it reminded Etta of the blazing kind of fanaticism her father brought home to the ground floor, fourth apartment they occupied in a dingy brown tenement. Etta was sure, had you taken her father's temperature any of the twenty-four hours of the day, he would have registered fever heat. The dingy four walls of their apartment rang with the haranguing, the invective, the argument and the diatribe of his fanaticism on the subject of better conditions for day laborers in the building trade.

Of course, Etta agreed with him. Her father himself was a living argument. He dragged a leg from a stool beam that had failed him while working on a scaffolding of one of the most spectacular office buildings in New York. One of his lungs was half eaten away from pneumonia contracted while working on a building whose foundation had oozed wet slime over his feet for half a winter.

Etta Rourke had plenty of reason to resent the perils, the long hours, the exposure of a trade such as her father's. But his haranguing was so relentless. Every spare hour was spent at the meeting hall, at union headquarters, at organizing camps. The neighbors in the gamut brown tenement made blab-blah noises with their tongues when they saw him coming.

With the whole of her heart, Etta, who was thirty-five, tired and disillusioned, came to hate the very name of the Cause to which her father was devoting so much of his time, his strength. For twenty years, while her girlhood had slipped from her and her devotion to her father had dulled her eye and broken her spirit, Etta had lived rebelliously in the narrow slum.

After all, man had always been man's oppressor. There was always been laborers hurtling from scaffolding and carrying down with them the entire destinies of helpless families and little children. There would always be men who would never live to see the interior of the beautiful homes they created. There would always be men forced to live in the squalor of aimless tenements while others lived in the beauty of the homes their manual labor had constructed.

Rourke was tilting at windmills, and Etta who had yearned and yearned over a period of twenty years to come fly him into the sea, would now find him in his building trade at the more placid work of carpentry, grew older and bitter and more disillusioned as the merciless winter and the merciless summers lashed their way into the narrow aisle of Clancey street.

Earlier, when her own spirit was higher and there had been a youth who had finally tired of waiting, there had been something idealistic and noble and exciting about Rourke's loyalty to the cause of his fellow laborers. All that was gone now. Rourke was a garrulous old fanatic. He bellowed whoever would listen to him, his blabbing of capital and labor, unions and vested interests. Meanwhile, the men who had worked side by side with him on the scaffolding for a number of years had grown wealthy; had become foremen and even master builders on their own. Rourke prattled and prattled of a dim Elysium, which, while it remained very bright in his obsessed eyes, grew dimmer and dimmer in the dimming eyes of Etta.

The summers were even more terrible than the winters. The one that came in this particular August was as hot as a mask to the face. The narrow tenement street oozed smells. Babies lay naked on fire escapes. Fruit rotted and dripped on the pushcarts. The apartment which Etta shared with her father was rancid with stale air and, to top it off, it was necessary because of lack of windows to keep the gas burning all day or indulge in the alternative of sitting, sweltering in the hot darkness.

Hate began to smolder in Etta. Not against the Cause that was keeping her father, fanatic that he was, in the sweeter of meeting halls when he was not at his work, not against the stifling tenement, but against her father himself. Fanatic. Fool.

The old dream of a place in the country, even a one-room shanty on a river front, began to press against her blabbing syllables. The time had come, Etta realized to herself, when it was either a matter of escaping the rugged horror of those terror-ridden days or going mad. Her father was sacrificing his life to a cause that, because of lack of a plan, was necessary because of lack of a plan. But that the madness of frustration lay in pools in the old man's eyes, the same madness of frustration that might be said to lie in the pool of Etta's heart.

The days were unbearable. The nights were unbearable. The coming and goings of Rourke, mumbled of injustice, mumbled of workingmen's rights, mumbled of widows and children, mumbled of pensions, mumbled of organized labor, made day and night alike a nightmare.

One night Etta, in a frenzy of what might have been actual madness, caught her father by the coat lapels as he came staggering in from a meeting around midnight and screamed out, between sobs of agony and moans of pain, her inability to prolong their kind of life. For the first time, Rourke seemed to realize some of the mental agony and deprivations that had been his daughter's. The years of her dining it at him had apparently left him unmoved and now, suddenly, looking at her frenzied eyes, hearing her tormented cries, he seemed to understand.

After he succeeded in quieting her that night, Rourke agreed to sacrifice the uppermost interest in his life—better conditions for the day laborer—and move with his daughter to the country. He admitted defeat. He admitted to the need of the change of environment for them both.

And the next day, in the midst of an impassioned and wholehearted argument was a final plea for a pension bill for the wives of laborers who had been widowed by accident in the trade, Rourke toppled over and dropped dead.

It was as if it should have been. On the rostrum of his Cause, Rourke had surrendered only to death.

Etta felt that way about it and secretly blessed the destiny that had not permitted her father to live to surrender.

Etta still occupies the tenement in Clancey street. Taking up where her father left off, she is the moving spirit in the movement to obtain better working conditions for the day laborer. Every day she lectures in some meeting hall or another and, by night, she harangues.

The neighborhood children, when they see her coming, stick out their tongues and cry, "Blab-blah."

Many Names Proposed for Thirteenth Month

If a thirteenth month is added to the calendar, as many who favor calendar reform propose, what shall its name be? As yet the thirteen-month calendar is only a subject for discussion, but already George Eastman, chairman of the American committee on calendar reform, has received forty-four suggestions of names for the extra month and has forwarded them to the League of Nations, which will hold an international conference on the subject.

Some propose that the new month be called Between, Middlemonth, Central, Medial or Mid-estival—names apparently chosen because, according to some plans, the additional month would be placed between June and July. And since other positions for the new month have also been proposed, such names as Primavera, Primo, Ultimo and Annular have been suggested.

Many are in favor of Sol or Helial, which are Latin for sun and a Greek derivative, respectively but others prefer Lunar, Lunal, Lunos or Luno, after the Latin for moon. Some would follow the precedent already set in naming the months by giving the new one the name of one of the Roman goddesses Minerva, Venus or Ceres—and others by giving the month a number in Latin; included in these are Trecenter, Sextember, Undecember, Undecember and Sextober.

Again, it has been pointed out that the new name might serve to symbolize a new spirit and to that end, Liberty, Pax and Progress have been proposed. Others favor Christ, Christus, Salvator, Vincent, Benedict and Pius. Other names proposed thus far are: Remador, Meton, Treiser Maxime, Evember, Avent, Vacance and Woodro. —New York Times.

Hard to Explain Moods

The cause of moods lies usually too deep to be casually determined. Possibly we all keep spiritual and invisible company which lifts us up or down to its level. Else there is no easy explanation for the fact that sometimes the future looks promising, amazing and worth its price, while on other days the view is so hindered by burdens, obstacles and holes in the road that we are tempted to give up the journey and sit down by the side of the road holding out a tin cup for whatever fate may put into it.—Exchange.

Atmosphere Part of Earth

The atmosphere is considered as an envelope of the earth and just as much a part of the earth as the rocks are. It goes with the rest of the earth through space and is essential to the life of the earth and to most of the processes in operation on the earth's surface. A balloon suspended in the air, even though it is not connected with the surface of the earth, is being carried through space by the rotation of the earth and by its revolution around the sun. This, of course, is in addition to the winds or movements of the air due to other causes.

Monarch Expert Archer

Henry VIII was a great sportsman and patron of the chase, wrote W. W. Greener in "The Gun and Its Development," says the Detroit News. He was a great archer, and although generally using a long-bow, he frequently made use of the cross-bow when shooting for wages. At the Field of the Cloth of Gold he shot his long-bow against the French cross-bow men and won their applause, putting his arrows successively in the center of twelve score yards, whilst they with their cross-bows were unable to hit the target.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School 'Lesson'

(By REV. F. H. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 27

REVIEW: THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN ASIA

GOLDEN TEXT—And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Giving the Gospel to Asia.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Spread of the Gospel in Asia.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Early Christian Triumphs.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity Becomes a World Religion.

The interests of the quarter are so varied, the personalities brought to view so interesting, that the grade of the class and the genius of the teacher will readily determine the method of review. Two methods are suggested for senior and adult classes. Assignment of work a week in advance is required in both cases:

1. A study of the persons actively concerned in the lessons with the object of discerning the strong and weak points in the character of each.

2. A summary of the facts and teachings of the lessons for the quarter. The following suggestions are offered for the second method:

Lesson for July 5.

The missionary program is for the gospel to be preached to the whole world, beginning at Jerusalem. The supreme obligation of the Church is to evangelize the world. This can only be done in the energy of the Holy Spirit.

Lesson for July 12.

After the Spirit came upon the disciples at Pentecost, their supreme impulse was to preach the gospel. In spite of opposition, even imprisonment and threatened death, the disciples preached Christ in the energy of the Holy Spirit.

Lesson for July 19.

The primitive Church spent much time in prayer. The Spirit of God was upon them. Therefore, they boldly testified for Christ and systematically cared for the poor and needy.

Lesson for July 26.

Christianity spread by persecution. Christ declared himself to be the way, the truth, and the life. Missionary endeavor is but the life of God expressing itself through redeemed men by the Holy Spirit. Christianity is therefore indestructible.

Lesson for August 2.

In taking the gospel to the Samaritans we see the broadening scope of the Church. The leader in this work of evangelizing is Philip, one of the seven deacons. He seems to have been the only one ever called "evangelist." If the world is ever to be evangelized, it must be done through the activities of the laity.

Lesson for August 9.

Saul was arrested in his mad effort to stamp out Christianity by the direct interference of the Lord. His conversion illustrates the transformation of the Jewish nation. One of these days the multitudes of that nation shall see Jesus Christ, their Messiah. Penitently and enthusiastically they shall proceed to complete the task for which they were ordained.

Lesson for August 16.

Gracious justification by faith is the dynamic for right living. The one thus experiencing the life of God through faith will manifest the fruit of the Spirit, living a temperate life.

Lesson for August 23.

In the conversion of Cornelius we see the missionary program widening to embrace the Gentiles. In this connection the Holy Spirit was poured out anew.

Lesson for August 30.

The sending out of Barnabas and Saul marks the beginning of foreign missions as the deliberately planned enterprise of the Church. The Holy Spirit calls and sends out missionaries.

Lesson for September 6.

When foreign missionary work began in earnest, Saul took the place of leadership, since he was called to be the apostle to the Gentiles.

Lesson for September 13.

The treatment accorded Paul in his missionary work shows the attitude of the world toward Jesus Christ. Such behavior reveals the awful need of the saving power of the gospel.

Lesson for September 20.

The speech of James at the Jerusalem council shows the outline of God's plan. It is through the preaching of the gospel to take out from the Gentiles a people for his name, which is now going on. Afterward Israel, as a nation, shall be converted, following which shall be the conversion of the whole world through the agency of converted Israel.

No Man Is a Blank

"Every man is a missionary, now and forever, for good or for evil, whether he intends it or not. He may be a blot radiating his dark influence outward to the very circumference of society; or he may be a blessing, spreading benediction over the length and breadth of the world; but a blank he cannot be."—Doctor Chalmers.

Children Need Models

Children have more need of models than of critics.—Joubert.

PAGE EIGHT

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, September 24, 1931

Church Notes

"Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." Ex. 20:8.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Church service at 7:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH
Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Morning service at 10:30.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH
Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
Church service at 7:30 P. M.

SPENCERVILLE
Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.
Morning Church Service 10:30.
G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurn, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS
Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.
Evening Preaching, 7:30.
Scipio at 11:00 o'clock.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3552
Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Clara A. Meek deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 10th day of October, 1931, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.
Witness, My name, this 11th day of September, 1931.
SHERMAN T. MEEK,
Administrator.
Atkinson & Husselman,
Attorneys. 3713

"CUTTING DOWN"

I'm not doing the business that I'd like to do, so I guess I'll "cut down."
First, I'll cut my advertising bill. In that way I'll tell fewer people about my business and things will slow down. That'll let me fire some of the boys and help the unemployment situation.
A little later I can take the sign off the front of the store—just to be consistent—which will fix it so I can make a little less effort myself, and save wear and tear on the clothes.
I can cut out lunches for a while so I won't miss 'em so much when I'm not able to buy 'em. A little later, I'll stop eating entirely and won't feed the kids.
Then it won't be long before I won't have a worry in the world—that is—not in this world.
No, brother, I can't talk advertising these hard times—gotta cut down.—The Car Card.
Camera supplies sold at News office.

We Do
STATIONERY PRINTING
on
HAMMERMILL BOND

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

A glutton is a greedy chap. Whose stomach is his only thought. Of manners it is very clear He never has at all been taught.

GLUTTON THE WOLVERINE

BUSTER BEAR, Jumper the Hare, Paddy the Beaver, and Prickly Porky the Porcupine all demanded together what it was that Honker the goose had seen Glutton the Wolverine doing up in the Great Woods of the far North from which he had just come. He had just opened his mouth to tell them when who should come hurrying out of the bushes but Peter

"Who is Glutton the Wolverine?" Demanded Peter.

Rabbit, Peter was quite out of breath with running. You see he had seen Honker sail down from high up in the blue, blue sky and disappear in the Green Forest. He had guessed right away that Honker had planned to spend the night in the pond of Paddy the Beaver, and right away he had started for Paddy's pond, lip-perty-lip-perty-lip, as fast as ever he could run. It was a long way from the Green Meadows, and Peter was breathing very hard when he got there. But he had breath enough left to cry "Wait a minute! I want to hear!"

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"CYNOSURE OF ALL EYES"

TO BE the "cynosure of all eyes" is the ambition of many people whose livelihood depends on that sort of thing. Many others achieve this distinction much against their desires.
However, to be the center of attraction may or may not be pleasant, depending, as in many other things, on the circumstances surrounding the occasion.
The term itself is nautical in use, and etymologically comes to us from the Greek.
Cynosure was the name of the constellation of the Lesser Bear.
This constellation contained the Polar star upon which mariners would always have their eyes fixed for purposes of direction.
It is from this incident that we have the use of the word in the connection noted.
(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

The Old Gardener Says:

WHEN evergreen trees, rhododendrons and mountain laurel are being set out, in late summer, it is good practice to use a liberal amount of peat-moss, working it into the soil around the roots. This is especially true if the soil is very light, but surprisingly good results have come from the use of peat-moss in all kinds of soil. It seems to give the roots just the kind of feeding ground they like, although it is not itself a fertilizer. Peat-moss can also be used to advantage as a mulch on the surface after the plants have been set out. The roots of rhododendrons in particular grow close to the surface and are almost sure to be cut off if cultivation is carried on. A peat-moss mulch makes cultivation unnecessary, keeping down weeds and preventing the escape of moisture. It has the advantage of giving a neat appearance to the plantation, looking better than bare ground.
(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service.)

So Honker good naturedly waived while Peter scampered around the edge of the pond so as to get nearer. "Who is Glutton the Wolverine?" demanded Peter.

"A cousin of Jimmy Skunk who lives up in the Great Woods where I came from, and is the quietest critter alive," growled Buster Bear in his deep grumbly-robby voice. "He thinks more of his stomach than you do of yours, Peter, and he is so mean that when he has found more than he can eat he stuffs himself until he can't eat another mouthful and then he spoils the rest so that no one else can eat it. He's the biggest and strongest of his family and has the meanest disposition, even worse than that of Shadow the Weasel. He's smart, everybody has to admit that. You think Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote are smart—"

"Oh, I don't know," interrupted Peter. "They haven't caught me yet!" The others laughed, all but Buster Bear, who frowned at Peter and then went on just as if he hadn't been interrupted at all. "But the two together haven't got half the brains of Glutton the Wolverine. I guess that's why everybody in the Great Woods hates him. You see he's so smart that nobody can fool him."
"I'd just like to try once," Peter interrupted.
"Once is all the chance you ever would have, because after you had tried it that once there wouldn't be any Peter Rabbit," growled Buster Bear. "Peter, I am afraid that you are getting to think too much of yourself. It is a mighty good thing for you that Glutton doesn't live in the Green Forest. He's so smart that he isn't afraid of anybody or anything. He just laughs at the hunters and trappers of whom everybody else is afraid, and they hate him even more than the rest of us do. I don't believe he's got a friend in the world. By the way, Honkers, what was it you were going to tell us about him?"
(© by J. G. Lloyd.)—WNU Service.

SMILES

GABBY GERTIE

"It takes years to make an artist, but a girl can do it in a twinkling of an eye."
(WNU Service.)

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

THIRTEEN AT TABLE

FEW persons would absolutely refuse to sit down to dinner because they would make the thirteenth at table; but still fewer would do so from choice, or doing so not feel a lurking disquietude, however they might try to disguise it—even from themselves. The superstition that where thirteen sit at table one will die within the year is said to have its origin in the Last Supper, at which there were thirteen present, and in the tragedies which followed it.
It gains new vitality now and then from such incidents as that related of Mathew Arnold who defied the superstition—and died within the year. Cases where thirteen sit at table and no one of them dies within the year receive no advertisement. Quietly, in his "Theory of Probabilities," says that where thirteen people of different ages are met together the chances are about even that one of them will die within twelve months in the course of nature.
Formerly, in Paris, presentable young men used to seek out their incomes by holding themselves ready to break the "unlucky" number at the summons of hostesses who, by the non-arrival of an expected guest or the arrival of an unexpected one, found themselves in danger of having thirteen at the board.
(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service.)

PLANS TO BEAT UNEMPLOYMENT

By ROME C. STEPHENSON

President American Bankers Association
SOME look upon unemployment as a social or political problem. For them the remedy is compulsory accumulation of reserve funds on the part of the employers.

R. C. STEPHENSON

years to do so. At best this plan could only become effective at some indefinite time in the future as against the return of another catastrophe of general unemployment. Others look upon unemployment as purely an economic problem, holding that the only fundamental preventive is in business stability. It may well be asked whether either of these courses—namely, the creation of unemployment insurance funds on the one hand or the maintenance of everlasting business stability on the other—do not present in themselves bigger problems than the problems they seek to cure. However I am inclined to the belief that the more practical approach to the solution of such problems and the prevention of such situations as general unemployment presents is along the latter lines of economic foresight rather than along lines of social legislation.

National Foresight
Economic foresight is conceivable not only for the individual but for business as a whole. Millions of individuals and virtually all lines of industry failed to practice it during the last stages of the recent prosperity.

The public welfare of the United States demands that industry as a whole vigorously and sincerely devote itself to the development of plans of economic foresight, aimed to prevent repetitions of the present unemployment situation. The general outlines for such plans are clearly definable. They demand that industry adopt a long range viewpoint and lay out its production and distribution plans with the thought that it is far better to have a long period of good sound business activity than a short period of fanatically over-competitive endeavor. This would tend to lessen over-production in various lines, to prevent over-expansion of plant capacity, to avoid over-stimulation of public buying and above all to avoid periods of slumps and stagnation following periods of over-stimulation with their disastrous unemployment results.
For business, too, there is a part in such a conception of economic foresight. It should aim to cooperate with industry in its endeavor to avoid reckless over-production, over-stocking and over-selling the public.
In this picture of national economic progress, banking and finance, too, have their place. Their effort should be to influence the use of credit and other financial facilities into channels of sound public economy consistent with the attitude I have already sketched for industry and trade. All finance, whether current commercial banking or industrial investment banking, should seek by their influence in granting or withholding credit to stimulate and build up a balanced economic situation.

The Individual Must Help
Finally, the individual too has a place in any such plan of a sounder economic future for the United States. It is the duty of the individual to make every effort to take care of himself and provide for himself. Neither government nor industry can do that for him. They can give him the opportunity to succeed but they can't succeed for him. He must out of his own initiative and effort earn and create his own means and defenses against the requirements and contingencies of life.

Individual determination to provide against sickness, accident and death by insurance before indulgence in extra comforts and luxuries are given place in the family budget, and individual responsibility to guard against the contingency of unemployment by means of a sound program of thrift and savings are to my mind the true foundation of economic stability for the United States as a whole.

A limestone spreader, owned by a bank in Illinois is rented out to farmers for ten cents a ton. And also a phosphate spreader at five cents a ton. The "limestone project" was the principal contribution of the bank to banker-farmer work, during 1930, and was carried on in cooperation with the Farm Bureau. A man trained in the testing of soil, and in the making of soil maps was employed by the bank. The unit maps used covered forty acres, on which 25 surface tests were made at mathematical points. At five other points three tests were made—surface, sub-surface, and sub-soil. The completed map showed, by varying shades of red, the points which needed limestone. Arrangements were also made by the bank to have limestone shipped in in car lots for sale to farmers in any quantities needed.

BUTTERFLIES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHO has not chased a butterfly across the fields, and lost his way?

So you have wandered, so have I. And was our sin the sin they say? We had come sooner to the town, Earned not a shilling but a crown, And yet a poem on the wing Is sometimes worth the following.

Who has not fluttered by a flower, Or else surrendered to a song? But who shall say that lost the hour, We might have had a fuller song, Done better, and done much the worse. For, oh, how poor are they who start The morning with an empty heart.

So let me chase my butterflies; I would not catch them if I could. For every flower let me have eyes, Ah, yes, I know the worth of crowns, But also things like thistledown. I have no fortune, so they say; If fortune falls from them, what have they?
(© 1931, Douglas Malloch.)—WNU Service.

Through a Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

WHO ARE THE "RICH" AND WHO THE "POOR"?

WHAT would you do if you were suddenly presented with a million dollars?
To one man that question has real significance. He is Joseph Horowitz, who for many years has worked for a small salary as an interpreter in the magistrature's courts in New York city. By the will of his brother, a self-made philanthropist who left many millions for public works and charities, he has been presented with a million dollars! And what is he going to do with it?

First, he is going to satisfy his long dream of studying German opera. Then he hopes to achieve another ambition, traveling for a year. After that he will return and devote himself to the realization of a dream he never expected to be able to fulfill, that of helping the needy whose problems he knows so well.
Though you may never have envied the possessor of wealth, we may well envy, any of us, this man who can now make all his dreams come true. In this country there are so many men with a million dollars that such wealth hardly causes comment, except the comment that it fails to bring them happiness. To many of these men it represents a routine which is foreign to their natural desires, and it is actually a barrier to happiness. The opportunity to study German opera! To the man who loved music and could afford only occasionally a gallery seat at the opera, that opportunity spells happiness. To the many millionaires to whom a seat at the opera has always been a commodity so common that they have perhaps never looked to it for enjoyment, that opportunity would hold no promise of pleasure or joy.

The opportunity to travel for a year! How many millionaires, satiated with travel before they were ready to appreciate its wonders, would see in this a road to happiness? To many the possession of wealth has meant satiety without benefit or pleasure, a constant seeking after something new without finding satisfaction or happiness. To the man who has known only such pleasures as he could find within himself or purchase for a paltry sum, the power to buy even a little leisure, a little knowledge, a little of that side of life which his dreams have made colorful, to that man just a small part of his inheritance would have opened floodgates to joy and happiness. Which of us can say now who are the "rich" of this world, and who the "poor"?
(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

SUPERSTITIOUS SUE

SHE HAS HEARD THAT— In Italy, a little model of a sea horse is sometimes worn as a necklace to protect one from danger—are we now afraid of old evil eyes? "Neigh, Neigh," says my little Neptune nag!
(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service.)

BANKERS SUGGEST BANKING REFORMS

Economic Policy Commission of American Bankers Association Recommends Aids to Progress in Banking Business.

FOLLOWING a nation-wide survey of banking conditions and opinion among bankers, the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association has made the following recommendations for banking betterment:
"Under the category of improved bank management specific improvements we might summarize as:
(1) Liquidation or consolidation of banks where changed local economic conditions render this desirable;
(2) Wider affiliation among state banks with the Federal Reserve System;
(3) Development of limited branch banking where economic conditions and legal authority make this expedient;
(4) A more general practice, especially lacking among country banks, to analyze the cost of carrying accounts and other operating details and the establishment of proper service charges to make all classes of function profitable;
(5) A more general application of the theory and practice of secondary reserves;
(6) Avoidance by banks of undue borrowing merely to increase their own profits by re-lending at higher rates, or to over-expand credit to local business in order to increase their own business;
(7) Cooperation among bankers in local communities through city, county or regional clearinghouses so as to promote mutually beneficial conditions and practices;
(8) The insistence upon higher educational effort and qualifications among employees, especially those to be trusted with executive duties.

Legislative Measures Proposed

"There are some external measures, along moderate legislative and supervisory lines, that we also believe would help strengthen banking. Among these are:
(1) The broadening in the states of branch banking laws where conditions warrant an extension of this type of banking service to the public;
(2) The establishment of sound minimum capital funds under which banks will be allowed to operate, which should be materially higher than now prevails in most states; specifically, we believe that the minimum capital with which any new bank shall be chartered, whether state or national, should be at least $50,000.
(3) The provision of funds and regulations to keep the official staffs of all supervisory departments up to a level of ability and integrity that will universally inspire confidence among bankers whose activities they are empowered to review, and will supply real defense to the public interests they are appointed to protect.
(4) In connection with the policies of bank chartering departments, we would recommend that, even to a greater extent than is now the practice, the greatest care and moderation should be exercised in granting new charters, so as to guard against over-banking or the launching of new banks by unqualified persons, which have doubtless been serious factors in the bank failure situation in the past.
(5) Also, referring to Federal Reserve practice not requiring legislation, we believe that the Federal Reserve Banks should exercise more freely their rights to examine banks and use their discretionary power to refuse rediscunt facilities to banks indulging in objectionable banking methods."

Banker-Farmer Plan

An editorial in Southern Cultivator says: "Favorable comment is being made upon the wisdom and promised results of the farmer-banker agricultural program in Georgia. Industrial leaders and publicists, noting that 115 of the 161 counties in the state have pledged prosecution of the 'live-at-home' farm reform, are regarding the working out of the plan this year as of more interest to American farmers than any developments of the Soviet five-year plan in Russia. Agricultural actuaries are of the opinion that if Georgia farmers, backed by our cooperating bankers and supply men, demonstrate the expected economies and profits of this home-support plan, it will quickly become a contagious custom all over the agricultural areas of the nation. It will be the writing of a new 'declaration of independence' for the individualist farmers of the country, putting them upon solid terms of credit and prosperity without need of recourse to federal or state financial relief measures. The man of the soil who lives year in and year out 'on his own' will stand up in his community as an economic freeman, making his own terms with the world of finance and trade."

A meeting of farmers, bankers, and newspaper men of St. Croix County, Wisconsin, recently organized a drive to promote the growing of alfalfa in such quantity as to save the dairyman the expense of commercial feed, and insure greater dairy profits. It is planned in this campaign to have, within the next three years, at least one acre of alfalfa produced for each dairy cow in the county, or a total of about 40,000 acres.

L 918

0280

1
OCTOBER

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER. SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1931

NUMBER 39

HIGHWAYS NO. 1 AND 27
WILL CHANGE NUMBERS

Changes in the numbers of several state roads will be made on October 1.

The present state road No. 1 from Fort Wayne to Auburn will be changed to U. S. 27.

The present U. S. 27 from Fort Wayne to Garrett will be changed to state road 1, and this highway extended to Corunna, where it will join the new U. S. 6.

The present U. S. 27 between Garrett and Auburn will be changed to state road No. 201.

The change in U. S. 27 is expected to be a great convenience to tourists, is the opinion. Under the present numbering system, the shortest route to the north was to leave U. S. 27 at Ft. Wayne at the city limits, take No. 1 to Auburn and there rejoin U. S. 27. This confusion will be done away with by changing the U. S. 27 numbers to the shorter route.

WABASH MAKES CHANGE IN AGENTS

The Wabash Station Agency at St. Joe will be abolished, effective October 1st. The agent from Spencerville, L. O. Wade, will have charge of the necessary work at this place, spending three hours of his time each day here, from 12 noon to 3 P. M., and by this change throwing Mr. Brodbeck, the present agent, who has been with the Wabash Co. the past fifteen years, out of employment.

TOOK EIGHTH PLACE

Sherman Baber of Auburn, W. Beeks Erick of Spencerville, Heber Farver of Butler and Nick Riden of St. Joe, representing DeKalb county at the vigilante shoot at Fort Benjamin Harrison Monday, report having won eighth place in the state, and this standing is considered excellent. The shoot was based on 500-yd. shots, while the team had been practicing on about 200 yards. Sheriff Hoff accompanied the team to Indianapolis.

PATTERSON-FLETCHER CO.
GETS $3,000 VERDICT

A verdict of $3,000 was returned in the DeKalb circuit court Saturday afternoon at 3:30 in the suit of the Patterson-Fletcher Co. of Fort Wayne, against the Indemnity Insurance Co. of North America.

The amount sought was $3,713. The plaintiff claimed that men's trousers of this value were stolen by burglars early one Sunday morning in August, 1930, and that proper proof of loss was promptly submitted to the insurance company, but that it refused to pay.

The defendant raised a question as to whether the burglary was genuine or was an "inside job" and whether the full amount of the loss claimed was actually sustained. The trial was started Thursday morning and the jury began its deliberations Saturday at 11:45. The foreman of the jury was Geo. B. Hart.

WABASH SECTION
GANG DISBANDED

Wednesday at quitting time, the St. Joe Wabash section gang were given orders not to report for duty, as the gang was ordered to disband, and the track was divided between Butler and Spencerville sections.

Possibly some of the older men might be called occasionally to help out in either of the sections when more men are needed, providing they stick around.

MRS. ANNA BAKER FOUND DEAD
ON FLOOR BY HER RELATIVES

Heart Attack Causes Sudden Death--Found by Son-in-Law, John Draggoo, at farm home near Reading, Michigan, Monday Morning.

BODY AT KINSEY FUNERAL HOME

All Funeral Arrangements Made in Complete Detail by Mrs. Baker--Deceased Had Resided at Concord the Most of Her Life

The sudden death of Mrs. Anna Baker at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Draggoo, two miles south of Reading, Mich., Monday morning at 9 o'clock, came as a shock to the St. Joe relatives.

Heart attack was attributed to her sudden passing away, as she was in good spirits Monday and urged her daughter, Raeo and children to go to the Hillsdale fair. Mr. Draggoo had gone to the barn, and when he returned she was laying on the floor dead. Mrs. Draggoo and children were located at the fair. Her son, Walter Baker of Spencerville was called and he with E. R. Kinsey went to take care of the body and bring to St. Joe, where the funeral was held today, (Thursday) at two o'clock from the Kinsey Funeral Home. Rev. Studabaker of the Spencerville M. E. Church, officiating, and burial was made beside her late husband, Henry Baker, in Riverside Cemetery at St. Joe.

Possibly three months ago, Mrs. Baker had her right leg amputated at Ann Arbor, Mich., and upon her return stayed with her son, Walter, and family at Spencerville, and then going to live with her daughter, where she died. We learned that Mrs. Baker was able to get about with crutches. She had reached 70 years of age and was active and ambitious to the last. She possibly had realized that her death might be sudden, having made all arrangements for her departure in every detail, and written out for her son to follow.

At the time of the death of her husband, 16 years ago, Mrs. Baker lived at Concord, and was engaged in the store business for many years. After disposing of the store to her son, Walter, she continued to live there and later moved to Fort Wayne, where she still had her home.

She leaves three brothers, John, Reuben and Charles Koch and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Johnson and Mrs. Dr. Morr of Albion.

APPLE CROP ESTIMATED
AT 22,000 BUSHELS

This year promises to be the second best year in apple yield at the Leighty orchard, in its history, the crop being estimated at 22,000 bushels with a possible increase in the yield, as this estimate was made some months ago.

Practically any variety you choose and any quantity you may desire, may be had when the selling starts.

The largest yield is expected in the York Imperial and Johnathan varieties, 4,000 bushels or more each.

Everything is in readiness to begin the harvest next Monday. Visitors by the hundreds are wending their way to this section of DeKalb county, to see the Leighty and Widney orchards, and to learn just when they can get apples, the prices and varieties that are available.

It will be remembered that when the Leighty orchards, produced 36,000 bushels that there were 4,000 trees, since that time 1,600 trees were cut from the orchard to give room for more complete development of the trees, consequently many very productive trees were removed, some of which produced 25 bushels of fine fruit. For three winters this cutting process continued until now the trees are 34 feet apart and have ample room to produce, also giving more room for the men to work.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Leighty of Washington, D. C., are here for two weeks, enjoying the farm and assisting in getting ready for the harvesting of the crop.

Just this week, a large descriptive piece of advertising has been mailed to hundreds of people, giving a history of the Leighty

Orchard, where it is, and something about it, including a splendid road map, altogether with some farm scenes.

A WIDOW'S PARTY
HELD IN ST. JOE

Honoring Mrs. Maud Monroe who will leave soon to spend the winter with her sister near Valparaiso, a widow's party was given by the widows of The Loyal Workers class of the Christian Sunday School on Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Nan Lysher. The afternoon was spent in a social way and a bountiful pot luck supper was served at 5 o'clock to which all did more than justice, as some of them reported a very wakeful night following the supper.

Those present were Mrs. Maud Monroe, Mrs. Manda Coburn, Mrs. McCann, Mrs. Susie Scholes, Mrs. Harriett Sechler, Mrs. Eva Sheffer, Mrs. Belle Ridgway, Mrs. Anna Koch and Mrs. Nan Lysher. One lady, Mrs. Hughes could not attend.

The ladies when leaving expressed regrets that Mrs. Monroe was leaving her home for the winter and hoped she would remember the happy afternoon spent with them, and would return early in the spring.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP,
MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC.,
REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912

Of St. Joe News, published weekly at St. Joe, Indiana, for October 1, 1931.

State of Indiana, County of DeKalb, ss:

Before me, a Notary Public, and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared Fred B. Leighty, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Editor and Publisher of the St. Joe News, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in Section 435, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

Editor, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business manager are:

Publisher, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

Managing Editor, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

Business Manager, Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

2. That the owners are:

Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe, Ind.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are:

None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

FRED B. LEIGHTY.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 29th day of Sept. 1931.

LORA E. LEIGHTY, N. P.
My commission expires Jan. 14, 1932.

PROMPT SERVICE
AUTO REPAIRS

WHEN
Your auto starts to "Buck" or not operate to your satisfaction

DRIVE IN
and let us tune it up

PRICE ESTIMATED IF YOU WISH

St. Joe GARAGE

Phone 36
F. Barkey, Mgr.

Charges are Reasonable

FEDERAL LAW CHANGES
BIRD HUNTING SEASON

Due to a federal law which has superseded the state game laws covering so-called "migratory birds," the "open season" on ducks, geese, brant and coot will begin October 16 and close November 15 in Indiana, Rodney Fleming, captain of game wardens in the northeastern division announces.

Under the superseded state law, the open season on ducks, except wood and eider ducks; geese and brant extended from October 1 to December 31 and the season on coot from October 1 to January 15.

Mr. Fleming said he desired that all hunters acquaint themselves with the change in order to avoid possible trouble. The first federal bulletin concerning the change in the open season on the birds stated that the season was to extend from October 1 to November 1, it was said. Following protests from Illinois hunters who claimed that if this ruling was followed, they would be practically deprived of an opportunity for duck hunting, the dates were changed so that the season is open October 16 and close November 15, it was stated.

Open season on rabbits is to begin November 10 and close January 10 with a bag limit of 10, sale being unlawful during the closed season.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE HELD MONDAY EVENING

The first quarterly conference of the church year was held at the Methodist Church, Monday evening. Miss Violet May was chosen as conference secretary. The advisory committee was chosen from the three churches as follows:

Mrs. Eva Miller, St. Joe.
Mrs. Nettie Minick, Harlan.
Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Concord.

A good attendance was had, but few reports were made. Everything will be in running order by the next meeting and every department will then be ready to file reports.

ELECTION NOTICE

Chairmen of the Citizens and Independent Parties of the Town of St. Joe, shall call a Caucus for the purpose of nominating the following officers:

Trustee, Second Ward, for four years; Trustee, Third Ward, for two years; Treasurer and Clerk for two years.

Names of candidates shall be on file in Clerk's office by Saturday, October 3rd.

D. B. RIDGWAY, Clerk.

Favorite Bible Passages

Mrs. John F. Sippel
President General Federation of Women's Clubs.

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help. — Psalm 121:1.

Comments: I am thankful that a part of my early education was the memorizing of many portions of the Bible. Never do I see a mountain peak or the hills without having this verse flash into my mind.
(Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold.

C. E.

McCLINTOCK

Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building

104 West Eighth St.

Auburn, Indiana

DRIVE IN!

Let us give your battery
the Health Test

We are equipped to tell you in a few minutes what your battery needs.

We Do Not Charge for Testing Service

ST. JOE FILLING STATION

For Service Call No. 17

Unnecessary Warning

When the small boy who was eating an apple was cautioned to look out for WORMS, he said: "Never you mind. When I eat apples the worms have so look out for themselves." Worms are not the only things that have to look out for themselves. People have to do the same thing. In business you'll find the public a good deal like the small boy. They expect YOU to look out for YOURSELF. The BEST friend you can have in business is a reliable Bank like ours. We solicit your banking business.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

SUNDAY SCHOOL
REPORTS

Spencerville M. E. ... 86—$5.80
Lutheran ... 65—$3.16

Clean-Up Items

1 Perfection 4-Burner Oil Stove $14.95
1 9x12 Napara Rug $4.95
3 Sets Dishes per set $3.98
1 4-piece Living Room Suite, Cork-Leather Covering $14.95

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

PROTEGEE—VICTORY AND DEFEAT

By Fannie Hurst

(McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

EVERY one commented on the tragedy of Ula Lee hiding her light under a bushel basket. That her genius was not only comparable but superior to the pretty singing talent of her niece Marcia was generally conceded by all who knew the rather unique situation of the young woman, Ula Lee, who at twenty was already so valiantly sacrificing herself in behalf of fostering the much slender talent of the fair young Marcia.

Ula was a singing teacher. At the death of her sister when her niece Marcia came to live with her, Ula's interests in her own career suddenly changed to interests focusing upon the younger girl. It was not so much with a consciousness of what she was sacrificing. It was probably a sense of something latent and maternal in Ula manifesting itself at the appearance of this orphan girl in her household.

Whatever secret ambitions and innate consciousness of her own vocal potentialities may have lurked within Ula, the coming of Marcia sidetracked them to such an extent that they seldom floated to the surface of her consciousness.

It is possible that this was made easier by the fact that Ula's future, for the past few years, had been excitingly bound up with that of a young architect who was just beginning to lay the firm foundations of a career that promised well. Felix Ermline and Ula Lee were ideally compatible. He loved her music and she in turn was filled with the conviction that a great career lay ahead for Felix in the fulfillment of his splendid art.

Those were happy days for the young pair, filled with struggle, it is true, but the kind of struggle made glamorous by the promise of tomorrow.

Then Marcia came. A dark, vigorous girl only four years younger than her aunt, but full of immaturities that made her charmingly the child. It was then that Ula's personal ambitions began to fade behind the dominant, effervescent personality that was Marcia. The girl had a voice, no doubt of that. Thinner, flatter than Ula's, with not so strong a middle register, but one of those pyrotechnical coloratura soprano. With this voice, Ula worked for four years. As her own light began to recede, Marcia's came forward.

They were busy, formative years, making a veritable beehive of the little home which Ula shared with her niece.

But do not think that into any of these sacrificial days and nights, when there entered into the young aunt's soul for the young niece self-denial that was unknown even to her intimates, self-pity or even self-realization dawned upon Ula.

She had long since begun to realize, taking stock of herself as a person, that the kind of success she most desired in life did not extend beyond the four walls she was to share with Felix Ermline. It was, perhaps, an embarrassing realization with which to be confronted. The world which Ula most desired was the homely one of home.

There was a dream of a rambling frame house set in the center of a lawn which was to be the center of the paradise of earth, so far as she was concerned. It was not all sacrifice, then, to throw her heart and soul into Marcia's destiny. By instinct, by temperament and by personality, Marcia was the sort of person who belonged to the world. She was restless, covetous of adulation and glowing with the vitality of a potential personage.

It took the coming of Marcia to make Ula realize all this. No longer was she torn between her natural instinct for a home-life with Felix, and the career of a voice. Marcia had come to solve that most perplexing of problems, Marcia was Ula's proxy. In a way, it is understandable why Ula threw herself with such wholehearted zeal into preparing the younger girl to tread the ways her own feelings were so willingly, so gratefully following.

When Marcia was twenty-one, she was ready for an audition before an opera committee. Her aunt's pride in her product was nothing short of obsession. There was no doubt that Ula had turned out an accomplished singer—one with high prospects.

The crushing defeat came to Ula with so little of the dramatic in it that she scarcely realized the blow until after it had been struck. It must have been in the way they did it. No shame, no hysteria, no fear.

Quite simply, Marcia and Felix came to Ula two weeks before Marcia was to appear in her audition before the opera committee and confessed their love. It was simple, honest and undemonstrative. Ula in turn, honest and undemonstrative, gave Felix his freedom and set about reconstructing an appalling world which had suddenly toppled into bits around her.

The incredible had happened. Happiness had slid from under her feet in a landslide. But life must be lived. Ula proposed to live it valiantly. Two weeks later, she appeared before the opera committee in place of Marcia, who was honeymooning in Havana.

There was never a time after that when Ula's success faltered. In two years, she was singing the most important soprano roles with the most important opera company in the world. Inevitably, the paraphernalia of grandeur wound itself around the simple person of Ula. She became a diva, a public figure and one of whom was expected the intricate and bedecked life.

Externally, aided and abetted by advisors, impresarios, agents and secretaries, she fulfilled these requirements, supplying the press with the necessary complicated detail of what was in reality her simple life, and appearing before the public with all the attendant glamour expected of one in her brilliant role of singing-bird of fine plumage.

Every spring, in the interval between the end of the arduous opera season and her sailing for Europe, Ula visits the Felix Ermlins back in the town where a young singing teacher coached her niece toward fame.

The Felix Ermlins live in a rambling frame house, set in a wide area of great lawn on one of the nice streets of the little town. Felix is a locally successful architect. There are three children. Marcia, who is a bit too plump, still is obstreperously young in her vivacity and filled with a dark glow that lends much to her personality.

To Ula, the rambling frame house, set in the center of the elaborate lawn, is the center of the paradise of earth. Her visits there are as terrible to her as they are beautiful. Marcia, as she watches her, is the most-to-be-envied and the most-to-be-loved human being on earth.

And yet, there is no knowing Marcia. She reveals nothing by manner or word. Nor does Felix. Ostensibly they are a happy pair, rearing a happy family in the midst of stability, prosperity and well-being.

Sometimes on an evening during these brief annual visits of Ula to the home of the Felix Ermlins, Marcia's slitted eyes, regarding Ula, are filled with pretty nearly every kind of defeat there is.

(McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

Reason Advanced for Use of "Oz." as Ounce

There is no "z" in "ounce" and therefore "oz." is a symbol rather than a true abbreviation or contraction of the word. Two theories have been advanced to account for the use of "z" instead of "o" in this symbol or abbreviation says the Pathfinder Magazine. The Oxford dictionary says that it is a Fifteenth century abbreviation of "onza," the Italian form of "ounce," and adds that "in manuscript forms of abbreviation the 'n' had the lengthened form, its full being usually carried in a circle under, round, and over the 'o,' as to form the line of contraction over the word." The Italian abbreviation was retained in English, according to this theory, because it had become a sort of symbol like the modern $ and % signs.

Some authorities, however, are of the opinion that "z" got in "oz." in the same manner that it got in "viz." the abbreviation of "videlicet," a Latin word meaning to wit or namely and usually so read. Although the third letter "z," it is really the character used by early printers for the arbitrary mark of terminal contraction. During the Middle ages a character similar to "z" was used as the abbreviation of "et," meaning and. It was equivalent to the modern &.

"Ha-bet," for instance, was abbreviated "habs" by medieval writers. The early printers had no type for the symbol of terminal abbreviation and therefore used "z," the nearest thing to it in the printer's case. Thus "viz" originally represented a double abbreviation—"z" for "videlicet" and "z" or "a" for "licet." "Ounce" was derived from French "onza," which in turn was from Latin "uncia," twelfth part.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Camera Float in Los Angeles' Big Fiesta

This is the Camera float designed as a part of Hollywood's contribution to La Fiesta de Los Angeles, the one hundred and fiftieth birthday celebration in the southern California city.

France's Gold Is Carefully Guarded

Ingenious Traps Protect Bullion Underground.

Paris.—This is the story of a ride by trolley through streets paved with gold, 15 fathoms under Paris, a greater fortune than Croesus ever dreamed of.

It was no dazzling sight, not half so brilliant as the decoration of a modern palace devoted to the speaking of the Bank of France.

The bars, most of them with Bank of England seals, do not glitter nor do they shine, but stand in neat steel cases like so many books in a library.

This great supply of gold, second largest in all the world's history, is more carefully guarded by ingenious mechanical protections than is any reigning king. A regiment of saboteurs could never hope to steal a single bar of gold from these vaults, into which 2,000 guards of the Bank of France could retire and keep house in case of attack or war.

Visitors' Reputation Scanned.
The Bank of France outwardly looks like any other bank, except that it is larger than most others in Europe. The thrill comes only in penetrating the gold vaults, flanked by an official who has previously instructed detectives to look up your reputation.

Alongside and bringing up the rear is a platoon of uniformed guards, each entrusted with opening some portion of the great underground labyrinth. If one man is missing it is impossible to penetrate the vaults. All the keys are used, according to this theory, because it had become a sort of symbol like the modern $ and % signs.

Some authorities, however, are of the opinion that "z" got in "oz." in the same manner that it got in "viz." the abbreviation of "videlicet," a Latin word meaning to wit or namely and usually so read. Although the third letter "z," it is really the character used by early printers for the arbitrary mark of terminal contraction. During the Middle ages a character similar to "z" was used as the abbreviation of "et," meaning and. It was equivalent to the modern &.

"Ha-bet," for instance, was abbreviated "habs" by medieval writers. The early printers had no type for the symbol of terminal abbreviation and therefore used "z," the nearest thing to it in the printer's case. Thus "viz" originally represented a double abbreviation—"z" for "videlicet" and "z" or "a" for "licet." "Ounce" was derived from French "onza," which in turn was from Latin "uncia," twelfth part.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

France's Gold Is Carefully Guarded

Ingenious Traps Protect Bullion Underground.

Paris.—This is the story of a ride by trolley through streets paved with gold, 15 fathoms under Paris, a greater fortune than Croesus ever dreamed of.

It was no dazzling sight, not half so brilliant as the decoration of a modern palace devoted to the speaking of the Bank of France.

The bars, most of them with Bank of England seals, do not glitter nor do they shine, but stand in neat steel cases like so many books in a library.

This great supply of gold, second largest in all the world's history, is more carefully guarded by ingenious mechanical protections than is any reigning king. A regiment of saboteurs could never hope to steal a single bar of gold from these vaults, into which 2,000 guards of the Bank of France could retire and keep house in case of attack or war.

Visitors' Reputation Scanned.
The Bank of France outwardly looks like any other bank, except that it is larger than most others in Europe. The thrill comes only in penetrating the gold vaults, flanked by an official who has previously instructed detectives to look up your reputation.

Alongside and bringing up the rear is a platoon of uniformed guards, each entrusted with opening some portion of the great underground labyrinth. If one man is missing it is impossible to penetrate the vaults. All the keys are used, according to this theory, because it had become a sort of symbol like the modern $ and % signs.

Some authorities, however, are of the opinion that "z" got in "oz." in the same manner that it got in "viz." the abbreviation of "videlicet," a Latin word meaning to wit or namely and usually so read. Although the third letter "z," it is really the character used by early printers for the arbitrary mark of terminal contraction. During the Middle ages a character similar to "z" was used as the abbreviation of "et," meaning and. It was equivalent to the modern &.

"Ha-bet," for instance, was abbreviated "habs" by medieval writers. The early printers had no type for the symbol of terminal abbreviation and therefore used "z," the nearest thing to it in the printer's case. Thus "viz" originally represented a double abbreviation—"z" for "videlicet" and "z" or "a" for "licet." "Ounce" was derived from French "onza," which in turn was from Latin "uncia," twelfth part.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

Character in Smile
There is a very simple test by which it is said we can tell good people from bad. If a smile improves a man's face, he is a good man. If a smile disfigures his face, he is a bad man.—William Lyon Phelps.

Deers' Salt-Water Swim
Two lobster fishermen, trimming their catch in their motor dory, about two miles off the shore of Long Branch, N. J., were surprised to see two buck deer swimming in the ocean and headed for their boat. The men slipped lines over the heads of the exhausted deer and pulled them into the dory. When the boat reached shore the deer struggled to get out, and the fishermen had a rough-and-tumble time hog-tying them. The bucks were later released in the woods. It is believed that dogs had chased the deer into the ocean.

Perfume "Centers"
When Catherine de Medici went to France she was accompanied by a famous Florentine perfumer named Rene, and ever since that time the French have made great progress in the art. Certain districts in France are noted for certain perfumes. Cannes is noted for its perfumes of the rose, tuberose, cassia and jasmine; Nimes for thyme, rosemary and lavender, and Nice for the violet and mignonette. In fact, most of the flowers which form the basis of natural perfumes are grown in the vicinity of Grasse, Cannes and Nice.

other, before the gold is reached 80 feet below.

There, 80 feet under Paris, are the streets of gold. Bullion is constantly arriving.

The minute anything goes wrong underground warning bells clang all the way up to the surface, and at police headquarters on nearby streets overhead a special signal rings.

If the thief tries to run special trap will open, flooding compartments and shafts with water or traps doors in the ceilings are sprung and tons of sand crush everything beneath. Secret pipes carry gases and steam. Walls and doors are sanded so smooth that it is impossible to take hold and flooded mounds from which rise slippery sanded steel walls make capture certain.

Great Doors Intervent.
At various levels on the way down it is necessary to leave one shaft for another, passing through great steel and concrete doors. Some of them are revolving, others are pushed in and out like car doors. These are the most ingenious barriers.

At first approach the wall appears to be solid, but an electric trolley runs up, attaches itself to a ring and backs away, pulling from the bottle-neck this great 15-ton "cork" of steel and concrete. The same trolley pushed the cork into place. There are ten such impenetrable doors of all sorts, each more ingenious in conception than an-

Forgotten Savings
Boston.—Unclaimed and forgotten, $50,000 is lying idle in Massachusetts state banks. The money represents small deposits in savings banks untouched for more than thirty years.

Maybe It Was the Heat
Franklin, N. H.—When Arthur W. Rhodes stopped fishing momentarily to light his pipe a big bass leaped into his boat.

Infantile Paralysis Spreads Over Wide Area

Epidemic Less Virulent Than That of 1916.

Washington.—Infantile paralysis is epidemic this year throughout the North and East, and at its height in and around New York city, although the number of cases thus far reported shows that the disease is far less virulent than in 1916, the year of the worst outbreak of the disease in this country.

The death rate in New York city from the start of the epidemic, about July 1, up to the present time, is about one-third of what it was during the same period in 1916, according to Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general of the United States public health service, and Dr. Ralph C. Williams, assistant surgeon general, who are observing the course of the disease.

The principal epidemic area in 1916 comprised northern New Jersey, southeastern New York and most of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island with unusual prevalence in New York city.

This year all of New England is affected, especially Massachusetts and the states of New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota. The extent of unusual prevalence this year is throughout the northern part of the country westward to include Minnesota, with very few cases reported west of Minnesota or south of the Ohio river.

During the first six months of this year a total of 794 cases was reported, and for the month of July 1,015 cases, by the 48 states and the District of Columbia, making a total for the seven months of 1,779.

COAST GRID "CZAR"

Jonathan Butler, chief assistant to Maj. John L. Griffith, big ten commissioner of athletics, has been selected by the Pacific coast conference to supervise athletics there.

Minister Now Captain in the Texas Rangers
Houston, Texas.—The chaplain of the sheriff's convention which met here recently is not a man who prays for law enforcement and considers his duty done.

For the chaplain was Dr. P. B. Hill of San Antonio, a full-fledged minister, who served pastorates in Virginia and then was a Presbyterian missionary in the Orient, but who in addition wears the badge of a Texas ranger captain.

Doctor Hill, or Captain Hill, has been a ranger for four years, getting his captaincy in February. He preaches peace and has never had to draw his pistol on a man, but when he's at his work his pistol and gold handled .45 is a part of his equipment, and he admits he knows how to use it.

Josie Must Be Mixer, Her Zoo Bosses Rule
Philadelphia.—Joséphine is only six, but she has to learn the ways of elephants far older and more ponderous than she. The authorities of the zoological gardens have issued orders that the African pigmy elephant, probably the only one of its kind in America, must accompany the other elephants to their daily swim in the tank at the elephant house.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of sand with each use of Mercolized Wax will exfoliate the skin and remove all dirt and grease. Mercolized Wax is then soft and smooth. Your face looks young and fresh. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles use one ounce Mercolized Wax in one-half pint which hased. A drug store.

Too Much Noise
Gerald C. Winthrop, of the New York noise abatement commission, said in an interview:

"A haggard woman went into a radio supply shop the other day.

"You keep everything for radio here, don't you?" she said to a salesman.

"Everything, madam," the salesman told her.

"Then," said the woman, "let me have an ax."

NO INDEED! THIS ISN'T A NEW CLOTH, THOUGH IT STILL LOOKS SO BRIGHT AND FRESH. IT'S BEEN LAUNDERED DOZENS OF TIMES

"I know a safe easy way to wash clothes"

I HAVE almost all of my original trousseau—towels, sheets, tablecloths—everything. They look almost as good as new, even though they've been used for years. That's because they've never been scrubbed. You see, I use Rinso. It soaks out dirt and gets the wash white as snow... easily.

Rich, lively suds
Try Rinso! It saves scrubbing and boiling—saves the clothes—saves you. Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps, even in hardest water!

Great in washers; the makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinso. Wonderful for dishes, too. Get the BIG package.

MILLIONS USE RINSO in tub, washer and dishpan

Only Temporary Darkness

A Denver man of twenty-three years was wearied of life. He wrote a 20-page death note and went to a vacant lot to kill himself. He placed a pistol to his temple and pulled the trigger. A few minutes later passers-by found his body sprawling in the lot, the pistol beside him. When police arrived he was sitting up. The pistol had failed to fire, but he had fainted at the click of the trigger.

Scholarships for Jews

PAGE FOUR

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, October 1, 1981

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Subscribe for The News, Now.

School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

Cabbage for sale, Tom Bruns. 3913p.

New road signs will soon be erected along the pavement by the county.

Don't forget The News office is equipped to do first-class commercial printing.

The rain of the past week has made it fine on the wheat and some is just being sown.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price, Mrs. Wm. Stama and Mrs. Sam Armstrong were at Fort Wayne Monday.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Mrs. Eva Sheffer was a visitor several days last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Koch north of Concord.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Mr. and Mrs. John Timmerman of Spencerville and Mrs. Anna Koch were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Nan Lysher and son, Edgar.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Todd of Ft. Wayne were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keesler. The Todd's lived in St. Joe a few years ago.

Mrs. Susie Scholes and daughter, Mrs. Keesler, entertained for Sunday dinner, Rev. J. O. Rose, Mrs. Eva Sheffer and Mrs. Belle Ridgway.

Baker & Son began to distribute material Monday along the pavement for erecting the guard fence at the dangerous places along the road.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Waldron of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees spent Sunday in the George Kees home.

Rally Day will be held at the Newville U. B. Sunday School next Sunday, October 4. The Battenberg children will furnish part of the entertainment.

Elza O. Rogers, republican state chairman of Indiana, expressed the opinion that Indiana remains in opposition to repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Staman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie and son, Junior, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole and Merritt Sechler took dinner Sunday in the Sam Mumaw home.

Sunday, Junior Curie was bitten in the face by a bull dog at the Sam Mumaw home, but as yet nothing serious has developed, other than his lips being swollen. The dog was not mad.

If you are thinking of a New Car let us show you the new Ford. Just phone or write for full demonstration. The Cities Sales Inc., Hicksville, O. Phone 20. Open day and night. 34tf.

Paul Knisely, Charles Mitchell, Kenneth Myers and Nelson Brandon all of Auburn Junction, left early Wednesday morning for St. Louis, Mo., where they will see the first and second games of the World Series.

The Hicksville Fair last week attracted large crowds from this section and the awards for farm display was captured by the Wilder's at Coburntown, first prize and Merwood Rhodes, second. George B. Hart won seven firsts and two seconds with his Jerseys.

Telephone 45 when you have some news.

When it comes to flying, the Atlantic seems to be more pacific than the Pacific.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Jenkins of Auburn were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kinsey of Auburn took dinner Friday with Mr. and Mrs. George Kinsey.

Experience isn't such a great teacher after all if you spend all your time on the same lesson.

While a salesman is talking to one person, advertising talks to the whole body of newspaper readers.

Wm. Curie has started to get his material ready for his new barn at the Swineford farm, recently destroyed by fire.

Jack Sechler has purchased the old Harlow Gee farm at Orangeville and will move on the farm this fall, from above Butler.

Have your glasses fitted by Ben F. Grist, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Ern Johnson of Concord and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kinsey attended the Draggoo-Johnson reunion at Auburn Sunday.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office. 34tf.

The biggest value in colored funnies is now available at The News office, when we give you 30, in the Sunday Herald and Examiner. Order yours now and we will save you one.

The first accident since the completion of the pavement was last week, when Robert Wiers crashed into Chas. Koch at the Wm. Hollabaugh Corners. The Wiers car was coming from the west and did not slack up for pavement, striking the Koch car, breaking the windows and fenders.

Mrs. Elva Sechler of Butler, Mrs. Harriett Sechler, Mrs. Jennie Sechler, Miss Susan Sechler, Mrs. Mary Sechler and B. E. Widney spent Tuesday in Fort Wayne at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams. Miss Sechler will visit in the Adams home until next Sunday when she will go to Auburn and visit several days with relatives.

Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Peppit were, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Towley and daughter, Miss Harriett of Elkhart, Mrs. Laura Hornbarger, Mrs. Carl Metcalf and Miss Jane Hines of Auburn; Mrs. Fred Woods and two children of Rochester, N. Y., and Mr. Gibbswood, of Detroit, Mich.

At Winona Lake, already two tickets are in the field, offering candidates for office in that incorporation. Only a few days ago the Liberty ticket came into the existence in opposition to the citizens ticket. It is a question just what the new ticket has in mind, but you will remember that Winona Lake was founded and controlled by a religious organization, and has for all these years, refused to open the place to everything of the world on Sunday. During the past year a number of things have been pulled off there, that tends to weaken the morale of the town, and no doubt the Liberty ticket has some other ideas that they want to put into effect providing they can get their men elected.

Used Cars

1928 Chevrolet Coupe in Excellent Condition
1929 Model A Ford Tudor in fine Shape.
1927 Chevrolet Coupe, a dandy.
1931 Model A Ford Town Sedan, Like New.
1924 Essex Coupe, Cheap.
A Cheap Ton Truck, ready for work.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45.

Mrs. Cora Curie, Mrs. Nora Blue and Merritt Sechler spent Wednesday in Fort Wayne.

Roland Troxel and Cecil Wisler, of South Bend, were Saturday and Sunday guests of Margaret Hamilton.

There was a time when a kid got a spanking for talking back to his parents but now he acts as though parents were only put here to listen.

Seven car loads of soft coal and one of hard, were wrecked on the Wabash Wednesday morning at Artic. All service was delayed for several hours.

Three officers of the Lagrange County Trust Company, defunct are now under arrest. Those arrested are Elmer O. Grady, president; Burritt S. Walter, vice president; and State Sen. Rollo N. Walter, secretary-treasurer. Senator Walter is quite well known here.

The U. S. S. Akron tied up at its dock at 7:52 P. M. (E.S.T.) Monday evening after a nine-hour cruise, the longest test flight since it was turned over to the navy a week ago. The flight was made without apparent incident. The Akron is the largest of the zeppelin family, and there is no limit as to the size of these airships.

HARLAN
(Intended for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Curie, of St. Joe visited G. T. James and family Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Glock, of Fort Wayne visited in the Frank Eckles home Friday afternoon.

Miss Ages Hass visited the week-end with her parents at Princeton.

Mrs. Zella Blaisdell, of Edgerton, O., spent the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reichelderfer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Matson, of Waynesdale visited Guy James and family Sunday afternoon.

Edgar Robinson, of Grand Rapids, Mich., spent Sunday with his father, Harry Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long attended the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. Long's parents at Kendallville Thursday.

Frances Puelling, Sophia Emme, Hazel Roller and Beryl Swartz visited the Dunes Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Collins, of Columbus, O., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Vallieu and daughter, Bivere. Mrs. Collins was formerly Miss Berniece Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. George Roller are moving their household goods this week into the Ed Wann property.

English "Round Church"

Saint Sepulchre, a church in Cambridge, England, is commonly called the Round church. It is a Norman building dating from 1101.

Principle of Justice

The love of men, derived from self-love, is the principle of human justice—Rousseau.

Rat Most Destructive

The common house rat is the most destructive rodent in the United States.

New Prices

OIL, by the Quart ..... 20c
OIL, by the Gallon ..... 75c
(With Oil Change)

Firestone Tires

If you have trouble with that GASOLINE ENGINE OR FARM TRACTOR, a telephone call will bring YOU PROMPT SERVICE.

—REMEMBER—

Keller's Garage

at Saller's Blacksmith Shop

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

MRS. CORDELIA DERMOTT
FALLS, BREAKING LEG

The right leg, just above the knee, was broken when Mrs. Cordelia Dermott, living east of town, slipped and fell off her back porch, Saturday night.

Her son, Victor, was at the barn milking, when she fell. She lay there for several minutes, before he came to the house, calling for help.

Mrs. Dermott is past 75 years of age. She seems to be resting good. A lady from Hicksville is caring for her.

BREVITIES

Punch: The wetness of this summer is attributed to the abnormal quantity of rain that has fallen between the showers.

Canton Repository: Wives should remember that the average man is like an egg. If you keep him in hot water, he soon becomes hard-boiled.

Detroit News: A European inventor, Walther Nernst, has designed a musical instrument combining the grand piano, radio, harmonium, spinet and phonograph. It is warranted to break anything up to a three-year apartment lease.

Los Angeles Times: If you spell an occasional word wrong, that's ignorance. If you spell most of them wrong, that's American humor.

Life: "An ant," we read, "can lift five times its own weight." And will not hesitate, we might add, to wrestle a full-grown picker.

Favorite Bible Passages

Howard Thurston

Noted Magician.

The angel of the Lord encampeth round them that fear Him and delivereth them. For He shall give His angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone.—Psalm 91:11-12.

Comment: I have lived sixty years and the most unpleasant thing in my life is why I am still alive. From the law of averages, I should have been severely injured, poisoned or dead many years ago. I am always comforted by these verses from the Bible, the only explanation I can offer for my present earthly existence. (Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana
9-1-29

HORSE SENSE

The wise gardener will plow his garden this fall, after having applied a good coating of well rotted manure. This means getting the garden planted much earlier next spring.

The possible bearing surface of an apple tree is increased each year in proportion to the amount of wood growth made two seasons previously.

Vigorous but not excessive wood growth will provide an abundance of peach flower buds for next year's crop.

Hogs like soybeans and will thrive in a field of corn and beans, but a mineral mixture in a self-feeder will increase rate of gain and cut costs of the pork the pigs put on themselves.

For five years, whole oats have been found equal to shelled corn for fattening lambs at the Purdue Agricultural Experiment Station in rations containing cottonseed meal. Feed 12 parts of oats to one part of cottonseed meal by weight. Whole oats have been found much more satisfactory than ground oats because of larger gains, better market finish and more profit.

Russel R.
Reidenour

Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

New fruit or egg containers make new friends.

Many cherry growers like to have robins nesting in their trees.

Keep livestock out of the orchard as it makes an undesirable pasture.

Clean fencerows not only help control the European corn borer in the quarantined area, but they also help check many other farm pests.

WE CAN GIVE YOU
what you want
IN PRINTING
when you want it!
Try us out with your next job

Cash
LOANS

Up to $300

If You Need Money, we can accommodate you quickly and confidentially. We will lend you up to $300 on your own signature and security. No inquiries required—no questions asked of employer, relatives or friends—convenient repayment terms. You will like our way of doing business.

FRANKLIN SECURITY CO.
Over Schwartz Grocery
Phone 709 Auburn, Ind.

Leighty Orchard

St. Joe, Indiana

IF YOU HAVE APPLES IN YOUR CELLAR YOU WILL HAVE THEM WHEN YOU NEED THEM THIS WINTER.

REMEMBER THE CHILDREN AND THE SCHOOL LUNCHES

*Johnnathans, Grimes and Winter Bananas,
No. 1 grade at per bushel	$1.00
No. 2 for daily use and canning,
Per bushel	40c
All other Winter Varieties (Except Ben Davis)
No. 1 grade, per bushel	75c
No. 2 grade, per bushel	30c
Ben Davis, No. 1 grade, per bushel	50c
" " No. 2 " " "	25c

WE HAVE THE PROPER STYLES
IN OUR WINTER COATS

The Cloths are New---the Furs are of the Finest and our Prices are Low

DRESS COATS

in the Fall Colors—Black, Brown and Green

The Furs are Luxurious and Fine Quality. Priced

$16.50 to $89.50

The New Dresses

With the LONG FANCY SLEEVES are the season's latest in Black and Colors.

The price exceedingly low

$16.50

SMART STYLES IN THE SPORT COATS

FUR TRIM TWEEDS

Brown - Grey - Black

$11.95 to $49.50

AUBURN THE McBRIDE CO. INDIANA

SPENCERVILLE

Mrs. Lillian Bell Bice and daughter of New York are here visiting friends.

The C. C. Club will meet on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Daisy Butler and Mrs. Jane Butler.

Mrs. Ada Koontz and daughter of Fort Wayne were Saturday guests in the Milton Chaney home.

Gale Bowser and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beams at Fremont, Indiana.

Joseph Crance and wife and Mrs. Mary Volmer of Fort Wayne were Sunday guests at the Joel Betz home.

Mr. and Mrs. Win Andress and family of Stroh, were Sunday afternoon guests at the Milton Chaney home.

Harold Bowser, wife and children of near Leo were Sunday evening supper guests of James Reed and wife.

William Scott of Auburn spent several days last week visiting in the homes of his sisters, Mrs. Jennie Chaney and Mrs. Nancy Chaney.

Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Baumgartner and son, were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Baumgartner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Barney at Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Boston of Harlan, David Boston and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Forland of Findlay, Ohio, were recent callers at the Joel Betz home.

Mrs. Emma Gloyd and son, Gerry, and Mildred Ruth Osborne were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Badlac and family of near Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. John Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland and William Scott of Auburn and Mrs. Jennie Chaney were Friday dinner guests of Mrs. Nancy Chaney.

Mrs. Agnes Baker very pleasantly entertained the Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church at her home on Thursday afternoon. One guest, Mrs. Georgia Jenkins was present.

The Young Ladies Social Club met on Friday evening with Miss Bina Zimmerman. Prizes were won by Miss Allen Rhodes, Mrs. Gaylon Tustison, Miss Gaylon Markle and Miss Marjorie Hollabaugh.

NOTICE OF ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATION FOR 1931

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place on the 14th day of October, 1931, will consider the following additional appropriations for the year 1931.

Township Fund to Fund No. 4, $125.00.

Road Fund to Fund No. 15, $350.00.

Special School Fund to Fund No. 22, $475.00.

Special School Fund to Fund No. 28, $50.00.

Special School Fund to Fund No. 29, $50.00.

Special School Fund to Fund No. 34, $25.00.

Library Fund, $125.00.

Taxpayers appearing shall have a right to be heard thereon. Dated September 26, 1931.

F. E. RHODES, Trustee.

Let The News have your films developed.

Writing tablets and envelopes at News Office.

At the News Office

COMMENTS MADE ON LOCAL ITEMS

Last Week's News Reviewed By Stranger in the Windy City

(By Chicagoan)

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 29.—Hello, St. Joe folks! You didn't know it, but I've been looking at you, viewing you as you were reflected in the columns of last week's St. Joe News. You'd be surprised to know what a faithful mirror of your community I found this good newspaper to be.

If Editor Leighty permits, I'll write each week, telling you what most interested me in the issue of The News for the previous week. Later on, when we're better acquainted, I may speak rather freely at times, and then I'm almost sure to make occasional mistakes. However, when I'm too far off the track, I hope some of you will call me back by dropping me a line in care of this paper. Your letters will be forwarded, and I promise to give them prompt attention.

Before going a single line farther, we'll settle one thing so that it need never be mentioned again. None of you know me. I've never been in St. Joe, and there isn't a chance in ten thousand that you've ever seen me. I'm just an odd piece of humanity that's been tossed about on life's sea for quite a spell. Now I find my keenest pleasure in reading the good weekly newspapers that come to my desk. Such papers as the St. Joe News are ever so much closer to the lives of their readers than the metropolitan sheets. In further letters I'll say very little about myself but will confine my remarks to the impressions gained from reading The News from week to week.

We seldom realize what a great contribution medical science has made to life and human happiness, until its blessings are revealed as they were in the case of Darewood Yeiser, who is recovering from a broken neck caused in diving. Think of the suffering he has been spared through medical progress, and what a foundation has been laid for future good health! That he will have a pleasant convalescence and a speedy recovery is my earnest wish.

Have you noticed that the brands of tires, oils, and automobiles most popular in St. Joe are those advertised in The News? Their wise manufacturers know that were they to suspend their advertising for a single year, they would see their products succeed on the markets by those of other factories. There's a lesson in that policy for St. Joe merchants who, if they do not adjust themselves, will wake up some fine morning to see their former trade going to the store of an aggressive chain using modern methods of merchandising, which include intelligent and liberal advertising.

In the calendar of events, future historians will record last week of importance for this, that, or the other thing. But to friends of Mr. R. U. Bowser of Spencer, it was important for one thing only... the anniversary of his birth. That's why they gathered at his home to celebrate. Through all these years, they have known the privilege of his friendship, and the kindness of his genial personality. So it was only natural that they should have marked the day with song and laughter, and that, in departing, they should have wished him good health and the blessing of happy birthdays galore.

If you don't want the whole world to know about your business, don't advertise it in The News. How do you suppose I learned that the McBride Co. sells Double Blankets cheaper than we can buy them in Chicago? Nope, a little bird did not tell me. I read the ad in last week's News. I'll be seeing you next week.

MICKIE SAYS—

THE EDITOR'S LIFE IS ONE OF PUBLIC SERVICE—HE HAS A DUTY TO THE PUBLIC—HE MUST BE READY TO SUPPORT ALL MOVES TOWARD COMMUNITY IMPROVEMENT—HE MUST RESIST ANY ATTEMPTS TO USE HIS PAPER TO SATISFY GRUDGES—AND HE MUST USE ALL MEANS TO ADVANCE THE INTERESTS OF HIS COMMUNITY

Make Prosperity a Family Habit...

Among our depositors are many families whose three living generations habitually bank with us. Invariably we have found that those who have learned and have taught their children to save regularly are the most prosperous families in Spencerville.

Saving Regularly Involves Self-Sacrifice To a Certain—Healthful—Extent

It involves close adherence to a principle—but it results in a safe and sane prosperity. A bank, which has earned the confidence of three generations of many families, tells you this—and invites you to duplicate their prosperous history.

That Family Wins, Which Works and Saves Together

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank

Advertising

is the best medium in the world through which to let the people know you are a live business concern and a real booster for the old home town and community. Not only this but advertising

Will Help

you build up new business and hold old customers. Right now, when depression is hammering at the morale of the people is the time to impress upon the minds of the people that you and your business colleagues are doing every thing in your power to return the community to normalcy. Persistent advertising will

Bring Back

those customers whom you have lost through neglect of keeping informed about your store and the advantages gained through trading with you. Use the columns of your local newspaper. Let them know you can save them money by trading at home and at the same time keep a majority of the community wealth at home. This will go a long way towards the return to normalcy.

PROSPERITY

increases with confidence and Confidence can be established by advertising your business and showing the people of your community that you have faith, confidence and conviction that we are returning to normal times.

THE ST. JOE NEWS
St. Joe, Indiana

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Cadets Practicing With 75 MM Gun

Cadets of the United States Military academy at West Point learned about methods in warfare during their four days annual camp at Round Pond. Some of them are here seen practicing firing a 75 mm gun during maneuvers.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Cream French Dressing.—Beat three tablespoons of cream until stiff, add gradually one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, four tablespoons of salad oil and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Serve with strawberries, orange and balls of cream cheese.

Summer Salad.—Make nests of the curled tender leaves of lettuce on a glass salad plate. In one nest arrange two very thin slices of orange, in the next one, place two or three stoned dates, in another, three or four radishes with an onion or two, and in another, a few ripe olives. In the center have a rose of mayonnaise to be used on the salad. One may vary the salads, sliced cucumber, sliced tomato, a nest of nuts, in fact there is no limit to such arrangement.

College Sandwiches.—Spread one slice of lightly buttered bread with peanut butter. Cover with a layer of chopped dates. Spread a second slice of buttered bread with currant or cranberry jelly. Put the slices together in pairs. One-half package of dates, one-half cupful of peanut butter and one-half cupful of jelly will make one dozen sandwiches.

Promenade Punch.—Boil together one-half cupful each of sugar and water for five minutes. Cool and add the juice of one grapefruit or juice from a can of grapefruit, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, one and one-half cupfuls of strained juice sweetened from the pink stalks of rhubarb. Chill thoroughly and serve with cracked ice. This recipe will serve ten punch cups. Raspberries à la Astor.—Take two cupfuls of raspberries, add a little lemon juice, powdered sugar and a pinch of nutmeg. Mix thoroughly with whipped cream and flavor with marshmallows. Sprinkle with pistachio nuts finely minced, place on ice to chill for two hours before serving.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

HARROWED HER FEET

"Why did he shake the farmer's daughter?"
"He said she harrowed his feelings too much."

German Count Texas Farm Hand

Count Joachim von Bernstorff, garbed in overalls, at work on the great wheat farm in the Texas Panhandle of Hickman Price. The count, who is twenty-seven years old, is studying at first hand how America's wheat king does it. A graduate of technological institutions of Germany, he intends applying the knowledge gained on the American wheat farm to his dad's holdings in Germany of about 10,000 acres.

RAISING THE ROOF

"I feel like raising the roof."
"Well, a good roof garden is the place for doing that."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"WHY," inquired a reader, "do we call certain Orientals or Asiatics, coolies?"
Almost needless to say, the answer to this query does not involve any reference to temperature or climates—cool or otherwise.

Actually, the word "coolie" is a simple etymological derivation. We have it from the Hindu "kuli" meaning "laborer."

At first known only in the home of its origin, its use spread as Hindu and other Asiatic laborers were indentured for work away from home—where they represented always the cheapest labor, their low scale of living enabling them to work for a minimum. It is from this connection that the word "coolie" became used the world over as a reference to the most unskilled and uncouth class of laborers.

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

My Neighbor Says:

TO RESTORE velvet let one person hold it tightly while another passes a warm flatiron over the wrong side. Then brush.

Chicken fat may be used for all kinds of cooking in which the finest quality of butter would be ordinarily used.

If you wear your aprons out quickly make a double small one to wear with the regular size ones. Also make separate good-sized bibs double and have them long enough to tuck into the binding of the apron.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

The Bigger the Hole, the Bigger the Heap

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Questions:
1. Is there really a tree called the larch?
2. Can a fly hear?
3. How many legs has a centipede?
4. Why are these little white cups on telegraph poles?
5. Does a diver have lead on his boots?
6. Can silk, made by a spider, be made into cloth?

ANSWERS:

1. Yes, indeed. It is a mountain tree and sometimes grows as high as one hundred and fifty feet. The wood is excellent for telegraph poles.
2. No. Most of the smaller insects are deaf. Many experiments have been made with all kinds of sounds but apparently the insects do not notice them.

3. Some have only fifteen pairs, some over a hundred. The number of pairs, however, is never even. Always odd like fifteen, twenty-three, ninety-nine or one hundred and one.
4. These keep the electric current from escaping down the poles into the earth. They are made of earthenware and are called insulators.
5. Yes, he does. This is so that he will be certain to sink feet down. The metal on his helmet might otherwise make him sink head first.
6. Yes, but spiders are very expensive and hard to raise. Because they eat each other up, they have to be kept in separate enclosures and besides that it is difficult to harvest the silk from the tangled web.

Pretty Picture Frame.

Two pieces of card-board form the back and front. An opening is cut in the front piece big enough for photograph. Front piece is covered with bits of tissue envelope lining put on crazy-patch fashion. Photograph is fastened back of opening, between the card-boards. The whole is bound with black paper.

(Copyright.)—WNU Service

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

by WALTER TRUMBULL

Gilbert White, artist, brilliant conversationalist, and one of the best story-tellers I ever knew, has returned to his home in Paris. Gilbert White's brother is Stewart Edward White, the novelist. Mr. White was a Columbia man, and I first knew him around the Players' club in New York. I think it was in those days that he told me the story of the Saturday afternoon when Caspar Whitney of Outing stayed in his office on the eighth floor after the elevator had quit running. In the belief that he could get some necessary work done without being disturbed, there came a pounding on the door and Mr. Whitney opened it to discover a determined looking woman carrying a manuscript.

"Madam," he asked in somewhat annoyed tones, "how did you get up here?"

"I walked," was the reply.
"Certainly. Why not?"
"Madam," said Mr. Whitney, "may I inquire who you are?"
"I," said the woman, "am a mountain climber."

That is an old story now but it still seems humorous to me.
Emma Hale was once in the chorus. Later she was George White's dancing partner in vaudeville, where she became a headliner. She had an accident; fell into the orchestra pit; hurt her back so badly it was thought she might never walk again. But with fine courage she fought the thing out; recovered; went back to the stage. She played in one of George Gershwin's shows. Then she went to England, where she became a favorite in musical comedy as a dancing comedienne. When her contract expired she was offered another at the same fine salary, but she proceeded to take stock of herself. She concluded that a dancer, like an athlete, was good only until her legs went. She was at the top, but how long would her legs last? She didn't know, but she did know that she wanted to get into a business less uncertain.

Always Emma Hale had been interested in antiques. She wondered if she could put that interest to profitable account. She had made many friends and they helped her; told her where to go; how to buy. With some old silver and furniture, she came back to the United States. The prices she got for these things assured her that she had found the right business. She went back to England and did the thing over again. Now, in her early thirties, Emma Hale has a shop in Newport and is doing very well.

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

Trained Deer Jumps Hurdles

S. V. Coffman of Torrington, Wyo., with his pet, a young buck which he has taught to jump hurdles like a two-legged athlete. This jumping member of the deer family is shown clearing the bar at four and one-half feet. It is the only animal of its species ever trained to perform a stunt such as this.

Switzerland Takes on Its Fourth Language

Geneva, Switzerland.—Switzerland, which already has three official languages—French, German and Italian—has just decided to indulge in a fourth.

The latter, which is known as "Rhetoromanche," or "romanche," is regarded as Switzerland's only native language. It is believed to have been used originally by fugitive Tuscans when they sought refuge at the time of the first Roman kings.

The language is spoken principally in the canton of Grisons, and especially in the Engadine, although its use also is found in other portions of Switzerland.

The canton of Geneva has just decided to create a special chair at the University of Geneva for furthering its study and use.

Petrified Trees "Planted"
Phoenix, Ariz.—Two petrified trees from Arizona's famous petrified forest, near Holbrook, were "planted" at the Capitol grounds this year. The beautiful trees, of solid rock, were placed in a bed of concrete and appear to be growing. They are approximately 42 inches in diameter and are 4 feet high.

Kite Flyer Claims

Endurance Record

Enid, Okla.—For lack of competition, Clay Mathews brought his kite-flying endurance contest to an abrupt close.

Several of the boys started out with Clay, but lack of sleep, inadequate food and constant attendance on a tugging string put a damper on their enthusiasm. Clay's kite had been aloft 88½ hours when he was left alone in the contest.

"I'm the champ," he proclaimed. "Why go further?" and he pulled down the kite and went home.

PROTECT your skin from coarsening and roughening by wind and weather with Plough's Peroxide Vanishing Cream.

PURIFY your skin pores by cleansing them thoroughly with Plough's Cleansing Cream.

PRESERVE your skin's youthful beauty with Plough's Cold Cream.

Each Comes in Three Sizes
Priced at 25c, 35c, 50c

Plough's
BEAUTY CREAMS

Unknown Animals Still in Unexplored Forests?

That there are still parts of the globe remaining to be explored and that they probably contain animals unknown to zoologists is indicated in a communication made to the French Academy of Sciences regarding Madagascar.

In the north of the great island off southeast Africa there are vast forests which the natives consider as taboo. Two French settlers who were allowed to enter one of these forests discovered there an animal of the lemur family hitherto unclassified. It is about 18 inches long, with a tail as long as its body.

In the opinion of zoologists these forests probably harbor other unknown animals.

Parrot Had Traveled

When Mrs. E. McFadden investigated sounds of "hello, hello," coming from her chicken yard at White Salmon, Wash., she found a parrot that had disappeared about six weeks previously from the home of Mrs. Guy Briggs of Klickitat, Wash., about thirty-five or forty miles east of White Salmon.

Hoard on a Street Car

"My husband is quite unmusical. He can't follow the simplest tune."
"Mine can, but he's usually some distance behind." — Boston Transcript.

ACID STOMACH

EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts.

Be sure to get the genuine.

At the Waterfall

"You must not fish here. It is my water."
"Is it your water up above?"
"No."
"Then I will wait here until the water from above arrives here." — Stockholm Vart Hem.

Best for Necklace

If you wish to restring a necklace use a violin string—this will last much longer than ordinary thread or twine. The stiffness of the violin string quickly wears off.

Some trouble is best met by being allowed to stew along.

Don't Fear Baldness!
Save Your Hair With WALTER'S RADIANT HAIR REJUVENATOR
Thousands declare this is the best hair restorer ever made. It keeps the hair natural color, and grows it back again.
Order a large bottle today! Send $1.00 in free pamphlet with unexcelled outline. Money refunded when bottle is returned. Walter's Radiant Hair Rejuvenator is the only hair restorer ever sold. Satisfaction or money back. Order today! Don't delay!
WALTER'S PRODUCTS CO., Inc.
35 So. Cass St., Chicago, Ill.

MAN WANTED
To save and operate portable feed grinding mill. Earn $50 per week and up. Must have cash deposit of $500. Tell all about yourself in first letter. Write
JAY BEE SALES COMPANY OF INDIANA

418 N. Washington St., Kokomo, Indiana.

STORAGE TANKS REMOVED FROM tank cars for sale. 4,000 to 12,000 gallons, painted and galvanized. Bruno-Stowell & Co., Dept. J, 513 N. Michigan, Chicago, Ill.

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 39-1931.

(Copyright, 1931, The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.)

PAGE EIGHT

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, October 1, 1931

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for he is faithful that promises.)" Heb. 10: 23.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriet Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Pastor V. O. Harrold will speak at the Concord Church Sunday evening at 7:45. Before the message of the evening there will be a children's service at 7:15.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
Following the Sunday School Pastor V. O. Harrold will take charge of the morning service.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School, Rally Day and Harvest Home Service, 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.
Evening Service 7:00.
G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurl, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3552

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Clara A. Meek deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 10th day of October, 1931, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, My name, this 11th day of September, 1931.

SHERMAN T. MEEK,

Administrator.

Atkinson & Husselman, Attorneys. 3713

GRABILL

(Intended for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stuckey and family, and Mrs. Jess J. Gerig and son, Paul, motored to Muncie Sunday and spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vess Gove and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Klopfeinstein, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bender and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Widner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Veron Klopfeinstein and children, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Klopfeinstein and daughters, Miss Mildred Ehle, Herman Klopfeinstein and Aaron Klopfeinstein attended the Rupp family reunion held at Park at Archbold, Ohio.

Mrs. Lydia A. Gerig left Tuesday morning with Mr. and Mrs.

We Do
STATIONERY
PRINTING
ON
HAMMERMILL
BOND

George Buskirk and Mrs. J. C. Good of near Yoder for Clinton, Oklahoma, where they will spend a couple weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Noah A. Gerig and sons, Whetten and Carroll, and other relatives and friends near Clinton.

Many from his place attended the Young People's Convention held at the Defenseless Mennonite Church at Archbold, O., Sunday. Officers for the convention next year to be held at this place are as follows: Chairman, LaVerne Slagle, of Pioneer, O.; assistant chairman, Ervin Becker, of Woodburn, Ind.; and secretary and treasurer, Miss Helen Snyder of this place.

Rev. Sol Klopfeinstein has accepted the pastorate at the Missionary Church at Hollywood near Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sauder called on Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Frieze Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Irven Yoder and daughter, Marie and son, Edward of Auburn were entertained at dinner Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sauder and family.

Mr. Loyal Ringenberg of Brinsmade, North Dakota, is visiting at the home of his brother, Rev. J. A. Ringenberg, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Roth and children of Fort Wayne called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roth Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Klopfeinstein moved to Fort Wayne, where Mr. Klopfeinstein is employed at the Central Grocery.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Conrad and sons, Willard and Paul, the Misses Thelma Amstutz and Grace Landstoffer, Mr. and Mrs. William Schultz, Miss Lydia Conrad, Mrs. Katherine Frieze, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clauser and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Roth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conrad and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Conrad family reunion which was held at the home of John Conrad at Bluffton, Ind., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roth motored to Goshen Monday to get the new grinder for the Grabbill Cider Mill. D. N. Klopfeinstein, proprietor of the Cider Mill, has built a new building and installed the necessary machinery and was ready for business again Tuesday. The old mill building and contents were destroyed by fire of unknown origin two weeks ago.

GRABILL

Clyde Cluts of Payne, O., spent several days with friends here. Mr. and Mrs. William Bertch have moved on a farm near Monroe, Ind.

Mrs. Charles Disler was a caller of Mrs. Mae Neuhauser Thursday evening.

Rhule Jackson and Maurice Markle spent Saturday and Sunday at Akron, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner F. Gerig spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gerig and daughter, Flosie.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Neuhauser and daughter, Wanda were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Yoder at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scherer were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Neuhauser and family of the Leo Road.

The Parent-Teachers Association of Cedar Creek Township will hold its second meeting on Monday evening, October 5, at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Clara Messerschmidt, Miss Berice Roth and Mr. Glenn Lehman of Fort Wayne were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roth and family, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfeinstein entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. David Klopfeinstein and family of Bluffton, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Redding of Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ackerman and son, Bobby visited at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. Sol Klopfeinstein over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Felber of Berne were luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Gerig and family Sunday evening.

Frank Klopfeinstein, who has been seriously ill at the Sacred Heart hospital at Garrett, has been brought to the home of his sister, Mrs. Jonas Yoder, Monday afternoon. His condition is much improved.

Nugget of Wisdom

"Kindness is the sun of life, the charm to captivate and the sword with which to conquer."

FANATICS STIR UP PHILIPPINES

Leaders Take Advantage of Zeal and Superstition of Religious Sect.

Manila, P. I.—The recent battle in the island of Luzon, Philippines, between several hundred religious fanatics known as Calorums and an armed force of the Philippine constabulary caused little surprise to persons familiar with conditions in the archipelago. The Calorums, who derive their name from the Latin words "aescula" and "aculorum," with which many prayers conclude, have been active throughout the islands for many years under the leadership of self-styled "papas" or popes, who find it easy to take advantage of their zeal and superstition.

In the troublesome islands of Samar and Leyte, southeast of Luzon, the Calorums are generally called "Pulajanes" (pronounced "pullahanes"), and in other localities they may, from time to time, assume other designations. But, whatever their name, they believe they are true Christians, and their faith is so strong that they think themselves immune to the bullets of their enemies.

Forty-three distinct tribes. To deal with them is often difficult, partly because of geographical reasons. Adequate policing is almost impossible in an archipelago of more than 7,000 islands, some of which are almost as large as New York state and others mere barren rocks jutting out of the sea. Large areas are jungle and mountainous—almost inaccessible to a punitive expedition and always fraught with the danger of ambush. Forty-three distinct tribes, speaking nearly one hundred dialects, inhabit the group; they range in importance from the Visayans, numbering about 4,000,000, down to the pigmies, Negritos, and others, dwelling either in the swamps or high up in the mountains.

American administrators have encountered trouble from various of these groups in many of the islands. In the island of Leyte the Pulajanes branch of the Calorums once kept nearly a brigade of United States troops constantly on the march for two months. These fanatics were not necessarily at war with American soldiers or with the native police. Armed with bolos and spears, they would swoop down on a defenseless barrio, plunder and murder, and then take to the trackless mountains.

Alive and Fighting. The Calorums' belief in immunity to bodily danger was well illustrated during that campaign. The priests gave them certain charms called anti-venoms. These were usually cut out of white paper in strange shapes and marked with crescents, swastikas, or other designs. In battle one anti-venom was worn over the heart and another pasted over the forehead. Pulajanes wounded and taken prisoner were shown the bodies of their dead comrades, but even such evidence was insufficient to shake their faith in the word of Papa Faustino, their "pope." "My brothers are dead in Leyte," said one prisoner, "but alive and fighting in Samar."

Perhaps the most famous of all the Calorums activities was that which had its headquarters at Surigao about five years ago. Priests who appeared at the barrios there preached that a great war would begin at Surigao, sweep over the islands, and then over the whole world. Furious fighters were coming to Surigao from all over the islands, the priests said, and every government official, regardless of race, was to be slaughtered. After this massacre the immortal Jose Rizal—the George Washington of the Philippines, who was executed by the Spaniards before America took over the islands—would rise from the dead and make his headquarters on a small island off the coast of Surigao. From there a Rizal ark would take the victors to the large island of Cebu, where they would dwell forever without molestation while a plague would depopulate the rest of the world.

The "Difficult" Tribesmen. The natives believed the prophecy. They slayed and saved and sold and turned all the profit into the coffers of the priests and leaders. When authorities sent an armed force to break up the scheme severe fighting followed and a number of lives were lost.

The general belief that the Moros, the Mohammedans of the southern islands of the Philippines group, are the most difficult tribesmen to deal with is not entirely warranted. True, they are harder warriors, more courageous and intelligent than the other so-called "wild tribes." But the Moros are becoming educated, while it is next to impossible to go into the jungles and mountains and carry civilization to the most difficult tribesmen.

Much of the bad name associated with the Moros is due to their custom known as "juramentado." A Moro goes "juramentado" is a Moro who has sworn to die killing male Christians and sending their souls to hell. Christian women are in no danger, because in the Moro faith a woman has no soul.

The story is still told in Moroland that in the early days of American occupation, when "juramentados" were running amuck all too frequently, an American gunboat did a little "juramentado" of its own by shelling several offending villages. When the sultan or headman complained, he was told that there was no way to prevent a boat going "juramentado" any more than the tribal authorities could prevent some of their own people from doing it. The quick thinking Moro has a sense of humor, and the lesson was not lost.

Head Hunting Negligible. Among the wild tribes, perhaps the most overrated for ferocity are the so-called head hunters. It is doubtful whether there have been twenty heads actually hunted in the islands in the last twenty years. The tribes who used to take delight in head hunting—Igorotes, Ifugos, Bontoks, and Tinguian—cause comparatively little trouble. In the mountains of Luzon, where the summer capital, Baguio, is situated, the Igorotes are the predominant tribe and make excellent servants.

Kansas School Conducts Classes in Home Life

Kansas City, Mo.—Dissenters to the theory that American home life is rapidly disappearing will find material for debate in the sixth grade classrooms of the Kansas City public schools.

Miss Anna E. Hussey, director of homemaking, operates her classes on the principle that the thirteen-year-old girls have a share in the home and family life. The more they put into it the greater happiness they derive, aside from the benefits to other members of the family. Miss Hussey holds, in her home economics classes she teaches courtesy, how best to spend spare time, how to lighten mother's work, how to entertain the younger children, and how to prepare foods.

The courtesy classes have aroused the most enthusiasm. Miss Hussey said. With an eye to debetante days, the girls are eager to know what to do when receiving and entertaining friends.

The project method was brought into play, and various social situations were unraveled in approved form. Young daughter is hostess of the occasion, and she uses all the little tricks that contribute to the word "charming."

18 Foot Shark Caught in Net, Fights to End

Boston.—An 18 foot shark, weighing close to a ton, that was strong enough to bring an 80 foot fishing boat up short despite the fact her powerful engines were operating at half speed, was landed at the fish pier today by the dragger Natalie II, whose crew captured and killed the big fish 25 miles northeast of Thatcher's island yesterday.

When the Natalie was suddenly jerked to a stop on the fishing grounds with her big ground fish net trailing under water, Capt. Tony Linguata and his crew figured the net might have fouled a ledge or sunken wreck, so they hauled it in and discovered the huge shark in the strands.

The net was landed on the boat by the powerful winches and the crew slipped and alighted around the deck for half an hour sinking lances into the 18 footer before it succumbed.

Beetle, Farm Pest, Is Parasite's Meal Ticket

Washington.—All human effort to stay the aggressive Japanese beetle has failed, but he is being mowed down by a parasite, the tipula popillivora roborer.

This parasite is particularly adapted for use in the natural control of the pest in its native land, and in this country the tendency is preserved. The soil temperatures here appear to be favorable for its normal development. The adult, wasp-like parasite shows a decided preference for the flowers of wild carrot, so food, and fortunately this plant is abundant in the region now infested with the beetle.

Dentist Pulls Own Teeth and Then Fits Bridge

Omaha.—Dr. E. E. Newton, Omaha dentist, recently pulled two of his own front teeth. After the gnat-headed Doctor Newton made a bridge for the cavities.

"The doctor, however, didn't pull the teeth as an advertising stunt. The rest of the world probably would never have known that the doctor did his own dental work if it hadn't been for L. O. Chapman, insurance man, who held the mirror while the doctor performed the operation."

Maine Grows Lemons

Bath, Maine.—Miss Jessie Murphy has at her home here a tree which this year produced eight lemons, two of which weighed 1 pound, 11 ounces each and were 15 inches in circumference.

Least Briny Girls Can Manage Mates

Cambridge, England.—The boy who got 60 per cent in an examination should never, never marry the girl who got 60 per cent. They would be far too clever for each other, according to Prof. Ernest Barker, professor of political science at the University of Cambridge. The professor, however, would marry the boy who got 60 per cent to the girl who got 80 per cent, and she would manage him.

THE Cuban Supreme court has given a decision against President Machado's suspension of newspaper publication, holding that he acted in violation of the constitutional provision for free speech when he shut down presses which had published information and criticism distasteful to the government.

Mr. Machado set forth the necessity of public security and order as reason for the prohibition of publication but without any showing that there was an emergency or that the newspaper comment was contrary to the public good.

A VAST financial organization with millions of capital to relieve the cotton producers of the South from the distress caused by low prices of their commodity, is declared to be in process of formation by Chicago capitalists, headed by William Wrigley, Jr.

Details of the scheme have not been revealed, but the main idea is understood to be to accumulate large quantities of baled cotton and hold it for higher prices. Cotton is now selling at prices ruinous to the planters and is a drug on the world market.

The plan is also said to embrace a system of trading credits by which the vast surplus of cotton will be exchanged for commodities, of which the cotton growers stand in dire need. These include farm equipment of all kinds, groceries and clothing.

EARTHQUAKES and fire in Managua, Nicaragua, took an estimated toll of 1,000 dead and many thousands injured. The British legation and Nicaraguan government buildings were all destroyed. Fire following the earthquake razed twenty blocks of the business district, causing an estimated property damage of $30,000,000.

American agencies were quick to respond to the need for help. The Red Cross rushed supplies. Marines sent to the little republic on a political mission several years ago, were used to maintain order and relieve distress.

It is too early to know definitely the extent of the disaster. Managua's population was in the neighborhood of 40,000. The region of this city is dotted with evidences of its volcanic character, and history records at least two major volcanic disasters. Nicaragua has been less afflicted with earthquakes than its Central American neighbors.

So far as is known there is not a habitable building left in the once beautiful Central American city. The second also in the republic. President Moncayo himself abandoned the national palace for a tent.

BASEBALL loses two of its major luminaries in the passing of Ernest S. Barnard and Byron B. Johnson, the president and the ex-president of the American league dying within sixteen hours of each other.

Both devoted their lives to the American national game. Their terms of service in the presidency spanned the life of the league itself.

When Johnson quit the sports desk of a Cincinnati newspaper to seek his fortune in the business administration of baseball, James J. Hill had arrived as the empire builder of the Northwest, and John D. Rockefeller had established the dynasty of Standard Oil. As each of those in his separate sphere were the Napoleonic mantle, so Johnson did in baseball.

Under his leadership a rather rowdy sport became, on its artistic side, a company in large affairs. It was Johnson's genius that wrought the miracle.

Mr. Barnard would have been fifty-seven years old on July 17. He had been re-elected president of the American league for a five year term. His activity in connection with the draft and his interest in the adoption of the scheduled is believed to have hastened his death.

IN THE death of Arnold Bennett, English literature has lost one of its masters, and an unbearably long list of novels, dramas and essays comes to an end.

Absorbed in the workaday world about him, never a propagandist or a preacher, shunning the many intrusions of the new school, Bennett with mingled realism and romanticism portrayed the human comedy. With gentle irony and exacting attention to detail, he laid bare the dull materialisms and the shame of civilization, finding the most insight with exacting, but never receding from his detachment to the crusader. Student of his work will survive to assure Arnold Bennett a permanent place on the writer's bookshelves.

THE $1,000,000 libel suit Gus O. Nations, former prohibition agent, filed against Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general, in 1929, in connection with a series of articles she wrote about prohibition enforcement was stricken from the docket in Federal court at St. Louis for failure to prosecute.

Mr. Nations said he could not proceed any further with the suit because he had been unable to obtain service on Mrs. Willebrandt, but he asserted that suits for $20,000 damages each were pending against her in New York and Washington for alleged injury done to him by the articles.

The only observation of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt to the news that the $1,000,000 libel suit filed against her by Gus O. Nations had been stricken from the record was: "The action speaks for itself."

(© 1931 Western Newspaper Union.)

TRUST BANKING SPREADING FAST

Government Official Shows That This Type of Financial Service Is Enlarging Its Field

SPECTACULAR growth of trust service in the banking field is reflected in the national banking system. Aubrey B. Carter, in charge of Trust department supervision in the office of Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, D. C., brings out in an article in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"At the close of the 1930 fiscal year there were 2,472 national banks with trust powers," he says. "Their banking resources aggregated $23,539,100,000, which represented 34 per cent of the total banking resources of the 7,352 national banks. Trust departments had been established by 1,829 of these banks which were administering 79,900 individual trusts with trust assets aggregating $4,473,000,000, and in addition were administering 11,600 corporate trusts and acting as trustees for outstanding note and bond issues aggregating $11,503,700,000.

"These figures represent an increase during a four-year period of 446, or 22 per cent, in the number of national banks authorized to exercise trust powers; an increase of 735, or 66 per cent, in the number of banks actively administering trusts; an increase of 65,370, or 250 per cent, in the number of trusts being administered; an increase of $3,500,000,000, or 85 per cent, in the volume of individual trust assets under administration, and an increase of $9,340,000,000, or 279 per cent, in the volume of bond issues outstanding for which these institutions were acting as trustees."

These facts, he concludes are "a striking testimonial of the growing public recognition of the desirability of the corporate fiduciary in the settlement of estates and the administration of trusts."

"No corn—no credit" was a slogan adopted by bankers of Saluda, South Carolina, last year. "The proposition was kept before our people by a display advertisement in the county paper several weeks prior to corn planting time. As a result we have more corn raised in the county this year than ever previously, regardless of the need of rain in many sections," said one of the bankers in reviewing the results. Home gardens was another project advocated with like results.

Purifying Public Water

The first noteworthy movement in this country for the purification of a public water supply was made in 1806, according to the New York Health department, when St. Louis sent James P. Kirkwood to Europe to investigate the methods practiced there. On his return Kirkwood made an electric report that water engineers still regard as a classic. In 1872, about five years after Kirkwood's death, a plant was built at Poughkeepsie in accordance with his plans. This was the first practical attempt at purification of a municipal water supply in America.

Unworse Froze

If a cat doth meet a cat upon a garden wall, and if a cat doth greet a cat, O need they both to squall? Every Tommy has his Tabby waiting on the wall, and yet he welcomes her approach by an unashamed yowl. And if a kitten wish to court upon the garden wall, why don't he sit and sweetly smile, and not stand up and bawl, and lift his precious back up high and show his teeth and claws, as if 'twere colic more than love that made that fellow groan?—Pamphlet Magazine.

Simple

The other day a man, hitherto without a spot on his character, inquired, with well-forged innocence: "How can five persons divide five eggs so that each man will receive one and still one remain in the dish?" After the company went all but distracted in the mazes of this proposition, the fellow weekly said: "One takes the dish with the egg."

Favorite Bible Passages of

Roland H. Hartley Governor of Washington.

For God so loved the world, that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16. (Compiled by the Bible World.)

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1931

NUMBER 40

NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP
COUPLE DIVORCED

After twenty-two years of married life, Hazel M. Dermott secured a divorce in the DeKalb circuit court Saturday morning from Forest K. Dermott of Newville township.

Mrs. Dermott testified that her husband is of a jealous disposition and told her she wanted to take part in a lodge play because there were two young men in the cast. He abused and cursed her, she said, and did not provide adequate support. She secured employment in order to help with the family expenses she said. Finally he told her he didn't care for her any longer and wouldn't live with her.

The marriage took place October 16, 1909, and the separation July 1. The plaintiff now lives with a brother, Lester Smurr, in Auburn. The defendant was granted the custody of a minor daughter, Evelyn, 12. The couple also have a child nineteen years old.

Richard W. Sharpless is attorney for Mrs. Dermott. The defendant did not resist her plea for a divorce, but was represented by Capt. W. D. Stump.

NEW STORE IS NOW
OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

In this issue of The News appears the announcement of the new Cash and Carry Store, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni, in the I. O. O. F. rooms recently vacated by The Club Restaurant.

The store has been completely remodeled inside and presents a very neat, clean and inviting appearance. The stock is new and will be sold at attractive prices. Fresh fruits and vegetables will be handled, besides they will be cash buyers of cream, which will be of interest to our farmers who have been compelled to dispose of their cream elsewhere. We welcome the new store to St. Joe.

MRS. ANNA BAKER LEFT WILL DISPOSING OF ESTATE

The will of the late Mrs. Anna Baker of Concord, was admitted to probate in the DeKalb circuit court Monday. It was executed August 13, 1927, with Attorneys W. D. Stump and C. E. McClintock as witnesses.

The executors nominated in the will are two children, Walter J. Baker and Rea Dell Draggoo, and they were directed to pay reasonable compensation to which ever one of her children gave the testator a home.

Mrs. Baker bequeathed her wearing apparel to Mrs. Draggoo and the balance of her property in equal shares to Mrs. Draggoo and Walter J. Baker.

Mrs. Baker executed a codicil September 15, 1930, with Margaret Scovill and Capt. Stump as witnesses, in which she bequeathed her china closet and dishes to Mrs. Draggoo.

IN HOSPITAL AT GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA

A letter from Mrs. Carrie Williams, received by Mrs. J. P. Buckingham this week, states that Donald Davidson is in the hospital and had an operation for appendicitis. After several days of quite serious illness, it is thought he is now on the road to recovery.

Donald spent a week of his summer vacation here, and was then feeling fine.

CALLS ON HIS FORMER SCHOOL SCHOLAR

W. H. McIntosh, 95, of Auburn, made a visit Sunday evening with J. R. Shilling. After an acquaintanceship of 59 years, the two gentlemen have held a very warm friendship, and the past several years, have planned an annual visit on Old Settler's Day at the county seat.

Due to ill health of Mr. McIntosh, this reunion was not held, but Sunday evening he decided that he would like to make a call at the Shilling home, and his son-in-law, Neal Platter, saw to it that his wishes were carried out. We are reproducing a recommendation, written by Mr. McIntosh in behalf of J. R. Shilling, which he prizes very much. It is as follows:

Auburn, Ind., Oct. 25th, 1872

To whom it may concern:—

The bearer, Mr. Joseph Shilling, has been my pupil for a school term now closing, and I have always found him diligent and faithful in the discharge of his duties in that relation. He is modest and gentlemanly in bearing and reliable in what he has undertaken. I believe him to be qualified to teach a common school as regards character and knowledge, hence, cheerfully recommend him.

Wm. H. McIntosh,
Prin. Auburn Schools.

Anna Koch Baker was born in DeKalb County, near St. Joe, Indiana, March 14, 1861, to Joseph and Mary Ann Koch, and departed this life September 29, 1931, aged 70 years, 6 months and 15 days. Until her marriage to Henry Baker May 10, 1884 she lived three miles north of St. Joe on the Koch homestead. After her marriage she moved to Concord, where she lived until the death of her husband in 1915. She was the mother of three children, Fred, who died in infancy; Rea Dell, wife of John Draggoo, of Reading, Michigan; and Walter J., of Spencer, Indiana.

She confessed Christ as her Savior, and was baptized in her youth. Identifying herself with the Methodist Church at Concord, where she was an active and willing worker, striving ever to show herself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed. As a friend and neighbor she was ever ready to share sorrow or joy, and it can truly be said of her that she rejoiced with those that did rejoice, and wept with those that wept. During the latter years of her life she lived in Fort Wayne, Indiana, leaving there, because of failing health, to make her home with ghter in Reading, Michigan; at ghter in Reading, Michigan, at which latter home she was staying when the death angel came with her call, and she answered the summons "sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust—like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams." She leaves to cherish her memory her son, Walter, daughter, Rea, ten grandchildren, three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Geisinger of Garrett, Mrs. Lilly Dell Johnson of St. Joe, and Mrs. Mandy Morr of Albion, three brothers, John, Reuben and Charley Koch all of St. Joe, eleven nieces and nephews and a host of other relatives and friends. She was of a family of ten children, two sisters and one brother having preceded her in death.

She is not gone,
The gates eternal only opened wide
Ad hid her from our sight.
But she is here
Her benediction lingers, and her peace

And tho' we cannot see; there is no night.
She is not gone,
On God's eternal morning,
When our blinding tears are dried,
We'll understand.

And this our cloud of sorrow,
Will be a rainbow on the other side.

The funeral service was held from the Kinsey Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon, with Rev. Homer Studabaker of Spencer officiating. Interment was made in Riverside cemetery at St. Joe.

COBURN'S CORNERS
RESIDENT DIES

Wyone J. Allen, daughter of William and Betsy Brownlee Allen, deceased, was born October 16, 1853 and died October 3, 1931 at the age of 77 years, 11 months and 17 days. Her entire life was passed on the farm where she was born which is one-half mile west of Coburn's Corners. Her life of quietness ceased rather suddenly after a year of failing health. She is survived by one brother, Lon, at home, one sister, Mrs. Jane Coburn of east of St. Joe and many nephews and nieces.

The funeral was held from the country home, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in Alton cemetery. Rev. G. D. Stoll officiating, with E. R. Kinsey in charge.

LEIGHTY ORCHARD OFFERS
APPLES FOR NEEDY

Last week the Leighty Orchards mailed to every newspaper in this section, a letter telling of their desire to assist any organization in taking care of their needy, by furnishing free apples to those designated as worthy of help. Any church, club or lodge may feel free to take advantage of their offer.

SCHOOL HACK RULES
NOW IN FORCE

Now that school hacks are making their daily trips, motorists are being warned to use caution, when driving near one of these hacks. Also they should not forget that it is illegal to pass such a hack when it has stopped for the taking on or discharging of its children passengers.

It is also interesting to note the new rules governing school hack drivers as announced by the secretary of state for Indiana. These rules should be studied very carefully by every driver. It is provided that a school bus may not be driven at a greater speed than twenty-five miles an hour while children are being transported. Also that no driver may leave his hack while the motor is running, that no hack shall be started until all children have been seated and the doors closed, that no assistance shall be given by the driver to any other vehicle along the highways and that the driver shall not permit any other person to drive his vehicle, occupy his seat, tamper with the motor controls, unless such person has been approved by the township trustee.

Whenever a railroad crossing is reached some child authorized to inspect the crossing shall go forward and look in both directions. Drivers are prohibited from using tobacco while children are in the hacks. If there is an accident the driver must not leave his vehicle, but must send a child to the nearest house to summon assistance.

Each child riding regularly is to have a place and sit there every time he rides. While the vehicle is in motion children may not change places, stand up or move around.

Schedules are to be arranged for the arrival of hacks at the homes of pupils and if any child is three minutes late the driver is required to continue his trip, leaving the tardy pupil to get to school in some other manner.

Careful observance of these rules by drivers, and co-operation of parents and school children at all times, should lessen greatly the number of school hack accidents reported each year.

P. T. A. OFFICERS AND COMMITTEES FOR 1931-1932

The following officers and committees have been named for the year 1931 and '32:

President, Mrs. Wm. Hamilton.
First Vice Pres., Principal of High School.

Second Vice Pres., Ralph Sechler.

Secretary, Teacher of Third and Fourth Grades.

Treasurer, Ray Webb.

Membership and Finance Committee: Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, Derwood Ridgway, Jay Penland, Marie Draggoo, Ray Webb.

Hot Lunch Committee: Cora Curie, Helen Dittmars, Stella Maxwell, Ruth Davis.

Program Committee: Grace Dilley, Anne Sechler, Mrs. O. K. Shull, Mr. Cox.

Social Committee: Geo. Walter, Adrian Washler, Lily Bishop, Callie Ridgway.

Reporter, Mrs. Harriet Oberlin.

The regular meetings of the P. T. A. to be held the second Tuesday night of each month.

A Special Notice To School Patrons

Through the kindness of the people who donated vegetables and cans, also those who gave their services, there has been 116 quarts of tomatoes, 50 quarts of vegetable soup and 4 quarts of carrots, canned.

If it is decided to dispense with the Hot Lunch this year these vegetables will be given to the needy or if a way can be worked out this food will be prepared and served to the needy children at the school house. Let us all be thinking so that we may have many offers of help or suggestions as to how the financial problem of the Hot Lunch may be solved as we feel there will be more need for help in the food line this winter than ever before. This will be decided at the P. T. A. meeting.

The following program has been prepared:
Devotion, Harvey Schondelmayer
Some Aims of the P. T. A.,
.....Pluma Hamilton
Our Changing Schools
.....By a Teacher
The Parent Faces a New World,
.....Ralph Sechler
Special Music, Business,
Social Hour.

SALVATION ARMY
TRUCK COMING FRIDAY

People of St. Joe and Spencer, who care to help the Salvation Army in any way by donating of their waste paper, old clothing, and furniture may have the opportunity Friday afternoon, as the army truck will be here and make a friendly call at the residences.

Anything that you may wish to give to the needy, will be appreciated by this organization.

So far this year, three truck loads of materials have been gathered about the community.

If you wish to bring your donation to The News office, do so at once, or phone us.

TO GIVE UP HER
HOUSEKEEPING

After living on the old Staman farm, north-east of town for 56 years, Mrs. W. J. Staman is compelled to break up house keeping, due to her poor health. Her sister, Mrs. Matilda Cowan, who has been there for 8 years, will be cared for by Mr. and Mrs. LaVern King, of Sturgis, Mich. Mrs. Staman will keep her own room but her son, Wm. Staman and wife will move from St. Joe in the next two weeks and look after her and do the farming on the home place. The St. Joe home will be rented.

It will be remembered shortly after Mrs. Cowan came to the Staman home, that she suffered a stroke and she had been more or less of a care since that time. She is bed most of the time and Mrs. Staman has exhausted her strength in the care of her sister. Mrs. Staman will visit her children a portion of the time.

"Waste nothing" was a good motto during the World War and it is just as good today. However, storing of a potato or onion that has been damaged in digging or is otherwise unsound, is poor economy. It will spoil and spoil all those around it.

Harman's
SPECIALS
For Saturday

Meats

Bologna and Franks	10c; 3lb 25c
Mixed Ham	15c; 2lb 25c
Boiled Ham	45c lb
Bacon, (Fred Eckart)	25c, 30c lb
Bacon Squares	12 1/2c lb
Pork Roasts	11 1/2; 15c lb
Pork Steak	17c
Beef Steak	25c lb
Beef Roast	17c lb
Swiss Steak	20c lb
Rolling Beef	11c lb
LARD, Pure Rendered	10c lb

Groceries

Mother's Bread, 1 1/2 lb	6c
Edmont Crackers	18c lb
Cream of Nut Oleo	18c lb
Ginger Snaps	15c lb
Maxwell House Coffee	35c lb
Other Good Coffees Reasonably	LOW PRICED
Quick Arrow Soap Chips	19c
We have SHELL KEROSENE	11c Gallon
WE BUY POULTRY AND EGGS

DRIVE IN!

Let us give your battery
the Health Test

We are equipped to tell you in in a few minutes what your battery needs.

We Do Not Charge for Testing Service

ST. JOE FILLING STATION

For Service Call No. 17

Bank Closed
October 12

Discoveries, like prosperity, come only to the venturers—the seekers—the observers. We close all day, this day, in honor of a brave adventurer, dead these 300 years. We stay open over 250 days throughout the year, in honor of the many brave people, alive, working, buying and selling.

They Also Serve

4 Percent
SAVING
The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK
4 Percent
SAVING

10c Sale
OF TINWARE

Any Article Displayed in Our
West Window at This
Low Price

Every Article Useful

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture Undertaking

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK by WALTER TRUMBULL

He is a big, thick-set, powerful figure of a man, with that complexion which comes from the kiss of ocean winds. His name is Capt. Karl Spindler and he is the German naval officer who tried to land the guns and munitions in Ireland for Sir Roger Casement. I met him the other evening and he told me about it in English which carried a strong trace of accent. Roger Casement, he said, went to Germany and formed the plan with the German admiralty. He was an enthusiast, a visionary, said Captain Spindler, one who might arouse men but not a practical leader or a man for the job he tackled. After all the arrangements were made, he lost faith in his own scheme, and did not much want to go through with it. But by that time all plans had been perfected. He was to sail on the vessel with the arms but changed his mind and the German government gave him a submarine.

Captain Spindler had on board 20,000 Russian rifles—he says they were a fine arm—and a lot of German machine guns. Either Casement was to meet him with the submarine and give him instructions for landing his cargo or he was to be met by an agent. He went to the Arctic and came down, running the blockade by what he described as the "back door" and reaching safely the harbor of Tralee. This harbor had been picked because Casement had said it had no signal stations and no batteries. He was wrong on both counts. Either he had been misinformed or the harbor had been fortified since he had seen it. Spindler's orders were to wait one hour, but he said it seemed a pity to come all that way without landing his cargo, so he stayed around for twenty-two hours. That proved a mistake.

Posting as some sort of Scandinavian vessel, he aroused suspicion and, when he finally tried to get away, British destroyers were waiting for him. He says, Casement sighted him from the submarine before he got into harbor, but did not communicate with him, and that there was nobody to meet him or tell him what to do with the guns. The destroyers signaled him to accompany them to Queenstown and there was nothing for him to do except obey. There he and his crew put on their German uniforms, ran up their flag and blew up their ship. At first he thought he was to be shot but instead he was put in a prison camp. He was a prisoner for two years, although on one occasion he escaped and made his way toward a flying field at Nottingham, where he planned to steal a plane, having taken an aviator with him for that purpose.

The story of his recapture is rather interesting. He and his companion had managed to get some workmen's clothes and saw posters describing them as escaped prisoners dressed in uniform. As they entered Nottingham, they noticed a rapscallion but thought nothing of him. Coming to a guarded bridge, early in the morning, they waited for men to come to work, hoping to slip past in a crowd. Suddenly the rapscallion appeared with other men and arrested them. He was an intelligence man. Spindler asked him how he had known them and found that what had given them away was that they kept a military step and if one of them happened to get out of step, he quickly picked it up again. The intelligence man said ordinary workers didn't do that. The two Germans thought they had taken every precaution, but habit was too strong for them. I should like to talk to that intelligence man. I'll bet as keen an observer as he must have been could tell a lot of good stories.

Captain Spindler's recital of his prison camp experiences made me think of the first German prisoners I saw after we disembarked in France. They were huge, blond fellows, and appeared to be very contented with their lot. About all they had to do was a little policing of the camp and their only guard was a little, old Frenchman in a sort of blue frock coat who carried a rifle with a long bayonet, which was taller than he was. When he wished to smoke, he would hand the rifle to a prisoner to hold, light a cigarette, and then take his gun back again and resume the business of the day.

(© 1931. Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Creatures Queer

The Echidna or Porcupine Ant Eater. If you will pull on your seven league boots we will just stroll over to Australia for a few moments and find a queer creature that looks a little like our own prickly porcupine.

HUNGRY PORCUPINE ANT-EATER.

To begin with he is called a Porcupine Ant Eater. You can see the sharp spurs on his back and tail. He can raise these and roll himself into a ball when he is frightened, just as our porcupines do. When rolled up he looks just like a great chestnut burr, and naturally nobody wants to touch him, he is so unpleasantly prickly.

He never has to go to the dentist, for he has no teeth! But he does have the longest tongue you can imagine, and with the tip, which is rather sticky, he picks up unlucky ants and other insects and grubs.

His eyes are very small indeed, and his ears do not show at all. His legs are short and the fore paws are not divided into separate toes, but claws come directly out of the end of the paw. You can see how extraordinary his hind feet are. Perhaps you think the artist made a mistake and drew his feet upside down or backwards to, but that is the way they really look. You see, he is something of an engineer. He digs tunnels very often, so in what more satisfactory way could his feet be made for kicking out dirt and stones as he goes along?

Fiddler Crabs. On the bank of a small river down on Cape Cod, while the summer tide pulls the river from the river out to the sea, there is the strangest sight. The little beach below suddenly begins to move and glide swiftly out after the water. You have seen tall grasses so swept by the wind that the whole field seemed to roll along? Well, that is what this sandy beach appears to be doing.

But this is what really happens, for of course no favorite beach would ever think of running away. Hundreds and hundreds of small crabs that live in little holes in the sand just at the edge of the high water have come out of their holes all at once and are running as fast as they can down over the wet beach in search of a little lunch. Their fat bodies move closely together and cover the sand entirely, making the beach seem truly alive.

They hurry on, stopping every now and then to wave one claw frantically in the air. Perhaps they are signaling to one another—inviting a friend to lunch, but as soon as you are close enough to examine them you will discover at once who they are, and then it is easy to guess the rest. They are Fiddler Crabs. One claw has grown very, very large, while the other is small. The large claw is the fiddle, of course, and the other the bow.

Fiddler Crab is just their every day.

(© 1931. Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

Building to House Archives of Nation

Design for the new National Archives building, which will soon be erected at Washington to provide a safe storage place for numerous priceless documents and relics now located in the various federal buildings of the Capital.

name. When one of them appears in print or on exhibition, like many other musicians he adopts a stage name, and is called Signor Uca Gelasimus Pugliator. No doubt that makes him feel more important.

As a family, Fiddler Crabs are very highly strung, which means they are

FIDDLER CRABS OUT PLAYING TAG.

Just the least bit nervous. When you lean down to listen to their tunes, they get a dreadful fright and, running sideways, each one dashes into the nearest hole he can find, regardless of whether it is his own or not! Sometimes two or three squeeze into the same hole, only to be inhospitably pulled out by the rightful owner when he arrives.

Anagram Story
(For You to Straighten Out.)
Na Plair Wkal.

Wot yint anct newt not of lawk neo awrm grith Ralpi ayd tub byt and ton ebne tou orf nogi feorob het kys wegr arty. Wado meac eth irna dan hobt. lalam tace calme mech. lhwrt yfigna efte ethn odwn ethy ats and brudbe tuln terih urf saw ryd dan aten.

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

My Neighbor Says

PRESERVES of all kinds, more especially if they are in glass bottles, should be stored in a dark place. They quickly deteriorate in flavor if kept in a light place.

A few drops of turpentine dropped on a cloth and rubbed over an enameled bed will remove dirt and spots instantly and leave a good gloss.

Dishes in which flour and eggs have been mixed can be quite easily cleaned if they are allowed to stand in cold water for a few minutes before washing. Hot water hardens the mixture and makes it very difficult to remove.

When lemons become dry, immerse them in cold water. They will soon become quite soft and ready to use.
(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

CONVULSIVE DRESS

Wife—This dress is too small—it's not a fit!
Hubby—Seems to give you convulsions trying to get in it though.

For Tomb of the Unknown Soldier

First photograph of the sculpture for the remodeled tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, a full-sized model of which is being displayed at the War department in Washington. The design shows three allegorical figures: Victory in the center presents the palm of victory to a male figure signifying Valor, while Peace, with a dove resting upon its arm, stands at the left, holding the hand of Victory.

How It Started

"Hackneyed" Expression
AT FIRST thought, there would not seem to be any connection between a hackneyed expression and a worn out horse—yet, that is exactly how it started.

We have the term "hackneyed" originally from "hack" which is a reference to a horse that is hired—a hired horse being proverbially subject to abuse.

From this special significance, the word "hack" was applied to a writer who rehearsed stories long since come stale. The word hackneyed is a modification of "hack" used as an allusion to word, phrase or tale that has long since lost its freshness.

(© 1931. Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Serve this on cottage pudding or sponge cake.

Lemon Whipped Cream Sauce.—Combine four tablespoons of lemon juice, four tablespoons of sugar, the grated rind of a lemon, let stand until well chilled, then add to a cupful or less of thick cream whipped.

Cream of Pea Soup.—Take one can of pea soup, add one-fourth of a cupful of water, two cupfuls of milk, two slices of onion, one tablespoonful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cook the soup with the milk and onion, remove the onion and add the seasonings. Serve at once.

Half and Half.—Combine two cupfuls of orange juice with one cupful of lemon juice, add three-fourths to one cupful of sugar, five cupfuls of ice water and serve over cracked ice. Serves eight.

Brownie Orange Toast.—Mix one-fourth of a cupful of orange juice, one-half cupful of sugar, or honey, and the grated rind of a large orange. Spread on well buttered toast and put in the broiling oven to become thoroughly hot. Toast may be cut in fancy shapes which will appeal to convalescent as well as children.

Triplets Celebrate

Their 72nd Birthday

Milford, Ill.—Two brothers and a sister, believed to be the oldest triplets in the world, celebrated their seventy-second birthdays here recently. The trio are William Understock and Mrs. Josephine Understock Hiesing, both of Kankakee, and John Understock, Conde, S. D.

John Understock, who resides on a farm in South Dakota, makes it an annual event to drive here for the celebration of his own and his brother's and sister's birthday.

The triplets were born in Naperville in 1839.

German Aristocrat "Stranded"

Kansas City.—Royal blood is something to brag about, but Count Eric Josef Chmielewski is becoming an expert at pondering where he shall obtain his next bowl of soup.

The count, who would have inherited $7,000,000 from his father if politics in Europe had not gone awry, lost his car in the West and hitchhiked to Kansas City, he said.

He admits he is "stranded." But the count, a rather seedy descendant of once heard noblemen of Poland and Germany, is willing to go to work.

One of his excellency's claims to fame is that he once hunted lobsters with the former kaiser. His father, Kur' Chmielewski, according to the count, attempted to smuggle the kaiser back to Germany in 1922, with the intention of overthrowing the republic.

The count's parents were divorced in 1925 and he came to this country with his mother. She had been a friend of Mrs. Frank Sheldon of Kansas City. The count and his mother remained here about a week and went to the Pacific coast to visit relatives. Later his mother married again and now lives on a farm near Goebel, Ora. Being just twenty-one years old, the count had a flair for politics. Here he said he had been active in Oregon's last campaign.

Farm life did not appeal to him and he set out for New York in an old car. He had an accident on the highway and his car was taken for damages. He then began to hitch-hike to Kansas City.

The county smiled as he recalled he would have inherited about $7,000,000 if Europe had not overthrown its nobility after the World war.

"I'm more concerned now over where my next meal will come from than the $7,000,000," he said. "I have done various kinds of work and am willing to do anything to earn money." Doctor Sheldon said that the youth's story was correct and that his wife had met the count and his mother in Germany many years ago. The doctor described the count as an ambitious youth.

The count is a small man with big eyes and he is partly bald. He wears heavy-rimmed spectacles.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an opaque and use as directed. Fine particles of wax skin peel off until all defects such as wrinkles, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles use one ounce powdered face oil dissolved in one-half pint which base. At drug stores.

Resented What Seemed

Slur on "Profession"

When a motion picture happens to center on some particular profession, a certain Los Angeles exhibitor makes it a point to give special performances for those to whom the picture might be of especial interest. The doctors of the city were his guests at the showing of "Doctors' Wives" and the newspaper people when "Front Page" was booked.

One day this manager was sitting in his office when two rough looking men brushed the attendant aside and confronted him.

"Listen, feller, what's the big idea?" one of them wanted to know. "Every time you got a picture about some kind of a profession, you invite them people to see it free."

"Well, what's wrong with that?" "Ain't nothing wrong with it. But in the last two months you've shown four gangster films and not a single invite to anyone. That is discrimination!"—Los Angeles Times.

When

TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name:

CASTORIA
CHILDREN'S WAY FOR IT

Loud Eating

Novelist Theodore Dreiser said on his return from Russia:

"Even the Soviets don't claim that good manners are improved under their regime."

"I dined one evening in a Lenin-grad restaurant. A young militant on my left said to a young militant at a nearby table on my right:

"What are you eating, comrade?"

"Soup," said the other militant.

"Are you deaf?"

Business Champion

One of the most enterprising business men this country ever produced was P. T. Barnum.—American Magazine.

WHEN FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for correcting excess acids. 35c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 40-1931.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Wilderness Is to Be a National Park

The section of Virginia, about fifteen miles long and ten wide, where was fought the Battle of the Wilderness has been designated by the government as a national park and work is under way. The view above is of the spot where Gen. Stonewall Jackson was accidentally shot by his own troops. Within the area named were fought the battles of Fredericksburg, Spotsylvania and Chancellorsville.

To Plant Gardens Above Radio City

Roofs to Be Landscaped at Cost of 18 Millions.

New York.—The Rockefeller interests have revealed details of the plans for transforming the roofs and terraces of the ten structures in the $250,000,000 Radio City here into what is intended to be a modern equivalent of the hanging gardens of Babylon, to include illuminated waterfalls and promenades among tall trees planted far above the street.

The largest of the first three units will be a 66-story office skyscraper, with 16-story wing, to take up more than half of the center block in the area bounded by Fifth and Sixth avenues, Forty-eighth and Fifty-first streets. This unit will have a total floor space of 2,500,000 square feet, about 350,000 feet more than is contained in the Empire State building.

About Ready to Start.

The second will be the International Music hall, planned for the west half of the block between Fifth and Fifty-first streets, with a 31-story office building flanking it on the Sixth avenue frontage. The third unit is a sound motion picture theater for the west part of the block between Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets.

Excavation work on the sites of these structures is well advanced and construction will start this fall. The theaters are scheduled to be finished by October 1, 1932, and the office building the following spring. Plans for seven other buildings have been drawn. A large area in the lower block has been left for possible use by the Metropolitan Opera company for a new opera house, concerning which negotiations still are pending.

Century Old Clock Is Keeping Perfect Time

Belfast, N. Y.—The wooden cogs in a century old clock were spinning at full tilt here today. Jerome F. Gleason, reclaimed the timepiece, which was built in 1822, from attic dust. He found the wheels jammed with dust and soot and the face broken. A few hours of tinkering put it in shape, and now, Gleason says, it "keeps railroad time."

The object of all satire is to make people see where they are wrong.

Truck Gardener Discovers New Comet

Masaji Nagata of Brawley, Calif., an obscure Japanese who grows lettuce and cantaloupes by day and studies the heavens by night, is credited with the discovery of a brand-new comet. The finding of the forty-four-year-old Oriental was announced by the Mt. Wilson observatory. Dr. E. H. Searles, acting head of the observatory, said that in all probability the comet would be named after its discoverer.

The DAIRY

ROPY MILK MAY NOT BE FAULT OF COW.

Look Well to Cleansing of Milking Utensils.

Ropy milk may be the result of something wrong with the cow in the way of mastitis, but it is more likely caused by bacteria in the utensils where the milk is handled or stored, and the cow not responsible for it at all. The germ making this special ropy or slimy milk is a very persistent one and cannot be got out of the pails, cans or other vessels holding it except with very unusual cleaning and scalding. It is quite possible that it may be in the pail or other vessel where you keep the milk, and thus every new lot of milk that is brought becomes affected by the germ left in the vessel. You will know whether this is possible or not. The best plan is to clean very thoroughly and then boil it in water for at least 15 minutes, which ought to remove any germ there. Another possibility is of course that the utensils which are on the farm where the milk is made have this same germ.

A dairy may try to tell whether the cow is responsible or not is to milk some from each quarter of the udder into a thoroughly sterilized glass, then cover to let it stand. After a time you can tell whether the cow is at fault and the special quarter of the udder, if any, that is giving this ropy milk. Of course if it is milk from a herd, this would be more difficult to detect. We do not think it a good plan to use milk of this character. It may be that it is harmless, but it is probable that this is being caused by some harmful germ and we should certainly want to find out just what it is.—Herald New Yorker.

Relative Value of Home and Ready-Mixed Ration

Whether the dairyman shall mix his own feeds or buy ready-mixed rations is still an important question. Before it is definitely decided the dairyman should ask himself these questions:

1. Are the feeds I can buy as good as are contained in the ready-mixed rations?
2. Is it possible to secure a continuous supply of a large variety of ingredients?
3. Can the ingredients be mixed as thoroughly as they are in the commercial mixtures?

Undoubtedly he may be able to mix a ton at less money than he will have to pay for a similar commercial mixture, but when all things are considered there may not be the advantage that formerly existed.

Milk production per cow does not tell the whole story, because the number of cows is about 8 per cent greater than it was at this time last year. Dairy men will be particularly interested in United States Department of Agriculture figures on oleomargarine manufacture. These figures show that 18,800,000 pounds of oleomargarine were produced in April as compared with 27,500,000 pounds manufactured in April last year, a reduction of 31 per cent.—American Agriculturist.

Fewer but Better Cows

I do not think it would be wise to attempt to forecast a five to ten-year outlook for dairying as we are now at a time of great world distress with dairying expanding in exporting countries faster than is good for all of us. However, I feel quite sure that the next decade will witness a great weeding out of uneconomical producers of milk and that this weeding out process will to some extent regulate the present tendency toward over-production. Also with the opportunities before the dairy farmer of doubling the average annual production of milk from the same number of cows and with the definite percentage of dairying and marketing dairy products making great gains those who can survive the present dairy distress will reap a tangible reward in the future.—Charles W. Holman, Secretary, the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation.

Cheap Winter Rations

How cheaply can we feed helters this winter? It all depends on the kind of roughage on hand. At the Minnesota station, helters averaging about ten months of age were started on alfalfa hay and corn silage—no grain. They made an average gain of 1.1 pounds daily. Where there is no legume hay, helters need two to three pounds of grain daily if you expect them to be in good condition in spring, and half of this should be a protein concentrate.

PRESENT DAY CANUTE

This is Knut Holm who, according to Harold Hansen, the Danish genealogist and historian, is a direct descendant of King Canute who ruled England in the early years of the Eleventh century. Knut Holm is the only child of a young Danish farmer of the same name. For twenty-three generations all male Holms have been christened "Knut."

Heat in Arctic Causes Herring Eggs to Freeze

London.—There have been several complaints about warm weather in the Arctic this summer, but it remained for British scientists to make the first official protest in behalf of herrings, which have been driven from the North sea.

The herrings were forced to migrate because of frigid water. The scientists explained that heat in the Arctic produces very cold currents. They estimated that only 1 per cent of the herring eggs would hatch, thus causing British deep-sea fishers to lose large amounts of money.

Elephant Knocked Out, but He's Never Down

Norwalk, Conn.—An elephant was in the embarrassing position of being out but not down here. The driver of an elephant truck of a circus tried to drive under a low bridge. The elephant's head protruded. The bridge scored a clean knockout. The truck was so narrow, however, that the beast just leaned diagonally against the sides and the truck continued on.

Nerves on edge. A head that throbs. You can't stop work, but you can stop the pain—in a hurry. Bayer Aspirin will do it every time. Take two or three tablets, a swallow of water, and you're soon comfortable. There's nothing half-way about the action of genuine aspirin. If the box says Bayer, you will get complete relief.

These tablets should be in every shop, office, and home. Ready to relieve any sudden ache or pain, from a grumbling tooth to lumbago. Don't suffer with that neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc.; or lose any time because of colds or sore throat. Get some Bayer Aspirin and just follow those proven directions for instant relief.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They cost very little, especially if you buy them by the bottle. Any doctor will tell you they are harmless. They don't hurt the heart. They don't upset the stomach. So take them as often as you have the least need of their quick comfort. Take enough for complete results.

BAYER ASPIRIN

Argentine Paper Urges Use of Wheat for Fuel

Present prices for wheat and corn have become so low that it is being seriously considered to use a large part of the available crops for fuel in power plants and factories. Much of this produce is already being used thus around Rosario for domestic purposes. In some parts of the country planters cannot afford to harvest their grain, inasmuch as the prices obtainable for it would not pay for the labor involved.

Corn now is quoted on most of the Argentine markets at 3.00 paper pesos a quintal (100 kilograms, or 220.5 pounds) and at this rate is a cheaper fuel than wood or coal, besides being almost equally satisfactory for the generation of heat and power.—La Nacion, Buenos Aires.

Dorothy's Mother Proves Claim

Children don't ordinarily take to medicines but here's one that all of them love. Perhaps it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food.

It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach. It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lazy bowels quick, cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Western mother, Mrs. J. G. Moore, 110 Cliff Ave., San Antonio, Texas, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that's claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Dorothy. She was a bottle baby and very delicate. Her bowels were weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and it regulated her, quick. I have used it with her ever since for colds and every little set-back and her wonderful condition tells better than words how it helps."

Don't be imposed on. See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name, "California" so you'll get the genuine, famous for 50 years.

No Funds
"How's the passenger flight business, Buddy?"
"I haven't banked anything but turns for three months."—Pathfinder Magazine.

CUTICURA TALCUM POWDER

Pure, Smooth, Fragrant, Antiseptic, Cooling, Soothing

DEICATELY medicated, Cuticura Talcum Powder is ideal for daily use. It absorbs excessive perspiration and cools and refreshes. It comforts baby's tender skin and prevents chafing and irritation. Men find it cooling to the tender, newly shaven face and a most efficient protection against infection.

Price 25c. Sold everywhere. Proprietors: Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Malden, Mass.
See Try the new Cuticura Shaving Cream.

Lots to Learn

Gerald—Well, I will say that I have a pretty good opinion of myself.

Reulsh—Yes; you never have studied yourself very much, I suppose.—New Bedford Standard.

Uncle Eben

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "uses up all their patience an' forbearance hangin' around an' waitin' for another circus to come to town."

—Washington Star.

Stop the Pain.

The hurt of a burn or a cut stops when Cole's Carbolicaine is applied. It heals quickly without scars. 30c and 60c by all druggists, or send 20c to J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Adv.

In Character

Photographer—How do you want this picture of yourself as a Northwest policeman?

Tourist—Mounted.

Good Type in Women

"According to reports, Tom has married a girl of the feminine type."

"That's a brake."

PARKER'S HAIR BALM

Removes Dandruff Stops Hair Falling Improves Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair and is sold at Druggists

—H. H. Parker, Inc., New York, N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO

Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balm. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. H. H. Parker, Inc., New York, N. Y.

Advice

He—No woman ever takes another woman's advice about frocks.

She—Naturally. You don't ask the enemy how to win the war.—Kilburn Times.

The Ideal Vacation Land

Sunshine All Winter Long Splendid roads—towering mountain ranges—Highest type hotels—dry invigorating air—clear starlit nights—California's Foremost Desert Playground worn by the movie stars. Sterling silver chain ring. Send $1 and name also. E. H. Clark, 1611 Vine St., Hollywood Calif. Send today.

Write Cress & Coffey Palm Springs CALIFORNIA

HOLLYWOOD FRIENDSHIP RING

Concealment

"Figures won't lie," said the mathematician.

"No," replied Senator Sorghum; "although a pretty good way to conceal the truth is to bury it under a big bunch of statistics."

A Case in Point

"Pop, what's a base deceived?"

"A ball player who gets put out between second and third."

Blandishment hardly ever fools the people. It is sought to fool.

PAGE FOUR

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, October 8, 1931

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Subscribe for The News, Now. School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

Cabbage for sale, Tom Brunson.

Dan Myers and family of near Edon were Saturday callers in the Sam Kees home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Shroyer were Sunday guests in the Harry Dean home at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hull of near Helena, O., took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kinsey of Jackson, Mich., were here Sunday guests in the George Kinsey home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser and children spent Sunday afternoon with relatives at Avilla and Kendallville.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ginther and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hersh.

Glen Freeburn, who works for a Fort Wayne Coal Co., spent Saturday night and Sunday here with his family.

The Zonker Store installed a refrigerator and display show case in the meat department of his store this week.

Paul Krabill of Attica, Ohio, spent several days this week the guest of his sister, Mrs. Walter Zonker, and family.

At the Widney orchards it became necessary to put on a night watchman and Roy Koch is serving in this capacity.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Have your glasses fitted by Ben F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

The 25th national dairy show is to be held at St. Louis, October 10-18 this year. A number of our dairy men attended the show last year.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kees and family and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees were Sunday visitors of Burt Timmerman's west of Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kinsey and family and Mrs. Roy Bowser and children were at Hamilton Saturday guests of Harry Kinsey and family.

Mrs. David Poper, who is making her home with George Wilnot and family, is at Butler for two weeks stay with her daughter, Mrs. Myra Malone.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph West of Fort Wayne were dinner guests of Ye Editor and wife Sunday. Mr. West operates the Ft. Wayne Typesetting Co. plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walcott of Quincy, O., and Mrs. Sylvia Notestein of Lewistown, O., were guests in the Henry Shroyer home from Friday until Monday.

The biggest value in colored funnies is now available at The News office, when we give you 30 in the Sunday Herald and Examiner. Order yours now and we will save you one.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stemen of Spencerville and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hursey attended the Hillsdale fair last Thursday and they spent the night with a cousin, Marion Reynolds and family.

If you are thinking of a New Car let us show you the new Ford. Just phone or write for full demonstration. The Cities Sales Inc., Hicksville, O. Phone 20. Open day and night. 84tf.

Don't forget The News office is equipped to do first-class commercial printing.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Ft. Wayne and Mrs. C. M. Pincheon of Minneapolis, visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Randall.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stomm of Ashley spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie. Miss Reba Woods a former teacher at this place, is also teaching in Ashley and staying with Mr. and Mrs. Stomm.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jump and daughter of Woodburn, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curie of Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Curie and son, Harold and Mrs. Jennie Sechler of this place were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith of Waterloo are the parents of an eleven pound baby daughter, June Frances, born Sunday morning at the Dr. Bonnell Souder hospital in Auburn. Mr. Smith is principal of the Waterloo high school.

Mr. and Mrs. John Timmerman and sisters, Mrs. Anna Koch, Mrs. Lee Jackson and Mrs. Nan Lysher, were visitors Sunday afternoon in the homes of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Bela Broughton north of LaOtto and Frank Cramer of LaOtto.

Some improvement was noted in the condition of W. C. McBride of the McBride Co. at his home in Auburn, Monday. Mr. McBride was taken sick suddenly Thursday evening with liver and kidney trouble and has been seriously ill since that time.

A deal was made some days ago whereby Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Meek sold to Wilbur Yeiser, 44 feet off the north end of lot number 5 in block number 3, or in other words off the Meek lot now occupied by his barber shop. With this addition to the Yeiser lot he will have ample garden space.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bose of South Bend were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young from Thursday until Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Beale and family of Toledo were Saturday and Sunday guests. Monday, Oscar Rodgers, an old neighbor from Cromwell, arrived to spend the week in the same home.

The Rural Housewife's Club was very pleasantly entertained at Mrs. Hazel Washler's, September 29th. Mrs. Leone Mason gave the special number. Responses were the most interesting thing seen at the Hicksville fair. The hostess served a very tasty lunch. The club will be entertained at an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh Neiland at Auburn October 18th.

The house on the Sherman Rickett farm, south of the Carr cemetery, just west of Concord, burned to the ground Thursday. It is supposed that it was set on fire by travelers thru the cemetery, who frequently lodged there over night. The smoke was discovered by Chas. Murphy, but by the time he could get help, the building was destroyed. The small barn was saved.

Used Cars

1928 Chevrolet Coupe in Excellent Condition

1929 Model A Ford Tudor in fine Shape.

1927 Chevrolet Coupe, a dandy.

1931 Model A Ford Town Sedan, Like New.

1924 Essex Coupe, Cheap.

A Cheap Ton Truck, ready for work.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No 45.

Dale Walter entertained his Sunday School class Monday evening and a good crowd enjoyed the ice cream, cake and watermelon served.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church will meet on Friday of this week, instead of the regular day, at the home of Mrs. Eva Miller. This will be an all day meeting, with pot luck dinner served at the noon hour. Please note the change.

Senator Dwight W. Morrow died in his sleep Monday at his New Jersey home. The news of his death was unexpected. With his passing, one of the country's foremost advocates of prohibition repeal has moved out.

A hearing was held in the DeKalb circuit court Saturday on the motion of Ruth Gorrell to take the custody of a son, Lowell, 12, from her former husband, Jesse Don Gorrell, and give it to her. She said the boy's father kicked him and struck him, but the boy took the stand and denied his father was cruel to him. The court continued the hearing for further investigation.

The thirteenth annual convention of the Indiana Farm Bureau will be held November 17 and 18 in Indianapolis. This is a week or so earlier than usual as in previous years the conventions have been held during the Thanksgiving holiday period. Local farm bureaus in the various counties of the state will hold meetings this month to elect delegates to attend the state convention. It is expected that delegates will be in attendance from ninety of the ninety-two counties in the state which have local organizations.

Three bandits burglarized four business places at Rome City, Monday. Mrs. Lena Burket, who resides near the filling station, heard the yeggs at work about 4 A. M. She decided to go to the home of the proprietor two doors away and tell him. The bandits heard her on the street and yelled for her to stop or they would shoot. She jumped behind a tree and waited. The bandits fired one shot, but Mrs. Burket does not believe they fired at her. When the bandits started to flee, Mrs. Burket continued on to spread the alarm.

Low prices of wheat this season have not changed the course of crop rotation on Indiana farms and the acreage being sown now for harvest in 1932 is probably not far below normal. Many farmers are sowing wheat this fall as usual as a part of their regular crop rotation scheme to provide stands of grass, as this is a great dairy and livestock state where pastures form an important part in their economic production. However, the prospects for yields next year are not so good as many are not using fertilizer, which is the usual practice of Indiana wheat growers. Farmers as a whole do not have available money now to secure fertilizer.

New Prices

OIL, by the Quart ..... 20c

OIL, by the Gallon ..... 75c

(With Oil Change)

Firestone Tires

If you have trouble with that GASOLINE ENGINE OR FARM TRACTOR, a telephone call will bring YOU PROMPT SERVICE.

—REMEMBER—

Keller's Garage

at Sailer's Blacksmith Shop

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
MonumentsOpposite Woodlawn and Rosedawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Mrs. Viena Rude and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Miller and family at Newville.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel and J. O. Rose were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Conine.

The Misses Helen Dittmars and Martha Miser were Tuesday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stomm at Ashley.

The Ladies Aid Society of Cornburn's Corners was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Abner Trostel.

Mrs. Willis Cox and son, Dean spent a couple days last week at Lagrange visiting her parents and attending the Corn School demonstration.

The high school base ball team has two good games to their credit so far this year. Last week they defeated Waterloo 8 to 2 and Tuesday this week they defeated Ashley 8 to 0.

The City National bank of Auburn, in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court by Attorney C. E. McClintock, says Fred and Sadie Reeder have failed to pay a note of $63 executed last June 6 and due in sixty days. A judgment of $90 is demanded.

Four hundred and forty-one Farmers' Institute meetings are scheduled to be held over the state this coming winter, according to the schedule recently published by the Purdue University department of agricultural extension. Meetings will be held in every county in Indiana. Stella Goldsmith of Spencer will be one of the state speakers.

The Knisely Bros. &amp; Co. bank of Butler Monday filed a complaint in the DeKalb circuit court against Frank Ginder, alleging non-payment of a note for $325 executed March 5, 1930, and due in a year; another for $255.57 executed October 15, 1930, and due in six months; and another for $100 signed September 15, 1930, and payable in six months. The demand is for $1,000.

Miss Marie Goldsmith and Mrs. Laney Gee were included as guests at a surprise party for Mrs. Worth Coats at her apartment in the Frank Scoville home, Friday, October 2. All contributed toward the dinner and were unanimous in declaring it a most enjoyable occasion. Other guests included Mesdames Ida E. Hose, Wm. Creager, Harry Hendershot of Butler and Mrs. Eugene Webster. Mrs. Coats leaves early in November for Chicago to spend the winter with her daughter.

The National Mill &amp; Supply Co. of Fort Wayne, in a new complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court by Attorney H. C. Springer says that on January 30, 1930, Walter Silberg and Geo. F. Jenkins gave Frank W. Silberg a note for $300, due in nine months and secured by a mortgage on garage equipment at Butler. The note and mortgage were assigned to the plaintiff and the demand is for $450, together with foreclosure. Walter J. Mondhank is made a party defendant to answer to his interest in the mortgage.

The Shortest Thing in the
WorldNo, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—
IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY.
You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it.

YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

204 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-29

Frank R. Bowman, administrator of the estate of the late Isaac Meese, has been authorized in the DeKalb circuit court to sell a tract of real estate in St. Joe. The property was appraised by D. W. Yeiser and Grant Baltz at $500. Mr. Bowman filed $1,000 additional bond, with E. R. Kinsey and Capt. H. C. Springer as sureties.

Writing tablets and envelopes at News Office.

R. W. Brodbeck, former Wabash agent here, is working near Danville, Ill. Mrs. Brodbeck and child will move their goods to near Wolcottville and be near her mother. Nick Riden and family will move from the Blue home into the Shroyer home as soon as vacated.

Charter No. 426

Report of the condition of St. Joe Valley Bank at St. Joe in the State of Indiana, at the close of its business on September 29, 1931.

Wm. H. Randall, President.

F. R. Bowman, Cashier.

F. L. Butler, Vice President.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$ 86 567 63
Overdrafts	42 38
U. S. Gov't. Securities	50 00
Other Bonds, Securities, etc.	10 304 00
Banking House	4 700 00
Furniture and Fixtures	3 600 00
Other Real Estate Owned	4 999 44
Due from Trust Companies, Banks and Bankers
and Cash on Hand	10 180 83
Cash Items	11 50
Other Assets not Included in the above	8 062 00
Total	$128 517 78

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock—Paid in	$ 25 000 00
Surplus	2 543 04
Undivided Profits—Net	406 18
Demand Deposits	43 847 93
Demand Certificates	43 579 38
Cashier's—Treas. Ch'ks.	79 25
Bills Payable	5 000 00
Other Liabilities	8 062 00
Total	$128 517 78

State of Indiana

County of DeKalb, ss:

I, F. R. Bowman, Cashier of the St. Joe Valley Bank of St. Joe, Indiana, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true.

F. R. BOWMAN, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this

6th day of October, 1931

(Seal)

Fred B. Leighty, Notary Public.

My Commission Expires February 14, 1932.

Leighty Orchard
St. Joe, Indiana

No reason in the world why you should not can some apples and make yourself some APPLE BUTTER, and not worry about the winter. We have made some cider for you at 10c per gallon in your own jug.

APPLES FOR THE WINTER

Johnathans, Grimes and Winter Bananas,

No. 1 grade at per bushel ..... $1.00

No. 2 for daily use and canning,

Per bushel ..... 40c

All other Winter Varieties (Except Ben Davis)

No. 1 grade, per bushel ..... 75c

No. 2 grade, per bushel ..... 30c

Ben Davis, No. 1 grade, per bushel ..... 50c

" " No. 2 " " " " ..... 25c

OF COURSE
PRICES AT SCHAAB'S
ARE LOWER.....

You know that we were the first to adjust our prices to new economic conditions. . . Low prices have ceased to be news. . . The more important thing to which we wish to call your attention is that we still maintain those high standards of quality on which we have built our 45 years of successful merchandising. . . You'll find that we have applied those standards just as rigidly to the merchandise at these lowered prices as we did when prices were higher. Good examples of high quality may be found in these few representative items selected at random from our stock.

HOPE MUSLIN ..... a yard 10c

STEVEN'S "P" CRASH ..... a yard 17c

FULL FASHIONED SILK HOSE, pair 79c

WINTER COATS Luxuriously Furred.... $16.50

PURE WORSTED SUITS... $18.50, $22.50, $27.50

MEN'S HATS ..... $1.95, $2.95 to $5.00

TRI-STATE SPECIAL OVERALL, pair 95c

SCHAAB'S

Charter No. 459
Report of the condition of Farmers and Merchants State Bank at Spencerville in the State of Indiana, at the close of its business on September 29, 1931.

F. E. Rhodes, President
L. B. Fisher, Vice President

C. G. Rectenwall, Cashier

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$123 706 63
Overdrafts	26 19
Other Bonds, Securities, etc.	45 852 17
Banking House	2 839 88
Furniture and Fixtures	1 601 23
Due from Trust Companies, Banks and Bankers
and Cash on Hand	17 486 67
Trust Securities	1 600 00
Total	$193 112 77

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock—Paid In	$ 25 000 00
Surplus	10 000 00
Undivided Profits—Net	11 614 49
Demand Deposits	38 174 16
Demand Certificates	102 221 49
Savings Deposits	4 602 63
Trust Investments	1 600 00
Total	$193 112 77

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:

I, C. G. Rectenwall, Cashier of the Farmers & Merchants State Bank of Spencerville do solemnly swear that the above statement is true.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of October, 1931.

(Seal) William M. Allen, Notary Public.
My Commission Expires January 13, 1935.

SPENCERVILLE

Subscribe for The News, Now.
Gale Bowser and family called at the Frank Butler home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shutt of Oklahoma are visiting relatives at this place.

Gerry Wasson and wife were Sunday dinner guests at the R. U. Bowser home.

The Young Ladies Social Club will meet on Friday evening with Miss Minnie Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolf of South Bend were weekend guests in the Wm. Reed home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz attended the funeral of Mrs. Samantha Berry at Harlan Saturday afternoon.

Furnish Service Station and the Baker Gracery fronts are being painted this week an attractive red and yellow.

Mrs. Adelia Culbertson very pleasantly entertained the Home Missionary Society at her home south of town on Thursday.

The C. C. Club met on Friday afternoon with Mesdames Daisy Butler and Jane Butler. Prizes were won by Mrs. Zelpha Steward and Mrs. Ruth Butler.

A new school bus has been purchased by Spencer township for the accommodation of the many school children. Charles Bratton will act as the driver.

Wayne Shook is slowly improving at the home of his grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. B. O. Shook. Wayne had the misfortune to get his leg broken while riding a pony recently.

Edwin Guthrie recently celebrated his 69th birthday anniversary at the home of his son.

Those present were Mr. and Ralph Culbertson and family. Mrs. Samuel Arnold and family of near Hometown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soule and four children of Hurshtown and Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson.

Greeley Wearley is driving a new Packard.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz, Glenn Betz and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Perkins of near Harlan were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perkins.

Mrs. Ruth Gorrell and Ned Shull of St. Joe run together on Friday evening at the corner of Hursh's store. Both cars were wrecked but no one was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolf of South Bend, James Reed and wife, Wm. Reed and daughters, Ida and Vera and Miss Carroll Reed, assisted Dickie Reed in celebrating his seventh birthday anniversary at Dills grove Sunday.

The entire high school and teachers gathered at the Dills grove on Friday evening and assisted in the initiation of the Freshman class. The party was greatly enjoyed by all. Weiner and marshmallows were roasted.

In honor of Mrs. Walter Baker's birthday, the following were Sunday guests: Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Perry and family and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Ferguson of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Newton Perry and son, Wilbur and family of Ft. Wayne. Afternoon callers were Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Verne Monroe and family of St. Joe.

CONCORD

Mrs. Ed Bassett and family spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bassett.

Quite a few from around here attended the funeral of Mrs. Anna Baker at St. Joe Thursday.

Mrs. Less Sebring, Mrs. Ford Jackson and daughter, Iris, Mrs. Chas. Jackson and Holl Jackson were at Fort Wayne Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson and two sons, Robert and Arthur, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Rhodes in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. John Draggoo spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Johnson and Monday they called at the Dell Draggoo home.

Mrs. F. M. Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. George Kees and family, Mrs. Anna Koch, and Mrs. Nan Lysher were Saturday evening callers at the home of Mrs. Chas. Jackson.

Mrs. Less Sebring of Auburn spent Saturday night and Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Ford Jackson, and family. Other guests on Sunday were Eloise Draggoo, Mr. and Mrs. Holl Jackson, and Mable Jackson.

NEWS OF THE SCHOOLS OF SPENCERVILLE

Activities of Class Room and Campus of Interest to Both Student Body and Faculty

There are twenty-one pupils enrolled in the fifth and sixth grades this year. Wayne Shook, a pupil enrolled in the sixth grade, had the misfortune to break his leg last Wednesday morning. Bina Zimmerman is teacher of these grades.

The outlook for music this year is very good. We have a High School Girls Glee Club of twenty voices. Monday the High School Orchestra had its first meeting with eleven members present.

The percent of attendance in the senior high school for the past month was 95.28%; for the junior high school the percent of attendance was 96.18%.

Miss Minnie Walker, the teacher of 3rd and 4th grades, reports an attendance of 27 this year with an average of 99% for this month.

The basket ball season will soon be here so everyone start developing a good pair of lungs.

Mr. Harshman (music director.) What are the black keys used for Arthur Hamm: To play on when your hands are dirty.

Edith: Its a number accompanied by its adjective.

Mr. Russell (Algebra teacher.) What is a coefficient?

Freshman Class

The Freshman Class met a few days ago and elected officers for the coming year as follows: president, Edith Wade; vice-president, Isabel Chapman; secretary, Dorothy Markle; treasurer, Pauline Furnish. We feel that these officers are well chosen and will do their best for their class. The sponsor is Mr. Appleman.

The members of the class are: Stanley Bishop, Dorothy Bratton, Mildred Carnahan, Isabel Chapman, Mayola Dove, Mary Alice Edwards, Pauline Furnish, Lois Gerig, Arthur Hamm, Anna Ruth Haupt, Paul Hensley, Dola Hurni, Madonna Kelly, Margaret Kimes, Dorothy Markle, Ila McCrory, Blanche Sponhour, Edith Wade, Lawrence Wappess and Charles Warden.

This is the largest class of Freshmen Spencerville has had for several years.

Senior Class

The Senior Class of Spencerville High School consists of the following members: Eunice Shilling, Florence Steward, Clarissa Rediger, Harry Faryer, Floyd Pfauamer, Harold Goldsmith, Jesse Hart, Esther Hahn, Hubert McNamara, Lynn Fisher, Dwight Koch, Frederick Laub, James Butler, Florence Wasson, Glenn Brace.

The class met recently and organized as follows: president, James Butler; vice president, Frederick Laub; secretary-treasurer, Florence Steward; sponsor, Miss Ida Reed.

Freshman Reception

On Friday evening, October 2, the Spencerville High School students gathered at Dills Grove for the purpose of initiating new members. Various contests between the Freshmen and upper-classmen formed the first part of the evening's entertainment. The Freshmen Home Economics Department administered food to the hungry, which was enjoyed by everyone. Later all joined in games and songs around the camp fire. It was unanimously agreed that the first party of the season had been a success.

Let The News have your films developed.

Sophomore and Junior Classes

The Sophomore Class held its first meeting September 11. The officers were elected as follows: sponsor, Mr. W. J. D. Russell; president, Ethelyn Baker; secretary-treasurer, Loa Laux.

Winifred Harper and Paul Hensley were absent due to sickness. Merl Dean Furnish was absent due to the effects of too much cider.

The Junior Class of Spencerville High School, under the sponsorship of Miss Hollabaugh, met and elected the following officers: president, LaNore Laub; vice president, Loyd Laux; secretary, Charles Kimes; treasurer, Forrest Brattain; assistant secretary and treasurer, Eunice Gerig. Other members of the class are Howard Dermott and Gerry Gloyd. They selected the motto, "Plan your work, work your plan" as their achievement for this school year. The Junior class has an enrollment of seven.

Seventh Grade

The members of the Seventh Grade are: William Allen, Thelma Bishop, Wilma Bishop, Billy Erick, John Franklin, Alice Hart, Roy Hensley, Robert Hollabaugh, Dorothy Keller, Earnest Kelly, Loren Laub, Gladys Maurer, Betty Jane McClellan, Marcella Moore, Roy Shilling, Charles Washler, Irene Williams, and Dallas Zimmerman.

They met a few days ago and organized their class. The officers are: Betty Jane McClellan, president; Loren Laub, vice president; Dorothy Keller, secretary and treasurer. The sponsor of the class is the Home Economics teacher, Miss Marjorie Hollabaugh.

Eighth Grade

The members of Grade Eight recently met and organized as follows: president, Warren Rectenwall; vice president, Erma Baltz; secretary-treasurer, Alice Baker.

The class enrollment is as follows: Lee Chapman, Richard Kimes, Fred Steward, Kenneth Means, E. L. Saur, Homer Steimen, William Steward, James Ryan, Robert Hart, Ralph Tharp, Edward Shilling, Margaret Walter, Alice Baker, Erma Baltz, Nantonto Vendrely, Lucille Tharp, Marvella Brattain, Josephine Fisher, Florence Worden, Madlyn Phend, Anna Ellen Ryan, Earl Farver, Marion Rediger, and Warren Rectenwall. The sponsor is Mr. C. G. Appleman.

Athletics

Spencerville High School is turning out a splendid group of boys for a successful basketball team this season. The basketball schedule is not yet complete. They will begin training in the near future.

The boys of the athletic activities met and elected James Butler as their student manager for the coming season.

Manual Training

The Manual Training boys, under the instruction of Mr. W. J. D. Russell, are making stools for the Science room.

New vices were secured for the Manual Training room this week.

Read the Ads in this issue.

Favorite Bible Passages

Janet Gaynor
Motion Picture Actress.
Judge not, that ye be not judged.—St. Matthew 7: 1.

But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—St. Matthew 6: 33.

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help.—Psalm 121: 1.
(Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

WE CAN GIVE YOU what you want IN PRINTING when you want it! Try us out with your next job

IN APPRECIATION

1492

By persevering over the superstition of the time and the discouragements of his crew, Christopher Columbus brought about the early development of America by his discovery in 1492. In tribute to his courage and leadership—we remain closed all day October 12th.

1931

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME"

GOOD IDEA

WE SELL:
ENVELOPES
LETTERHEADS
STATEMENTS
INVOICES
CALLING CARDS
TAGS
BLOTTERS

WE CAN FURNISH:
CARBON SALEBOOKS
PRINTED FORMS
IN FOLDED PACKS
FOR ANY PURPOSE
AUTOGRAPHIC
SALES REGISTERS
PRINTED GUMMED TAPE
AND MACHINES

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS—
CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR
HOME TOWN PAPER

GET THE IDEA — BUY AT HOME

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

Cash LOANS

4 to $300

If You Have Money, we can accommodate you quickly and confidentially. We will lend you up to $300 on your own signature and security. No tedious questions asked of employer, relatives or friends—convenient repayment terms.

You will like our way of doing business.

FRANKLIN SECURITY CO.
Over Schwartz Grocery
Phone 709 Auburn, Ind.

SPECIAL SALE

We want to reduce the amount of space occupied by our Perennials and Rock Garden Plants

So during the Fall Planting Season, or while they last, we are offering our stock at wholesale prices—and less. This is your opportunity to get a bunch of good plants cheap.

PERENNIALS—Include Columbines, Painted Daisies, Oriental Poppies, Hardy Phlox, Shasta and Memorial Daisies, Coreopsis, Gaillardias, Sweet Williams, Veronicas, Platycodons, Variegated Day Lilies and others.

All priced at 10c each, $1 per 12, $2 per 25

ROCK GARDEN PLANTS—Include Sedums in 5 varieties, Moss Phlox, 2 kinds; Trailing Baby's Breath, Tunich Saxifraga, Pinka, Forget-me-nots, Dwarf Purple Iris, Santolina, Sweet Wivesfield and others.

All priced at 10c each, $1 per 12, $2 per 25

Also a number of SMALL EVERGREENS—such as Norway Spruce, Arbor Vitae, Junipers, Etc., from 50c to $2.00 each.

All orders at the above low prices must be cash or c. o. d. Come and see this stock.

Cougill's Greenhouse
713 S. Indiana Avenue Phone 20 Auburn, Indiana

DR. COIL

Save Your Eyes—Wear COIL GLASSES

Best Sight of Glasses—North of Wayne
Near Dr. Carl Ows WOOD and WOL

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MARION'S PECULIAR CIRCUMSTANCE

By FANNIE HURST

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

MARION JOYCE did not realize that there was nothing unusual about her predicament. Analyzing it, it used to seem to her that no one had ever been harassed and harrowed as much as she in her peculiar circumstance.

The peculiar circumstance was that there was a particular person, who ever since Marion Joyce could remember, had been in her way. Not that there had been ever the slightest degree of conflict between Marion Joyce and this unconscious party to her discontent. They had grown up in the same town together, they had attended the same schools and occasionally had met socially. But from her earliest memories of Alice Laidlaw, there had been something about this attractive, vigorous personality, that had set to gnawing within Marion, dull pangs of jealousy and resentments.

It is true that in a way Alice Laidlaw had always been a leader, yet Marion, in her way, had by no means been an inconspicuous or incompetent student or member of the social life of her community. While their paths had crossed only casually, each of these girls, Marion Joyce and Alice Laidlaw, had been endowed with the gifts of personality and charm.

Of the two, Alice Laidlaw had more of the quality of aggressiveness which makes for general popularity. She was president of school and social organizations, where under the same circumstances Marion would only have been an active and respective member. Alice Laidlaw had an executive capacity for running things. Even when she was sixteen and in high school, she had been a potential club woman. She was then already a frequent feature in the newspapers, president of a literary society, member of a debating team, leader of a conspicuous student rebellion against faculty restrictions.

That was probably where the shoe pinched Marion. Although she would never admit it even to herself, it must have been, that incorporated in the capable and intelligent figure of her colleague Alice Laidlaw, Marion beheld qualities that she herself yearned to possess. That was why, again without even admitting it to herself, Alice Laidlaw was in Marion's way. Every conquest of the Laidlaw girl was another to Marion. Without even her nearest and dearest friends suspecting it, Alice's election to this and that presidency, her graduation with honors, her subsequent prominence as a club woman, political woman, social worker, world traveler, were actually elements in making Marion Joyce's life, even after she was married to the man of her choice, Fred Markus, one of ranking disappointments.

Curious how seldom the paths of these two women crossed, and yet come to think of it, by no means inexplicable. It was doubtless due to the fact that Marion could not bear to look upon the attainments and achievements of this girl who had always walked in paths that Marion yearned to tread.

To pick up the evening paper and find Alice Laidlaw's photograph confronting her, was sufficient to spoil her dinner, and make her querulous with Fred. And with a dogged kind of perversity, it seemed to Marion that the successes of Alice Laidlaw took pains to thrust themselves under her very nose. A chance newspaper dropped in a public place would fall in a position to reveal a photograph of Alice Laidlaw to Marion. With frequency that seemed to Marion almost psychic, scraps of conversation which she overheard in theaters or in public conveyances, were as often as not, about Alice Laidlaw, her brilliancy, her success, her prominence. Seldom, if ever, was it Marion's good fortune to hear a slur or word or behold a slur or word of Alice, and then, even when that happened, it only seemed to enhance her position among the great.

Unimportant people had no enemies. Fred Markus, who loved his wife, had no even the slightest inkling of this cancer at her soul. If there were in her makeup certain human delinquencies, certain shortcomings, it seemed to Fred that she had fewer of them than the run-of-the-mill of wives, and it never occurred to him that even these few delinquencies in the woman he loved, such as her occasional irritability, were due to the subconscious fact that a woman named Alice Laidlaw was in her way.

To Fred Markus, Alice Laidlaw was just a local woman of prominence. He had met her a few times and had even discussed her upon occasion with his wife, admiring her accomplishment without knowing that he was turning a knife in the heart of Marion.

There was to come a lull in this chronic soul-burn of Marion's. The papers came out one day blaring the fact that Alice Laidlaw was to take up residence abroad for a period of five years where she was to study certain sociological conditions in the various capitals of Europe. There was a great hullabaloo over this enterprise, functions, entertainments, farewells, were staged in honor of the departing celebrity, and no prophet in her own country ever departed with more adulation than the local favorite, Miss Alice Laidlaw.

During the next five years word of Alice's accomplishments in foreign lands; tidings of her presentation at this and that court, and of her manner of projecting her home city into international prominence came floating back. But there was something in distance that seemed to ease the hurt in the heart of Marion. Besides in that period of five years, three children were born to the Fred Markuses, a new home had been planned and built, and the affairs of life had flowed in busily and happily. It was not that Marion forgot; it was not that her curious capacity to stumble across evidences of the success of Alice Laidlaw had in any way diminished, it was simply that distance had dimmed the picture and time had mitigated it.

Also, in that interval, even with the birth of her babies, Marion had tried to keep up contacts. She was member of several women's clubs, and while never an executive, her standing locally was that of an able woman. She was a member of important organizations, of the mayor's reception committee and had created in her home the air of culture and camaraderie that made it a focal point for social gatherings of distinction.

Ironically enough, the most important event in which Marion was called upon to participate as member of the mayor's reception committee was the return of Alice Laidlaw after an absence of five years.

It seemed to Marion that this was the straw that broke the camel's back. Nothing in the world could save her from the ordeal of standing in line to welcome back into the fold the triumphant figure of the returning native except the plea of illness. And despising herself, hating herself, bearing herself, Marion remained at home on the day of Miss Laidlaw's arrival on that very plea.

It was more than she could endure to behold this woman who had succeeded in walking the paths she yearned to walk, return in triumph.

Triumph it was.

For two weeks after her return, the local newspapers carried stories of this or that opinion, exploit or happening connected with Alice Laidlaw. While sitting in the railroad station one day waiting for the return of her husband Fred, who had been away on a business trip, Marion's eyes, with its usual cruel capacity for overlooking no printed word that had to do with Alice Laidlaw, lit on an article in a newspaper held by the man in front of her on the waiting-room bench. Sitting there with her fingers clinched, as always under such circumstances, Marion flagged herself by reading the article from top to end.

It was a feature story in which Alice Laidlaw related to a woman reporter her idea of an "ideal woman." How could Marion refrain from reading such an article? What was Alice Laidlaw's idea of an "ideal woman"—Alice Laidlaw, who was herself an ideal woman to so many others, Alice Laidlaw, who had always been a leader since her earliest school days, who was the subject of so many conversations, who had won international prominence and for whom every body worthwhile in the whole town turned out to welcome home?

Marion read on excitedly. The "ideal woman" was a mother and a home-keeper; she was intelligently interested in civic affairs, but to her, home affairs came first; she had not one child, but several; her home was the focal point for social gatherings of distinction.

At the conclusion of the article, Alice Laidlaw cited a local figure to typify a woman whose life, activities and characteristics embodied all the fine qualities that went to make up the ideal woman.

The figure whom she had chosen from the local community as her symbol was Marion.

Experts Lay Down Rules for Correct Breathing

If you are curious as to whether or not you breathe correctly, unbelieve, your belt and slip it up a few inches, halfway between waistline and bust line. Exhale and pull your belt in as tight as you can until you're empty as a pricked balloon. Now, take a whopper of a breath and see how many notches you can expand. It is here that chest expansion should be measured, instead of under the armpits, as your old gym teacher believed.

"Ordinarily breathing should be unconscious," says Dr. Eugene Lyman Flak, in Collier's Weekly, "but every-day deep-breathing exercises should be employed. People who are shut in all day may partly compensate for the evils of indoor living by stepping out of doors and taking a dozen deep breaths whenever the opportunity presents itself."

"Do your heavy breathing in the morning when you first wake up," says Helen Hayes. "Repeat it whenever you feel fatigued or nervousness creeping over you. It will also cure the insomnia that may attack you at night."

Men as a rule breathe more deeply than women. A man's diaphragm is placed lower than a woman's, which gives his chest more room; and his more active habits of life have made this muscle stronger. Women, with a few glowing exceptions such as athletes, actresses and singers, are shallow breathers. In the bustle and bustle of life in general, they are apt to neglect their diaphragms.

How Norway Lives

Inflated Moby Dicks in Tow.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

WHY did Norway make a counter claim with Denmark over a segment of the east coast of Greenland, a land once inhabited by Eskimos but now barren and ice choked most of the year? Perhaps the Norwegians seek to extend their fisheries, for a large part of Norway's population lives on the generosity of King Neptune.

Only a little more than 8 per cent of Norway is under cultivation. The country lacks the chief prerequisite of modern industrialism—the juxtaposition of iron and coal. The Norwegians, striving to the utmost, cannot eke out a living from the soil. They import much food. Nor can they depend, as does England, upon the exchange of the products of their factories for the products of other people's farms.

Even the skies frown often upon Norway. The west coast for a good part of the year is shrouded by a pall of mist, fog and drizzle, with 200 days of rain out of the year. The annual rainfall at Bergen is more than six feet. The country is traversed by a great dorsal plateau standing stark and high above sea level. In these rocky, sterile soils, useful plant life will not take root. A great wall of mountains known as the Keel defines the Swedish frontier.

Southernmost Norway is in the same latitude as northern Labrador, with northernmost Norway lying far within the Arctic circle. Norway is hardly more than a fringe, or shelf, washed by the Arctic and the North Atlantic oceans and deeply indented by water inland canals, known as fjords. For the most part, agriculture is limited to nooks and corners. Little farming clings to the base of mountains like shipwrecked sailors to a life raft. Sixty per cent of Norway's farms are less than five acres; 98 per cent are less than 25 acres.

Norway seems to be one of nature's climatic mistakes. Too much daylight in summer, too little in winter; too much worthless water here, too much sterile mountain there. But what the country may lack in quality is more than offset by the quality of the people who inhabit it. Norwegians are happier than the common run of mortals. They are essentially open-air country people, knowing nothing of the misery and abject poverty of city slums and tenements. They have learned to live comfortably with themselves, having a wealth of inner resources on which to draw. They go down to the sea in ships and see the earth and the fullness thereof. Before them lies the panorama of mountains, glaciers, cloud racks floating through the lofty desiles of their fjords.

They know the world, too, from the inside of books. They are a bookish people, prizing education. Illiterates are about as plentiful in Norway as horned toads on Boston common. When it comes to exchange of intelligence, Norway has more telephones than Spain or Poland, with populations from seven to ten times as great.

Its Face and Character.

Each country, like each human being on this planet, has a face and character of its own. Chile, another elongated mountainous coast country fronting the western sea, in a considerable area of its homeland is parched and rainless, while Norway is drenched with moisture. Greece and Italy suffer from too much sun, while Norway hasn't enough to go around. Greece, Albania, Portugal, Rumania, and Norway are the only European countries which grow no sugar beets—too much sun in the Mediterranean countries, too little in Norway. Contrast the lotteries basking in the winter's sunshine on the steps of the Plaza di Spagna, Rome, with the Norwegians clad in furs and oilskins adventuring over cold, gray, fog-covered waters. Italy and Norway from early antiquity bred a race of sea-rovers, adventurers, discoverers.

Norway and Greece, looking seaward, present the appearance of once compact lands that have been shot to pieces by titanic subterranean explosions. Their deeply indented coasts are fringed and tasseled with island groups. The sea is sown thick with fragments like celestial stars dust in the Milky Way. The islands of Greece furnish goats, currants, and material for poetic rhapsodizing.

The Norwegian coast is an exaggerated southern Alaskan coast. Shipping navigates big ships through Norwegian fjords just as they do through the deep-cut Alaskan inner canals.

The fjords, whether the result of glacial erosion or faulting of the earth's crust, are of awesome beauty and of considerable human utility.

Saved by Gulf Stream.

The warm Atlantic drift from the Gulf stream supplies Norway with both climate and fish. But for this beneficence of nature, Norway would be a bleak and inhospitable waste and most of the Norwegians would be compelled to emigrate or starve.

Fish, following family tradition, crowd into the shoal waters of the North sea to feed and breed. They've been doing it for thousands of years, and they'll probably keep on just so long as this poor earth's pale history runs. They return like the swallows in the spring.

Roughly speaking Norway has three strings to its fishing bow: cod, whale and herring; but the herring is king. Herring, because of their abundance, give rise to the greatest of the world's fisheries. They are as gregarious as the starlings which cluster by night in the tops of trees on Pennsylvania avenue, Washington. They run in immense schools, with some of their life cycle still shrouded in obscurity, although it is probably as well known as that of any other important fish.

Norwegian herring fisheries were famous before William the Conqueror. The Norwegian fish catch runs to about one and three-quarter billion pounds, of which approximately one billion pounds are contributed by the herring tribe. The live herring is something of a traveler, but the dead herring goes farther. What one may call a "pickled-herring-raw-cucumber-sour-cream belt" includes a better part of eastern Germany, Poland, the three Baltic states, Finland and Russia.

The Norwegian cod, unlike the herring, travels southward, rather than eastward. Cured codfish enjoys the esteem of all classes of society in southern Europe, particularly in the Catholic countries where meatless days are prescribed. Some years ago, when Norway was trying out prohibition, a serious effort was made to exclude the importation of the more heady Scotch and Portuguese wines. The Iberians naturally resented the affront to their delicious wines and threatened reprisals upon the Norwegian codfish. The anti-codfish campaign was too much for the Norwegians. They capitulated by throwing open their doors to Mediterranean wines.

Development of Fisheries.

Norwegian fisheries have developed from small beginnings, when little wooden boats put out a mile or two from the shore scrambling for a meager catch of herring. Now great steel power boats make catches of 10,000 barrels of fish in a day. Once estimated by the pound, the catch is now estimated by the ton.

Norway has come largely to control the world's whaling industry, once a great American business, with Yankee ships sailing from New England ports. About the turn of the century it looked as if the whaling business the world over was doomed to early extinction. Defenseless monsters, the poor whales do not get an even break! Nature ironically dooms them by causing them to signal their own destruction. If whales were equipped to remain beneath the surface even as long as the modern submarine, they would be more than a match for the energetic Norwegians, with their big steel ships and long-range harpoon guns.

Norway's annual production of whale all rose from 300,000 pounds in 1898 to 311,000,000 pounds in 1927. The Norwegian annual herring catch would load a solid train of steel gondola cars—reaching from New York to Philadelphia, or, if converted to Norwegian cars, a solid train 300 miles long. It would require at least double these train lengths to handle the annual catch of whales.

The Norwegians are the northernmost and the southernmost workers of the world. Their operations cover a wider range than the flight of the Arctic tern. Annually 10,000 Norwegians work in Antarctic seas close up to the great ice barrier. Just as many work in the Arctic seas on the outskirts of the polar cap.

Norway's climatic eccentricities bear an intimate relation to Norwegian agriculture. In Norway farming within the Arctic circle is by no means a desperate enterprise. As the snows retire, vegetation is quickened by long days of sunlight. Even dairy farming prospers within the Arctic circle, despite the accepted notion that only reindeer thrive in these latitudes.

Improved Uniform International
Sunday School
'Lesson'(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931 Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 11

PAUL IN PHILIPPI

GOLDEN TEXT—Rejoice in the Lord always; and again I say, Rejoice.
LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:16-40; Phil. 4:4-9.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in Prison.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in Prison.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Jailer Led Captive.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Initial Victories in Europe.

I. Paul and Silas in Jail (vv. 16-20).

1. The occasion (vv. 16-24). As the missionaries went out from day to day to the place of prayer they were accosted by a young woman possessed by a spirit of divination. She was owned by a syndicate of men who derived large gain from her soothsaying. Her utterances as she followed the missionaries became a great annoyance to Paul who in the name of Jesus Christ commanded the evil spirit to come out of her. The evil spirit immediately obeyed Paul's command. When the demon was cast out the supernatural power of the maid was gone. Therefore, the source of revenue was at an end, and this so exasperated her owners that they brought Paul and Silas before the magistrates on a false charge.

Without any opportunity to defend themselves, Paul and Silas were stripped and beaten by the angry mob and then remanded to jail where they were made fast by stocks.

2. Their behavior in jail (v. 25). They prayed and sang hymns to God. It seems quite natural that they should pray under such circumstances, but to sing hymns is astonishing to all who have not come into the possession of the grace of God in Jesus Christ. Even with their backs lacerated and smarting, with their feet fast in the stocks, compelling the most painful attitude in the dungeon darkness of the inner prison with extreme uncertainty before them, their hearts went up to God in gratitude.

3. Their deliverance (v. 26). The Lord wrought deliverance by sending a great earthquake which opened the prison doors and removed the chains from off their hands. The earthquake cannot be explained on natural grounds. Earthquakes do not throw bolted doors open and unclasp fetters from men's hands.

II. The Conversion of the Jailer (vv. 27-34).

The jailer's sympathy did not go out very far for the prisoners, for as soon as they were made secure he went to sleep. Being suddenly aroused from slumber by the earthquake, he was about to kill himself, whereupon Paul assured him that the prisoners were all safe. What he had heard of their preaching, and now what he experienced caused him to come as a humble inquirer after salvation. He was convicted of sin and felt the need of a Savior. Paul clearly pointed out the way to be saved. He said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ." The word "believe" means "to trust and fully obey." The following facts prove that the jailer was saved:

1. Transformation from brutality to tenderness (v. 33). He who a little while ago could with impunity lay on the cruel lashes is now disposed to dress the wounds of the prisoners.

2. Confession of Christ in baptism (v. 33). Those who have experienced the saving grace of God are willing to confess their faith in Christ under all circumstances.

3. He set meat before them (v. 34).

4. His whole household was baptized (v. 33). When a man's family is willing to follow him, you may be sure that his conversion is genuine.

III. The Magistrates Humbled (vv. 35-40).

1. The prisoners ordered released (vv. 35, 36). The earthquake brought fear upon the magistrates and thus moved them to release the prisoners.

2. Paul's refusal to go (v. 37). The ground of his refusal was that their rights as Roman citizens had been violated. They demanded public vindication. The magistrates were guilty of serious offense. Paul was willing to suffer for Christ's sake, but he used the occasion to show them that persecuting men who preached the gospel was an offense against the law of God.

3. He right out of prison by the officers (vv. 38, 39).

4. Returned to the house of Lydia (v. 40). Upon their public vindication, Paul and Silas left the prison and entered the house of Lydia. After ministering comfort to the brethren, they took their departure.

IV. Always Rejoicing (Phil. 4:4-9). The presence of the Lord Jesus Christ gives such peace that singing God's praises is possible even in prison.

The Pastor Says: Never tell a young person that anything cannot be done. God may have been waiting for centuries for somebody ignorant enough of the impossible to do that thing.—John Andrew Holmes.

Read Your Bible: Read your Bible, make it the first morning business of your life to understand some portion of it clearly, and your daily business to obey it in all that you do understand.—Huskin.

LIFE'S LITTLE
JESTS(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931 Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 11

PAUL IN PHILIPPI

HOT

Since the news story appeared in the Los Angeles papers about some poetess being married to the sun with elaborate ceremonies, the city has had to stand a lot of kidding in the eastern papers. The laugh is sure on Los Angeles. One of the best of the eastern comments reads this way:

"With elaborate ceremony, a poetess in Los Angeles married the sun. We can almost hear the wise-cracker in the back row whispering: 'She won't have to worry about him staying out nights.'"

Real Calamity

The man entered a cigar store, bought a cigar and left. Five minutes later he dashed back.

The Man (shouting)—That cigar is simply awful!

Storekeeper (calmly)—It's all very well for you to complain, you've only got one; I've got hundreds of the darn things.—Chelsea Record.

GLUTTONY

"He's in the food business you say?"

"Yep—does nothing but eat."

Looking Back

"Thomas," began the teacher, "I suppose you have seen airplanes flying overhead?"

"Of course," replied the boy. "I had a ride in one last summer."

"Did you enjoy it?" inquired the school m'am.

"Sure I did," said the little fellow, "especially after I got down again."

WOULD COMPROMISE

"Pa, you must get me a car to go round in."

"Wouldn't a nice street dress do for the present, my dear?"

Hypothetical

Two city children were visiting on their uncle's farm. Seeing a newly laid egg in one of the nests, one child said:

"I wonder how the old hen gets the shell on."

"I guess she lays the egg first and then plasters it," returned the other child.

Dangerous Topic

"Why don't you speak to the landlord about the roof?"

"He might begin to speak about the rent."

Summer School

"Professor, it must be difficult to mark these examination papers."

"Especially the ones you can't read."

Etiquette Is Etiquette

Little Elsie wandered into her brother's room unbidden and unasked. Johnny, aged four, was getting into his play suit.

"Hey," he cried, "get out! Can't you see I'm disrobed?"

Great Fun

Jackie—Teddy is happy now.

Grandpa—What is he playin' at?

Jackie—Dentist. I gave him grandpa's false teeth and the tongue.—Berlin Lustige Blätter.

Overdone

"You seem to be no lover of music although you have four musical daughters."

"If you had four musical daughters you would be no lover of music."—Karikaturen (Oslo).

Very Little Needed

Brown—"Doesn't take much to turn a woman's head, you know."

Friend—You're right. That one just turned and looked at you.—Stray Stories.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains of Abraham

By
James Oliver Curwood

© by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc.
WNU Service.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

"They see the place is deserted, and unless they find some sign of us, they won't come nearer," he said. "Look, Toinette! There is a white man among them with a prisoner's collar around his neck."

His words were cut short by a sudden movement among the watchers, as if a command had stirred them to life again. The man in the lead, with three eagle feathers in his tuft, stalked slowly into the clearing, a tall and slender figure burdened only with his weapons and a warrior's diminutive traveling pack—a giant who was red and black and ochreous yellow in his war paint, and at whose belt hung a bundle of scalp in which the sun played and danced with changing lights as he moved. Toinette closed her eyes that she might shut from her vision the grisly trophies of a warrior's success. When she opened them again, two more warriors in single file were following in the footsteps of the leader and passed within a hundred feet of what once had been Lussan's home, casting furtive sideways glances, as they went. In more than one hot, fresh scalp shone in the sunshine, and two white men and a boy with their hands tied and prisoner things about their throats walked in the line.

Not until the trees on the other side of the clearing had swallowed the last of the Mohawks did Toinette's straining eyes turn to Jeems. There had been no sound in the passing of the red scourge, no cautious voice, no clatter of wood on steel, no crackle of brittle grass or weeds under four-score moccasined feet. Where their tracks lay in the grass, one might have thought that three men had traveled fringed of furs, and the world was dead behind them. Crows did not return to the meadow, and the blue jays had flown into safer distance. The woodpecker had gone to a farther stub. Even in the old house there was no longer the scurrying and squeaking of mice—no sound but the tumultuous throbbing of three hearts, two of them human and one a beast's.

It was then Jeems spoke. "I swear there was a white man—a free white man—in that painted crowd, and long hair was hanging from his belt," he said. "I saw his blond head and lighter skin, but thought my eyes were lying to me," replied Toinette. "An Englishman," said Jeems. "A murderer for money such as my Uncle Hopelbah told me about."

"And yet—he might be French." They stood looking into each other's eyes, she of the aristocracy of Old France and he of the New world's freedom, and her hands rose slowly to his face as his bow and arrow fell to the floor. For the first time she raised her mouth to his.

"Kiss me, Jeems—and pray a little with me in gratitude for the mercy God has shown us!"

The thrill of her lips lay for a moment against his.

"I am sorry for everything in the world," she said. "Some of the softness and beauty of boyhood returned into his face as she drew herself from his arms and he descended the creaking stair ahead of her."

They did not go out at once, but stood near the lower door, listening for sound and watching for something to move.

"They are gone," Jeems finally said. "But there may be stragglers behind, and it is safer not to show ourselves too soon."

It was easier for them to talk after this. Quite calmly, as if looking back on a distant thing, Toinette told Jeems of the tragedy of Tontour manor. Her mother, he learned, had left for Quebec two days preceding the coming of the Indians. Toinette expressed her thankfulness because of this, but no great gladness was in her voice. She could not remember in vivid details all that had happened. It had been so sudden and so overwhelming, like a stream of fire engulfing a black night. Peter Lubek was with Deskau, and Heloise, his young wife, had come to stay with her. Both were asleep when the savages attacked in the early morning, and she was of the opinion that part of the killing was over before they were fairly awake—and before any guns were fired. Then came shots and her father's voice roaring through the big house. They were out of their bed when the seigneur came in and told them to dress and keep to their room. She did not know what had happened until she looked out of her window, and then she saw what seemed to be hundreds of naked savages running about. She rushed after her father, but he was gone. When she returned to her room, Heloise had disappeared and she did not see her again. She could hear screaming and terrible cries, and dressing hurriedly as her father had commanded, she disobeyed him by going downstairs, calling for him and for Heloise. The front part of the house was filled with flame and smoke, and when she turned to the servants' quarters she was cut off by fire and there was no response to her cries. It was then she thought of the mill which she had often heard her father say was impracticable against both fire and guns. She descended into the cellar—and went from it through a short underground passage to an outdoor caveau made of sod and stones, in which they kept fruit and vegetables during the winter. She hid herself in this earthy place, and then dared to raise the surface door a little. The worst must have been over, for she could see only a few Indians about, and everything was on fire. There was yelling in the distance where the savages were attacking the farmers' homes. When she ascended from the caveau, she stumbled over the body of old Babine, the miller, who had fallen with a musket in his hands. She took the musket and went to the mill, and after that she did not see an Indian about the seigneurie. Sickens overcame her, and she was half unconscious in the lower room. Later, looking through one of the narrow windows, she saw four men come from the south. She was sure they were white men, but was afraid to reveal herself because their appearance was so terrible. They were like monsters, remaining only a little while to look at the dead. Now, since she had seen the white warrior among the Mohawks, she was even more positive that they belonged to the war band and that she was fortunate to have kept herself concealed. When she found that Babine's musket was loaded, she regretted that she had not used it to kill one of the murderers. That was why, mistaking him for another stranger, she had fired at Jeems. One might have expected excitement in her narrative, but it was told quietly as she looked from Jeems across the clearing. It was a recital of fact without the embellishment of pathos or drama, and Jeems remained silent for a time when it was ended. Then he told of his visit to Lussan's and of his race home and what he found there. He spoke of Hopelbah. "He must have discovered the Mohawks on the far side of the valley and started the fire which he had always told me to expect. After that, he tried to reach us and they killed him."

Jeems Struck at His Enemy and Clutched His Slippery Throat.

"He may have escaped," suggested Toinette hopefully.

Jeems shook his head. "He would have come to us. He is dead."

His voice possessed the unemotional certainty with which she had referred to her father and Heloise. There was no possibility of his uncle being alive. He repeated that belief, and added that their salvation was little short of a miracle. But now, he thought, their way would be clear to friends further down the river. The Indians could not have gone many miles in that direction, for evidently they were hurrying back before Baron Deskau learned of their presence in the French country and set out forces to cut them off. It did not occur to Jeems that the baron and his men might have been defeated, as was true in that very hour.

He produced apples and a pair of purple-topped turnips from the provision pouch which he wore at his belt, and they ate these as they waited. Meanwhile, he told her what they must do. They would be forced to spend a night in the woods, but he was sure he could make a comfortable place for her.

He walked ahead instead of at her side when they began their journey. Jeems carried an arrow fixed to the string of his bow, and suddenly a twig caught it and it slipped from his fingers and fell to the ground. His fingers stooping to recover it when a terrified scream from Toinette brought him erect.

Not more than eight or ten paces from them stood a painted and half-naked savage whose intention had been to make his way toward the abandoned house. He was an appalling figure, and during the few seconds which they faced each other, Jeems recognized in him the white-skinned scalp hunter he and Toinette had seen with the Mohawks. At this discovery there shot through him a flash of relief, but a second glance showed him a fiend more dangerous than an Indian, one of the merciless butchers who hunted human hair for the price his own people had set upon it. A blue-eyed Indian! How often had he heard his uncle curse their breed! Beasts more cruel than tigers, demons set loose and paid by English money until their sport as well as their livelihood became an orgy of ambush, murder, rape, and fire! Here was one of them. The man was greased and painted, but he was white. His warlock was light and his eyes were small and blue. He carried a gun, a knife, and a hatchet, and at his belt was a woman's hair, and with it another scalp that must have been taken from the head of a child.

So quickly did Jeems see these things that the echoes of Toinette's scream had scarcely died away before their meaning pressed itself upon him. The savage possessed a moment of advantage, and as Jeems made a movement to whip an arrow from his quiver, the scalp hunter swung his gun to fire. Seeing the hopelessness of his position, Jeems sprang forward and buried his useless hand in his enemy. This and the impact of his body came at an instant when the other led the hammer of his flintlock fall, and with the explosion of the gun the lead from its barrel flew wild. The scalp hunter had seen only a boy and a girl, and a vision of easy victims had leapt to his mind. Now he found upon him an antagonist of unexpected strength and ferocity. In the first few seconds of the fray, neither had a chance to draw knife or tomahawk, and with all the pent-up madness of his body and brain Jeems struck at his enemy and clutched his slippery throat as they crashed to earth together. For a space Toinette's horrified eyes could scarcely tell which was one and which the other; and Odd, snarling white-fanged at their heels, was unable to become a partner in the conflict. Then, with a powerful effort, the scalp hunter freed himself and sprang to his feet, drawing his knife within his reach, for he now regarded the youth, who was on an instant with a hatchet in his hand, as his fiercest obstacle between himself and the pallid-faced loveliness of the girl whom chance had so fortunately placed in his way. This cry, disguised by guile and habit, betrayed only a trait of the white man. It was a natural exultation of one lost to all the obligations of blood and race, a cry loosed not so much by heat and passion as by the promise of what he saw as his eyes appraised Toinette.

Toinette had possessed herself of the empty gun and stood at Jeems' side, prepared to fight.

Jeems was so near that his arm pressed against her and he gave a sideways thrust which sent her headlong among the bushes. In this same movement he hurled his hatchet at the scalp hunter, who was slowly advancing. As the other dodged to avoid the hurtling missile Jeems snatched one of his scattered arrows from the ground and ran to his bow. Toinette saw what happened then. She saw the slim, beautiful figure of Jeems drawn as tautly as his weapon in the pathway. She saw the painted monster descending upon him. She heard the musical twang of the bowstring and saw a silvery flash—a flash which passed in at one side of the blue-eyed Indian and went out at the other, a flash which fell to earth a score of paces beyond, a bloody and broken arrow that had done its righteous work.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"Plagues" of Past Ages Practically Wiped Out

Leprosy became prevalent in the Dark Ages. The scourge of the "black death" inaugurated the quarantine; but civilization had discarded all the other disfigurements of the Dark Ages before it relieved itself from the recurrent visitations of epidemics which made their appearance throughout Europe in those centuries. As late as 1798 smallpox was as common as measles, and little more than a century ago cholera claimed one in every hundred of New York's population. In 1875 yellow fever was epidemic in 10 states, which was half of them. It has been only since Louis Pasteur's experiments between 1887 and 1888 laid the foundation for the isolation of germs and the development of antitoxins that specific treatment has been possible. Patient observation has followed research in tracing the causes of epidemics to their sources. In this brief span of a few generations many historic plagues have become words of vague meaning; and yet, they unquestionably would be more rampant in this age of travel and commerce than they ever were before but for the vigilant and effective public health agencies on guard everywhere.

Hula Costume
To make a real hula costume it requires from 40 to 80 ft plant leaves, depending on the size of the dancer. It takes approximately three hours to weave a skirt, the life of which is three days.

Buttermilk's Food Value
Buttermilk has about the same food value as skimmed milk, nutritious and

Vogue for Light-Top Velvet Gowns

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT'S fashionable for frocks to go light at the top this season. Many of the smartest models both for daytime and evening wear carry this message. The idea of contrasting a dark dress with a light top is a gesture of the mode which is running the gamut of expression in that designers are playing it up in every key and color.

For sports, school and general about-town frocks the scheme is carried out very simply yet very strikingly. The ensemble which includes a dress with a white or bright yoke and sleeves together with a jacket of the darker material is about as practical and attractive a costume as a woman can wear during the early autumn days.

Just now, owing to the enthusiasm shown for lightweight wooleens many of the smartest frocks are fashioned of brown, green, wine-colored or navy sheer wool crepe with yokes, sleeves and trimming touches of novelty wool weaves, perhaps embroidered effects or lace stripes and plaids, for the new wooleens are perfect marvels when it comes to novelty and color combinations.

As to the more formal afternoon and evening gowns there is no end to the charming things which are being done with velvet together with lace and glittering sheer tops. A fashion which is acclaimed as outstanding is the costume which is made of velvet in two or more colors—black velvet with a top of white or bright velvet or perhaps dark brown with an orange velvet yoke and other equally as delectable color combinations.

A stunning example of this type is shown to the right in the picture. This very chic bridge costume (it is also suitable for dining and the theater) is fashioned of black transparent velvet for the lower portion with sheer and colored velvet for the blouse top. The hat is of black velvet faced with beech-sand grosgrain.

The enthusiasm for velvet used in color combinations is reflected in the newest scarfs which are often made of sheerest possible velvet, in such striking effects as bright green with brown or rust color with navy or black with white as the case may be. A fetching note is the dark velvet dress which has a scarflike arrangement of light-colored velvet, such as a very decorative light green velvet bow with long graceful streamers ends the same posed on one shoulder.

An adorable formal is illustrated to the left. This beautiful black velvet gown sounds the glittering note in its pointed bodice top which is of white chiffon, the same exquisitely embroidered with sequins and pearls. The program of evening fashions is largely a matter of frocks of this type which are enhanced either with lovely lace or intriguing embroidered effects on sheer backgrounds.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

SEASON OF HIGH COLOR PROMISED

There is a great deal of color in Paris. The amount of color prevailing in French fashion collections is watched with much interest. Most of it shows the influence of the French Colonial exposition.

The lighting and setting of the exposition is superb, and the reds and browns shown in the Paris fall collections are replicas of the roofs, the cornices and lacquered pillars of the Madagascar and Indo-China buildings and the many shades of white are Tunisian, Moroccan and Martinique in feeling. One of the buildings in its verdigris green certainly has furnished a handsome color motif for French designers.

There are also pastels like the pinks, blues, yellows and greens seen in the fountains at the exposition. Generally speaking, colors most in evidence in the new style showings emphasize geranium, many browns, from beige to nigger, emerald green, soft greens, considerable red and wine tones, also yellow and orange. There is much black and white. Gray is also in high fashion as it combines with brown or black. Aubergine is a favorite shade, being one of the deep purple caste—highly regarded. Ombre effects in velvet are introduced by violet for gowns and wraps.

Black, brown, gray and blue, also dark green, prevail for street clothes.

Feathers Used to Trim Gowns in Fall Offerings

Fine feathers for fine ladies seem to be the edict of the style world. In addition to the many feather-trimmed hats, Paris is now producing gowns trimmed with coque feathers and ostrich tips.

Ostrich tips are used in the V-neck lines of frocks as a frame for the face, while the coque feathers are used at the hem of short capes and jackets worn in the evening.

Red in All Shades
Red is the most talked-of color for fall. The shades vary all the way from brick to dark carmine, including geranium, magenta and bordeaux. A rich wine red promises to be the most fashionable tint.

Beret of Velvet Ribbon

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

In the early Paris millinery collections felt was in the lead, but later showings are reacting in favor of velvet. Many smart berets are made entirely of velvet ribbon. The model illustrated is a likable fashion for the schoolgirl. The original is in beige and brown, but it would be as effective in any of the new color combinations.

House Jackets Appear in Sports Wear Guise

Bright-colored coats resembling old-fashioned house jackets are a new wrinkle for Paris sports wear. They consist of a short straight piece across the back, reaching just below the shoulder blades and attached to long sleeves. The coats, worn over white sports frocks, are made of bright lightweight wool banded at the wrist in different colors.

Tight Undersleeves in Contrasting Colors

Vestees and tight undersleeves of contrasting light color are smart new notes on early frocks. Black marocain and roman frocks are designed with white crepe de chine lace-trimmed vestees and tight white sleeves reaching to the elbow to meet the daring black upper sleeves.

3 million WOMEN USE THIS FACE POWDER

Why Pay More? World's largest seller at 25c

Plough's FAVORITE ROUQUET FACE POWDER

Sorry They Waited
They had waited until the last night of opera to go and see "Aida," thinking that perhaps that would be the most thrilling night of all. Just at the close of the first act, she turned to him with a start. "My goodness!" she cried. "I just remembered that I left the hot-water heater on. We've got to go right home!"

They made a hurried exit. Next year they're going to see that they buy tickets for the opening night.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Twins Long Teachers
Dr. Anne Linton and Dr. Eliza-beth Linton, Philadelphia twins, were recently both retired from the mathematics department of the West Philadelphia high school, after 41 years of uninterrupted teaching. The twins have lived, studied and taught side by side for 62 years. Their features are also remarkably alike.

AND YOU SAY THIS NEW KIND OF SOAP SAVES SCRUBBING? TELL ME MORE ABOUT IT, LAURA! YOU KNOW HOW I'VE ALWAYS HATED WASHBOARDS

"This easy way gets clothes whiter"
Laura tells her friend

"It's a real short-cut way to do the wash. Just soak everything in thick Rinsol—and forget about scrubbing. You don't even need to boil. Clothes soak so white, you'll hardly believe your eyes! All you need to do is rinse."

Easy on clothes
The scrubbish Rinsol way saves the clothes. Spares the hands, too. And Rinsol is a real thick soap, cup for cup, it gives just as much suds as lightweight pulled-up soaps. Live, lasting suds—even in hardest water.

Great in washers, too. The makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinsol. And nothing like it for dish-washing—few dishes—few dishes. Get the BIG package.

MILLIONS USE RINSOL in tub, washer and dishpan

Suspicious
Mrs. Jones—And my husband wants some steel wool.
Clark—This is the best we have, ma'am.
Mrs. Jones (skeptically)—You're sure there's no cotton in it?

A walking encyclopedia is nice to have around if he will only answer questions.

Forty years old But looks 20

Mrs. Johnson has lived in her town for forty years. Everybody knows how old she is. But everybody still calls her "young Mrs. Johnson." For "yep" and interest in life, she can't be beat! How does she do it? What is her secret of beauty and health? Nothing else but that fine old tonic, Fellow's Syrup, whose valuable iron and salts doctors have prescribed for years. Mrs. Johnson takes Fellow's Syrup regularly. She knows that beauty is an outward sign of internal health. Take a tip from her and visit your drug-gist today. Ask him for Fellow's Syrup. Take a few doses and notice how much better—how much younger—you feel!

FELLOWS' SYRUP

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God." 1 Cor. 1: 18.

Do you realize that your attendance at the House of God is of most vital importance to you and to all who are watching your life? You cannot grow spiritually and neglect the worship of God. Neither can your influence upon others direct them Godward if you are careless in these matters.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Morning Message 10:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
Children's Service at 7:15 P. M.
Message by Rev. V. Odell Harrold at 7:45 P. M.
V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
Evening Service 7:00.
Ladies Aid and Missionary Thursday afternoon at the home of Geo. Simanton.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.
Creif Service 10:30.
G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurni, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3552
Notice is hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Clara A. Meek deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 10th day of October, 1931, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares. Witness, My name, this 11th day of September, 1931.

SHERMAN T. MEEK,

Administrator.

Atkinson & Husselman,

Attorneys. 3713

NOTICE OF ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATION FOR 1931

Notice is hereby given the taxpayers of Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place on the 14th day of October, 1931, will consider the following additional appropriations

We Do
STATIONERY
PRINTING
OR
HAMMERMILL
BOND

for the year 1931.
Township Fund to Fund No. 4, $125.00.
Road Fund to Fund No. 15, $350.00.
Special School Fund to Fund No. 22, $475.00.
Special School Fund to Fund No. 28, $50.00.
Special School Fund to Fund No. 29, $50.00.
Special School Fund to Fund No. 34, $25.00.
Library Fund, $125.00.
Taxpayers appearing shall have a right to be heard thereon. Dated September 26, 1931.

F. E. RHODES, Trustee.

LUTHERAN RALLY DAY OBSERVANCE

Rally Day was observed at the Harvest Home service. Canned food was collected which will be used in the benevolent program of the church. Special musical numbers were furnished by the choir, Joe Woodcox, Miss Gladys Dressel and Mrs. Wm. Staman accompanied by Mrs. Frank Curie. Four members gave short talks and other members read paragraphs based on the observation of nature which were commented upon by the pastor so that they pointed out the growth of the Kingdom of God in the heart of the individual.

A new series of graded lessons, entitled "The Christian Life Course," has been introduced in the Primary and Children's Department of the school.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Spencerville M. E. ... 108—

Favorite Bible Passages

Clyde M. Reed
Governor of Kansas.

Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets. Matthew 7:12.

Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.—Matthew 7:3.

The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want.—Psalm 23:1.

Comments: You may search the pages of the Old and New Testaments and you will find nothing comparable in hope, comfort and wisdom, with the Twenty-third Psalm and Christ's Sermon on the Mount. These have inspired mankind in life and have comforted and consoled in the hour of death. No other chapter in the Bible has been committed to memory by so many people as the Twenty-third Psalm. The Lord's Prayer, a part of Christ's sermon on the mount, has been lisped by countless millions. It was taught to us by our mothers in childhood. We have repeated it times innumerable. It is an supplication that all humanity invokes. It is the world's expression of gratitude and divine blessing. It is the anchor of our hope in the Kingdom God has promised his children. (Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

HORSE SENSE

Many spring pigs still are at home, and haven't gone to market as their early farrowed or better fed relatives. If you still have them on hand, keep them coming along with two bushels of wheat and one bushel of oats coarsely ground, with a pound of tankage for each 12 to 15 pounds of grain mixture.

No beautiful picture is a mere collection of interesting objects—it is built upon a carefully studied plan.

Ten to fifteen tons of manure on an acre during the fall will make an ideal place to set the raspberry or blackberry patch next spring, the best time to put out these plants.

In setting out raspberries and blackberries, do so as early in the spring as the ground can be prepared and plants obtained. The crown of the plant should be 4 to 5 inches below the level of the soil. Too shallow planting means a short-lived patch. Frequent, shallow cultivating also helps lengthen its life.

The new Iatham red raspberry is a promising market variety for fertile soils, and the new Logan black raspberry ripens about a week earlier than the Cumberland, indicating that it may be a profitable variety for early market.

CORN SILAGE PROFITABLE IN LAMB FEEDING

(By Dr. John M. Evvard)

Good corn silage is an excellent roughage for fattening lambs. When properly fed, a ton of silage has a value of at least 800 to 1000 pounds of legume hay. Experiments by Professor King and associates at the Indiana Station, and also others, show that a high yielding corn silage rich in corn grain is worth one-half as much per ton as high protein hays.

It is always wise and profitable in the feeding of silage and farm grains to lambs to give them alfalfa, clover, or soy bean hay once a day, allowing same in the bunks overnight.

A small allowance of supplement, such as linseed oil meal, cottonseed meal, or an acceptable high-protein "superior variety" blend; about one-tenth pound per lamb daily of a supplement, running 30% protein or better, is about right.

Bear in mind that coarsely ground corn and cob meal is a safer feed for full feeding with the ration outlined herein above than straight corn or wheat grain. The bulky cob meal prevents overeating, thus it reduces, greatly, the lamb losses; hence on Corn Belt farms corn and cob meal is a real asset in lamb fattening yards.

SOUTH BEND MAN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

Leo W. Freese of South Bend came to his death accidentally. Coroner John R. Clark of Auburn reported Monday after conducting an inquest into a railroad crossing accident last Wednesday afternoon here.

The coroner found that the deceased, a construction superintendent for the Standard Oil Co., had been supervising the transfer of fuels from a number of tank trucks to the bulk plant at St. Joe.

He inquired the best way to go to South Bend and was told to go through St. Joe. He had parked his car about 75 feet from the railroad tracks and when he started to leave he was about 40 feet away from the railroad in a drive way.

Mr. Freese was too close to the tracks to see the crossing blinkers and he crossed ahead of two dead head engines west bound when struck by one of the engines.

When picked up, he lay about 25 feet from his car between the two tracks. He suffered a severe scalp wound, bruises about the back and a fractured skull. He was picked up by the workmen at the Standard Oil Station and carried off the tracks and the Kinsey ambulance rushed him to the Garrett hospital, where he died Friday morning.

The body was removed to the Miser funeral home at Albion and to the South Bend home on Saturday. The burial took place on Monday.

Russel R. Reidenour
Attorney
Auburn, Ind.

Opening Announcement

The Hurni Cash and Carry Store announces to the public that their new store is now open and ready for business, in the I. O. O. F. building. Only the very best in Staple and Fancy Groceries will be found on our shelves. Everything will be sold on a strict guarantee of satisfaction.

Fresh Fruits and Vegetables
We Will Cater to the Need of Our Trade

Hurni's Cash and Carry Store

I. O. O. F. Building ST. JOE, INDIANA Cash Buyer of Cream

Only one dime
... ten cents

—and Oh Boy!—wasn't it worth the price...?

When old circus time came around, wasn't it a "grand and glorious feeling?" What a kick you got out of it, and you knew it was worth the money.

But great though the value was, doesn't electricity give you at least as much? Just consider for a moment the pleasure, comfort and convenience which the electrical industry now offers you for 10c. The examples below are typical.

.... but where do you get more for your money than in buying Electric Service?

More than 24 hours
for 1c

More than 1/2 hour
for 1c

More than 3 hours
for 1c

INDIANA & MICHIGAN
ELECTRIC COMPANY

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DEKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1931

NUMBER 41

REPORT OF DAIRY HERD
STANDING FOR SEPTEMBER

Since the weather has become more favorable, the cows in the DeKalb-Stauben Dairy Herd, Improvement Association have increased in production.

Mr. Larry Brandon and Son had high herd for September, his 13 Jersey cows produced an average of 649 pounds of milk and 38.9 pounds of butterfat.

Mr. S. S. Butler had high cow for the month. His "Princess Mona" cow produced 801 pounds of milk and 70.5 pounds of butterfat. This pure bred Jersey cow is a high tester and a persistent milker.

Larry Brandon and Son had high two year old heifer for September. His Buttercup heifer produced 810 pounds milk and 42.9 pounds of butterfat.

There are 380 cows in the Association and 71 cows produced 30 pounds of butterfat monthly. 29 cows produced 40 pounds of butterfat monthly. 7 cows produced 50 pounds of butterfat monthly. 1 cow produced 60 pounds of butterfat monthly. 1 cow produced 70 pounds of butterfat monthly.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE
SCHEDULES FOR DEKALB

Four hundred and forty-one Farmers' Institute meetings are scheduled to be held over the state this coming winter, according to the schedule recently published by the Purdue University department of agricultural extension. Meetings will be held in every county in Indiana.

The schedule for DeKalb County is as follows:
Dec. 11. Cedar. B. F. Hawver, Chairman. H. R. Muller and Mrs. V. L. Huey.

Jan. 5. Butler. Geo. Blaker, Chairman. Mr. Prigg and Mrs. Ratcliffe.

Jan. 6. Ashley. Joe Clark, Chairman. Mr. Prigg and Mrs. Ratcliffe.

Jan. 7. Jackson Center. Roy Provines, Chairman. Mr. Prigg and Mrs. Ratcliffe.

Jan. 8. Corunna. Guy Orwig, Chairman. Mr. Prigg and Mrs. Ratcliffe.

Jan. 9. Gleaner Hall. Clara Bowman, Chairman. Mr. Prigg and Mrs. Ratcliffe.

Feb. 23. St. Joe. Joe Foltz, Chairman. Mr. Senour and Mrs. Guillian.

The speakers are all well known over the state having been in the Institute work for years. Prof. W. Q. Fitch of Purdue again will be in charge of the institutes of the state.

MRS. J. S. NELSON DIES

Mrs. J. S. Nelson, 78, widow of Rev. J. S. Nelson, former minister at the St. Joe Lutheran Church, died at 9:50 o'clock Wednesday evening at her home in Fort Wayne, following a long illness. Her husband died several years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Herbert Bell in Florida, and Mrs. Keith Chambers of Chicago. Mrs. Nelson was a member of the Third Presbyterian Church in Ft. Wayne.

SUNDAY SCHOOL
REPORTS

M. P. .... 57-52.87
Spencerville M. E. ... 68-53.92
Lutheran ..... 65-55.01

ALFRED HOGSTON, FIRE
MARSHAL ISSUES REPORT

Alfred Hogston, State Fire Marshal, has issued the annual report on the fires and fire losses for Indiana for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1931.

There were 6594 fires reported for this period, an increase of 12% over the number reported for the same period of 1929-1930. However, it is estimated that approximately 25% of all fires are never reported. The total fire loss is given at $8,102,677, a decrease of $1,563,122 or 16% below the previous year. The entire decrease in fire loss was made in towns and cities that had fire fighting equipment.

In cities of over 5,000 population there were 257 more fires than in the year previous, an increase of 7% in number, but the fire loss was $1,362,000 less or a 38% decrease.

In cities under 5,000 population there were 50 more fires than in the year previous, an increase of over 4% in number, but the fire loss was over $800,000 less, a decrease of over 41%.

In the country and small towns there were 441 more fires than the year before, an increase of 38%. The fire loss in these sections was $4,232,702, which was an increase of $606,876 or 16% over the year before. These were communities that had practically no fire fighting equipment and very little fire prevention activity or inspection.

Mr. Hogston said, "The fire loss problem is now more than ever a problem for the small towns and rural districts. Fire losses are mounting rapidly in these sections. The problem is getting to be as critical as the problem of taxation. It is coming to be staggering in burden and proportions. People in these sections must make effective local organizations to prevent fire and to fight it. They must be careful with matches, cigarettes and pipes around their barns. It behooves every one of them to keep their premises clean of rubbish and trash around their buildings and to keep their heating apparatus, their chimneys and house roofs in first class condition."

"And above all," he continued, "they must teach carefulness in the home and see that at least a little fire prevention is taught the children at school. It will pay big dividends, for the people pay all fire losses in the end."

IT'S THE SPIRIT THAT COUNTS

After all is said and done, there's only one thing that is responsible for the growth or decline of any community.

That is the spirit of the people. If the people are discouraged, blue, disheartened, pessimistic, growing, snarling, kicking, complaining, whining and weeping, the community is on the to-bogged and sliding backward.

If the people can smile through their tears, show their spunk, keep pegging away, keep cheerful, live within their means, appreciate one another, consider the future, have hope for better times, determine to "see it through" at any cost, that town is on the upgrade, and will get somewhere.

Two men looked at a worn-out farm. One man turned away, said it was hopeless. The other man said he'd try it. He bought it for a song, and everybody called him a fool. He smiled, and began studying soil culture. He read everything he could find on soil building. He came to be known as an expert on soils. He put his theories into practice, building back into his farm the fertility that had been taken from it. The result, now he has a farm that is the envy of the community.

What wrought the change? It was the spirit of the man. It was his determination that turned the trick.

Emerson said: "What a new face courage puts on everything. A determined man, by his very attitude and the tone of his voice, puts a stop to defeat and begins to conquer."

It's the spirit that counts.

WITH OUR CLUB
LADIES

The Ladies Literary Club held their regular meeting Wednesday evening, October 7 at the home of Mrs. DeLora Curie. The subject for discussion was the Bible and was conducted in an unusually interesting manner by Mrs. Jennie Sechler. It was discussed from several different viewpoints.

"The Women of the Bible" was brought to us in a very clever manner by Mrs. Grace Dilley, who associated each outstanding woman Bible character with some particular episode.

Miss Cleota Morr informed us delightfully that there was a great deal of "Music in the Bible," and that the Bible offered a means of inspiration to some of our most noted authors of hymns. As a result many beautiful hymns have come down to us through the ages.

Mrs. DeLora Curie gave an interesting account of the "Bible as Literature." The Bible is known to be the world's greatest piece of literature and has lived many years longer than any other form of writing.

Miss Martha Miser discussed the subject of "The Bible as a History." The Bible is the world's most accurate source of information on the history of the Hebrew race. Famous archaeologists have proven that events recorded in the Bible actually happened through their numerous excavations.

"The Poetry of the Bible" was reviewed by Miss Helen Dittmars, who showed the chief differences between Bible poetry and modern poetry. The books of the Bible written primarily in poetry include the Psalms, the Book of Job, Proverbs, Lamentations, and Ecclesiastes. The world's best poetry is found in the Bible.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Cora Curie conducted an interesting and thought stimulating contest on Bible characters. Responses to roll call were short verses from the Bible.

WIDOW FOUND DEAD
MONDAY MORNING

Mrs. Rose Meese, widow of the late Isaac Meese of St. Joe, was found dead in bed Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Grace Hutton, residing north of Auburn on the Auburn-Ashley road.

Coroner John R. Clark of Auburn, who was called to hold an inquest, gave cerebral hemorrhage and hardening of the arteries as the cause of death.

The body was removed from the Hutton home to St. Joe, the former residence of Mrs. Meese. Mrs. Meese was 71 years, 11 months and 1 day old and had always resided in St. Joe. Her husband died April 8th of this year.

Besides the daughter at whose home Mrs. Meese died, there survive two sons, Don of Davenport, Iowa, and Fred of Milwaukee, Wis.

The body was taken to the Kinsey funeral home at St. Joe to remain until the time of the funeral services, Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. J. N. Scholer, of St. Joe, will officiate and burial will take place in the St. Joe cemetery.

STATE HIGHWAY REVERSES THEIR DECISION

The numbers on the Auburn-Garrett-Fort Wayne road and the Auburn-Fort Wayne road were reversed again Friday.

Two weeks ago the numbers on the route by way of Garrett were changed from their original markings, No. 27, to No. 1 from Fort Wayne to a mile north of Garrett and No. 201 from that point to Auburn and the Tonkel road between Auburn and Ft. Wayne was given the number 27.

This change seems to be the result of a friendly call by a Garrett delegation, asking the commission to reconsider its order and the changing to its original marking resulted.

FRANK NELSON TO SPEAK AT
CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Father's and Son's Day will be observed at the Concord M. P. Church Sunday. The Fathers and Sons will have charge of the Sunday School service, after which Rev. Harrold will bring the morning message. A basket dinner will be served at the noon hour. Frank Carlton Nelson will recite a number of his own writings during the afternoon program, which will also consist of special music and readings.

Mrs. Harriett Sechler has gone to visit her sister, Mrs. James Lindemuth of Wolcottville for a couple of weeks.

MONTE GREEN RELEASED FROM JAIL ON BOND

Monte L. Green, sentenced to the Indiana state prison Thursday on a charge of embezzlement, was released from the county jail Saturday night on bond.

Sheriff John P. Hoff received a telephone message from the clerk of the state supreme court at 11 o'clock Saturday morning advising him that he should give the defendant his liberty on $1,000 bond that had been approved by the court.

The action of the supreme court was based upon a belief that there is probable cause for reversal of the jury's decision rendered three weeks ago. The jury held that the defendant had accepted deposits after he knew the Garrett Savings Loan and Trust Co., of which he was president, was insolvent. Rex S. Emerick of Kendallville, and Edgar W. Atkinson of Auburn, are asking for the reversal of the lower court on three points; failure of Judge Enid to grant a motion to quash the indictment and another motion in arrest of judgment; and admission as evidence in the trial a judgment of the circuit court holding the bank insolvent and appointing a receiver. The defendants contend his constitutional rights were thus invaded.

The sentence is two to fourteen years. A decision of the supreme court is not expected for at least a year, and the time may be much longer.

LAGRANGE SLAYER
TO DIE IN CHAIR

Herbert Johnson, aged 33, is to face death in the electric chair at the Indiana state penitentiary. Johnson's fate was announced to him late Monday night when Judge Clyde C. Carlin sentenced him to death after a jury in circuit court had found him guilty of the murder of Bert C. Frye, storekeeper at Seybert.

Judge Carlin set February 12 as the day on which Johnson must die.

Johnson will go to death in an electric chair he helped prepare for its victims. While a prisoner at the state prison at Michigan City on another charge, he relinquished the chair when the device was reconditioned by the state.

He later was paroled from the prison into the custody of Arthur Paulus, his brother in law, who lives near Howe.

HOLLABAUGH-RIDGWAY
MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Miss Janice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway of St. Joe, and Maurice, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hollabaugh of Spencerville, were married at the Lutheran parsonage by the Rev. Geo. D. Stoll, Saturday morning. At about 10 o'clock the young couple left for Detroit, where they spent over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Scriver, returning home Monday.

Both of these young folks are graduates of their respective high schools, besides the bride is a graduate of the International Business College at Fort Wayne. The groom for some time has been employed as distributor for the Tyndall Oil Co.

The young folks will live with the groom's parents north of Spencerville, until spring.

They have the best wishes of their many friends.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE
AFTER THIRTY-FOUR YEARS

A married life of thirty-four years is involved in the divorce suit filed in the DeKalb circuit court by Chas. A. Cochran of St. Joe, against Pearl Cochran.

The couple married April 18, 1897, and separated last April 1. The plaintiff says his wife has a violent temper and a quarrelsome disposition. They owned a restaurant at St. Joe and the defendant had exclusive charge. The plaintiff says she took all the proceeds herself and ordered him out. The plaintiff is a mail carrier and bus driver. He is represented by Attorney H. C. Springer.

Wm. Beam and family of Whitehouse, O., were Sunday visitors of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees.

10c Sale
OF TINWARE

Any Article Displayed in Our
West Window at This
Low Price

Every Article Useful

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture Undertaking

TOOTING YOUR HORN!

Asked by the Cop why he didn't blow his horn at the street crossing, the young chap replied: "Well, if I do, the girls will step out to the curb." Pretty CHESTY.

Still, in more ways than one, it pays to "toot your own horn." That's what WE are doing NOW. We have a good Bank and we want EVERYBODY to know it. We want more business, the stronger our bank becomes, the better we are enabled to serve the community. We invite YOUR account.

4 Percent
SAVING
The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK
4 Percent
SAVING

Come on Kiddies
GET IN ON PERFECTION'S
$1000.00
DRAWING
CONTEST

Think of it—$1000 in prizes $250 five prizes—all for a few minutes effort! It is a real opportunity for every school boy and girl up to 16 years of age. Go to your Grocers today—ask for the Perfection Outline Chart. Then tune in on WOWO, Fort Wayne, Tuesday and Friday noon 12:45 P. M. for further details.

ASK YOUR GROCER
FOR FULL DETAILS

SPECIAL SALE!
2 ONE POUND PACKAGES of P.W. CRACKERS
or
ONE POUND of P.W. CRACKERS and ONE POUND of ANY
OTHER PERFECTION
CRACKER for only
25¢
PERFECTION BISCUIT CO.
FORT WAYNE, IND.

Everything to Please Our Customers

Hurni's Cash and Carry Store

TELEPHONE 43

Groceries
Vegetables
Fresh Fruits
Canned Goods

WE WILL CATER TO THE NEEDS OF OUR TRADE

We Are CASH BUYERS of Cream

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Poor Children Put On Their Own Pet Show

Children from Philadelphia's East side held their own pet show with an entrance fee of one cent. Some of the exhibitors, with their entries, are shown above.

My Neighbor Says

When preserving plums, if you wish them to retain their shape and size, prick the skins in two or three places before you start cooking them.

Should an egg have been boiled too long it can be softened again by lifting the saucepan off the fire, quickly placing it under the faucet, and allowing a good stream of cold water to run onto it. The sudden shock of changing from hot to cold water has the curious effect of softening the egg.

Fish which contains few bones may be converted into filets by dividing the flesh from the back-bone in long, wide strips and then removing any smaller bones. Soles supply the best filets.

Water in which vegetables are boiled should always be saved, as it contains the most valuable minerals and vitamins. It may be used as stock in making soup.

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

Brotherhood

Together is the most inspiring word in the English language. Coming together means beginning, keeping together means progress, working together means success.—Edward Ev-

The Kitchen Cabinet

Wall Paper Cleaner.—Take one cupful of sifted flour, one tablespoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of coal oil, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of ammonia and one-half cupful of water. Mix in a small saucepan and cook until the mixture is evaporated, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and knead until smooth. Take a small piece, kneading and turning it to keep the outside clean, as the paper is rubbed with a downward stroke.

Field Mushrooms.—Gather the luscious morsels in the morning if possible, do not wash them—if carefully picked and handled they will need none. Peel the caps, remove the stems and cook them in butter by themselves, after cutting into bits. Roll the caps first, turn and put a teaspoonful of butter into each cap and finish cooking. Serve with the sauce prepared from the chopped mushrooms. Mushrooms are delicious served over well buttered and browned toast, as a luncheon dish.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Peaches From a Peach Queen

Pretty Miss Virginia Hallor, recently crowned Peach Queen of the great Michigan orchard, arrived in Washington by airplane with the first and finest specimens of the crop which she presented to President Hoover at the White House.

HOW IT STARTED To Have a "Confab"

If ever there is a line which seems rooted in slang and colloquialism of the day, "to have a confab" signifying to converse with intimately, would seem to be entitled to first honors.

Yet, interestingly enough, such a surmise would be far indeed from the fact. For, as you shall see in a moment, "confab" is rooted about as classically as could be.

To have a confab is simply an expression embodying an abbreviation of "confabulation" which in turn is derived from the Latin "confabulatio" having the same meaning as the word "confab" today.

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

Woman Runs 2 Homes; Hubbies Unsuspecting

Worcester, Mass.—For more than two months Mrs. Elsie Lavigne, forty, managed two homes without arousing the suspicions of either of her "husbands."

After twenty years as the wife of Henry Lavigne the woman, mother of a thirteen-year-old daughter, secretly married James L. Tully, cable repairman, last June.

She then told her two mates that she was taking up practical nursing, and thus was able to divide her time between her two homes.

One day, her real husband lost his job as a carpenter and, for the first time, became curious over his wife's work as a nurse. His investigation revealed Mrs. Lavigne's double life and resulted in her arrest on a bigamy charge.

Right in the Middle

The Children's Corner Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Greedy Island

In my Airplane to Greedy Isle,
I went one afternoon,
Tis many thousand miles away,
Afar beyond the moon;
And there I found the queerest tribe
Of boys and girls, I ween,
They really are quite different,
From any you have seen.

This country is most beautiful,
As fair as our own land;
The buildings tall and grand;
But all these funny children
In this isle I went to see,
Have eyes right in the very place,
Their "tummies" ought to be.

I noticed when their mothers called
For them to come to meals,
They answered—tumbling with a rush,
With greedy grunts and squeals;

They pushed and crowded right and left,
Each scrambling for a place,
And not one paused a moment,
Nor bowed his head for grace.

They never waited to be served,
When once they had a seat,
But reached for things, and without shame

Began at once to eat;
And not one used a knife nor fork,
But dived into his food,
With little fingers all unwashed,
I'm sure you'd think them rude.

And when they'd stuffed their little selves,
There yet would be upon their plates
Enough for three or four;
These greedy little children

Wanted all that they could see,
Because their eyes are in the place
Their "tummies" ought to be.

—Margaret Wheeler Ross.

An Indian Cut Out, Free Hand

The picture shows what you can do with a pair of scissors, great care and sharp eyes. Any plain white paper will do. See if you can copy the figures shown and make some just like them without using any pattern.

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

Pennsylvania Towns Put Curfew on Radio

Shamokin, Pa.—Councilmanic ordinance set 11 p. m. as the curfew hour for all radio sets within Shamokin borough.

At that hour all sets must be turned down so that they cannot be heard outside the house and all windows must be closed when the radio is playing.

Shamokin was not alone in seeking to place restrictions on radios playing late at night.

At Wilkes-Barre police announced that they would respond promptly to any complaint against excessively loud radios and would direct set owners to cut down the volume immediately.

Youth, 15, Survives Copperhead's Bite

Newburgh, N. Y.—Bitten by a copperhead snake while picking berries, Steve Cenack, fifteen, was saved from death by quick aid administered by local physicians and city health department officials.

After emergency treatment, the youth was hurried to a hospital, where health authorities administered a serum.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK by WALTER TRUMBULL

It was only a few short years ago that all of my friends and acquaintances were reading. Their favorite literature consisted of the ticker and the financial page. Now that Wall Street is as animated as the mummy of Rameses the Great, they have taken to writing. Jack Dempsey, for example, has written the story of his life by using Charles Francis Cox as a medium. One-eyed Connolly told me the other day that his autobiography was in a state of construction. On every hand, citizens of this fair land are rushing into print. If the next generation reads all the books which are being written by this generation, there will be no more wars. They will be too busy to fight.

One of the most amusing books I have read lately is Damon Runyon's "Guys and Dolls." Damon Runyon knows his Broadway. Moreover, he likes it. He has caught the life which lies between Times square and Columbus circle with an accurate and understanding typewriter. The short stories in this book have more than mere humor; they have both insight and sympathy. I know of no man today who could have written those stories except Damon Runyon. They are as full of color as Broadway itself. New York has changed since O. Henry christened it "Bagdad on the Hudson." "Guy and Dolls" is a strictly modern book. But there are stories in it that

O. Henry would have liked; that he would have been amply satisfied to write. I do not mean that any of them are an echo of any writer who has gone before. They are original and stand on their own merits. And, with me, some of them stand high. Here is the voice of Broadway recorded by an ear true for all of its nuances.

When Leopold Auer was in New York, a party was given for the master violinist which was attended by several of his pupils. Among the guests was a wealthy society woman, who was considerably impressed by the company. As those present separated into little conversational groups, she approached her host.

"Don't you think," she said, "that with so many famous musical stars present that it would be a good thing if you asked those two young men to stop tinkling on that piano?"

"Well," replied the host, "I feel just a little bit backward about interfering. You see those two are Jascha Heifetz and Efrem Zimbalist."

Roger Bacon, who has decorated most of the big houses at Palm Beach with Spanish and Moorish tile of the Fifteenth and Sixteenth century, has been visiting our city and telling me fish stories. He told me of a trip to islands of the Bahama group some 300 miles northeast of Nassau, where, in shallow water, his party caught forty bone fish in one day. Take it from Isaac Walton, that is a record.

Many a fisherman has spent a day trying to get one bone fish, which according to no less an angler than Dr. John Oliver La Gorce is about the gamest fish that swims.

Mr. Bacon also seriously told me a story of trolling with a Japanese feather for bait and of the feather being swallowed by a yellow tail, and the larger fish by a shark, all within a few moments. This is what I'd call fishing with a party line. I am told that Mr. Bacon once took a course in romantic literature at Wesleyan.

had returned practically empty handed. Mr. Fisher was willing that any of his guests should believe he had caught the fish while seated comfortably in a deck chair smoking a cigar. It later was discovered, however, that Mr. Fisher had offered the natives of Bimini five dollars per fish and that practically that entire island had gone fishing.

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

SAVED A REGIMENT

Capt. John E. Scott, who was presented with the Distinguished Service cross by Gen. E. T. Collins at a brilliant military ceremony held at Fort Myer, in October of 1918, Captain Scott was cited for bravery in action and was awarded the decoration for having been instrumental in saving the lives of an entire American regiment. He is connected now with the Metropolitan police of Washington.

CHEAP FLYING

Kite—Shucks, I can fly as good as that fellow and I only cost five cents!

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ointment and use as directed. Fine particles of aged skin peel off until all defects disappear. Skin is then soft, supple, and free from wrinkles. Mercolized Wax is the only skin cream that keeps the skin young. It is the only skin cream that keeps the skin young. It is the only skin cream that keeps the skin young.

Explorer Sets Forth

Sahara as Man's Cradle

Upon his return to the United States after an 18,000-mile expedition trip through Africa Dr. Arthur Torrence, Los Angeles explorer, announces his belief that the southern Sahara desert was the cradle of the human race. Not only did he make extensive investigations of the primitive tribes and the geological history of the Sahara, but he claims to have found evidence refuting the Darwinian theory of the origin and perpetuation of new species. While he does not deny that man evolved from a lower type of animal, he thinks this evolution took place in the southern part of the Sahara.

You Can Stop that Rheumatic Pain

The constant nerve-racking pain that spells rheumatism or neuritis can be relieved, often stopped entirely. The new treatment which gives quick results where old methods have failed calls for two or three daily applications of B. & M., The Penetrating Germicide. Used externally, this preparation seldom fails to stop the intense pain in a few hours. Also, where the trouble is caused by germ infection, the B. & M. treatment will destroy the germs, making it possible for Nature to restore normal conditions. Your druggist should be able to supply B. & M. If not, send us his name and $1.25 for a full-size bottle. Or ask for free booklet, F. E. Rollins Co., 33 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. (Adv.)

Forethought

First Angler—Why throw away that biggest fish?
Second—Fisherman—Nobody would believe I caught it.

POTATOES

SEED and TABLE
Northern Red-River Valley Grown Early
Ohio, Cobblers, Triumphs, U. S. No. 1
Grade and Certified Seed
Write for Catalogue and Prices
LEO H. WRIGHT CO.
P. O. Box 557 Moorhead, Minn.

Sunshine

—All Winter Long

At the Foremost Desert Resort of the West—marvelous climate—warm sunny days—clear starry nights—dry invigorating air—splendid roads—gorgeous mountain scenes—finest hotels—the ideal winter home.
Write Geo. A. Chatley

PALM SPRINGS California

DISTRIBUTORS WANTED—Sell Latest Prophylactics, a highly profitable business. Send $1 for 1 dozen samples. GENUINE SALES CO., BOX 321, AKRON, OHIO.

Secrets

"And why did you leave your last mistress?"
"I'll tell you when you tell me why your last maid left."

Cole's Carbolicine Quickly Relieves and heals burning, itching and torturing skin diseases. It instantly stops the pain of burns. Heals without scars. 35c and 60c. Ask your druggist, or send $10 to The J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill., for a package.—Advertisement.

Next to putting money in the bank is the satisfaction of putting coal in the cellar.

A monogram is one of those things nobody can decipher except the man to whom it belongs.

BOWELS need watching

Let Dr. Caldwell help whenever your child is feverish or upset; or has caught cold.

His simple prescription will make that bilious, headachy, cross boy or girl comfortable, happy, well in just a few hours. It soon restores the bowels to healthy regularity. It helps "break-up" a cold by keeping the bowels free from all that sickening mucus waste.

You have a famous doctor's word for this laxative. Dr. Caldwell's record of having attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist and have it ready. Then you won't have to worry when any member of your family is headachy, bilious, gassy or constipated. Syrup Pepsin is good for all ages. It sweetens the bowels; increases appetite—makes digestion more complete.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN
A Doctor's Family Laxative

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 41-1081.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Two Views in Belize After the Hurricane

These photographs were taken in Belize just after the terrific hurricane that devastated the capital of British Honduras. The loss of life may have been as high as 1,500, and not a building in the city was left undamaged.

Cities Use Radio in War on Crime

Police Broadcasting Stations Prove Effective.

Washington.—A rapidly increasing use of radio in the nation-wide battle against crime and racketeering is shown by records of the radio commission. These records show that in the short space of three years twenty large cities and several smaller ones have installed special police broadcasting stations and equipped patrolmen on duty with apparatus enabling them to receive orders from headquarters within a few moments.

The proved value of the radio in facilitating rapid communication and in many cases assisting in the capture of "murderers and other criminals" whole activities cost the nation hundreds of millions of dollars annually, has prompted thirty additional cities to make preparation for joining in the radio war against crime. Of this latter group, twenty-two hold construction permits for the establishment of radio stations and communication systems.

Finally realizing the importance of drafting the radio for service in the crime war, the radio commission has set aside eight channels especially for police work. The bands are all within a few meters of each other and lie below normal broadcasting channels. In some quarters it is predicted that ultimately so many cities will utilize the radio for police work that it will be possible to evolve a nation-wide network for the broadcasting of police alarms.

The success achieved by police in Chicago and Detroit was largely responsible for the rapidly growing popularity of police broadcasting systems. As far back as 1928 Detroit inaugurated its first broadcasting system, one of the first big ones in the country. To date, Detroit officials credit more than 800 arrests solely to the speed with which radio facilitated broadcast-

NEW HEAD OF FIDAC

Edward L. White of New Haven, Conn., is the new president of "Fidac," the interallied veterans' federation of which the American Legion is the member society in the United States. Mr. White was a national vice commander of the American Legion in 1928, and is the second American named to head the Fidac. He is a graduate of Yale and served as an officer in the ordnance department during the war.

Sultan of Sulu Sits as Filipino Senator

Fex Only Distinguishing Mark of Former Ruler.

Manila, P. I.—A visitor to the Philippine senate these days is quick to mark one member from the rest by a single distinguishing mark—a blue fez. Otherwise he appears to be the casual observer little different from the other senators. He is a sturdy-looking man of sixty-four, who goes about very much as if he knows his business.

This man is Sultan Jaganiul Kiran II of Sulu, senator of the Twelfth district, who was a civil ruler in his own right until 1915, when he abdicated, to end a dynasty which existed for more than 500 years.

Gov.-Gen. Dwight F. Davis has the privilege of appointing several members of the legislature from regions and provinces where conditions make it difficult to hold elections, and the governor chose the sultan as a senator from Mohammedan Sulu.

The senator is reputed to have had more than 1,000 wives, but he has no children. Also, he is the last in the line of famous sultans whose history was interwoven for centuries in the colorful Moro history of the southern islands.

As a boy Jaganiul was a prince, and his elder brother, Badaruddin, was sultan. The latter died in 1932 and Jaganiul sought the succession, aided by his mother. A long conflict developed, however, and the Spanish government

Spears Big Salmon in Old Indian Style

Biddeford, Maine.—A quaint old Indian custom has been revived here by Arthur Lambert, a millworker. Standing on the edge of a rockbound pool in the Saco river, he hurled a home-made spear into a 14-pound salmon, the biggest taken from the river this season.

intruded and named Datu Harun al Rashid of Palawan as sultan of Sulu. He ruled until 1894, but supporters of Jaganiul grew so strong that Harun finally returned to Palawan. Meanwhile Jaganiul had been a fugitive, but he finally was formally recognized as the sultan in 1934.

In 1915 he abdicated and accepted American sovereignty without reservation, although he continued to hold an extremely important place among his people. Now he has taken another step and become a cog in a democratic government far removed from the traditions of his family.

Farmer Moves Barn 30 Miles to New Site

Berwick, Pa.—Neighbors of G. A. Hilley, farmer at Raven Creek, assisted him in moving a barn 30 miles to a new location. Hilley's own barn was destroyed by fire. He purchased a barn on the Creasy farm at Millerville, 30 miles away. "Fifteen" of his neighbors joined him in dismantling the Creasy barn, transporting it to the Hilley farm and re-erecting it. Seven trucks were used in transporting the structure.

Pacific Flyers Found on an Island

Left to right, C. A. Allen and Don Moyle, California aviators who started to fly from Tokyo to Seattle but were forced down on an uninhabited island off the Kamchatka coast when their gas ran out. They were missing for nine days and almost given up for lost when a Soviet vessel rescued them.

Current Wit and Humor

LETTING HIM DOWN

The new member of the city council felt very proud of himself, and nodded amiably at any passerby whom he thought he had seen before. "Excuse me, sir," responded one man to whom he had given a particular affable bow, "but I think I saw your likeness in the papers." "Er—yes, my photograph has been rather prominent," gushed the new member. "I thought I could tell your face again," continued the other. "And, do you know, I've tried that very same medicine for my rheumatism and it hasn't cured me."

OCTOPUS DEFINED

Willie—Dad, what's an octopus? Dad—Why—er—I think it's a cat that has only eight lives instead of nine.

He Couldn't Imagine

Mother, who had unexpected visitors to dinner, whispered aside to Johnny—Johnny, when the pie is passed, you are to say you don't want any. Johnny (obediently, later)—I don't want any pie, thank you—but why don't I want any?

As Usual

First Explorer—Ah, there is the skull of a woman. Second—How can you tell it is the skull of a woman? First—Can't you see the mouth is open?—Pathfinder.

Disturbing

Beggar—I haven't even a shirt to my back. Man—My word! What do you fasten your collars to?—Das Klein Witzblatt, Leipzig.

Progressive

Archie—Why do you call me "Pillgrim"? Mabel—Well, every time you call you make a little progress—Pathfinder Magazine.

A Kindly Assurance

"You talked all through my solo," said the musician, a little resentfully. "Oh, that's all right," said the self-sufficient sage. "I wasn't saying anything you would care about hearing."

GREAT SPOUTER

First Fish—That whale ought to make a good politician. Second Fish—Why? First Fish—Because he's such a great spouter!

Poor Papa!

Wife—How do you like my new gown? Husband—Terrible. That's my way of looking at it.

Or an Automobile

Commercial Traveler—The idea of forever is so vast that men scarcely comprehend it. Listener—What? Have you never paid installments on a piano?—Pages Gates (Yverdon).

Conservative Spender

Mrs. Wagg—Is your husband thrifty, Mrs. Taggs? Mrs. Taggs—He must be—I only give him half my wages and he's always got money in his pocket.

The Girls Nowadays!

Girl—The heck with a career. I'm going to get myself a boy friend. Music Instructor (pleading)—But, my dear, your art is so promising! Girl—Sure, but I can't use it for breach of promise, can I?

Young Webster

Teacher—What do you understand by the word "deficit," Johnny? Johnny—It's what you've got when you haven't as much as you had when you had nothing.

Postage Stamps in Use in the United States

There are 33 denominations of postage stamps now in use by the United States post office. Here is the list, with the portrait or other engraving on each stamp:

Half-cent, portrait of Nathan Hale; 1-cent, Benjamin Franklin; 1½-cent, Warren G. Harding; 2-cent, George Washington; also the commemorative Red Cross stamp, the only commemorative stamp now in use.

Three-cent, Abraham Lincoln; 4-cent, William H. Taft; 5-cent, Theodore Roosevelt; 6-cent, James A. Garfield; 7-cent, William McKinley; 8-cent, Ulysses S. Grant; 9-cent, Thomas Jefferson; 10-cent, James Monroe; 10-cent special delivery stamp displaying a motorcycle and rider; 10-cent special handling stamp showing scroll work.

Eleven-cent stamp with portrait of Rutherford B. Hayes; 12-cent, portrait of Grover Cleveland; 13-cent, Benjamin Harrison; 14-cent, portrait of an American Indian; 15-cent, Statue of Liberty; 15-cent special delivery, motorcycle and rider; 15-cent special handling, scroll work. Seventeen-cent stamp, Woodrow Wilson; 20-cent, Golden Gate; 25-cent, Niagara Falls; 30-cent, a bull; 50-cent, Arlington amphitheater; $1, Lincoln memorial; $2, United States Capitol; $5, Benjamin Franklin.

The air mail stamps include a 5-cent one portraying wings; 10-cent map of the United States in blue; 15-cent, map of the United States in brown, and a 20-cent stamp showing a map of the United States in green.

A Regular Bird Man

Mrs. Nosey—I suppose when you've been flying for a few years it becomes second nature. Aviator—Rather! Why, I'm getting so used to it I often feel a craving for worms and bird seed.

It is an art to know when to go home; and another to know when to stay there.

NEURALGIA

THE agonizing aches from neuralgia can be quieted in the same way you would end a headache. Take some Bayer Aspirin. Take enough to bring complete relief. Genuine aspirin can't hurt anybody.

Men and women bent with rheumatism will find the same wonderful comfort in these tablets. They aren't just for headaches or colds! Read the proven directions covering a dozen other uses; neuritis, sciatica; lumbago; muscular pains.

Cold, damp days which penetrate to the very bones have lost their terror for those who carry Bayer Aspirin! All druggists, in the familiar little box:

Games Popular Today Known Centuries Ago

The fact that some of our modern games are very old was shown recently when the University of Pennsylvania museum acquired a die, dating from about 2750 B. C., which may have been one of a pair used in backgammon. The backgammon of ancient days was played on a tablet ruled with straight lines. Instead of the colored triangles painted on the modern board, which is said to date from about the Tenth century. But the principle on which it was played has been preserved, and, like a number of other modern games, backgammon's ancient origin is still apparent.

The Greeks played a form of backgammon in which the men or counters were moved along a rectangular board known as the "abacus"; the players took turns at throwing dice, and advanced their men according to the numbers they threw. The Romans had a similar game known as "Scripta Duodecim," or twelve lines, which they probably carried over from the Greeks. That backgammon was also known to other peoples of ancient times is shown by a board, discovered at Ur and dating from about 3000 B. C., which is also in the collection of Pennsylvania university. The die recently acquired by the museum was found at Tepe Gawra in Mesopotamia.

Even older than backgammon is the game of dice. Sophocles wrote that dice were invented during the siege of Troy by one Palamedes, a Greek; Herodotus credited the Lydians with the accomplishment; but the discovery of dice in very early oriental tombs indicates that they were probably of Asiatic origin.—New York Times.

Caring for the Aged

Approximately $3,000,000 is expected to be distributed annually among some 8,000 persons under Massachusetts' old-age assistance act, which went into effect in July. All needy citizens seventy years or over, who have been in the state at least 20 years, are eligible for assistance, which ranges between $3 and $8 weekly.

Hands

"Ever hold a perfect hand?" "At bridge, or in the moonlight."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

How to get enjoyment on both ends of Christmas Cards

THOUGH YOUR Christmas cards may bear cheerful greetings, their sending can be a fearful task if left to the last minute. Shop now. Enjoy choosing from a fresh, full stock. Visit mentally with each friend as you address the envelopes. Do that and your Christmas cards will give pleasure at both ends!

Burgoyne CHRISTMAS CARDS

YOUR LOCAL DEALERS CARRY THEM

PAGE FOUR

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, October 15, 1931

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

BY HUGH HUTTON

THE ALASKAN BEAR DUCK

HERE is a very incomplete creature living on the lonely islands in the Bering Straits. It possesses a decidedly single-track mind and can think of nothing else but the pursuit of bears. In spite of the fact that no bears live on these islands. Once in a while it will find bear tracks in the snow, but fails to realize that they are tracks from its own feet, which are shaped exactly like a bear's. The above picture shows a bear duck that has been chasing its own tracks in a circle for several hours and wondering what on earth has become of the bear.

The construction of this beast is very simple, all you need for the head and body are two large librets. The ears are popcorn, the legs and claws toothpicks, and the feet split peanuts. The eyes are painted on, and the different parts stuck together with chewing gum.

(© Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (WNU Service.)

Your Home and You

By Betty Callister

SOUPS IN THE SUMMER

EVEN in summer time a dish of hot soup provides an acceptable sort of luncheon once in a while and in case of an emergency when it seems that there isn't possibly the where-withal for luncheon you will find that a few meat extract cubes are all you need to make a nice vegetable soup from what you happen to have left in the refrigerator.

If for instance you have a sliced tomato or two, you can add it to the bulion made by dissolving the beef cubes in water, season it with a little celery salt, pepper and grated onion, and you have a well flavored soup. It is a great convenience to have a little onion salt on hand to use in the event that you run out of fresh onions. A good mixed vegetable soup may be made by adding diced celery, cooked in a very little water until tender, or a few left-over peas or beans; and a very little boiled rice or other cereal may be added to give substance to the impromptu soup.

Another emergency dish that may be made from beef cubes is gravy. Dissolve the cube in three-quarters of a cup of water instead of a whole cup and mix with a little flour mixed with cold water for thickening. Be sure that it is smooth and free from lumps and that the gravy is cooked five or six minutes over direct fire before it is served. Poured on toast or slices of bread, you will have a dish that children usually like or you may serve it on mashed potatoes or boiled rice.

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service.)

Rattles Not Proof of Age

The age of a rattlesnake cannot be accurately told from the number of its rattles. A new rattlesnake sheds, which, during the first year or so of its life, amounts to four or five times. When a rattlesnake is old it often breaks off its rattle when crawling over rough undergrowth.

Favorite Bible Passages

Albert C. Ritchie
Governor of Maryland.

He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah 6:8.
(Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

Mother's Cook Book

"What is so rare as a day in June? Then if ever come perfect days, And heaven tries earth if she be in tune As o'er her softly her warm ear lays, And whether we look or whether we listen We hear life murmur or see it glisten."

FRUIT IS REFRESHING

A FRUIT is so refreshing in various forms, it is one of the most popular of all beginnings for a dinner. In the form of a chilled soup, a fruit cocktail or served as a chilled drink, it is always appropriate. Fresh berries, cherries, citrus fruits, peaches, melons and grapes are some that are usable in various times of the year.

Dainty Fruit Cup.

Prepare musk melon balls by using a french potato cutter. Heap the balls in the cocktail glasses and pour over a chilled sirup prepared from sugar sirup and some of the ginger sirup and chopped canton ginger for flavor. Serve well chilled. For those who prefer mint, make a mint sirup and chill, pour over the melon balls and garnish with a sprig of fresh mint. Watermelon balls are most attractive as cocktails. Serve them with a lemon sauce and a sprig of mint in the top of each.

Chicken Warming.

Cook a five-pound fowl in plenty of water for broth. When tender shred the chicken, remove all bones and set away, after seasoning well, to keep hot. In the broth cook a bunch of two of celery; when tender remove it and cook sufficient noodles to serve. When the noodles are cooked serve them on a hot dinner platter with the celery on top of the noodles and the chicken on top of the celery. Prepare a rich gravy with the broth that is left; see that there is enough, and pour around the warming when served. This makes a good dish to serve a large company as it may be kept hot, and much can be prepared the day before or early in the day.

Chicken Broth With Vegetables.

Peel a quart of small, even-sized onions, cook until tender, changing the water to remove the most of the strong flavor. Line a soup tureen with thin slices of buttered toast, cover with the onion, add a pint of fresh cooked green peas and two quarts of the chicken broth. Serve at once.

Subscribe for The News, Now.

Don't forget The News office is equipped to do first-class commercial printing.

Some radish is right. When it comes to length it can't be beaten. On display in the News window.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

DuWayne Kinsey, I. U. student, came home Friday evening and spent until Sunday noon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Mrs. Norma Irvin and baby of Lima, O., Wm. Lucas and Mrs. Louie Beam of Spencerville were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lucas.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hersh were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Platter of Newville. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reas and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Holl Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Jackson and daughter, Iris, Mrs. Chas. Jackson and daughter, Mable, and C. B. Jackson were entertained Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins, west of town.

Eight couples living in Hebron, Ind., a town of 800 population celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a dinner. Their combined ages was 1,198 years, representing 425 years of married life. And at that two couples didn't get to attend.

LICENSED TO WED

Maurice H. Hollabaugh, 21, truck driver, Spencerville, and Janice Ridgway, 20, St. Joe.

Clayton Wm. Thorn, 20, Huntington, farmer, and Rosalind Mason, 19, Auburn. The groom's mother, Daisy M. Thorn, gave her consent. Mrs. Thorn will be remembered here as Daisy Howey.

Egotism's One Value

Egotism is the anesthetic which nature gives us to deaden the pain of being a fool.—Herbert Sheld.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45. First Grade Sand Potatoes, 50 cents at the field. J. N. Scholes. 41t2p.

Gordon Nofsinger was a Friday supper guest in the H. C. Borthwick home.

Mrs. Jane Coburn spent Monday evening in the home of her son, Clay Coburn and family.

The bank was closed Monday, in observance of Columbus Day, a legal holiday in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Shepherd of Illinois spent the past week with N. H. Garrison and family.

Mrs. Belle Ridgway was a Sunday dinner guest of her daughter, Mrs. Grover Curie, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Quance at Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. Anna Koch is a guest for a few days in the home of Reuben Koch and wife north of Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Ridgen and sons spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Bryant north of Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Monroe and children and Master Franklin Sechler took Sunday dinner with Miss Susan Sechler.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Haller and son of South Bend were Saturday guests of Mrs. Haller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shull.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt of Fort Wayne were entertained to Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Washler of near Newville.

Mrs. Amos Gamble, son, Doran, and daughter, Mrs. Norma Irvin and two children of Lima, O., were here Saturday and Sunday guests of the former's daughter, Mrs. Harry Smith, and family.

Geo. Kees and daughters, Betty and Nelda and son, Sammy, accompanied by Mrs. Anna Koch and Mrs. Nan Lysher were Saturday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Timmerman, living southwest of Spencerville.

P. G. Horning and a Mr. Hobson and Mayer of the Purdue farm building and engineering department were recent callers at the Carl Carpenter farm. W. W. Wilcox of the U. S. Department of Agriculture called in the interest of securing data on power farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fiant of Reading, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Widney of Hicksville, Mrs. Ella Keester of Auburn, Mrs. Ida Stafford of Jackson township, Mrs. Viola Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Carpenter and daughter, were Sunday guests in the E. E. Widney home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brock and Wm. and Ella Wakenight of Tippecanoe City, Ohio, were guests in the L. D. Young home from Saturday until Monday.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Young and their guests all went to the James L. Young home at near Brimfield to attend their golden wedding anniversary.

Someone is looking ahead for the winter and laying in a store of produce from the truck gardens near town. Mutt Coburn and Mrs. Davis had their popcorn all stolen. Mrs. Grover Curie a quantity of cabbage and George Kees and Edgar Lysher found some potatoes dug out and a lot of beets gone.

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-23

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and
Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Cabbage for sale, Tom Brunson. 39t3p.

School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

Mrs. Maud Monroe and Mrs. Belle Ridgway spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Jennie Abel.

Please call for your canned goods not later than Nov. 1. St. Joe Custom Canning Kitchen. 41t2p.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience.

Sixty acres of corn has been picked on the Carpenter farm this fall and all in the crib. Darrel Carpenter of near Butler has the picker.

Miss Priscilla Borthwick enjoyed a vacation at the home of her parents, from Wednesday until Monday, her school being dismissed for the Putnam county fair.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office. 3tf.

The donations made to the Salvation Army last Friday by St. Joe people was very much appreciated, and everything can be used to advantage. Besides the clothing, furniture, old papers, and bedding, there were six bushels of wheat given by a friend.

Notice was received Friday by County Auditor Frank E. Lyon that a hearing on the protest against the Keyser township tax levy for 1932 will be held at his office by the state tax commission Thursday at 10 A. M. The new levy for Keyser was made at 80 cents, a reduction of 5 cents over last year's rate.

The DeKalb county commissioners are giving notice of the sale of the following personal property at 10 A. M. on November 4: Twenty seven volumes of the reports of the supreme and appellate courts of Indiana for not less than $54; one steel bridge 35x13 at its location 5 miles north of St. Joe at Hull's Corners for not less than $40 and certain junk iron at not less than its market price. The property will be sold to the highest bidder.

The Waterloo-Hamilton road has been completed and is now open to traffic. This will afford a shorter route between these two points. The north end of the road which is 3.4 miles in length was built by the county highway department with maintenance funds, using an asphaltic oil mixed with a coarse washed gravel, making a very smooth and dustless road. The right of way was widened to fifty feet so as to furnish the necessary drainage. Adjoining this is a mile and a half of concrete slab, which is followed to the south intersecting with federal road 27 just northwest of Waterloo, with a retreat material, for the 4.2 miles. In this manner a paved road is now completed.

Read the Ads in this issue.

A square man is seldom a rounder.

Telephone 45 when you have some news.

Writing tablets and envelopes at News Office.

Fuse plugs at News office. Two different kinds. Better have one on hand.

Character is made by what you stand for; reputation by what you fall for.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Murphy and daughter, Vivian spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Chas. Quance, and family at Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, Co. Supt. of the Children's Division, gave an address at the Butler U. B. Church, Sunday, in connection with their rally day program.

If you are thinking of a New Car let us show you the new Ford. Just phone or write for full demonstration. The Cities Sales Inc., Hicksville, O. Phone 20. Open day and night. 34tf.

The new telephone directories for St. Joe were delivered Saturday from The News office, the job having been handled by the L. M. Berry & Co., of Dayton, Ohio. The book consists of 12 pages inside and 4 pages of cover.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Longardner of Woodburn spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Kathaleen Gee. Mrs. Longardner will be remembered as Miss Harriett Brown. Miss Fern Ward spent Tuesday and Wednesday in the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Metcalf of Huntington were Sunday dinner guests in the J. P. Buckingham home. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham went to Fort Wayne visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Patterson until Monday afternoon. They attended services in the B. E. Rediger temple Sunday evening.

The biggest value in colored funnies is now available at The News office, when we give you 30, in the Sunday Herald and Examiner. Order yours now and we will save you one.

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

It's a wise fish that can read between the lines.

When money talks a man seldom troubles to investigate the truth of its remarks.

Mr. Eugene Carper of Auburn spent a few days last week in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Foster Gee and family.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

O. D. Baker & Son landed a contract last week at Greencastle, Ind. for the erection of 20,000 feet of cable guard rail on a state road. They are erecting the railings on the St. Joe-Spencerville road.

There were 26 deaths in DeKalb county during the month of July, 1931, a bulletin, issued by the state board of health, reports. Of the number eleven were over the age of 65. Two were caused by tuberculosis, four were due to accidents and three from cancer.

Taxes

It won't be long now until the last day to pay your taxes will be here. A 10% penalty is added if you fail to pay them on or before the last day. We will gladly furnish you the money to pay these taxes at a small interest cost and you may repay us at your convenience.

FRANKLIN SECURITY CO.
Over Schwartz Grocery
Phone 709 Auburn, Ind.

Used Cars

1928 Chevrolet Coupe in Excellent Condition

1929 Model A Ford Tudor in fine Shape.

1927 Chevrolet Coupe, a dandy.

1931 Model A Ford Town Sedan, Like New.

1924 Essex Coupe, Cheap. A Cheap Ton Truck, ready for work.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio

Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Men's Dress Pants - $2.95
Young Men's Dress Pants 2.95
Boys' Long Pants $1.50-1.69
Boys' Corduroy Knickers $1.95-2.95

Boys' Plus Four, all wool $2.95-$3.50
All wool, knit band around knee
Other Boys' Knickers $1.00 to $2.50
With elastic and knit band

Men's Overalls, high back and suspender back, 8-ounce weight

98c

Men's Overall Pants 98c
Men's Work Pants $1.00
Men's Hickory Overalls $1.10

Boys' Overalls 49c-79c
Boys' Whoopie Pants 79c
Boys' Overalls 98c

Men's Work Shirts Double-Yoke Ventilated 79c

Men's Work Shirts 49c Boys' Work Shirts 49c

Men's WORK SOX
10c - 15c

McBRIDE'S

HEAVY
SUSPENDERS
50c

PAGE FIVE

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, October 15, 1931

SPENCERVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson and R. U. Bowser and wife spent Sunday at Peru, Indiana.

Miss Mary Ellen Heyman of Ft. Wayne is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Benninghoff.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gloyd of Royal Oak, Mich., a daughter, Mr. Gloyd was a former resident of this place.

Mrs. Lizzie Wearley and daughter, Mrs. LeAnna Steward will act as hostesses to the members of the C. C. Club on Friday afternoon.

The City National bank of Auburn, Saturday secured a judgment in the DeKalb circuit court of $63.96 on a note against Ora Agler and F. W. Silberg. C. E. McClintock is attorney for the bank and Atkinson & Husselman for Silberg, while Agler defaulted.

Edward Woodring and Paul Shearer of Allen county, were fined $1 and costs each, when they pleaded guilty in the DeKalb circuit court late Wednesday to charges of petit larceny. The young men were arrested the day previously for stealing potatoes belonging to Raymond U. Bowser of Spencerville.

Let The News have your films developed.

Fred Osborne and children of Andrews were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Emily Gloyd and family. Little Mildred Osborne who has spent several weeks with Mrs. Gloyd returned home with them.

Miss Betty Brown, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Roy S. Brown, was taken to the Souders hospital at Auburn last week, suffering with appendicitis. Rev. Brown was a former pastor of the Methodist Church.

RADIO CONTROLLED PLOW DEMONSTRATED IN INDIANA

The picture of future farmers sitting in their homes while automatic controls supervise their farm work was again brought out as a radio-controlled plow was found to be successful on a farm near Noblesville Ind.

Although it was believed to be the first time a plow was operated by radio, the experiment was reminiscent of automatically operated plows which were found to be successful in the west several years ago, but which have never gone into general use.

A small aerial was placed on the tractor-plow. The machine was guided through a field by means of a sending set at the farmer's home. One furrow was plowed around a 30-acre field.

FURNITURE CHANGES KEEP MOHAIR IN VOGUE

SOME FACTORS IN MOHAIR'S PERMANENT POPULARITY

LONG WEARING COMFORTABLE ERECT PILE PREVENTS SLIPPING

EASY TO CLEAN MOHAIR FIBER

MOHAIR NOW CHEMICALLY TREATED TO PREVENT MOTH DAMAGE

U. S. LEADER IN MOHAIR INDUSTRY

First Coats Brought Here in '49; 17 Million Pounds Clipped Yearly.

STYLES may come and styles may go, in furniture as in everything else, but one kind of upholstery—mohair velvet—remains in constant popularity ever since the invention of power machinery put it within the reach of everyday folk, and not just of kings and nobles, as in previous centuries.

The demand for furniture covered with fabric made from the fleece of the angora goat has increased steadily until now the United States leads the world in angora goat raising and consequently in the production of mohair materials.

Its great durability is undoubtedly the chief reason why mohair velvet is an upholstery perennial. Not even the beauty and luster of its soft texture would suffice to win the housewife's repeated approval if mohair velvet, or velmo as it is often called, did not surpass all other materials in wearing quality. This is partly because the mohair itself is the longest wearing animal fiber known and partly because it is a pile fabric, with the wear coming on the ends of the fiber instead of along the sides. As high as 40,000 of these sturdy fibers are found to the square inch of mohair velvet.

Some knowledge of the physical structure and chemical composition of the mohair fiber is necessary to understand why it makes a superior upholstery fabric. Seen under a microscope, the mohair fiber is smooth and shiny, with fewer scales or serrations than on the wool fiber. This means that it does not attract dirt so quickly, that dust tends to slide off the smooth hairs and that actual dirt is easily removed with a swift brushing or with soap and water if necessary, without affecting the color.

Then, too, mohair takes a fast, acid dye, so that the effects of sun and strong light need not be feared.

Like all animal fibers, mohair is normally attractive to the pestiferous house moth, but now science has perfected a means of effectually and permanently mothproofing mohair velvet.

It has been noticed that moths will actually die in preference to attacking the fabric. When one considers the tremendous amount of damage done annually by this innocent looking little insect, it is obvious that for this feature alone mohair recommends itself as the ideal fabric for fine furniture.

But though mohair velvet remains popular season after season, its colors, patterns, and weaves change with the current fashion. Beautiful solid colors, or two-tone weaves, period designs, modernistic effects or conventional patterns may all be had in mohair velvet. Sometimes the pile is cut to form the pattern, the remaining pile being stamped with a floral or other design. In other places, the pattern is formed by cutting certain of the loops and the fabric is then called frize. If the uncut portion predominates, it is called frizette. Then again, the material may be hand-blocked in striking designs or woven on a Jacquard loom with various colored mohair yarns.

Serve Mankind in Innumerable Ways

WAY back in Old Testament times, when a day of atonement was at hand, the sins of the people were symbolically placed on the head of a goat which was then allowed to escape into the wilderness; hence the word scapegoat, or blame-bearer, which has come down through the ages.

No longer made to endure this, the goat is, however, still serving mankind in a variety of other ways, especially the angora or mohair goat as it is called from its fleece. All the time they are doing this, they are also growing a wonderful fleece of long, silky, white mohair which is clipped once or twice a year and sent to the mills for manufacturing into fabrics.

The pile material resulting, known as velmo or mohair velvet, is in great demand as upholstery for automobiles, trains, buses and airplanes as well as for the furniture in the home because it will wear practically forever, and is as easy to keep clean as it is beautiful to look at. It is one of the most satisfactory fibers known for dyeing. Mohair, unlike wool, cannot be felted, but is permanently resilient and springy and therefore cool and comfortable as a seat fabric.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

Lois Gerig was absent one day last week on account of sickness.

Miss Hollabaugh prepared to photograph her home economics class Friday, but due to sickness, Dola Hurni was absent, and the photography was postponed.

Mr. H. Y. Ozaki of the Ozaki Studio Inc., Fort Wayne, called at the school on Thursday evening. He talked with the senior class concerning a date for the taking of their pictures.

Minnie Walker, teacher of fourth and fifth grades, entertained the young ladies social club at her home Friday evening.

Miss Zimmerman is having trouble with her eyes, making it difficult to teach.

Mr. Appleman went to Fort Wayne Thursday evening to attend extension class work.

Florence Steward and Harold Goldsmith of the senior class were absent from school on last Thursday.

The class rings, which the seniors ordered, are at the post office.

The chapel talk on Tuesday morning was given by Reverend Williams. His subject was "Cooperation." The student body enjoys these chapel periods very much.

Eighth Grade

Mr. Harshman, our music teacher, has developed the musical talent of the eighth grade wonderfully.

Dewayne Shilling has returned from Plainsfield and enrolled in the eighth grade.

The attendance of the eighth grade for this week is 100%.

Freshman

Dola Hurni was absent Friday on account of sickness.

The Home Economics girls have planned to work out Home Projects.

Mr. Russell (in Algebra): "Do not count on your fingers during Algebra class."

Student: "Practice what you preach."

Lawrence Wappes will learn by and by how to write a correct statement.

Sophmores

Winifred Harper was absent Wednesday and a part of Friday of this week.

Two of our girls are learning to ride bicycles.

Manual Training

Mr. Russell frankly admits that there some new 'vices' in the manual training department, but says that he didn't want it known generally. All right, Mr. Russell, we offer our apologies and set our hand to the new vices and eradicate the old 'vices.'

Athletics

During the past week the Spencerville High School contracted basketball games with Jefferson Township High School, Harlan High School, and Saint Joe High School. The boys of the basketball team have been scrimmaging daily on the school ground under the instruction of Mr. W. J. D. Russell.

Seventh Grade

On Friday evening, October 9, the seventh grade, accompanied by the sponsor, Miss Hollabaugh, had an outdoor party at the home of Loren Dale Laub. Mr. Washler took the children from town in his big truck. All joined in games, contests, and songs around the camp fire. Weiners, marshmallows, doughnuts, and cocoa disappeared as hungry mouths were fed. A program was continued indoors. A fine time was enjoyed by all.

DR. COIL
EYEGLASS SPECIALISTS
White Gold Filled Frames, Spectacles and CALIBROUT
Best Made of California—North of Mexico
New Dr. Coil Eye Glasses and VHS.

joyed by all.

Why I Like School Better This Year

Composition by John Franklin Seventh Grade

I like school better this year because I go to a consolidated school and last year I went to a one-room rural school. I like the idea of changing rooms for class periods, because then I don't have to sit in one room all the time. Also, I like my teachers this year.

Where I went to school last year the yard was so small. We had to use it for playground, baseball diamond yard, or whatever other use we had for it; so when we had gone to school a month or two, there was no grass. There was only one tree on the school ground; and, as there were no leaves on it, there was no shade.

Where I go to school this year, there is a fine big play ground with room to play almost anything. The yard is sowed to grass and is very pretty by now. There are many trees so there is plenty of shade. Also the walks are a great convenience, as there is a walk leading in almost every direction.

There is a fine big library with many reference books, dictionaries and many other books to read. The inside walls are painted different colors with pictures on the walls. We have electric lights for dark days, which I did not have last year.

I think that the boys and girls who are lucky enough to get to go to such a fine school should try to help keep it up.

Favorite Bible Passages

OF

Dr. Miriam Van Waters
Referee of the Juvenile Court of Los Angeles; President, National Conference of Social Work.

Thy shoes shall be iron and brass; and as thy days, so shall thy strength be.—Deuteronomy 88:25.

Comment: Bishop William Morris, Episcopal church, used this text in my confirmation sermon. (I was thirteen.) All my life it has been my guide.

Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matthew 11:28.

Comment: Marvelous sympathy and insight into life's problems.

It is impossible but that offences will come; but woe unto him, through whom they come! It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.—Luke 17:1-2.

Comment: The whole of the juvenile court philosophy is here, or should be.
(Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it.

YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM

WE CAN GIVE YOU what you want IN PRINTING when you want it! Try us out with your next job

A NEW WORLD EVERY TWENTY YEARS

A day or two ago this bank closed for the day in honor of Columbus' discovery of a new world in 1492. Since that time America has discovered new worlds within itself about every twenty years. We are, today, at the point where council is being given to turn back because the future is not clear. To those who have the spirit of a Columbus, this bank is able and willing to offer its facilities.

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME" is a GOOD IDEA

WE SELL:
ENVELOPES
LETTERHEADS
STATEMENTS
INVOICES
CALLING CARDS
TAGS
BLOTTERS

WE CAN FURNISH:
CARBON SALESBOOKS
PRINTED FORMS
IN FOLDED PACKS
FOR ANY PURPOSE
AUTOGRAPHIC
SALES REGISTERS
PRINTED GUMMED TAPE
AND MACHINES

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS
CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR
HOME TOWN PAPER
Get The Idea — Buy At Home

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

SPECIAL SALE

We want to reduce the amount of space occupied by our Perennials and Rock Garden Plants

So during the Fall Planting Season, or while they last, we are offering our stock at wholesale prices—and less. This is your opportunity to get a bunch of good plants cheap. PERENNIALS—Include Columbines, Painted Daisies, Oriental Poppies, Hardy Phlox, Shasta and Memorial Daisies, Coreopsis, Gallardias, Sweet Williams, Veronicas, Platycodons, Variegated Day Lilies and others.

All priced at 10c each, $1.00 per 12
$2.00 per 25

ROCK GARDEN PLANTS—Include Sedums in 5 varieties, Moss Phlox, 2 kinds; Trailing Baby's Breath, Tunich Saxifraga, Pinka, Forget-me-nots, Dwarf Purple Iris, Santolina, Sweet Wivesfield and others.

All priced at 10c each, $1.00 per 12
$2.00 per 25

Also a number of SMALL EVERGREENS—such as Norway Spruce, Arbor Vitae, Junipers, Etc., from 50c to $2.00 each.

All orders at the above low prices must be cash or c. o. d. Come and see this stock.

Cougill's Greenhouse
713 S. Indiana Avenue Phone 20 Auburn, Indiana

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MILAN and the LAKES

Fishermen on Lake Garda.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

MILAN, chief city of the Lombard-Piedmont region of northern Italy, announces plans for a metropolitan underground railway system which, when completed, will have a total length of 80 miles. The announcement follows another telling of the completion of Italy's largest railroad station in Milan, a huge structure which compares favorably with the great terminals of the world.

Italy's first subway system and the biggest railway station are but milestones marking the progress of this modern, wide-awake city, which had the first public library in Europe and was the first city on the continent to light its streets with electricity. Viewing the rich and interesting history of this metropolis of the upper Po valley, its outstanding leadership among Italian cities, its virility through centuries, and its varied accomplishments, the observer may be inclined to give serious consideration to the boast of the Milanese that "what Milan thinks today, Italy will think tomorrow."

Milan, in the matter of a new subway, is hurrying its plans because Rome also is planning a subway system. But Rome must hesitate and discuss. Underneath the streets and buildings of modern Rome are foundations of ancient imperial Roman monuments, and parts of the Catacombs. Milan faces no such obstacles, and will radiate five lines from the center of the city as conditions require. All five of the lines, two of which will reach points 20 miles away, will have stations within a few yards of each other in the Piazza del Duomo. A population of more than 3,000,000 people will be served by this new system, up-to-date in every respect.

Lombardy and Piedmont comprise the plains of the upper reaches of the great Po valley, the Alpine foothills, and the southern and eastern slopes of a large part of the alps themselves. Milan, on a fertile plain near the southern terminus of some of the most important of the Alpine passes, was a town of considerable importance even in the dim historic days of 222 B. C. when it was captured by the Romans. It was then, as it is today, a close second city in point of population in Italy.

Leader in Many Respects.

Milan early earned a position of leadership among surrounding cities, a leadership, however, which did not go unchallenged. The city has been destroyed many times, once by a league of neighboring towns, and at other times by alien conquerors. After each destruction it has sprung up on a seemingly firmer foundation to achieve greater popularity and a more far-reaching influence.

Apart from any reputation Milan may have gained as an index to industrial unrest, it is a leader among Italian cities in other respects. Indeed, the Milanese insist that their city, their "capitale morale," is the very heart and head of Italy's modern life and activity—"first in industry, first in municipal progress, first in political importance."

Even at the beginning of the Eleventh century Milan was of some importance. Industrially, its handicraft workers turning out textiles, arms and jewelry. The innumerable wars to which Italian cities and provinces were subjected slowed up its industrial development even after the introduction of the factory system, but since the unification of Italy in 1870, and the relative political calm that has followed, the growth of the city's industries has been marvelous. Textiles, locomotives and electrical apparatus are the leading products and a long list of metal manufactures could be added.

The industrial plants of Milan have fairly burst the confines of the old city and many are to be found in numerous populous suburbs that have sprung up, especially since 1895. The population of Milan itself now numbers close to a million. Its population is exceeded only slightly, if at all, by that of Naples, and is considerably in excess of that of Rome.

Water Power Development.

Interesting is the fact that all industries in this section of Italy are not dependent on the importation of coal. Piedmontese and Lombardian industry has been turning more and more during recent years to the use of electric power generated from the great falls and rapids of the many streams that, tumbling down from the heights of the Alps almost at the walls of the cities, may be made to take the place of the expensive fuel for which Italy is dependent on foreign countries.

Milan is today a half-way house for people rushing up and down the earth, from the Mediterranean to the Alps, from Venice to Como; it is so very well known, so very crowded, so busy, so bustling, one feels there is nothing more to be told of her. Perhaps because she seems so entirely modern, because she bears so few traces of her earlier years, because while her sister cities point so proudly to Etruscan, to Greek, to early Roman remains, she invites the visitor to contemplate her Galleria Vittorio Emanuele, one feels she does not appreciate her past.

It is not so, she has been literally trampled into the dust so often she would have nothing but scars to show but for the invincible courage which made her instantly build on her ruins the foundations of yet greater things.

Gian Galeazzo, who made the Certosa possible, did much for Milan. To him we owe the cathedral, one of the largest in the world. What joy must have been his to see these wonderful structures growing, to know that from his care they came.

Milan cannot hold anyone long who remembers that Lake Como is but two short hours away, with open-air pictures far lovelier than any that Milan's rich museums hold. The little town of the same name at the southern end of the lake is quaint enough; it has a charming cathedral; it looks straight up to the snowpeaks, but it is not a place to linger; choose rather some quieter place farther up the lake—Cadenabbia, Menaggio, Bellagio.

Scenes of the Lakes.

When people speak of the Italian lakes it is usually Como and its neighbors that are meant; Como, which is all Italian; Lugano, which is largely Swiss, and Maggiore, which is largely Italian; but there are others, very tiny, perhaps, but also lovely; Orta, Varese, and to the east Isco, Iseo; above all, beautiful Lake Garda, whose upper end was Austrian. So many poets have sung their charms for twenty centuries, so many artists depicted their beauties, what remains for un-gifted lovers to say? So much of history is sleeping in their shining waters, so many world-known names connected with their shores, what could one summer bring to all their memories?

Which is the loveliest? Who knows? Undoubtedly Lake Como is the most popular. And does any visitor fail to row across its blue, satiny surfaces to the marble steps of the Villa Ippolito to see the Thorwaldsen Friese and Canova's Cupid and Psyche? One does not need eyes to know which is the favorite. The "oh's" and "ah's," the sighs and silences tell it; but, love is immortal, while war is transient.

Lugano is quite a different lake from Como, although to hear—but a single rocky ridge, an outlying spur of the great Alpine chain between. It is wonderfully picturesque, with its steep, wooded sides and quaint towns, pink and yellow and mauve, staged upward from the lake like galleries at a theater. If there are fewer luxurious villas, fewer over-rich gardens, there is more of romantic naturalness.

On Como one senses luxuriously a civilization two thousand years old; on Lugano one feels ageless nature's unmatched loveliness. If largely Swiss politically, in appearance Lugano is wholly Italian—the half-wild Italian which recalls the ancient freedom-loving Celt, not that which reminds us of polished Rome.

Lake Maggiore is almost as well known, as much traveled, as Como. Its individuality is just as strong as that of the other two; to see one is by no means to see all. One must travel up and down it by boat in the morning light and in the sunset glow. One must make excursions along its shores and to the Borromean Islands, which float so picturesquely on its surface. One must climb the rocky hillsides about it and get new and surprising views of its size and splendor. One must see it in storm as well as sunshine; see the white snow to northward sharply defined against the blue sky; look in vain for peaks that are hidden in swirling masses of mist and cloud.

Name Well Earned.

The French Foreign Legion is called the Death Legion because it has been employed in many of the hardest and most dangerous campaigns.

DAIRY FACTS

CATTLE LICE TAKE HEAVY DAIRY TOLL

Eradicate the Pest Before Heavy Infestation.

Cattle lice, which run up a heavy toll in the form of reduced milk yields and slackened gains, are likely to be more troublesome this winter than usual, according to a report to the University of Illinois by an assistant entomologist of the Illinois state natural history survey. There has been a gradual increase in louse population on dairy animals and other stock in the past two years, owing largely to lack of proper control measures. Fortunately, the lice are not hard to eradicate until a heavy infestation is allowed to develop.

From the standpoint of cheapness, availability and effectiveness the best treatment is raw linseed oil. Boiled or refined linseed oil is likely to injure the skin and should not be used. The oil may be applied with a handbrush or in the case of short-haired animals, with a wad of cloth. A brush having an even bristles is best adapted to this work. A second treatment should be given two weeks following the first and then monthly applications should be made until spring. The oil should not be applied too vigorously but enough should be put on to reach the skin. It is a good plan to keep treated animals out of the sun for a day.

Time and Work Saved by Use of Milking Machine

The milk labor used in caring for dairy cows in Nevada, varies all the way from 81 hours to 280 hours a year for each cow, as indicated by 44 detailed farm records secured by the experiment station of that state. The average chore time for herds which were machine milked was 100 hours as against 141 hours for all herds of 15 or more cows, milked by hand. The average time required in all hand-milked herds—which on the whole had fewer cows than the machine-milked herds—was 151 hours, which showed that where labor-saving equipment was not available labor costs were higher. For a 25-cow herd, a milking machine will make a net saving in labor of $200 each year according to this experiment station. This calculation assumes that labor is valued at 40 cents an hour and allows an expense of $60 annually for the machine.

Fall Calving

Fall calving is here. It brings certain problems that need unrelenting attention. The act of bearing young requires great sacrifices on the part of mothers. It brings about rapid and extreme changes in the physical condition of the mother. Instinctively the mother is willing to make extreme sacrifice for her young. She is not always physically fit or capable of doing so.

Heifers calving for the first time should be watched carefully as they approach calving. Breeding dates are essential. Most heifers will bring their calves along without help. What they need is clean, sanitary surroundings, the right feeding before and after calving, and some attention to their udders. Heifers that need help in calving should not be denied the advantage of the help of one who understands what to do and how best to do it.

Warm the Drinking Water

Water which has had the chill removed from it will be consumed more readily by dairy cows in winter and will cause heavier milk production, according to C. A. Smith, Colorado State college.

"Every 100 pounds of milk contains 87 pounds water. In order to produce the maximum quantity of milk a cow must consume large amounts of water," Smith says. "It has been found that producing cows consume much more water than dry cows. They will not drink much water when they have to break the ice, but drink large quantities of water if the chill is removed. A small tank heater will do the work at a very small cost."

DAIRY NOTES

Whole milk will be delivered daily or twice a day while cream will likely be delivered just two or three times a week. Every 48 hours is better unless conditions for holding are very good.

Continuous testing for production in dairy herds provides the only means of intelligently weeding out poor cows and improving the milking ability of the herd. This is especially important when prices are low.

By culling and breeding stock, dairy-men of California increased butterfat production from 188 to 265 pounds a year.

Only comfortable cows can do justice to themselves at the milk pail. As far as possible flies must be controlled.

It has been found that cows that have the individual water cups in their stalls produce more milk than those that just get their water morning and evening.

Buttons Trim College Girl Frocks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

BUTTONS, buttons, trim your frocks, your blouses, your suits, your coats and your pajama costumes with buttons, such is the message which fashion is fairly shouting in the ears of young moderns who attend college this fall.

An ideal decoration for smart campus clothes is the new buttons, whether there be rows and rows of them, or perhaps a single huge button placed with a view of "showing off" to the best advantage.

The nifty jersey frocks, which are so decidedly "it" for the college girl this fall, make a perfect background for the new-so-chic button trappings. In order that you may be made wise as to the effectiveness of the new button treatments your attention is called to the stunning costume of brown wool jersey shown to the right in this picture. Here rows and rows of beige ocean pearl buttons travel up and down the deftly-seamed sections of the tunic, on the sleeves also. In fact, wherever there is the slightest excuse for their appearance either on bodice or skirt there do these ornamental buttons hold forth.

Color adds greatly to the lure of the clever button trims which are such a definite style feature this season. The four immense ocean pearl buttons which pose two on one side and two on the other at the hip line of the swanky blouse which the style-wise coed, standing to the left in the picture, is wearing, are a handsome green matching the silk which they trim. The suit itself is fashioned of one of the numerous rough textured loose-woven woollens which are so correct for the fall or winter costume. The deep sea-green of this material contrasts handsomely with the brown fur which collars it.

It is really very exciting, the button game as fashion is now playing it. For example, picture, if you will, a modish black silk afternoon dress with a diagonal bodice-closing, which is traversed with six large white ocean pearl buttons sewn through with a cording made of bright red fabric.

Paris is not only showing an interest in buttons, but buckles and other pearl trappings are likewise regarded with favor. This vogue is even reflected in the millinery realm where one sees here a directoire hat trimmed with a single large pearl buckle, or there a felt shape with a tab buttoned over the brim to give it a one-side flare as the season demands.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

SILKS, WOOLS AND VELVETS IN FAVOR

Velvets, silks and wools lead the parade of fall and winter fabrics, according to Kathlene Howard, New York fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar. Many new weaves and colors are available in these fabrics, she writes.

"Velvets are to be an outstanding fabric for the fall and winter mode," she says. "They are apparent in a variety of weaves."

"Evening dresses, evening wraps, afternoon dresses, cinema dresses are all seen in this luxurious fabric, so suitable to the romantic mode. "Flat crepes, in flower and fruit shades and in pastels, are greatly in demand. Lanes are important. Satin is paramount. Stiffer silks, such as faille and brocades are represented in the collections. Novelties in plaid effects, heavy-pleated crepes, square alpaca-like weaves and faconne surfaces are offered."

"A woolen season is strongly indicated. In coatings the newest surfaces are rough for daytime wear, changing to duvety or broadcloth for more formal coats."

New Glove Buttons Up Back Instead of Under

A new glove buttons up the back of the hand instead of the under side. It is a gauntlet, but the buttons begin diagonally at the little finger and cross the hand above the wrist. A contrast in color is made by the buttons and the outline around the buttonholes, and occasionally by means of contrasting stitching done by hand around the fingers. On some a cuff turns back, showing a bright lining in combination with white or beige or a lighter shade of whatever the lining is showing.

Ostrich Puts You in Forefront of Fashion

And the ostrich is back. Oh, very much so. Not only on fans, but also on the everyday afternoon hat. "Yes, ma'am, two little ostrich plumes over the right ear on a close-fitting hat not only lend softness to the face but put you in the forefront of fashion. What's more, an ostrich muff has been known to be carried, busily but prettily, to evening functions."

Jewel Shoulder Straps

The jewel-like beauty of turquoise blue ocean pearl sequins which band the shoulder straps and outline the deep décolletage lends brilliance to this sophisticated evening gown of shell-pink celanese satin.

Some of the New Ideas in Chic Hats for Fall

On distinctly new lines is the small hat with a curving rather like a crescent moon. Not all the new brimmed hats have ostrich. A new one in rust colored felt is trimmed at the side with a roll of green velvet set under the side brim as a feather might be.

A black felt has a large black satin ribbon bow in the back, under a brim still more ribbon appears, this time in pink velvet for a black felt model that sports a rather wide brim dipping down in front and up at sides, from a crown almost too slight and small to talk about. The way the velvet ribbon is used deserves a word. Its sedate twin knot perched in front and Watteau shepherdess bow behind.

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes the acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water neutralizes instantly many times that much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

45,000,000 Visit Parks

The state parks of the country, now numbering more than 300, were by no means idle acres last year. Figures gathered by the National Park service indicate that there were 45,000,000 visitors in the reservations last year, making an average of 15,000 per park. The parks, incidentally, averaged 1,000 acres each although naturally many were much larger and many much smaller.

Los Angeles Boy Needed Help

Leroy Young, 1118 Georgia St., Los Angeles, is a "regular fellow," active in sports, and at the top in his classes at school. To look at him now, you'd think he never had a day's sickness but his mother says: "When Leroy was just a little fellow, we found his stomach and bowels were weak. He kept suffering from constipation. Nothing he ate agreed with him. He was fretful, feverish and puny."

"When we started giving him California Fig Syrup his condition improved quickly. His constipation and biliousness stopped and he has had no more trouble of that kind. I have since used California Fig Syrup with him for colds and upset spells. He likes it because it tastes so good and I like it because it helps him so wonderfully!"

California Fig Syrup has been the trusted standby of mothers for over 50 years. Leading physicians recommend it. It is purely vegetable and works with Nature to regulate, tone and strengthen the stomach and bowels of children so they get full nourishment from their food and waste is eliminated in a normal way.

Four million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it. Always look for the word "California" on the carton to be sure of getting the genuine.

Liabilities

A Boston girl says she will marry the man who pays her father's debts. We would advise interested parties to first find out who got the father in debt.

If it necessary to educate some to the charm of silence?

Don't Neglect Your Kidneys

Treat Disordered Kidney Function Promptly.

A nagging backache, with bladder irritations and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling may warn of disordered kidney function. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills in these conditions. Praise for more than 50 years by grateful users the country over. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Doan's Pills

A DIURETIC FOR THE KIDNEYS

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains of Abraham

By
James Oliver Curwood

© by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc.
WNU Service.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

That the explosion of the gun would reach the ears of the Mohawks was in Jeems' mind as he comforted his shocked companion. For a few moments it was difficult for her to believe the combat was over and that the fiend who lay like a great spider on his back was no longer a menace to them. To her relief and her faith in Jeems was added an emotion of joy when she saw that Odd was alive. The dog had dragged himself to his feet and stood watching the slain man grimly.

The dead man stared up at them as they passed. In their path lay the arrow which had gone cleanly through him. Tolnette could not keep back the hysterical sob which came in her throat, but she looked at Jeems with such wonder and love in her face that he heard only the throbbing tumult in his heart and brain. He had fought for her and won! And he had fought on that same ground where almost six years before he had failed to whip Paul Tache!

"The Indians have heard the shot and will return," he said. "This white man must have discovered some sign of us and came to do murder and have his spoils alone. Dear God, when I think—"

He was looking at Tolnette's tresses, which had burst free from their plaited bonds.

"We must run," he said. They passed the barn and went through the deserted field behind it, Odd following them.

"There is a stony ridge less than a mile from here," he encouraged. "If we can reach it, I know of twenty places where bare rock will let us throw them off our trail."

"We will reach it," breathed Tolnette.

He pointed the way and let her go ahead of him, turning his head every dozen steps to look behind.

Along the hardwood knoll where the Lussans had gathered their fuel, Tolnette sped like a graceful nymph, her long hair streaming about her in the sun until at times Jeems saw nothing but its beauty; and in the contemplation of its loveliness a shuddering horror ran through him. In the stump field at home Hepsibah had told him how both the English and the French had begun to make use of women's hair, and that many a gentleman courtly dandy wore shining curls taken by the scalping knife in wilderness orgies of rapine and murder. In the narrowness of Tolnette's escape, the thought oppressed him with sickening force.

Soon her lack of endurance compelled them to slacken their pace, and when they reached the rocky ascent which led to the crest of the ridge, Tolnette's breath was breaking sobbingly from her lips and for a while she could go no farther. She gazed in the direction from which they had come, unfettered, and almost with challenge in her look, her breast wildly throbbing, her hand reaching out to Jeems.

Each of the few minutes that passed seemed an hour to him.

Then they climbed to the crest of the ridge. Here Jeems picked his way, choosing the places where their feet would not touch scattered stones or grass or soil, until half an hour of slow and tedious progress lay between them and the point where they had come from the valley.

"If they come this far, they will think we have taken the wider and easier country," he explained. "Can you hold out a little longer?"

"It was the running that turned me faint," said Tolnette. "I am as strong as you are now, Jeems. But may I stop and braid my hair? It is cumbersome and warm, and I wish you would cut it off."

"I would cut off my arm first," declared Jeems. "We will be safe farther on, and if you wait until we have put ourselves beyond that mass of rocks off there—"

His words remained unfinished. From behind them came a cry. It was not fierce nor one that seemed to carry menace, and bore with it a strange and almost musical softness. Jeems knew its meaning. The Mohawks were on the ridge. One of them was calling his scattered companions to evidence of their passing which he had discovered.

Jeems hastened Tolnette over the rocks.

"They have found some sign of us," he explained. "It may be one of Odd's claw marks on a stone, or the scratch from a nail in your shoe. Whatever it is, they only know we have come this way and will still believe we have taken to the plain."

Tolnette saw how desperately he was trying to keep from her the real nearness of their peril.

"I have seen Indians climb over rocks and windfalls. They are like cats—and I am so slow and clumsy," she said. "You can move faster than any Indian, Jeems. Hide me somewhere among these rocks—and go on alone. I am sure they will not harm me if they should happen to discover where I am."

Jeems did not answer. They had come to the rocks which he had spoken of a few moments before. Here, if anywhere, was a place for concealment. It was filled with dark and cavernous refuges, and where the boulders met and crushed together were hidden pockets where their bodies might lie unseen. Tolnette perceived these things with a heart that lightened with relief and hope.

A dozen steps from where they stood were three boulders apart from the others. One of the three had split itself so that one half of it was a slab that formed a roof for the crevice between the other two.

Jeems' eyes revealed a deeper excitement as he pointed it out to Tolnette.

"We will hide—and in there!" he cried. "Make haste, Tolnette! It is smooth rock and will leave no sign behind us. Go in and keep Odd with you!"

He began to throw loose stones about the huge boulder heap. Some he flung over the top of it so that they fell on the opposite side, and at last he sent a few into the edge of the valley, each farther than the other. He finished by shooting an arrow which descended in an open space at the foot of the ridge.

Tolnette watched him in amazement and alarm until he commanded her in a stern voice to crawl quickly under the stones. She waited no longer but pulled herself a few inches at a time beneath the boulders. Jeems, thrusting Odd ahead of him, had greater difficulty in performing this same feat, and for a little while they quivered and twisted until they found a dark recess in which they could crowd themselves and even sit upright. Jeems explained to Tolnette the meaning of his strange behavior outside.

"First they will find the loose stones and the marks I made and search for us in every hole and cranny of the pile," he said. "When they discover the arrow I hope they will believe we have fled into the forest."

They waited in a silence wherein the beating of their hearts was like the sound of tiny drums in the gloom of their hiding place. A shudder ran through Tolnette, but she whispered: "I am not afraid."

She felt Jeems' trembling for his hatchet, and heard him place it quietly on the naked rock at his side.

Then the rock itself seemed to give forth a faint sound as if some one had tapped it gently with a stick.

This sound grew into others that were soft and swift, and Jeems knew that moccasined feet were all about them. Low voices added themselves to the pattering tread. Tolnette fixed her eyes on the crack through which came the shaft of light, and occasionally it was darkened as a body passed it. The tread of feet came and went, but its beauty; and in the contemplation of its loveliness a shuddering horror ran through him. In the stump field at home Hepsibah had told him how both the English and the French had begun to make use of women's hair, and that many a gentleman courtly dandy wore shining curls taken by the scalping knife in wilderness orgies of rapine and murder. In the narrowness of Tolnette's escape, the thought oppressed him with sickening force.

Soon her lack of endurance compelled them to slacken their pace, and when they reached the rocky ascent which led to the crest of the ridge, Tolnette's breath was breaking sobbingly from her lips and for a while she could go no farther. She gazed in the direction from which they had come, unfettered, and almost with challenge in her look, her breast wildly throbbing, her hand reaching out to Jeems.

Each of the few minutes that passed seemed an hour to him.

Then they climbed to the crest of the ridge. Here Jeems picked his way, choosing the places where their feet would not touch scattered stones or grass or soil, until half an hour of slow and tedious progress lay between them and the point where they had come from the valley.

"If they come this far, they will think we have taken the wider and easier country," he explained. "Can you hold out a little longer?"

"It was the running that turned me faint," said Tolnette. "I am as strong as you are now, Jeems. But may I stop and braid my hair? It is cumbersome and warm, and I wish you would cut it off."

"I would cut off my arm first," declared Jeems. "We will be safe farther on, and if you wait until we have put ourselves beyond that mass of rocks off there—"

His words remained unfinished. From behind them came a cry. It was not fierce nor one that seemed to carry menace, and bore with it a strange and almost musical softness. Jeems knew its meaning. The Mohawks were on the ridge. One of them was calling his scattered companions to evidence of their passing which he had discovered.

Jeems hastened Tolnette over the rocks.

"They have found some sign of us," he explained. "It may be one of Odd's claw marks on a stone, or the scratch from a nail in your shoe. Whatever it is, they only know we have come this way and will still believe we have taken to the plain."

Tolnette saw how desperately he was trying to keep from her the real nearness of their peril.

"I have seen Indians climb over rocks and windfalls. They are like

The savage was looking at the entrance to their hiding place! Jeems pictured the warrior, his doubt and hesitation, and was as sure in his vision as though no barrier lay between them. He heard a grunt. The Seneca was on his stomach, peering in, and the grunt was an expression of the foolishness which had made him grovel like this. In a moment, he would rise and go away. But the moment passed. One—two—three—dozen. Tolnette was like one dead—unbreathing. Odd, sensing a mighty danger, knowing that it was coming, crouched like a sphinx.

At last the silence was broken so softly that the disturbance might have been that of a tree of Tolnette's hair falling from her shoulder across Jeems' arm. The Indian had thrust in his head. He was listening—smelling—then advancing shyly and cautiously like a ferret on the trail of prey. There could no longer be a doubt. He knew there was something under the rocks and, with true Seneca courage, foreseeing glory for himself even if death paid for it, he was coming alone.

Every instinct reached its highest tension in Jeems as a danger approached which he would be able to touch with his hands in another moment or two. He removed himself gently from Tolnette's embrace and prepared his arms and body for action. Their eyes had grown more accusatory to the gleam, and Tolnette could see him as he crouched forward and gathered himself for the struggle which would mean life or death for them. Suddenly she understood that it would not be a struggle. When the Seneca's head appeared Jeems' hatchet would smash it in. She could see the hatchet. It was poised to strike. There would be no cry—no moan—only that terrible, hidden sound. She listened to the doomed man slowly coming.

The feathers of his tuft appeared first, then the long black scalp lock, the half-plucked head, a pair of shoulders. Jeems put all his strength behind the upraised hatchet. He knew there must be but one blow—well placed in the middle of the skull. That would end it. He almost closed his eyes and the hatchet descended a little, an overwhelming sense of the horror of the thing holding back his stroke. It was not simply killing; it was murder. The Seneca turned his head and looked up. His eyes were trained for use at night, and he saw more clearly than Jeems. He saw the white face, the hatchet, the death behind it, and he waited, transformed to stone. No voice came to his lips and no movement of his cramped body in this moment of shock and stupefaction when he must have realized that all the power of his forest gods could not help him. The pupils of his eyes glowed darkly. He did not breathe. Conscious of his impeding end, he was amazed but not terrified. His fine countenance did not shrink from the steel about to sink into his brain. Into Jeems' face as he paused for a moment to study the ground about them.

For a second more the blade did not fall, and in that second Jeems' eyes and those of the savage met steadily. Then the hatchet clattered to the rock floor, and with a protest of revulsion at what he had almost done, Jeems clutched at the Seneca's throat. The Indian was at a disadvantage, and though his powerful body strained and fought to loosen the choking grip, his position was so hopeless that in a short time he was limp and unconscious.

The Seneca's adventure, and the combat—if it could be distinguished by that name—had not terminated a moment too soon for those concealed under the rocks. The trail hunters were now aware that the placing of the arrow had been a ruse to delay them and began swarming back to the ridge. Half a dozen warriors gathered in a fierce and animated debate close about the rocks.

If Tolnette's nerves were on the point of breaking, then Odd's were in no better condition when the Seneca returned to the ridge. His heart was breaking in its subjection to inactivity and stillness. Now he looked again on victory. His master was triumphant as the Indians returned and crowded about the rocks. Defence rose in his soul in an overwhelming flood. He hated the small outside. He hated the creatures who made it. Without warning, his passion broke loose in the howling rage of a beast gone mad. Tolnette's arms and Jeems' hands were futile in their efforts to stop it. The Seneca on the stone floor moved a little.

Outside there fell an awful stillness. Then Odd realized what he had done and grew quiet. They could feel rather than hear a velvet-footed, voiceless cordon gathering about them in a ring of death.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Expurgation
Cromwell's "Handbook for Readers and Writers" says that to "bowdlerize" means to expurgate a book. Thomas Bowdler in 1818 published an edition of Shakespeare's work in which nothing is added to the original text; but those words and expressions are omitted which cannot with propriety be read aloud in the family.

This was in ten volumes. Bowdler subsequently treated Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" in the same way.

Alphabet Long in Use?
That Sclatic merchants who lived before 3000 B. C. in Asia minor knew the use of the alphabet, is the conclusion of a scholar who builds up his evidence without having any of the writings of these Semites, since their records were on perishable parchment.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. F. H. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 18

PAUL IN THESSALONICA AND BEREIA

GOLDEN TEXT—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.
LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:1-15; I Thess. 2:1-12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How We Ought to Live
JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Kinds of Hearers
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Two Kinds of Hearers
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Winning through Love.

1. Paul Preaching in Thessalonica (17:1-10).

1. His method (vv. 1, 2). He observed the divine order, to the Jew first, and was exceedingly anxious for his kinsmen in the flesh, but when they proved themselves unworthy, he turned to the Gentiles.

2. His message (v. 3). It was that Jesus is the Christ. In order to prove that Jesus is the Christ, he expounded unto them the Scriptures. Concerning Christ he set forth three propositions:

a. That Christ must needs have suffered (v. 3). The suffering Christ was not welcomed by the Jews. They had explained away such positive assertions as are set forth in Isaiah 53. They were looking for a Messiah of a different type. This is common today in our churches and Sunday schools. The cross is an offense.

b. "Risen again from the dead" (v. 3). This he also proved by the Scriptures.

c. "That this Jesus whom I preach unto you is Christ" (v. 3). He declared that the historic Jesus whom he had proclaimed had suffered and risen from the dead. Therefore, he is the predicted Messiah.

3. The attitude of the Jews toward his preaching (vv. 4-10). While some Jews believed and many Greeks, the envy of certain Jews was so aroused that they gathered together the worthless fellows of the town and set on foot a riot. They said, "These have turned the world upside down."

It is true that the gospel is revolutionary, but not treason to right government. They turned the preaching of Paul into a specious lie. He preached the kingship of Jesus (v. 7). Jesus is most assuredly coming to reign on this earth.

11. The Character of Paul's Ministry at Thessalonica (I Thess. 2:1-12). In this section we have exhibited the temper of the apostolic ministry. It becomes an ideal for such as would follow in his wake.

1. It was courageous (vv. 1, 2). In spite of shameful persecution, Paul persisted in his ministry, demonstrating his devotion to the Lord.

2. Honest and guileless (vv. 3, 4). He had no ulterior motive. As one sent of God, he faithfully ministered unto the hearers.

3. Without flattering words (v. 5). Regardless of the difficulty of his position, the prominence of the persons faced, he never resorted to flattery.

4. Without a cloak of covetousness (v. 5). The impelling force of his life was devotion to God and interest in lost men. Opportunity for personal gain he waived aside.

5. He did not seek glory from man (v. 6). His supreme aim being to honor God.

6. He was gentle and affectionate (vv. 7, 8). So vitally did he enter into the lives of the people that he displayed gentleness, even as a nursing mother with her children.

7. Unselfish (v. 9). In order that his motive be not questioned he labored night and day for his support.

8. Irreproachable and blameless (v. 10). He did not claim to be faultless, but he boldly challenged them as to his blamelessness.

9. His lofty aim (vv. 11, 12). It was that they would walk worthy of God in keeping with their high calling.

111. Paul Preaching in Berea (Acts 17:10-15).

1. His method (v. 10). He entered the synagogue and preached Christ unto them.

2. The reception of the gospel by the Bereans (vv. 11, 12). It was with gladness of heart. The message was just as new to these Jews and just as counter to their way of thinking as it was to the Thessalonian Jews, but they had a more noble disposition. Two things are said of them:

a. They received the message gladly.

b. They searched the Scriptures daily for the truthfulness of the message which they had heard.

3. The wicked action of the Jews (vv. 13-15). Wicked Jews from Thessalonica followed the missionaries and stirred up the people against them, making it necessary for them again to flee.

Sin
Sin sprang into life, and I saw myself as a dead man. It is remarkable that Christianity is the only religion that produces this effect. There is no word in any non-Christian language for sin as moral evil.—D. M. Pantou.

Sticking to the Finish
Character is developed by fighting a plan through to success and triumphing over obstacles. Anyone can start, but only a person with character will stick to the finish.—Watchword.

Effective Way to Fight Quack Grass

Plow Shallow in Fall, and Drag Frequently.

A single hard-fought battle may cripple quack grass temporarily, but victory comes from continual sniping and strategy rather than from heavy fighting, according to H. B. Hartwig of the New York State College of Agriculture.

The weed has fleshy creeping roots and when these roots are cut and covered with earth they sprout like so many potato eyes. In addition, the plant grows seeds. With these two ways of spreading quack grass maintains itself persistently once it is seeded, he explains.

The first move in the campaign is to plow shallow in the fall. The ground is then dragged, and the dragging is repeated often enough to keep the green leaves from showing. Do not disk, Mr. Hartwig warns, for diskings cuts and buries the root pieces and only spreads the quack. When the first, and was exceedingly enough and no leaves appear the plants have no opportunity to store food and the continued dragging helps starve and weaken the plants. The exposure to sunshine also helps the starving process.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Get Only the Highest Grade of Alfalfa Seed

"Much of the trouble with alfalfa hay has been due to unhardy seed," said Dr. L. W. Durnell, Colorado Agricultural college, at a recent meeting. He said that growers should learn where the seed is produced before they buy it and be sure the seed is hardy for their conditions. He explained an analysis of alfalfa seed bought for $9 a bushel, which showed only 40 per cent germination. This seed, laboratory tests proved, contained one-half as much weed seed as alfalfa seed and 32 different kinds of weed seeds. The purchaser got only 19 pounds of live alfalfa seed and actually paid 47 cents a pound for it.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

Repeated draggings in the spring should weaken the quack so a smother crop should complete the work. But many persons rely too much on the smother crop without weakening the quack first, he says. A little cultivation stimulates the quack and is worse than none. It is the continued work, well timed, with a smother crop to complete the rout after the quack is weakened that does the job.

BEST POWDER BASE MONEY CAN BUY

Plough's Peroxide Cream makes powder cling for hours. Protects and safe-guards fair complexions. High quality cream at an economy price.

Overcome Skin Congestion with Plough's Cream
Keep Your Skin Young With Plough's Cold Cream

Plough's BEAUTY CREAMS

Ought to Be the Best
"Is this the best car I can buy?" asked the prospective buyer.
"Well," replied the salesman, "it is the kind of car the king of England buys."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Youthful Frankness
"Would you like to play and sing the way I do?"
"Oh, please, no, ma'am," quickly responded the child. "I wouldn't like people to say things about me."

Main business of politics is to get re-elected. After that, attention may be paid to public affairs.

DON'T BE FOOLISH, ELSIE. NO ONE SCRUBS ANY MORE. WHY DON'T YOU TRY MY WAY?

Tells sister easy way to wash clothes whiter

I CAN'T understand it, Elsie—a sensible girl like you scrubbing clothes! Change to Rinsol, the famous 'no-work' soap. It soaks out dirt—all you need to do is rinse. That saves your strength—saves the clothes, too!

Rich suds—in washers, too
Even in hardest water, Rinsol suds are thick, creamy, lasting. You need no bar soaps, chips or softeners. Cup for cup, Rinsol gives twice as much suds; as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. These rich suds get clothes so white, even boiling isn't necessary.

The makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinsol. And it's great for dishwashing. Get the BIG package.

MILLIONS USE RINSOL in tub, washer and dishpan

Heron Collection
Perhaps the biggest colony of blue herons on the Atlantic coast is at Bartlett's Island, near Bar Harbor, Maine. The island, a four-acre tract in Long Island Sound, is owned by Augustus F. Loring, Boston lawyer. On it there are some

PAGE EIGHT

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, October 15, 1931

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succeeded thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation. II Cor. 6: 2.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt. Sunday School 9:30. Evening service at 7:30. A male quartet from The Bible Institute of Fort Wayne, Ind., will furnish special music for the evening. Pastor V. O. Harrold will bring a message from the Word.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt. Sunday School 9:30 A. M. A morning and afternoon service in honor of fathers and sons will be held at Concord. Interesting speakers and also a male quartet from The Fort Wayne Bible Institute will help to make this all day service one which everyone should enjoy. Dinner will be served at the church during the noon hour.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt. Sunday School 9 o'clock. V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt. Church School 9:30. Creff Service 10:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt. Church School 9:15. Evening Service 7:00. G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurni, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt. Sunday School 9:00.

HARLAN

(Intended for Last Week)

Mrs. Isa Boulton and Miss Lyle Swift attended the funeral of Mrs. Jennie Chausse in St. Joseph Township Thursday afternoon. Dora Amstutz, Mrs. Henry Weicker, Esther Greenwood and Mattie Long were Fort Wayne shoppers Tuesday.

Jennie Werts, Pluma Knisley, Otis James, Juanita Minick, Bernice Thindlar and Mina Amstutz attended district meeting at Monroeville Wednesday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hutter Monday, October 5, a son named William Henry.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Burk attended the Home Coming at the Leo M. E. Church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Richard entertained Mrs. Wesley Reichard of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earhart and Mrs. George Earhart and granddaughter, Wanda Lou of Portland at their home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bauserman left Saturday for Haines City, Florida, where they will spend the winter.

Miss Joyce Boggs returned to her home at Churubusco Friday evening after a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boggs.

Fifty members of the Country Club were present at their monthly meeting held at Mrs. Pluma Knisley's Tuesday.

We Do STATIONERY PRINTING on HAMMERMILL BOND

Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman of Fort Wayne spent a few days of this week here.

Mrs. Ida Helfer Ratcliff of Ft. Wayne was a Harlan visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blaisdell of Edgerton, Ohio visited here Monday.

Lavere Roller and Thelma Amstutz are visiting relatives in Fort Wayne this week.

Mrs. Ella Harter of Harter's Corners spent the past week with Mrs. Etta Swaidner.

Mrs. Clara Smith and son, Boyd, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Shone visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parsons at Lake Pleasant Tuesday.

Harold Greenwood and daughter, Lois made an airplane trip to Detroit Saturday.

Mrs. Eva Kinsey entertained the Harlan Culture Club Monday afternoon. Those present were: Florence Repp, Nettie Cummins, Lois Fuellig, Anna Furney, Matie Long, Mae Lynde, Janet Woods, Elsie Zellmer, Hazel Roller, Beryl Swartz, Mildred Julian, Blanch Reichelderfer, Dora Roller, Dora Reichelderfer, Ella Boston, Sophia Emme and the hostess.

HARLAN

William Garman, Sol Yoder and family and Mr. and Mrs. Custer Surface of Hometown, Charles Peters and family and Albert Yoder and family of Auburn, took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. David Garman and children.

Bert Smith and family moved into the Andrew Ward property Thursday.

Mrs. Edna Chiddister and daughter, Betty of Churubusco spent the past week with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boggs.

Eighty-nine children were present at the Story Hour conducted by Miss Helen Baird of Fort Wayne at Harlan Branch Library Friday afternoon. Miss Margaret Winnie of Fort Wayne and Walburga Downey and Pauline Smith, teachers, were also present.

Mrs. Ella Boston and Mrs. Beryl Swartz spent the weekend at Crooked Lake the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Zels.

The Past Matrons Club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blaisdell at Edgerton Wednesday. After a business session and music a lunch was served by the hostess. Those present were: Lyle Ringwalt, Mae Lynde, Clara Smith, Blanch Reichelderfer, Anna Zels, Sophia Emme, Ethel Timbrook and Edith Butts.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Small spent Thursday afternoon with friends at Lake Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Reichelderfer and Billy Blackburn spent a recent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gruber at Goshen.

Elder Fred Thomas will preach Sunday morning and afternoon during the special Rally and Home Coming services at the Church of Christ. Bible School begins at 9 o'clock and the afternoon service at 1:30.

Mrs. Fred Minick and children Arvada, Juanita and Wilber and Mrs. Darwin Amstutz were Fort Wayne callers Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clift Kinsey visited Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clark near Albion Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Mason and Geo. Sievert were united in marriage at Fort Wayne Saturday afternoon.

HORSE SENSE

Allowing the swine herd to forage in a stalk field after corn husking is a satisfactory practice when it can be used.

The bearing apple tree should make an annual terminal growth of ten or more inches.

Careful selection of site may mean the difference between profit and loss in the fruit planting.

The size of strawberries and yield per plant is correlated with the diameter of the crown. Plant early, fertilize well and cultivate often.

A good winter dairy ration consists of legume hay, silage and a grain mixture of 4 parts ground corn or wheat, 2 parts oats or bran and 1 part protein supplement, linseed, cottonseed, soybean meal or ground soybeans.

One of the essentials in the operation of a vegetable farm is a thorough annual study of the operations each year. Demands, prices, costs of production, and new crops should be planned in advance of the season.

It's well worth the effort of keeping records, just to know that you could have gotten back your money when selling eggs at ten cents—if you had discarded more non-producers.

ODD, ISN'T IT?

Before the Civil War many negroes owned slaves.

Thomas Jefferson's only brother was a hopeless idiot.

Texarkana was named for three states—Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Jainism, a religion of India, so strongly stresses the doctrine of non-injury to all living things that a devout follower of the sect will not kill or even disturb the insects which he finds feeding on his body.

A full-blooded Indian has never been elected to Congress.

No species of insect, not even bees, has ever been domesticated.

Bedbugs have been kept alive for a year in a sealed vial with absolutely no means of sustenance whatever.

George Washington's only son distinguished himself as a playwright.

General George Pickett did not take part in Pickett's famous charge at Gettysburg.

If there were no dust in the atmosphere it would never rain, hail or snow.

Frozen sea water has very little salt in it.

Goldfish do not exist anywhere in the natural wild state.

NAME O'HOWLS

There is one KNIGHT GOWN in Manhattan and he is the Rev. William that.

H. A. McFEET lives on WALKER street at Atlanta.

CAIN and ABEL constitute the battery of the Braintree (Mass.) baseball team.

Divorced: the GOODNIGHTS, at Los Angeles.

ANGUISH & CO. is the name over a Detroit drug store.

William STRINGFELLOW of San Francisco had a con man arrested for stringing him about some stock.

Add marriages: Ida LIPOFF and Charles RUBOWSKY at Philadelphia.

SIGNS OF DECAY SHOWING IN WASHINGTON MONUMENT

Engineers and Architects Worried Over Condition of Building Stones.

New York.—The marble of which the Washington monument is constructed is showing rather alarming signs of decay, to the worry of engineers and architects.

There is, of course, no danger to the monument yet, writes D. W. Kessler, bureau of standards engineer, in the American Architect, but the fact that the marble is cracking and chipping—architects call it spalling—gives one to think about the material of which structures designed for the centuries should be built.

The old story of frost breaking up the stone is not taken too seriously by Mr. Kessler, although that may have something to do with it. He looks upon the spalling marble as simply decaying and proposes no remedies.

Among other things, the unnatural gases and acids which modern cities pour into their air are seen as an important factor in the decomposition of building stones.

There are not enough old buildings in this country for the various kinds of native stones to have been thoroughly tested. The bureau of standards issues reports on building stones as the results of tests under simulated weather conditions but there arises the question of whether these tests really approximate the effect of weathering on building stone.

The tremendous load strain on the stone of the Washington monument may have some part in the spalling of the edges of the stones.

"Many writers on the subject of masonry decay have been inclined to place most of the blame on frost action," writes Mr. Kessler in the American Architect, but he adds, "Since this does not occur to state we must conclude that such dense materials are not stressed appreciably by frost."

Freshmen at Ohio U.

to Be Given New Deal

Athens, Ohio.—The freshman—traditionally the "underdog" at Ohio university—has been elevated to the social position held by upper classesmen.

A new ruling passed by the junior-senior governing board gives the freshman privileges equal to those of his big brothers, the sophomore, the junior, and the senior.

No longer will first year students be forced to wear little green caps and be subjected to the maltreatment of sophomore vigilance committees. These were outlawed by the new rules.

The junior-senior board, in order to promote on the Ohio university campus a co-operative spirit among students, and to accord with the progressive institutions throughout the country, withdraws the freshman rules made and authorized by them and recommends that the sophomore vigilance committee be disbanded, the new resolution stated.

For many years freshmen have been forced to wear green, short billed caps and obey certain rules of conduct on the campus. Violations of these rules resulted in punishment to varying degrees by the vigilance committee.

British Census Takers

to Hear True Ages

London.—The ever delicate question of a woman's age will be one of the principal features in the census of Britain's population, to be taken April 23. All women will be compelled to tell their age.

Their embarrassment will not be public, however, for the authorities have undertaken to inflict the severe penalties on any one who unlawfully gives away the secret.

It is believed in many quarters that a number of women members of parliament were partly responsible for the decision to withhold the knowledge from the curious and inquisitive. The reticence of the women of Westminster in regard to their ages is most noticeable in the reference books, which almost invariably omit the date of their birth.

U. S. Kids Happy; Drought

Cuts Down Spinach Crop

Washington.—Little boys and girls can thank last summer's drought for one thing.

It reduced possibilities of a large spinach acreage for canning purposes this year.

The acreage of spinach intended for canning in California for 1931 is estimated at 7,027 acres, a reduction of 16 per cent below the 8,270 acreage of 1930.

In Maryland the acreage depends largely upon the market price of the crop. If favorable weather conditions prevail, the acreage used for canning purposes is expected to equal the usual acreage, or close to 1,500 acres.

Stranger Gives Blood

to Save Homeless Waif

Chattanooga, Tenn.—A sixteen-year-old homeless orphan, Edgar Chapman, lives today because of the gift of a pint of a stranger's blood.

It came in answer to a radio appeal after physicians decided a blood transfusion alone could save his life from the effects of a difficult operation.

Hundreds answered, men and women, old and young, whose very words and finally the blood of E. D. Milligan, twenty-year-old resident of Chicago, was found satisfactory.

ITALIAN PRIDE FIRED BY RELICS

Excavation of Ruins Stirs Patriotism Throughout the Nation.

Rome.—Mussolini is carrying out extensive excavation of Roman empire ruins in Italy to reawaken the pride of Italians in the marvelous achievements of their ancestors and to stir their patriotism.

The explorations are only one angle of the campaign to revive the glories of ancient Rome and reawaken interest in its accomplishments.

Important finds of priceless art objects were made in Pompeii and Herculaneum within the last few weeks. They will arouse the wonder and admiration of the world when exhibited to the public.

The most important discovery of its kind in the history of archeology has been made in Pompeii. It is a complete service of 115 pieces of solid silver tableware of amazingly beautiful workmanship. The astonishing feature was the perfect state of preservation. Many of the pieces were actually as bright and polished as the day they were buried—1,851 years ago.

Among the many gems is a solid silver candelabra about eight inches in diameter, four inches deep and more than a quarter of an inch thick, with a wide handle, upon which is portrayed hunting scenes in heavy relief. It was as brilliant as the day it was carefully wrapped in woolen fabric in the year 79. The weight was surprising.

Modern Designs From Past.

Another piece which will astonish archeologists is a large silver platter with the bust of a goddess in solid gold in the center. There is a large cake knife about eighteen inches in length amazingly like modern cake knives in design. In a jewelry shop window today it would pass for modern manufacture.

In the cellar of a house in Pompeii was found a silver set in a large box. Near the box was found a skeleton—perhaps a servant on guard or one of the family who rushed to save the silverware on that morning of August 24, in the year 79, when Vesuvius started to erupt and finally buried Pompeii and Herculaneum.

New excavations are in progress in Pompeii. Streets are being uncovered which show the wheel marks of carts and chariots worn into the stone blocks of paving, condensing up a picture of the busy life of the dead city nearly 2,000 years ago. On the outside walls of some of the houses are scrawled the names of ancient Roman politicians appealing for votes in the elections which probably never occurred.

Extensive new sections of the nearly ancient city of Herculaneum buried more than fifty feet on the same day in 79, are being uncovered. Officials declared they are now convinced Herculaneum was a very large city and hitherto only the barest fringe of the outskirts of Herculaneum have been revealed.

The fresh diggings have unearthed more than 4,000 square yards of the city—about four times more than the world has previously seen. As the excavation proceeds it is expected magnificent public buildings will be discovered. Seventy houses of the modern city of Herculaneum, which is built over the buried town, have been demolished to make way for excavation.

"Galloping Dominoes."

Judging by a set of surgical instruments it is inferred a house just unearthed was a doctor's and two dice indicate he toyed with the "galloping dominoes." Partially unearthed at the edge of the fresh excavation was a bed. An official was handed a bit of carbonized fabric of the bed clothes—the first time it had been touched since the occupant arose the day of the disaster.

Mussolini is uncovering the massive theater of Marcellus in Rome. It was begun by Julius Caesar and inaugurated in 15 B. C. The huge forum of Augustus in the center of the city is rapidly being revealed. Another forum is nearly excavated opposite the Teatro Argentina.

SELF FEED THE BROOD SOW AND PIGS AND SAVE LABOR

(By Prof. W. B. Krueck)

The fall pig crop is often neglected due to the fact that the farmer is busy harvesting his crops. Recent work at the Government Experiment Station at Beltsville, Maryland, has suggested a solution of this problem for the farmer.

Brood sows and pigs were self fed. After the pigs were ten days of age, sows and pigs were placed on self feeders with splendid results. Not only did the pigs gain more rapidly up to weaning time, but they produced these gains much more economically than where they were hand fed.

According to the government trials, it took 441 pounds of feed to produce 100 pounds of pork on pigs up to weaning time where the brood sows and pigs were on self feeders. In the same trials it took 603 pounds of feed to produce 100 pounds of pork on the pigs up to weaning time where they were hand fed. The pigs on the self feeder also gained about 30% more rapidly than did those that were being hand fed.

For best results the mixture in the self feeder should contain about 18% protein. This will result in maximum gains on the pigs and maximum milk production on the part of the brood sows. In case some sows do not maintain their body weight while being self fed in this way it may be desirable to feed a few ears of corn to those sows which seem to be losing flesh. By practicing the system of self feeding a farmer can continue to harvest his crops and at the same time promote rapid growth and development on his fall pigs.

By promoting rapid growth and building up vigor and vitality in the pig at the present time, it will be able to withstand cold weather much more efficiently and will be ready to go on the market much earlier in the spring. Best results will, of course, be obtained where a variety of proteins and minerals is furnished along with farm grains to properly balance the ration of the pig.

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER, 22, 1931

NUMBER 42

INSPIRING SERVICE HELD AT CONCORD SUNDAY

Sunday was another of those busy, happy, spirit-filled days for the congregation at the Concord Church, when the men had complete charge of the program, beginning with the Sunday School in the morning, followed by preaching by the pastor, Rev. Harold, and the music was in charge of Ira Bone, with special male quartet music from the Bible Training School at Fort Wayne.

At the noon hour others came to enjoy the dinner, that had not been in the forenoon services. Old friends made it a home coming event, and men of the community turned out in a good number to partake of the social side of the day.

Chas. Mory had charge of the afternoon program. W. B. Cox of St. Joe presided at the piano. Frank Nelson of Auburn, a former Concord boy, furnished a very entertaining part of the program, when he rendered a number of his poems, and the audience much appreciated his vein of humor and seriousness.

The day was indeed a pleasant one and only goes to show what can be done, if the community will support the program of the church.

The quartet appeared at St. Joe in the evening.

ASKS FOR ADMINISTRATOR

Upon the application of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Millman, the widow, the DeKalb circuit court Monday appointed Adelbert G. Hercules of Fort Wayne, as administrator of the estate of the late Frank L. Millman of St. Joe, who died September 7, 1930. There is $500 in personal property and $3,000 in real estate and the heirs besides the widow are two children, Marguerite M. Hercules and Leota H. Gruber of Fort Wayne. Mr. Hercules filed $1,000 bond, with the widow and Willard Gruber as sureties.

NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP FATHER JAILED BY SHERIFF

Claude Jackson, 43, the father of six children, made a mistake when he moved from Ohio to Indiana to engage in bootlegging. He was arrested twice in Paulding county and he moved to this state two months ago. He lives on a farm in Newville township and not far from the Ohio state line.

Sheriff John P. Hoff and his deputy, Herbert N. Grimm, made a call upon Jackson Sunday night. They carried a search warrant and they found about 300 bottles of beer, a dozen glasses of beer wine and other wine and a number of whiskey containers. Several customers came while the officers were at the house. Jackson was placed in the county jail on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

FIRST P. T. A. MEETING OF SCHOOL YEAR

The first meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association met at the gymnasium Tuesday evening, October 12, 1931.

The meeting opened with devotional services led by Derwood Ridgway. "The Aims for the P. T. A. for this Year," was given by the president, Pluma Hamilton. Mr. Maxwell presented the topic, "Our Changing Schools," in a most interesting manner, explaining the use and meaning of the Laboratory Method of teaching in our public schools. Following this discussion, Ralph Sechler presented the parents' side of the question, "The Parent Faces a New World."

IS THE SPIDER LOOKING FOR YOU? INQUIRES A READER

WHEN Mark Twain edited a newspaper in Missouri one of his subscribers wrote that he had found a spider in his paper and wished to know whether it meant good luck or bad?

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward!"

A motion was carried to have the dues reduced to 25 cents per couple for membership this year. It was also voted to have the hot lunch continued this year. At the close of the business session a social hour was much enjoyed by all. Everyone joined heartily in songs, games, and friendly greetings.

The social committee provided apples, cookies, and doughnuts for all present.

—Mrs. Harriet Oberlin, Secy.

GET-TOGETHER MEETING OF CHRISTIAN CHURCHES

Judge Clyde Carlin of Angola, will address the get-together meeting of the Christian Churches of DeKalb County, at the St. Joe Community Gym, Sunday evening, November 8th.

The local committees will make their plans known in the next issue of The News.

REFUSE RATE INCREASE.

The petition of the nation's railroads for authority to institute a fifteen per cent freight rate increase was denied by the Interstate Commerce Commission late Tuesday afternoon. The commission suggested that "in consideration of existing circumstances increases in rates on certain commodities be conditioned on approval arrangements between carriers for pooling the revenue accruing from the suggested increases so as to enable carriers to make fixed interest payments as they accrue." An increase of $3 a ton was authorized on coal, iron ore, copper ore, lead ore, zinc ore and pulp wood lumber.

COUNTY COUNCIL OF SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Auburn Christian Church, the county council of workers will be held and an interesting program has been arranged by the county chairman, Ward Jackman. Officers of the local schools are expected to be present, and also all township officers. Rev. Cormican will talk on the new school standard, and special music has been provided.

Dogwood Colors
The pink variety of dogwood is now a distinct variety, having been developed from pink specimens of the wild dogwood. The color of the blossoms is probably determined to some extent by soil conditions, but it is reasonable to suppose that a definitely pink variety would continue giving pink blossoms.

Everything to Please Our Customers

Hurni's Cash and Carry Store

TELEPHONE 43

Groceries
Vegetables

Fresh Fruits
Canned Goods

WE WILL CATER TO THE NEEDS OF OUR TRADE

We Are CASH BUYERS of Cream

TAXES REDUCED IN FOUR- TEEN OF TAX UNITS

A table prepared in the office of County Auditor Frank E. Lyon shows that the property owners of fourteen of the twenty-three taxing units of the county will pay taxes on lower rates in 1932 than in 1931.

In nine of the units the rates are higher.

A year ago the rates in eighteen units were reduced, four were increased and one remained the same.

Of the reductions for 1932, Stafford township leads with a cut of 39 cents on the $100 valuation. Troy follows with 27 cents. Others are reduced as follows: Butler city 3 cents, Garrett 2, Altona 6, Corunna 9, St. Joe 2, Waterloo 1, Butler township 4, Fairfield 17, Grant 3, Keyser 11, Richland 5 and Spencer 4.

Wilmington's levy is raised 15 cents, Auburn 4, Ashley 8, Concord township 2, Franklin 4, Jackson 2, Newville 14, Smithfield 12 and Union 19.

Stafford township has the distinction of the lowest rate among the townships and Altona is lowest among the cities and towns. Smithfield is highest among the townships and Garrett among the towns.

Only one remonstrance against the rates as fixed by the local officials was filed. This was Keyser township taxpayers, at the hearing it was agreed the road levy of 5 cents should be eliminated. The change has been approved by the state tax board.

The rates in each of the units for 1932 follow, together with the 1931 rates:

Auburn, $2.98.	Last year, $2.94.
Butler city, $2.99.	Last year, $3.02.
Garrett, $3.61.	Last year, $3.63.
Altona, $2.17.	Last year, $2.23.
Ashley, $3.81.	Last year, $3.23.
Corunna, $2.26.	Last year, $2.35.
St. Joe, $2.46.	Last year, $2.48.
Waterloo, $3.35.	Last year, $3.36.
Butler township, $1.73.	Last year, $1.77.
Concord township, $2.02.	Last year, $2.00.
Fairfield, $1.91.	Last year, $2.08.
Franklin, $2.37.	Last year, $2.33.
Grant, $1.76.	Last year, $1.79.
Jackson, $1.81.	Last year, $1.79.
Keyser, $1.75.	Last year, $2.03.
Newville, $2.17.	Last year, $1.97.
Richland, $1.92.	Last year, $1.97.
Smithfield, $2.81.	Last year, $2.69.
Spencer, $2.10.	Last year, $2.14.
Stafford, $1.50.	Last year, $1.89.
Troy, $2.14.	Last year, $2.35.
Union, $2.09.	Last year, $1.90.
Wilmington, $1.52.	Last year, $1.37.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

R. H. C.

The R. H. C. was very royally entertained at Auburn, Tuesday, October 13th at the home of a former member, Mrs. Hugh Nieland, 619 Douglas St. A pot luck dinner was served at the noon hour followed by a business session. Special numbers were given by Mrs. Hazel Washler, Mrs. Mira Conline, Miss Lizzie Hart and Mrs. Pluma Hamilton. Mrs. Grace Laub winning first prize. Responses were advice to the bride.

The guests were Mrs. Anna Frank, Silva Gee and children of Auburn, Mrs. Jessie Sommers of Spencerville and Mrs. W. W. Coburn and Mrs. J. N. Scholes. The club presented Mrs. Neiland with a pewter lamp, she also received several other gifts.

EX-TRUSTEES HAVE PARTY

Former township trustees and their families held a reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Foote, west of Waterloo, last Sunday. A potluck dinner was served to twenty-seven at the noon hour followed by a short program. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rinehart, Mr. and Mrs. Orin Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Camp and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Potter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Abel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Scudder Shutt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shull and family and Mr. and Mrs. Foote and daughter.

A suit to partition real estate at Spencerville has been filed in the DeKalb circuit court by Geo. A. Henderson against Chas. and Wm. C. Henderson. The court is asked to appoint a commissioner to sell the property and distribute the proceeds. Richard W. Zarnpless is the plaintiff's attorney.

FORMER SPENCERVILLE BOY DIES AT AUBURN

Funeral services for Cecil Silberg were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the Dilgard funeral home with Rev. J. W. Ferguson, officiating. Burial was made in Roselawn cemetery.

Mr. Silberg was 30 years old at the time of his death Friday afternoon at the Sanders' hospital following a three weeks illness from typhoid fever.

The deceased was born April 21, 1901 at Spencerville. He was a son of Stephen and Susie Silberg, the mother residing at 639 Douglas street in Auburn and the father deceased.

He has resided in Auburn for sixteen years. On June 2, 1923, Mr. Silberg was married to Miss Nellie DePew, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence DePew of Altona. To them was born a son, who died. A daughter, Doris Jean, was born eight months ago.

Mr. Silberg worked for the R. L. Holben Auto Co. for four years, resigning the last of May of this year to take a position in the service department of the Auburn Auto Co.

The deceased was a member of Mentor Lodge, No. 591, I. O. O. F.

OHIO TO DEDICATE ROAD NUMBER 24

Dedication of the 44-mile strip of concrete highway from Napoleon through Defiance to the Indiana line probably will take place November 7, with civic organizations and governmental officials joining in a big celebration in Defiance.

This was decided at a meeting in the Crosby hotel Friday night, with representatives of Antwerp, Napoleon and Defiance in attendance.

H. K. Harris of Antwerp was named general chairman of the delegation.

Route 24 from Napoleon to the Indiana line was constructed at a cost of approximately a million dollars. It is one of the most scenic and historic drives in Ohio, and deserves a dedication that will properly call attention to its importance.

A unique feature of route 24 is the longest curve on any road in Ohio. Near the Forde bridge in Paulding county, the highway carries the same degree of curve for 1.1 mile.

LAOTTO YOUTH KILLED

Raymond L. Peters, aged 23, of LaOtto, was killed and his companion, Edgar Hobough, aged 24, also of LaOtto, was injured when the car in which they were riding over turned in a corn field at the end of the Wallen road at the old Auburn road. The accident occurred about 11 o'clock Friday night.

The two were pinned under the car for thirty minutes, when the lights were discovered by Steven Bobay, 18. After investigating help was summoned and they freed Hobough and the dead man from the machine. Peters had a wife and two children.

CARD OF THANKS

Our Mother has left us, and while she resided in St. Joe for the many years, she made many friends and all were good to her in her long illness. We want to thank the minister, singers, and all for their comforting words, in this sudden parting.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Hutton.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson.
Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson.

TREASURER'S OFFICE OPEN

Commencing Saturday, Oct. 24, the Treasurer's Office will be open during the noon hour, also on the evenings of Monday, Oct. 26 and Friday, Oct. 30, to accommodate those who are unable to get in during the day.

Eager Men

There are men who, with clear perceptions, as they think of their own duty, do not see how too eager a pursuit of one duty may involve them in the violation of others, or how too warm an embracement of one truth may lead to a disregard of other truths equally important. —Daniel Webster.

Specials Saturday

Odds and ends of Dishes each	10c
Axes, Demon, handled go at	98c
Clothes Hampers special sale at	69c
Copper Wash Boilers they go now at	$3.49

$1.00 to $2.00 allowed for Old Lamps of any kind on new ALLADIN LAMP

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

TOOTING YOUR HORN!

Asked by the Cop why he didn't blow his horn at the street crossing, the young chap replied: "Well, if I do, the girls will step out to the curb." Pretty CHESTY.

Still, in more ways than one, it pays to "toot your own horn." That's what WE are doing NOW. We have a good Bank and we want EVERYBODY to know it. We want more business, the stronger our bank becomes, the better we are enabled to serve the community. We invite YOUR account.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

State "Executes" Killer's Car

Some weeks ago this car with James Finello at the wheel ran down and killed a small boy in Newark, N. J. Finello was held for trial and the car was turned over to the state vehicle department, which ordered it destroyed by fire.

My Neighbor
Says:

On entering the hall of your home, a visitor gets her first impression of the interior of your home. Keep the hall simple and in harmony with the adjoining rooms.

Old flannel of all kinds should be kept for the scrubbing and cleaning of paint. Next to flannel come coarse, soft linen, old kitchen towels, crash, etc.

A good painting job cannot be done with poor brushes. Using old brushes is not economy. Get a new brush and take care of it.

In selecting a chicken feel the breast bone. It ought to be quite soft, smooth and easily bent. If it feels like gristle, the bird is young, but if bone-like, then the chicken is old and will be tough.

Cornstarch will remove grease stains from cloth. Rub a little dry cornstarch into the soiled places and it will at once begin to absorb the grease. Brush the first used off carefully and proceed in same way until the spot disappears.

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

fellow and don't want you stuck for what would be on the clock."

The driver, inexperienced, was scared to death. He pictured himself involved in some holdup or shooting, but was afraid to take a chance of stopping beside a policeman and jumping out. The chances were, he thought, that the men might shoot them both. But they were not on that kind of expedition. They made him drive them to a number of obscure speakeries, and each time they took him in with them. The boy doesn't drink, but was afraid to refuse. He took beer, because he heard that was not so intoxicating. Finally they ordered him to drive to a town 100 miles away. He pleaded with them.

"Give me a break," he said. "I have driven you fellows around most of the night and lost any money I might have made. I have a wife and baby. If I drive you there, the man who owns this cab may think I've stolen it, and my wife will be scared to death, because it would take me until some time tomorrow to get home."

One of them told him to shut up, but the one who seemed to be the leader asserted that the driver had been a good guy, and that they would give him a break. He told him to draw up at the curb. There they waited until another taxi came along, hailed it and transferred. It may not have been such a break for the other taxi driver, but between the strain and the heat, the first one didn't consider that. He drove back to the garage; he had a terrible time making the boss believe his story. Then he went home; his wife smelled his breath and doesn't believe him yet.

Why go to Africa for adventure?

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK by WALTER TRUMBULL

What is the use of seeking adventure in Amazon or Congo country when you can drive a taxicab in New York? The dark continent is a Great White Way compared to some of our shady spots. And you may have noticed that every time there is a street battle—things we have in our town—some taxi driver is sure to be in it. If the gunmen don't commandeer his car, the police do. Take our recent war, in which six were killed on supposedly peaceful streets in a civilized country, and men, women and children were wounded, and you will remember that at least three taxicabmen were concerned in the chase and acquitted themselves with credit. It is true that one of them, a youngster, said that he had been in the taxi game just four days and now expected to spend the remainder of his life in some other part of action for one in business such a short time. What is adventure except seeing life and death, and going places? And a taxi driver does all that.

The police are a bit tired of having gunmen speed through our fair Tammany precincts shooting people up, especially policemen; so they are suggesting many things, such as short-wave radio sets and an augmented force. Lack of policemen scarcely appears to be the trouble. Plenty of them joined in the pursuit of these latest killers, without thought of personal danger. Our policemen, when it comes their time to look, in the bright face of danger, do not blink. Many of them have walked steadily into blazing guns and gone out in the smoke. They have plenty of courage, but they do not appear to be properly equipped. If radio will help them, they should have radio. At any rate, it is about time the citizens of New York did something to stop the slaughter of little children, even if we have to get the marines back from comparatively peaceful Nicaragua.

But, speaking of taxi drivers, he was young, new on the job, and driving the night trick. That is, the day

LOST HIS BALANCE

"When that bank you had your money in toppled, how did it affect you?"

"I lost my balance, too."

The Children's Corner
Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

At the Palace of the Duke

"Then it is true, Father! On the morrow you will go to the palace of the duke at Weissenfels!" It was a slender boy of perhaps seven years who spoke with so much eagerness—a boy by the name of George Frederick Handel, who lived in the town of Halle, in Saxony, towards the end of the Seventeenth century.

The father, old and wrinkled and white of hair, clasped his hands behind his back and, with unsmiling eyes, gazed downward at his son. Yes, it is true," he said. "Why are you so excited?"

"Because I too, wish to go to Weissenfels. Oh, Father, please, may I accompany you on the journey?"

"Why?" The word came sharply. George shifted his feet uneasily. His gaze strayed about the dark room in which they were standing, then fixed itself on his father's face. "At court," he replied boldly, "there is music—oh, such beautiful music. I love to hear it!"

The father's hands tightened behind his back, and a look of anger hardened his face. He had no use for music, no sympathy for anyone who cared for it—least of all for his young son.

"Hark to me!" he burst forth in an angry voice. "Much pain it gives me to hear you prate ever of music. Music? Bah! A waste of time! A lawyer you shall become, not a wandering, penniless musician! It is my wish for you. I have spoken!"

George's lips quivered. "But may I not go to the court with you?" he insisted. "Surely, there can be no harm—"

"No!" The father brought his hands together with a sound that echoed in the silent room. "No!" he repeated. "I will not have it!"

His father, old Herr Handel, set forth early the next day in the post chaise. George bade him good-by; but a few minutes after the carriage had passed through the gate he started after it. The roads were bad, the vehicle slow-moving. He felt sure that he could overtake it. Then he would plead with his father once more—and perhaps his father would yield.

George came up with the carriage at a considerable distance from the town. Fortunately for him, it had become bogged in a soft spot on the road. He saw it as he was emerging from a wood—one wheel well down in the mud, the driver with his shoulder against the spokes, and Herr Handel tugging at the bridle of the horses.

"What!" cried the father in amazement, catching sight of his son. "You here? Tell me, what is the meaning of this?"

"Oh, Father!" the boy replied with tears in his eyes. "Take me with you! Please—only take me with you!"

"And it is for that you followed the post chaise?" The old man bit his lips in anger. "You came all this distance after I had told you—"

Suddenly his face softened. In his own strange way he loved his son—and now the boy looked so tired, so forlorn, so miserable, with his clothes flecked with mud and the tears running down his pale cheeks! Herr Handel lacked the heart to send him back.

During the next few days George found keen delight in wandering about, and especially in listening to the organ in the duke's chapel. The the instrument. The boy's remarkable skill astonished and pleased the man.

One Sunday morning he allowed George to play a voluntary at the end of the service. The duke was in the chapel that morning. The beautiful sounds that the boy drew from the organ thrilled and amazed him; and after the service he sent for George and his father.

While they stood before him, he said to Herr Handel: "It is a remarkable son you have here! I have heard him play. His playing is cultured. He has abnormal gifts! He must be trained."

The father moistened his lips. "But, your highness," he replied nervously, "it is a lawyer I would have my son become—"

"A lawyer?" repeated the duke severely. "Bah! I tell you the boy has remarkable gifts."

The duke drew a quantity of coins from his pocket and placed them in George's hand. "Your father must provide a competent teacher for you," he said in a tone of command.

George could hardly speak, so great was his joy.

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

The Coach

Pay for College Tuition With Grain

Students at the Park Region Lutheran college at Fergus Falls, Minn., are permitted to pay their tuition this year in wheat at 60 cents a bushel, provided it is grown on farms from which the students come. One of the college officials is seen here accepting a load of grain to pay for the tuition of Miss Borghild Aleson.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Bechamel Sauce.—Cook one and one-half cups of stock, using veal or chicken, or a combination of veal and beef, with one slice each of carrot, onion, a half of bay, six peppercorns, a sprig of parsley, then strain; there should now be a cupful. To this stock add one-fourth of a cupful each of flour and butter well cooked together and one cupful of milk. Season with salt and pepper and serve hot. An egg may be added just as the sauce is as this adds to the flavor as well as appearance and nutriment.

Curry of Lamb.—Put three table-spoons of butter into a saucepan with half a minced onion. Cook slowly until the onion is brown, add two table-spoons of flour and one tea-spoonful of curry powder, cook until smooth. Add two cups of stock and cook for five minutes. Season with salt and pepper and pour very hot over sliced roast lamb. Serve with a border of hot cooked rice around the lamb.

Spaghetti Pompaian.—Cook half a pound of spaghetti until tender, drain. Fry one medium sized onion and one-half pound of chopped lean beef in one table-spoonful of olive oil and two table-spoons of butter. Cook five minutes, then add a can of tomato sauce, simmer ten minutes more, add salt and pepper and pour over the spaghetti. Serve sprinkled with grated cheese.

Corn Croquettes.—Mix all the following ingredients: One and one-half cups of drained corn, drained, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one well-beaten egg, one table-spoonful of melted butter, one table-spoonful each of grated onion and lemon juice, two cups of soft bread crumbs, two tea-spoons of salt, one-fourth tea-spoonful of pepper and two table-spoons of finely chopped or grated celery. Shape into balls, roll in crumbs and fry in the fat, forty-second test.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

EASY

"How can you tell if a painting is genuine?"

"By whether it rubs off."

Uncle Sam Gives 90,000 Lessons in Geography

Washington.—It may sound strange to say that 90,000 persons in the United States—and merely in a small section of the United States—took geography lessons during the month of June. But that is the case.

Ninety thousand persons went on field trips and attended lessons in Yellowstone National park during the month of June. This was just twice the number that attended last year's courses.

The ranger-naturalist service of the national parks, which conducts the lessons and field trips, is the outgrowth of the constant demands by park visitors for authentic information concerning the scientific value of the parks.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of aged skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, blemishes, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized wax removes wrinkles one size younger. Poreless complexion developed in one-half pint with last. At drug stores.

Much Room to Spread

Nearly the entire population of Brazil is found on a comparatively narrow strip of land, extending southward along the Atlantic coast and on the banks of the Amazon.

"And Betty—what suds! So rich and lively..."

"After struggling with flat, lifeless suds—it's a joy to use Rinsol! Really, Betty, I never dreamed there were such suds. They're so thick and creamy, dirt doesn't have a chance. Clothes come from my washer the whitest I ever saw."

Saves time—saves work

Makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinsol. Great for tub washing, too. Soaks out dirt—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes. Linens come so white, they don't need to be boiled.

Cup for cup, Rinsol gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hard water.

Wonderful suds for dishwashing, and for all cleaning. Get the BIG package.

MILLIONS USE RINSOL in tub, washer and dishpan

With Ruffles Pauline was sent to the grocery for lettuce and mother told her to be sure and get leaf lettuce. "Yes, mother, I know the kind with the ruffles on," she replied.

POTATOES

SEED and TABLE
Northern Red River Valley Grown Early
Ohio, Cobblers, Triumphs, U. S. No. 1
Grade and Certified Seed
Write for Catalog Described Prices
LEO H. WRIGHT CO.
P. O. Box 557 Moorhead, Minn.

The Ideal Vacation Land

Sunshine All Winter Long

Splendid roads—towering mountain ranges—highest type hotels—dry invigorating air—clear starlit nights—California's Foremost Desert Playground

Write Clegg &amp; Chaffey Palm Springs CALIFORNIA

Violin Not Oldest
The violin is not the oldest stringed instrument. The lyre and the harp as well as other stringed instruments antedate it.

Rival Records
Muriel—I've been engaged to one man seven times.

Moina—That's nothing! I've been engaged to seven men at one time

"Lucile is the Happiest Girl"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Western mother, Mrs. H. J. Stoll, Valley P. O., Nebraska, says: "My little daughter, Roma Lucile, was constipated about her and decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in the West."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is limited, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

How can you tell if a painting is genuine? By whether it rubs off.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Stadium Enlarged for the Olympic Games

Here is the first aerial picture of the reconstructed Olympic stadium at Los Angeles, where the athletic events of the Olympic games of 1932 will be held. The changes have raised the reserved seating capacity from 80,000 to 105,000 by adding a complete new rim section to the gigantic bowl. The new wings added to the periphery, in front of which will be the Presidential box and boxes of visiting foreign dignitaries, are also shown in the picture, with the tunnel through which the opening pageant of athletes will enter shown in the left rear of the field.

Gold Mine Fable Rudely Shattered

Many Lives Lost in Hunt for "Lost Dutchman."

Phoenix, Ariz.—Iconoclasts of Arizona's arid lands have directed their talent against one of the state's choice legends—that of the "Lost Dutchman" gold mine of Superstition mountain.

Arizonans have believed generally for more than fifty years that the rugged hills of Superstition contained a mine of fabulous value which was found and lost years ago by a Dutchman.

Adding interest to the story is an Indian legend of wrathful Apache gods, who got those entering the deep and twisting canyons of the mysterious range of central Arizona.

Iconoclastic prospectors, having searched long and hard this summer for a lost amateur prospector, who sought to find the mine, now insist there isn't and never was a "Lost Dutchman" gold mine.

According to the most popular version of the "Lost Dutchman" story, a Dutch prospector would come from the hills, back in the pioneer days, with gold-laden bags.

"Plenty more where this came from," the Dutchman would say as he tossed a bag of dust on the bar. It was presumed he referred to a mine. He always had gold, but no one knew where it came from.

Now the doubters are insisting that half of the world's gold seekers would toss their last bag of dust on a bar with the same optimistic remark; that the statement proved nothing.

Came a day when the Dutchman ventured again into the hills, which Apaches say men should not enter, and disappeared forever. That launched the first "Lost Dutchman" mine hunt and it has continued at well-spaced intervals ever since. At least a dozen lives have been lost in seeking the mythical mine.

The last victim was A. Ruth, sixty-five-year-old government employee, of Washington, D. C. From somewhere —probably a confidence man—he had obtained a map of the mine's alleged location and in it he had faith, although possessed of scant prospecting ability.

Into the hills Ruth ventured, and from them, in keeping with Apache tradition, he never returned.

A reward offered by the man's family stimulated search. The best of mountain men led the hunt. Claws they found, but no definite trace of Ruth's body. Apache gods and the "Lost Dutchman" had claimed another victim.

Despite the minute search, no sign of a gold mine was found. Airplanes flew over the ranges and pictures were taken, but nothing was uncovered to indicate that a mine had ever been worked and abandoned.

Italian Priest Learns to Fix Leaning Towers

Genoa.—Don Picardo, Italian priest, has developed a side line in which he has no rivals. In his spare moments he is a church tower and belfry straightener. He has just finished bringing the belfry of the parish church of Monerago and Santo Stefano d'Aveto back into line.

Don Picardo, assisted by two or three workmen, digs a trench around the base of the tower to be straightened after first securing the top with steel stays or ropes. He drives a number of steel wedges into the sides of the trench and covers them with sand. The priest and his men then hammer the structure back into position.

Convict Gets $100,000 for Unpickable Lock

San Quentin Prison, Calif.—Harold Marks, robbery convict, who invented an unpickable lock, learned recently that his ingenuity has won him $100,000.

Marks applied for a patent on the invention, and through a patent attorney was told that an eastern lock firm had placed $100,000 in escrow for him, pending patent grants.

"I'm going to bring my mother and sister to California," Marks said, "and when my five-year stretch is done I am going into business for myself. Maybe I'll write a book on 'How to Get Rich in Prison.'"

HENRY L. DOHERTY

A fund of $300,000 has been deposited by Henry L. Doherty, millionaire head of Cities' Service company, for use by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in a study of methods of alleviating the unemployment situation.

American Trains Dogs for European Blind

Tennessee Woman Provides Guides for Sightless.

Paris, France.—A clever and philanthropic American woman from Tennessee, Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Eustis, has made it possible for many blind men and women of Paris to develop an independence they never have known before, and she does it with dogs. At her home in Vevey, Switzerland, Mrs. Eustis has established an organization called the "L'Oeil qui Voit," or the "Seeing Eye," where she trains German shepherd dogs as guides for the blind. She says she conceived this idea after visiting Potsdam, where a similar enterprise has been successful.

Special trainers teach the dogs to be the "eyes" of the blind, and a number of blind people are received into her home where they are kept until they are accustomed to the dog. Assisting Mrs. Eustis are two fel-

Whistle Tells These Shoppers Day's Weather

Columbia, Mo.—One long blast from the whistle of the city water and light plant, and shoppers don their raincoat and sally forth confident of fair weather.

Two long and three short blasts, and they either defer the trip or take along the umbrella and fur coat. Another signal, and it may be the palm leaf fan, or the whiplash duster.

George Reeder, United States meteorologist, arranged with the plant to broadcast his weather forecasts and generally spread the code. Now Columbia knows its weather prospects long before they are in print.

Wit and Humor

NO FAIR

Sam had found a job for the week on a railroad section gang, and was taking leave of his family when his wife came to the door and shouted:

"Come back here, Sam. You haven't cut a stick of wood for de stove—and you'll be gone a week!"

The negro turned and looked very much aggrieved.

"Honey," he said in a tone of injured innocence, "what's de matter? You'll talk as though Ah was takin' de ax with me."

FAMILY TRAIT

"He says actors run in his family." "Yes—several of them barely escaped the mob."

Honor Among Thieves

Recently there was much discussion about the proposal to establish the honor system, so called, in a large penitentiary. It was finally decided to put it up to the prisoners themselves to decide—surely they would know whether they could play the game honorably or not. It was put to vote.

"Hey, Spike," said one tough-looking citizen, out of the corner of his mouth to another prisoner, "did yer vote for the honor system?"

"Betcher life, four times."

Living Statue

"I would like to write a letter home," said the city man vacationing on the farm, "and forgot to bring any writing materials with me. Have you anything here in the stationery line?" "Sure, mister," replied the farmer, "but we hadn't got nuthin' except the hired man."—Florida Times-Union.

Offsets It

Jerry—I hear you've been studying for months how to increase your salary. How did it turn out?

Freddy—Poorly. The boss was studying at the same time how to cut down expenses.—Chelsea Record.

Sh-h!

Rich Man—There's no sense in teaching the boy to count over 100. He can hire accountants to do his bookkeeping.

Tutor—Yes, sir, but he'll want to play his own game of golf, won't he?

Nothing Important

"How do you know there is nothing important in this letter from my sister?" said she. "You haven't read it."

"No," answered he. "But I glanced over your shoulder and saw there was no postscript."

SUGAR-CURED HAM

"He's a ham."

"But sugar-cured, my dear."

Somewhat Instructive

Mr. Jabbe—Well, at last I have come to the conclusion that you can't make something out of nothing.

Mrs. Jabbe—Oh, I came to that conclusion shortly after I married you.—New Bedford Standard.

Double Slam

She—You never hear of women cashiers running off with their employer's money.

He—Not often, but when it does happen they take the employer, too.

His Guess

Asker—How is Henry getting along since he embarked on the sea of matrimony?

Teller—Well, judging by the sour look on his face I think he wishes that he had missed the boat.

Simple Truth

Wife—What do you mean by telling Mrs. Jones' husband you never ask my advice about anything?

Husband—Well, my dear, I don't. You don't wait to be asked.

STRENGTHEN
their little bodies

Doctors know your children will thrive on Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. Its rich Vitamin A content will give them resistance against illness. Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin," will help build strong, healthy bones. Its calcium salts are helpful for growing young bodies. And it's good for expectant mothers and invalids, as well. Scott's Emulsion is easy to take. Children like its pleasant flavor. Use it regularly.

LETTER TO THE SCOTT'S EMULSION RADIO HOUR, every Sunday and Tuesday at 9:30 P.M. (E. S. T.) over the Columbia network.

Scott's Emulsion
OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

Band of Rescuers
The Crag Rats of Hood River, Ore., is a group whose avocation is the rescue of persons lost on mountains. It was organized in 1923, although the idea of such a rescue group had been suggested by a young lumberman, A. L. Anderson, some 12 years ago. In that locality scarcely a month passed that some one was not lost on some of the mountain peaks, so Anderson and other experienced mountain climbers formed their organization. In five years they have averaged six notable rescues annually and many others of lesser note.

"SICK HEADACHE?"

It is not necessary to give in to headaches. It is just a bit old-fashioned! The modern woman who feels a headache coming on at any time, takes some tablets of Bayer Aspirin and heads it off.

Keep Bayer Aspirin handy, and keep your engagements. Headaches, systemic pains, come at inconvenient times. So do colds. You can end them before they're fairly started if you'll only remember this handy, harmless form of relief. Carry it in your purse and insure your comfort while shopping; your evening's pleasure at the theatre. Those little nagging aches that bring a case of "nerves" by day are ended in a jiffy. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking Bayer Aspirin! You'll find these tablets always help. If you get real aspirin, you'll get real relief. In every package of genuine Bayer tablets are proven directions which cover headaches, colds, sore throat, toothache, neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, rheumatism, etc.

The tablets stamped Bayer won't fail you, and can't harm you. They don't depress the heart. They don't upset the stomach. So take them whenever you need them, and take enough to end the pain.

Much to Unlearn
What's the use? You are content in the belief that you know everything and then you get educated and discover you don't know anything.—Los Angeles Times.

Troubles at Home, Too
"Things are in a mess over in Europe, Joe."

"Yeh, but I'm married now."

Now You Need Not Fear Coughs

It is always important to get a cough under control as quickly as possible. Too often it may otherwise prove the forerunner of something far more serious. One sure way to banish the fear of coughs and colds is to have in your medicine chest a bottle of B. & M., The Penetrating Germicide. Keep it ready for instant use when anyone in your family develops symptoms of a cold in the chest or a sore throat. Use B. & M. externally, just as you would a mustard plaster. You will find it many times as efficient and it gets quick results. Order from your regular druggist, or send us his name and $1.25 and we will send a full-size bottle postpaid. Valuable booklet free on request. F. E. Rollins Co., 58 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. (Adv.)

Small, but Important
Palestine is a small territory, only 140 miles wide in the north and 80 in the south. But 9,000 square miles are comprised in its area.

Burning Skin Diseases
quickly relieved and healed by Cole's Carbolic Acid. Leaves no scars. No medicine chest complete without it. 50c and 60c at druggists, or J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

Repetition
"History repeats itself."
"Especially in the historical novel."
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An angry man opens his mouth and shuts up his eyes.—Cato.

Dr. Julius Klein
Assistant Secretary
Department of Commerce

Recently Said:
... "Certainly, intelligently guided publicity and consistently vigorous local advertising, especially in these days of consumer timidity, represent outstanding means at the command of the smaller community merchant for arousing greater interest in his goods and attracting customers to his door."

Talk It Over with Your Own Home Publisher

CUTICURA
Shaving Cream

A New Shaving Cream
It Soothes as It Softens

Underwood & Underwood

One of the riddles which has puzzled modern archeologists has been solved by Prof. Martin Sprenghling of the University of Chicago, who has succeeded in deciphering the Sinai inscription, an ancient form of the alphabet. His achievement traced the alphabet to its source and proves that it is of Semite origin and not Phoenician as scholars have thought. A Bedouin mine foreman, working for the Egyptians, invented the rudimentary alphabet in the half century between 1200-1800 B. C. according to the theory developed by Professor Sprenghling.

PAGE FOUR

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, October 22, 1931

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription .....$1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

THOMAS ALVA EDISON

Thomas Alva Edison was addressed by President Coolidge, when awarded a congressional medal three years ago this month, as a "noble, kindly servant of the United States, and benefactor of humanity." He was all of that. Mr. Edison contributed so much to progress in his generation that literally columns of space would be required to give an adequate idea of the extent to which the world is indebted to him. It was estimated three years ago that the value of the enterprises owing their existence to his genius were worth five times all the money in circulation.

The "Wizard of Menlo Park," as he was known, well may be ranked as the most useful man of his time, if not of all time. His long life was one of intense application and activity. He had taken out more than twelve hundred patents and for years had maintained an average of an invention or refinement of some process once in two weeks. While he is generally thought of as having given to the world the electric light, the phonograph, modern telegraphy and moving pictures, he was the father of a long list of other important inventions.

Thomas A. Edison stands before the world as the embodiment of modern progress. It is difficult to realize that the incandescent lamp, for example, which is commonplace in the farthest corners of the civilized world, was evolved by a man who has just died. Electric light has become so essential that it is not easy to imagine what the world was without it. And that is only one of the many things he gave to mankind. His versatility and all-encompassing genius served the cause of his country and of humanity, as few have ever realized, in the World War. He devoted his whole time and attention to coping with the problems of that trying era. His inventive mind produced electrical and other devices that were invaluable in frustrating the menace of the German submarines. He contributed to humanity through his knowledge of chemistry and was at work, when he died, on experiments to produce rubber from some of the common weeds of this country.

Ours has been a generation of marvelous progress. The whole outlook of humanity has been changed by the inventions and scientific investigations of recent years. Nobody contributed more to that development than did Mr. Edison, whose name will endure long after those of his most prominent contemporaries have been forgotten. He will take a place as one of the outstanding figures in the history of human progress.

Don't forget The News office is equipped to do first-class commercial printing.

F. B. Leighty and wife took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hursh.

Stephen Brown has been suffering an epidemic of boils for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Ruth Davis and children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hamilton and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stringle and daughter, Jane of Ashley, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cox.

With the failure of the Chubbuck bank last week, the town is nearly bankrupt, their money being deposited there.

Miss Susan Sechler is at the home of Mrs. Catherine Nicholls near Newville and will stay with her for about a month.

A meeting of much interest to the Poultry raisers in DeKalb County is scheduled for Friday evening, October 23 at 8 P. M. in the county agent's office. Mr. Wm. Kohlmeier, Poultry Specialist from Purdue University, will explain different phases of poultry raising and will discuss the outlook. This will probably be the last meeting of this kind that will be held this year and a large attendance is desired.

OUR BROTHER'S KEEPER (Los Angeles Times)

This period through which the world is struggling is more than an economic crisis. It involves more than a study of strategic plans to ambuscade the dollars which fled.

Humanity itself is on trial. The civilization which we have evolved is undergoing the supreme test.

If there is such a thing as brotherhood among men, now is the time to show it.

Drunk with wealth, we have strayed a long way from the fundamental and eternal truth. We have been living in a house stuck upon golden stilts. And it has crashed.

In our agony and suffering we have discovered that Jesus Christ meant what He said. The Golden Rule was not a pleasant homily intended for reward-of-merit cards with silk fringe on the edges and diamond dust shining on the snow scenes. It was a simple statement of the eternal law, the same law that keeps the stars in the skies and the world turning on its axis.

We speak of breaking the law and commandments. You can break them; but they break you. "Love one another" was more than an admonition to light the path of virtue. It was the statement of an eternal principle upon which all law, all philosophy, all business, all ethics, all civilization rests. Like all the doctrines left by the Christ, this was the sublimity of common sense—the finality of practicality—the only sure foundation upon which civilization can rest.

During these money-glutted years we have tried each to go our own way alone. Years of greed and money lust have ended with this terrible lesson: That wealth evaporates and leaves men stark and with naked hearts. It is for us to see that this terrible rebuke has not been in vain. For us to see that we rebuild the fallen structure on the rock of brotherhood.

This winter will be a period that calls for all men to have fortitude, strength and sympathy. It is, for once, clear to the dullest mind that we can only help ourselves by helping others.

Out of this period of readjustment we can regain our souls. It can be a better world because of this period of hunger and sorrow; a stronger America and a sounder civilization if it brings to us a realization we are given the privilege of being our brother's keeper.

The remedy for our financial crisis lies not in law, federal commissions, in panacea or financial errors.

The sound and practical answer was told two thousand years ago in a sermon spoken on a mountain in Palestine.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45.

First Grade Sand Potatoes, 50 cents at the field. J. N. Scholes. 412p.

Many a speaker thinks more about his speech after he makes it.

One way to please the public is to say nice things about the public.

Miss Vada Ridenour of Hicksville was a Saturday guest in the E. R. Kinsey home.

Frank May and family were Sunday guests of Crates May and family near Fort Wayne.

George Walter and family took a drive Sunday along the Maumee river and landed at Toledo.

Do you know that the modern airplane travels faster than did the cannon balls of the Civil War?

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Miller and son, Franklin, of Butler, were Monday evening guests at the home of Mrs. Vienna Rude.

Miss Myrl Ringie of Tiffin, O., and Paul F. Krabill of Attica, spent a week with his sister, Mrs. Princess Zonker, and family.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

While many experts say business has turned the corner none of them go so far as to say it was making the curve on only two wheels.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull, accompanied by Mary and Wayne Quance of Auburn, were Sunday guests of the Walker families at South Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan Fuller of Flint, Mich., were guests in the home of his sister, Mrs. S. D. Gee for several days last week, returning home Monday.

Thirteen states, with a total combined population of some 5,000,000, most of them almost dry, can hold up the repeal of the Prohibition Amendment indefinitely.

Earl Wolf and wife of Edon, O., Sheldon Wolf and wife of Montpelier, O., Laurence Shaffer and Mile Umstead of Alvarado, were Sunday guests in the Sherman Wolf home.

The large concrete bridge over the New York Central tracks at Brimfield on U. S. Road 6, which has been under construction since early last spring, was opened to traffic Saturday. The new bridge cost $56,000.

Vet Chandler and wife of Hobart were guests over Sunday of Mrs. Belle Ridgway and family. Miss Virginia Fry also accompanied them. On Sunday evening all of Mrs. Ridgway's children and their families were guests at the Floyd Ridgway home for supper. Maurice Hollabaugh and wife of Spencer were also there.

A second trial of the action of the Harlan State bank against Vinton L. Miller and Joe Koch is on the calendar for Thursday. The suit is on a note for $250 and a jury that heard the evidence last April was unable to agree. Among the court hearings of interest to our local readers is that of Florence and Leland Hade against W. Jay Snyder et al., to foreclose a mortgage.

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-23

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Rosselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

O. D. Baker made a business trip to Cleveland, Ohio, Tuesday.

Stop signs are being put up this week on the streets leading to the pavement in St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young made a hurried trip to Deshler, Tuesday evening on business.

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney of Columbia City were here last week, guests of their parents.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience.

A tile has been run full length of Spencerville Street on the west side to take care of the water and catch basins frequenting this stretch of tile.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rude, of Newville, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Rude and son, Lee and Mrs. Jennie Rikerd of Concord spent Sunday with Mrs. Vienna Rude and two children.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office. 3tf.

It is finished, at least most of the garden vegetation has dropped its head, because of the two killing frosts of Saturday and Sunday nights. To many, the most beautiful season of the year is at hand.

A number from the Harlan P. Church spent Tuesday evening in the Rev. Mayfield home and brought with them their lunch. A dandy good time was had together. The Mayfields are planning on moving next Thursday.

Mrs. Sadie Bruce of Auburn spent Sunday with Mrs. Mary Betz and Mrs. Ada Berry. Afternoon callers were Mrs. Mayfield, of St. Joe, Mrs. Hazel Steward, daughter, Florence, son, Ercl, and Jean Hatch of Spencerville, Miss Pauline Baumgartner of Fort Wayne and Marion Shearer of near St. Joe.

The duck season in Indiana opened Friday and continues until November 15. The same dates apply for geese and coot. The season for woodcock opened Thursday and ends November 14. The quail season opens November 10 and ends December 20. The rabbit season runs from November 11 to January 10. For prairie chickens, the season is October 15 to 31. The squirrel season ended Thursday.

D. H. Haderman, a former Auburn restaurant proprietor and musician, was murdered in his home at Los Angeles, Calif., Friday evening. He was 63 years of age and lived with his daughter, Mrs. Jacob Haller. No one was at home except Mr. Haderman. When the daughter returned home about midnight she found her father had been murdered and his body lay in the door between the kitchen and dining room. He had acquired considerable wealth and it is thought he came upon the burglars plundering the home.

Subscribe for The News, Now. Telephone 45 when you have some news.

Writing tablets and envelopes at News Office.

Ray Davis, brother of Mrs. Hattie Widney, has been quite sick at his Auburn home with influenza. He is better today.

Cat fish and pickerel are being caught now to the satisfaction of those fishing. They are all good size, averaging a pound and more. Road superintendent, E. E. Turner, was in town Tuesday looking after the putting up of road signs on the paved highway.

The U. S. Navy Dirigible (Akron) passed over Fort Wayne Saturday and it was a wonderful sight to behold. Rev. Mayfield and wife saw it when coming home from Indianapolis.

The biggest value in colored funnies is now available at The News office, when we give you 80, in the Sunday Herald and Examiner. Order yours now and we will save you one.

W. C. McBride of the McBride's Store at Auburn is improving, and will be able to go to his store next week for the first, after three weeks absence. His condition was critical for a few days.

If you are thinking of a New Car let us show you the new Ford. Just phone or write for full demonstration. The Cities Sales Inc., Hicksville, O. Phone 20. Open day and night. 34tf.

Of Thomas Alva Edison, Arthur J. Palmer said: "He has led no armies into battle—he has conquered no countries—he has enslaved no peoples—yet he commands a devotion more sweeping in scope, more world wide, than any other living man."

If any destitute family, during this depression, cannot afford to subscribe for the St. Joe News, or buy any reading material for the family, come to the office and we will make a present of one year's subscription to The News. Your circumstances will be treated confidentially, nobody learning the names of the destitute.

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

Earl Pepple of near Angola was a guest of his father, Wm. Pepple Monday.

Plans for Halloween celebrations in nearly every town around are being made? How about it for St. Joe?

C. J. Foltz, wife and children of near Holgate, were Saturday guests in the J. P. Buckingham and J. E. Foltz homes.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

M. E. Leighty, superintendent of the DeKalb county infirmary, Thursday received fifty white faced Hereford steers for feeding. The steers, averaging 450 pounds were loaded at Fort Worth, Texas. They will be fed until they have doubled weight and sold if the market price is right. One hundred and twenty-five hogs are being fattened at the county farm. There is such an abundance of food for stock at the farm that the young steers were brought to use up the grain and other farm crops.

Taxes

It won't be long now until the last day to pay your taxes will be here. A 10% penalty is added if you fail to pay them on or before the last day. We will gladly furnish you the money to pay these taxes at a small interest cost and you may repay us at your convenience.

FRANKLIN SECURITY CO.
Over Schwartz Grocery
Phone 709 Auburn, Ind.

Used Cars

1929 Model A Ford Tudor
1926 Chevrolet Coupe
1928 Chevrolet Coupe
1927 Model T Ford Tudor, a good one.

1927 Hudson Coach.
A Cheap Ton Truck.
A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

PUBLIX SHIRTS

Seven button front, pre-shrunk body, pre-shrunk collar, guaranteed color fast, cellophane wrapped, no pins, just pull tag.

Colors--White, Blue, Green, Tan, Plain and Fancy Patterns

98c

WILSON BROS.
Form Fitting Shirt
$1.50 to $1.95

McBRIDE'S
AUBURN, INDIANA

TIES
$1.00 - 50c
25c

SPENCERVILLE

Read the Ads in this issue.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Jennie Walter.

Mrs. Mary Ann Elm and Mr. and Mrs. John Elm were dinner guests of Fred Elm and family of near St. Joe.

Mrs. Laura Baltz left on Tuesday to visit in the home of C. H. Brown and other relatives and friends at Fort Wayne.

Emmett Betz, wife and sons of near Harlan and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Carbaugh and children were Sunday guests at the Joel Betz home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Reed and Gale Bowser and family were Sunday guests of the C. L. Whitacre home at Richmond. Mrs. Whitacre returned home with them for a week's visit.

Let The News have your films developed.

School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

Isadore Badiac and sons spent Sunday afternoon with friends at this place.

The Cheerful Workers class met on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ethel Bowser. Contests were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hafner and son and Walter Perkins, wife and children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman. Glenn Betz and sons were afternoon guests.

The Heathen Club recently met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter. Basket dinner was served at the noon hour. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Treese, Mrs. Emma Steward, Mrs. Kathryn Steward of Garrett, and Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Walter of Fort Wayne.

The Young Ladies Social Club was very pleasantly entertained at a Halloween party at the homes of Mesdames Edith Cole and Thelma Baker of St. Joe last Friday evening, by the members of the St. Joe Bunco Club. The entertainment was held at the home of Mrs. Cole and the lunch served at Mrs. Baker's home. Those winning prizes from this place were Miss Marjorie Hollibaugh, Mas Bina Zimmerman and Mrs. Troas Carpenter.

Charles Butler, while riding on a motorcycle recently had the misfortune to fall and severely injure his eyes.

Mrs. Lizzie Wearley and daughter, LeAnna very pleasantly entertained the C. C. Club at their home on Friday afternoon. Prizes were won by Mesdames Jennie Walter and Lucy Beams. One new member was received into the club membership, Mrs. Ruth Butler. There were two guests present, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Ethel Miller.

CONCORD

Some of the farmers are shredding corn.

Quite a few people around here are making apple butter.

Roy Keller went to Michigan last week for winter apples.

Ford Jackson and family and Mrs. Lee Jackson and daughter, Mable spent Sunday in the Holl Jackson home.

Mrs. Edd Bassett and daughter, Tracy and Mrs. Flossie Bassett and son, Junior were Tuesday afternoon shoppers in Auburn.

Clarence Goings was off work last week from Fort Wayne, by being injured on the head by a falling barrel from a second story. He is recovering from the wounds and spent last week with parents here.

Melrose Abbey

Melrose abbey, considered one of the finest ruins in Scotland, was founded in 1150 for the Cistercians and has some fine sculpture on the exterior. The heart of Robert Burns is said to be buried near the high altar.

Favorite Bible Passages

Franklin D. Roosevelt
Governor of New York.

The Beatitudes:
Blessed are the pure in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake.

Rejoice and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted were the prophets which were before you.—Matthew 5:3-12.

(Compiled by the Bible Guild.)

Our prices on printing are not always the lowest... but our work is always the best

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public
In General

Eighth Grade

No one in the eighth grade has missed any school this term. So their per cent of attendance is still one hundred.

Freshman

Mildred (to Miss Reed:) Miss Reed, if I flunk in Algebra, it will be Mr. Russell's fault. Why, he just scares the answers right out of me.

Hurrah! Only three days next week! The convention at Fort Wayne calls the teachers into session for two days.

Maybe the teachers will take along their collection of rubber bands.

An agent for diplomas called at the school house this week.

Manual Training

The Manual Training boys have finished their tools and are now drawing.

They have received new bench brushes, screw drivers, and knives to work with.

The basket ball squad began practicing three nights a week at the town hall. They hope to work up a good stiff opposition for the games which they have scheduled.

Volunteers from the seventh grade physiology class help in keeping the grounds looking fit by gathering the scraps of paper and other rubbish.

Miss Doris Beams is giving private lessons in violin and vocal music at the school house.

Freshmen have survived the rigorous test of the past week.

The test craze seems to have started again and we expect it to last till May.

The Tuesday morning Chapel service was conducted by the Reverend Homer Studabaker of the Spencerville M. E. Church. His subject was "Having a Purpose in Life." The assembly sang, "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Loves Old Sweet Song."

The end of the first six weeks! Five more such periods and spring days will be here again.

The class in Home Economics had its picture taken on Friday morning.

Mrs. Appleman called at the school house on Friday evening.

Teachers and pupils were very busy all this week making out grades and reports.

Trustee, F. E. Rhodes called at the school house this week.

Mrs. Ruth Butler visited classes Tuesday morning.

A new set of The World Book has been added to our school library.

Esther Hahn was absent on Friday. Stanley Bishop has been absent for the past few days.

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it.

YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM

Wayne Shook is back in school, even though he has to go about on crutches.

ADVANTAGES OF SOY BEAN OIL MEAL

(By Dr. John M. Evvard)

Carefully conducted experiments prove that Soy Bean Oil Meal when properly blended with other selected high protein feeds such as Meat Meal Tankage, Linseed Oil Meal, Cottonseed Meal, seed Oil Meal, Cottonseed Meal, and suitable minerals increases the nutritional and economic value of the supplement when fed to pigs along with corn.

As a matter of fact, Soy Bean Meal when added to the ten ingredients in "Big 10," a swine feed supplement developed at Iowa State College, increased the efficiency of "Big 10" rather markedly even though only 10% Soy Bean Oil Meal was introduced. In these tests Soy Bean Oil Meal produced practically the same beneficial effect as a high grade fish meal, both making the supplement more efficient as a balancer of corn.

It should be stated that the "Big 10" mixture carries a considerable amount of tankage in addition to Linseed Oil Meal, Cottonseed Meal, Peanut Oil Meal, Alfalfa Meal and suitable minerals supplying calcium, phosphorus, sodium, chlorine, iron and iodine.

Soy Bean Oil Meal carries considerable vitamin A so essential to growth, reproduction and adequate "bodily functioning." Soy Bean Oil is rich in vitamin B, the anti-neuritic vitamin which is helpful in preventing certain nerve disorders and constipation and also in promoting appetite.

Soy Bean Oil Meal carries considerable of vitamins C and E. The former being necessary for promoting certain skin and growth functions of the body and the latter essential for reproduction.

Soy Bean Oil Meal is fairly rich in phosphorus, carrying practically twice as much as corn grain. When properly processed it is very palatable. It carries unsaturated or double bonded fatty acids some of which in the light of most recent researches seem to be of great value in animal nutrition.

In building up variety adequate in a superiorly constituted supplemental blend, Soy Bean Oil Meal is an outstanding nutritious asset. Experience shows that it is beneficial in the promotion of feathering in birds and also in developing feather bloom or sheen. It has a favorable influence in the production of eggs. The quality of the eggs being good, the consistency all right and the taste appetizing. It also has the ability to promote wool growth.

Soy Bean Oil Meal is economically produced in the United States and the quantity of it available is gradually increasing. Soy Bean Oil Meal is superior to whole or ground soy beans from the supplemental standpoint, primarily because it is much more concentrated with proteins, vitamins, and minerals than the feed from which it is produced.

Soy Bean Oil Meal has been proved on countless farms to be of special merit in cattle, sheep, and swine production. Poultrymen are rapidly finding that it is very efficient not only for growing purposes but also for the production of high quality eggs.

WE CAN GIVE YOU what you want in PRINTING when you want it! Try us out with your next job

Safety Service
Courtesy
This Bank Represents the Future
To Many

WHEN people pass our doors and say, 'That's my bank,' they mean they're building their own financial future.

Our future is simply the joint future of all we serve

Can We Make Yours Brighter?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME"
GOOD IDEA

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS
CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR
HOME TOWN PAPER

GET THE IDEA — BUY AT HOME

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

Buy Blankets Now

It will pay you to buy plenty of blankets, now. Prices are the lowest and qualities the highest in 15 years. Replace your blankets early and get 100 per cent blanket comfort for the entire season.

70 x 80
Snowden Plaid
Blankets
63c each

66 x 80
Fenton Part Wool
Blankets
Plaid sateen-bound
95c each

70 x 80
Nashua Supreme
Plaid Blankets
Weight about 4 pounds
$1.98 a pair

70 x 80
Nashua Sunglow
Blankets
Comfort plus decoration
$1.10 each

70 x 80
Hometex Part Wool
Plaid Blankets
Weight about 3 1-2 lbs.
$2.25 a pair

70 x 80
Locarno Part Wool
Pastel Blanket
Weight about 5 pounds
$2.95

72 x 84
Nashua Part Wool
Plaid Blankets
Weight about 5 pounds
$2.95 a pair

66 x 80
Warmthrow
PART WOOL
REVERSIBLE BLANKET
Weight about 3 Lbs.
$2.50 each

70 x 80
Glenolden All Wool
Plaid Blankets
Weight about 5 pounds
$6.95 a pair

72 x 84
Heather All Wool
Plaid Blanket
Weight about 5 1-2 Lbs.
$8.80

72 x 84
Glencoe Two-Tone
All Wool Reversible
Blankets
$8.95

70 x 80
Hemitage All Wool
Pastel Single BLANKETS
$6.60

The wool in these blankets is guaranteed to be well scoured pure virgin wool.

Every Blanket over $1.98 has a four-inch sateen binding.

SCHAAB'S
AUBURN, INDIANA

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Finding New Plants

Monster Fig of Orotava, Half Grown.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

ANY years of whole hearted devotion to the cause of science was recognized recently when Allison V. Armour, patron of eight expeditions to find and bring into America from foreign countries useful and ornamental plants to enrich our farms and gardens, was awarded the Frank N. Meyer medal "for distinguished services in plant introduction."

The presentation was made by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, at Belmont Brough, home of the late Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, now the summer residence of Doctor and Mrs. Grosvenor.

Mr. Armour's yacht Utowana sailed under the auspices of the United States Department of Agriculture and carried on each expedition a staff of scientific experts chosen by the secretary of agriculture, the president of Harvard university, and the director of New gardens, England.

As described in "Exploring for Plants," Dr. David Fairchild's fascinating account of three of these expeditions, the yacht Utowana was especially equipped with laboratory, library and greenhouse arrangements, and everything which was done to facilitate the collecting, study and transportation of living plants in conformity with the strict regulations of the federal plant quarantine and control board.

The work of the expeditions under Mr. Armour's patronage was not confined to the discovery of hitherto unknown plants in the depths of tropical jungles or on remote islands of the sea. More often the plant explorers brought back known plants in other lands which gave evidence of usefulness in our own country.

One of the most interesting and unusual of the expeditions headed by Dr. Fairchild was that to the Canary Islands, a few years ago, when a visit was paid to one of the strangest botanical gardens in the world.

The Garden of Orotava.

There is something a bit bewildering to most people in a collection of plants such as one finds in any European botanical garden. The Latin labels and the crowded specimens are too confusing. At Orotava, Don Juan Bolling's Jardin de Aclimatacion, as he calls his botanical garden, is no exception. It dates back to a time when the illusion prevailed in scientific circles that even the frost-tender plants of the Tropics might be acclimated so that they would grow in the chilly gardens of Europe if only they were brought into them gradually enough. This garden was to have been an important link in the chain of gardens reaching from the Tropics to the Arctic circle; but a century has proved too short a time for the process of acclimatization, as it was understood, to make any impression on the hardness of tropical trees, and this dream has not come true.

To a botanist, however, the Jardin de Aclimatacion of Orotava is full of fascinating plants which have been brought from all parts of the world, for it represents the successes of thousands of introductions which the long lifetimes of such botanists as Willdoret and others of its directors made possible, and although few of the plants introduced have found their way into common use in the island, that is not the fault of the men who have been in charge, but of the public, which does most look forward to changes in the taste of the users of plant materials.

Today the great rock terraces, built with such back-breaking hand labor as an American farmhand would refuse to undertake, are growing the dwarf Chinese bananas for European markets at a profit which would surprise even the most successful of the South Florida tomato growers. But what if the taste for the Honduras banana should supplant that for the Chinese species in the minds of the Europeans? The profits of bananas raising might vanish and the growers might have to turn to something else.

Huge Roxburgh's Fig.

It is at such turning points as this that human tragedies occur. Then come into their own the gardens of introduced plants, furnishing their knowledge of what other plants will grow and what will not in the climate and soils of the region.

The most amazing tree in the garden

Danger of Poison in the Pastures

Under Some Circumstances Plants Will Develop Prussic Acid.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service.)

Some plants on which live stock are pastured may develop poisonous properties as a result of drought, frost, wilting, or severe trampling. The department has investigated reports of live stock poisoning, and such plants as sudan grass, velvet grass, sorghum, and Johnson grass have been found to develop prussic acid when their growth is retarded by abnormal conditions such as those mentioned. Under normal conditions prussic acid is not found in any of these plants.

Once animals have eaten plants containing prussic acid, there is little that the stockman can do, the department says. The poison acts quickly and very often the affected animal will die within half an hour. While there are a few remedies that are suggested for exceptional cases, they are usually of little avail after the animal has taken enough of the injurious substance to cause symptoms to develop.

Preventive measures are advocated by the department as the best means of dealing with this condition. One precaution that may be taken is to feed stock a grain ration such as corn, feterita, milo, or alfalfa hay before turning them into the suspected pasture.

It is also possible to avoid the danger by mowing pastures down to be unsafe and allowing the cut grass to dry thoroughly before pasturing. Although green sorghum, velvet grass and others that have had their growth stunted are dangerous, the acid usually disappears when the crop is made into hay. Sorghums in the southern states rarely develop prussic acid, poisoning, but those in the North are subject to it although the exact reason for this is not known.

The sorghums have this poisonous tendency to a marked degree. Sudan grass also is frequently the cause of poisoning. Flax is also dangerous if it is frozen before ripening fully. In the Northwest, in the fast-growing regions, live stock men have been warned against the danger of animals eating flaxseed or straw from plants that do not reach maturity.

A list of the more important plants of the United States which develop prussic acid when their growth is retarded includes: chokecherry, black cherry, sorghum, Johnson grass, arrowgrass, sudan grass, and velvet grass.

Effective Results With

"Blow Sand" Farm Land

Treating "blow sand" farm land with limestone and manure on the Oquawka experiment farm in Henderson county, Illinois, has resulted in large increases in yields and in profits per acre. A profit of $18.75 an acre more than the untreated land was the average per year increase in five years.

If animal manure is not available, organic matter from legume crops should be plowed under as often as possible. C. H. Farnham, assistant in soil experiment fields, suggested. Enough lime should be applied so as to take advantage of the maximum use of alfalfa, and the clovers, Farnham stated.

The station of the sand land which gave the best returns is corn, soy beans, rye, red clover-alfalfa hay, wheat with a sweet clover catch crop and alfalfa. The alfalfa is sown and left for five years.—Prairie Farmer.

Good in Cane Molasses

The Ohio station seems to have found something new in the nutritional value of cane molasses. White rats fed on nothing but whole milk until nutritional anemia was evidenced, had the hemoglobin content of their blood restored when cane molasses was added to the diet. Beet molasses did not prove effective in this respect. An analysis of the two kinds of molasses used in this trial resulted in a much higher content of iron and copper in the cane molasses. The greater amount of these two minerals in the cane molasses is thought to be the factor which gave the rats fed this product the better showing in the feeding trial.

Wheat, $1 Per Bushel

Wheat fed to hogs in the spring brought $1 per bushel to O. C. Artell, Castro county demonstrator in Sunny-side community. By feeding 71 hogs in a self feeder with tankage and cotton seed meal, a market was found for 824 bushels of ground wheat. The hogs gained 1 1/2 pounds for 140-day feeding period. The original cost for 40-pound pigs was $378.20; 600 pounds cotton seed meal and 950 pounds tankage was $422.20; and the final selling price was $1,230, leaving $838.60 for wheat and labor.—Farm and Ranch.

To Advertise Beans

Pinto bean growers of Colorado and New Mexico are planning an advertising campaign to familiarize consumers everywhere with their product. Production of pinto beans has increased rapidly the last two years and it is felt that consumers must be told about the benefits of the beans as a food product in order to create an adequate market. A small deduction will be made from each bag of beans sold to pay for the advertising.—Colorado State College Bulletin.

Velvet in Favor for Milady's Hat

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOU get the idea as tending Paris designers would convey it via their fall and winter collections, there is only one type of hat to wear successfully with a velvet dress, suit or wrap, and that is a velvet hat. Wherefore, seeing that fashion is advancing by leaps and bounds toward a "velvet season"—here's to the glory of the velvet chapeau!

Then, too, when one stops to think how charming and flattering is the hat made of velvet, small wonder is it that the world of fashion is so enthusiastically going velvet-batted this season.

The new velvet hats are the sort every woman "loves to wear"—so utterly feminine, so reminiscent of quaint and romantic fashions which flourished in periods of the past, yet withal so chic and brought up to the minute in feeling, they make instant appeal to the most modern minded.

The models pictured are five "reasons why" a definite and persistent call for the velvet hat is assured for the coming months. Dark green velvet fashions the first stunning chapeau, for green in every degree, from vivid to deepest tones, are prominent in the present style picture. Other colors spotlighted for fall and winter are browns and wine tones, with emphasis placed on rust and capucine shades, with now and then a call for bright blue. The importance of black is outstanding.

The black velvet hat which is featured throughout latest collections is for the most part metal-trimmed or it sports a peacock feather, for the trailing, drooping ostrich is not as popular as it was. Indeed, some of the newest hats are extremely plain bows and twists of self-velvet, or velvet in a contrasting color, being used in simple fashion. Coque spirals trim many a hat, and Paris "modistes" are exploiting considerable ostrich and peacock. A wise over-head of beige and green tiny feathers blinks its beady eyes to admiring observers as it adorns the side of the little cap-shaped green velvet hat shown at the top to the right in the illustration. The opposite side of this youthful model comes down low over the ear in chic beret fashion. It is one of Madoux' smartest fall hats.

It's trimmed with a pink rose, is the cunning black velvet chapeau below to the left in the picture. It is just such a shape as this, so startling a departure from what we have been wearing, that call for an artful hairdress of curls, wavelets and even a "bow-catcher" over the forehead, if you please. Of course, the hat must be worn "just so" to get the proper effect—titled over one eye, exposing the coiffure at one side.

Black velvet, with a shower of bird of paradise plumage, tells the story of the handsome profile hat to the right, which is voguish for the smart Parisienne, but when it comes to American women ostrich and bird of paradise trimmings are by order of the court taboo, and so milliners on this side of the water are using glycerized ostrich and vulture feathers, likewise to-phantasm tails after the manner here pictured.

There's a lot to be said in regard to the fetching little hat shown in the circle, for it is highly typical of the newest millinery trend. It is of brown velvet. The ruche at the side is a little green velvet, thus adding a dramatic note of color.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

LADIES NOT STOUT, JUST "JUNOEQUE"

There are still a lot of generously proportioned ladies in the world, but they are no longer stout ladies. They are merely "Junoesque," according to Baron de Meyer, famous French stylist and designer.

That's the only way to refer to the woman of ample avoirdupois now, the baron insists in Harper's Bazaar. And going back into Roman mythology a little, he points out that Juno, a heavy-weight goddess, was as much admired in her way as the slimmer Venus. And for such ladies as are best described by his newly-coined classical term, the French designer recommends the bolero, a short jacket with or without sleeves. This garment, when it is adroitly cut and hangs loose about the hips, makes it difficult to ascertain whether the wearer is a Juno or a Venus, he declares.

Short Jackets Will Be Popular Again This Fall

Coats in astrakhan or ponyskin have large collars of the same fur. Short jackets which will be popular again, fit the figure snugly, usually with a belt, made of closely-cut fur. Lelong is showing one in summer ermine with stripes of white giving it a pattern. The collar rises at the back of the neck and descends over the shoulders and is a belt of brown catskin.

Worth makes a smart sports jacket of leopard fur in double-breasted cut with revers and cuffs of golden-brown fannel jersey. It has short sleeves and is worn with long gloves of golden-brown lace kid, the newest shade for hand-coverings here. Yieb is making novel little fur pelonies with frocks or slim coats. The back is cut in an upward curve to suggest a yoke, so the pieces which fall over the arms give a broad-shouldered effect and the front is finished with a waist.

Jacket Dress for Fall

Exaggerated takes the place of white in this lighter-top jacket dress of light-weight wool. The leopard-dyed lapels trimming is noteworthy.

Skirt Blouse

A practical investment for the older schoolgirl consists of a dark wool skirt of brown, dark green or Spanish tile, with two practical blouses, one of white jersey and the other of beige light-weight wool. Both blouses are made in overblouse style, with narrow belts.

AFTER 40 bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headachy, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

Dr. W. B. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN
A Doctor's Family Laxative

Direct
Secretary—What did you wish to speak to Mr. Smith about?
Wife (of Mr. Smith)—Yon.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM
Removes Dandruff Stops Hair Falling Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c U.S.P. Patent Office, N.Y.
Floreson Chemical Works, Patagonia, N.Y.

So Subtle
He (smoking)—Shall I blow you a ring?
She—You can blow me to one.

Miserable with Backache?

It May Warn of Disordered Kidney Function.

A nagging backache, with bladder irritations and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling may warn of disordered kidney function. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills in these conditions. Praised for more than 50 years by grateful users the country over. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Doan's Pills
A DIURETIC FOR THE KIDNEYS

Generous Nature

"Which would you rather be, a poet or a musician?"
"A poet. People aren't so liable to be disturbed while you are practicing."—Washington Star.

Are you too old for your job?

Intro the life of every one comes a time when we notice the years slipping by, and we see people we considered youngsters catching up to us in business. This feeling usually goes hand in hand with irritability. Tiredness and lack of "pep" are also symptoms.

When you get that feeling, take stock of yourself. You will probably find that the old job is getting you. You need a change. If you can't afford to go away, take the finest of all remedies for that "lagged-out" feeling—Fellows' Syrup.

After a few doses of this perfect tonic, the job will again "look good" to you, and you will greet every morning with a smile.

FELLOWS' SYRUP

PAGE EIGHT

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, October 22, 1931

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." I Cor. 3: 11.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Sunday, November 1, the men will have charge of the program and the committee in charge is W. B. Cox, E. R. Kinsey, O. E. Gunther and Rev. Harrold.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH
Mrs. Harriet Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Children's Service at 7:15 P. M.
Message by Pastor V. O. Harrold at 7:45 P. M.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH
Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
Church Service at 10:00 A. M. message by the pastor, Rev. V. O. Harrold.
V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
Evening Service 7:00.

SPENCERVILLE
Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School with Rally Day program and Harvest Home service at 9:15.

G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurni, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS
Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

Bible Drama at Spencerville M. E. Church Wednesday evening "The Good Samaritan," given by the Scipio Young People. Dr. Dean will preach after the drama.

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.
Preaching services at Spencerville Church Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

HARLAN

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long attended the funeral of an aunt at Albion Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. S. I. Zeickie of Bunker Hill spent the week-end visiting old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams of Marion visited Sunday with Chas. Grueb and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Braybrook and children, Virginia and Junior of Marion, made a recent visit in the Ole Braybrook home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tyndall, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hughes and son Jack of Garrett and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zeis of Springfield Center were entertained Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Boger.

Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Julian went to Kalamazoo Sunday where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lower. Mrs. Margaret Carrington, who has spent the past five weeks there visiting, returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Flaig and daughter Helen, Mrs. Myrtle Swift, William Reichelderfer and Rev. Chas. Smith of Ft. Wayne, Rev. and Mrs. S. I. Zeickie of Bunker Hill, Mr. and Mrs. George Dorsey of Grabbill, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dorsey of Scipio and Mr. and Mrs. Ole Braybrook of Spencerville were among the visitors at the Home Coming at the M. E. Church Sunday.

The Harlan Culture Club met at the pretty country home of Mrs. Florence Repp on Monday afternoon. Miss Ethel Miller gave a reading. "Old October." Mrs. Harry Long discussed the various holidays closing with Halloween, its origin and customs. After the program the hostess entertained with contests. There are now 20 members which makes the club complete. The next meeting will be on November 2, at the home of Mrs. Frances Fuelling.

MOHAIR ON WALLS BECOMING POPULAR

European Uses for Fabrics to Be Adopted in America.

Treating walls with choice fabrics, a custom long in vogue abroad promises wider adoption in this country. In considering various kinds of materials for use on walls, one of the first to receive consideration because of its elegance, the wide variety of colors and designs obtainable, is mohair velvet. This rich fabric, long the favorite upholstery for many reasons, has been used as a wall covering abroad in homes and public buildings where elegance was a dominant note and where certain special services were required, notably durability, color-fast properties, ease of cleaning and ease of application.

Mohair still gives these advantages and in addition, it has several characteristics, especially suitable to the modern age. One of the most important of these is its property of absorbing noise. These are the days of noise-harassment and noise-conscious citizens when campaigns are being waged all over the country against unpleasant and harmful sounds, and when the value of relative silence or quietness is becoming to be well known in terms of dollars and cents and increased efficiency.

Another reason for mohair's acceptance as a wall-covering material is the fact that the vacuum cleaner simplifies the task of removing dust and dirt. The smooth fibers of mohair permit the dust to slide off readily, so that a vacuum cleaning leaves a surface sanitary and fresh. The fibers of the material do not flatten down, and, of course, mohair is now treated at the mills to make it unpalatable to moths, so that one of the old objections to the material on that score has been eliminated.

From the home decorator's standpoint, mohair is especially useful, as it does not fade as do many other materials, provided, of course, fast dyes were used in the first place. The reason for this is that the dye penetrates and is retained more effectively because of the unusual nature of the mohair fibers. They are like human hair in structure with a central passage or canal which retains a certain amount of the natural oil long after the fleece has been clipped and woven so that mohair has an enduring luster and sheen not found in some other fabrics. The wide variety of colors and the limitless possibilities of design are also interesting factors in favor of mohair. More than 500 shades of green alone are available in mohair.

Use of mohair for walls also gives rise to interesting developments of new plasters or other materials that will be especially adapted to the fabric. Pictures can be hung more easily, problems of heating and ventilating will be somewhat simplified, as mohair has value as a heat and cold insulating substance as well as an acoustical material and the texture, color and general character of the fabric will inspire radically new ideas and accomplishments in the art of interior decorating.

Luxury Reduces Public's Name Carving Set

While many persons still persist in carving their names in public places and otherwise disgracing property, damage due to vandalism is on the decrease in this country, in the opinion of many authorities closely in touch with this situation.

One of the reasons for this is the fact that many of the leading theaters, by offering the public luxurious surroundings, have cultivated a respect for choice things which curbs the tendency to mutilate them.

The matter of upholstery on theater seats specifically illustrates this point. In the opinion of theater managers, seats covered with mohair velvet or velmo, as it is widely known, are less frequently disfigured maliciously than are seats covered with other materials that lend themselves to carving, scratching and cutting. Theater officials closely in touch with the replacement and repair problem, declare that mohair velvet has reduced replacement costs not only because it has extreme durability, ease of cleaning and other properties but because it is not mutilated so frequently.

MOHAIR FAVORITE AUTO UPHOLSTERY FABRIC

CAR'S INTERIOR ATTRACTS WOMEN

Upholstery May Enhance Comfort, Smartness and Ultimate Value of Car.

WHEN it comes to selecting the family automobile, a good basis of procedure is that adopted by the sight-seeing American tourist who said to his partner when they came to the next important cathedral: "You do the inside and I'll do the outside." The average woman is quite content to have her husband concern himself with the body of the car, the wheel-base and general mechanics, provided she may have something to say about the inside. The car's clothing, as its upholstery may well be called, is equally important with the rest of the car, for upon it depends much of the comfort, smartness, beauty and ultimate value of the car.

In choosing the upholstery for the interior, a number of distinct features should be considered—good appearance, smart design, pleasing color, wearing quality, riding comfort, cleanliness and economy. The only material that can be depended on to embrace these important features in one fabric is velmo mohair, otherwise known as velmo, and made from the lustrous fleece of the Angora goat. Because of its original snowy whiteness, mohair can be dyed any shade, however subtle. Its lustrous sheen and soft, silky texture leave nothing to be desired in the way of beauty and luxurious appearance, while the long wearing quality of pile mohair, as contrasted with that of flat fabrics, is undisputed. A velmo upholstered car will be fresh and inviting long after the rest of the car has lost its good appearance or even given itself up to the infirmities of age. Because of the smooth surface of individual mohair fibers, discernible only under a microscope, dirt does not readily adhere to nor penetrate them, and the material is easily cleaned with a whiskbroom or by vacuum. Actual grease or dirt spots are removed by washing with pure soap and warm water.

Easy riding, an important feature when taking long trips, is assured with mohair velvet because there is no slipping and sliding about, as with smooth fabrics, and each fiber of the pile fabric acts as a resilient spring to absorb shocks. It is easier on the clothing, too, as the reduced friction avoids rubbing and subsequent shininess.

Added to these advantages is the additional one that they all add materially to the trade-in value of the car when the time comes to get a new one. In fact, it has been conservatively estimated that anywhere from fifty to two hundred dollars difference can be looked for in a car whose upholstery is in perfect condition and inviting to the eye.

Offer Prize for Oldest Piece of Mohair

Have you a mohair-covered chair or sofa in your home? If so, you may be $250 the richer for it.

This paper is in receipt of a message from the Household Science Institute, Chicago, asking for help in locating the oldest piece of mohair-upholstered furniture in the United States. The style of the sought-for furniture, its use or non-use at the present time are not important, providing it is in good condition. The owner will be awarded $250, and the piece itself will be exhibited with other old-time furniture during the World's Fair in Chicago in 1933.

Back of the Institute's offer is the desire of Grace Vail Gray, its director, to ascertain the longevity of mohair. It is claimed that unless deliberately injured no instance has as yet been found of a mohair wearing through.

Readers who feel that they have something of interest should communicate with Mrs. Gray at the Household Science Institute, 7 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, giving the history of the piece of mohair.

LIFE'S COMFORTS, JOYS ENHANCED BY MOHAIR FLEECE

USE MUCH MOHAIR IN RAILROAD CARS

Rates as One Fabric to Withstand Wear and Tear of Continuous Service.

PERHAPS you have sometimes wondered why all railway seats are upholstered in the same material, the familiar mohair velvet that in our childhood days was invariably a bright red or green and always of one or two standard patterns. Today even train interiors have become color-conscious and soft greens and taupes and warm blues are seen but are still of the same mohair velvet to the extent, it has been estimated, of twelve million yards in the trains of the country.

The reason for this is that no other fabric has been found that will stand all the hard wear and tear that 24-hour service means. Made from the fleece of the angora goat, mohair velvet or velmo, is one of the most popular and serviceable of fabric materials. One hundred million yards are used on automobiles alone and many more on motor buses and for the interiors of airplanes.

In addition to this, velmo is also used for upholstering furniture, for draperies and even for rugs and is especially in favor with the housewife because it is chemically moth-proofed in manufacture. It is also used for theatre curtains and chair coverings, because of the sound-absorption the deep pile fabric affords, which is an important consideration in talking picture theatres. Like everything else, mohair velvet has "gone modern" and can be had in an endless variety of colors and patterns and weaves. Over five hundred shades of green alone are reported by one New England mill.

But an upholstering fabric is by no means the only service the mohair fleece renders. The finest indoor golf courses are made of a rich, deep pile mohair velvet. Lap robes and steam-heated rugs, for house slippers and even wigs and transformations are made from this snowy fleece which more closely resembles human hair than any other known fibre.

Each fibre is much stronger than wool and due to its unique physical structure takes a fadeless dye. Because of its sleek surface, it does not readily retain dust and dirt and in fact, the pile surface acts as a brush and makes the traveler's clothing actually cleaner at the end of the trip than it was before!

So great has the demand been for this fleece that within a comparatively few years, the industry of angora goat raising has been transferred from Turkey and South Africa to the United States, which now leads the world both in the production and manufacture of mohair fleece.

MOths WILL DIE RATHER THAN EAT TREATED MOHAIR

AT LAST science is making headway against the moth, that harmless looking little insect that causes damage to household effects to the tune of $400,000,000 annually. In regard to at least one important fabric, mohair velvet, victory has been achieved.

All fabrics made from animal fiber, which is largely protein, are normally attractive to moths. Exceptional cleanliness, exposure to sunlight and the use of moth deterrents applied at home are sometimes helpful, but the thorough and scientific way to thwart the enemy is for the material to be permanently mothproofed with chemicals at the mill when it is being made. So successful is this process that mohair velvet, or velmo as the rich pile fabric made from the hair of the angora goat is called, once considered safe for housewives as the moths haven't now recognized as their Waterloo. It has indisputably been proved that moths will starve themselves to death rather than eat mohair velvet that has been so treated. This feature alone, aside from the long-wearing quality, easy cleaning and luxurious appearance of velmo, recommends it as the ideal fabric for furniture upholstery.

For other furnishings, frequent airing and plenty of sunlight will tend to reduce the breeding haunts of the house moth. Killing the moth on the wing will not do any good as by the time it has reached the flying stage it has already deposited its eggs and is ready for death. It is these eggs or larvae which, hatching out, seize the animal fibers which have not been chemically treated and eat them.

MOHAIR ONCE SOLE RIGHT OF KINGS NOW EVERY AMERICAN'S PRIVILEGE

MOHAIR IS CLOTH OF KINGS, PRINCES

King Solomon's Temple Was Hung With Veils Made from Hair of Goats.

IMAGINE your surprise if you walked into a shop today and asked for a purple dress, hat or tie and were told that it was a color exclusively reserved for the President and his Cabinet! Or wanted to purchase a chair and found that only members in the society "Blue Blood" were entitled to such luxuries. That would have been the case years back, when purple was a color for kings only, and only the nobility were accorded the privilege of chairs.

In the same way, mohair, a material made from the fleece of the angora goat, was once the privilege of royalty and quite unknown to the commoner. Back in 1031 B. C., King Solomon made use of this luxurious material for his royal robes and ordered the veils of the famous Temple to be hung "with cloth from the hair of the goat." And for centuries to come, mohair was used only in the palaces of the rich and mighty, for draperies, hangings and fine upholsteries. Today in 1931, A. D., mohair velvet or velmo is no less cherished but within the reach of every private citizen. The business man commutes to his office in a railway coach whose seats are upholstered in the familiar red or green mohair velvet. At night, he throws himself into an easy chair or davenport finished with his lustrous pile fabric. He takes his family driving in a car lined in the same material and throws a lap-rug of luxurious mohair velvet over their knees, taking his right to the best as a matter of course, in true American fashion.

The mohair of long ago, however, prized as it was by kings and potentates, was not the rich, pile fabric that is available today. Science has perfected the means of taking out most of the kemp from the fleece and weaving the silky hair into a fabric whose luster and beauty vie with its durability and comfort. Because of the unique physical structure of the individual fibers, mohair takes a perfect, non-fading dye. As mohair is woven on a cotton warp which takes a different shade of dye and must be dyed separately, most effective two-tone color combinations are obtained. Mohair velvet is also made in a variety of hand-blocked patterns, with a cut-pile or in an interesting loop-and-pile weave that makes for endless variety of patterns and effects.

While the chief application of mohair is for furniture, automobile and railway coach upholstery, it is also used for clothing, draperies, theatre curtains, miniature golf courses, stuffed animals, trimmings and a variety of other uses.

HARLAN

Paul Kinsey of North Manchester, spent Sunday with his parents.

Miss Agnes Hass spent the week-end with her parents at Pierceton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and son, Buddy, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Funk Sunday.

The Harlan High School held a Halloween party in the gymnasium Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Richards went to Columbus, O., Thursday, where they will spend two weeks visiting relatives.

Mrs. Blanch Spindler and son, Stuart of Detroit took supper with Will Spindler and family Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stauffer and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Spindler are visiting relatives this week in Northern Michigan.

C. A. Hartzell returned home Friday after a two weeks visit with his daughter, Mrs. E. M. James at Coldwater, Mich.

Linda Lake, Sophia Emme, Hazel Roller and Dorothy Roller visited Indianapolis and Bloomington Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Gorrell and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fuelling and daughter, Dorothy spent the week-end at Bloomington, where they visited their sons, Clifford Gorrell and James Fuelling, who are students at Indiana University.

A Branch meeting was held at Harlan Community Library. Mrs. Ralph Feagles, chairman of the Red Cross membership drive gave a talk on the Junior Red Cross.

Those present were Naomi Tremp, Woodburn; Marion Walter, Hartstown; Agnes Corbett, Arcola; Mrs. Nobles, Waynedale; Evelyn Giant and Mrs. Sam Stocks, New Haven; Nettie Hubler, Hoagland; Margaret Colerick, Margaret Wanning, Susanah Bailor, Helen Gorton, Esther Baird, Arabella Myerholtz, Mrs. Ralph Feagles, Fort Wayne and Mrs. Eva M. Kinsey.

Nugget of Wisdom
Kindness is the sun of life, the charm to captivate and the sword with which to conquer.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold.

Russel R. Reidenour
Attorney
Auburn, Ind.

At the News Office

C. E. McCLINTOCK

Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.

Auburn, Indiana

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALE COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER. SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALE COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1931

NUMBER 43

ELSON FARM BUILDINGS BURN

Fire Discovered When Family Was Doing Chores Monday Evening About Five O'clock

FIRE DUE TO COMBUSTION

All of Hay, Grain and Part of Machinery Destroyed;
Four Head of Live Stock Burns

While Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Elson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elson were busily engaged in doing their chores, Monday evening at about 5 o'clock, fire broke out from the barn, resulting in a heavy loss of hay, grain and machinery.

Just what happened Mr. Elson does not know. He had just taken one of the cows from the barn and was turning her into the pasture, at the front gate at the east corner of the barn, when Mrs. Elson came running out of the barn and gave the alarm. Flames were then leaping from the roof, and Mr. Elson said the start seemed to be from the shredded fodder part of the mow. Combustion of gas formed in the heating of the fodder seems to be the logical conclusion as there were no lights of any kind in the barn.

Mrs. Fred Elson was successful in letting the cattle from their stables, while Fred got the horses out and gave the alarm.

The Elson farm property has been considered one of the best in the county, everything being arranged for convenience in handling of stock and caring for the farm crops. The buildings were all newly painted this summer and were in the best of condition. No litter of any kind could be found about the place. In order that our readers may get an idea of the size of the barn, the main barn was 36x70 feet with a 16 foot shed, an L-shape 32x36 furnished a stable for the horses and cattle. The wagon shed had a crib on either side and they were filled to the brim with new corn, they were each 24 feet long. The shed was used for the hogs and it was partitioned off for breeding pens and was modern in construction, providing for the convenience in handling their hogs.

Just What Burned
We will not attempt to tell all that burned but Mr. Elson said there were 19 acres of shredded fodder, 20 acres of hay, 1050 bushels of oats, 400 bushels wheat, one fine Jersey cow, 2 brood sows and one Poland boar, large straw stack, spreader, 2 farm wagons, gasoline engine, new hay rack, double and single harness, and of course many other important tools of the farm. A portion of the machinery was saved including their tractor, truck and other pieces.

The garage standing near by was damaged some and the granary was completely destroyed.

The Insurance
The Elson farm has been operated for some time by the son, Fred, and his property was taken care of in addition to Tell's.

The insurance on the buildings burned is said to be $2,000 on the barn, $700 on the contents, $150 on the granary and $400 on the contents.

New buildings will have to be built but as yet no plans are made. They have 10 head of cattle, 4 horses and a great many hogs to be taken care of this winter, which will necessitate a place

KEEPING IT QUIET

"Can we play keeping store in here, mama?"

"Yes, but I have a headache, so if you do you must be very, very quiet."

"Oh, all right, mama, we'll pretend we don't advertise."

of housing.

All of the goods were removed from the Fred Elson home, as the house was in danger.

Auburn and St. Joe fire departments responded to the call, but all that could be done was to save the garage and house.

The fire drew a very large crowd from many miles around.

CONVENTION PROGRAM FOR NEXT SUNDAY

To be held at the Christian Church, St. Joe, Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30, as follows:

Song Service, . . . . . Mark Williams, Leader
Devotional . . . . . Rev. G. D. Stoll
Song . . . . . Junior Chorus

Special Music, . . . . . Ladies Quartet, Butler
The New Sunday School Standard
"B." Discussion by Stanley Means, Gertrude Borthwick and Clyde E. Hart, County Workers
Special Music, . . . . . Ladies Quartet, Butler

Address, . . . . . Mrs. Alva Sholtz, Pleasant Lake
Special Music, . . . . . Ladies Quartet, Butler

Reports, Announcements, Offering Song by Congregation
Benediction . . . . . Rev. J. O. Rose
Mrs. Grace Dilley, President
J. C. Hull, Secretary.

HALLOWEEN FESTIVAL

Lutheran Church basement Saturday evening, supper consisting of sausage, waffles, or chicken and biscuits, for 25c. 43tip.

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS
Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it. YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM

Everything to Please Our Customers

Hurni's Cash and Carry Store

TELEPHONE 83

Groceries
Vegetables

Fresh Fruits
Canned Goods

WE WILL CATER TO THE NEEDS OF OUR TRADE

We Are CASH BUYERS of Cream

OPEN HOUSE AT SQUIDERS' HOSPITAL

The opening of the new addition to the Bonnell M. Souder hospital at Auburn will be held Saturday afternoon and Sunday, and a very cordial invitation is extended to the public.

The new addition contains 17 modern patient rooms with nursery, electric treatment room, shower baths, laboratory and delivery room, besides special new equipment.

This hospital is indeed an asset to our community, being within a few minutes drive, when the emergency arrives.

SETTLES FOR DEATH OF FRANK L. MILLIMAN

By agreement of the parties, a judgment has been entered in the DeKalb circuit court in the sum of $500 in favor of Adelbert G. Hercules of Fort Wayne, administrator of the Frank L. Milliman estate, against the Wabash Railway Company.

Mr. Milliman, who was a former Concord township trustee, lived on his farm two and a half miles northwest of St. Joe and he was returning home December 7, 1930, at 1:30 A. M., when his automobile was struck by a train. He was removed to a hospital at Angola, but died the same day. It is believed his car stalled on the track and that he was on the track trying to signal the engineer to stop when he was hit.

The administrator filed a complaint in which he charged the railway company with negligence. Howard S. Grimm is attorney for the estate and Attorney W. D. Stump appeared for the defendant.

BABIES

There is no other baby in the world like yours. Surely you will always want to see him as he is today. Arrange for a photograph of him now at the D. Webster Smith Studio, Butler, Ind.

BROTHERHOOD MEETING AT SECHLER HOME

The October meeting of Wittenberg Brotherhood held at the home of Jack Sechler, seven miles northeast of Butler, Ind., the evening of October 14th.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

Mr. Sechler will soon move to his farm home near Orangeville, in the south part of the county and the meeting was in a measure a farewell for the departing member and his family from the members of his brotherhood.

The meeting was well attended, there being nearly seventy present. Rev. Donald Jennings of Hamilton, Ind., read the scripture and commented. He also entertained with a number of songs to his own accompaniment on the accordion.

John William Barber, Butler's home poet, read a group of Riley's poems, in-as-much as the works of the Hoosier poet are in keeping with his birthday which is in October.

Jerry Barber and Luther Kniseley, who are both past the age of 75 years, sang a duet which is always appreciated and enjoyed by their many friends in the brotherhood.

Hubert F. Craven, pastor of the Auburn First Presbyterian Church, gave a short address which was very timely and well chosen.

After the scheduled program Mr. and Mrs. Sechler, assisted by their daughter and family served a very well prepared lunch with coffee and dill pickles which were enjoyed and to be remembered as their ability to prepare good wholesome home cooking. After this repast every one that cared to sing was in splendid mood to do so and which they all did with abandon. The Sechlers' will long be remembered for their friendly and cordial welcome to us all in their home and the good wishes of the members will go with them in their new location.

The November meeting, which will be held at the U. B. Church in Butler, November 11th, second Wednesday of the month, will be the Thanksgiving meeting when the usual elaborate dinner will be served about 10:30 P. M., after the program by the ladies of the church in the church basement. A large attendance is expected and each one of the men and boys of the county are herewith extended a cordial invitation whether they are members or not. Come and get acquainted with your friends and neighbors over the county. You will enjoy it. Mr. W. C. Price, Supt. of the Public Schools of Butler will give a lecture on "Crime, its Cause and Prevention," besides special music is being arranged for and in general, a profitable and enjoyable good time will be in store for all who can attend.

PERFECTION BISCUIT COMPANY DRAWING CONTEST IS AROUSING A GREAT DEAL OF LOCAL INTEREST
Boys and Girls—Have you entered the Perfection Drawing Contest? A good many boys and girls from St. Joe and Spencerville and vicinity are already working in hopes of winning some of that $1000 prize money being offered by the Perfection Biscuit Company of Fort Wayne. The best part about the whole contest is that all entries will be judged by local citizens and there will be one winner right here in St. Joe. That winner will then enter the final contest competing against boys and girls from other towns for the Grand Prize money with the first prize in this contest being $250.

It's easy and simple to enter—you don't have to buy a thing. Just go to your Grocer and ask him for a Perfection Outline Chart. Take it home, read the rules over carefully and begin. Some boy or girl from here is going to be a prize winner.

The closing date is set for November 10th. Now is the time to get started so that there will be no hurry necessary to complete your work before the closing date. Read the ad in this issue of The News.

BAKE SALE

Section 4 of the Ladies Aid of the M. P. Church will hold a Bake Sale, Sat. Oct. 31 in Hursh's Store. Time, 10:00 o'clock. For chicken and noodles, bring your container. Come and buy your Sunday dinner.

ROYAL HUSTLERS HOLD PARTY

What? Oh, haven't you heard? The Royal Hustlers held a Halloween party.

Who? Royal Hustlers class of Coburn Corners Church of Christ.

Where? At the Cheesetown Community Hall.

When? Last Saturday evening, October 24th from 8:00 to 12:00.

Did you mask? Well I should say so.

What did you do? We had a number of contests and games. Such as, thread the needle, you tie me, potato roll, treasure hunt, one-legged fight, knock my hat off if you can, what I'd like to see, black cat puzzle, etc.

Who did you have with you? A real fortune teller. She told some they were going to be wealthy, marry three times, would marry someone with initials of E. N.—L. D., and the best part "Hiram" is going to be an old bachelor.

Did you have refreshments? Sure, sand-witch, apple, and a doughnut with a hole.

Were there many present? Yes, there were 24 in all.

How many guests? Oh! there were 9 guests.

Did you have a good time? Did we have a good time? Well you should have been there. You missed a whole evening of pleasure. All I have to say, those who are members of the class that didn't get there missed a chance of their life. To the teacher we say we are sorry she didn't arrive, but we hope to see her to our next party.

Thank you for your kind attention. Reporter.

Come on Kiddies
GET IN ON PERFECTION'S
$1000.00
DRAWING
CONTEST

Only a few more days and $1000 in prizes will be divided among the School Children of this vicinity. November 10th is the closing date—but there is still time for you. See your Grocer today and get the Perfection Outline Chart with all the rules of the contest. Tune in on WOWO, Fort Wayne, Tuesday and Friday noon, 12:45, for complete details.

ASK YOUR GROCER
FOR FULL DETAILS

SPECIAL SALE!
2 ONE POUND PACKAGES of P.W. CRACKERS
or
ONE POUND of P.W. CRACKERS and ONE POUND of ANY
OTHER PERFECTION
CRACKER for only 25¢
PERFECTION BISCUIT CO.
FORT WAYNE, IND.

CUT IT SHORT

"Youth, art thou not endeavoring to induce the finny tribe to engulf in their denticulated mouths a barbed instrument on which is affixed a dainty allurements?" asked the professor. "No," said the boy, "I'm FISHIN."

The lad was right. Cut it SHORT. If you have anything to SAY—say it so it will be UNDERSTOOD. That's our plan. We have a good bank. We want more customers. We will appreciate your business. And you'll never regret having become associated with our reliable Bank.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEY BANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK by WALTER TRUMBULL

Francis Wallace, who once was publicity man for Knute Rockne's teams, later worked on a newspaper with me, and later still started writing short stories and novels, has returned from Hollywood and tells me that his latest book, "Stadium," is about to appear forth on the screen. I learn that another old friend of mine, William Glavin McNutt, wrote the continuity and that Richard Arien will play the lead. Wallace likes Arien. He says the movie star ran away at sixteen and served in the royal flying corps, where he saw active service. That is why he was able to fly his own plane in "Wings." Dick Arien is married to Jobyna Howland, who gave up a screen career for housekeeping. They have a baby and spend all their spare time on a boat. Arien is one of those rare actors who hates to have anyone double for him. He does all his own rough stuff; was hurt once in a picture shooting; broke both his hands in a movie fight.

Among other things, Richard Arien was once a newspaper reporter in the Middle West. They sent him to interview a prominent visitor, who kept him waiting around a couple of hours while he fooled with a typewriting machine. Arien went back to the office and wrote something to the effect that he had been sent to interview an important man, but that if the latter's time was worth so little he could spend two hours of it fussing with a machine that any repairman could fix in fifteen minutes, at a cost of fifty cents, he couldn't be such a big shot after all. Somehow the thing got into the paper and Arien lost his job. That was a good break. He might have developed into a columnist instead of making a fortune in the movies.

Women have advanced a bit since our grandmothers were young—at least, they have in New York. A very modern young married woman was driving her roadster home from a bridge party recently, when she passed a red traffic light. There was no officer on post but a motorcycle cop drove up beside her and prepared to make out a summons. He, too, belonged to the youthful school and didn't look as stern as an old-timer.

"Listen," said the woman. "My husband will be furious if I get another summons. I got one yesterday for parking. Be a nice fellow and put that book back in your pocket. If you do, I know a nice respectable speakeasy near here and I'll buy you a drink." The officer looked at her and laughed.

"All right," he said. "I was just going off duty. The station house is a block from here and if you will drive around there until I change into my street clothes I'll come out, get that drink and we'll call it square."

So the woman drove around and waited outside. In a few minutes the cop came out. He was a very presentable young chap and the woman took him to the speakeasy, bought him a drink and asked him a lot of things about police work. He talked so well that she insisted that he must be in uniform. So they went back to the station house where he changed again and got his motorcycle. Then they went to the woman's home.

There she announced to her husband, who was waiting in some anxiety, that she was under arrest for a traffic violation. He asked the cop to come into the house.

"Can't we square this thing?" he inquired. "At least, let's have a drink and talk it over." So they talked it over and the officer finally said it would be all right to let the woman go with a warning, if she would be careful about traffic rules thereafter.

Finally, he looked at his watch. "My heavens!" he exclaimed, starting for the door. "How am I ever going to explain this to my wife?" And I don't know how he did it.

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.)

NO MERCY FOR "ALIEN SMUGGLERS"

Mammoth Ring Uses Canada as Operations Base.

Washington. — The United States government will prosecute to the limit the members of the mammoth ring which, using Canada as its base, has over a period of eight years smuggled not less than 1,000 aliens a year into the United States at from $100 to $5,000 a head and later blackmailed them.

At least eight internationally known criminals were among those smuggled in and so far have evaded a wide-spread search for the ring.

Under arrest are 19 persons, including three government clerks, a lawyer and one of the victims. More arrests will follow, it was said.

The ring's method of operation is explained as follows:

"Runners" were maintained at a great number of small steamship agency offices abroad. When an alien appeared seeking information regarding entry to the United States, these runners would take him in hand.

After explaining the almost insurmountable difficulties faced by aliens seeking entry to America, the runner would guarantee to deliver the alien into New York city for a specified sum. This sum ranged from $100 to $5,000, depending on how much the victim possessed.

The alien was then sent to Montreal, where he was picked up by the Canadian agent of the ring who had advance information of his arrival. There the victim was bled again if he had additional money.

In many of the cases the aliens were introduced into this country through the use of forged re-entry permits obtained through the co-operation of bribed government clerks, it was said.

When these permits could not be obtained, the aliens were smuggled over the border and delivered at their destination.

Plans for New York's East River Front

Beautiful plans have been submitted by Borough President Samuel Levy to the board of estimates for the improvement of the East river waterfront from Grand to Fourteenth streets. The handsome driveway would provide for six lanes of moving vehicles throughout its entire length, and the "marginal street" would care for supplementary traffic leading to the piers and dock warehouses.

LEAVES LOTS BARE

"Her clothes barely cover her."
"Yes, they leave lots of her bare."

The KITCHEN CABINET

The dental bills may be reduced by the proper use of orange juice, which is not only agreeable to take but will save the pain of decay and dental work.

The organic acids of these fruits are both stimulating and acceptable to the fastidious appetite of the growing girl. Sweets prepared from fruits such as oranges, grapefruit and lemon are especially appetizing when in the form of marmalade.

One of the best of dentifrices is lemon juice in water with a little salt; brush the teeth vigorously—gums as well as teeth (for they carry the blood to the teeth) after every meal and always on retiring, so that there will be no food for mouth germs to work upon in the night.

A well ripened banana served with a glass of milk is a light and most satisfying and sustaining luncheon.

Always use bananas which are to be served uncooked, well ripened. If the fruit is firm the skin yellow and covered with small brown flecks it is in the best stage for eating fresh. Fried, baked or broiled the fruit may be less ripe as the cooking softens and ripens it.

My Neighbor

♦ ♦ ♦ Says: ♦ ♦ ♦

KEEP down the coal bill by sifting all your children. Have a box into which they can be thrown as they are taken from the grates; then, when you have a sufficient quantity, pour water over them from a watering can if possible—to lay the dust. Then "riddle" them free from all the small, fine dust. After the sifting process only nice-sized clinkers will be retained. They will burn admirably in the kitchen range and will give out quite sufficient heat for ordinary needs and help out the coal supply very considerably.

To increase the amount of frosting for custards, puddings, etc., without increasing the amount of the material used, take the whites of the eggs you saved, beat as usual and drop the mixture into a sauce pan, of boiling water. It will instantly rise to the top and will make a large amount of very light, white frosting. Spread at once and serve.

A good way to prevent table dollies being wrinkled is to roll them around a cardboard tube that has been covered.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

HENRY ROE CLOUD

The appointment of Henry Roe Cloud, full blooded Winnebago Indian, as field representative of the Indian service of the Department of the Interior, was announced at Washington. Mr. Cloud, who is a graduate of Yale, has been at the head of the American Indian Institute at Wichita, Kan., which he founded, for the past 10 years.

Historic Far Eastern Spot

When the armed forces of Japan occupied Mukden, capital of Manchuria, the other day, history in a way repeated itself. This photograph shows Japanese troops marching through an ancient gate of the city when they took possession of it in 1925. Then as now the action was taken ostensibly "to guarantee peace."

Town Wants to Dodge Onus of Kid's Name

Silver City, N. M.—Silver City wants to shake off its reputation as being the home of Billy the Kid, notorious Southwest desperado.

Billy was only a village bad boy here; he spilled no blood in his home town, the Silver City Independent avers. Billy merely broke into a Chinese laundry one Saturday night; was arrested, placed in jail, climbed out of the chimney and escaped. Billy never returned to Silver City after that, the Independent claims.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

To Rule With a Rod of Iron

IT DOES not require a large degree of erudition to understand that the expression "to rule with a rod of iron" is a reference to discipline or government which is extremely strict.

The phrase has been in our own and other languages for so long that the memory of man "knoweth not to the contrary," originating undoubtedly in the days when the subjects of rulers were indeed subjects—in every sense of the word.

The work, however, that is responsible for the widespread use of this line in the English language is none other than the Bible, where it appears in several places.

We find it for instance in Psalms 2:9:

"Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron."

And in Revelation, 2:27:

"And he shall rule them with a rod of iron."

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.)

Century Old Water Mill Still Working in South

Moscow, Tenn.—A century old water mill built on the banks of the Wolf river, a half mile from the center of town, is operated on Saturdays by its owner, W. H. Pearce, and farmers for miles around bring grain to him to be ground into flour. It is one of the few remaining mills of its type in the South.

or pieces of wire (B) to hold the box at the desired height. On the top tip, in the middle of it, he inserted an eye hook (D) through which he puts a light cord (C), tying the ends of it to the bottom of the old paper box. This was to keep the box tilted in the desired position after fastening the cord around the hook. This frame Dick is going to drive into the ground in his garden as soon as the plants show above the soil. Can you make one like it?

(Copyright.—WNU Service.)

USED A CLUB

Idols Become Swords
Peiping.—Ancient Chinese idols are being turned into swords for use in modern warfare, according to a report from Kaileng, Honan. The idols, made of brass and iron, were discovered in an old temple. Local military leaders decided the metal should be used for swords.

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

A Music Lesson

A BOAT SONG

A song to sing and a song to play! What could be more fun? Below is a picture of a piano keyboard. The letters you see printed on the white keys are the names of the notes, and the letters with the little signs after them, printed above the black keys, are the name of the sharps and flats. Each black note plays two different parts, sometimes it is used as a flat and sometimes it is used as a sharp. The sharp names are above the flat ones on this piano picture.

All ready to begin? This will be very much like a puzzle, you know, and you mustn't give up till you get to the end.

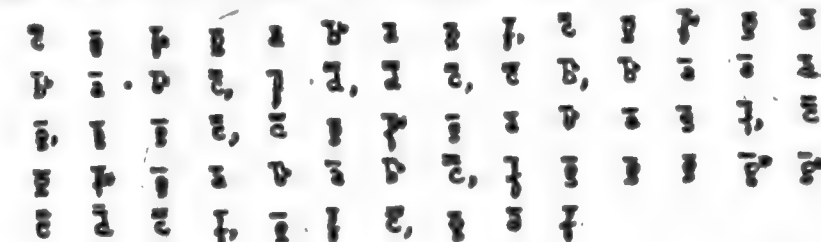

(1) Find the middle of the piano, both on the picture, and your real one.

(2) Find the note which is marked c with one line over it, first in the picture, then on the piano.

(3) Now play up the keyboard until you reach the c with two lines over it. There! The Boat Song begins on this note.

(4) Keep your finger on the two line c and play from the notes given on the chart below left to right. The commas after the names of the notes on the chart tell you where to pause. Be sure to notice whether the notes you play have one or two lines over them. If you don't you may play high when you should play low.

(Read Across.)

How to Make a Plant Protector

Dick is planning to have a garden of his own next spring. He has questioned his mother already about tomatoes, radishes and lettuce. He plans to have a few flowers, too.

His father bought for him ten cents worth of small size staples, some nails and one ball of twine. Dick is very busy now making a plant protector. Dick believes in being prepared early.

For the plant protector he makes a frame (A) as illustrated, from thin strips of wood. On the side strips he drilled a few small holes for the nails.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

A Brave Man's Speech

Samuel H. Church, the head of the new Liberal party, said in New York the other day:

"To belong to our new party will take courage. But nothing can be done without courage. Remember what Pompey the Great said when he wanted to sail his grain ships to starving Rome and the sailors were afraid to raise anchor on account of the terrible storm."

"It is necessary to go," said Pompey. "It is not necessary to live."

3 RULES big help to BOWELS

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour every day.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin, and other helpful ingredients that couldn't hurt a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

Dr. W. B. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN A Doctor's Family Laxative

"No Sale"
He—What would I have to give you for just one little kiss?
She—Chloroform.

Suited Him
"Curves are coming back, Joe."
"I'm glad to hear it. I never cared for oblong women."

Kills Pain and Heals ZMO OIL

It kills pain while it heals; because it penetrates into the wound. If you have Pain in Back, Cold in Head, Cough, Sore Throat, Earache, Piles or know of a wound on man or beast that will not heal, try ZMO-OIL.

35¢ at Drug Stores
If you have never used ZMO-OIL we will gladly mail you a free sample bottle. Write M. R. ZAEGL & CO. 833 New York Ave. SHERBOGN, WIS. W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 43-1931.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

WIND SHIPS

Thrilling Spectacle of a Full-Rigged Ship at Sea.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

THE lowly but romantic tramp steamer, whose rusty iron sides and smoky stacks are known to every seaport in the world, has largely joined the sailing ship at anchor. Whereas but a third of the world's tonnage was carried in regularly scheduled liners in 1913, now more than three-quarters is transported in this fashion, leaving very little for the independent roving steamer or sailing ship. Canadian grain once crossed in tramp steamers. Now a half-dozen regular lines ply the North Atlantic. Norwegian timber and Pacific coast timber, even, are moved on big liners following a schedule.

Changing economic and social conditions are last vestiges of the pioneer spirit of the seamen of another day. The seamen themselves are different. They want steady work and fixed wages, and they like to ship on steamers with a regular schedule, allowing them to make plans in port.

Out-of-the-way parts of the world are again becoming the lonely, isolated spots they were before the days of the great explorers or the era of sailing clippers. The number of ships that round Cape Horn, for instance, now is few and becoming steadily fewer.

Steamers have no need to go that way. If they are coming from Australia to Europe, Suez and Good Hope are shorter and kinder routes. If they are bound from or to New Zealand, there is Panama. If they are outward or homeward bound in the West coast trade, Panama canal, too, is much more convenient, even for the far southern port of Valparaiso. In the unusual event of a steamer passing to the south of the American continent—say, on passage from Buenos Aires to Talcahuano—nine times out of ten she will use the Magellan passage, or, failing that (for visibility is often bad there and currents treacherous), she will pass between Tierra del Fuego and the small island the southern tip of which is the dreaded Horn.

Some Sailing Ships Round the Horn. Even sailing ships avoid Cape Horn now, when they can. It is a regular thing for the guano barks, coming up from Guanape, Lobos, and Santa Rosa for Jacksonville, Wilmington, or Falmouth for orders, to pass through the canal instead of using the old highway to the south and doubling the Horn. Indeed, in the grain race of 1930 one sailor from Australia, the Swedish four-masted bark C. B. Pedersen, actually made her way into the Atlantic by way of Panama instead of the Horn—an entirely unprecedented experience that would make a thousand old shellbacks turn in their graves.

But there still remains a small coterie of wind ships regularly using the Cape Horn road. There are the German nitrate carriers, the big four-masted of the Hamburg Laeisz line—Padua, Passat, Parma, Priwall, Pamir, and Pekin—all splendid, upstanding, four-masted barks, powerful, clean-lined, speedy, and economical. They remain in commission to carry nitrate from German mines in Chile to German factories on the Elbe. They are manned largely by boys who must see service in deep-water, square-rigged ships before their country will allow them to sit for examination as officers. They are well found and make good voyages; some of them are comparatively new ships. Two have been built since the World War; one of them, the Padua, as late as 1925. They carry no auxiliary engines of any kind. One of them, the full-rigged ship Pinnas, was lost in 1929.

These Germans, with the sailors of the Finnish fleet and one or two Swedes, just about comprise the whole of the world's sea-going, square-rigged ships. America still has one or two; but, except for the four-masted Monongahela, which was in Port Adelaide in January, 1928, where she discharged a cargo of lumber, and the full-rigged ship Tusitula, which is a more or less regular user of the Panama canal, none is still in commission.

How the Sailer Gets Cargoes. The majority of the square-riggers still rounding the Horn are in the grain trade from Australia. This is the last happy hunting ground of the big sailing ship, which has been steadily ousted from every other trade it ever enjoyed, even the carrying of Peruvian guano. When Australian wheat harvests are heavy and steamers are inclined to ask high freights because of the difficulty of getting outward cargoes, the sailor still has a chance of sneaking an odd cargo here and there.

She is prepared to accept a much lower rate of freight than the steamer. She will go to any outlandish port and register no objections to spending six weeks or more at loading. She will discharge her own ballast at her own expense. She does not mind sailing halfway round the world in ballast if only there is the chance of a cargo at the end of it, and she carries her wheat well and delivers it in good condition.

She has the added advantage, sometimes, of bringing something of a gamble to her charterers. She may load on a falling market and set out with her wheat worth shillings below a payable price. She takes months on her voyage, providing good free warehousing on the way, and sometimes has the luck to arrive in time to take advantage of an upward trend of which there was no sign when she left.

For this reason shippers still like to take an odd gamble with a sailing ship, particularly in recent seasons, when wheat prices have been so dull that the grower's main hope lies in some unforeseen upward trend when "bottom has been touched."

The Swedish four-masted bark Beatrice in 1930 was chartered to bring home wool from Melbourne to London—a trade which throughout this century has been religiously the exclusive right of the steamer—simply because she provided long warehousing by the duration of her voyage, and there was a chance that prices would rise while she was on her way.

She was 110 days on the passage, and her charterers had the satisfaction of clearing better prices for the wool they sent in her than they obtained for any they had sent in steamers. The steamer had discharged their wool on a falling market months earlier; the Beatrice arrived to find stocks lower and prices slightly higher. As her freight rate was lower than the steamer's, her chartering was profitable to the wool owners.

But against the lower freight rate has to be offset the tendency on the part of underwriters—natural, perhaps—to charge a higher premium for the insurance of sailing ships' cargoes.

"Races" That Are Not Races.

Since the World War, a few sailing ships have been able annually to obtain wheat charters from Australia to the English channel for orders. Since they all leave about the same time, and since their scarcity brings them to the notice of the press and of the public, their sailings have come to be known as "races," though they are not really anything of the kind. Some of those ships are in no fit condition to race; some of them never were. They are not proud clipper ships, built to run fleetly before the gale and to carry steerageway through doldrum calms. They are great cargo-carrying steel wagons, wall-sided and heavily lined, with bluff bows and heavy sterns, overpowered and undermanned. They make rare visits to dry docks, since dry-docking costs money and must be a luxury to them. They run upon the border line, with crews of inexperienced boys; their gear is old; sometimes their plates leak a little, here and there, and they are badly off for sails.

There are still a few ships which are able to give good accounts of themselves, and generally do—the Finnish four-masted bark Herosoin Oecle, which was formerly a Norddeutscher Lloyd training ship; the Swedish four-masted bark Beatrice, formerly the Clydebank Routenburn; the ex-Englishman Archibald Russell; and the old Dundee-built Lahwill—but the bulk of the ships progress slowly over great waters and are content if they come to port at all, without racing.

They are more concerned with the safe delivery of their cargoes and the return to their homes of all those who set out to sea in them than spectacular and thrilling holding on of sail in heavy gales and forcing the ship in short tacks against head winds. They sail leisurely, and would not run more than nine knots if a gale blew right behind them on a sea of perfect calm, if such a thing were possible. They steer badly and their great back-breaking sails and yards are extremely difficult to handle in anything of a breeze.

They accept their wheat gratefully and are glad of any cargoes. They spend months, and even years, sailing round the seven seas in ballast, hunting for charters they rarely get. If ever they chance upon a charter, they are not fools enough to throw away good money on blown-out sails.

Denver Boy is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying waste held too long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc. It gives them a hearty appetite, regulates their stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. For over fifty years, leading physicians have prescribed it for half-sick, bilious, constipated children. More than 4 million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 8855 1/2 Wolf St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackie, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup. It fixed him up quick, gave him a good appetite, made him sleep fine and he's been gaining in weight right along since the first few days, taking it."

To avoid inferior imitations of California Fig Syrup, always look for the word "California" on the carton.

Boss Yourself

Learn first to be your own manager. No one can be trusted with leadership until he has learned to discipline himself. Shun shiftlessness, greed, selfishness. It is difficult to keep from the pinnacle of success the man who is master of himself.—Grit.

Indiana Tree Planter Takes Long Look Ahead

A friend in the Middle West who is enough of a philosopher to take a long-distance view in matters financial writes us:

"I am happy to advise you that my tree planting experiment out in Indiana continues to have every prospect of ultimate success. I have now planted about 225,000 trees in two years, and, under the Indiana law, it is all exempt from taxation except" on the valuation of $1 per acre. I expect to put in about 2,000,000 trees and then leave them in trust for my grandchildren. The cost of doing this will not be in excess of $30,000 and in about seventy-five years they will be worth approximately $2,000,000 to $3,000,000, as I am planting only trees that will have cabinet wood value, such as black walnut, poplar, spruce and wild cherry. I will get my reward out of this in the pleasure that I will have in seeing my trees grow and in the hunting and fishing I will have at my lodge."—Commerce and Finance.

It Hardly Seems Possible

It is hard to realize the speed with which the germs responsible for sore throats and coughs can multiply, once they get a start in the delicate tissues. From a few to a million may be a matter of but a few hours. But you can always stop them short with a few applications of R. & M. The Penetrating Germicide. It is always dependable as a destroyer of the bacteria which do so much damage in the throat and lungs. Easy to apply and quick in action, it is a boon to people who are easily susceptible to such infections—one thing which should always be in the medicine chest ready for emergencies. Your druggist should have it. If not, send us his name and $1.25 for full-size bottle, postpaid. Helpful booklet free. P. E. Rollins Co., 63 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. (Adv.)

You are urged to save money; but the bullwhip urging you to spend it is louder.

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia, Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Precarious Enterprise

"What happens to a man who carries water on both shoulders?" asked the youth who is learning politics. "Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "I hate to use slang. But as a rule he gets soaked."

You Can't Tell

"Good-night, mother." "Daughter, are you coming in or going out?"—Exchange.

When in doubt as to what to say suppress your thoughts.

Stronger · Tougher · Safer

THE patented construction features, explained here, make Firestone Tires stronger, tougher and safer. You get these extra values only in Firestone Tires—but you pay no more for them because of Firestone economies in buying, manufacturing and distributing.

We do not ask you to just take our word for these extra values. We invite and urge you to go to the Firestone Service Store or Service Dealer in your community—compare sections cut from Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and special brand mail order tires and others. Check them for yourself. You be the judge.

Drive in today!

Listen to the Voice of Firestone Every Monday Night Over N. B. C. Nationwide Network

COMPARE QUALITY · CONSTRUCTION · PRICE

Firestone Give You
MAKE OF CAR	TIRE SIZE	Firestone Offroad Type		Special Breed Hull Outer Tire		Firestone Offroad Type		Special Breed Hull Outer Tire
		Type	Price	Type	Price	Type	Price	Type	Price
Ford Chevrolet	4.40-21 1/2	4.98	6.98	9.48	4.98	6.58	8.58
Chevrolet	4.30-20 1/2	4.48	5.68	8.98	4.78	4.78	9.28
Ford	4.50-21 1/2	4.48	5.68	11.28	4.48	5.88	9.48
Ford Chevrolet Whippet	4.75-19 1/2	6.68	13.98	5.68	5.68	11.18
Ford Ford	4.75-20 1/2	6.78	13.18	5.78	5.78	11.38
Chandler DeSoto Dodge Durant Gray's Hudson Kearney Ronsvelt Willys	5.00-19 1/2	6.68	13.98	5.48	5.98	11.48
East Pack	5.00-20 1/2	7.10	13.98	5.68	6.10	11.98
East Pack Olds	5.00-21 1/2	7.38	14.38	5.68	6.38	12.38
East Pack	5.25-21 1/2	7.88	16.78	7.37	7.37	14.58

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

"HELLO NEIGHBOR"

You never realize how much that simple, staunch greeting you hear so often means unless you go away and hear it not at all—"Hello Neighbor" you hear it on your way to work. It starts the day off right, gives you confidence, sends you forth with added zest, with fresh courage and a determination to remain worthy.

"Hello Neighbor," you're greeted when you go to lunch. Somehow it makes the food taste better, makes you forget your worries, makes you spend with a glow of inward satisfaction.

"Hello Neighbor," you're greeted as you journey homeward.

And all the rancor leaves you, you catch that sense of well-being, your troubles and perplexities leave you, life seems truly sweet.

It is strange how these two simple words can mean so much. However, they do. When they are spoken to you they really come from the bottom of someone's heart. They are more than a greeting, they say: "We hope you are well and that everything is going along swimmingly and that it's a fine world if you just understand and make the most of it." The pleasure of hearing these two words expressed gives everything a brighter hue and the somber thought which tenaciously abide with us are evaporated in the greeting, "Hello Neighbor."

OCTOBER GLORIES

This is the month when Indiana would never trade the glory of her woodlands for any world-famous scenic spots. Neighboring states naturally share in the beauties of the season. There can be no denying, however, that nowhere else does Jack Frost seem to enjoy his annual visit so much as in the heart of Indiana. The brightest tints in his varied assortment are preserved for the maples, sumac, dogwood and other favorites.

Some may sing the praises of spring, but that season, welcome though it may be after winter's chilling blasts, can not compare with the pageantry of October. The landscape is touched with various shades of crimson, bronze and gold. The bounteous harvest of spicy apples, rich, velvet grapes and the array of golden pumpkins quicken the pulse of the epicure. There is an exhilarating tang to the air. All nature is in festive mood, reveling in one last colorful riot before the seasonal sleep.

Hoosiers naturally think of Brown county at this time of year, since it combines the attractions of hill and dale and woodland. This season nature has been unusually lavish in her distribution of color. The hills are aflame with autumn's brightest tints, scarlets, reds and yellows. Each turn in the winding roads presents a new vista of October's unrivaled artistry.

It is not necessary to visit Brown county, however, to share in the glories of October. Just to be outdoors is a blessing which should be duly appreciated. A little later the fall gusts and the pattering rain will bring down those leaves. Then the pleasure of the hike through the scented woods adds a touch of autumnal pleasure which mere motoring can not supply. It is a joy merely to be alive any place in Indiana in October.

SUPPLEMENT FARM GRAINS

(By Prof. W. B. Krueck)

It is readily conceded by most good livestock authorities that the animal unit on the farm is worth relatively more today than it has been during the last few years. This is due to the fact that the animal unit can do relatively more with farm grains today than it has in the past.

This, however, can only be accomplished when farm grains are properly supplemented to give them the proper balance in the ration. Feeding grain alone to hogs, to poultry, to beef cattle or to dairy cattle does not make a material increase in the return received for that grain at the present time. However, when these grains are properly supplemented with good protein the return from the farm grains in many cases can be increased from 50 to 100%.

Therefore, farmers at this time, because of a liberal supply of grains, should not overlook the importance of properly supplementing the crop which they have produced on the farm.

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Let The News have your films developed.

School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beard and son, Bobbie, of Auburn, were Sunday afternoon guests in the Wm. Randall home.

The Coburn's Corners Ladies Aid Society will meet next week on Wednesday, November 4, with Mrs. Wilmet Coburn.

Yes, Capone drew a prison sentence of 10 years and $50,000 fine, but the question is, when will he start serving it?

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Ronald Borthwick dislocated his right wrist a few days ago, when he fell from a tree. A limb broke causing him to fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kinsey of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kinsey were Sunday dinner guests in the E. R. Kinsey home.

Vehicles on the road after dark must be properly lighted. Numerous complaints are being made and arrests followed last week.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Mr. C. O. Gordon from the Extension Department of Purdue is spending this week in DeKalb county assisting County Agent T. E. Myers in the check up of the Five Acre corn plots.

Members of the Methodist congregation called at their parsonage one Monday evening to extend Rev. Mayfield and his family their best wishes before they leave St. Joe. Popcorn was served and a splendid social time was had.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Laub and sons Frederick and Loren and daughter, Miss Lenore, attended the annual Homecoming of the Big Run Church, east of Butler, Sunday. Mrs. Laub was a former teacher in the Sunday School at that place, and Mr. Trostel attended services there about 48 years ago.

Every potato, onion and vegetable grower in DeKalb county should save samples of their best products to exhibit at the Second Annual Muck Crops Show at Garrett, November 3, 4 and 5. These exhibits should be in place by 9 A. M. November 3 but if it is impossible to take or send exhibits to Garrett, means have been provided whereby the exhibits will be picked up at the county agent's office at Auburn and taken to Garrett. These exhibits can be brought into county agent's office either Saturday or Monday and will be well taken care of.

Every potato, onion and vegetable grower in DeKalb county should save samples of their best products to exhibit at the Second Annual Muck Crops Show at Garrett, November 3, 4 and 5. These exhibits should be in place by 9 A. M. November 3 but if it is impossible to take or send exhibits to Garrett, means have been provided whereby the exhibits will be picked up at the county agent's office at Auburn and taken to Garrett. These exhibits can be brought into county agent's office either Saturday or Monday and will be well taken care of.

It is not necessary to visit Brown county, however, to share in the glories of October. Just to be outdoors is a blessing which should be duly appreciated. A little later the fall gusts and the pattering rain will bring down those leaves. Then the pleasure of the hike through the scented woods adds a touch of autumnal

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45. Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Epler and Mrs. Vienna Rude spent Wednesday in Fort Wayne.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience. Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Miss Dorothy George and friend of Auburn were callers at ye editor's home Sunday afternoon.

This week will have its quota of Halloween parties and the funny faces have made their appearances at night already.

Waterloo now has two drug stores, Raymond Beehler of Garrett starting the new one in connection with his Garrett store.

A 4 1/2 pound sweet potato has been on display in our window raised by War Coburn. Four large sweets weighed a little over 12 pounds. That is the record of the season.

Frank Bowman, Donald Kinsey, E. R. Kinsey and Mose Stomm will go to Bloomington Saturday to attend the game between Indiana and Ohio State. They will return Sunday.

Morrison Guilford, 42, of Auburn Junction died Sunday night from a complication of ailments. He was a large man, weighing 416 pounds two weeks ago, before taking his bed.

Miss Bessie Layman who works in Auburn spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Layman, enjoying her vacation. On Thursday the family drove to Anderson and visited with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haverstock of near Elkhart, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Vienna Rude and two children. Mrs. Dewey Miller and two sons of Newville were Sunday evening guests in the same home.

Oster Bros. store at Corunna was robbed Sunday morning of about $40 worth of clothing, consisting of 3 sweaters, shirts, underwear, overalls, work pants and shoes. The thieves made entrance by way of a rear window. Sunday night a similar theft was made at Helmer.

Put Your Personality Into Your Gifts. Your family, relatives and friends can buy anything you can give them, Except Your Photograph. It's none too early now to arrange for your Christmas portraits. A 7x9 enlargement will be given free with each $7 order. Try our twenty-four hour kodak service. D. Webster Smith Studio, Butler, Indiana.

Members of the Concord Township Home Bureau enjoyed their annual family night at the gymnasium in St. Joe, Oct. 16. The refreshment committee served supper at 6:15 to about 125 members with their families, after which all enjoyed the evening's program consisting of music, readings, and a two act play, entitled "Tim Slick's Western Days" which was well given by O. K. Shull, Mrs. O. K. Shull, Harriett Johnson, Derwood Ridgway, Harvey Hull, and Ed Storer. Mrs. Harriett Draggoo being chairman of the entertainment committee. All pronounced the evening an enjoyable one and one long to be remembered.

NOTICE

Goods not called for by November 1, will be sold at auction price. St. Joe Custom Canning Kitchen. 48t1.

Used Cars

1928 Chevrolet Coupe In Excellent Condition. 1931 Model A Ford Panel Delivery like new, used less than 6 months. 1927 Hudson Coach.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Telephone 45 when you have some news.

First Grade Sand Potatoes, 50 cents at the field, J. N. Scholes. 41t2p.

J. L. Rhodenbaugh and Rolla Wiers spent Saturday and Sunday at Lima, Ohio, guests in the Dave Chambers home.

Mrs. Ruth Davis and children were Sunday evening luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hamilton.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Mrs. L. D. Young has been at the bed side of her mother at Milton, Ohio for the past week. Sunday she was some better, when Mr. Young visited them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. F. Abel entertained Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sharp and son, Robert, Mrs. Wm. Fee, of Edgerton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee to Sunday dinner.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office. 34t.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Gruber and sons, of Fort Wayne spent Friday night with Mrs. Frank Milliman. On Saturday they motored to Battle Creek, Mich., and enjoyed a trip through the Kellogg Plant.

Chas. Sucher and family moved from the Curie home last week to Butler, where he has work on the Wabash. On Saturday Mrs. Pearl Cochran and daughter, Aretha, moved their restaurant stock to Montpelier, Ohio.

Rev. and Mrs. B. W. Mayfield and daughter, Delores and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mayfield were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bishop and family. Afternoon guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mullen, Kathryn Mullen and son, Jack, Mrs. Will Floring and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kronmiller, all of Fort Wayne.

Coloring autumn leaves and the scenic beauty of Brown county's forests proved such an attraction to Sunday drivers that highways were clogged with autos. A special detachment of state police was sent to keep traffic moving. Weed Patch Hill, highest point in Indiana, was the major attraction. A steady stream of visitors climbed the fire tower located on top of the hill.

The "stop pedal" was clamped by the state tax board Monday on band concerts which officials of Thorntown, Ind., had anticipated would cause necessary municipal expense in the summer of 1932. A 7-cent municipal tax levy, included in the Thorntown budget for next year, was eliminated by the tax board on the ground that band concerts constituted a "frill" of government expense paid for by direct taxation that well might be dispensed with next season.

Mrs. Mary Shuff is visiting at the John Milliman home in Napoleon, Ohio.

Next Sunday afternoon is the township convention in the Christian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cox and son, spent Saturday and Sunday in the Elmer Eddinghouse home at North Manchester.

Mrs. Jacob Gelhausen and Josie VanFleet of Garrett and Mrs. Delora Curie were recent guests of Mrs. Minnie Pepple.

Mrs. Velma Mohney and daughter, of Zanesville, Ohio, were home over the past week as guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Kinsey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Hamilton and Mrs. Ruth Davis motored to Rome City Sunday afternoon after delicious apples. While there they visited the Gene Stratton Porter grounds.

If you are thinking of a New Car let us show you the new Ford. Just phone or write for full demonstration. The Cities Sales Inc., Hicksville, O. Phone 20. Open day and night. 34t.

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Frank Milliman were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hartley and son, Glen, of Muncie; Mrs. E. L. Gordon, of Pontiac, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hercules and son, Billy Frank, of Fort Wayne.

The Mayfield family leaves this week for their home near Greentown, Ind., after spending three years here as pastor of the M. P. Circuit. They leave with the best wishes of everyone who has come in contact with them. They have been splendid citizens in our midst.

The Loyal Happy Hustlers class of the Chritian Church held their monthly class meeting at the home of the teacher, Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick last Thursday, seventeen members being present. Business session was opened by the president, Mrs. Lena Meek, with a short devotional after which several matters of business were taken care of. The entertainment committee then took charge, providing amusement with contests and games. Pot luck supper was served, the hostess serving fried chicken and hot coffee. An enjoyable time was had by all. The next meeting will be held the third Thursday in November.

Writing tablets and envelopes at News Office.

Fourteen people from Concord township attended the County Council at Auburn Sunday afternoon in the Christian Church.

Mr. W. W. Hollipeter and Mr. R. J. Hollipeter of Blytheville, Ark., were Friday and over night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee.

The biggest value in colored funnies is now available at The News office, when we give you 30, in the Sunday Herald and Examiner. Order yours now and we will save you one.

For Sale: 1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at News office if interested. 43t2.

A number of little girl friends of Delores Mayfield had a party in her honor last Friday, all bringing their lunch and having a pot luck. Those present were, Betty and Nelda Kees, Minta Davis, Kathryn Bell and Helen Faye Curie, Carrie Jane Hellingier, Marcella Wiers, Leila and Jean Hurni. The kiddies all had a good time.

If any destitute family, during this depression, cannot afford to subscribe for the St. Joe News, or buy any reading material for the family, come to the office and we will make a present of one year's subscription to The News. Your circumstances will be treated confidentially, nobody learning the names of the destitute.

Taxes

It won't be long now until the last day to pay your taxes will be here. A 10% penalty is added if you fail to pay them on or before the last day. We will gladly furnish you the money to pay these taxes at a small interest cost and you may repay us at your convenience.

FRANKLIN SECURITY CO.
Over Schwartz Grocery
Phone 709 Auburn, Ind.

TOMLINSON BEAUTY PARLOR

Established Six Years
REDUCED PRICES

SHAMPOOING—Always Hot Water (Rain Water Filtered) 35c
WAX MARCELS—Horseshoe—Straight Back .....35c
FINGER WAVING—Any Style from Chart .....35c

All other Beauty Work Reduced Proportionately.
Permanents $3.00 and $4.00. They could not be made better for $10.00. We have the best Operator we have ever had.

W. C. TOMLINSON

Phone No. 96 Butler, Indiana

NOTIONS - NOTIONS

Mercerized Thread 150 yards .....5c 250 yards .....8c 400 yards .....10c	Darning Cotton— Mercerized Cotton, All Colors, 2c-4c-8c	Pins.....4c-8c-15c Pin Cushions .....10c Safety Pins .....8c-15c Needles .....8c Machine Needles .....10c Emery Bag .....10c Thimbles .....10c	Silk Bias Tape .....15c Mercerized Bias Tape .....8c Cotton Tape.....2c to 6c Blanket Binding, 5 yards .....39c Rick Rack, yard .....3c
Basting Thread.....7c Carpet Thread .....5c Tan, Brown, Green and Maroon	Snaps .....8c Corset Lace .....5c-10c	Polishing Cloth, 5 yards .....25c	Shoulder Strap Ribbon, yard 4c-8c
Pearl Buttons, many sizes .5c-10c	Shoe Strings .....5c-10c	Elastic, 6 yard bolt, 1/4 In. Wide 19c-13c	Bobbie Pins .8c-10c Hair Pins .....10c-25c
Pearl Sides, colors, 10c	Kitchen Set .....19c	Elastic, all widths, yard, .....4c to 65c	Sew on Garters, 2 lengths .....20c-25c
Brass Buttons, card, .....25c-35c-45c	Pencils - Pad - Ruler	Wide Elastic for boys' play pants, yard .....25c	Round Garters .....10c Children's Hose Supporters 25c-39c
Crystal Buttons, card, .....25c-50c-59c	Combs .....25c	Elastic for Pajamas, yard .....15c	Face Cloths 5c-10c-15c
Sansilk .....5c	Crochet Hooks .....8c	Pot Holders .....10c
Embroidery Yarn.....5c	Dress Shields .....25c	Dish Cloths .....10c
	Floss— 2 for 5c; - 3 for 10c

PHONE 106

Mc Bride's

114-120

N. MAIN ST.

PAGE FIVE

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, October 29, 1931

SPENCERVILLE

Read the Ads in this issue.

The C. C. Club will not meet until Friday, November 6 at the home of Mrs. Agnes Baker.

Mrs. Mary McNabb and daughter of Auburn and George Horn, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz.

On Tuesday evening the Loyal Woman's class and their husbands were entertained at a Halloween party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Beams.

Subscribe for The News, Now. Emsa Hannon is quite sick at the Mrs. Emilia Gloyd home.

The Eastern Star lodge gave a party at their hall on Saturday evening. Friends and relatives were invited to enjoy the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Baumgartner of South Whitley and Mrs. Merritt Barney of Hicksville were guests last week in the Dr. Clyde Baumgartner home.

Miss Marjorie Hollabaugh, Domestic Science teacher in the high school, attended the institute at Indianapolis last week. The other teachers attended at Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Treasie Kelley and son, Victor and Elmer Smith were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vol Hay. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Steward and baby and Mrs. Ivolette Kimes.

Mrs. Leatha DeaVoighnes and baby of Kalamazoo, Mich., Mrs. Lois Maurer of Union City, Ind., and Mrs. Aaron Carper of Jackson township spent several days last week at the Roy Maurer home.

Mrs. Mary Ann Ulm and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ulm and children, also Mr. and Mrs. John Baker assisted John Ulm in celebrating his birthday at his home last Sunday. J. P. Buckingham and wife of St. Joe were afternoon guests.

Harvest Home and Rally Day services were held on Sunday morning at the Lutheran Church. Mr. and Mrs. Anson Dunton of near Huntertown were Friday guests of Mrs. Emilia Gloyd and family.

A Halloween party was enjoyed on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harper north of the high school.

Mrs. Jennie Walter very pleasantly entertained the Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser and son, Jack of St. Joe and Mrs. Velma Mohney were Sunday afternoon guests in the R. U. Bowser home.

Mrs. Earl McNabb and children of Auburn were guests several days last week of the former's father, George Horn of south of town.

News was received here of the serious illness of Mrs. Sylvia VanZile who is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Schlatter and family in California.

Mrs. Chas. Whitacre has returned to her home at Richmond Friday after spending the week with her parents, R. U. Bowser and wife. Mr. Whitacre was a Friday guest in the same home.

Mrs. Edna Hutson of Spencerville held the lucky number that drew the prize heifer which was given away at the Bowser stock sale on Thursday. The sale was attended by over 300 people.

The Home Bureau was entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dora Wilder. New officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Dora Wilder; secretary, Mrs. Ora Wilmot; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Markle.

The Young Ladies Social Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Estella Goldsmith by her daughter, Mrs. Gaylon Tustison. Prizes were won by Miss Bina Zimmerman and Mesdames Zelpha Steward, LaVern Koch and LeAnna Steward.

Rev. Homer Studabaker and the following ladies attended the Group meeting of the Home Missionary Society at Forrest Park Church at Fort Wayne on Friday. Mesdames Gertrude Wasson, Gertrude Smith, Louie Beam, Adella Culbertson and Alice Watson.

Mrs. Gertrude Smith was very pleasantly surprised when the following guests arrived at the noon hour at the home of her son, Ora Smith and family on Sunday to remind her of her birthday anniversary. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. John Koch and Betty Jane McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Mann, Virgil Koch and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Koch and children of Fort Wayne.

Walter J. Baker of Spencerville, has been appointed in the DeKalb circuit court as administrator of the estate of the late Anna Baker, who died at Reading, Mich., Sept. 30, leaving $100 in personal property and $4,000 in real estate. The heirs are two children, Rea Dell Draggoo of Reading, and Walter Baker. The latter filed $200 bond, with Clyde G. Rectenwall and Ralph E. Furnish as sureties. The legal notice appears in this paper.

BUSINESS PITFALLS IN FARM DISTRICTS

Bankers Point Out Hazards of Unsound Practices and Help Farmers to Avoid Them.

WAYS in which bankers may discourage unsound farm practices are described by President F. D. Farrell of the Kansas State Agricultural College in the American Bankers Association Journal. He says:

"In Kansas in connection with the importation of dairy cattle, a large shipment of very inferior animals came into a county to be sold at auction to local farmers. The county agricultural agent informed the bankers that the cattle would be a detriment to the community. The bankers refused to finance the purchase of the cattle and the sale was abandoned. The cattle were shipped to another county. The county agent and the bankers there did as was done in the first instance and the second county escaped."

"A year ago creamery promoters began trying to capitalize the Kansas farmers' desire to improve his markets by inducing communities of farmers to purchase creamery plants before production and local conditions justified them. Informed of this by the State Agricultural College, the bankers association sent warnings to every bank in the state, leading many to refuse to support the creamery promoters until the college approved the plant for the community concerned. This saved many communities loss from the premature establishment of plants."

"A third way bankers can discourage unsound practices is to refuse to finance farmers who wish to pyramid their enterprises, a temptation difficult to resist. This is illustrated among farmers who buy cattle for feeding purposes. A farmer feeds two or three cars of cattle one year and makes a good profit. This induces him to buy twice or three times as many the second year, still more the third and so on until he finally loses more by having too many cattle on feed in a year of bad prices than he made in several previous years with smaller numbers and better prices. When bankers discourage bad practices their action is a positive benefit to the farmers concerned."

LEO

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Schlatter are entertaining their daughters this week.

Mr. Harry Schlatter spent Wednesday evening dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smead.

Mrs. Lewis Smead and Mrs. Ray Memering and daughter spent Tuesday with Mrs. Lewis Smead.

Mrs. Mary Hooper and daughter are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fishburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hensinger and son, Kenneth, are entertaining Mr. Hensinger's brother and family from Indianapolis.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

Faculty

Miss Marjorie Hollabaugh, teacher of the Home Economics department, left Wednesday for Indianapolis, where she attended the vocational teachers institute.

Mr. Harshman conducted the chapel Tuesday morning due to the absence of Rev. Stoll, who is visiting in Pennsylvania.

During the past weeks Spencer Township put into operation the third school bus. The driver is Charles Brattian. Each bus makes two trips mornings and evenings. This helps out greatly the congested condition of the roads.

Miss Mabel Tague and her mother went to Fort Wayne on Wednesday evening to visit relatives and attend the convention of teachers, which met in that city on Thursday and Friday.

UP TO THE INDIVIDUAL

The automobile accident problem should be approached from the standpoint that it is the individual driver's problem.

All encouragement should be given to move to modernize traffic codes and to pass laws requiring the examination of vehicles and drivers. These steps can save many lives, to say nothing of thousands of dollars worth of property. But at the same time we must do our utmost to drive home to the individual the responsibility that is his when he takes the wheel of a car and embarks upon the public streets and highways.

It has been suggested that an honor code be created for drivers. If all drivers would seriously subscribe to it the ghastly toll of deaths would drop over night. Not one fatal accident in ten is strictly unavoidable. In nine cases someone, through recklessness, carelessness or inexperience, has erred. A life snuffed out is the result.

A ton or two of metal, moving at high speed, represents a tremendous destructive force if it is mishandled. None of us would take a chance on putting a stick of dynamite in a fire or looking down the muzzle of a gun and playing with the trigger. Yet hundreds of thousands of drivers do the motoring equivalents of these acts—by going at excessive speeds on narrow or rough roads, by passing on curves, by cutting in and out in the face of oncoming traffic, by driving on the wrong side of the highway.

Public opinion must be directed, with all its force, toward making the individual conscious of his duty, if the accident toll is to be materially checked.

Wednesday, October 21, 1931
Concerning Edison

There is a book with eighty-four pages that is closed. Thomas Alva Edison has left this world made so beautiful by light which men can never extinguish and has passed to a more beautiful world. His was a life of usefulness. Truly he was a servant and a benefaction to mankind.

It is a curious coincidence that Mr. Edison should be laid to everlasting rest on the fifty-second anniversary of the invention of the incandescent light, which is regarded as the greatest of his inventions.

Now he belongs to the ages.
—Glenn Brace.

Athletics

Mr. Appleman has a new idea to raise funds for the high school athletics in the form of a school store where pencils, notebook paper, ink, and other school supplies are kept on hand.

During the past week the Spencerville High School basketball team practiced on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The basketball suits were given to the team on Monday night, and hereafter the players will practice in their suits.

The Junior class and the Athletic Association are serving a chicken dinner in the Lutheran Church basement, Wednesday noon, October 28, from 11:00 to 12:30. The food is donated by patrons of the school. It will be prepared by the Home Economics Foods class and served by the basketball boys. The proceeds are to be divided on a fifty-fifty basis. The price for the dinner is 15 cents for all school children and 25 cents for adults. Your patronage will be welcome.

Senior Class

The Seniors in Mr. Appleman's geography class are keeping in close touch with the news of the world by The New York Times.

Florance Wasson of the above class was absent from school last Tuesday afternoon.

The Senior class has been visited by two picture agents displaying their works in the picture-taking business.

Manual Training

The manual training boys have finished making lockers for the basketball suits. These lockers are to be placed in the Community Hall.

Howard Means is finishing a tabouret that was started by some one in the class of last year.

The members of the class are: Charles Agler, Stanley Bishop, Merl Dean Furnish, Albert Hollabaugh, Howard Means, Lawrence Wappes, and Charles Worden.

Eighth Grade

The Eighth Graders are having a Halloween party on Thursday evening, October 29, at the home of Homer Stemen. Be careful pals, there may be spooks in that woods.

The Eighth Graders can hold their own. For the loss of his girl friend, J. Ryan kicked some spokes from the wheel of a bicycle. It is said the bike belonged to Floyd Pfauwer.

Freshman

One of our illustrious freshmen, Paul Hensley, had a slight misfortune Monday night while at basketball practice. Tuesday he came to school with his face disfigured by black and blue spots under each eye.

Mildred Carnahan is the clerk in our school store. Our stock consists of pencils, note book paper, ink, candy, and other school supplies.

BUY
THE NEW
6-in-1
FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

Safety Service

Courtesy

*This Bank Represents the Future
To Many*

WHEN people pass our doors and say,
'That's my bank,' they mean they're building their own financial future.

Our future is simply the joint future of all we serve

Can We Make
Yours Brighter?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY
BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME"
... is a
GOOD IDEA

WE SELL
ENVELOPES
LETTERHEADS
STATEMENTS
INVOICES
CALLING CARDS
TAGS
BLOTTERS

WE CAN FURNISH
CARBON SALEBOOKS
PRINTED FORMS
IN FOLDED PACKS
FOR ANY PURPOSE
AUTOMATIC
SALES REGISTERS
PRINTED GUMMED TAPE
AND MACHINES

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS
— CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR
HOME TOWN PAPER
GET THE IDEA — BUY AT HOME

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana
9-1-29

"As GOOD AS HIS BOND"

YOUR NAME, signed to a check,

makes you personally responsible for the amount indicated. Your name, signed to a note, a deed, a charge account, is your word that you will live up to the agreements in the document.

"His word," people say to you,
"is as good as his bond."

Exactly the same thing holds true with manufacturers and merchants who advertise in this newspaper. They are willing to sign their names to certain definite printed facts about their products and the goods they sell. In advertisements they tell you about materials they use. They show you how to get the most for your money. They teach you how to choose among a multiplicity of products. And quite as important as all of these: they acquaint you with new styles, new inventions, new manners and customs of living.

By reading these advertisements you know even before you shop, precisely what you are getting. The manufacturer or merchant has signed his name.

YOU CAN TRUST THE MANUFACTURER OR MERCHANT WHO IS WILLING TO STAKE HIS NAME ON WHAT HE SAYS

PRINTING RESULTS

The one big thing we are interested in when you come here to buy printing is not primarily how big the order, but—how can we do the job to insure you maximum satisfaction. We know that if you get results you will be back for more printing of the same kind.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and
Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Our prices
on printing are not always the lowest... but our work is always the best

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HOW THE BEVERLY GIRLS CARRIED ON

By FANNIE HURST

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

THE exterior of the Beverly mansion was one of solid and stolid magnificence. It was a double house, red brick, Georgian, with a beautiful example of fan-light over the white doorway and a side garden, that was walled in by red brick overgrown with ivy to about the height of a man.

The street on which stood the Beverly mansion was also one of rather solid and stolid magnificence, old families in old homes, whose children and grandchildren, and in one or two instances, great-grandchildren, had been born under the same roof.

It was the sort of street from which the closed carriage and the pair of spanking bay horses had departed reluctantly, as it gave way to the automobile. It was as if the double row of locust trees which flanked it, had attempted to form a barricade, shielding the quiet avenue from the encroaching glare and hurry of the growing city.

The Beverly sisters, Linda and Wanda, had been born in the house they occupied. They were an example of great-grandchildren having been born into the same house that had been occupied by their forebears. It was a quiet, austere household now, the entire lineage including the girls' parents, having died out. There were only the two of them now, pale-haired, pale-eyed, rather pale-mannered girls, with the slender wrists and ankles that bespeak good stock, and the repressed and careful bearings that bespeak good breeding.

There was a portrait of the two girls, done fifteen years before when they had been fourteen and fifteen, seated on a stone garden bench, a small lap dog between them. It had been painted during the last year of their parents' lives and an effective pair the girls presented. It is true that the bill for that painting still continued to come at regular intervals, even during the fifth year following the death of the paternal Beverly. But then, so many bills continued to arrive at all too close intervals.

What had happened was the not unusual predicament of the heirs to a supposedly large fortune, finding that their inheritance had been a myth.

Except for the elaborate home in which they continued to dwell, by untold scrimping and sacrifice, the Beverly girls were practically penniless. It was a cruel fight to keep up appearances in that topiary looking mansion. There were no servants, not even a gardener. It was inevitable, of course, that people should know that the Beverly girls had not inherited the large fortune that had been expected. But no one in town, and meticulously no one on that pretentious street, knew to what extent these two girls secretly struggled to keep up the pretense of even semi-affluence.

One by one, certain art objects of value had disappeared from the house; paintings, silver, ivories and bronzes. It was said in the neighborhood that the peculiar thing about the Beverly girls was that although they went about socially practically not at all, they seemed to sleep the greater part of the day. That was true, but for a pathetic reason. It was after the shades of night had fallen, that Linda and Wanda ventured to do the house and garden work which there were no other hands to carry on. Under cover of darkness one could wash windows, scrub steps, scour the beautiful fan-light over the entrance, weed and spade and dig in the garden.

The Beverly girls were workers, all right; they beat rugs out of windows, painted cornices, and even, one spring, painted the entire length of pergolas and trellises in the garden without ever being detected in the act of manual labor.

The degree to which they were old-fashioned and pathetically snobbish, never dawned upon these two girls. They had been bred in an atmosphere of artificial gentility. They knew no other standards.

There was one annual ritual, however, which amounted almost to a legend, which the girls performed at any sacrifice. It usually meant long, weary hours of needlework, which they secretly sold to the Women's Exchange, and the sacrifice of more objects of value from the household, but every spring, come what might, regular as clockwork, the girls added a bit to their lovely rock garden, and called in the services of landscape gardeners for the extension.

Ironical situation it was! The pair of pale, rather pretty girls, going to bed to sleep off hunger, while under their very windows, rare and beautiful plants and flowers were manufacturing perfumes.

One year, however, the rock garden accomplished the miracle of actually bringing into the empty coffers of the Beverly girls a little income. The landscape gardeners, in reality a struggling young farmer and his brother, who had taken up this work as a side line, and whose services came cheap, proud of their results, had succeeded in interesting the editor of a garden magazine. The Beverly girls received the sum of one hundred dollars for permitting photographers to take pictures which were ultimately to be published in a magazine.

It was part of the conservatism in which these girls had been born and bred, that their sensitive natures should shrink from even this vicarious publicity, but the young farmer hustlers, local boys with ambition, were eagerly insistent and the prospect of the one hundred dollars so welcome, that finally they gave in.

The beautiful rock garden of the Beverly mansion was published far and wide, guests came to drop in more frequently after that for the privilege of taking tea to the sound of the little waterfalls and for the lovely perfume of roses and magnolias. Indeed, as the girls whispered ruefully to one another in the secret reaches of their room, practically all of the one hundred dollars had gone in meeting social expenditures that had come with the public celebration of their garden.

The Beverly girls, as the years marched on, were growing tired; bone-tired, heart-tired, soul-tired. The struggle was too much. It was one thing to walk out every afternoon as they did, down the broad, beautifully-scurved, front-steps and along the quiet lane of their sedate avenue, and out into the city, where they were known and respected as the "Beverly girls." It was quite another matter to creep back into that cold, bleak house of empty larders, servantless quarters, fireless fireplaces, climb into scrubbing clothes, scour in and out into the city, where they were known and respected as the "Beverly girls."

One day something really quite thrilling occurred. The mayor of the town approached the sisters, requesting that on the city's birthday, when a great local celebration was to be staged, they throw their beautiful garden open to the public. The city would insure them against damage, and since the old Beverly mansion was really one of the landmarks of the community, it seemed fitting that on this anniversary occasion, its famous gardens should be open to the citizens. It was a tribute both to the social position of the Beverly girls and to the lovely old mansion itself. The sisters were moved and impressed and gladly consented to the undertaking. Consequently, part of the elaborate festivities of the birthday celebration of the city was the free inspection of the Beverly rock gardens. Men, women and children filed through the gardens by the thousands, all during the day. Refreshments, served by the city, were to be had in the beautifully painted pergolas. Sun danced on the fountains of the darling goldfish in the Beverly ponds. The populace applauded the scene of idyllic loveliness.

It was remarked, however, that the Beverly sisters were not among those present on that day. The house stood open, inviting those who would, to enter, but somehow, it was not the sort of behavior to be reckoned. There was something cold, austere and homeless about the inside of the Beverly mansion. It seemed more of a relic, a historic place, than a home.

No, the Beverly girls were not present. This is where they were: They were off in a neighboring town called Audulsa, in the act of being married to the farmer brothers who were their landscape gardeners.

The Beverly girls never returned to the Beverly mansion. They presented it to the city.

No longer do they have to creep back into a cold, bleak house of empty larders and fireless fireplaces; their new home is no relic, no historic place, but a house of cheer and hopes and plans for the future. No more do the sisters walk out in the afternoon along quiet lanes and sedate avenues to be nodded to and pointed out as the strange and respected "Beverly girls." The days of converting precious old art objects into money are gone; the struggle of secretly laboring under cover of darkness, washing windows, scrubbing steps, weeding and spading, is done. The Beverly girls are farmers' wives.

They live on a truck farm five miles outside the city limits. Their rock garden now is a truck garden. They still scour and sweep and dust and clean, but out in the open sunlight now, through long, busy days that are happy days.

Decorative Symbols.

The dove and the star have been used in church decoration and architecture from a very early period, and their symbolism may be variously interpreted, according to the conception of the artists. The dove represents the new principle of Christianity—its two wings the love of man and the love of God, compassion and contemplation, or active and meditative life. It also stands for the Holy Ghost and the soul. The radiation star is the star of Bethlehem and therefore represents Jesus Christ. Stars without the rays are often used to represent the saints.

Fur Adds Chic to Fall Costumes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TO SAY that this or that coat or suit or frock is "trimmed in fur" does not begin to convey the idea of the novelty and intriguing detail which distinguishes the fur-trimmed costumes such as are the rage for fall. The artfulness with which fur is being manipulated in a trimming way baffles description.

No doubt designers are encouraged to display a fascinating originality in their working of fur in that the new pelts, specially the modish flat types, are so supple and pliable that they can be handled as easily and successfully as any material.

Among smart fashions there is none smarter for autumn wear than the suit or coat made of one of the new wools weaves or of flanneling velvet, the same embellished with Persian lamb or astrakhan or any fur of that type. The distinguishing note about these costumes is the unique treatment of the fur which so individualizes them from the ordinary.

There is nothing conventional about the new fur trimmings, the whole tendency being to achieve the unique and the highly decorative. This is instanced to no little degree in the handsome coat illustrated below to the right in the accompanying picture. This pattern model is fashioned of super quality black velvet, and we pause here a say a word in regard to the tremendous vogue which is in promise for the tailored velvet coat or suit.

For street wear as well as for evening wear, the velvet coat is in the mode. A very unusual and distinctive treatment of the Persian lamb which trims this coat emphasizes the new "little collar," the same developing into a semi-bodice effect which is belted and buckled most intriguingly. The hat is also of velvet, for the slogan, "the only hat to wear with a velvet suit, frock or coat is a velvet hat," is being generally adopted in fashionland. Note the perky bird-head ornament which adorns it, for this is a favorite trimming with Paris modistes.

Buyers whose attelers is frequented by the haute monde in the French capital creates this ensemble of hat and coat.

The very youthful suit shown to the right above in the picture is fashioned of a black pebbly wool weave. A clever two-in-one collar and yoke effect of elegant Persian lamb gives "class" to the jaunty little jacket. The scarf of self-fabric also adds a touch that tells. The light silk blouse with its pleated hemline lends charm to the costume. Brilliant wee ostrich tips surmount the crown of the fashionable Empress Eugenie chapeau which tops this stunning outfit.

With her black and white wool dress midly seated to the left wears a gray kid fur suede-sleeved jacket, which is the latest word in swank as the fashionist now sees it. Her Empress Eugenie hat is of black felt, feathered with a cluster of sprightly quills.

Not only suits and coats, but frocks of wool, silk or velvet will carry ornate "dressmaker touches" of fur. Perhaps it will be but a bow or two of this fur or that which is very new, the edges of jacket, blouse and skirt hemline bound with astrakhan or seal. Then, too, little shoulder capes of fur are heralded for fall and winter—beret and scarf set also, if you please, the scarf bearing an amusing resemblance to the quaint little "tippet" which is a word lately revived.

That a most interesting program in planned for furs and fur treatments there is no doubt, and the most ornate and unusual, the more do they meet with fashion's favor.

REVERT TO PAST
FOR DRESS MOTIFS

Most of the couturiers on the other side of the world are stressing Victorian and Second empire motifs in their new collection of gowns and wraps.

Such revivals, as you may have noticed in the past, are usually accepted by very few. These living fashion plates who talk, eat and sleep fashions will no doubt be quick to accept the new creations. But for those of us who must be active and therefore modern in our choice of clothes there are still a number of exquisite and sensible clothes to choose from.

As to materials—woolens in varied weaves are being lunched for many of the new frocks. Lelong has an interesting jersey afternoon frock that is worn with a velvet jacket in a contrasting shade.

For afternoon wear, moires, plain, printed and brocaded, will be used, and the same material will enjoy evening popularity.

Bracelets Have Adopted

New and Exotic Designs

Reflecting the influence of the French colonial exposition upon fashion, bracelets have taken to new and exotic designs this fall. Wood and metal are making some of the most effective of them. There is being shown an interesting cuff bracelet about an inch wide, made of polished rosewood, and another rosewood bangle with a band of aluminum around the center. Both would be effective with a spectacular sports costume in wool.

Net Frills

Net is used in narrow frillings to trim dresses of flat crepe. Net is used for afternoon and evening dresses of the picturesque type. With our fashion this year for furs, net is an excellent material. It is sometimes made up over a taffeta slip. It is used for blouses.

Pajama Costume
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

If we are going to dwell way up on top of skyscrapers and in delightfully airy and sunny bungalows then it is up to costume designers to create styles especially tuned to the charming surroundings of landscaped roofs. This new version of the afternoon pajama was seen recently at a first showing of penthouse fashions. The colorful dowerly printed silk is accented by tri-color ruffles at the hem and sleeves. Black kid sandals match the background of the print and the lower trouser ruffle.

Scallops Are a Popular Trim

Scallops are a favorite finish for smart Paris ensembles. Navy blue and black wool suits are designed with scalloped hems and jackets. The scallops are generally about one inch in depth.

Active Children bright and sturdy are raised on Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. For sixty years doctors have recommended it. Expectant mothers use it. It helps build sturdy bodies with strong, straight limbs in growing youngsters. Fine for adults too. Scott's Emulsion is rich in Vitamins A and D. Every one needs these for correct growth and the development of bones and teeth. Easy to take. Children like its flavor. They should have it regularly. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives: H. F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

LAYTON to Scott's Emulsion's "Romance of the Sea" every Sunday and Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. over the Columbia Radio Network

Scott's Emulsion
OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

Legend Tells Why Cat

Is Friendly to Women

It was the Makambo, our guide, who told us the story of the Cat, as we sat round the camp fire after the day's journey through the jungle, writes Marie Friedenson, in News Chronicle. "Since the first of days," he said, gravely, in his native Swahili (which, with its soft consonants and liquid vowels, is curiously reminiscent of Italian), "the cat has always been the friend of woman, because he is wise. One day in the jungle he was disputing with other small beasts for food, when a lion passed, and all but the cat ran away. 'The lion made no attempt to hurt him, so the cat, believing him to be the greatest of all beasts, said to himself, 'I shall stay with him, and then no one shall harm me.' So they traveled together for many days; but one day the lion was overcome by an elephant, and the cat, seeing him vanquished, made friends with the elephant. They, too, traveled together through the jungle; but one day the elephant fell into a pit that a man had dug, and the man came up and killed him. 'The cat looked at him in astonishment and thought, 'Surely cunning prevails against might; now, therefore, I have found the king and master of the beasts.' So he made friends with the man. They journeyed on together to the man's village, and when they had reached it, the woman who was the man's wife ran out of one of the huts to greet him, and when she saw he had not brought back from the jungle the meat she had wanted, began to abuse him, and beat him about the head with a pot, and the man ran away; so the cat, being wise, made friends with the woman and has stayed with her always in the villages to this day."

Royal Stamps Still Used

European critics of revolutions are giving publicity to the fact that despite the Spanish revolution letters from Spain still bear stamps with the head of King Alfonso. One critic commented that evidently it is easier to depose a monarch from the throne than the post office.

Don't Be Disfigured.

Keep Cole's Carbolic in the house. It stops pain from burn or cut quickly and heals without scars. At all good drug stores, 30c and 60c. or J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

Economy First

"Porter, how much to carry baggage?"

"Ten cents the first parcel, then five cents each further parcel."

"I will carry the first parcel and you take the other."

Aha!

Teacher—Now, Jimmy, what happened when the cow jumped over the moon?

Jimmy—Somebody got an idea for vanishing cream.

It is surprising that the man who always has an ax to grind has as many friends as he has.

The man who wants all the best of every bargain cheats himself of future opportunities.

Written in Human Face

There is in every human countenance either a history or a prophecy, which, much sooner, or at least sooner, every reflecting observer—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

Is Your Rest
Disturbed?Treat Disordered Kidney Function Promptly.

A nagging backache, with bladder irritations; burning, scanty and too frequent passage and getting up at night, may warn of disordered kidney function. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills in these conditions. Praised for 50 years by grateful users the country over. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Following Orders

"Why, Martha," cried the thin sister, "why on earth are you boiling all those chocolate bonbons?"

"Well," sighed the stout girl, "I am on a liquid diet for awhile."

DROWN YOUR HEADACHE
In This Cup of Tea!

Easy intestinal movement causes painful headaches. When the system clogs, make yourself a cup of fragrant Garfield Tea. Its effects are prompt, gentle but decidedly certain. The sense of heaviness vanishes from your stomach. Garfield Tea is thoroughly harmless and the sure, pleasant way to flush the bowels.

GARFIELD
TEA

A Natural Cathartic

Sunshine

—All Winter Long

AT the Famous Desert Resort of the West—marvelous climate—warm sunny days—clear starlit nights—dry invigorating air—splendid roads—gorgeous mountain scenes—finest hotels—the ideal winter home.

Write Geo. C. Chaffey

PALM SPRINGS
California

Modern Picture Operation Wanted—West. ern Elec. and R. Co. A. Free practical training if you qualify. Operators Assn., 181 N. Rowan Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

BLACK WALNUT CRACKER. Turn your walnuts into money. Circular, Agents, J. W. Hershey, Downingtown, Pa. Box 134.

Send your Christmas
Cards

with a Smile!

It WILL be easy to find the card you want—if you shop early. And you'll get a lot of enjoyment—a real thrill—from sending cards at your leisure. But there's no leisure that last week before Christmas. So prepare for mailing now. Your cards will not only be received with a smile—they'll go with one, too!

Burgoyne CHRISTMAS CARDS

YOUR LOCAL DEALER CARRY THEM

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains of Abraham

By James Oliver Curwood

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

He was heavy with doubt when the march was resumed, for he saw the bitter souls hidden in the breasts of the warriors. Hespah Adams had made him see the truth, and he knew these men owed nothing to the people of his race except loss and shame. Many times he had thought that, if fate had placed his fortunes among them, he would have hated with the grimmest of their hatred. The freedom and pride which were once the heritage of their wide domains were no longer the controlling factors in their existence. Their wars had ceased to be wars which gave birth to forest gods and epics of unforgettable heroism. Their star was setting, and with its decline the white man had transformed them into common killers, and in this new calling it made small difference to them whether they slew enemies or those who posed as friends, as long as the skins were white. So the nobility which Toinette saw in their captors was poisoned by Jeems by what was concealed within their hearts. The greatest of all hates was not the hate of a man for a man, but the hate of a race for a race, and he knew that at a word from Tiaoga the men about him would be turned into fiends. Most of all he feared Tiaoga, for Shindas had told him that Tiaoga's father had been killed by a white man and his son by an English Mohawk.

Whatever their fate was to be, this day would bring it. He was sure Toinette could not keep up the pace much longer, and he strengthened himself for the moment when the Seneca chief would find himself compelled to give a decision. That Tiaoga had claimed her for his daughter gave him hope, but if in her frailty Toinette was condemned to die, he was determined that she should not die alone.

It was not long afterward that the warriors observed Tiaoga limping slightly increased in his walk until, furious because of his weakness, he drove his hatchet head-deep into a tree and paused to bind a piece of buckskin tightly about the ankle he had lacerated. Progress was slower after this. It continued to slacken as the afternoon waned, until the hand of a spiritual guide seemed to be working for Toinette. It was useless to attempt a concealment of her condition. Her strength was gone. Her body was racked as if it had been beaten. Another mile and she would have sunk to the ground, glad to have an end to her torture. But fate, and Tiaoga's hurt, intervened to save her. They came at last to a hardwood plain in which was a pigeon roost.

Tiaoga spoke to Shindas. "We have been a long time without meat, Broken Feather. In a few hours there will be plenty here. We will feast and then sleep and will not travel again until morning."

Then Shindas knew the truth, but his countenance did not change. He soon had a chance to speak to Jeems.

"For the first time I have discovered my uncle to be a great liar," he said. "His ankle is as sound as mine. It is for the little fawn he has pretended a hurt and stops here for meat. She is safe. He will not kill her."

When Jeems translated this Toinette bowed her head and cried softly. Tiaoga saw her. Crumpled on the ground with Jeems' arm around her, she looked like Silver Heels, with her long black braid falling over her shoulder. No one was conscious of the strain at her heart as he came toward her. Warriors, wide-eyed, saw that he did not limp, and in his attitude was a tigerish defiance of what they might think. He paused before the girl and dropped his beaver skin blanket at her feet. Toinette looked up through tears and smiled again as a strange softness stole over the savage face. He gazed at her steadily, as if he were seeing a spirit, and said:

"The soul of Sol Yan Makwun has come to abide in you!"

Sol Yan Makwun was Silver Heels. Tiaoga turned away, and his warriors knew that his decision had been made. There would be no haste after this in the direction of Hidden Town.

On a couch made of balsam boughs which Jeems had carried from the creek bottom, Toinette rested while the Indians prepared for the evening feast. She smoothed and rebraided her hair as she watched them, and although every bone in her body seemed to have an ache of its own, she felt a sensation of complete relaxation stealing over her for the first time since the tragedy at Tonteur manor. The mental ease which came to soften her environment embraced her in such a steady way that she was unconscious of the moment when her eyes closed in complete surrender to the exhaustion which was claiming her.

Jeems returned from one of the trees bearing a stick on which a dozen of the cooked pigeons were spitted. He did not awaken Toinette, but after he had finished his meal, he broiled another dozen of the pigeons until they were as brown as chestnuts and stored them away with a roasted lily root and a few artichokes.

For two hours the cooking continued, and when it was finished, with the night's chill ready for future use, Tiaoga's warriors wrapped themselves in their blankets and lay down to sleep. The camp was soon in silence, and for a long time Jeems sat meditating upon the changes which had come into his life within the space of two days and nights. That everything was gone and that he and Toinette were the only ones left of those who had so recently made up their world seemed a monstrous exaggeration of fact. Toinette, sleeping quietly, forced the truth upon him, and from the racking visions of his thoughts he turned to her with yearning to hold her closely in his arms. Her face was of childlike loveliness in the glow of the stars. So complete was her fatigue that dark dreams did not mar the solace of her unconsciousness. When the night was half gone, he made a pillow of balsam, and before he fell asleep he drew Toinette's hand to him gently and pressed his lips against it.

Dawn, another day, then night again. The journey was no longer impossible for Toinette. When she neared exhaustion, camp was made, and when she awoke the march was resumed. Tiaoga called her Sol Yan Makwun, and the warriors regarded her with kinder eyes. As the days continued and they witnessed her courage, their hearts grew warm toward her, and at times their glances revealed an admiration and friendliness which were never in Tiaoga's.

These days served also as the bridge across which Jeems and Toinette were passing into a future that was all their own, and the poignancy of the loss they had suffered was mellowed by these newer aspects so vital to themselves. The world they had known was a fabric which had crumbled in ruin about them—a desolation out of which another existence was building itself. As the deeper solitudes of the wilderness claimed them, this feeling became a bond which nothing could break. Wherever they went and whatever happened, they would belong to each other, for death might separate but it could not destroy.

On the fourteenth day, Tiaoga sent a messenger ahead. That evening he sat on the ground near Toinette, and Jeems translated what he said. Tomorrow they would reach Hidden Town, and his people would be expecting them. There would be great rejoicing because they had taken many scalps and had not lost a man. They would honor her—and Jeems, accepting them as flesh of their flesh and bone of their bone. Toinette would live as his daughter. Silver Heels' heart would live in her song. From the forest—forever. That was the word he had sent ahead to Chenusio. Tiaoga was coming with his daughter.

He stalked into darkness, and for a time Jeems and Toinette were afraid to speak the thought which was choking at their hearts.

"Your children and your children's children . . ."

That night Toinette lay staring at the sky with sleepless eyes.

CHAPTER IX

Guarded like a precious jewel on all sides, a hidden town literally as well as in name, Chenusio was one of the greatest of the strange social centers of the Indians to which prisoners with white skins were brought to be adopted by their captors. That such places existed was a fact which had but recently gained credence in both the English and French colonies. Not until 1764 was Colonel Boquet to free the "white" population in the first of these mystery villages, and then the deliverance which he brought about resulted in less of happiness than of tragedy, for the life and associations which he disrupted in the name and claim of the Colonies had their roots as far back as the third and fourth generations. Hearts and homes were broken as well as prisoners' shackles.

Chenusio was the Rome of a wide domain in that period of its history when Jeems and Toinette came with Tiaoga and his warriors. In it were three hundred people, and at full strength it numbered sixty fighting men. It nestled at the edge of a large meadow which the river embraced in a horseshoe curve and its center was a stockaded stronghold with long houses, storage buildings, cabins, and temples sufficient for the entire population in times of stress.

The Senecas had vineyards and fine orchards of apples, cherries, and plums, and they also grew tobacco and potatoes on a considerable scale. In the cornfields and growing from the same hills were pumpkins and beans, and everywhere were sunflowers of a dwarfish kind grown for the oil which was extracted from their seeds.

When the season was good, Chenusio lived in comfort during the long winter months. The granaries were full, large quantities of dried fruits were in the storehouses, and underground cellars were stocked with apples, pumpkins, potatoes, and squashes.

When the season was bad, Chenusio drew a belt tightly about its stomach for five months of the year. For three of these months it starved. This was a bad season. Spring frosts had killed the early vegetation and had blackened the buds of apples and plums. The corn was poor that, after roasting time, only enough was left for the next year's planting, and beans and potatoes had suffered until there was less than a third of a crop. But the people of Chenusio were no appearance of gloom on the day when Tiaoga and his triumphant warriors were to arrive from the east. Tiaoga's messenger had brought the news that not a man had been lost in their invasion of the territory of their enemies. This was unusual, and it put fresh courage into the hearts of those who had seen the year go against them. Tiaoga's homecoming with the spoils of war was an augury which more than discounted empty cellars and granaries.

As a part of these spoils, they knew Tiaoga was bringing a daughter to take the place of Silver Heels. This convinced them that fortune was bound to smile on them again. They had loved Sol Yan Makwun. With her death had come bad times. Now the spirits would give them an easy winter, and next year would see the earth flowering with good things. Chenusio made ready for the feast. There were still plenty of earthly things and a supply of late green corn packed away in husks and kept for this occasion.

The last day was long for Toinette. It had begun at dawn, and though Tiaoga halted his men at intervals to let her rest, it had not ended with dusk. Darkness came before they reached a plain on the far side of which was a hill. Beyond this hill was Chenusio. They could see the glow of a great fire lighting the sky. Toinette forgot her exhaustion at this sign of the end of their journey. She observed that some one took from Jeems the scalp of the man he had killed, which he had tried to conceal when he lay under a flap of buckskin. Then she saw all of the scalp taken by the Senecas fastened like dangling fish to a slender pole which was carried on the shoulders of two men, the hair of one of these scalp bearers reaching almost to the ground. With the scalp came the head of the man who came to the hill at the edge of the plain and looked down on the valley of Chenusio.

At Tiaoga's command the men bearing the scalp-laden pole had gone ahead, and now Tiaoga followed with his men in single file. Toinette and Jeems were midway in the line. Wide scars of buckskin had been placed about their necks, and Jeems was stripped of his weapons. The warriors did not hurry. Their step was slow and steady, and not a man broke the silence with a whisper or a word. A sea of torches advanced, it rolled in and out of hollows like a flood, then came to a level place and formed two streaming lines of fire. The scalp bearers reached these a hundred yards ahead of Tiaoga and his men. Toinette could see them enter the light of the torches, and in these moments the voices of the savages rose to the heavens. Tiaoga paused, and not until the scalp bearers had paraded their grisly burden the entire length of the gauntlet of flame did he proceed again.

Toinette felt stealing over her a strange faintness of body and limb. Stories which she had forgotten, stories she had heard of the Indians from childhood, stories that had sent shivers through the hearts of a thousand homes along the frontiers all crowded upon her at once. Wild tales of appalling torture and vengeance, of stake and fire and human suffering. She had listened to them from her father's knee, and from passing voyagers, and heard them in the gossip of the seigneurs. And she remembered by name this ordeal which awaited them. It was Le Chemin de Feu—the Road of Fire—through which they must pass. Others had died in it. Killed by pitch-filled torches. Killed by inches. To she had been told.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Long Line of "Caesars" in Annals of Old Rome

Caesar was the surname of a renowned branch of a line of Roman patrician generals with the forename Julia. They claimed descent from the sons of Aeneas, the mythical Iulus.

Sextus Julius Caesar, a praetor in 208 B. C., is the earliest by that name to be mentioned in history. No direct male descendant was left to bear the name of the great Julius Caesar. Octavian, whom he had adopted and who later became the Emperor Augustus, took the name. The name passed, also through adoption, from Augustus to his immediate successors, Tiberius and Caligula. The use of the name was continued by Claudius and Nero, although they were not Iuli. When Nero was killed, the use of Caesar as a family name was discontinued and it became the title of the reigning emperor. The title Caesar was used later to designate especially the heir presumptive, although it continued to remain part of the imperial title. It is from the title Caesar that those of the former Russian czars and German kaisers were derived.

Power of Reason
The mind is invincible when it turns to itself and relies upon its own courage. If this is so when only obstinacy is your defense, what must the strength of a mind be when fortified with reason?—Marcus Aurelius.

Work for Scientists
It has been estimated that the blind in the world could be reduced by half in the course of a generation, if intensive scientific effort were given to the problem.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. F. D. FLETCHER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(© 1911, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 1

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

GOLDEN TEXT—And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit.
LESSON TEXT—Gal. 5:13-26.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Danger of Strong Drink.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Peril of Strong Drink.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Reasons for Total Abstinence.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Progress of Temperance Reform.

This lesson is taken from the portion of the Epistle to the Galatians which has to do with the application of the doctrine of justification by faith. By faith the believer is linked to Jesus Christ. As a result of this union with Christ, the believer experiences a new birth, and thereafter lives a new life. The divine way of freeing the world from the curse of intemperance is to secure the regeneration of the individual.

I. Christian Freedom (vv. 13-15).
1. It is not an occasion to the flesh (v. 13). Liberty is not license. The notion that when one is free from the law he is free from restraint is wickedly erroneous. License of the flesh means not merely the indulgence of the flesh in actual material sins, but in the expression of a self-centered life in bickerings, etc. (v. 15).

2. It is by love serving one another (v. 13). Freedom from the Mosaic law means submission to the law of love. Love thus becomes the fulfillment of the law (v. 14).

II. Walking in the Spirit (vv. 16-18).
This discloses the secret of how a life of love and service to another can be lived. Walking in the Spirit results in victory over the flesh (v. 16).

By "the flesh" is meant the corrupt nature of man expressing itself in the realm of sense and self. When the Christian chooses the evil, the Holy Spirit opposes and when he chooses the good, the flesh opposes.

III. The Works of the Flesh (vv. 19-21).

The one who chooses to live according to the desires of his natural heart will be practicing the following sins:
1. Sensuality (v. 19). The sins enumerated here are practiced in the sphere of the body and are:
a. Fornication (the word "adultery" is omitted from the best manuscripts). Fornication includes all sexual sins in the married and unmarried state.
b. Uncleanliness, which includes all sensual sins, open or secret, in thought or deed.

c. Lasciviousness—wanton indulgences in the shameful practices of the flesh.
2. Irrigation (v. 20). These acts take place in the realm of the spirit and are:

a. Idolatry, which means the worshiping of idols.
b. Witchcraft or sorcery—all dealing with the occult such as magical arts, spiritism, necromancy, etc.
3. Sins of temper (vv. 20, 21). These are placed in the sphere of the mind and are:

a. Hatred, b. Variance, which means strife and contention, c. Emulations, which expresses itself in jealousy, d. Wrath—bursts of passion, e. Seditions—frictions in the state, f. Heresies—frictions in the church, g. Envyings, h. Murders.

4. Sins of excess (v. 21).
a. Drunkenness—indulgence in intoxicating liquors.
b. Revelings—acts of dissipation, under the influence of intoxicants.

Those who are under the sway of the flesh, who practice such sins, shall be excluded from the kingdom of God (1 Cor. 6:10).

IV. The Fruit of the Spirit (vv. 22-24).

The Holy Spirit, who is the source of all life-indwelling the believer, will bear the following fruits:

1. Love to God and men.
2. Joy—glad-heartedness because of what God has done.
3. Peace with God and men.
4. Long suffering—taking insult and injury without murmur.

5. Gentleness—kindness to others.
6. Goodness—being good and doing good to others.
7. Faith—believing God and committing all things to him.

8. Meekness—submission to God, the spirit of humility before him.
9. Temperance—self-control in all things. The one who is thus ruled by the Holy Spirit will totally abstain from all intoxicants and do his best to keep his fellows from its destructive power.

Good Preaching
Good preaching is good teaching—whether vice versa or not.—Continued.

Duty
There is nothing laid down as a duty, but grace is promised to enable us to perform it.—Rowland Hill.

God Gives Us Aid
God gives us always strength enough and sense enough for what he wants us to do.—Rushkin.

All for Christ
I gave up all for Christ, and what have I found? I have found everything in him.—John Calvin.

The DAIRY

LOOK FOR VITAMIN IN GREEN GRASSES

Investigation So Far Has Had No Results.

With the fact definitely established that dairy cows receiving green grasses at the peak of production make the best utilization of lime in their ration, investigations were continued at the Wisconsin experiment station to discover the nature of the factors responsible for this favorable effect from green grasses. Previous work has shown conclusively that the factor was not vitamin D, as vitamin D in large amounts was supplied from various sources without improving the calcium balance. At the peak of milk production cows so fed still used their skeletons as the source of their lime.

The theory was advanced that green grasses contained sugars that were readily convertible to acids which would have a positive influence on the absorption of lime. Therefore, concentrated hydrochloric acid was added to the ration in amounts from 115 to 230 cc. daily. While there was increased calcium assimilation there was also increased loss of lime in the urine, due to the high acid intake, and thus no net gain to the animal.

Three cows at the peak of milk production were fed a ration in which a part of the grain was replaced with commercial glucose. The addition of this sugar, however, failed to show increased calcium assimilation. Hence, it appears certain that calcium in the stimulation due to green grass in the ration cannot be attributed to vitamin D nor to the action of sugars or acids. The exact explanation—yet to be discovered.

Soybean Oil Meal Good for Protein Production

Most dairymen must buy some high-protein concentrate for their cows, at least during the winter season. This is essential, because corn and oats must necessarily form the basis of the grain ration and they do not contain a sufficient amount of protein for a dairy cow. There are a number of feeds on the market that can be utilized for their purpose. Linseed meal is perhaps one of the best known, but sometimes cottonseed meal may be used to advantage, especially so when silage is available. Gluten feed is another valuable product for the same purpose.

Another protein feed, and one that is new on the market, is soy bean oil meal. Very few farmers have had an opportunity to use this product and its feeding value is not generally understood. The Iowa experiment station has fed it to dairy cows in combination with linseed meal and find the two to be pound for pound, of equal value. Whenever linseed meal is worth $50 a ton, soy bean oil meal is worth the same. In the tests conducted it was found that the cows that received soy bean oil meal gave a slightly higher fat test than when they were fed on linseed meal, but they also gave a trifle less milk. In other words, when final calculations were made it was found that the total milk and fat production was the same for both feeds when fed to the same cows.

Prepare Cooling Tank Now

If the farm is not equipped with a cooling tank, now is a good time to build one in one. First, let us consider the size. This will depend on the number of cans to be cooled, and a good rule where ice is to be used to cool the water is to have at least three times as much water in the tank as milk in the cans. If we expect to cool six eight-gallon cans, therefore, we should have a cooling tank that holds 192 gallons. Where no ice is to be used and the cooling depends on changing the water, the ration of water to milk should be greater. The depth of the tank should be such that the water will come up well around the neck of the cans and the tank built up high enough so that the cover will be over the tops of the cans.

DAIRY NOTES

Seventy-five dairy herd improvement associations tested nearly 40,000 cows in New York state in July.

Cows giving milk need plenty of water at all times and especially in hot weather, according to dairy specialists.

A well-fertilized pasture supplies a better balanced ration and produces more milk per cow than any dairy ration ever devised, says Dr. Firman E. Bear, crop and fertilizer specialist.

Skim milk makes a good feed for dairy cows or young stock. Eight pounds takes the place of a pound of oilmeal.

When culling cows, every cow and the dairyman needs a square deal. Records are fair to the cow and to her owner.

Seventeen dairy herd improvement associations were organized or reorganized in Oregon last year, in which were 13,530 cows, and resulting in the weeding out of 1,570 boarder cows.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get on the new and use it often. Fine particles of wax seal off the skin from all dirt and dust, and keep it soft and supple. Mercolized Wax keeps the skin young and supple. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. It removes wrinkles and keeps the skin smooth and soft. Mercolized Wax is a must for every woman.

To Save Arrowhead Landmark

The Arrowhead, a natural formation like the head of an arrow, standing 500 feet high on a mountain slope in the San Bernardino National forest in California, is to be preserved by the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture. The landmark, which was an object of superstition to the Indians and a guidepost for early settlers, has been threatened with destruction, owing to erosion of the mountainside. Check dams will be created to halt the erosion, which in recent years has cut into the figure of the arrow severely.

Gives her friend some new ideas about washday

"I always thought clothes had to be scrubbed to get the dirt out. But this laundress just soaks the wash in thick Rinso suds—and when the rinses it, it's the whitest white you ever saw. I'm so glad! My clothes will last much longer now."

Great in washers, too

See that your clothes are washed the safe Rinso way. Rinso is all that's needed, even in hardest water—no bar soaps, chips, powders or softeners. Cup for cup, it gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps.

The makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinso's creamy suds for safety and for whiter clothes. Wonderful for dishwashing, too. Get the big package.

MILLIONS USE RINSO in tub, washer and dishpan

The Snag
It was his first day as a caddie, and he had shown so much interest in the play that at the end of it his employer asked him how he liked it. "Oh! I'm just crazy about it," replied the youngster. "The only part I don't like is carrying this bag."—Weekly Scotsman.

For Troubles due to Acid INDIGESTION ACID STOMACH HEARTBURN HEADACHE GASES—HAZARD

SOUR STOMACH

JUST a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It's the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill all the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Be sure to get the genuine.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

Eternal Problem
Ho—Shall we slope some dark night?
She—But what in the world shall I wear?

Life is ended when honor ends.

Deafness
HEAD NOISES
Leonard
EAR OIL

5125 Broadway, New York City
Also excellent for Temporary Deafness and Head Noises when due to congestion caused by colds and flus.

A. O. LEONARD, Inc.
70 Fifth Ave., New York City

PAGE EIGHT

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, October 29, 1931

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." Rom. 10: 17.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt. Sunday School 9:30. An interesting service has been planned for Sunday morning, November 1st. Mr. Cox, teacher in the St. Joe High School, will speak to the Sunday School on the subject of Temperance. At 10:30 Pastor V. O. Harold will talk on "Missionary Work in the Mountains of Kentucky." This address will be based upon personal experiences among the mountaineers. Special music will be furnished for both the Sunday School and worship periods.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriet Draggoo, Supt. Sunday School 9:30 A. M.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt. Sunday School 9 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:30 P. M. Message by Pastor V. O. Harold at 7:45 P. M. V. Odell Harold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt. Church School 9:30. Chief Service with Holy Communion 10:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt. Church School 9:15.

Evening Service 7:00.

G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurn, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt. Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTOR

State of Indiana
DeKalb County, SS:

I, Glenn Potter, Clerk of the Circuit Court, for the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, do hereby certify that Walter J. Baker, has been appointed executor of the last will and testament of Anna Baker, late of DeKalb County who died testate, and the said Walter J. Baker having qualified and given bond as such Executor is duly authorized to take upon himself the execution of said will. Witness my hand and seal of said Court, this 22nd day of October, 1931.

GLENN POTTER,
Clerk of DeKalb Circuit Court.
W. D. Stump, Attorney. 4823.

Legal Advertising

The following claims will be allowed by the DeKalb County Board of Commissioners at their regular meeting, November 2nd, 1931:

Indiana Bell Telephone Co., telephone services, $89.00.
Glenn Potter, Clerk's office exp., $10.50.
William B. Burford Printing Co., do, $41.35.
Frank Zirves, do, $1.00.
Fort Wayne Printing Co., do, $11.50.
Burrage's Adding Machine Co., Auditor's office exp., $1.50.
William B. Burford Printing Co., do, $8.00.
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's per. diam., $6.00.
The Detective Publishing Co., Sheriff's office exp., $171.50.
John P. Hoff, transportation of prisoners, $212.10.
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's mileage exp., $74.70.
Do, do, $1.26.
Do, return of fugitive, $42.70.
Mabel Kain, Surveyor's Assistant salary, $53.50.
C. C. Cain, Surveyor's mileage expense, $27.30.
Fort Wayne Blue Print Co., Surveyor's office supplies, $31.92.

Lucille Stallman, County Superintendent Asst. salary, $40.00.
Carl F. Stallman, County Superintendent's mileage expense, $37.80.
Kiger & Co., Co. Supt's office exp., $2.58.
Fort Wayne Printing Co., Co. Supt's office exp., $1.40.
Wayne Office Machine Co., do, $3.38.
John R. Clark, County Coroner exp., $31.25.
Nora I. Brown, Probation Officer's exp., $42.31.
Ezzie Dohner, Board of Childrens Gdn., $15.00.
Addie Campbell, do, $15.00.
Chloe Davis, do, $20.00.
Melissa Smith, do, $20.00.
Delta Kruse, do, $13.00.
Edith Walters, do, $5.00.
Gertrude Richards, do, $15.00.
Jennie M. Frain, do, $15.00.
Mabel Wyatt, do, $10.00.
Violet Morgan, do, $3.00.
Anna Snyder, do, $15.00.
Fanny Strange, do, $25.00.
Clara B. Krick, do, $10.00.
Ethel Warbler, do, $20.00.
Wm. Stonebraker, Court House Employees sal., $150.00.
O. J. Burnier, do, $50.00.
Orville Summers, do, $100.00.
C. E. Frankenberg, do, $50.00.
Ella Johnson, do, $45.00.
N. F. Baker, Court House Repair exp., $17.80.
Lige Heating and Ventilating Co., do, $5.10.
Fort Wayne Pipe & Supply Co., Court House exp., $6.75.
Auburn Water and Light, do, $47.40.
Alpha Chemical Co., do, $10.00.
L. W. Widney, do, $1.00.
Sanitary Supply Co., do, $21.59.
J. I. Holcomb Mfg. Co., do, $14.49.
A. L. Cogswell, do, $1.25.
Auburn Hardware Co., do, $17.53.
Dr. C. Phillip Fox, Salary of Jail Physician, $10.00.
John P. Hoff, Prisoner's board, $22.20.
Do, Prisoner's washing, $3.00.
Do, Northern Indiana Fuel & Light, jail exp., $24.14.
Ashton Staman, do, $4.43.
M. E. Leighty, Co. Farm Employees salary, $125.00.
Arthur Woodcock, do, $45.00.
E. D. Nelson, do, $45.00.
Nettie Robertson, do, $50.00.
E. A. Baker, County Farm exp., $22.50.
Henderson & Beerbower, do, $32.98.
Auburn Water & Light, do, $24.44.
Dr. Phillip Fox, do, $1,690.67.
Auburn State Bank, do, $2.60.
DePew Electric Shop, do, $5.33.
C. F. Kaiser, do, $21.48.
National 5 & 10 Cent Stores Co., do, $7.20.
Indiana Reformatory, do, $12.91.
Auburn Hardware Co., do, $5.30.
L. W. Widney, do, $9.18.
DeKalb County Farm Bureau, do, $12.63.
Ashton Staman, do, $5.70.
George Merryfield, do, $10.40.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $5.85.
The Record-Herald, do, $2.75.
Beaman Lumber Co., do, $13.18.
Holmes Co., do, $12.00.
Murrel Eninger, do, $7.75.
Huntington Laboratories, do, $28.46.
W. P. Nodine, do, $11.10.
Byron G. Smith, do, $40.00.
Nicholas Funk, Commissioners exp., $14.70.
Do, do, $75.00.
Charles Potter, do, $12.00.
Arthur Grube, do, $12.80.
Blanche Nugen, Attendants Officers mileage, $23.40.
Helen Houser, County Agent's Asst. salary $39.35.
The Record-Herald, public printing, $6.50.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $6.32.
Garrett Clipper, do, $45.53.
Waterloo Press, do, $43.14.
Do, do, $7.52.
Auburn Courier, High. location, $12.87.
Auburn Dispatch, Wm. Shroyer High. location $1.00.
Do, J. B. Miller High. location, $1.00.
Do, M. L. Ault High. location, $11.70.
The Record-Herald, do, $5.72.
John R. Clark, Soldiers burial, $75.00.
E. R. Kinsley, do, $75.00.
Children's Aid Society of Indiana, Orphan poor in other inst., $607.75.
Lloyd McClellan, County drain exp., $3.00.
Frank Shoup, do, $44.70.
George Hull, do, $2.25.
C. W. Bleeks, New bridge exp., $84.00.
C. O. Metcalf, do, $36.00.
Ray L. Harris, do, $294.88.
J. E. Sweet & Sons, do, $1,073.95.
M. A. Butler, do, $1,062.40.
J. R. Leighty, Bridge repair exp., $64.00.
Ray L. Harris, do, $142.84.
Do, do, $201.28.
Garns, J. E. Candy Co., Erroneous Tax Refund, $76.50.
Thomas Baking Co., do, $64.56.
Paul Hathaway, do, $2.50.
Arthur Grube, Highway construction, $25.00.
Charles Potter, do, $75.00.
Nicholas Funk, do, $75.00.
Ray L. Harris, do, Waterloo-Hamilton High, $10,826.13.
Tri Lake Const. Co., St. Joe Spencerville Hgh., $1,908.74.
Baker and Dunn, Wm. Hoodlimer Hgh., $989.34.
Do, Cedar Chapel Hgh. Const., $487.80.
Auburn Dispatch, C. O. Griffin Hgh. Const., $4.21.
Auburn Courier, do, $4.21.
Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe Spencerville Hgh., $4.38.
Do, do, $22.87.
Do, Roy Prosser Hgh. Const., $17.37.
Do, do, $11.00.
Do, do, $2.58.
Do, Wallace Abel Hgh. Const., $17.06.
Do, do, $10.45.
Do, do, $3.42.
E. E. Turner, Gravel Road Repair, $273.00.
Lester Casselman, do, $104.00.
Harry Tomlinson, do, $3.00.
George Likens, do, $4.00.
C. F. Martin, do, $104.00.
C. A. Chittenden, do, $5.00.
C. W. Bowens, do, $12.75.
Tri State Sand and Gravel Corp., do, $15.00.

Kenneth Martin, do, $7.50.
E. T. Barley, do, $108.00.
E. A. Worman, do, $7.50.
E. R. Burnier, do, $9.00.
Carl Houser, do, $3.50.
Jas. Smith, do, $6.00.
Tri State Sand & Gravel Co., do, $12.00.
Oran Fulk, do, $104.00.
Adam Royal, do, $2.75.
Chauncey Baxter, do, $14.50.
Sherm Funk, do, $4.60.
Bert Campbell, do, $2.75.
Russell Berryhill, do, $4.00.
Fred Renig, do, $21.20.
Carl Elmer, do, $10.25.
Howard Wagner, do, $10.25.
Olson Ladd, do, $10.25.
Wm. Keeler, do, $104.00.
Tell Elson, do, $4.00.
L. J. Likes, do, $4.50.
Adrian Wastler, do, $8.00.
L. J. Draggoo, do, $3.50.
Grant Baltz, do, $21.00.
Vern Corbun, do, $3.00.
Cash Hanna, do, $6.00.
Wm. Henley, do, $6.00.
E. R. Kinsey, do, $1.50.
St. Joe Filling Station, do, $5.70.
Elmer Johns, do, $104.00.
Loren Souder, do, $2.10.
Geo. Baker, do, $3.00.
Clarence Peters, do, $3.00.
Wm. McCann, do, $33.00.
Geo. Hull, do, $4.50.
Ivan Farmer, do, $1.50.
Ralph McCollough, do, $10.50.
Lewis Keller, do, $9.75.
Milton Keller, do, $1.50.
Boyd Jennings, do, $9.50.
Floyd Hollinger, do, $3.00.
John Conkle, do, $3.00.
Ernest R. Steward, do, $108.00.
Fred Rosenberry, do, $104.00.
Jack Johnson, do, $104.00.
Henry Ziman, do, $70.50.
Bank Bowman, do, $70.50.
Frank Nelson, do, $46.00.
Roy Marks, do, $7.95.
O. E. White, do, $15.90.
S. U. Ringler, do, $7.25.
Cubus Neilson, do, $11.75.
Elmer Perkins, do, $3.25.
Doan Piffer, do, $1.25.
Elmer Shippe, do, $2.50.
Will Wilhelm, do, $2.50.
Clyde Clark, do, $2.50.
Theo. Huffmyre, do, $1.50.
Kenneth Nelson, do, $7.50.
James Kunes, do, $4.50.
Day & Son, do, $1.50.
Dan Elliott, do, $29.25.
James Stansbury, do, $22.50.
Raymond D. Smith, do, $22.50.
Arnold Link, do, $25.50.
Bert Host, do, $105.00.
Chas. O. Stoops, do, $5.00.
Brandon Lumber Co., do, $13.32.
Claud Hilkert, do, $605.56.
Cockrell Tractor Co., do, $16.98.
The Jim Shop, do, $1,040.00.
Noble Motor Truck Corp., do, $4.00.
Indiana Truck Corporation, do, $3.73.
Auto Electric & Radio Equipment Co., do, $19.62.
J. D. Adams Co., do, $27.86.
Moorman Yarnell & Co., do, $3.50.
Do, do, $13.28.
Root Spring Scraper Co., do, $5.50.
Standard Oil Co., do, $2,170.71.
Metzberger Bros. Stone Co., do, $697.75.
F. D. Spurling, Agent, do, $14.00.
E. E. Turner, do, $4.50.
Auburn Machine Works, do, $19.00.
George Merryfield, do, $31.50.
Frank Zirves, do, $35.50.
Angola Brick & Tile Co., do, $25.20.
Tri State Sand & Gravel Co., do, $796.50.
Auburn Sand & Gravel Co., do, $57.16.
A. W. Madden Est., do, $62.50.
State Automobile Ins. Co., do, $1.31.
Garrett Clipper, do, $4.68.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $4.68.
Auburn Courier, do, $7.25.
Auburn Courier, do, $6.32.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $7.25.
Auburn Hardware Co., do, $17.31.
Thachers Automotive Service Co., do, $471.35.

Court Allowances
West Publishing Co., library books, $30.00.
FRANK E. LYON,
(44-2) Auditor of DeKalb County.

AN EVENING WITH THE L. L. C.

The Ladies Literary Club held a special meeting Wednesday evening, October 14, when the ladies entertained their husbands and friends to a picnic lunch and a social time. Due to the weather the club was forced to change their plans for having an outdoor picnic to an indoor meeting in the gymnasium of the school building.

An attractive, delectable lunch was served at six thirty in the Home Economics kitchen. After this the guests were taken to the gym where a successful evening of amusements and hilarity was spent. Engineers by the competent members of the committee, Mrs. Clara Curtis, Lora Leighty, Carrie Morr, Mille Shull, Lillian Ridlen, Avis Staman, and Daisy Woodcox.

There were stimulating contests; there were strains of music to be heard; there was even an amusing playlet; and last but not least, a style show, showing the latest Parisian models, staged by the men in which Merritt Sechler carried off highest honors with Mr. Ridlen and Mr. Leighty running him a close competitive race. After a well-spent evening the crowd dispersed, each one telling the other that the committee deserved a vote of thanks for their time and effort in showing everybody a real good time.

LEO

Miss Elvena Steiner spent Sunday with Miss Edith Witmer.

Mr. Ray King is a patient at the St. Joseph hospital at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Scherer and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moudy.

Miss Leona Levy entertained Miss Dortha Conrad at her home for Sunday evening dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoller and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy motored to Latty, Ohio, Sunday.

Mr. Logan Levy and Mr. Bill Freitzberger of Chicago, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy and family.

Mrs. Noah Gerig is a patient at the Sanders hospital in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scherer spent Sunday afternoon with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Scherer and family.

Miss Eva Egly was greatly surprised when a group of her friends entered her home October 19th and reminded her of her seventeenth birthday.

Mrs. Joe Conrad and family and Mrs. Yoder motored to Archbold, Ohio last Saturday.

The Misses Patsy Heller and Leona Levy and Messrs Johnny Levy and Bob Schlatter attended the races held at Fort Wayne October 18.

The Lutheran Church at Spencerville held their Rally Day services Sunday with an attendance of 123. They brought in canned goods to send to the orphan's home.

Mrs. Eck Hursh, Mrs. George Doll, Mrs. John Johnson, Mr. Milt Hursh and Mr. Orange VanZile were callers at the home of Mr. David VanZile Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Witmer and family entertained Mr. and Mrs. Enos Stuckey and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Witmer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Witmer and family Sunday.

Mr. Frank VanZile, Mr. and Mrs. Earl VanZile and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Akey attended the funeral of a relative, Mr. Linzie Blue of Burket, Ind., Sunday.

Miss Dorothy Moudy is entertaining her Intermediate Sunday School class Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moudy. They will enjoy a masquerade party.

Mr. and Mrs. George Doll and daughter Ruth Anna and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean and daughter, Joyce spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eck Hursh and family a Hursttown.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhaus and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. Neuhaus, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Miller and Mr. Noah Leighty were supper guests Tuesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhaus and children.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kasmer are remodeling their home.

Miss Gertrude Wertman spent Sunday with Miss Lorraine Bender.

Mr. Max Steel of South Bend spent the week-end with Miss Loma Warner.

Miss Violet Akey is getting along nicely. We are all hoping she has a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Andrew J. Miller and Miss Rhea Neuhaus spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. S. Neuhaus.

Miss Loma Warner and Mr. Max Steel of South Bend attended the Home Coming at DePauw University Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Conrad and daughter recently moved to Fort Wayne. There past home was with Mrs. McCrory in Leo.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Gratz and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smead attended the box social held where Mr. Gratz's sister, Mrs. Gorrell teaches school.

Mrs. G. W. Tonkel, Mrs. Roscoe Garman and children and Mrs. Edward Killian and daughter had dinner Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soule and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bender and family and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Henry were Sunday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Simanton.

Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhaus and family and Mr. and Mrs. Anrew J. Miller spent Sunday at Archbold, Ohio with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nofziger and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deventer and family and Mr. Donald Akey were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Akey.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hobbs and daughters, Mrs. Almada Redding and Miss Betty Hobbs, had dinner Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhaus and family.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Collinger of New Haven and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kryder were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Akey and daughter, Violet.

The Misses Sarah Short, Emma Nofziger, Lois Beck, and Alta Stuckey spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. S. Neuhaus.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Neuhaus and daughter and the Misses Eva and Mary Neuhaus had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhaus and children, Rhea and Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Furthmiller, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collinger of Fort Wayne, Miss Mary Collinger of South Dakota, Miss Ilene Akey, Miss Betty Akey, Master William Akey and Master Dickie Martin Kryder were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Akey.

AUTOMOBILE LARGEST USER OF SEVEN AMERICAN INDUSTRIES

MOHAIR GOES IN-TO AUTOMOBILES

Estimate 100,000,000 Yards in Use on Nation's Highways.

TODAY'S automobile is almost entirely an achievement of our natural resources or products. With the exception of rubber which is grown in Africa, India or South America but manufactured in this country, all the basic materials that go to make an automobile are produced in our midst. Steel, mohair, plate glass, nickel and lead are not only American products, but are, together with rubber, used to a greater extent in making cars than for any other purpose.

Some idea of the demand for this durable fabric, otherwise known as velum, is gained from the fact that one hundred million yards, it has been estimated, are now in service in cars on the nation's highways.

These angora or mohair goats, as they are more appropriately called, originally came from Turkey, and the United States imported millions of fleece annually, but with the introduction of the goats into this country, the mohair industry has gradually been transferred here, with a total annual clip of well over seventeen million pounds.

The pile fabric made from this fleece in New England mills is generally accepted as being the ideal material for automobile upholstery because of its long wearing quality, usually outlasting the life of the car itself, because it is easily cleaned and because it affords the greatest riding comfort, all in addition, of course, to its lustrous and beautiful appearance.

Still another commodity of which the automobile industry is its largest consumer is gasoline. Eighty per cent. of all gasoline produced in this country, or twelve and a half billion gallons, is used for keeping the nation's twenty-six million motors a-wheel.

Come to the Epworth League Sunday night at the Leo M. E. Church.

Mr. John Kryder's have as their guest Mr. Clarence Kryder of Kansas.

Miss Wanda Neuhaus was a dinner guest of Miss Doris Hughes Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stuckey and family are moving in with the latter's mother, Mrs. Christ Stuckey.

Mrs. H. A. Porter is spending several days with her grandson, Mr. Elsworth Klopfenstein at Ft. Wayne.

Mr. Charles Disler returned home from the hospital located near Chicago, where he had been for some time.

Miss Maxine Kryder and Mr. Clyde Kryder spent several days at Anderson and visiting Clifty Falls while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Neuhaus and daughter, Wanda, were guests of Mr. Nelson Klopfenstein's on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smead and Mr. Harry Schlatter spent the week-end at Adrian, Mich., with the latter's fiancée.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neuhaus and daughter, Wanda attended the Home Coming at Robinson Chapel Sunday, October 17th.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bottern and grandson were Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Neuhaus and daughter, Wanda of the Leo road.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yoder and children, Jean Ann and Derald and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Neuhaus and daughter, Wanda attended the convention at Harlan Sunday evening.

The Junior class invited the Senior class to attend a Halloween party to be held at Cedarville October 31. The Seniors accepted the invitation. All intend to have a good time. It will be a weiner bake.

Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Warner, Mrs. Harry Klopfenstein, Mrs. Eli Warner, and Mr. Henry Porter spent three days last week at Atlanta, Missouri. Mr. Porter will remain with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fuller for a few weeks.

666

LIQUID or TABLETS

Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days.

666 Salve for Baby's Cold.

Russel R. Reidenour

Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

At the News Office

C. E. McClintock

Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.

Auburn, Indiana

L 918

0321

NOVEMBER

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOV. 5, 1931

NUMBER 44

"AND A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM"

Five-year-old Arthur McCaffrey, Jr., who has amazed audiences at Evansville with his evangelistic appearances, planned Monday for two additional sermons this week.

Thursday night Arthur, who has not yet started to school, will begin a series of three sermons at an Evansville hall. Later in the week he will appear at Zion, Ky. He has made one appearance in Illinois.

Arthur's favorite text is Matthew 3: 2, "Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." With his father, he has been studying the Bible for two years. McCaffrey says Arthur can answer 600 biblical questions. Next fall Arthur, accompanied by his father, will enter the Eulach home, a Methodist Episcopal Bible school in Cincinnati.

Arthur's mother died three years ago. Shortly after that he received his first call to the ministry, he says. Rev. A. R. Jeffers, pastor of the Pilgrim Holiness Methodist Church, is encouraging the child in his evangelistic work. He attends meetings at which the boy preaches, and aids him in preparation of his sermons.

On week days, when Arthur is not studying the Bible or working on a sermon, he plays with other children in his neighborhood. He chides them and leaves immediately "if they use bad language," he admits.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian ..... 108—$3.92
Spencerville M. E. .... 68—$4.10
Lutheran ..... 77—$3.74

HOLIDAY VACATION FOR SCHOOLS TO START DEC. 25

The township trustees at their monthly meeting at the court house Monday decided to start the Christmas and New Year's vacation on Friday, December 25, and to resume school Monday, January 4.

It was also decided to hold another county commencement next year and to continue the use of the Indiana achievement tests in the schools. These tests take the place of a semester examination. Reports were made to the trustees by County Superintendent of Schools Carl F. Stallman and County Agent T. E. Myers.

LOUCKS BOYS WIN IN POSTER CONTEST

In a poster contest, sponsored by the Social and Educational Department of the Farm Bureau, Concord Township, took first and second prize in DeKalb County, the three best in each county will be sent to the state for judging.

To Walter and LaVon Loucks of the St. Joe school goes the credit of producing the prize winning posters. Mrs. Grace Diley is Social and Educational director of Concord Township, and credit is also due her for her untiring efforts in the poster contest. Those interested, feel it was an especial honor for Concord Township to take both first and second place in the contest.

BABIES

There is no other baby in the world like yours. Surely you will always want to see him as he is today. Arrange for a photograph of him now at the D. Webster Smith Studio, Butler, Ind.

SAYING OF REV. WILLIAM A. SUNDAY

Capacity crowds are attending the Sunday meetings at Canton, Ohio, after twenty years absence. Here are some of his witty and scorching rebukes:

"No nation was ever able to hand God the hot end of a poker. There will be a lot of God-fearing men and women in Russia when Stalin and his cut-throats are puzzling in hell."

"We're making money in the United States by the basket full and going to hell by the trainload at excursion rates."

"We shudder for a generation when you have to look under the table to see if the women have any clothes on."

"If I were a judge, I would see a woman without children 40 fathoms in Hoboken before I would give her one cent of alimony."

Sunday is planning no revival in Hoboken.

COUNTY AUDITOR LYON ASKING FORECLOSURE

Frank E. Lyon, county auditor, has filed suit in the DeKalb circuit court to foreclose a mortgage on 56½ acres of land located in Concord township executed by Parley H. and Cinda Marks February 18, 1920, and due in five years. The land was afterward conveyed to Geo. H. Gilbert and he and Addie Gilbert conveyed it to Walter W. Zonker, Edward R. Olliger, the Farmers Cooperative Co. and Jack M. Beams are made parties defendant to answer to their interest and H. C. Yarian holds a tax sale certificate for $104.90. A judgment of $3,500 and the appointment of a receiver are demanded. County Attorney H. C. Springer prepared the complaint.

SUPPORT SUIT FAILS

A hearing was held in the DeKalb circuit court Friday on an application of Pearl Cochran for support pending the trial of the divorce suit filed against Chas. A. Cochran of St. Joe, but was continued. Mrs. Cochran is operating a restaurant at Montpelier, Ohio, and did not convince the court she was in need of support. Her attorney is Howard S. Grimm, while Capt. H. C. Springer represented the plaintiff.

THANK OFFERING PROGRAM

The following program will be given Sunday evening at the St. Joe Lutheran Church by the Woman's Missionary Society:

Plano Solo, Falling Weters, Hymn ..... Jean Goodwin
No 485
Scripture Reading ..... Lucile Curie
Prayer ..... Rev. Stoll
Response ..... Choir
23 Psalm ..... Boys
Anthem ..... Choir
Every Day Thankfulness ..... Light Brigade
Duet by ..... Gladys Dressel, Joe Woodcox
Playlet ..... Thanksgiving Ann
Reading ..... Gladys Dressel
Giving ..... Violet Pfauamer
The Gift of Gold, Ethel Freeburn
Offering
Thank-offering Prayer, Rev. Stoll
Hymn ..... No. 291
Benediction.

BANKERS FIELD MEETING

Nearly 100 bankers and their wives sat down at the Auburn Chamber of Commerce dining room at noon Friday for the enjoyment of a luncheon served by the ladies of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

It was the occasion of the convention of group 1 of the Indiana Bankers' Association. Members living in DeKalb county and their wives received the visitors. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Wilcox orchestra.

With the chairman of the group, D. A. Wasmuth of Roanoke, presiding, a business program followed the luncheon. Talks were made on banking problems and the business of the group was transacted.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their prompt response to the fire call at our home on October 26, and for their faithful services rendered in saving our home, and also the Auburn and St. Joe fire departments for their assistance in keeping the fire from spreading to our garage and residence.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Elson.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elson.
441p.

WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT HIS LAST PUBLIC SERVICE

In paying a last tribute to the late Thomas A. Edison, nothing more impressive can be said than to repeat what was probably his last public statement, flashed by radio from his laboratory in Fort Myers, Florida, to the National Electric Light Association last summer, at Atlantic City. His words which follow show his interest in humanity which he had served so long and faithfully. In these difficult times they should be engraved on the consciousness of every American citizen.

"My message to you is to be courageous. I have lived a long time. I have seen history repeat itself again and again. I have seen many depressions in business. Always America has come out strong and more prosperous. Be as brave as your fathers were before you. Have faith—go forward."

P. T. A. TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 10

The Program Committee has prepared the following program to be given next Tuesday night at the P. T. A. meeting held in the gymnasium:

Devotions ..... Rev. G. D. Stoll
Star Spangled Banner
Salute to Christian and American Flags ..... Boys and Girls
Reminiscence ..... "What I Was Doing on Armistice Day"
Reading ..... Margaret Hamilton
Male Quartette
Address, W. S. Painter, .....
Supt. of Garrett Schools
Male Quartette
Reading ..... Gladys Dressel
Tablao Arranged by Mrs. Bowman Business. Adjournment.

JUDGE CARLIN AT COMMUNITY GYM

Sunday evening at 7:30, Judge Carlin of Angola, will address the Churches of Christ of DeKalb County in a mass meeting in the St. Joe Community Building. The public is invited to hear this speaker and enjoy the get-together service.

CHICKEN SUPPER

at Newville U. B. Church, Friday evening, Nov. 6. Menu: Mashed potatoes, baked beans, biscuit, cold slaw, pickles, chicken, baked apples, bread and butter, jelly, dessert, pie, coffee. Complete supper, price 25 cents. 441t

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

R. H. C.

The members of the Rural Housewife's Club entertained their families at the community place at Cheesetown on last Friday night. The event being the annual Halloween party.

The weiner roast proved to be a stew and the marshmallows were toasted in a big Round Oak stove. Other good things to eat were, pie, doughnuts, coffee and ice cream.

After participating in the customary games and stunts of the Halloween season, the men finished with an old fashioned husking bee. Clyde Hart winning first place. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Inez Hadsell November 10th.

TO VISIT SCHOOLS NEXT TUESDAY

Next week, from Nov. 9 to 14, the schools of the nation will observe American Education Week. This week is observed annually. Its main purpose is to interest and impress the public as to the trend of modern education.

In compliance with this observance the Concord Township Schools invite its patrons and friends to visit the schools while in session next Tuesday, November 10. This will give you an opportunity to see your child at work and to see the organization of the various classes and rooms. Remember the date—open house at the Concord Township Schools on Tuesday, November 10. Urge your friends to come.

PURELY PERSONAL

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.

Frank Tustison.
Mrs. Susan Sherwood of Auburn is visiting her sister, Mrs. Minnie Pepple for the week.

The M. P. Church announces a change in the hour of its evening services to 7 o'clock. Please take notice of this change.

The Misses Voy and Vada Ridgeway of Hicksville were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey and son, Earl.

Miss Erna Hoffman entertained the regular monthly meeting of the Co-Aid class of the M. P. Sunday School Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank May and daughter, Miss Violet, attended a birthday celebration Sunday at the home of their son, Crates May and family.

For Sale: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 8 miles southeast of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio. 441t.

O. D. Baker & Son, road contractors, were awarded two contracts at Lagrange Tuesday. One was for the construction of 2 miles of gravel road complete, while the second was for graveling 1½ miles of road.

Chas. James and family moved Sunday to Mansfield, O., from the O. K. Shull farm east of town. Mr. James worked during the summer for Mrs. Hattie Widney. Roy Koch made the trip with the load and Chas. Hellinger took the family.

The contract for building the new postoffice at Auburn, Monday was awarded to the LaSalle Construction Company of South Bend. Construction will start this month. The South Bend firm's bid was $51,440, the lowest of 27 bids when the proposals were opened last week.

John Coburn has obtained a judgment of $379 in the DeKalb circuit court against Herman Reasoner and W. H. Randall on a note. Atkinson & Husselman are attorneys for the plaintiff and R. W. Sharpless for the defendant. Randall, who was surety on the note. Reasoner did not appear.

Mrs. Minnie Pepple and Mrs. DeLora Curie of St. Joe; Mrs. Mary Krise and Mrs. Diadem Bone of Concord; Mrs. Mollie Wyatt of Auburn; Mrs. Jennie Gehlhausen and Mrs. Snyder of Garrett were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Van Fleet of Garrett last Wednesday.

LOOK HERE?

THIS WEEK ONLY

One 32-Piece Set Dishes With Each Breakfast Set Free . . .

PRICES

$12.95 to $42.50

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

CUT IT SHORT

"Youth, art thou not endeavoring to induce the finny tribe to engulf in their denticulated mouths a barbed instrument on which is affixed a dainty allurements?" asked the professor. "No," said the boy, "I'm FISHIN."

The lad was right. Cut it SHORT. If you have anything to SAY—say it so it will be UNDERSTOOD. That's our plan. We have a good bank. We want more customers. We will appreciate your business. And you'll never regret having become associated with our reliable Bank.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

See the PIRATE GIRL
and TREASURE CHEST
of famous
ALLEN-A HOSIERY

Now on display in our windows

You will enjoy seeing the Pirate Girl and her TREASURE CHEST of Allen-A Hosiery, now on display in our windows. This new hosiery is unmatched in smartness and beauty. Ultra-modern in every respect, with Floor Tops, Ravel Strops and Pancelcurve Heels. And the shades are the very newest from Paris. See these gorgeous Allen-A styles—only $1.50 the pair. Don't fail to see the Pirate Girl and her TREASURE CHEST.

The McBRIDE STORE
114-130
N. MAIN ST.
AUBURN, IND.

Everything to Please Our Customers

Hurni's Cash and Carry Store

TELEPHONE 83

Groceries
Vegetables

Fresh Fruits
Canned Goods

WE WILL CATER TO THE NEEDS OF OUR TRADE

We Are CASH BUYERS of Cream

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Scripture Quotation Puzzle

Upon this bit of abandoned back fence some one printed a six-word quotation from the Bible. But some one else came along and rubbed away the upper part of the letters. Can you take a pencil and finish out the letters to make them spell the six words?

A Bear Who Finds Ice and Snow Warm

We can't all be of the same opinion, that is certain. To most creatures, snow and ice are cold but not so to the beautiful white bear of the frozen North. In the picture you may see Mrs. Bear and her baby. Spring has come, the ice has broken away, and she has brought her baby out of their snow cave to hunt for food.

POLAR BEAR AND HER BABY
She can make the coldest nest in all the world—in the snow! This she does by lying close to a cliff and letting the snow fall over her until she is entirely covered and has left only a tiny breathing hole open. Here in this tightly packed home she is content to sleep with her baby until spring comes. Mr. Polar Bear roams about all winter long; he doesn't seem to need a long winter sleep. Mrs. Bear stores up a great deal of fat to keep her alive through her sleeping season. When her baby grows up and is strong she, too, will make herself a snow cave and follow her mother's example.

The Polar Bear's feet or paws are very powerful and in order that they may be secure in walking on slippery ice, many prickly hairs grow on the soles. And oh, how these beautiful creatures can swim and dive! You see they must be able to, for the food they like best lives in the water. Seals are a great delicacy as is walrus meat, but when these are not to be had, the bears content themselves with berries. Perhaps these make rather nice dessert!

Baby bears are born as blind as they can be and without one little bit of fur. They must be nearly five weeks old before their eyes can see or before their bodies begin to grow their lovely thick coats. These Polar Bears are the largest in all the bear family and certainly the most beautiful. Sometimes they may swim for many miles, or drift on ice cakes far from home. They do not mind, for the whole Northland is their home and if they can find plenty of ice and snow they are comfortable and happy.

(Copyright, 1931.—WNU Service.)

The KITCHEN CABINET

Banbury Tarts.—Roll puff paste one-eighth of an inch thick and cut into three-inch squares. Rich pastry made in the ordinary way may be used, but it is not so delicate. Put two teaspoonsful of the following filling on each square on one side, fold over and press the edges tightly together after moistening. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Orange Shortcake.—Prepare the rich biscuit dough in any form desired, either in a large cake or in biscuits. Slice peeled oranges very thin and mix with sugar to sweeten. Let stand for an hour or more to dissolve the sugar and season. Pour over the buttered shortcake and decorate the top with slices of orange.

Sheep Kidneys.—Skin and split the kidneys and place on skewers with pieces of bacon between each kidney. Season well with mustard, salt and pepper, or any savory seasoning desired. Place in a dripping pan, so that the meat does not touch the pan and bake in a hot oven until the bacon is well cooked.

Hoover Talks to American Legion

President Hoover addressing the American Legion at its convention in Detroit, with a battery of "mikes" in front of him.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK by WALTER TRUMBULL

James and May Wilson Preston have recently returned from a summer in France. They spent some time at Brides les Bains, that little town in a little valley at the edge of the Alps. While there, Mr. Preston met Huntington Harter from Mansfield, Ohio, whose father, it seems to me, was a congressman or senator. At any rate,

RADIO TALK

Old Timer.—That chap hasn't got all his buttons.
Up-to-Date. (radio fan)—You mean he hasn't got all his tubes.

they used to go climbing over the hills together and often spoke of the beauty of the scenery.

"As I think back," said James Preston, one day, "I cannot remember many more picturesque places than Mansfield, the Pennsylvania town where I was a boy."

"Mansfield!" exclaimed Mr. Harter. "Why, my sister married a man from the place which lies shoulder to shoulder with it. Wassahickon. His name was Vaughn Merrick, and he was head master of the Episcopal academy in Philadelphia."

"Well," said Mr. Preston, "then you may remember a family who lived right across the lane from your brother-in-law. One of those kids grew to be a pretty well-known writer. His name is Struthers Burt."

So a man from Mansfield and another from Mansfield had to go all the way to Brides les Bains to become friends and discover that they might have met as boys in Wassahickon.

It was one of the most famous of New Yorkers who said to his brand-new daughter-in-law, "My dear, as an extra wedding gift, I present you with this formula for happiness in marriage: Give your husband one night a week off and ask no questions."

In these days, the man might have switched and given that advice to his son. It is getting so that if a man desires perfect solitude he can find it in the home. The little woman who used to run the sewing machine is now out running the political machine.

The daughter of the founder of a string of nickel-and-dime emporiums married, and her husband bought a large country place. Not long ago this couple gave a big party, to which both old and young were invited. It was a gorgeous affair with all the trimmings wealth could give it. Everyone had a good time. There was just one drawback. The band seemed to have orders not to play one of the tunes the younger set most desired. In spite of more than a few requests, the musicians never rendered: "I Found a Million-Dollar Baby in a Five-and-Ten-Cent Store."

Tommy Meighan told me a story recently about acting in the screen version of a story by his friend, Peter B. Kyne. Playing with him was a professional wrestler. They were supposed to engage in a scuffle. Meighan put his hand on the wrestler's forearm and found it the size and consistency of an oak tree.

"Relax," he said to the grapple. "Look. Feel my arm. Can't you see it's relaxed? Loosen up your muscles. This is acting."

"I am loosened up," growled the wrestler. A moment later, when the cameras began to grind, the director called for action.

"That wrestler gave me a shove that sent me the entire length of a ship's deck," says Meighan. "Of course, there had to be a retake, because he shoved me right out of the camera field, and I was supposed to be in the picture. In fact," said Mr. Meighan, "I was supposed to get in the last shove."

Look at pictures of competitors in the rotogravure sections of the newspapers. The veterans look at each other while they shake hands. The new title holders, or many of them, appear to fumble for the hand of an adversary while staring intently at the camera.

(© 1931. Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

OVERALLS AND ERMINE

Miss Lucille Gates, queen of agriculture at the Los Angeles county fair in Pomona, clad in her royal robes, an odd combination of farm overalls and regal ermine.

Geologist Finds Fish 380 Million Years Old

Red Lodge, Mont.—A number of fish which swam in the waters of Montana 380,000,000 years ago were caught here recently—with a geologist's pick.

Prof. R. T. Chamberlain, leader of the Princeton geological expedition in the Beartooth mountains last summer found embedded in the red shale on the face of Beartooth butte several fossilized specimens of ostracoderms—fishlike creatures that swam in American rivers eons ago.

The ostracoderm resembles a cross between a crab and a flounder. Its body was about seven inches long and was covered by a bony plate much like a crab's shell. Projecting from beneath the plate was a tail and a pair of jointed flippers much like the large claws of a crayfish.

Operates on Lion
Canton, Ohio.—The most delicate task ever performed by Earl Kropf, veterinary, was that of removing a lump on the head of Nimbo, a lion at the zoo.

Gotham Police Rookies Get Gas Instruction

Police rookies at Camp Mulrooney, City Island, N. Y., wearing gas masks and walking through gas fumes as they received tear bomb instruction during their three months' schooling.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

Why We Call Them "Cops"
THAT a policeman should be known colloquially as a "cop" seems strange and puzzling not only to those who run and read but apparently to others who profess to have made a study of these things and should know. It has been suggested that the reason for this colloquialism was the fact that many years ago, when Fernando Wood was police commissioner of New York city, he designed a copper badge which all policemen had to wear for purposes of identification.

The fact is that this suggested history of the term is quite erroneous. The word "cop" for "policeman" far antedates the advent of Fernando Wood. It is derived in fact, from the old English "cop" meaning "to catch," so that its use in the sense indicated is quite logical.

(© 1931. Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

Swedish Invention Will Eliminate Radio Fading

Ostersund, Sweden.—The so-called "fading" difficulty, known to most radio listeners, seems to have been eliminated by a new invention in the field of broadcasting recently made by K. E. Ylander, a Swedish engineer of this city.

Ylander for six years has worked on an apparatus intended to eliminate "fading." Experts heretofore have not been able to find the reason for "fading."

At a recent meeting of radio engineers and telegraph officials in Ostersund the invention was successfully tested on programs sent from distant foreign stations.

BIG FISHERMAN

"From the stories he tells what kind of fisherman would you think Jones was?"
"I wouldn't think he was a fisherman at all—he's a whaler, I'd say."

Brick Houses 4,000 Years Old Unearthed

London.—Brick built houses more than 4,000 years old have been unearthed in Palestine by Sir Flinders Petrie, the veteran archaeologist, and his wife, who have returned to London.

The houses were found at what Sir Flinders is convinced is the site of the ancient city of Gaza, the inhabitants of which fled from it 2,000 years B. C. because of the ravages of sickness.

My Neighbor

Says:

IN CLEANING gas ovens put a little ammonia in the water. They can be cleaned more easily, as the ammonia prevents them from turning brown.

Make a funnel out of a piece of wrapping paper for pouring sugar, tea, coffee and cereals into their proper receptacles. These funnels prevent waste.

Match marks on a polished or varnished surface may be removed by first rubbing them with a cut lemon and then with a cloth dipped in water.

Never add raisins, currants, fruit or nuts to a cake until the beaten eggs have been added and before adding milk. They will not then sink to the bottom of the cake.

Bake crust for lemon or cream pie on an inverted pie plate and leave about one-quarter inch of the pie crust to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with a fork to prevent bubbles. When baked it will slide off the plate easily.

(© 1931. Western Newspaper Union.)

Good Riddance!

"Burial" of the traditionally worn cabdoor, or cloak, and veil was performed by 300 women at Teheran, Persia. A grave was dug and the cloaks were placed in it under the epitaph: "Here lies the cloak, the emblem of women's servitude. God's curse be upon it!"

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL DO IT!

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced. That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments; contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. You can safely give it to young infants for colic pains. Yet it is an equally effective regulator for older children. The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's own remedy. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Cast H. Fisher
CASTORIA
CHILDREN COY FOR IT

Fragment Foliage
Plants with fragment foliage were popular years ago. The leaves were picked, dried and used for various purposes, scattered through the linen in bureau drawers and for scenting ribbon boxes and other things. Lemon verbena was a favorite, rose geranium and other scented geraniums were also used. Then after the bottle was well packed with the petals, alcohol was added to completely cover them, which made a delicately flavored perfume.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Treat Disordered Kidney Function Promptly.

A nagging backache, with bladder irritations and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling may warn of disordered kidney function. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills in these conditions. Praised for more than 50 years by grateful users the country over. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Peanut Seed's Vitality

Peanut growers have thought that seed stored more than a year or two would lose its vitality, but government tests indicate that good peanut seed can be used after three or four years of storage.

It's all up with the artist who can't draw his breath.

NURSES KNOW

Nurses see many breakdowns and serious illnesses caused by letting the system "run-down" until it is too weak to fight off germs.

They also see doctors prescribe Fellows' Syrup for people who are nervous, easily tired, unable to sleep. These people might have had a long siege of illness—instead they recovered quickly and now glow with energy and health. You too can "pop up" your vitality, and raise your spirits to the skies. This wonderful tonic replenishes the body with valuable ingredients, so that even the first few doses start the change. Get the genuine Fellows' Syrup from your druggist today.

FELLOWS' SYRUP

W. H. U. CHICAGO, NO. 44-1841.

The Diagnosticians

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Lower California

Caterpillar Cactus of Lower California.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

NOT often does Lower California get too much rain. The long peninsula which, in shape, resembles a man's sock, thrusting its 800 miles southward into the Pacific from the southern border of California, is a land seared by sun's rays and largely covered by cactus and other growth that is found in arid regions. But recently, when a hurricane struck the peninsula, a large area was drenched. Many of its villages including La Paz, the capital, suffered from high water.

Lower California was once in the custody of the United States. During the Mexican war, in 1847, the forces of the United States occupied the principal points in the peninsula and declared it American territory, but relinquished it at the close of hostilities.

Its width varies from 30 to 100 miles and its coast line of over 2,000 miles is indented by numerous bays and bordered by many islands. Most of its nearly 100,000 inhabitants live in villages that dot the shores of the Pacific and the Gulf of California. Its broad areas of low, sun-scorched plains, where death by thirst awaits unwary travelers and desolate plateaus of ragged black lava present an unfriendly aspect.

But all Lower California is not forbidding. Many of its villages of low mud houses are set amid clumps of lofty shade trees, although some of them, surrounded by sandy wastes, might almost have been set down bodily from Arabia.

Nature has made queer marks on the peninsula's panoramas. Almost withing eyeshot of majestic palms that would not be out of place on a Sahara oasis, are great beds of creeping devil cactus which resemble nests of gigantic spine-covered caterpillars creeping in all directions from a central root. This peculiar weed is native to this country. The caterpillars' creep away from their roots sometimes 20 to 30 yards. The part of the stem resting on the ground sends down small roots and the older stems die in the rear at about the same rate as they grow in front, so they slowly move away from the colony across the flats where they live.

Animals Who Drink No Water.
A large number of the smaller kinds of desert mammals never drink water. They live and thrive on dry seeds and scraps of vegetation in places where the heat and aridity are excessive, without ever touching their lips to water, and it has even been found impossible to teach some of them in captivity to take water. Apparently they never know thirst or the delight of quenching it.

Many Lower California birds and mammals, however, are closely related to those of southern California. Only a few species of birds and a single land mammal, all in the extreme southern end of the peninsula, appear to have originated on the Mexican mainland. All the others are evidently derived from well-known species of southern California, though they have been isolated long enough to develop numerous geographic forms. This is in strong contrast to the great difference shown by the flora in which are numerous strongly marked species peculiar to this region.

As in similar arid areas of the extreme southwestern United States, the plains of Lower California ordinarily abound with small desert mammals such as rabbits, pocket mice, kangaroo rats, and others. During long-continued dry periods vast numbers of these small mammals perish of starvation, owing to the failure of necessary crops of succulent and seed-bearing herbage; but after two or three years of renewed rainfall and abundant plant life, the desert again swarms with countless numbers of these small folk.

So accustomed do the animals become to depending upon plants for moisture that travelers have come to water holes in the hottest weather and found no evidence that animals have come there to drink while fresh tracks have been found a few rods away.

Small desert foxes, with large ears and bodies not much larger than those of a cat, occur on the larger plains throughout the peninsula. They live in burrows and, when surprised away from home by day, are very cunning in concealing themselves. As danger approaches they skulk to the nearest bush, tuff of grass, or other little object breaking the surface and sink down flat on the ground beside it, and although they may be in plain view, they are almost certain to escape notice unless seen before they reach shelter.

When concealment becomes impossible they are up and off like a flash, and so swift and graceful are their movements that they appear to float across the plain like a yellowish gray streak. On the Magdalena plains the cowboys ride down and lasso coyotes for sport; but they admit defeat in attempting to catch the fleet-footed fox.

Some Large Game Animals.

Antelope, mountain sheep, mule-deer, and mountain lions are the only large game animals on the peninsula. Antelope formerly occupied all the plains, but are now reduced to a small number in a few localities, and there appears to be little hope of saving them from early extermination. Deer are still to be found in many localities and with the mountain lion will outlast other large game in that region.

The first mountain sheep discovered in America were those recorded in the early writings of the Spanish missionaries from Lower California. There are numerous species of mountain sheep in the Old and New worlds, and most of them have their homes about high and desolate mountain crests rising above the coniferous forests at timber line, where they live amid Arctic and semi-Arctic conditions.

Among the mountain sheep of Lower California these common conditions of life are reversed and they occupy the low desert ranges parallel to the Gulf coast from sea-level up to 4,000 or 5,000 feet altitude, always below the lower limit of the coniferous forests which adorn the upper levels of the high mountains in the northern part of the peninsula.

Here the summer temperatures are commonly much more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade, and the arid mountain slopes have a scanty growth of cactuses, yuccas and other strictly desert plants. These sheep commonly go to water when available in the hot, dry summers, but are able to exist for considerable periods, even in hot weather, on the moisture obtained from the more fleshy cactus plants, the tender flowers and flower stalks of agaves and yuccas, and from other water-storing desert plants.

In addition to the mammals already mentioned wild cats, badgers, spotted skunks, raccoons, coyotes and other kind of fox make their homes on desert areas of Lower California. The spotted skunk, or hydrophobia skunk, as it is commonly called, is most abundant in the extreme southern end of the peninsula, where it is looked upon with fear and abhorrence owing to its habit of biting people in the face while they are sleeping on the ground and the reputed commonly resulting death of its victims by rabies. The fear of these skunks extends throughout the peninsula.

Doves and California valley quail are numerous the entire length of the peninsula, their presence always indicating the vicinity of permanent water. Often while camping near a desert water hole, hunters have watched birds come and go unafraid of man. Even quail stand quietly and after drinking preen their plumage or move carelessly about, uttering little subdued call notes to one another.

Plenty of Small Birds.

Hawks, woodpeckers, jays, ravens, mocking-birds, cactus wrens, and other small birds swallow the desert and are abundant about some of the cultivated oases. A desert thrasher is abundant in the yucca forests and in early morning and evening he charms his human neighbors with exquisitely musical notes.

On some of the islands of the Lower California coast breed many cormorants. Whenever a cormorant, alarmed by the approach of a hunter, flies away, gulls swoop down on exposed eggs and eat them at once; or, if the hunter is too near, each gull transfixes an egg on its beak and flies away, draining the contents as it flies. It is common for gulls to alight on nests and calmly pick up young cormorants weighing five or six ounces and swallow them entirely, the helpless victims being swallowed head foremost, their feet waving, despairingly from the gull's widely-spread beak.

In the San Pedro Martir mountains may be found the California condor, a huge bird, sometimes measuring nearly 11 feet across its outspread wings. These birds are so large that when perched on a dead tree, the turkey buzzards near them look like pygmies. The natives formerly cut off the large hollow bases of the gull feathers of these gigantic birds and, fitting them with stoppers, used them for carrying fine gold at the placer mines.

HELPFUL HUSBAND LARGELY A MYTH

Little Gained by Letting Him "Tinker."

Men are supposed to be handy with the hammer and good at doing odd jobs round the house, but from what I hear from women who have them (husbands, I mean, not hammers), it's a tradition lacking in truth. If a trusting wife asks her spouse to repair a chair leg or an electrical fixture it cannot be done until a suitable bit of expensive tools is bought. When the tools arrive he does not know how to use them. In the end the wife has to hire a workman, and instead of saving money she is out the price of the tools.

One wife decided it was ridiculous to pay a carpenter to hang the porch swing when her husband and grown son were able-bodied and reasonably intelligent. The twain were willing to lend both brains and brawn, and started operations by tapping the porch roof to locate the joist. The sound told nothing to their untrained ears, so they bored eight experimental holes without ever touching the secretive beam. Eventually the lady of the house sent for a carpenter who filled up the eight holes, and hung the swing.

One summer this same father and son tried to save the family budget by building a coal bin in the basement in which to board coal bought at low prices. Their fancy carpenter work loosened the brick foundation so that the cellar leaked all winter, and in the spring a brick mason repaired the damages at considerable expense.

Then there's the woman who hated to spend $10 for an outside aerial for her new radio. She insisted that her husband could save money by building one. Accordingly he bought the necessary material. He crawled under the edge of the house to ground the wire properly, and as he was a hefty brute he got stuck under the foundation, and pulled a Floyd Collins. Sympathetic neighbors dug him out and he went to bed to nurse his bruises while a hired bull built the aerial. Instead of saving money he paid a doctor's bill.

The most interesting trait these helpless husbands show is their willingness to spend hours in inventing a way to escape the work their wives assign to them. This tendency has led to most of our important household inventions. Of course it was a man who first thought of washing, ironing, sweeping and beating eggs by electrical power. Probably his wife asked him to help her one day when she was sick. As often as not his inventive powers lead him to grief instead of success, as in the instance of the man too lazy to carry out his wife's garbage pail. She kept the garbage in the rear by the garage door, and asked him to put it on the curb each Monday morning. Therefore when he backed the car out he would place the garbage can on the running board and stop at the curb long enough to park the car, thus saving at least a hundred feet of unnecessary can carrying. One morning he forgot to remove the garbage can from the running board, and never gave it a thought until he made a quick stop at a prominent traffic intersection. There was a fearful clatter on the left of the car, and he looked out in time to see his breakfast grapefruit peels rolling beneath a drowsy limousine, not to mention coffee grounds and potato parings strewn all over the scenery. This husband insists that he never recovered from the resultant inferiority complex, and his wife lost her garbage can which he couldn't possibly stop to collect.

The fond father who spent $2 for a bomb to amuse his children on the Fourth of July "meant well" when he put it on top of the grape arbor before he lit it. His idea was to remove it as far as possible from the bodies of his young hopefuls. It fell off and exploded in his wife's favorite flower bed, uprooting the pride of her life and undoing months of hard labor.

There are some women who can do more with a hairpin than the men of

60 years of BABIES

have been helped to sturdy childhood on Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It gives them Vitamin A for growth, and its wealth of Vitamin D and calcium salts are invaluable for correct bone development. Doctors recommend Scott's Emulsion for infants, growing children, expectant mothers and invalids. Fine for adults too. Its pleasant flavor makes it easy to take regularly. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, H. F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

LETTER TO Scott's Emulsion's "Remember the Sun" every Sunday and Tuesday at 9:30 p. m. over the Columbia Radio Network.

Scott's Emulsion
OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

the family can accomplish with the most useful tools. The vaunted superiority of the male in all mechanical matters often falls flat when he is asked to tinker. Sometimes it's safer to leave the head of the house behind the newspaper, and hire outsiders to take care of repairs. It's cheaper in the long run to pay one bill instead of several.—Indianapolis News.

Special Guests

Marcia L. of Mooresville was planning for a birthday party. Her mother had written out the invitations and told the little girl that she must tell her to whom she must send them.

"Now, Marcia," she said, "think of your best friends, the ones you like best, and I'll send them one of these little cards and they will come to your party."

Marcia studied quite awhile and finally said:

"Mother, I've decided to ask Santa Claus and Jesus to my party."—Indianapolis News.

Information

Inquiring Importer—How much does the average man give you?
Hattie the Hat Girl—Those who ask how much I generally get usually give me a quarter.

The Coward!

Lawyer—I think I can get you a divorce, madam, for cruel and inhuman treatment. Do you think your husband will fight the suit?
Woman—Fight! Why, the little shrimp is afraid to come into any room where I am!—Pathfinder.

From Many Wits

"What happened to the boy who used to hug you all the flowers?"
"He married the girl at the florist's."—London Opinion.

Poor Time to Spring It

Nurse—Have you told Mr. White he's the father of twins?
Maid—No; he's shaving.

There's No Denying These Facts!

ONLY Firestone Tires give you the extra strength and safety of these patented construction features!

Gum-Dipping penetrates every cord and coats every fiber with liquid rubber. This minimizes internal friction and heat, the greatest enemies of tire life.

Two Extra Cord Plies Under the Tread—give stronger bond between tread and cord body and greater protection against punctures and blowouts.

Because distributors of special brand mail order tires cannot meet Firestone extra values, they attempt to confuse car owners with bold claims and misleading statements. But remember—there's no denying the FACTS of Firestone extra values.

Check them for yourself—today. Go to the Firestone Service Store or Service Dealer in your community. Compare sections cut from Firestone Tires and special brand mail order tires and others. You be the judge!

COMPARE QUALITY AND CONSTRUCTION
4-75-15 TIRE	Firestone	Special Brand Mail Order Tire
More Weight, pounds	18.00	17.00
More Thickness, inches	.658	.605
More Non-Skid Depth, inches	.281	.250
More Plies Under Tread	6	5
Same Width, inches	5.20	5.20
Same Price	$6.65	$6.65

COMPARE QUALITY AND CONSTRUCTION
4-50-22 TIRE	Firestone	Special Brand Mail Order Tire
More Weight, pounds	17.02	16.10
More Thickness, inches	.598	.561
More Non-Skid Depth, inches	.250	.234
More Plies Under Tread	6	5
Same Width, inches	4.75	4.75
Same Price	$4.85	$4.85

COMPARE PRICES
SIZE	Firestone	Special Brand Mail Order Tire	Firestone
4-40-21	$4.98	$4.98	$9.40
4-50-21	$5.49	$5.49	$11.10
4-75-19	$6.65	$6.65	$12.90
5-25-21	$6.57	$6.57	$16.70
6-00-19 (9 plies under the tread)	$11.45	$11.45	$22.20
6-00-30 (10 plies under the tread)	$15.25	$15.25	$29.90
8-00-20 (10 plies under the tread)	$17.95	$17.95	$34.90

COMPARE PRICES
SIZE	Firestone	Special Brand Mail Order Tire	Firestone
4-40-21	$4.35	$4.35	$8.50
4-50-21	$4.85	$4.85	$9.40
4-75-19	$5.68	$5.68	$11.14
4-75-30	$5.75	$5.75	$11.20
5-00-21	$5.99	$5.99	$11.60
5-25-21	$7.37	$7.37	$14.52

Firestone BATTERIES

Give extra power and longer life at lowest prices. Made and guaranteed by Firestone. Trade in your old battery and be sure your car will start quickly even in coldest weather.

A "Special Brand" tire is made by a manufacturer for distributors such as mail order houses, oil companies and others, under a name that does not identify the tire manufacturer to the public, usually because he builds his "best quality" tires under his own name. Firestone puts his name on EVERY tire he makes.

Double Guarantee—Every tire manufactured by Firestone bears the name "FIRESTONE" and carries Firestone's unlimited guarantee and that of our 25,000 Service Dealers and Service Stores. You are doubly protected.

Listen to the Voice of Firestone Every Monday Night Over N. B. C. Nationwide Network.

Firestone Service Stores and Service Dealers Save You Money and Serve You Better

Firestone

OPPOSITE COURT HOUSE—WEST SIDE ON MAIN STREET, AUBURN, INDIANA

SPENCERVILLE

Mrs. Byron Welch is ill at her home suffering a light stroke of paralysis.

Glenn Betz and sons were Sunday afternoon guests at the Joel Betz home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank VanZile of Hurshtown were recent guests at the Vol Hay home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Place and children of Fort Wayne were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vol Hay and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolf of South Bend were week-end guests at the Wm. Reed home.

Charles Whitacre of Richmond was a Saturday dinner guest at the R. U. Bowser home.

Mrs. Zephia Steward will entertain the Young Ladies Social Club at her home on Friday evening.

Mr. Small and family has rented the Louie Beam home. Mr. Small will be employed at the Furnish Garage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Koch, son, Virgil and Betty Jane McClellan visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlatter and family at Springport, Michigan, recently.

The C. C. Club was pleasantly entertained on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Zephia Steward. A prize was given Mrs. Ruth Butler. One guest, Mrs. Appleman, was present.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey Fitch of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Badiac and sons of near Fort Wayne and Mrs. Myra Kimes were Sunday afternoon guests at the Emilia Gloyd home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolf of South Bend, William Reed and daughters, Ida and Vera, and Dickie and Carroll Reed were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reed. Gale Bowser, wife and son, James were supper guests in the same home.

The Home Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Cora Steward on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Finach, who resided here the past summer, have moved to Columbia City.

Theodore Gartha of LaOtto was a Sunday evening supper guest at the R. U. Bowser home.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Class No. 7 of the Methodist Sunday School enjoyed a Halloween party on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Golden High. The teacher, Mrs. Cleo Reed and assistant, Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner, were present to enjoy the occasion. Class No. 8 was entertained at the same home on Saturday afternoon.

The Birthday Club was entertained on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Jenkins. Those from out-of-town were, Mrs. Frank Steward and daughter, Magdelene and son, Walter Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treesh and Miss Vera Silberg of Garrett and Miss Cecil Shull of Auburn. The afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jenkins.

HORSE SENSE

Pumpkins and squashes do not require cool temperature for storage. Place them in a warm, dry place. Sweet potatoes after thoroughly drying are best held at a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees.

Cheer-up—well-developed pullets don't lay peewee eggs for very many weeks.

In old wood, always cut to side growths or to the main limb. Never leave stubs.

Trees grown from the seeds of our cultivated fruits will not be the same variety as the parent.

An adequate supply of spray materials should be stored in the barn before the spraying season opens.

A good ration for brood sows and gilts this winter is a mixture of coarse ground oats, two thirds by weight, coarse ground wheat or corn one third, and five pounds of tankage to 100 pounds of grain. Feed enough grain to keep the herd gaining in medium condition.

Certified potato seed increases the yield over 70 bushels per acre.

Root crops may be successfully stored in an outside storage pit.

Start the strawberry patch off right by plowing under a crop of soybeans.

God cows aren't "accidents." Use a good sire and improve your herd.

Mr. S. F. Bowser, of Fort Wayne, was a caller in the Adam Shilling home Thursday afternoon. Mr. Bowser has been an old time friend of the Sowers family.

Miss Agneta Horn will attend a meeting of the telephone employees Friday afternoon at Hicksville and will take dinner in the evening with her parents at Kendallville.

The new Sunday School standard was interestingly discussed by county officers at the convention here Sunday, and a good audience enjoyed the program given by the local people. The missionary talk was given by Mrs. Alva Sholtz of Pleasant Lake, Ind., who interestingly described her trip and stay in Japan. Mrs. Grace Dilley is the township chairman.

CONCORD

Telephone 45 when you have some news.

Little Miss Patricia Maxwell of St. Joe spent Saturday night and Sunday with Iris Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott spent a couple days in the Ira Bone home. Mr. Scott helping Ira husk corn.

The apple crop is large this year and they seem cheap, but if a fellow hasn't money he can't buy them.

Some from Concord attended the convention at St. Joe Sunday afternoon and reported an interesting meeting.

Men are getting ready for the building of the Elson barn, which was destroyed by fire last week. Orla Baker has the job.

George Johnson and family spent last Sunday in Fort Wayne at Mrs. Johnson's sister's home, at which place their family reunion was held. There was a large attendance.

Miss Helen Goodwin spent from Thursday until Saturday morning with Iris Jackson. Mrs. Less Sebring of Auburn was also a week-end guest in the Jackson home. They were all guests of Mrs. Chas. Jackson on Sunday. Eloise Draggoo was also a dinner guest in the latter home. While here Mrs. Sebring visited in the Holl Jackson home.

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-29

For Sale!

1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at NEWS OFFICE if at all interested.

"AS GOOD AS HIS BOND"

YOUR NAME, signed to a check,

makes you personally responsible for the amount indicated. Your name, signed to a note, a deed, a charge account, is your word that you will live up to the agreements in the document.

"His word," people say to you, "is as good as his bond."

Exactly the same thing holds true with manufacturers and merchants who advertise in this newspaper. They are willing to sign their names to certain definite printed facts about their products and the goods they sell. In advertisements they tell you about materials they use. They show you how to get the most for your money. They teach you how to choose among a multiplicity of products. And quite as important as all of these, they acquaint you with new styles, new inventions, new manners and customs of living.

By reading these advertisements you know even before you shop, precisely what you are getting. The manufacturer or merchant has signed his name.

YOU CAN TRUST THE MANUFACTURER OR MERCHANT WHO IS WILLING TO STAKE HIS NAME ON WHAT HE SAYS

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

For the month of October the per cent of attendance for the Junior High group was 99 plus. For the Senior High, the per cent was 97 plus.

The chapel service was conducted by Mr. Harshman this week because Mr. Williams was on the sick list. Several songs were sung by the assembly and a short talk on sportsmanship was given by Mr. Russell.

The chicken dinner which was held in the basement of the Lutheran Church, Wednesday noon, October 28, for the benefit of the basket ball boys and the Junior class turned out to be a huge success. The basket ball boys made excellent waiters. Believe it or not, the Home Economic girls are fine cooks and speedy dish washers. The high school wishes to thank the patrons of the Spencerville School for their very fine cooperation in helping to make the dinner possible. The school wishes also to extend thanks to the Lutheran Ladies Aid and the trustees of the church for the use of the basement and the dishes.

Manual Training

Stanley Bishop was also absent on Thursday.

Charles Agler had the misfortune to hit his T square with a knife and split it.

The boys have spent the week in drawing various designs. Their object is to draw one a day and draw it perfect, but the object is seldom attained.

Howard Means was absent Thursday. It is said he had to set up fodder, probably for the Hallowe'eners to use in the blocking of the road.

Athletics

Basket ball practice was called off Friday night, because the Coach hasn't had any sleep for a week. Believe it or not.

New jerseys were ordered for the boys of the Seventh and Eighth Grades who are on the Junior High team. They expect to wear them when they beat Harlan's Junior Highs on November 6. The high school team is also playing Harlan's high school team on the same night, and are hoping to beat them. The entire school is helping to support the teams.

Sophomores

The Sophomore class held a party at the home of Miss Helen Mason on Tuesday night, November 3.

Howard Means was absent from school last Tuesday on account of work. Three of the Sophomore girls, Loa Laux, Ethelyn Baker and Winifred Harper helped in serving the chicken dinner at the Lutheran Church last Wednesday, although these girls are not in the Home Economics class.

Eighth Grade

The Eighth Grade class held

PRINTING RESULTS

The one big thing we are interested in when you come here to buy printing is not primarily how big the order, but how can we do the job to insure you maximum satisfaction. We know that if you get results you will be back for more printing of the same kind.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Our prices on printing are not always the lowest... but our work is always the best

I know a man, they call him Peg. He uses a stick for a leg. He has a dog which he calls Ted Who'll do all but stand on his head. Ted likes to ride in his big car, And bark at boys both near and far. He'll walk for yards on his hind feet And jump six feet in one grand leap. He'll pick up trash from the floor And put it there behind the door. If you think this is all he knows, You ought to see him bite your nose. Now if you think this is put up Just go and try to buy this pup. There is lots more to put in rhyme, To write it now I have not time. —William Dea Erick, Seventh Grade.

PEG AND HIS DOG

BUY
THE NEW
6-in-1
FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

Safety

Service

Courtesy

*This Bank Represents the Future
To Many*

WHEN people pass our doors and say, "That's my bank," they mean they're building their own financial future.

Our future is simply the joint future of all we serve

Can We Make
Yours Brighter?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank

Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY
BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME"
... IS A ...
GOOD IDEA

WE SELL
ENVELOPES
LETTERHEADS
STATEMENTS
INVOICES
CALLING CARDS
TAGS
BLOTTERS

WE CAN FURNISH
CARBON SALESBOOKS
PRINTED FORMS
IN FOLDED PACKS
FOR ANY PURPOSE
AUTOGRAPHIC
SALES REGISTERS
PRINTED GUMMED TAPE
AND MACHINES

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS
— CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR
HOME TOWN PAPER
Get The Idea — Buy At Home

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains Of Abraham

By
James
Oliver
Curwood

Illustrations by Keweenaw

CHAPTER IX—Continued

Tioga and his warriors moved slowly. They were like bronze men without flesh or emotions. Their heads were high, their bodies straight, their jaws set hard as they stalked at a death-march pace between the columns of their people. Jeems fell into this rhythmic movement as the mouth of the torch monster began to swallow them. And then with eyes that became flame-lit pools of fear and exhaustion Tioga saw that not a hand gave a sign of rising against them. The torches coughed and flared, but not a spark touched their skirts in passing. No eyes gleamed hatred at them. No fingers clenched, no hand was raised. The things she had heard in the land of her people were lies. The Indians killed in war but they did not torture. They did not pull out eyes and thrust sticks through quivering flesh. They were men and women and children like all other men and women and children. These truths she thought she had discovered for herself.

But one thing she did not fully know. She might have learned it had she caught the low-voiced whisperings which followed the passing of the warrior: "She is Tioga's daughter—she is the spirit of Sol Yan Makwun returned to us in the flesh—now our good fortune will return—the sun will shine—light and laughter will come—for Sol Yan Makwun is here, out of death to live with us again!"

They crossed a field of darkness toward the fire, and when they came among them Tioga was marching in Jeems' place and Jeems had disappeared. She had not sensed his going or Tioga's presence, and before she knew that Jeems was no longer among the warriors, she found herself standing alone with the Seneca chief. The people gathered in a circle around them. Tioga began to speak. His voice renewed her confidence as she restored Silver Heels to her people. It did not take long for Tioga to tell his story. His voice rose. His scarred and bitter face assumed a strange gentleness, and Tioga knew that Jeems was safe though she could not see him. She waited, trembling, and at last Tioga was finished and stood for a moment with upraised hand amid a great hush—then spoke a single name, Opitchi. A girl, the Thrush, sprang forward, and as she came Tioga took the slave collar from her neck and crushed it into the earth with his moccasined foot. A murmur ran through the circle. Tioga stood with his arms folded across his breast, and Tioga felt the hands of the Thrush drawing her away.

They paused at the edge of the circle, and for a little while no one moved or spoke. Then there was a break in the ring behind the Seneca chief, and through it came Jeems, escorted between Shindas and another warrior. Tioga gasped and almost cried out. There was an amazing change in Jeems. He was stripped to the waist and painted in stripes of red and yellow and black. His face appeared to be cut in crimson gashes. His thick blond hair was tied in a warlock from which streamed a feather showing he had killed a man. At Tioga's command there advanced from the circle an old man with a wisened face and white hair and a younger man whose form was bent almost double because of a deformity. Behind these two came a little girl. The old man was Wusko, the Cloud. The younger was his son, Tokana, or Gray Fox, a name of which he had been proud in the days before a tree fell on his tepees and crooked his back, when he was the fastest runner in the tribe. Tioga spoke again. He exulted in the fortune which had sent another son to Wusko, a son with a white skin and a strong body who would care for him and who would be a brother to Gray Fox. With his thin and quivering hands, Wusko took the slave collar from Jeems' neck and stamped it joyfully into the ground while the broken Gray Fox raised a hand in brotherhood and friendship. There was something so wistfully sweet in the big dark eyes of the little Indian maiden that Jeems drew her to him and put an arm protectingly about her. It was then Tioga left the Thrush and ran to him, so that all saw her held in his painted arms, with Wusko, the Wood Pigeon, a happy partner in the moment when Tioga proudly and a bit defiantly told Chenuisio and through it the whole Seneca nation that this was the man to whom she belonged.

Like a food burst loose from a dam, the night of feasting and rejoicing began. It was preceded by a combat among the dogs in which Odd established his right to a place among the four-footed citizens of Chenuisio. After a time he found a scent on the beaten ground that led him to the tepees which had been prepared for Tioga. Here he found Tioga and the Thrush, whose name—a long time ago—had been Mary Daghen.

It seemed to Jeems that from the beginning his freedom among the Senecas was as great as if he had been born of their blood. Gray Fox took him to the tepee of his father, which was to be his home, and food and drink were brought to him. Then he was left alone, for even the delighted old man whom Tioga had honored by the gift of a son could not be kept away from the celebration which was in progress. The thought came to Jeems that no impediment had been placed in his way if he chose to steal off into the night and disappear. The ease with which he might have set out on this adventure was proof of his helplessness. Like the others, he was a captive forever. There was no escape from Chenuisio unless one accepted death as the route. He did not think of escape because his desire possessed him. He was measuring his world and adjusting himself to its limitations with emotions which were far from unhappy. With Tioga, he could find here all that he wanted in life. Tioga and Shindas knew that she belonged to him, and the people of Chenuisio were now aware of it. His heart exulted and his spirit rose with the chanting of the savages. What difference did it make that they were buried in the heart of the forests for all time? He had Tioga. She loved him. Chenuisio would not be a sepulchre. Their love would transform it into a paradise.

She Found Herself Standing Alone With the Seneca Chief.

He was eager to see Tioga again, and began to seek for a place where he could clean himself of the colored clay plastered on his face and body. With his clothes, he went to the river, and after a thorough scrubbing returned fully dressed with the eagle feather still in his hair. His weapons had been given to him, and these he carried boldly when he joined the Indians. The triumphal fire was blazing, and as soon as the hungry town had fed itself, the scalp dances would begin. The scalp were already suspended on the victory pole in its light. Children were playing about them. The fine dark hair of one was so long that they could reach the tresses with their fingers, and when they did this they shrieked with ecstasy. Among them was a white-skinned boy of seven or eight who laughed and shouted with the others.

Jeems found an opportunity to have a word with Shindas and learned that Tioga and Opitchi were together. Shindas could not tear himself from the martial dignity which was expected of him until the warriors had told of their exploits in the scalp dance, so Jeems went alone and found Tioga's tepee and the smaller one near it in which were Tioga's and the Thrush. It was lighted by a torch, and he drew back among the dark boles of the trees and waited. At the end of half an hour, Tioga and Opitchi came out into the illumined forest. For a little while they stood under the gnarled limbs of the trees which cast shadows from over their heads. He did not reveal himself until Opitchi's form disappeared among the pools of light and darkness as she went toward the fire. Then he advanced, calling Tioga's name softly. Her appearance surprised him. She was not the ragged and disheveled young woman who had arrived with Tioga's men. Mary, the Thrush, had dressed her in the prettiest raiment left by Silver Heels. There was something about the long yellow feather, the flet of scarlet cloth, and the boyish closeness of her dress which made Jeems give a wondering cry. It was as if they had come to her from an obscure and distant past and had always belonged to her. He had dreamed of this lovely wilderness princess; through years of boyhood hopes and plans he had built up worlds about her, and in those worlds he had fought for her and had adventured with her where he alone was her champion and her hero. He had carried gifts of feathers to her—feathers and fawnskin and a piece of cloth like that which she now wore in a crimson band about her forehead! To him it was the precious red velvet, there in the glow of the moon. He opened his arms, and Tioga came into them.

CHAPTER X

For half an hour Jeems was alone with Tioga. Then Mary Daghen returned, and with her came a messenger who took him back to the dances which were beginning about the scalp-fire. He was not embarrassed by the critical eyes upon him, a heat set blazing by the joy of his possession, and as he chanted the Seneca victory songs with the others, Tioga was in his heart, and words she had whispered to him under the oaks repeated themselves until they dulled his senses and he forgot the world to everything but their import. As soon as God would let them bring it about she would be his wife. She had said that! So he danced. He shouted at Tioga's side. Tioga, horrified at first, saw him in his madness. Then she began to understand. But not until he took her back to the dances and danced alone in the light of the fire, chanting his story in the language of his adopted people, did Opitchi—translating what he said—let her know fully the darling of her lover. Jeems' story began with his earliest thoughts and memories of her. He told of their homes in the country of the Hurons, of his dreams and hopes. He described the passing of moons and the growing of his love and how death had come with the Mohawks from the south. Then he came to the finding of Tioga, their flight, the triumph of his love, his fight with the scalp hunter of Louisiana's place. He praised these warriors. They were not like the Mohawks, who were sneaky in the night. The Senecas were clean and swift and brave. He was proud to be a brother and a son among them. He wanted this people to respect him, and he wanted them to love him, and he wanted them to love by taking as his daughter. For Tioga belonged to him. She wanted to be his wife. She wanted to bear his children among the Senecas.

He stopped at last and thanked God that Heptabab Adams had made it possible for him to do this thing in the light of the fire at Chenuisio. A murmur of approbation stirred the people. It rippled and died out as another warrior took his place. Long after midnight the revels ended, and Chenuisio grew quiet. For a time, he looked at the stars and the changing shadows of the moon through the open door of Wusko's tepees. He entered sleep as if going into a long avenue of golden clouds. Only happy rising like a flower from the ashes of a torture that was gone could have made it like that. His mother seemed a part of it, her voice a glad melody somewhere in the radiance of gold, he saw Wood Pigeon smiling happily between his mother and Tioga. Then he sank into deeper sleep. This was the beginning of the strange life of Jeems and Tioga in Chenuisio which Colonel Boguet, afterward major general and commander in chief of his majesty's forces in the southern department of America, described as "an episode of fact which is difficult of belief and astounding in the new viewpoint which it adds others of a similar kind give us of savage life."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

State Boundaries Long Matter of Disputation

For a great many years the boundary between the colony of New York and Massachusetts was in dispute. The government of New York maintained that the eastern limit was the Connecticut river, basing its claim upon a Dutch title. The Massachusetts government claimed territory westward as far as the Hudson river. For the purpose of establishing this claim the Boston government in 1696 made a grant of land on the Hudson river below Fort Orange and in 1672 sent John Payne to New York to solicit permission to pass and reap by water. He was most courteously received, but the claim was never recognized. The dispute finally reached such a stage, resulting in riots, etc., that it was submitted to the lord commissioners of trade of England, and George II in 1724, by royal order in council, determined the boundary, granting the territory to New York. This was still not acceptable until 1778, when commissioners from New York and Massachusetts met and finally decided the boundary according to the present line.

Victims of Economy Economy, wrote Doctor Johnson, is the parent of integrity, of liberty, and of ease, and the beautiful sister of temperance, of cheerfulness and health.

DAIRY

PROVIDE NOW FOR GRAZING IN SPRING

How Good Pasture May Be Saved From Ruin.

Cows will easily ruin a good pasture if turned on it too early in the spring while the soil is soaked with moisture. Early spring grass lacks desirable nutritive qualities, and usually the barns are emptied of the be- legume hay by early March. "Therefore," says John A. Aray, dairy extension specialist at the North Carolina state college, "the wise thing to do is to make provision for a supply of early grazing next spring. When a cow has passed the winter largely on dry feed, she craves appetizing, succulent feed such as may be got from a good temporary pasture. Such grazing is appetizing, is nutritious, and is one of the most economical feeds that any dairyman can provide. By providing temporary grazing for March and for as much of April as will be needed, the cows may be kept off the permanent pasture until the grass has made good growth and the soil is so dry that the sod will not be ruined by trampling."

Mr. Aray finds that the supply of home grown roughage is about exhausted on March 1, especially on those farms where only a few cows are kept for cream production. These cows are therefore turned on the pasture when the hay gives out regardless of the condition of the soil or the growth of the grasses. This usually results in damage to the pasture and little good to the cows.

A good forage crop mixture to plant in the fall consists of one-half bushel of Abruzzi rye; one-half bushel of beardless wheat; one bushel of Norton oats; one bushel of beardless barley, and ten pounds of crimson clover or fifteen pounds of hairy vetch. This amount will plant one acre.

Cut Out Low Producer; No Place in Dairy Herd

Dairymen could speed the recovery of their business by culling poor producers from their herds, according to C. S. Rhode, University of Illinois. While it is true that a large part of the loss of price for dairy products is due to lack of consumption, not overproduction, Rhode states there are more than enough cows to supply the normal demand. With butterfat at 45 cents a pound, the average cow in the state made $30 above cost of feed in 1923, according to the college's records of dairy herd improvement associations. With butterfat as low as 30 cents a pound this same cow would return but $2 a year above cost of feed.

"Butterfat would have to sell at approximately 63 cents a pound for the average cow to make as much return above cost of feed as was made by cows producing $40 pounds of butterfat selling at 35 cents a pound."

"The dairy situation in general as well as individual efficiency could be improved if more farmers took their cue from a DeKalb county dairyman. He culled out six of his low producers and thereby increased his monthly herd average from 23.7 pounds of butterfat to 41.2 pounds, saved feed and increased his net returns. In addition he kept off the market some milk and cream which were produced at relatively high cost by inefficient cows."

Cleaning Galvanized Pails

About the most satisfactory way of cleaning is first to scrub it with a brush and hot soft water in which some concentrated lye and kerosene have been dissolved. Then brush it with strong vinegar, lemon juice, or a weak solution of hydrochloric acid, about two tablespoonfuls of commercial hydrochloric (also called muriatic) acid to a teacupful of water. Brushing with denatured alcohol also seems to help a good deal. Finally scrub thoroughly with a good cleaning powder and steel wool, and I believe you will find it pretty well shined up.—Michigan Farmer.

Keep Testing

The man who only tests his herd for one year has little to show whether it has paid him or not. The only way that he can really get a benefit from keeping records on his herd is through studying these records from year to year and with their help build up a profitable herd and profitable management methods. The Chickasaw County (Iowa) Herd Improvement association offers a splendid example in one member whose herd averaged $75 above feed costs in 1923 and increased to $179 in 1924 in spite of declining butterfat prices.—Successful Farming.

Sold 350-Pound Cows

Dairy cows have to be good producers in times of cheap butterfat to make a profit. V. J. Winnings, Monticello county, Illinois, has a purebred herd of Jerseys. All those he has now produce at least 400 pounds fat per year. He loaded two purebreds into the truck and took them to market because they had produced only 350 pounds fat in a year. Winnings says his cows must make the 400-pound level if they expect to board at his farm.—Exchange.

A Cold

Colds are common because people are careless. Prompt use of aspirin will always check a cold. Or relieve your cold at any stage. And genuine aspirin can't hurt you. Take two tablets of Bayer Aspirin at the first indication of a cold, and that's usually the end of it. If every symptom hasn't disappeared in a few hours, repeat. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. Take enough to give complete relief. And if your throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in water and gargle away all soreness. In every package of genuine Bayer Aspirin are proven directions for colds, headaches, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis. Millions who used to suffer from these things have found winter comfort in aspirin.

BAYER ASPIRIN

Moreover
Irene Castle McLaughlin, whose home for homeless Chicago dogs recently burnt down, is a great lover of animals, and at a luncheon she told an animal story.
"There was once a colored gentleman," she began, "who had a dog named 'Moreover.'"
"Queer name, that, for a dog," a white gentleman said. "Where did you get the name from, Junius?"
"Moreover am a Biblical name, sah," Junius, the owner of the dog, explained.
"Yes," said the gentleman. "How so?"
"Don't you remember, sah," said the colored gentleman, "what de good book says:—"
"Moreover, the dog came and licked his wounds."—

Unimportant
"John, my sister Lucy's getting married. What shall we give her for a wedding present?"
"Does she really love the man?"
"Of course."
"Then most anything will do."

Girl at the Top in Health Tests

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West, are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana Allgire, 610 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bonnie B. is absolutely the picture of health now, with her rosy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since babyhood to keep her bowels active during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

A New Wrinkle
"So you didn't sell that man a car?" inquired the boss peevishly.
"How could I?" argued the star salesman. "He wanted a car with a door that slammed shut without making a lot of noise!"

For INDIGESTION Use Nature's PRESCRIPTION
Mother Nature is the best doctor you could bring to the aid of indigestion. In her fragrant herbs and leaves, as packed in GARFIELD TEA, she gives you a mild but powerful prescription for indigestion, flatulence, heartburn, stomach heaviness, occasional constipation, and all the ills that come from indigestion.
At All Druggists
GARFIELD TEA
A Natural Laxative Drink

And Skin Health Are Linked Together.
Daily use of Cuticura Soap thoroughly cleanses the pores and does much to keep the skin healthy. If there are pimples or rashes anoint with Cuticura Ointment. Cuticura Talcum adds a fragrant touch to the toilet.
Keep Sk. Ointment, Soap and Talcum. Proprietors: Fetter Drug & Chemical Corp., Malden, Mass.
"Try the new Cuticura Shaving Cream."

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

IT WAS YES TODAY, NO TOMORROW

By FANNIE HURST

HE was one of those girls in the clever position of being able to debate between her mind and her emotions the advisability, the pros and cons, the years and days of marriage.

That is, she had a business college degree, economic independence, and an earning capacity that exactly tied that of her on-and-off fiance. On-and-off, because Mercina, who was twenty-six, was finding it difficult to reach a decisive state of mind about this idea of marriage with a thoroughly personable young lawyer, Frank Conway.

There were after all countless considerations which made it somewhat more complicated than is usual for a young woman like Mercina to settle the matter of her marriage. First, she had not only been earning her own living, and a good one, for over a period of six years, but there was every reason for her to believe that within the following six years her already well established earning power could double itself. The point was that during the six years, she had been wearing one-hundred-dollar tailor-made suits, eighteen-dollar hats, correspondingly expensive lingerie and had taken on as a matter of course the habit of lunching at the town's smartest restaurants and had snappy, expensive business conferences over the dinner tables of the best hotels.

Three times a week a florist delivered a two-orchid corsage, ordered by her, at her apartment door. She lived in a smart flat on the correct side of town, afforded a Filipino boy, who could prepare an inimitable dinner for two; threw away her silk stockings after the first ladder, and spent four weeks of every summer either at a smart Maine resort or on a flying trip to Paris, for purposes of refurbishing her well-furnished wardrobe.

There was every reason for a girl in Mercina's position to hesitate over the prospect of marriage to a boy like Frank; every reason except for one outstanding impediment to reason—she was in love with him. It was not difficult to understand why. He had the swift, clear, blond good looks that is so attractive when you encounter it in American youth; he was intelligent (without it is true, being brilliant), witty in a frank appealing way; clean, ambitious and head-over-heels in love with Mercina.

"The kind of young fellow out of whom you can make something," was Mercina's shrewd contemplation to herself. "He'll never push, and I can do that. He is the kind who can make good after he has a clever woman at his shoulders. I am that." In a way she was right. There was rather more ability than force to Frank Conway; rather more idealism than vigor. A woman like Mercina was precisely the right complement to his make-up.

The only thing harrowing in the situation was the thoroughly understandable and yet none-the-less nerve racking inability of Mercina to make up her mind, or having made it up, to keep it made up.

After all, it was no small thing starting over in life with a young beginner like Frank. Because of the nature of her work, its uneven hours, its evening demands, its occasional need of an out-of-town trip, it was out of the question to enter into a practical arrangement whereby she could continue her activities afterward. Marrying Frank meant creating a home for him and all of the domestic appurtenances that go with it.

Not only did circumstances make this necessary, but by temperament Frank was the sort of man, call it old-fashioned if you will, who wanted his wife in the home. In a way it was darling of him; gave him a certain masterful aggressive quality that sometimes Mercina found herself fearing he lacked. It was appealing, all right, but just the same, the matter of making up her mind was none-the-less complicated. It meant two living on the income that had been scarcely sufficient for an extravagant capable young business woman to live on alone. It meant that Frank, an outstandingly well-dressed young man, and Mercina, one of the most chic of the younger business women around town, must cut in half their expenditures.

Actually, it meant more than that. Housekeeping, even on the small, chic scale to which Mercina had been accustomed in her flat with the Filipino cook was no inexpensive affair and once you had accustomed yourself to orchids three times a week, they were not, somehow, easy to forego, even in contemplation.

And so, off again, on again; up again, down again, went Mercina's spirits. Yes, today, no tomorrow. "We can't make the grade, Frank," today; "we will try it together, darling," tomorrow. It was hard on Mercina, it was hard on Frank, who even in the moments of his exasperation, realized how authentic was her dilemma.

"You have simply got to make up your mind, darling, that you can't be two things, in this particular situation at least, at the same time."

"I know that, darling, and I don't want to be two things. I want to be your wife."

After that, life would be the perfect dream of romance that it can manage to be for two people who are in love. Then along would come an evening something like this:

"I am frightened, dearest! What if I disappoint you and turn into one of those messy domestic wives whose interests don't reach out beyond their new electric refrigerators. I am in a class fine by instinct, Frank. I am expensive, an orchidaceous hot-house plant that needs a very special kind of soil. You can't keep me happy, darling. Let me go."

"Of course, I am not fit to pay your orchid bills even if I could afford it, Mercina. We both know that the idiotic fact is that you love me. That's got to be enough to cover the multitude of my shortcomings."

"Let me go, Frank."

"Why, of course, if you feel that way, Mercina, I will let you go if it kills me."

And then the next day the usual overtures of telephones and tears from Mercina, and forgiveness and tenderness from Frank.

But slowly, surely, there was wearing against the nerves of the two of them, the strain of the situation.

"Marry me today, Merc, and let's end this awful uncertainty."

"It's no use, Frank, let's try it apart for a month."

Strangely, on one of these outbursts, they both decided quite seriously, to experiment on this last. There were tears, grim determination, experimental fervor.

"Promise me, Frank, if I decide I can live apart from you permanently, after the month, you will understand."

"I will, Mercina, if it kills me."

"And the same applies to you, Frank. If you find that life can go on without me, by the end of the month, you are to be frank and I will understand. Don't let me hear from you for the thirty days, and at the end of that time I will call you up."

Curiously, and because of the strain of the month that had gone before, this pact was kept between them, and the experimental days became the experimental weeks, and the experimental weeks lengthened into the month.

It was six days before the termination of the month that a restless, harrowed, love-sick young man, yearning for word from Mercina, met up through a mutual friend, with a young woman from Mobile, Ala., named Libby Leed. She was an agile, red-haired girl, fresh from the laurels of considerable local dramatic triumph in Alabama, who, having captured the enormous interest of the den of New York "pinks," effects to do duty during the expiring interim when the bob is still in the awkward growing age. It is quite the fashion, too, to use little jeweled pins and clasps, which help a lot in holding unwieldy locks in place.

For the charming hairdresser shown in three views at the top left, which has just recently been launched by the Coiffure Guild of New York, it is not practical to have the hair shorter than three inches at the neckline and no hair on the head should be longer than six inches.

In dressing this bob the first essential is to thin out and taper the hair so that on the top of the head it will lie flat and smooth under the shallow crown of the second empire hat. All the ends of the hair at the sides and

New Hat Calls for New Hairdress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TO SUCCESSFULLY, that is to say becomingly, wear the little Eugenie hats and other second empire effects, likewise the early Victorian modes which are now in vogue, it is well to remember that "where there is a will there is a way," and the "way" in this instance leads directly to the hairdresser's door.

To secure a perfect harmony between the coiffure and the present military innovations, which are absolutely revolutionary in their "lines," the hair must be arranged just so—utterly feminine down to the last curl, with emphasis placed on the left side, for there is where milady's carefully coiffed ringlets, waves and such, are supposed to show forth in all their glory.

Of course this gesture in the direction of a more pretentious hairdresser's hands the knell of the short bob. To keep pace with the mode there is no alternative but to let the hair grow, not too long or not too short, a happy medium being the verdict.

There is a message of encouragement, however, to those whose tresses have not yet arrived at the desired length, in that one may buy or have made of one's own hair all sorts of "pinks" effects to do duty during the expiring interim when the bob is still in the awkward growing age. It is quite the fashion, too, to use little jeweled pins and clasps, which help a lot in holding unwieldy locks in place.

For the charming hairdresser shown in three views at the top left, which has just recently been launched by the Coiffure Guild of New York, it is not practical to have the hair shorter than three inches at the neckline and no hair on the head should be longer than six inches.

In dressing this bob the first essential is to thin out and taper the hair so that on the top of the head it will lie flat and smooth under the shallow crown of the second empire hat. All the ends of the hair at the sides and

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. F. R. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute (Chicago.)

Lesson for November 8

PAUL IN EPHESUS

GOLDEN TEXT—And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:1-41.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in the City of Ephesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in the Key City of Asia.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Bore of Bad Books.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gospel Facing Error.

I. John's Disciples Become Christians (vv. 1-7).

These twelve disciples had only been taught the baptism of repentance as preparation for the Kingdom. Paul taught them to believe on Christ; that is, to receive Christ as the one who on the cross provided redemption for them through the shedding of his blood. When they believed and received Christ as their Savior, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, and Paul laid hands on them and they received the Holy Spirit.

II. Paul Preaching in Ephesus (vv. 8-10).

1. In the Jewish synagogue (v. 8). Though the Jews were Paul's enemies, he inflexibly followed his rule to go first to them with the gospel. His preaching was characterized:

a. By boldness (v. 8).

b. By reason (v. 8).

c. By persuasion (v. 8).

d. By speaking concerning the Kingdom of God (v. 8). He did not discuss philosophy, or the latest in literature, but upon the message of salvation through Christ.

2. In the schoolhouse of Tyrannus (vv. 9, 10). The Jews, being enemies of the gospel, were not hardened by Paul's preaching, and spoke openly against this way of salvation in Christ. Paul separated the disciples from them and resorted to the schoolhouse of Tyrannus.

III. God Working Miracles by Paul (vv. 11-12).

Ephesus was noted for its wonder workers. That Paul's ministry might be successful here, God in an extraordinary way put his seal upon the work. Handkerchiefs and aprons that had touched Paul's body healed the sick and cast out evil spirits. Seeing the marvelous power operating through Paul, certain Jews who went about the country practicing magical arts undertook to use the name of Jesus in their incantations. Knowing that their connection with Christ was not real, the use of his name by them only enraged the evil spirits who sprang upon and overcame them.

IV. A Glorious Awakening (vv. 13-17).

1. Fear fell upon all (v. 17). News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It brought to the front those who professed faith in Christ while not living right lives (v. 18).

3. Many gave up the practice of the black arts (v. 19). Black arts are forms of jugglery by the use of charms and magical words. No one can have fellowship with God and practice such arts. They proved the genuineness of their Christian profession by publicly burning their books, valued at $12,500.

4. Uproar of the silversmiths at Ephesus (vv. 23-24).

a. The occasion (vv. 23, 24). The power of the gospel was destroying the infamous business of Demetrius and his fellows. Their primary interest was the financial effect upon the principal business of the city.

b. The method (vv. 23-29). Demetrius, a leading business man, called a meeting and stated that much people had been turned from idolatry and that the market for their wares was materially weakened. He appealed to his fellows.

(1) On the ground of business (v. 27). The world is willing to tolerate any kind of religion or moral awakening so long as it does not interfere with its business or way of living.

(2) On the ground of religious prejudice. He said that the temple of the great Goddess Diana would be despised (v. 27). He became religious when he saw that his business was being damaged. His speech gained him an end. The crowd in a rage cried, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." The mob was quieted by the tact, good judgment, and counsel of the town clerk (vv. 37-41).

Obedience

The golden chain of obedience is broken if one link is missing. If you are hanging over a precipice by a chain and one link goes, you are lost.

Differences in Men

One man will make all human nature seem contemptible; another will exalt it to immeasurable heights of beauty and benignity. So there are men who make it hard, others who make it easy to believe in God—Jno. W. Chadwick.

Holiness

The holiness taught in the Bible is the same as that lived by the saints of the Bible. The saints of the New Testament showed us how holy people ought to live.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get on wax and use as directed. Fine particles of wax sink into pores and keep skin soft and supple. Mercolized Wax keeps skin young and supple. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax keeps skin soft and supple. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax keeps skin soft and supple. Your face looks years younger.

Proving Bible True, Revolution erroneous. Exponent 180, Darrow refuted, St. Paulism—were sent prepaid upon receipt of $1.75. Send us distance of head of bed to center of window.

WYTEX LAB.

874 Broadway, New York City.

CLOSE YOUR WINDOW Without Leaving Bed

We have a simple method, easy to install. Instructions and necessary hardware sent prepaid upon receipt of $1.75. Send us distance of head of bed to center of window.

WYTEX LAB.

874 Broadway, New York City.

CHICAGO'S MORRISON HOTEL

Madison and Clark Streets

Every room in the Morrison Hotel is outside with bath, circulating ice water, bed-head reading lamp and Servidor. Garage facilities.

LEONARD HICKS Managing Director

2500 ROOMS $3.00 UP

Too Much ACID

MANY people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia tooth-paste.

Fish Had His Watch

Leonard Smith, of Calumet, Mo., Calif., went deep-sea fishing. He missed his watch and thought perhaps he had left it home. An hour later he picked up the fish to clean it and thought he felt its heart beating. Lifting open the fish he found his watch still ticking away.

In Character

Photographer—How do you want this picture of yourself as a north-west policeman?

Tourist—Mounted.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM

Removes Dandruff, Stops Hair Falling Out, Keeps Hair Soft and Shiny. Scented with Rose and Stange. Made in U.S.A. Price 25c. Sold by all Druggists.

FLOREON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in shampooing with Parker's Hair Balm. Makes the hair soft and shiny. 50 cents by mail or at drug stores. Maceo Chemical Works, Philadelphia, Pa.

SHOES KEEP STEP WITH DRESS TREND

Shoes have become highly specialized this fall. More than ever are they designed to be called distinct types.

First are the smartly tailored shoes created for the lightweight woollens. In this group there is a choice of ankle length, chic pair of high-cut oxfords in a combination of suede and alligator, or with the new writhy hat, you may don an opera pump of black or brown plain seal with the classic wing tip and trim of matching calf. Another alternative is a high-heeled one-eyelid of suede with patent leather side inlays and effective white piping.

Suede predominates in the dressier types. There are many numbers of dainty high-heeled models, many with strap and silver.

The most promising and elegant of the evening sandals are those of gold and silver.

Aluminum Branches Out Into Realm of Jewelry

Aluminum has left the kitchen, or at least branched out into the realm of jewelry and some of our most effective bracelets are being made of it. You can have the new groups of very narrow bangles, or you can wear one or two impressively wide ones. The steady luster of aluminum is smart with black wool or silk town costume.

"Portable" Feathers Are Now Available for Hats

Flat feathers of a portable variety are being sold for these new tilted hats. You buy several and change the color scheme of your costume. Some with dashes of red in them are particularly alluring and give a finished look to an untrifled hat.

Feather Box

The revival of the feather box is keeping with the appearance of other fashions that first saw light of a decade ago. A Paris courtesier shows them worn like a "el" about the neck, with evening frocks.

Sports Costume Popular

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

This sports costume of hand-knitted wool bespeaks a popular mode. Being for practical daytime it calls for a very restrained treatment of the decorative hat. The derby-crowned shape dips only slightly to one side. It is made of crepe felt which is treated to give the effect of leather. The brown kid oxfords were selected with metric care, for the mode of today is very exacting when it comes to correct accessories. They are cut low on the sides and outlined with beige piping. The piping is repeated to form a heart-shaped design on the toe.

Braided Leather

Very smart as accessories to sports costumes are belts of braided leather which are matched by flat envelope bag braided in the same manner. They come in brown and white, black and white and navy and white.

PAGE EIGHT

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, November 5, 1931

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." Rom. 10: 17.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt. Sunday School 9:30. Childrens Service 6:45. Preaching Service 7:15.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Drago, Supt. Sunday School 9:30 A. M. Morning Service 10:30.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt. Sunday School 9 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:30 P. M.

V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt. Church School 9:30. Thanksgiving Program 7:00.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt. Church School 9:15. Holy Communion 10:30. G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE Willard Hurni, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

CORBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt. Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTOR

State of Indiana
DeKalb County, SS:
I, Glenn Potter, Clerk of the Circuit Court, for the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, do hereby certify that Walter J. Baker, has been appointed executor of the last will and testament of Anna Baker, late of DeKalb County who died testate, and the said Walter J. Baker having qualified and given bond as such Executor is duly authorized to take upon himself the execution of said will. Witness my hand and seal of said Court, this 22nd day of October, 1931.

GLENN POTTER,
Clerk of DeKalb Circuit Court
W. D. Stump, Attorney. 4313.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3575

Notice Is Hereby Given to all persons interested in the estate of Joseph R. Sechler deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of December, 1931 and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares. Witness, My name, this 2nd day of November, 1931.

MERRITT SECHLER,
Administrator.
C. E. McClintock, Atty. 4413.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

C. E. McClintock
Attorney at Law
City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

Legal Advertising.

The following claims have been allowed by the DeKalb County Board of Commissioners at their regular meeting, November 2, 1931.

Indiana Bell Telephone Co., telephone services, $39.00.
Glenn Potter, Clerk's office exp., $10.50.
William B. Burford Printing Co., do, $41.25.
Frank Zirwes, do, $1.00.
Fort Wayne Printing Co., do, $11.50.
Burroughs Adding Machine Co., Auditor's office exp., $1.50.
William B. Burford Printing Co., do, $8.00.
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's per diem, $6.00.
The Detective Publishing Co., Sheriff's office exp., $171.50.
John P. Hoff, transportation of prisoners, $212.10.
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's mileage exp, $74.76.
Do, do, $1.20.
Do, return of fugitive, $48.76.
Mabel Kain, Surveyor's Assistant salary, $58.50.
C. C. Kain, Surveyor's mileage expense, $97.30.
Fort Wayne Blue Print Co., Surveyor's office supplies, $31.92.
Lucile Stallman, County Superintendent Ass't salary, $40.00.
Carl F. Stallman, County Superintendent's mileage expense, $37.00.
Kiger & Co., Co. Supt's office exp., $2.58.
Fort Wayne Printing Co., Co. Supt's office exp., $1.40.
Wayne Office Machine Co., do, $3.33.
John R. Clark, County Coroner exp., $31.25.
Nora I. Brown, Probation Officer's exp., $42.31.
Lizzie Dohner, Board of Childrens Gdn., $15.00.
Addie Campbell, do, $15.00.
Chloey Davis, do, $20.00.
Alice Lower, do, $40.00.
Delta Kruse, do, $13.00.
Edith Walters, do, $5.00.
Gertrude Richards, do, $15.00.
Jennie M. Frain, do, $15.00.
Mabel Wyatt, do, $10.00.
Violet Morgan, do, $3.00.
Anna Snyder, do, $15.00.
Fanny Strange, do, $25.00.
Clara B. Krick, do, $10.00.
Ethel Warstler, do, $20.00.
Wm. Stonebraker, Court House Employees sal, $150.00.
O. J. Burnier, do, $60.00.
Orville Summers, do, $10.00.
C. E. Frankenberg, do, $50.00.
Ella Johnson, do, $45.00.
N. F. Baker, Court House Repair exp., $17.80.
Lige Heating and Ventilating Co., do, $5.10.
Fort Wayne Pipe & Supply Co., Court House exp., $6.75.
Auburn Water and Light, do, $47.40.
Alpha Chemical Co., do, $10.00.
L. W. Widney, do, $1.00.
Sanitary Supply Co., do, $21.59.
J. I. Holcomb Mfg. Co., do, $14.49.
A. L. Cogswell, do, $1.25.
Auburn Hardware Co., do, $17.53.
Dr. C. Phillip Fox, Salary of Jail Physician, $10.00.
John P. Hoff, Prisoner's board, $22.20.
Do, Prisoner's washing, $3.00.
Northern Indiana Fuel & Light, jail exp., $24.14.
Ashton Staman, do, $4.43.
M. E. Leighty, Co. Farm Employees salary, $125.00.
Mrs. M. E. Leighty, do, $65.00.
Arthur Woodcox, do, $45.00.
E. D. Nelson, do, $45.00.
Nettie Robertson, do, $50.00.
E. A. Baker, County Farm exp., $22.50.
Henderson & Beerbower, do, $32.96.
Auburn Water & Light, do, $24.44.
Dr. Phillip Fox, do, $50.00.
Auburn State Bank, do, $1,690.67.
Frank Purdy, do, $2.50.
DePew Electric Shop, do, $5.33.
C. F. Kaiser, do, $21.48.
National 5 & 10 Cent Stores Co., do, $7.20.
Indiana Reformatory, do, $12.91.
Auburn Hardware Co., do, $5.20.
L. W. Widney, do, $9.18.
DeKalb County Farm Bureau, do, $12.53.
Ashton Staman, do, $5.70.
George Merryfield, do, $10.40.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $5.85.
The Record-Herald, do, $2.75.
Brandon Lumber Co., do, $13.18.
Holmeden Co., do, $12.00.
Murrel Eninger, do, $7.75.
Huntington Laboratories, do, $28.48.
W. P. Nodine, do, $11.10.
Byron G. Smith, do, $40.00.
Nicholas Funk, Commissioners exp., $14.70.
Do, do, $75.00.

Charles Potter, do, $12.00.
Arthur Grube, do, $12.60.
Blanche Nugen, Attendance Officers mileage, $23.40.
Helen Houser, County Agent's Ass't salary $33.33.
The Record-Herald, public printing, $6.50.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $6.32.
Garrett Clipper, do, $43.55.
Waterloo Press, do, $43.14.
Do, do, $7.32.
Auburn Courier, Hgh. location, $12.87.
Auburn Dispatch, Wm. Shroyer Hgh. location $1.00.
Do, J. B. Miller Hgh. location, $1.00.
Do, M. L. Ault Hgh. location, $11.70.
The Record-Herald, do, $5.72.
John R. Clark, Soldiers burial, $75.00.
E. R. Kinsley, do, $75.00.
Children's Aid Society of Indiana, Orphan poor in other inst., $607.75.
Lloyd McClellan, County drain exp., $3.00.
Frank Shoup, do, $44.70.
George Hull, do, $2.25.
C. W. Bleeks, New bridge exp., $84.00.
C. O. Metcalf, do, $36.00.
Ray L. Harris, do, $294.83.
J. E. Sweet & Sons, do, $1,073.95.
M. A. Butler, do, $1,062.40.
J. R. Leighty, Bridge repair exp., $64.00.
Ray L. Harris, do, $142.64.
Do, do, $201.28.
Garms J. B. Candy Co., Erroneous Tax Refund, $76.50.
Arthur Grube, Highway construction, $25.00.
Charles Potter, do, $75.00.
Nicholas Funk, do, $75.00.
Ray L. Harris, do, Waterloo-Hamilton Hgh., $1,026.18.
Tri Lake Const. Co., St. Joe-Spencerville Hgh., $1,908.74.
Baker and Dunn, Wm. Hoodiemier Hgh., $889.34.
Do, Cedar Chapel Hgh. Const., $487.80.
Auburn Dispatch, C. O. Griffin Hgh. Const., $4.21.
Auburn Courier, do, $4.21.
Fred B. Leighty, St. Joe-Spencerville Hgh., $4.68.
Do, do, $22.87.
Do, Roy Prosser Hgh. Const., $17.27.
Do, do, $11.00.
Do, do, $5.58.
Do, Wallace Abel Hgh. Const., $17.06.
Do, do, $10.45.
Do, do, $6.42.
E. E. Turner, Gravel Road Repair, $278.00.
Lester Casselman, do, $104.00.
Harry Tomlinson, do, $3.00.

George Likens, do, $4.00.
C. P. Martin, do, $104.00.
John A. Chittenden, do, $5.00.
C. W. Bowers, do, $15.75.
Tri State Sand and Gravel Corp., do, $15.00.
Kenneth Martin, do, $7.50.
E. T. Barley, do, $108.00.
T. A. Worman, do, $7.50.
E. R. Burnier, do, $9.00.
Carl Houser, do, $3.50.
Jas. Smith, do, $6.00.
Tri State Sand & Gravel Co., do, $12.00.
Oscar Fulk, do, $104.00.
Adrian Royal, do, $8.75.
Chauncey Baxter, do, $14.50.
Sherm Funk, do, $4.50.
Bert Campbell, do, $2.75.
Russell Berryhill, do, $4.00.
Ralph Harding, do, $10.00.
Fred Renig, do, $21.20.
Carl Elmer, do, $10.25.
Howard Wagener, do, $10.25.
Olson Ladd, do, $10.25.
Wm. Keeler, do, $104.00.
Lloyd McClellan, do, $4.00.
Tell Elson, do, $4.00.
L. J. Likes, do, $4.50.
Adrian Wastler, do, $5.00.
L. J. Drago, do, $3.50.
Grant Baltz, do, $21.00.
Vern Corbun, do, $3.00.
Cash Hanna, do, $5.00.
Wm. Henley, do, $3.00.
E. R. Kinsley, do, $1.50.
St. Joe Filling Station, do, $5.70.
Elmer Johns, do, $104.00.
Loren Souder, do, $2.10.
Geo. Blaker, do, $6.00.
Clarence Peters, do, $3.00.
Wm. McCann, do, $33.00.
Geo. Hull, do, $4.50.
Ivan Farmer, do, $1.50.
Ralph McCollough, do, $10.50.
Lewis Keller, do, $9.75.
Milton Keller, do, $3.50.
Boyd Jennings, do, $3.50.
Floyd Hollinger, do, $3.00.
John Conkle, do, $3.00.
Ernest R. Steward, do, $108.00.
Fred Rosenberry, do, $104.00.
Jack Johnson, do, $104.00.
Henry Zitzman, do, $70.50.
Frank Bowman, do, $70.50.
Frank Nelson, do, $6.00.
Roy Marks, do, $7.05.
O. E. White, do, $15.00.
S. U. Ringler, do, $7.25.
Cumbas Neidig, do, $11.75.
Elmer Perkins, do, $3.25.
Doan Fiffer, do, $1.25.
Elmer Shippe, do, $2.50.
Will Wilhelm, do, $2.50.
Clyde Clark, do, $1.20.
Theo Huffmyre, do, $1.50.
Kenneth Nelson, do, $7.50.
James Kuncie, do, $4.50.
Day & Son, do, $15.19.
Jan Ellis, do, $29.25.
James Stansbury, do, $22.50.

Raymond D. Smith, do, $22.50.
Arnold Link, do, $25.50.
Bert Host, do, $105.25.
Chas. O. Stoops, do, $5.00.
Brandon Lumber Co., do, $13.32.
Claud Hilbert, do, $595.56.
Cockrell Tractor Co., do, $16.98.
The Jim Shop, do, $1.00.
Noble Motor Truck Corp., do, $4.00.
Indiana Truck Corporation, do, $3.73.

Auto Electric & Radio Equipment Co., do, $19.62.
J. D. Adams Co., do, $27.86.
Mossman Yarnell & Co., do, $3.50.
Do, do, $18.28.
Rout Spring Scraper Co., do, $5.50.
Standard Oil Co., do, $2,170.71.
Mehberger Bros. Stone Co., do, $697.75.
F. D. Spurling, Agent, do, $14.00.
E. E. Turner, do, $4.50.
Auburn Machine Works, do, $12.00.
George Merryfield, do, $31.50.
Frank Zirwes, do, $35.50.
Angola Brick & Tile Co., do, $25.20.
Tri State Sand & Gravel Co., do, $70.00.
Auburn Sand & Gravel Co., do, $57.15.
A. W. Madden Est., do, $62.50.
State Automobile Ins. Co., do, $1.31.
Garrett Clipper, do, $4.68.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $4.08.
Auburn Courier, do, $7.25.
Auburn Courier, do, $6.32.
Auburn Dispatch, do, $7.25.
Auburn Hardware Co., do, $17.31.
Thachers Automotive Service Co., do, $471.35.

FRANK E. LYON,
(44-2) Auditor of DeKalb County.

Miss Lela Shouder, daughter of Michael Shouder of Jackson Township and Virgil C. Schwartz son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schwartz of Allen County were united in marriage Thursday evening at 8 o'clock by Rev. H. F. Craven, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at the manse in Auburn.

The McBride Co., in conjunction with the Allen A. Hosliery mills, will stage a novel contest at the McBride Store to create new interest in Allen A. Hosliery. McBride's is giving away six pairs of hose, each pair worth $1.50. The first prize winner will receive four pairs of hose and the second, two pairs. A key will be given with each pair of $1 hose purchased, two keys with each $1.50 pair and three keys with each $1.95 hose. The customer's name will be written on the key and the winner's name will be announced Saturday, Nov. 14.

When the nation's foremost agricultural show, the International Live Stock Exposition, celebrates its 32nd anniversary at the Chicago Stock Yards, November 28 to December 5, boys and girls of rural America and the work they are doing in the 4-H Clubs will be prominently featured. According to Heide even Alaska will be represented in the 4-H Club picture at the International Live Stock Exposition this year, with clothing exhibits from Alaska Clubs now enroute to Chicago to be exhibited at the show. Among the trophies to be awarded in this year's Congress are two cups presented by the late Sir Thomas Lipton to the 4-H Club boy and girl who send in the best records of their work for the year.

Don't forget to, phone your items to The News. Call No 45.

$5,000.00

IN CASH PRIZES

SEE YOUR DRUGGIST

Russel R. Reidenour
Attorney
Auburn, Ind.

"A shine, please" and you know

it's worth the price

"Shine 'em up." How little you think of spending a few cents for the service. But compare the cost of shining your shoes with the electricity required to operate a clothes washing machine for a week's wash. The electrical cost is even less. Consider the cheapness of other electrical service.

.... but where do you get more for your money than in buying Electric Service?

More than 1 hour
for 1c

More than 1 1/2 hours
for 1c

More than 2 hours
for 1c

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

EDISON MAZDA LAMPS

At the News Office

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DEKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER. SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOV. 12, 1931

NUMBER 45

JOHN WOODRING HELD UP LAST WEEK

John Woodring, a radio dealer, living at Spencerville, was held up and robbed of about $65 by two young bandits on the St. Joe-Spencerville road Tuesday night at about 7 o'clock. Mr. Woodring had been on a collection trip, and it would seem that the bandits knew his mission.

Mr. Woodring was driving alone to Spencerville when a light-colored Chevrolet roadster was driven in front of him, forcing him to stop, just south of the Goodwin farm near St. Joe. The two youths got out of their car and walked up to Woodring's machine. One of the outlaws was armed with a gun and the other with a heavy piece of pipe. They demanded Woodring's money and he gave them his pocketbook. They also took his automobile key. They hurried back to their car and went on, disappearing. Mr. Woodring had to call home for a key to his car, and by the time help came, they were well on their way.

There were no license plates on the bandit car. Mr. Woodring says one of the youths wore a red sweater and the other a loose blue overcoat.

Mr. Woodring notified Sheriff John P. Hoff and he and his deputy, Herbert N. Grimm, made an investigation, but could find no trace of the hold-up men at this time.

BABIES

There is no other baby in the world like yours. Surely you will always want to see him as he is today. Arrange for a photograph of him now at the D. Webster Smith Studio, Butler, Ind.

UNUSUAL EVENTS MARK CHICAGO'S STOCK SHOW

Aristocrats of feed lot, stable and field will be in a mammoth review in Chicago next month on the main stage of the world's largest farm animal show, the International Live Stock Exposition, which will be in session at the Chicago Stock Yards, November 28 to December 5, announces Manager B. H. Heide.

Every moment of the time from the opening day until the close of this mammoth and most unique of American agricultural shows will be crowded with events of interest and entertainment to everyone whether from town or farm, he assures.

Horse Show Spectacular

Horse shows of spectacular brilliance and unusual appeal will be the center of the International's stage each evening and on three afternoons of the week. The leading stables of this country and Canada will contribute their best specimens. Parades of prize winning live stock, visibly proud of their ribbons won in this Supreme Court of live stock shows, killed Scotch pipers, stunt riding and driving, polo matches, and sheep dog trials will vary the Horse Show programs.

Live stock judging contests between state and provincial champion teams of farm youths will occupy Friday and Saturday, November 27 and 28. The famous International Junior Live Stock Feeding Contest, in which baby beef, lamb, and pig entries, fed, fitted, and shown by farm boys and girls will also be held on the opening Saturday. Many State Fair champions will compete in this world renowned show of farm youngster fitted live stock.

The big battle of the 35 different breeds of farm animals that will be assembled at the 1931 exposition will begin on Monday, December 1, and will continue until the final day, December 5. All the nearest perfection of their kind that it is possible for the live stock breeding and feeding art of the times to develop, will present an impressive sight to city laymen and farmers alike, as they are paraded through the arenas in review of the live stock experts who will award the prizes.

Prize Winners Auctioned

Auction sales of prize winners in the fat classes will be held during the final days of the exposition. Record breaking prices are paid in keeping with the choicest of prime quality offerings.

Railroads have signified their intention of giving even greater rate reductions to Chicago during International week this year. From many sections a round trip ticket may be purchased for the price of a one way fare.

ST. JOE CONTRACTOR LANDS COUNTY CONTRACT

The county commissioners Wednesday ordered a half ton Chevrolet truck for Chevrolet Sales of Butler, for $423.50.

The successful bidder takes in as part of the deal a model T Ford truck.

Other bids were received as follows: W. C. Tatham of Waterloo, Ford truck, $440; International Harvester Co., International truck, $745; J. E. Dawson of Auburn, Ford truck, $440.

The board also gave the Auburn Oil Co. an order for denatured alcohol on its bid of 37½ cents a gallon.

O. D. Baker & Son of St. Joe, awarded a contract for a carload of white cedar guard rail posts, 7 feet long, with 6 inch tops, on a bid of 34 cents each.

The Auburn Iron & Metal Co. submitted a bid of 12½ cents per 100 pounds for the county's junk iron.

QUOTA ON RED CROSS DRIVE

Dr. C. P. Cox, of Garrett, chairman of the County Red Cross roll call, which will start November 11 and continue until Thanksgiving Day announced the quotas for the various units of the county Wednesday.

The total for the county is $2,025, distributed as follows:
Auburn, $800.00.
Garrett, $600.00.
Waterloo, $100.00.
Butler City, $80.00.
Ashley, $40.00.
Spencerville and Spencer Township, $50.00.
Corunna and Richland Township, $75.00.
Altona, $15.00.
Fairfield Township, $25.00.
Keyser Township, $50.00.
Butler Township, $50.00.
Jackson Township, $25.00.
Union Township, $30.00.
Grant Township, $30.00.
Smithfield township, $25.00.
Franklin township, $40.00.
St. Joe and Concord township, $25.00.
Wilmington township, $25.00.
Troy Township, $20.00.
Stafford township, $20.00.
Newville township, $20.00.

LEANNA STEWARD FIGURES IN ACCIDENT

Pete Wasshammer of 1205 Burgess Street, Fort Wayne, was arrested on a charge of drunken driving by Sheriff Fred G. Lutz and Deputy Sheriff Walter Melbers following an automobile accident on the Leo road Saturday night.

Wasshammer is alleged to have sideswiped a car driven by Mrs. LeAnna Steward, 32, of Spencerville. Two wheels were torn off her machine. Her son, Fred, was slightly injured.

SCHOOL VACATIONS

The rural schools will close on Wednesday, November 25th for the remainder of the week on account of Thanksgiving and on Thursday, December 24th, until Monday, January 4th, for the Christmas holiday vacation.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM FOR P. T. A.

The second meeting of the Concord Township P. T. A. was held at the gym November 10, 1931.

The Armistice Day program was opened by singing the "Star Spangled Banner." The Third and Fourth Grades gave the salutes to the Christian and American flags. Ralph Sechler, W. B. Cox, John Crothers, Roy Ridenbach, Gray Woodcox and Roy Maxwell gave most interesting accounts of what they were doing and what happened where they were when the Armistice was signed.

Margaret Hamilton gave a musical reading, "When Uncle Sam Stepped Forward," accompanied by her mother at the piano.

Virginia Shull, Jean Goodwin and Earl Kinsey very beautifully presented America the Beautiful with orchestra bells, violin and piano.

Mr. W. S. Painter, superintendent of schools in Garrett, was then introduced as the speaker of the evening. Many interesting and practical points on character education were given.

The readings "In Flanders Fields" and "America's Reply" were very appropriately given by Gladys Dressel.

The business session preceded a tableau. No new business was brought before the group. The audience sang America. A beautiful and appropriate tableau "America's Defense," arranged by Mrs. F. R. Bowman, was a fitting close to the program.

EIGHTY-NINTH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Relatives and friends numbering twenty-eight gathered at the country home of Mrs. Jennie Gengnagle, of Newville, Sunday to help Mrs. Mattie Grambling celebrate her eighty-ninth birthday. Mrs. Grambling is the mother of Mrs. Gengnagle. A pot luck dinner was served at the noon hour, and Mrs. Grambling received many useful gifts. Those present from Auburn were Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Sharp and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKenzie and son, Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wingard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fretz, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tryon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCrum, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Getz, Mr. and Mrs. Mort Sharp, Mrs. Mary Kruse and son, Richard, Mrs. Elizabeth McKenzie, Mrs. Paul Perry, Miss Eliza Fretz and Frank Grambling; Mrs. Gengnagle and son, Frederick, and Mrs. Grambling of Newville.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.
Frank Tustison.
W. J. Staman.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian	101	$4.25
M. P.	51	$2.08
Spencerville M. E.	69	$4.54
Lutheran	75	$3.84

Delvin Armstrong of Auburn and Floyd Ridgway and their families were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Armstrong Sunday for dinner.

Willard Maxwell and lady friend from Covington, Kentucky, spent the week-end with his mother and relatives. Accompanied by Dale Trostel, they visited in Auburn, Saturday afternoon.

The City National bank of Auburn, has been appointed in the DeKalb circuit court as administrator of the estate of the late Alonso Zeigler, who died suddenly in Auburn August 19. The estate consists of $6,000 in real estate and the only heir is the widow, Bessie Zeigler of Douglas, Georgia.

The first heavy snow of the season a thick storm between Bryan O. and Helmer, forced a Continental Airways transport plane enroute from Washington, D. C. to Chicago to land at the Paul Beer municipal airport in Fort Wayne Thursday night, according to the pilot, A. C. Lyberger. It was the first instance of the season in which snow has halted regular transport operations.

JUDGE CARLIN DREW LARGE CROWD

There was a splendid attendance at the get-together meeting of the Church of Christ of DeKalb County held in the St. Joe high school gymnasium Sunday evening. Judge Clyde Carlin of Angola, was the speaker of the evening and his subject "Sunrise," dealt with the resurrection, answering the one question of the ages that, if a man die, shall he live again. The county men's chorus sang three or four selections. Twenty-eight attended from the Auburn Church of Christ.

Judge Carlin very impressively depicted the life of Christ from His birth to His resurrection.

OBITUARY

Catharine Rickett, daughter of William Saylor and Rosanna Wade Saylor, was born March 23, 1853 on the Saylor farm, two miles north of St. Joe. She entered into rest on November 8, 1931, at the age of 78 years, 7 months and 15 days. During 1875 she married Thomas A. Rickett. To them was born one daughter, Etha. At the age of 33 years she joined the Concord Methodist Protestant Church of which Rev. Lineberry was pastor, but later transferred her membership to the Methodist Protestant Church at St. Joe. Her entire life was lived in the vicinity of St. Joe.

After the death of her husband on November 7, 1919, she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Bert Jackson of St. Joe. After her daughter's death on January 9, 1923 she remained in this home and with her granddaughter, Mrs. Carl Perkins, at whose home she passed away.

She is survived by one granddaughter, Mrs. Edna Perkins of St. Joe, one full brother, Calvin Saylor of Spencerville, two half brothers, William Saylor of Hicksville and Orman Saylor of Indianapolis, and several nieces and nephews.

She lived a quiet life, faithful in the discharge of her duties and blessed in her Christian faith.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins, with Rev. G. D. Stoll and Rev. O. V. Harrold officiating. Burial was made in Riverside cemetery, by E. R. Kinsey.

Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45¢.

The rabbit season opened Tuesday and will continue to January tenth.

For Sale: 10 head of breeding ewes. These sheep had 19 lambs this year. M. Gerig, 4 miles west of Spencerville. 45¢.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shroyer and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moore and family spent Sunday with Mr. Moore's mother, Mrs. Henry Huff and family at Cromwell.

ENTERTAIN TRIO OF MEN IN THEIR EIGHTIES

The birthday anniversary (86) of D. D. Burley was celebrated last Wednesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Shilling with a bounteous dinner. M. D. Engle, 82 years of age and the host, Mr. Shilling, 80 years, and each one enjoyed the event. All three were born in Concord Township and have lived here during these years. They spent the afternoon in reviewing their boyhood days. They know what early pioneering meant as compared to the luxury of today, and their experiences were indeed entertaining.

Mr. Engle was born on the Baltz farm; D. D. Burley was born at Orangeville and Mr. Shilling west of Spencerville.

All three men are quite well, but Mr. Burley, while the older, seems to be the most rugged. He can read without glasses, the finest print and writes a splendid hand.

Teachers Institute was held at Auburn last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham spent Saturday and Sunday in the home of C. J. Foltz and family near Holgate. They also visited the Leipsic cemetery.

Dr. U. G. Souder of the Souder hospital Auburn, is quite sick and has been for a week. Anemia following bronchial pneumonia has kept the doctor bedfast. He was improved on Monday. W. H. Timbrook owner of the Auburn roller mills is also quite ill with hemorrhages of the stomach.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

HOME BUREAU

On November 18th in the Alumni Gym at Auburn, beginning at 8:00 P. M., standard time, the Home Bureau Clubs of DeKalb County will present a review of four years nutrition work, in the form of a pageant entitled, "Miss Nutrition Review." Concord, Spencer and Newville Townships are presenting the fourth episode, "Lunch Box Drill." Mrs. Sadie Washler, Mrs. Mamie Ginter and Mrs. Gay Roberts of Newville Township; Mrs. Hazel Washler, Mrs. Howey, Mrs. Clyde Hart and Mrs. Eva Wilcox from Spencer Township; Mrs. Laura Washler, Mrs. Millie Shull, Mrs. Mary Krise, Mrs. Harriett Johnson and Mrs. Myrtle Pugsley of Concord Township, are taking part in the drill, which is being directed by Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick. Mrs. Lela Northrup and Mrs. Cora Curie are pianists. Home Bureau members and their families, also the public are invited.

LOOK HERE?

Start long Winter Evenings
RIGHT

"Buy A RADIO"

Note the TERMS

$1.00 Down and $4.00 in 3 Days at the End of the Demonstration, or $5.00 Down, $1.25 per week on Balance

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

CUT IT SHORT

"Youth, art thou not endeavoring to induce the funny tribe to engulf in their dextricated mouths a barbed instrument on which is affixed a dainty allurements?" asked the professor. "No," said the boy, "I'm FISHIN."

The lad was right. Cut it SHORT. If you have anything to SAY-say it so it will be UNDERSTOOD. That's our plan. We have a good bank. We want more customers. We will appreciate your business. And you'll never regret having become associated with our reliable Bank.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

My Neighbor

— Says: —

When purchasing materials for upholstering purposes, avoid long coarse threads on the surface. Select a close weave, preferably of smooth texture, and your furniture will wear longer.

When plates and dishes have to be warmed on an oven top or in an oven, if a newspaper is put underneath, it will prevent cracking.

When the coal fire is very low, shake the salt from a shaker over the coals. The gas thus generated will soon send up blue flames. But you must be more careful of the fire during the day, as it will burn out more quickly.

Use either the white of an egg or a whole egg when making croquettes. Croquettes will not hold together if mixed with the yolk of egg only.

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

Ancient Animal's Skull

Found in South Dakota

Pierre, S. D.—The skull of a Titanotherium, one of the large tusked animals of prehistoric days, was brought here by A. M. Jackley, after completing a trip through the Bad Lands.

The skull measures three feet across, and the teeth are almost three inches square on the surface. Jackley said that the find was made by Lester Crew, who lives in the Bad Lands. Together they spent several hours getting the skull out of its resting place in the rock formation. Jackley believes that the skeleton of the whole animal is embedded at the spot where they were digging, as they went only to a depth great enough to excavate the skull.

GREAT CAR

First Motorist—That's a great car of mine—you can't stop it on the hills. Second Motorist—Why don't you get four brakes, instead?

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

WINTER FUN

How jolly is the winter. When snow comes falling down. And covers all the grass and flowers. And all of the town. I put on my thick overcoat. My mittens and my warm shoes. My rubber boots too. And go out in the storm. And out beside our back yard. I build a fine snow fort. With a lot of snow and a lot of fun. I build a fine snow fort. With a lot of snow and a lot of fun. I build a fine snow fort. With a lot of snow and a lot of fun.

Let's Make Some Gifts

This will be a fine present for mother, for it will keep all her sewing things clean and ready for use. Take a cigar box or any small wooden box with a cover. Use a wet cloth to rub off any paper that is on the box. Then stain or paint the box a pretty green or some color which is not too light. Make little places for spoons, thimbles, pins, buttons and other small things by putting thin strips of wood across the inside of the box to form small squares. You can nail the wood in with tiny brads. If you cannot get thin pieces from some old cover or box, use heavy pasteboard and fit it tightly into place. Perhaps as a little decoration you can paint mother's initials in gold or any bright color on the cover. This will be useful for Dad to have, shaped like a wedge so it will slip under the door and hold it back. Nail the other block to one end of this so it is standing upright. If you use a jig saw you can cut this upright block into a fancy shape by rounding the corners or doing a bit of carving. Paint both blocks a pretty color.

A Sewing Box and a Door Stop.

(Copyright)—WNU Service.

One Man Not Worried by the Gold Standard

This lanky cotton-grower of "six miles northwest of Lost mountain" doesn't care how many countries abandon the gold standard. His standard is fresh-ginned cotton and he has brought three bales to Atlanta in his ox cart to exchange for household supplies. He was the first to accept the offer of a local department store to accept cotton in exchange for merchandise.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Tomato Aspic—Cook together twenty minutes one chopped onion and two cupsful of tomato, add two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one of salt, and when well dissolved strain. Soak four tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin in a little cold water and add to the strained tomato. Mix well and pour into small molds. Serve on beds of finely shredded lettuce with any good dressing.

Almond Mixture—Take one cupful of salad oil, two eggs, one cupful of sugar, one-half pound of blanched almonds, the grated rind of an orange, one-fourth cupful of orange juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, with flour enough to make of the right consistency to roll. Beat two egg yolks and one egg white, add the oil and sugar, orange juice and rind. Add the almonds ground, with the flour and salt and combine with the egg mixture. Roll out and cut with the animal cutters, brush with beaten egg white. Make eyes with pitted dates and sprinkle with sugar.

Eggs au Gratin—Scald a pint of milk with one onion stuck with six cloves. Add to two tablespoonfuls of butter, the same amount of flour; stir and add the milk, cook until thick, adding one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika. Pour half the sauce in a shallow baking dish and cover with one-half cupful of crumbs and one-half cupful of grated cheese and a few grains of mace. Break four or five fresh eggs over the crumbs and cover with a half-cupful of crumbs and sauce. Bake.

Eggplant au Gratin—Peel eggplant and cut in cubes 2 1/2 inch in size. Cook in a small quantity of water (salted). When tender, drain. Cook half of a finely-chopped onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter until yellow; add three-fourths of a tablespoonful of parsley finely chopped, and the eggplant. Turn into a well-greased baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until brown.

Ginger Mint Julep—The juleps of Kentucky were just famous; here is one that needs no liquor to make it attractive: Crush a bunch of mint leaves and add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, three-fourths teaspoonful of sugar and a little bit of ginger ale. Serve with cracked ice.

Stuffed Onions—For this dish parboil good sized onions all of the same size and remove the centers to form a good cavity. The bits of onion may be saved for a dish for some other meal. Use for filling any bits of finely minced leftover meat, or sausage, as well as nutmeg, add bread crumbs, moisten with egg, season well and stuff the onions. Place in a baking dish surrounded with broth, water and butter or milk, baking often while cooking. Just before serving heap the top of each with buttered crumbs and brown nicely. Serve as a garnish for pork chops.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

by WALTER TRUMBULL

In a city of 8,000,000 inhabitants, all you have to do to find a story is to stand on a street corner. It was in Times square, recently, that I ran into James J. Johnston, one of the most colorful citizens of the Borough of Manhattan. With a quick mind, a keen sense of humor, a close acquaintance with politics, and many of the characteristics of a banjo player, Jimmy Johnston has promoted everything from roller skates to automobiles and parades to prize fighters. In speed of action, Jimmy Johnston has it a bit on Floyd Gibbons, and his conversational flow has the sweep and continuity of the Mississippi. If it be true that silence is golden, Mr. Johnston never will run on any but a silver tongue platform. But such success as Mr. Johnston has attained is not due to his loquacity. It is the result of a happy faculty for being able to make good friends in the right places and of being able to think a little faster than the other fellow. Engaged in the promotion of boxing, out-thinking a heavyweight is not considered any triumphal psychiatric feat, but Mr. Johnston can out-think their managers.

Jimmy Johnston was born in Liverpool, but was only a youngster when his father, an iron molder, moved the family to New York.

The Johnstons established themselves in the vicinity of First avenue and Thirty-first street, a neighborhood from which many prominent New Yorkers have come. There young James grew up on sidewalks filled with hawkers selling such delicacies as red bananas, five for five cents, and fighting Irish kids. Some of these latter did not take kindly to the new-

Leghorn Hen's Feathers

Change Color Each Year

Philadelphia—A leghorn hen, whose feathers periodically turn from black to white and back to black again, is one of a flock belonging to Frank Supple, registry assessor for Cheltenham township. Molly was hatched four years ago with a brood of black leghorns. The first time she molted, white feathers appeared, until so black ones were visible. Then at the next molting period the process reversed and no white feathers appeared.

Ancient Footprints in Park

South Hadley, Mass.—Land surrounding a ledge in Smith's Ferry, on which are imprinted footprints believed to have been made by a prehistoric dinosaur is to be made a public park.

RAMS' CHIEF RAMMER

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"From Pillar to Post"

IT MAY have happened to many of us that attempting to get certain information from a large organization, we have been kept on the move continuously from one person to another, from department to department, before we could finally, if at all, get what we were after.

It is that sort of thing that has been referred to as being driven from pillar to post, but that, of course, is not how it started.

This phrase comes to us from the days when a man found guilty of certain offenses, would be transported or moved from the pillory (jail) to the whipping post, there to receive what the law prescribed, while an approving crowd of onlookers jeered and applauded.

Other derivations have been suggested, but this is doubtless the most logical—historically and etymologically.

(© 1931. Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

NOT A GOOD SHOT

"Why did you divorce your husband, May?"

"Why, my dear, I couldn't hit a barn door with a pistol in a hundred years."

Ocean Depths

The average depth of all the oceans and seas is supposed to be from two to two and one-half miles. Soundings in the Pacific average about 12,000 feet; in the Atlantic, 12,200 feet; in the Indian ocean, 11,138 feet, and in the Antarctic 10,800. The Japanese sea averages about 7,320 feet, the Gulf of Mexico 4,632 feet, the Mediterranean a little less, and the Baltic only about 122 feet.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of wax skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, freckles, tan and wrinkles disappear. Skin is then soft, smooth and youthful. Your face looks younger. Mercolized Wax keeps your skin looking like a baby's.

Britain's New Embassy

Located on a four-acre tract, the new British embassy at Washington is a gigantic, rambling structure of Queen Anne and Georgian design. The conception of Sir Edwin Lutyens, it has been carried out in fisher brick—a dull, parti-colored brick—and limestone. Variety and beauty of design characterize the building. There are 97 rooms, 23 with baths, as well as several showers, and a swimming pool in the back garden near the tennis courts. There are two nurseries, rooms for maids, footmen and chauffeurs, and there are libraries, sitting rooms, a drawing room, a long dining room and the ball room.

Good Health Is Your Natural State

But you can't expect to enjoy good health if you are allowing disease germs to accumulate and multiply somewhere in your system. Coughs, colds, bronchitis, tonsillitis, rheumatism and often neuritis are the work of disease organisms which must be attacked and destroyed if good health is to be restored. These and many other more serious types of infection may be controlled and good health restored by chemically destroying the germs, using B. & M., The Penetrating Germicide, to stop the bacterial poisoning. The B. & M. treatment is unlike any other—quick and positive in action. Your druggist should have B. & M. in stock. If he fails to supply you promptly, send us his name and $1.25 and we will mail you a full-size bottle. Helpful booklet free on request. F. E. Rollins Co., 53 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. (Adv.)

Pigeon Was Reasonable

A pigeon nearly upset business in a Lynn (Mass.) cigar store recently. The bird entered and perched near the ceiling of the high-studded store and all efforts to dislodge it were without avail. When it came time to close the store the clerk thought he would have to lock the pigeon up inside. Before doing so he exclaimed in a loud tone of voice, "Get out, we are going to close up." The pigeon then flew down to the floor, ate some peanuts there, after which it walked, not flew, out of the store.

Stop the Pain.
The hurt of a burn or a cut stops when Cole's Carbolicaine is applied. It heals quickly without scars. 50c and 60c by all druggists, or send 50c to J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Adv.

Firemen Watch Blaze

Firemen called from all parts of Belfast, Ireland, recently, stood idle as they watched a fire burn itself out. An underground electric cable had fused, and flames shot several feet in the air from an open manhole, the cover of which had been blown off by the heat. The pavement was also forced up by the heat. Many business houses in the center of the city were plunged into darkness. Owing to the nature of the blaze the firemen could not fight it.

ACID STOMACH

EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless, and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts. Be sure to get the genuine.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

ROUND MOTION PICTURE OPERATORS
WANTED—Learn, Free practical training when course is completed. Easy terms. 50% of tuition payable when employed. 10% Bonus. Adv. Dept. 15, Los Angeles, Calif.

Christian Lady or Gentleman, capable taking charge boy and girl distributors Good remuneration. Sample and instructions free. C. A. Haller, New Port Richey, Fla.

Representative Wanted—Sell farms with guaranteed income. Large commission. Small secured investment required. References: Farm Home Corp., Sebring, Fla.

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 48-1081.

(© 1931. Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MANCHURIA

Station on the South Manchurian Railway.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

It is an unusual year in which Manchuria does not produce an upset in Far Eastern affairs. In 1929 there was friction between Chinese and Russians over the management of the Chinese Eastern railway of northern Manchuria—friction that brought a threat of war. Now Manchuria is the scene of grave difficulties between Japanese and Chinese, and again a railway is at the bottom of the trouble. This time it is the South Manchurian railway, owned and operated by a Japanese corporation. In a struggle centering around the railroad property near Mukden, capital of Manchuria, both Chinese and Japanese lives have been lost.

The world has grown to expect excitement from Manchuria; for in that country, as in Egypt and Mexico, it seems that drama never dies. From hereabouts, before Columbus was born, rode a Mongol horde to conquer Asia and harass Europe.

From here, scaling the Great Wall which timid Chinese had raised against them, came giant Manchus to oust the Ming and found a new dynasty at Peking (Peking).

Crossing the sea in clumsy junks 1,200 years ago, the same bold Manchus took tiger and leopard skins, opium, and wild ginseng to trade with Japan for silks and brocades. Later, when the near-world empire of Kublai Khan rolled from the Yalu to the Danube, a Mongol fleet of a thousand ships sailed against the shoguns, only to be smashed by "God's Wind" on the coast of Kyushu.

Here, through turbulent years, three ancient empires met—the Bear, the Dragon, and the Rising Sun. Their struggles shook the earth. Korea succumbed, absorbed by the Rising Sun; the Dragon mothered Manchuria. War mangled the Bear, and to the north rose an evanescent Far Eastern republic.

Two Great Events.

Yet in all its repertoire of high adventure—political, martial, and economic—two events loom largest in the stirring story of Manchuria. They sway not only the destiny of ancient Manchuria itself, but they affect the fortunes and the future of Japan, China, and Russia. These events are the coming of the Russian-built railways, and the immigration of millions of Chinese farmers. In the last three decades these forces, railways, and immigrants, have jumped Manchuria ahead by 1,000 years—moved her from a region of feudal lords, bandits, and nomad herdsmen to a land of huge trade and agriculture, in many aspects strangely like part of the American West.

So swiftly these changes have come that very often old and new still clash in oddly visual violence. Thus now, across South Manchuria, you may ride a crack train, smooth, shiny, and fast as any Broadway limited or Frisco flyer—a solid train it is, of American pullmans, drawn by a big Baldwin locomotive made in Philadelphia—yet from its observation car you may see peasants pushing wheelbarrows with sails on them—a type of vehicle old in China when Confucius was a baby.

Steam shovels made in Milwaukee are moving mountains; Yankee tractors, jerking a fleet of plows, scurry across the virgin plains, past walled hamlets where yellow men scratch garden patches with wooden hoes, as old Bible times.

Developed by the Railway.

As early as 1858 Russia, of course, had found her way to the Amur. By 1880 she had acquired the vast Maritime provinces, a veritable empire stretching from the Ussuri river to the Sea of Japan and comprising an area as big as Mexico. Across this domain, in the 1860's, she was pushing her great Trans-Siberian railway to strike the sea at Vladivostok. But, as the map shows, the original Siberian road, to reach Vladivostok over Russian territory, had to run a round-about course along the Amur valley and via Khabarovsk.

Six hundred miles would be saved if the Russians could build directly from Chita, on the Siberian road, straight southeast across Manchuria to rejoin the Trans-Siberian system near Foganichaya.

what the Union Pacific did for the American West. Like magic, these new railways were to turn a wild, thinly peopled nomad land into a modern Canaan, a granary of the East, drawing new settlers at the rate of anywhere from 300,000 to 1,000,000 in a single year.

Because of its conspicuous importance and its vast influence on migration, industry, and agriculture, it is worth while to review the development of this railway and of its extension, the South Manchurian railway. All over the civilized world, newspaper readers know this famous line now as the Chinese Eastern railway. By the terms of the original agreement, signed between China and the Russo-Chinese bank (later the Russo-Asiatic bank), it was to be a joint enterprise. The czar's engineers built it and the Russians had charge of its shops, maintenance, and technical operations; but Chinese were supposed to share equally with Russians in its general management.

When completed, in June, 1903, it had cost in excess of $200,000,000. Of this cost, China supplied about $50,000,000 and shared, proportionately, in its profits.

Towns Became Busy Cities.

When finished, the main line of the Chinese Eastern ran from its terminus at Manchuria, one the north-west border of Manchuria, to Poganichaya, on the eastern boundary. From Harbin, now a busy, important city and then a mere fishing village on the Sungari river, a branch line was dropped south to Dalny, now Dairen, on the Bay of Korea. Most of this section, or that part from Changchun south to Dairen, is now known as the South Manchurian railway.

Dalny was literally a magic city. Built quickly, by imperial command, it was the talk of the Far East. On this barren, then empty, point of rocks, engineers, architects, and workers of the czar spent millions of rubles to build wharves, streets, business blocks, and houses for a population yet to come. A magnificent vision, that—the vision of a great seaport, terminus of a 6,495-mile railway tying Europe to the Orient.

How observers laughed, at this amazing spectacle—vast trainloads of tools, food, tents, work animals, scrapers, and building material being dumped on a rocky shore of faraway Asia to build a city where there were no people! Yet today Dalny, Dairen, is the second or third most important seaport on all the China coast! In Manchuria something is always happening!

It happened again in 1904, when Japan fought Russia. One saw the holes in the armored sides of escaping Russian battleships—holes big enough to lead cows through, holes made by Togo's guns in Tsushima strait. Port Arthur, the impregnable, fell; ancient Mukden echoed and shook under the heaviest gunfire Asia had ever known.

Kuropatkin lost—and President Roosevelt mediated. In the peace conference at Portsmouth, N. H., Russia, ceded to Japan her lease on the Liaotung peninsula and possession on the South Manchurian railway as far north as Changchun. China confirmed this and later extended Japan's lease for a period of 99 years.

But in Manchuria drama never dies. Tragedy, stark and terrible, stalked across the East when Imperial Russia collapsed. Refugees by the thousands, fleeing the horrors of postwar political chaos in Siberia, came out to beg, borrow, or starve in neutral Manchurian towns.

After Russia's Collapse.

In this chaos the Allies took over the operation of the Chinese Eastern railway. From their base at Vladivostok they needed it to move men and supplies. An American engineer, famous for his work on the Panama canal, was in charge. Later, the new, unshaded now by many thousands of whites, and that each nation in the compact should refrain from propaganda against the other's social and political systems.

Neal's Mother Has Right Idea

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, bilious, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children. That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmlessly the bowels of babies and children are cleansed, regulated, given tone and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Western mother, Mrs. Neal M. Todd, 1701 West 27th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., says: "When my son Neal, was three years old he began having constipation. I decided to give him California Fig Syrup and in a few days he was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all his colds or little upset spells. It always stops his trouble quick, strengthens him, makes him eat."

Model's Clothes Stolen

A was model in a lobby showcase in Washington, D. C., attracted more than usual attention when passersby began to notice she was clad only in stockings. Police were notified by the night watchman and learned that a thief had stripped the model after breaking the catch in the glass door to her showcase. A coat and dress, as well as several other garments, were missing.

BIG RESULTS FROM LITTLE IRON RING

One hundred years ago, on August 29, 1831, the son of an Irish blacksmith, who from youth had been fascinated by the mysteries of magnetism and electricity, took an iron ring, wound around it two coils of wire, attached the end of one coil to an electric battery, that of the other to a galvanometer and watched to see what would happen. On the galvanometer the indicator needle moved.

In that experiment the modern world of the dynamo was born; it evolved from the little iron ring in the hands of Michael Faraday, whose brilliant mind had conceived the theory of induction. In a century an industry worth at least $100,000,000,000 has been built upon the coiled wires and their iron core; a beneficial revolution has been worked in the domain of industry; Niagara and 10,000 other catenae have been linked to the tanks of civilization; light—for the pressure of a button—has been put at the command of man and the dark corners of the earth have been made luminous. The National Electric Light association recently reported to President Hoover that its members would spend $600,000,000 this year in new construction. Wheels revolve in factories, trolley cars move human masses from homes to work and work to homes, smokeless locomotives haul trains across country; in the household are vacuum cleaners, dish-washers, clothes-washers and what not; on the farm cows are milked and other chores are done with far less of human labor, because a century ago Faraday had an idea.

Probably no more impressive measure may be found of the accelerated progress of civilization than in contemplating what has developed in 100 years from Faraday's iron ring.

Tomb 4,500 Years Old

The Egyptian department of antiquities announced that discoveries of the highest scientific importance were made when excavators working at Saqqara on the site of ancient Memphis entered the tomb of Queen Neith, daughter of Pepi I and one of

"FATIGUE?" I just postpone it!"

"No, I don't have 'nerves.' You can't have them, and hold this sort of position. My head used to throb around three o'clock, and certain days, of course, were worse than others."

"Then I learned to rely on Bayer Aspirin."

The sure cure for any headache is rest. But sometimes we must postpone it. That's when Bayer Aspirin saves the day. Two tablets, and the nagging pain is gone until you are home. And once you are comfortable, the pain seldom returns! Keep Bayer Aspirin handy. Don't put it away, or put off taking it. Fighting a headache to finish the day may be heroic, but it is also a little foolish. So is sacrificing a night's sleep because you've an annoying cold, or irritated throat, or grumbling tooth, neuralgia, or neuritis. Those tablets always relieve. They don't depress the heart, and may be taken freely. That is medical opinion. It is a fact established by the last twenty years of medical practice.

The only caution to be observed is when you are buying aspirin. Bayer is genuine. Tablets with the Bayer cross are safe.

The wives of Pepi II, and found about 800 lines of well preserved inscriptions which throw much light on the history, language and religious beliefs of the old empire.

Virtue is its own reward and frequently its own press agent.

Never Happened Before

The Smiths had had their car for quite a while and had never had any trouble. One night fate was against them.

"It's a blowout," said Mr. Smith. "It can't be," insisted Mrs. Smith. "We never have had one."

Firestone PATENTED CONSTRUCTION gives Extra Strength and Safety

THE Firestone Oldfield Type Tire is a tough, rugged tire all the way through. Inside are the special patented construction features of Gum-Dipping and Two Extra Cord Plies Under the Tread that give the body of the tire extra strength and safety. Outside is a thick tread of slow-wearing, non-oxidizing rubber with a deep non-skid for long, trouble-free service and sure traction. Sturdy blocks of rubber on the sidewall guard against rut and curb wear. Compare this great tire with any Special Brand Mail Order Tire selling at the same price. Firestone Service Dealers have sections for you to inspect. Drive to the Firestone Service Dealer near you and see for yourself why Firestones give longer trouble-free service and greater safety.

COMPARE QUALITY • CONSTRUCTION • PRICE

FIRESTONE				FIRESTONE				FIRESTONE
Make of Car	Tire Size	Firestone Oldfield Type	Firestone Special Type	Make of Car	Tire Size	Firestone Oldfield Type	Firestone Special Type	Make of Car	Tire Size	Firestone Oldfield Type	Firestone Special Type
Ford, Chevrolet	4.40-21	4.40-21	4.40-21	Studebaker, Oldsmobile	5.25-18	5.25-18	5.25-18	Ford, Chevrolet	4.75-19	4.75-19	4.75-19
Ford, Chevrolet	4.50-20	4.50-20	4.50-20	Ford, Chevrolet	5.50-18	5.50-18	5.50-18	Ford, Chevrolet	5.00-18	5.00-18	5.00-18
Ford, Chevrolet	4.50-21	4.50-21	4.50-21	Ford, Chevrolet	5.50-19	5.50-19	5.50-19	Ford, Chevrolet	5.00-19	5.00-19	5.00-19
Ford, Chevrolet	4.75-19	4.75-19	4.75-19	Ford, Chevrolet	6.00-18	6.00-18	6.00-18	Ford, Chevrolet	6.00-19	6.00-19	6.00-19
Ford, Chevrolet	4.75-20	4.75-20	4.75-20	Ford, Chevrolet	6.00-20	6.00-20	6.00-20	Ford, Chevrolet	6.00-21	6.00-21	6.00-21
Ford, Chevrolet	5.00-19	5.00-19	5.00-19	Ford, Chevrolet	6.50-20	6.50-20	6.50-20	Ford, Chevrolet	6.50-21	6.50-21	6.50-21
Ford, Chevrolet	5.00-20	5.00-20	5.00-20	Ford, Chevrolet	7.00-20	7.00-20	7.00-20	Ford, Chevrolet	7.00-21	7.00-21	7.00-21
Ford, Chevrolet	5.00-21	5.00-21	5.00-21	Ford, Chevrolet	7.50-20	7.50-20	7.50-20	Ford, Chevrolet	7.50-21	7.50-21	7.50-21
Ford, Chevrolet	5.25-18	5.25-18	5.25-18	Ford, Chevrolet	8.00-20	8.00-20	8.00-20	Ford, Chevrolet	8.00-21	8.00-21	8.00-21

$5.95 POWERFUL • DEPENDABLE

Special Construction features give Firestone Batteries more power and longer life. Made by Firestone in the efficient Firestone Battery Factory. Don't take chances on a dead Battery, and a stalled car. See your Firestone Service Dealer today.

Listen to the Voice of Firestone Every Monday Night Over W. G. C. Nationwide Network

Firestone

Firestone Service Stores and Service Dealers Save You Money and Serve You Better

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription . . . . . $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Harry Randall, of Chicago, is home for a few days.

Ed Leighty is working for Ralph Sechler as salesman.

For Sale: Michigan Apples at 75c per bushel. Garth Shull, 4522p.

Derwood Ridgway is on the sick list having an attack of indigestion.

Mrs. Ralph Sechler and Mrs. H. G. Hush spent Tuesday in Ft. Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Soule have completed husking 18 acres of good corn. A splendid record for folks above sixty years.

The R. H. C. was entertained at Mrs. Inez Hadsell's Tuesday afternoon. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Winifred Hart, November 24th. The hostess served a fine lunch.

For Rent: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 3 miles southeast of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio. 4413.

If you are thinking of a New Car let us show you the new Ford. Just phone or write for full demonstration. The Cities Sales Inc., Hicksville, O. Phone 20. Open day and night. 34tf.

The City National bank of Auburn, by Attorney C. E. McClintock, has secured a judgment of $389.30 on a note in the DeKalb circuit court against Roscoe Corrine. The defendant did not appear. A like judgment of $64.30 was secured in favor of the Auburn State bank.

Russell Myers, living just north of Moore's station, lost 43 silver foxes by fire last Wednesday evening. The foxes had been sorted out for pelting and were placed in a house, separating them from his other animals. About midnight fire was discovered by a passer by. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Put Your Personality Into Your Gifts. Your family, relatives and friends can buy anything you can give them. Except Your Photograph. It's none too early now to arrange for your Christmas portraits. A 7x9 enlargement will be given free with each $7 order. Try our twenty-four hour kodak service. D. Webster Smith Studio, Butler, Indiana.

A birthday dinner was given Sunday at the Derwood Ridgway home in honor of two of their children, Mrs. Janice Hollabaugh and Kenneth. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland, Glen Wineland, wife and son, Walter of Auburn; Auburn; Maurice Hollabaugh, wife and brother, Max, of Spencerville; Glen Freaburn, wife and family, Chas. Freaburn, Mrs. Belle Ridgway, Helen Storer and Frank Davis of Fort Wayne.

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it.

YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM

Let The News have your films developed.

Mrs. George Baker has been on the sick list but is better at this time.

Dr. John W. Morr, of Albion has been appointed health officer of Noble County.

John Hart and son, Woodroe of Fort Wayne called on friends here Sunday afternoon.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience.

Mrs. Lee Jackson and daughter, Mable were visitors from Tuesday until Friday evening in the home of her sister, Mrs. Nan Lysher.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Mrs. Maud Monroe left St. Joe Sunday morning for Chesterton, where she will spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. C. E. Field.

Willard Strong, residing on the DeKalb-Alton County line in Jackson Township was operated on Tuesday night at the Dr. J. A. Sanders hospital in Auburn for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baltz, son, Frank and Wm. Henly of Hicksville spent Sunday at Elkhart, bringing home Miss Ila Monroe who spent a few weeks with her aunt, Mrs. Ross Moore.

The Tell Elson and Wm. Curie barns, recently destroyed by fire, are now being rebuilt. The Curie barn is now enclosed and the Elson barn is taking on shape, the frame being about complete.

Clayton Wyatt and wife of Ft. Wayne were Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wyatt of near Newville. They spent the evening in the Marshall Address home for supper. H. G. Hush and wife were also present.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Mrs. DeLora Curie, Mrs. Loreta Hull, Mrs. Minnie Pepple and Mrs. Susan Sherwood of Auburn spent last Thursday in the George Culbertson home, the guests of Mrs. Jennie Friend, who is keeping house for Mr. Culbertson.

Louis C. Ward, superintendent of the Fort Wayne city schools, died Sunday afternoon of injuries received in an accident at London, Ky. He suffered fractures of both legs when an automobile skidded from the road and his death was attributed to the effect of shock on a weak heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Libbie Astory, all of Fort Wayne, spent Saturday night with the lady's brother, Mr. Sam Kees, and wife. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Thomas went to Auburn to spend the day with relatives. Mrs. Astory remained until Monday then going to Butler to visit this week with her brother, Harry Kees, and wife.

School officials of DeKalb county are invited to attend the 10th annual conference for high school principals at Indiana University November 20 and 21. Several hundred school men from all parts of the state are expected to attend this meeting, the principal speaker for which will be Dr. Harry C. McKown of the University of Pittsburgh, an authority in the field of extra-curricular activities in the high school.

Concord Township had fourteen delegates in the Young People's Conference at Waterloo last week-end. Miss Cleota Morr township superintendent of the young people's division reports there were two from the St. Joe Lutheran Church, two from Concord and ten from the St. Joe M. P. Sunday School. The conference was the largest in years, with a registration of a few less than 200. Miss Truly Fosbrink of Waldron, Ind.; Joe Wagoner of Hartford City and H. G. Rowe of Indianapolis were the leaders for the three days. Vast crowds attended the Sunday services. The convention for 1932 goes to Auburn. Miss Ruth Hawk was again chosen to head the group.

SAVE YOUR EYES—WEAR COIL GLASSES

DR. COIL

Eye-sight Specialists
White Gold Filled Frames, Special $3.00
222 CALHOUN
East Side of Calhoun—North of Wayne
New Eye Exam—One Word and Will

A modern bath room is being installed in the Wm. Randall home.

Mrs. Anna Koch is home from Waldo Rosenberry's, where she has been working.

Mrs. Belle Woodcock entertained the Ladies Aid of the Christian Church last Thursday.

The S. & L. gravel company unloaded their dipper here Monday and have moved north of town where they will dip gravel.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cox and son, Dean, were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Mutchler at Brighton, Ind.

Ora Baker & Son are working near Gary on a guard rail job on a new state road. Another contract was secured at Winamac, Indiana.

Estel Coburn and family of Coburn's Corners moved last week into the Blue residence in St. Joe recently vacated by the Riden family.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office. 3tf.

Leave your order at News Office for a year's subscription to Better Homes and Garden magazine. Just the thing for every home. One year, 60c; two years, $1.00; three years, $1.50.

John Engle will have a sale of his personal property on November 24, consisting of horses, cattle, machinery, household goods and grain. Bills are being printed at News Office this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Horn and baby of Lake Charles, La., who are spending a week with his father, George Horn, and other relatives near Spencerville, called on Mrs. Mary Betz Monday afternoon.

Mr. Chas. Hatch, wife and daughter, of Fort Wayne and granddaughter, Jeanne Hatch of Spencerville, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Mary Betz and Mrs. Ada Berry and grandson, Jimmy Hatch.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. P. Church will enjoy a potluck dinner and all day meeting at the home of Mrs. George Kinsey on Thursday. The members are urged to come and others of the church not in the Aid Society are invited to attend.

The Likes home near Fairview is still under quarantine for scarlet fever. Little Mary Likes, 6, had just recovered so that the quarantine was to have been lifted Saturday, and Alvin took sick that same day with the same disease. His condition is not serious. Little Mary and her baby sister are now having a siege of whooping cough.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Warstler and son, Ronald Gene, were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bishop. Afternoon guests were, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Armstrong of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Johnson and sons, Howard and Dale, Orange Herick, Willard G. Maxwell and Miss Eubanks of Covington, Ky.

Say a Merry Christmas to your wife by subscribing for The News or some of your favorite magazines.

Mr. and Mrs. John Timmerman were Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mrs. Nan Lysher and son, Edgar.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Treese spent Sunday afternoon with their niece, Mrs. Merle Guilford, and husband.

James Young, wife and son, of Chicago, James L. Young and wife of Brimfield, Ind., were Monday guests of L. D. Young and wife.

Remember that if you expect to trap this fall, you will have to have the written consent of the land owner, or you will be subject to fine.

Mrs. Alex Culbertson and son, Ross, and Mrs. Nettie Culbertson were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker and family, north of town.

L. D. Young, Jr., who has been here for the past week, was called to Willard, O., Monday, to take his place on the extra list of brakemen on the B. & O.

The Ladies Literary Club was very pleasantly entertained last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Homer Stomm, a former member, at Ashley. Miss Reba Woods, also a former member was among the guests. Next week the club will motor to Garrett and meet with Mrs. Mae Miser and daughter, Miss Martha.

People's Column

Communications for this column must be plainly written, bear the writer's true name. If desired will be omitted in the publication. In no wise will the editor be responsible for the writer's utterances. This column is yours and we welcome your contributions either in a commendable or critical style.

THE MUDDLED WORLD

The world chaos that gains impetus with every rising sun has reached a critical point in these United States. A country and a government that have been held up as examples of progress and glorious democracy are floundering in a sea of unrest, rebellion, crime and misery. In this hour, when problems of supreme importance confront us, it is interesting to observe the censorious spirit that dominates the mind of man. Every fellow is disposed to blame some one else for all the ills to which he has become heir. The government, the trusts, the war, prohibition, automobiles, the newspapers and chain stores, the republicans, the democrats and the tariff—these and other forces are called into account for afflicting us with low price cotton and wheat, shrinkage in property values, loss of credit, threatened bankruptcy and all the other evils that beset us. Seldom, if ever, is there heard in the chorus of denunciations, one word of self directed blame, but whether we are willing to admit or not, our troubles are, in part, at least, self made.

A people, for the most part accustomed to living moderately and even frugally prior to the war, we launched into an orgy of spending such as has never been known in the history of man. Although endowed with a modicum of reasoning power, we have deliberately thrown discretion to the winds changing our standards of living from quiet simplicity, to frenzied luxury. Equipped with sufficient mathematical knowledge to know that four from two leaves minus two, men and women with incomes of $200.00 a month have spent at the rate of $400.00. This has applied quite generally whether the income has been $25.00 or $2500.00.

Farming and other businesses are more or less demoralized, but it is not due altogether to 5 cent cotton and the tariff. It is due to our waste, abuse of credit, poor business management, and laziness.

Before we see the end of this many of us who are now riding may be walking, but that probably would be as it should be. The men and women who honestly work their ways out of the present economic labyrinth will be those possessed of the proper intestinal stamina. For some time now, we have needed something to devote the sheep from the goats. Crooks and deadbeats have been sailing along in the vanguard of society and the church, enjoying all the privileges and often more than those who make up the ranks of honest citizenry. If the present crisis serves as a leveler in the business and social realms, much will be gained. The seeming success of the dishonest during the reign of extravagance through which we have just passed, has had a baneful effect, serving to give sanction to the theory that a way to win is through shady paths.

If it serves to make us a little more concerned about the quality of men who are entrusted with our governmental affairs, it will be well worth living through. As it is and has been, our most responsible trusts are often given to men who could not make a living for themselves in any other than political fields.

There is really a great deal about our present status to give us urge to go forward and cheer in the hope that in going forward much that has been unwholesome will be left in the discard.

BOOKS

Read a book. Long November evenings are opportune for the pleasant task. Bury sorrow and disappointment in overflowing cups of satisfaction. Curb meaningless mental ramblings by intelligent calls to reason. A stinking cigar stub, a loaded ash tray and a crumpled newspaper scarcely compensate for a good light, a friendly fireside and a long evening.

Read a book—a good book. What the world did today—what it played, whom it killed and how many, its social race and riot, its high and petty crimes—if they do not incite us to alleviate distress and suffering with all that we are and have, are comparatively unimportant. What after blazing headlines can we do, or think, or dream? The veriest nightmare then would fail to thrill. Good books, refined stories, tried fiction, stately poems an inheritance akin to religion—as valuable as science, discovery and invention. Why not brighten the otherwise dull evenings with these?

Read a book. The great of the past are not dead to those who read. They are their friends and companions. They come to us across the silent years bearing wisdom and knowledge sifted from the sands of their times, refined and ready to use. Bring out the choice books and read. It is November.

The Failing Prophet.

BASSETT'S
WELDING SHOP
NOW OPEN
—IN THE—
ST. JOE GARAGE

WE WELD ALL METALS

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-29

Used Cars

1931 Model A Ford Panel Delivery like new, used less than 6 months.
1928 Model A Ford, Tudor Sedan
1930 Model A Ford, Tudor Sedan
1928 Chevrolet Coupe
1927 Hudson Coach.
1928 Studebaker DeLux Sedan

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio

Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

THREE BIG DAYS
FOR SAVING!

McBRIDE'S Auburn Days

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
NOVEMBER 12-13-14

Men's Dress Shirts
59c

2 FOR $1.15

MANSFIELD SHIRTS
$1.39 - $1.09

All Fast Color, Pre Shrunk
Collar-White, Blue, Green, Tan

KOTEX
29 cents

PER BOX

Value Muslin, . . . . . 5c yd

36 inch Percals, . . . . . 8c yd

81x90 Sheets, . . . . . 49c

Cents 100 yard Spools . . . 2 for 5c

36 inch Outing, . . . . . 10c yd

Boys KNICKERS
79 cents

Fine for School or Play
Elastic Waist and Knee Band

OTHER KNICKERS

$1.39 to $2.95

LADIES HOUSE DRESSES

Guaranteed Fast Color

25c, 79c

Long and Short Sleeve
Light and Dark Pattern
SIZES 16 to 54

All 9x12 Axminster Rugs

10 per cent off

AGMINSTER RUGS 27x50

$1.98

Were $2.50

Mens Overalls

802, . . . . . 98c

220, . . . . . 69c

Rockford Work Sox . . . . . 9c

Work Shirts . . . . . 79c; 59c; 49c

Winter Underwear

All Cotton . . . . . 89c-$1.00

10% Wool . . . . . $1.50

50% Wool . . . . . $2.43

All Wool . . . . . $3.48

Knit Suits-Dresses

$1.95; $4.95; $5.95; $9.95

SILK DRESSES

$2.95 to $16.50

Allen A Hose

Service Weight and Chiffon

$1.00 to $1.95

Pure Silk Hose-Full Fashion

79c

All Wool Hose, . . . . . 50c

Rayon and Wool Hose . . . 25c

SPENCERVILLE

Wanted: Nice clean rags, thoroughly washed and boiled, no linty rags wanted. Will pay 2 1/2 cents per pound. Deliver to Tyn-dall Oil Co., Spencerville. 4412.

Improvements are being made in the children's room at the Lutheran Sunday School. New equipment is being added and the room is being redecorated to meet the needs of children in creating a more wholesome spirit in the class room.

Mrs. John Hobaugh is quite ill and is being cared for by her niece, Mrs. Lizzie Frederick.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson, Ralph Culbertson, wife and son, spent Sunday at New Haven.

William Lucas left last week to spend the winter with his niece, Miss Pearl Shurts at Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Harvey Beam and Mrs. Nancy Chaney were Sunday guests of the Milton Chaney home.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Grist, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Horn and baby of Lake Charles, Louisiana, were Monday afternoon visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perkins and sons, of near Harlan, were Sunday dinner guests at the Joel Betz home.

Mrs. Cora Steward very pleasantly entertained the Home Missionary Society. The guests were Mrs. Nancy Chaney, Mrs. Florence Boger and daughter, Margaret.

The following guests were entertained on Sunday at the Gale Bowser home, Mr. and Mrs. Aubur Butler, Lloyd Wade, wife and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler.

Bert Bowser of Fort Wayne was a recent guest at R. U. Bowser's.

Mrs. Gaylon Tustison was hostess to the members of the Home Bureau Club on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Tressie Kelley will entertain the C. C. Club at the home of her sister, Mrs. Agnes Baker Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Laux and son, Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laux and daughter, Barbara Jean, spent Sunday in the Lester Bringer home near Montpelier, Ohio.

The Young Ladies Social Club met on Friday evening with Mrs. Zelpha Steward. Those winning prizes were, Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner, Miss Gaylon Markle, Miss Bina Zimmerman and Mrs. LaVern Koch.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ellinger of Fort Wayne and James Reed and wife were Sunday afternoon guests at the R. U. Bowser home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Culbertson and son, Junior, were Monday afternoon guests in the same home. Isadore Badiac, wife and son of near Fort Wayne, Fred Osborne and children of Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gloyd of near Hicksville, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Emily Gloyd and family.

Miss Mildred Osborne will spend a few weeks with her grandmother. The Grabbill Community Fire Department was called to the farm home of Dr. B. O. Shook, six miles northeast of Grabbill, Monday forenoon to outen a straw stack fire. Nearby buildings were saved. The Harry Baughman family resides at that place.

LEO

Miss Gertrude Wertman visited school Friday.

The Civics class of the High School attended the Adams trial Tuesday, under the supervision of Miss Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schowe made several business trips to Fort Wayne and Auburn during the last few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Scherer had a surprise party on their daughter, Mrs. Reniger at their home Saturday evening.

The Sociology class of the Leo High School, under the supervision of Mrs. Mershon spent Friday afternoon visiting the State Schools and the Allen County Jail.

Mr. Henry Yaggy, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Yaggy and sons, Loren and Leo from Fort Wayne, and Miss Eunice Flagg were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Steiner and family. Mr. and Mrs. J. Rich and daughter of Woodburn were afternoon callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moudy and family visited Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Moudy Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schowe spent Sunday with Miss Sophia and Mr. Lester Schowe.

Quite a number of the small pupils have been absent from school with chicken pox.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stuckey and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Warner and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Disler and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Disler of Ft. Wayne.

Mr. Clarence Snyder spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Snyder and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Norris and family of Roanoke spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sherer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaylord called on Miss Hattie Schlatter and Mr. Gustie Schlatter and son Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soule and family spent an evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhouser and family.

Mr. Logan Levy and his friend, Mr. Walter Meyers from Chicago, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy and family.

Misses Erma Schowe and Cleo Warner, and Messrs. Winfred and Ernest Page took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Warner.

Miss Maxine Kryder entertained Miss Eva Egly and Messrs. Kenneth Conrad and Parnell Witmer for Sunday evening dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bender and family and Mr. Melvin Sevits were Sunday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sevits.

The Leo basket ball team lost to LaFayette Center Friday, Oct. 30. The score being 16 to 14 in an over time game. The second team lost 22 to 7.

Miss Bernice Myers and Mr. Earl Schowe took Sunday dinner with the former's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. O. Boren of Fort Wayne last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hursh entertained the Sunshine class party Saturday night. Those present were Misses Dorothy Moudy, Edna and Ilo Moudy, Hazel Moudy, Iolene Gloyd, Messrs. Dean Shaf-fur, Ralph Moudy, Norbert Clingerburger, Carl Hursh, Mer-ritt and Murray Sauder.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schowe and family entertained the following guests at their home Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gross and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schowe and four sons, Mr. and Mrs. H. Beckman, Mr. and Mrs. H. Henchen and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. W. Meiners, Mr. J. Meiners, Miss Sophia and Mr. Lester Schowe and Mr. Winfred Page.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

The Junior class had a meeting at 12:10 Thursday, November 5, to see when and where they would have their first party of the year.

The boys of the Manual Training class are constructing a costume for the girls of the Domestic Science Department. They also made a hose hanger for trustee F. E. Rhodes.

Stanley Bishop was absent on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

The Sixth Grade has had perfect attendance this week.

Lula Fett of the Fifth Grade has been absent this week because of illness.

The High School was fortunate this week by having Chapel Service on both Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. On Tuesday morning Rev. Studabaker gave a talk on "The Important Things of Life." On Wednesday morning, Rev. J. O. Rose of Angola gave an address on "The Things Needed in Life."

Thursday noon of this week the Home Economics girls served soup to the students of the school. The lower grades enjoyed it as much, if not more, than the high school. The proceeds are to be used to buy equipment for the Home Economics Room.

Bernice Furnish was unable to attend school this week. While playing in the basement last week, she fell and hurt her head and back quite severely.

The State Supervisor for Vocational Home Economics was an all day visitor Thursday.

The Freshmen have caught the party fever and now they are planning a party for the near future.

Ruth Franklin of the First Grade has been absent from school with a cold.

On Thursday Grades One and Two sent flowers to Bernice Furnish, who has been absent from school for several days.

Frances Russell gave a Halloween party for several of her little friends.

Sophomores

Charles Agler was absent from school last Monday afternoon.

There were thirty-eight people present at the Sophomore class party including Mr. and Mrs. Appleman and Mr. Russell. They had a very nice time, several games were played and other entertainment was furnished by James Butler, who played several selections on his harmonica. After the entertainment was over refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, pickles, fruit salad and cake.

Athletics

The Basket Ball team had open house Monday night. A large group of the students attended. Helen Mason and Floyd Pfauwer were elected yell leaders Thursday morning. After the election the students practiced a few yells.

The student manager, James Butler, gave a speech on athletics.

LEO

Mrs. Dora Sauder and children spent Saturday in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sauders and family spent Sunday afternoon in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Leontene Disler and Miss Loma Warner spent Saturday forenoon in Fort Wayne.

Miss Rose Clem and Miss Evelyn Wilks spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Leora George.

Mr. Charles Folsom was the Sunday evening guest of Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Warner at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Norr and family spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stavenick and family.

Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhouser and family spent an evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhouser and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Neuhouser and daughter spent Sunday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neuhouser and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Scherer and family of Nine Mile were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scherer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Akey and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kryder and son, Dickie Martin called on Mr. and Mrs. Nobert Akey and family.

Mrs. Gladys Deventer and Mrs. Lucille Harshburger were afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deventer and family Sunday.

The trustees of Allen County held a meeting at the County Infirmary spending the day with the superintendent of the institution, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Disler of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Tonkel had supper Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhouser and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Holloper and children, Helen and Richard, Mr. and Mrs. George Dorsey and Miss Fern Nofsinger were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stuckey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Neuhouser and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Miller spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhouser. Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhouser were afternoon callers.

The Sophomore girls are spending their noons hiking from which they feel they will get a great deal of benefit along the line of health. They have called it the G. H. C., Girls Hiking Club. The girls that have joined it are as follows: Regina Warner, Garnet Deventer, Audrey Curran, Loraine Bender, Lorene Stucky and Kathryn Norr. The supervisors are Mrs. N. Mershon and Miss H. Myers. Katherine Norr is the captain.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leichy and family entertained at dinner Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schantz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson H. Short and family of Archbold, O., Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Schlatter and Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Bauman and family. Afternoon callers were Mr. and Mrs. Amos Lederman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Stuckey, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Beck and family, Mrs. Amos Leichy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Leichy, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Yoder and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Beck and family, Mrs. Mary Neuhouser and Miss Bernette Beck and Mr. Clyde Miller.

BUY
THE NEW
6-in-1
FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

Safety Service
Courtesy
*This Bank Represents the Future
To Many*

WHEN people pass our doors and say,
'That's my bank,' they mean they're building their own financial future.

Our future is simply the joint future of all we serve

Can We Make
Yours Brighter?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY
BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME"
GOOD IDEA

• WE SELL •
ENVELOPES
LETTERHEADS
STATEMENTS
INVOICES
CALLING CARDS
TAGS
BLOTTERS

• WE CAN FURNISH •
CARBON SALESBOOKS
PRINTED FORMS
IN FOLDED PACKS
FOR ANY PURPOSE
AUTOGRAPHIC
SALES REGISTERS
PRINTED GUMMED TAPE
AND MACHINES

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS
— CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR
HOME TOWN PAPER —
GET THE IDEA — BUY AT HOME

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

PUBLIC SALE!

The undersigned will sell at Public Auction at his residence, located 5 miles south-east of Auburn; 3 miles west of Concord and 1 mile north of Rehoboth Church, on

Wednesday, November 18, 1931

Commencing at 10:00 o'clock a. m., the following to wit:

4 HEAD OF HORSES: Black Mare 11 years old, weight 1,500 pounds; Roan Horse 13 years old, weight 1,500 pounds; Match Team of Gray Mares, 6 years old, in foal, weight 3,100 pounds.

8 HEAD OF CATTLE: Guernsey cow 7 years old to freshen December 19, giving milk; White cow 7 years old, was fresh on September 15; Red cow 6 years old, to freshen by day of sale; Spotted cow 4 years old, to freshen by day of sale; Guernsey cow 5 years old, giving milk; Guernsey-Jersey heifer to freshen on December 26; 2 heifers, pasture bred.

20 HEAD OF SHEEP: 20 head of good Breeding Ewes from 2 to 4 years old, and bred to lamb March 15.

27 HEAD OF HOGS: 7 head weighing 175 pounds each; 13 head weighing from 100 to 110 pounds each; 7 fall pigs.

POLTRY: 8 full blooded, large Peking Ducks and 2 Drakes. 3 Geese Hens and 1 Gander.

TERMS OF SALE: Sums of $5.00 and under, cash. Sums over $5.00, a credit of 12 months will be given, by purchaser giving his note with approved security, the first 6 months without interest, the last 6 months bearing 8% until paid. No goods to be removed until settled for. 4% discount on note amounts.

Dinner will be served by the Ladies of the Concord Church.

V. L. STEMEN

Rhodenbush & McNamara, Auct.

Phillip Carper, Clerk

For Sale!

1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at NEWS OFFICE if at all interested.

Our prices
on printing are not always the lowest... but our work is always
the best

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

THREE DAUGHTERS OF MARTIN DUKE

By FANNIE HURST

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

EVERYONE agreed that although Martin Duke might have been unlucky in love, his wife was said to have died of alcoholism one year after the birth of Jeanne, fate had apparently attempted to atone by way of the unanimous love-ness of body, mind, and spirit of his three daughters.

They were all blond, and of a certain quality of reckless beauty that had distinguished their father in his youth, but each and every one of them endowed with the stabilities as love of home, and desire for family, which at first blush seemed paradoxical to their brilliant kind of youth.

Marian, the middle one of the trio, married first, when she was nineteen, Olga, the youngest, went next. And finally Jeanne, who had exerted her prerogative of eldest daughter by assuming a sort of maternalism over her father.

Jeanne's marriage to an important surgeon in a neighboring town; Marlon's to a promising engineer who was engaged on a piece of important bridge building near the capital city of an adjoining state; and Olga's to a New York stock broker, left Martin Duke to the somewhat vast solitude of the old stone house to which 25 years ago he had brought a famous beauty for a wife, and in which the three equally beautiful offsprings had been born.

Of course the obvious happened. It was unthinkable that Martin should continue to live imprisoned with his memories, in the huge and silent house. He was a slender, active man, gray, but by no means an elderly father to his daughters, and while his problems were not exactly those of an old man retired from his business and bereft of interests, nevertheless rheumatism was upon him and you had to reckon in terms of a man well past his prime.

The difficulty here was that Martin protested almost too loudly of his youth. Crippled with a cruel form of inflammation which knotted his knuckles, he nevertheless persisted in such activities as golf in damp weather, shoveling snow off the stoop, and walking, regardless of rain, down to the chess club in the center of the town where he was known as a crack player.

Three girls did not marry out of such a home and away from such a father, without carrying with them a deep sense of the responsibility of adjusting the life they had left behind. At least the three Duke girls did not. It was all very well and good for father to protest loudly that he was still "on the carpet" as he put it. Of course he was. That was not the point. The point was, that it looked bad before the community and doubtless was bad, for a man well along in his sixties, to be living alone in a vast old house, while each and every one of his daughters was well able to provide him an ample and luxurious home in her own.

It was the argument of public opinion that won. Probably his girls were right. Did not look well for him to remain on his own. Heaven knows it was not true that his daughters were negligent of him. On the contrary they were all too solicitous, but just the same, wags would wag.

"There is a new-fangled old-age, just the same as there is a new-fangled youth," he kept protesting however. "Men and women don't grow old as they used to. You can force me to break up the home, but don't think you are going to succeed in thrusting me into carpet slippers."

"Who wants to cast you into carpet slippers? Of course not, father. You can accompany Ed on his hospital rounds; or Leonard down to Wall street; or go with Stacey to watch the bridge construction."

"Haven't the slightest intention of doing any of those things. Don't need to tag onto anybody's interests. Have plenty of my own."

"Isn't he priceless!" exclaimed the girls among themselves, unconsciously drenching him in the enormous patronage of youth. "Why it is all Ed, or Leonard or Stacey can do, to keep up with him. Just as perky about his appearance as a twenty year old. Too cunning for words."

"Don't speak of me as if I were a small boy or a small idiot," he contended once, against these references to himself. "You refer to me in the disjunctive. You may think you are up-to-date, but you are much more old-fashioned in your attitude to old-age than I am."

"Isn't he priceless," squealed the three daughters of Martin Duke.

Just the same he made the rounds, pampered in the home of his eldest, pampered in the home of his second, pampered in the home of his youngest. Sun rooms were made over into his bedrooms. "Sun is a good thing, but if I am expected to sit in it all day, you can throw the room back into a den for Ed."

"Nothing of the sort father, just thought you would like the scenery exposure for mornings when you don't feel like going out."

"Don't feel like going out—my—sunt!

Why shouldn't I feel like going out?" "Your rheumatism—father! Ed's a doctor. He knows."

"Ed may be a doctor, but he don't know as well as I know how my rheumatism feels. I'm going down town."

In Peoria, where Stacey was busy with his bridge construction, Marian reconstructed the entire top floor of her beautiful home into a suite which she supplied with chess board, card tables, reading stands, chair lamps, fine deep lounges and a morris chair especially constructed for her father's dimensions.

"Poppycock! I don't need all this upholstered luxury. Think I'm an old bird, don't you? I'll show you. No, I don't want to play solitaire. No, I don't need another reading lamp. I'm going down town to see what is doing."

It was the same in New York. The sweet solitude of lovely Olga. Her eagerness to convert her entire apartment into a lounging den for her father. Concerns of one sort or another over his health. Admonitions against the weather.

One day, with a shocking suddenness from which his daughters were not soon to recover, Martin took a train for the city where they had been born; married the twenty-year-old daughter of a lifetime neighbor and set up housekeeping in the same vast stone house where he had reared his girls.

Alicia is in love with her husband, but extravagant to a degree that her stepdaughters regard as fanatical. It keeps Martin on the jump. He is hard put, as the girls put it, but ridiculously happy, trying to earn enough to gratify her love of splendor, and then nights, dancing and doing frivolities to keep in pace with youth.

"Death Drums" Roll In Honor of Indian Brave

The "Death Drums of the Iroquois" rumbled over Lake Cayuga and Seneca, in the heart of the region that once was the stronghold of the fiercest of eastern tribesmen.

Out of the dim past, out of the wigwams, out of the forests primeval—before the coming of the white man—came the legend giving the name by which the unexplained phenomenon is known to this day. The sounds, not imagined but real, come in series, separated by irregular intervals, only on calm days, at a time of air stagnation or in the dead of night, about this time of the year.

The Seneca explained the weird reverberations in this legend:

Once there was a Seneca brave, straight as an arrow, the great Agayentah, fierce in battle, kind in peace, calm at the council fire. One day near Seneca Castle (now Geneva), whither the trail of a bear had led him, Agayentah rested and took shelter from an approaching storm. Lightning, the arrow of the Great Hunter, struck down tree and man alike, hurling both into the water of Seneca lake. They floated upon the surface and not until the sun went down did they disappear.

And since that time the "death drums" sound, as explained in the legend, so that the Seneca would never forget Agayentah, great in battle.

But geologists, no believers in the supernatural, offer several theories in explanation of the reverberations. One is that the booming results from fault movements—rock beds at or under the surface slipping past or over each other. Others suggest that the sound results from the rise of bubbles of gas originating in the depths of the lake and bursting on reaching the top.

Old Seneca is a lake of eccentricities. It is credited with being the deepest body of water wholly within the United States, with the single exception of Lake Michigan. Only four times in the memory of white men has it frozen over. At 210 feet down it maintains a uniform temperature of 7 degrees above freezing; frogs and evaporation are almost unknown.

It has been called the most treacherous lake in America. With a south wind the lake will change from a misleading calm to an angry roughness in ten minutes. Waves sometimes roll higher than a house. Sometimes, despite its expanse—thirty-six miles in length and from two to five miles in width—it rises or drops as much as two feet within a few hours.

Expert Liars

I have often been asked whether the town woman is a more expert liar than the provincial woman or the political man. I always reply that good liars are as the town and provincial girls, the politician is even more of an adept. It is said that the more you love a person the more you lie. In that case our M. P.'s must simply adore their electors. There is, however, nothing surprising in this, as "at parties c'est mourir un peu, voter c'est mentir beaucoup." (If partying is dying a little, voting is lying a lot.)—Maurice Delcroix in the Saturday Review, London.

No Place Quite Safe

Tangier Island in Chesapeake bay is an idyllic spot. Automobiles and even horses are not permitted on the island and people sleep with their doors unlocked. Yet burglars invaded the island and carried off a safe containing $2,000 from the store of William T. Crockett. The safe, holding funds of the only church on the island, was removed in a boat to the mainland, 12 miles away.

How He Enjoys Himself

"Lucky dog."
"Why do you call him that?"
"He's married now and has a pretty wife and grows over his food."

Look! My New Fur Jacket for Fall

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PERFECTLY thrilling are the new little fur jackets which everybody's wearing or going to wear this fall. So quaint, some of them, so prettily feminine, so everything that is fascinating and out-of-the-ordinary are they, their presence is creating nothing less than a sensation in the world of fashion today. Just go to the shops and smart fur departments and see with your own eyes what charming fur novelties they are showing for autumn-winter 1931 and '32.

There are the cunningest little contraptions one may ever hope to see devised to go with these jackets, for instance, tippets (ask grandma, they were "in style" when she was a tiny girl), and muffs, amusingly small, and, if you will believe it, shoulder capes; yes, fur shoulder capes which are detachable and may be worn separately. It is just such quaint accessories as these that seem to tell us that to be new-fashioned is to be old-fashioned, at least so far as furs are concerned.

From the wee velvet hat with its ostrich feather trimming to the old-fashioned jacket of black gulyak fur, ermine-edged and accompanied with a diminutive muff, the adorable outfit to the right in the picture declares mid-victorian influence, which it should for the last word in regard to the new furs is they are going increasingly "victorian," with every tick of the clock. Which being interpreted means that the fur trimmings and fantasies which are now in fashion are delightfully decorative and novel, ornamental, so to speak, as well as useful.

There are many winsome fur fashions in store for young girls. Some of the most attractive are decidedly "sporty" looking. One of the most popular furs of the season for youthful sports coats and accessories is gray-kidskin. It is this sleek swaggar fur which spells outstanding chic for the jacket ensemble illustrated to the left. There is, as you see, a scarf, beret and muff, all in the same fur. The outfit is intriguingly designed with "catchy" details. The muff is wonderfully clever as you will note and the belt is too fetching for words, being made of bright green leather which is braided together most of the way round the waistline.

If you are wanting to give your new wool frock an extra dash of style, top it with one of the jaunty little eton jackets made of an effective flat fur, if not caracul then seal or mink or spotted leopard skin, the latter being all the rage for the coat entire, or used as trimming, and especially nifty for the new ermine and muff sets which are so highly in vogue. The latest wrinkle is to carry a flat pocket book made of the same fur as the jacket, or, if preferred, a wee muff. Newest etons fasten at the neck with a scarf tie of self-fur. Others have voluminous collars, while still others adopt piquant little military neckbands.

It is indeed a season of fancy elaboration furs, a fact which is emphasized particularly in the new neckpieces which are of endless variety. There is, for example, the lei bob, the ends of which are joined in a circle, the idea being to throw it about the neck and shoulders as the Hawaiians wear their flower garlands. These are especially smart in rose-belle fur. Then there is the scarf fashioned of as many as five or six skins, perhaps ermine or maybe mink or sable. These can be arranged in all sorts of effective poses.

Perhaps the biggest sensation in the realm of furs is the two-in-one coat which has its skirt portion attached to the upper portion with snap fasteners and in less time than it takes to tell it can be converted into a short jacket or long coat.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

FASHION FEATURES OF 1931-32 COATS

A coat of fur or a coat of fabric may well be asked these questions. If it can answer most of them in the affirmative, it passes fashion's test for this winter:

Is it long enough to cover the dress? Is it inclined to breadth in the shoulders?

Does it definitely fasten at the natural waistline, and at one side? Are the hips slimly modeled?

Does it have only a moderate flare, but sufficient lap-over so it doesn't fly open?

Does it have fullness and interest somewhere in the shoulders? Does it have an upstanding, flattering collar?

Does it have a wider armhole? Does it treat the fur as if it were fabric?

Does it use long-haired fur for its most flattering effect?

Fur Coats Are Cheaper and More Attractive

This year very few wardrobes will be lacking in a fur coat. For they're not only more reasonably priced than they have been for years and years but they're also made in much more attractive styles. Fur coats follow the same silhouette that's smart in cloth coats fashions. Long straight lines with waistlines fitted in and interest concentrated above the waist. Concentrated mostly in making one look broader at the top. And this is brought about through various shapes in collars and through the sleeves as well.

Though one will occasionally see collars of long-haired contrasting furs, much more often they are made of the same fur as the coat. The shawl type still remains a favorite. Up in the back and framing the face, nothing could be more flattering.

Jersey and Tweed Are Favorites for Sports

Firm jersey and lightweight tweed are the favorite fabrics for sports dresses. Many of them are designed with short bolero jackets which button either in front or back and add both chic and warmth to the dress. Others cling to the belted hip tunic model.

DAIRY THE DAIRY

SEE THAT MILKING MACHINE IS CLEAN

Simple Method by Which It Can Be Done.

Most of the certified milk produced on this continent is milked with a machine. This one statement should prove conclusively that the machine itself is not at fault when it is known that most of the very worst milk is also machine drawn. If we are to use a milking machine it has to be kept clean. At one time this was regarded as a difficult proposition. To carry out the cleaning instructions that came with most milking machines would require an hour's work after the milking was completed. This is more time than most farmers are prepared to give to cleaning up and the short cuts that have been adopted have resulted in making the machine unpopular with many factory operators and distributors. Prof. E. H. Parfitt, Purdue university, has now come to the aid of the dairymen with a simple cleaning process that takes no more time than the milking of one cow. Parfitt does not take the test cups apart. He flushes them as soon as milking is over, by drawing cold water through and then hot water at a temperature of 105 degrees. The test cups and tubes are then hung on a rack in such a way that they can be filled with disinfectant and kept filled till the next milking. The disinfecting solution is made by dissolving a 13-ounce can of lye in a gallon of water. This is the stock solution. Six ounces of the stock solution is added to a gallon of water and this is the solution for the rubber parts of the machine. Several manufacturers of milking machines are now recommending this method.

Finds Economical Source of Dairy Feed in Silo

"A well-constructed silo provides the most economical source of dairy feed available for the man with a herd of ten or more cows," says John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at North Carolina state college. "One acre of good corn preserved in the form of silage has a milk-producing value equivalent to about one and one-half acres when preserved in the form of shocked corn. There is a waste of about 50 per cent in shocked corn when fed as stored. However, when corn is converted into silage, waste at feeding time is practically eliminated and the entire corn plant is consumed with relish by the cows."

Silage is also a valuable supplement to dry feed in winter and helps to keep up the milk flow at a comparatively low cost. It is also economical for feeding dry cows and heifers above six months of age, says Arey. He does not recommend a silo for a herd of less than ten cows. Succulent feed for smaller herds may be provided by pasture and soiling crops in summer, with the aid of root crops in winter.

He does not recommend a silo for a herd of less than ten cows. Succulent feed for smaller herds may be provided by pasture and soiling crops in summer, with the aid of root crops in winter.

Pays to Test Cows

The tester in the Otsego-Montmorency Dairy Herd Improvement association, on looking through the three herd books of Mr. Logan, found that for the first year of testing the average production of butterfat was 257.2 pounds, the second year it was 333.4 pounds and the third year it was 347.2 pounds. With the price of butterfat practically the same for the three years, the average value of product above feed cost the first year was $48.70, the second year it was $52.24, and the third year it was $103.04—a net profit of $56.28 more per cow the third year than the first.

Mr. Logan, who feeds a balanced ration according to production, said that he wanted to be in the association as long as he kept dairy cows, as that was the only way to tell which cows were paying.—Michigan Farmer.

Separating Surplus Milk

Reports from all over the country indicate that many farmers who have heretofore been selling whole milk are now separating all or at least part of their surplus and shipping only their base milk. An Illinois producer found that for the first month in which he followed this practice, he received $18.05 more than he did the previous month besides having several thousand pounds of skim milk to feed his pigs and chickens. He was actually paid $5.34 more for 1,373 pounds less milk than he had been given for the previous month when he had shipped whole milk entirely. In addition he received $5.71 for the cream.

DAIRY HINTS

Check up on the freshening dates for cows. They should have at least six weeks' dry period with an abundance of good feed. Cheaper milk production will be the reward.

Production of all Guernsey cows on official test during the last year set a new breed average of 9,975.6 pounds of milk and 484.8 pounds of fat. Cows on herd improvement test averaged 848.4 pounds of fat.

COMFORT for COLICKY BABIES

... THROUGH CASTORIA'S GENTLE REGULATION

The best way to prevent colic, doctors say, is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste. But remember this: a tiny baby's tender little organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged. This is just the time Castoria can help most. Castoria, you know, is made specially for babies and children. It is a pure vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. For years it has helped mothers through trying times with colicky babies and children suffering with digestive upsets, colds and fever. Keep genuine Castoria on hand, with the name:

Castor Oil
CASTORIA
CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

Placing the Blame

President Patterson of the National Cash Register company criticized Russia on his return from Europe.

"Stalin," he said, "blames foreign capitalism for the want and misery Russia is undergoing now. Stalin is like Mrs. Johnson."

"Who broke your mantel mirror, Mrs. Johnson?" said a neighbor. "My hubby, dear," said Mrs. Johnson. "He ducked."

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little ones. All druggists.

MUSTEROLE
BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PLASTER
MADE IN U.S.A.

Adventurers Extolled

The expression, "England was made by adventurers, not by its government" is attributed to Gen. Charles Gordon, better known as Chinese Gordon, who was killed in the defense of Khartum.

Kills Pain and Heals

It kills pain while it heals; because it penetrates into the wound.

If you have Pain in Back, Cold in Head, Cough, Sore Throat, Earache, Piles or know of a wound on man or beast that will not heal, try ZMO-OIL.

35¢ at Drug Stores

If you have never used ZMO-OIL we will gladly mail you a free sample bottle. Write M. R. ZAEGLER & CO., 832 New York Ave., SHERBOURN, WIS.

Sweet Innocent

Mrs. Youngbridge (at phone)—I want a ton of coal sent up, please. Dealer—Yes'm. What size? Mrs. Youngbridge—Goodness! I didn't know coal came in sizes. I wear a No. 3 shoe and a No. 6 glove.

Drink Away that heavy, drowsy feeling!

When constipation signals, bring back the dash of health to your face by flushing the bowels thoroughly. A cup of two of Garfield Tea will cleanse away unhealthy, stagnant waste, renew the feeling of energy and bring you the nearest approach to the perfect day.

GARFIELD TEA
A Natural Laxative Drink

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains of Abraham

By
James Oliver Curwood

© by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc.
WNYU Service.

CHAPTER X—Continued

To Jeems and Toinette there was nothing spectacular in their first day of the triumphal night, the Indian town fell once more into the routine of its existence. Men hunted, women worked, children played. Warriors met in solemn councils and smoked incessantly as they discussed the affairs of their commonwealth and planned for the future. The "Dark Year" was upon them. Winter threatened. But there were other matters to be settled. Tiaoga had brought unusual news. The English, under a general named Braddock, had been defeated and massacred. The French had been destroyed on Lake George. Sir William Johnson, the White Father of the Six Nations, was victorious, and the Mohawks were profiting greatly. This brought somber looks into the faces of the Senecas. The eastern wilderness was bound to run red with war. Tiaoga was sure. His warriors were sure. The long-expected struggle between the English and the French was at hand, and there would be no rest for the tomahawk until the land was free of one or the other.

Tiaoga and his councilors in Chenusio faced war—and famine. If their fighting men went into the east, who would keep the people from starvation? It was decided that Tiaoga should take the warpath again with thirty men chosen by lot, while thirty of his braves should remain to fight hunger and death during the winter months. The drawing came, but Jeems was not included. Shindas was doomed to leave his sweetheart again. These were days when minglings assailed Jeems and Toinette of their hopes and plans, yet no cloud more than temporarily darkened their visions. In the heart of each was the prayer that a wandering priest might come their way, so that the ceremony could be performed which would make them husband and wife. In the town were a number of white women who had accepted Indian husbands in the Indian way, but against this practice Toinette rebelled. She prayed and Mary Daghen prayed with her, for through the years since her mother had died the Thrush had kept her faith unbroken. The Seneca, worshipping her, honored it.

Early in November groups began to leave, each with the small amount of food which remained in their store. Mary was to accompany two families of eight people under the protection of Thunder Shield, a valiant warrior and a splendid hunter. They were going toward Lake Ontario. Toinette was given to Ah De Bah, the Tall Man, a relative of Tiaoga's. Hiding their disappointment, Jeems and Toinette encouraged themselves with visions of a future which they tried to paint in bright colors. The months would pass quickly. With the earliest days of spring, they would return to Chenusio. Every hour they would live in each other's thoughts, and at night their prayers would cross in the wilderness. Next year there would surely be a way. Fate would not separate them again. In their final moments together, Toinette's eyes glowed with a depth of faith and love which it was impossible for Jeems to measure fully.

In this way they parted. He went north and west with Wuskoo toward the Tyasagarunte river which emptied into Lake Ontario. Odd struggles between his devotion for Jeems and for Toinette. He followed his master a distance, then hesitated and turned back. A lump rose in Jeems' throat, and he could not see clearly as his comrade sat in the trail and watched until he disappeared.

Wuskoo led the way to a hardwood country in which he was sure there would be hunting that would last through the winter. There were plenty of raccoons, and the moccasins, or fish heads, would come to the swift-running headwaters to feed as soon as ice closed the lakes and the mouths of the streams. Here they made their lodge of saplings. It was a new kind of home for Wood Pigeon. Jeems built it with a cooking hearth and a chimney and a tiny room set apart for Wood Pigeon herself. The child's eyes glowed with delight at this possession. Each day Jeems told her more about Toinette—how Sol Yan Makwun cared for her beautiful hair, how it was parted for her religion to keep herself clean, how and why she did this thing and that, until thoughts and desires grew in Wanonat's head, and she employed the comb and the brush which Jeems made for her until her sleek black hair was never untidy.

Heavy snow and extreme cold came early in the season. By the middle of December, Jeems was compelled to hunt on snowshoes, and so bitter were the nights that the first of January found even the headwaters freezing on the moccasins.

This was the memorable winter of 1755 and 1756, the story of which the Senecas handed down from father to son for many generations—a winter in which all game seemed to have gone from the face of the earth, and when hardship and starvation killed a tenth of the three westernmost of the Six Great Nations, the Senecas, the Cayugas, and the Onondagas.

At first Jeems was partly prepared, because he had killed a buck, and with Wuskoo's shrewd assistance had marked a number of trees in which raccoons were sure to hibernate. But late in January famine drew closer about the cabin on the Little Seneca, and Jeems traveled farther in his hunts, until he was gone two days at a time. In February, he made four of these hunts and found no game. The cold was terrific. Trees cracked like rifles in the woods. Bitter winds continued night and day. Wood Pigeon's eyes grew larger and her body more fragile as the weeks passed. Each time Jeems came in from his hunts she blazed up like a fire in her happiness, but he could mark the steady fading of her strength. He hunted with almost insane energy. Everything was for her when famine clutched at them hardest.

Torturing fears assailed Jeems. Toinette was never out of his mind, for even in his sleep he dreamed of her. She, too, was a part of this fight to hold life together.

On the Second of These Days He Married Jeems and Toinette.

At night, when the wind howled and trees wailed in their distress, he sweated in fear, and more than once the thought came to him to abandon his family and go in search of Toinette. His visions of the fate which might be overtaking her became almost unbearable. His hunts were not long now, and seldom took him more than three or four miles from the cabin, for his own strength was ebbing. His only hope was to kill an occasional bird, and it was in the darkest hour that an answer came to his prayers. In a blizzard against which he was working his way in half-blindness, he stumbled upon a doe as weak as himself and killed her. Without this stroke of fortune, Wood Pigeon and Wuskoo must have died. When the thaw came, they were alive. Raccoons began to appear and fleshy roots could be gathered out of the opening streams. Early March brought a warm break in which Jeems and his companions started for Chenusio. Food was plentiful on the way, and each night they gathered strengthening sap from the maples.

They arrived at Chenusio. The people there had lived frugally on their supplies, and from the first runnings of the maple sap had been making sugar. Only four families had preceded Jeems to the village, and of their number, which was twenty-eight, five had died. No word had been received from Tiaoga and his warriors. The maple sap ran steadily. In spite of this opening grace of spring, there hung over Chenusio a grim specter whose shadow grew darker with each day that passed.

This specter was death. Scarcely a family returned which did not bring grief with it. And Ah De Bah, the mightiest hunter of them all, did not come. No one had heard of him. No one knew where he was. Fifty—seventy—a hundred—and then a hundred and fifty of those who had gone in the break-up were accounted for by the end of March. Among them was Mary Daghen. Of their number, thirty had died. Still Ah De Bah, the Tall Man, did not come.

Then he appeared one day. He was a grotesque rack of fleshless bones whom Tiaoga would not have recognized. Behind him trailed his people. Jeems counted them before he could tell one from another. Eleven! He ran toward them, and Toinette away from the line at the head of which the Tall Man marched. He might not have known her at first if she had not met him in this way, for those who were behind Ah De Bah walked with bowed heads and dragging steps like death figures in a weird parade. Her eyes stared at him from a face so strange and thin that it choked his heart.

He carried her to the tepee. Her clothes were in tatters, her moccasins worn to shreds. She was so small a creature who leapt weakly against him. It was odd, a skeleton with red and watery eyes and jaws falling apart. Jeems waited until the Thrush came out and told him she was going for warm water and food and that "Wood Pigeon was undressing Toinette. Then he sought the others. All but Ah De Bah had disappeared and were being cared for. The Tall Man could scarcely stand as he told his story. He had brought his eleven people back alive—the dog and he. Like the truly great, he gave credit to his inferior. Without the dog, he would have failed in his struggle to feed eleven mouths—and Jeems knew why Odd had not been eaten.

After a time, Mary Daghen let him see Toinette again. She was in her bed of skins. The look which had frightened him was gone from her eyes, and they were bright with the joy of his presence. She held out her arms to him, and he knelt beside her. Wood Pigeon looked at the two with shining eyes, and a soft mist gathered in Mary Daghen's. After this, Jeems did not see Toinette again for an afternoon and a night. During this time she slept, and the Thrush and Wood Pigeon were never far from her side. The next day she walked with him about the town.

What was in Toinette's heart was also in Mary Daghen's. The young girl who had known no other life than that of her adopted people since babyhood, but whose mother had kept God and Church alive in her soul, watched with increasing anxiety for the return of Shindas, and she told Toinette that at last she was prepared to yield to her environment, and if no priest came that spring or summer she would marry Shindas. In the Indian way. This thought now held less of horror for Toinette. She had seen the fidelity and courage of an Indian family in its struggle against death; she had seen the Tall Man gnaw at bitter bark that his women and children might have scraps of skin and flesh; she had seen a mother hide her portion of food day after day that she might save it for her children; she had witnessed a faith and devotion which could have been inspired by nothing less than the strength of God in their souls. Her prejudices melted away in spite of her background of unforgettable emotions which had not come to her before. And though she said nothing of it to Jeems, the conviction was growing in her heart that she would not allow another winter to separate them, even if a priest did not come to Chenusio.

But he came, following closely the months of starvation. He was a gaunt, death-faced man, on his way to take the place of a brother who had died among the Indians of the Ohio. That was what he said. History was to relate otherwise, for a year later he was the force behind the Abenakis in their slaughter of the English at Fort William Henry. His name was Father Pierre Roubaud. He was a cold, terrible man of God. Yet he was a kind man. He would have died a thousand deaths for the Cause of which he was a spiritualist if not the moral representative. He would have eaten human flesh in defense of it. He did see such flesh eaten by his savage disciples at Fort William Henry. He remained in Chenusio two days. On the second of these days he married Jeems and Toinette according to the ritual of the Catholic church. The groom he brought with him was disguised by this event. Chenusio gave itself up to a few hours of rejoicing in honor of Tiaoga's daughter and the son of Wuskoo.

But he came, following closely the months of starvation. He was a gaunt, death-faced man, on his way to take the place of a brother who had died among the Indians of the Ohio. That was what he said. History was to relate otherwise, for a year later he was the force behind the Abenakis in their slaughter of the English at Fort William Henry. His name was Father Pierre Roubaud. He was a cold, terrible man of God. Yet he was a kind man. He would have died a thousand deaths for the Cause of which he was a spiritualist if not the moral representative. He would have eaten human flesh in defense of it. He did see such flesh eaten by his savage disciples at Fort William Henry. He remained in Chenusio two days. On the second of these days he married Jeems and Toinette according to the ritual of the Catholic church. The groom he brought with him was disguised by this event. Chenusio gave itself up to a few hours of rejoicing in honor of Tiaoga's daughter and the son of Wuskoo.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Girls of Arabian Race Eager for Instruction

Bairut, the leading center of education in the Near East, has more schools and colleges, native and foreign, than any city of its size in the world. But its girls' schools, before the World War, were all foreign and more or less of a missionary character. That is why Moslem parents refused to send their daughters to them.

But during the war, when all the foreign schools were closed, a Syrian woman, Mary Kassab, opened a native school in the building of the English mission. The success of this school was such that the attendance in a few years rose from 20 to 300, and an enthusiasm for education was kindled in all the neighboring countries. From Iraq, from Palestine, from all parts of the Arabic-speaking world, girls of all creeds—Moslems and Christians and Druses—came today to the Abil-yah school of Mary Kassab. The secret of its popularity, according to a writer in the New York Times, lies principally in the fact that, besides being native, it is nonsectarian. Technically and executive as it enjoys an unusual reputation.

Influences on Prices
As Mendenhall said, with the exception of the alphabet and the printing press, no set of inventions has tended to alter civilization so much as those which abridge distance—such as the railway, the steamship, the telephone, the telegraph, and that conveyor of information and advertisements, the newspaper. These all tend, therefore, to decrease prices.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. F. D. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 15 PAUL IN JERUSALEM

GOLDEN TEXT—For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard.
LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:17-23:37
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in Trouble.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in Trouble.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul Faces His Enemies.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Bearing Testimony in the Holy City.

I. Paul's Vow (21:17-20).
Upon Paul's arrival at Jerusalem representatives of the church here gave him a cordial reception. In oration the brethren in Jerusalem might graciously receive him. It was proposed to him by the elders that he take a Jewish vow to prove that he was in no way opposed to the law. They recognized that such an act would in no way compromise or involve the Gentile brethren. Nor did it compromise his own principle of action; namely, to the Jews he became a Jew and to the Gentiles a Gentle, all things to all men in order to gain them for Christ.

II. Paul's Arrest (21:27-40).
How far this act conciliated the Christian Jews we are not told, but it enraged the unbelieving Jews, causing them to resort to mob law. These maddened Jews seized Paul, dragged him from the temple and beat him mercilessly, intending to put him to death. He was rescued from the mob by the Roman guard. In order to protect him from the murderous frenzy of the mob, the soldiers lifted him upon their shoulders and bore him up the stairs. Paul kept himself under control and politely asked permission of the captain to speak to the people. When he addressed him in Greek and mentioned his Roman citizenship, the captain granted his request.

III. Paul's Defense (22:1-27).
Paul's chief concern was not his own safety. He used this last opportunity to witness unto them of Christ.

1. His claim for a rightful hearing (vv. 1-3).

a. His birth (v. 8). He was a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city of no mean reputation.

b. His education (v. 3). He was educated under the tutelage of Gamaliel, and instructed according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers.

c. His zeal (v. 3). He was as zealous toward God as the Jews who were trying to destroy him.

2. His former attitude toward Jesus (vv. 4, 5). "I persecuted this way unto the death."

3. How his attitude was changed (vv. 6-10). This change of attitude was brought about by the intervention of the Lord. While on his way to Damascus with authority to bind the Christians at Jerusalem, he was smitten to the ground by a light from heaven, and the voice of the Lord said, "Why persecutest thou me?"

When Paul inquired as to what he was to do, he was told to go into Damascus where he would receive instructions. Ananias was sent to him by the Lord for this purpose.

4. The Lord commissioned him to go to the Gentiles (vv. 17-21). It was not of his own will that he preached to the Gentiles but by the Lord's direct commission.

IV. Paul before the Sanhedrin (23:1-10).
The Roman officer in order to learn why Paul was arrested commanded the chief council to assemble and brought Paul before them. This shows that there was an effort made by the Romans to give justice to Paul.

1. Paul's earnest look at the council (vv. 1, 2). This was a solicitation of their honor to give him a fair hearing, and also a look of conscious integrity and unflinching courage.

2. Paul's stern rebuke of the head of the council. "God shall smite thee, thou whitened wall." Paul shows that he had the highest respect for the office, but the man now occupying it was not worthy of it.

3. Paul's appeal to the Pharisees (vv. 6-10). Seeing that he could not get a fair hearing, and perceiving that the body before him was made up of Pharisees and Sadducees, he appealed to the Pharisees, for his preaching had something in common with their belief.

V. The Lord Stood by Paul (v. 11). He was in great need of grace. He may have begun to question the wisdom of his going to Jerusalem, but the Lord assured him that his course was right.

VI. The Conspiracy to Kill Paul (vv. 18-22).
More than forty men banded together for the purpose of getting Paul out of the way.

The Divine Presence
"Of the reality of fellowship with God every religious man is assured. Religion implies such a fellowship of love and grace on the part of God. How such a consciousness brings peace and comfort to a human heart is felt by every one who knows the power of salvation attest."

Chain of Blessing
Promise—prayer—performance are three links in the chain of blessing. If the middle link is missing, we have no right to expect the third.

Make your children

STURDY

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil builds and protects the bodies of growing youngsters, infants, and expectant mothers. Doctors find it gives them a wealth of Vitamin A for correct growth, as well as Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin" so essential in building strong, healthy bones and teeth. Valuable calcium salts are also in it. . . . and its pleasant flavor makes Scott's Emulsion easy for children to take. Good for adults too! Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, H. F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

Listen to Scott's Emulsion's "Romance of the Sea" every Sunday and Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. over the Columbia Radio Network.

Scott's Emulsion OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

Wild Life Just Outside Gay Capital of Italy

Although Rome has been a center of civilization for 2,500 years, it still lies just a few hours' train ride from one of the most rugged and wildest districts on earth, the province of Abruzzi.

Bears and wolves are still to be found wandering through the forests of this mountainous section, and shepherds are accustomed to encounter with them. Now it has been decided to stock the national park of Abruzzi with some of these animals before, if ever, they become completely extinct. Within a few weeks the director has had presented to him a chamois, which was rescued from a river into which it had jumped to escape from a wolf, and a baby bear, which was found wandering helplessly about after its mother had made a wild attack on a flock of sheep.

Shepherds are joining enthusiastically in the work of collecting fauna, and now, instead of shooting every wild animal, they hastily call the director of the park for help in capturing it.

Give Wings to Cheerfulness

ALTHOUGH you may be many miles away, you can bring to the fireside of friends the pleasure of knowing that you have remembered them.

An appropriate selection of cards will carry a cheerful message to every one of them—your answer to the Christmas Roll Call.

Perform this pleasant duty today by selecting

Burgoyne CHRISTMAS CARDS

YOUR LOCAL DEALERS CARRY THEM

Atoms Take Journeys

Atoms, even the heavy atoms of lead, are wanderers. Prof. J. G. von Hevesy of the University of Freiburg in Breisgau, Germany, has been investigating their properties. Lead atoms are constantly in motion, even in solid metal, he believes. In an alloy of lead and gold, at a temperature half again as high as that of boiling water, the atoms wander through a space of a hundredth of a cubic inch in a day. When there is nothing but lead in the lump, however, moving about is not nearly so easy; in pure lead an atom can migrate in one day through a space of one to two ten-billionths of a cubic inch.

Familiar

On the arrival of two relatives whom Mary Jane had not seen for some time, her mother inquired: "Don't you know these visitors, Mary Jane?"

"The child studied them and, observing that one was extremely tall while the other was short, she replied: "Is it Mutt and Jeff?"

Lower Prices

New Cunningham RADIO TUBES

TYPES	OLD PRICES	NEW PRICES	TYPES	OLD PRICES	NEW PRICES
CX301A	1.10	.75	CX335	2.20	1.60
C324	1.50	1.00	CX345	1.40	1.10
C324A	2.00	1.60	C347	1.90	1.55
CX326	1.25	.80	CX371A	1.40	.90
C327	1.25	1.00	CX380	1.40	1.00

A Joke Returns

The old joke about used razor blades has been exhumed again, this time by the publicity engineer for a new hotel in New York. The hotel, one learns, has been built with special cavities for the emeritus blades. A guest need only drop his blade in a slot in the bathroom, and it will sink to eternal rest somewhere in the fabric of the building. A man can stop at that hotel, and shave.

and experience all the for-posterity sensations of a cornerstone layer.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Clockmakers Celebrate

British clockmakers celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of Charles I's grant of their charter of incorporation as "Master, Wardens and Fellowship of the Art of Mystery of Clockmaking of the City of London."

When Rest Is Broken

Act Promptly When Bladder Irregularities Disturb Sleep

Are you bothered with bladder irregularities? Burning, scanty and too frequent passage and getting up at night? Heed promptly these symptoms. They may warn of certain disordered kidney or bladder conditions.

Users everywhere rely on Doan's Pills. This time-tested diuretic has been recommended for 50 years. Sold by all druggists.

Doan's Pills

A Diuretic for the Kidneys

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." Gal. 5: 1.

Coming To St. Joe

November 22, Prof. C. A. Gerber of the Fort Wayne Bible Institute and his family will have charge of the morning service at the St. Joe Methodist Church. Prof. Gerber is director of music in the Bible Institute. He will deliver the morning message and he and his family will furnish the special music for the service.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
The children's service will be held at 7:15 P. M. All children in the community are invited to come. Mrs. V. O. Harrold will be in charge.
The message will be brought by Pastor V. O. Harrold at 7:45 P. M.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
The morning message will be delivered by the pastor at 10. V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
Chief Service 10:30.
Ladies Aid Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joe Foltz.
Light Brigade Saturday at 2 P. M. at Helen Tustison's home.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.
Evening Worship 7:00.
G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Willard Huml, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTOR

State of Indiana
DeKalb County, SS:
I, Glenn Potter, Clerk of the Circuit Court, for the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, do hereby certify that Walter J. Baker, has been appointed executor of the last will and testament of Anna Baker, late of DeKalb County who died testate, and the said Walter J. Baker having qualified and given bond as such Executor is duly authorized to take upon himself the execution of said will. Witness my hand and seal of said Court, this 22nd day of October, 1931.

GLENN POTTER,
Clerk of DeKalb Circuit Court
W. D. Stump, Attorney. 43:3

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3575
Notice is hereby given to all

C. E. McClintock

Attorney at Law
City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

persons interested in the estate of Joseph R. Sechler deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of December, 1931 and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.
Witness, My name, this 2nd day of November, 1931.
MERRITT SECHLER,
Administrator.
Stump & McClintock, Atty. 44:3

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3530
Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Martha R. Widney, deceased, to appear in DeKalb Circuit Court held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 5th day of December, 1931, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.
Witness, My name, this 9th day of November, 1931.
BYRON E. WIDNEY,
Executor.
H. C. Springer, Atty. 45:3

GRABILL

Levi Gable, of Bluffton, Ohio, was a business caller here Tuesday.
Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gerig and sons had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gerig and family, Sunday.

Rev. D. C. Stucky, Superintendent of the Detroit City Mission, spoke at the Missionary Church Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester C. Meyer and son, Wayne returned to their home at Flanagan, Ill., Monday after spending a week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Witmer and Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Moser at Berne.

Mrs. Allen Hamilton, chairman of the rural nursing activities, entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon Wednesday at her home on West Wayne Street. Guests were county roll call chairmen and workers in the Red Cross membership drive which will start on Armistice Day. The program was in charge of Mrs. Feagles, with talks being given by Mrs. Regedans, Mrs. Kennerk, Miss Isabel Devlin, Miss Mary Seaton, and Miss LaVon Sperry. Those attending the luncheon from Grabill and Harlan, were Mrs. Carrie Conrad, Mrs. Bess Klopfenstein and Mrs. Bertha Amstutz.

$5,000.00

IN CASH PRIZES

SEE YOUR DRUGGIST

Russel R. Reidenour
Attorney
Auburn, Ind.

EDISON MAZDA LAMPS
At the News Office

Ray Knisely and family spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Knisely at Harlan.

Levi Schlatter of Wapakoneta, Ohio, is spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Schlatter.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Schafer spent the week-end at their parental homes at Portland and Ridgeville.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gerig and daughter, Flossie, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Gerig Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Holloper made a business trip to Strasburg, Ohio, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. Mae Lynde attended an executive meeting of the W. F. M. Society held in Fort Wayne last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gruber and family took dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jess Zimmerman and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Woods entertained Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cary and daughter, Joanne of Ft. Wayne on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Gerig moved into the property formerly occupied by the Vernon Klopfenstein family, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gerig and sons, Junior and Jimmy of Fort Wayne spent Sunday with Mrs. Lydia Gerig and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Klopfenstein and family visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer J. Klopfenstein and family at Portland, Indiana, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Grabill and son, of Bluffton, Ohio, spent several days of this week with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Grabill and with other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Irven Yoder and children, Marie and Edward of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stucky were Sunday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Rediger.

Mrs. Christ Klopfenstein returned to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Menno Amstutz, at Pettisville, Ohio, Friday after spending several days with relatives and friends here.

Mrs. Amy Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Woods and daughter, Vivian and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Woods attended the funeral of the former's mother, Mrs. George Farrell, at Zanesville Sunday.

Mrs. George King and sons, Lewis and Russell and daughter, Martha, motored to Peru Sunday, where they spent the day with Mr. King, who is a patient at the Wabash Hospital in Peru.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frisoe and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Klopfenstein called at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Merrill and family and Mr. and Mrs. Sam James in Fort Wayne Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred F. Ray and sons, Carl and Bobby returned to their home here Monday afternoon after visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Aurand at Grand Rapids, Mich., a couple days.

Mr. and Mrs. Irven L. Klopfenstein and family had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gehring of Delta, Ohio, Miss Hazel Klopfenstein of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. David Klopfenstein.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Stevick, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Chapman and son enjoyed fish fry at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Michaels and family Saturday evening.

Harry Schlatter, of Adrian, Mich., accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Schlatter of this vicinity are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Aechilman and son, Tommy at West Liberty, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neuen-schwander and daughter, Mildred had as their dinner guests Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Amos Neuenhauser of Bluffton, Ind., Henry Diller and John Reichenbach of Columbus Grove, Ohio, and Mr. Mrs. Amos Witmer.

Miss Clara Messerschmidt, Miss Bernice Roth, Glenn Lehman and Wilbur Roth all of Fort Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roth and sons, Paul and Glenn and daughters, Betty and Marjorie were entertained at dinner Sunday at the home of Mrs. David Roth and daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Heller, of Fort Wayne and Miss Violet Stucky were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Simon H. Beck and son, Dale and daughter, Fern, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Heller and son of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Beck were afternoon callers.

CEDARVILLE

Mrs. Selma Flory spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Martin.

Miss Hazel Halter visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Halter, Friday.

The Class in the Corner of the Community Church Sunday School, reported a good time at their social last Friday evening.

Mr. Millman is visiting his mother, Mrs. Millman, and sisters, Mrs. Jay and Sam Springer, whom he had not seen for twenty-one years.

The Misses Given and Morfydd Davies spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parsons before leaving for their home in Wales.

Mrs. Hull, who has been ill for a long time, was able to attend their reunion held at her daughter's home in Fort Wayne, on Sunday of last week.

Mrs. Edgar Rennecker was pleasantly surprised Saturday evening, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Shears, who gave a party to celebrate her birthday.

Cedarville Community Church held its Home Coming and Rally Day Sunday November 8th. It was a treat to have five young people from the Missionary Church at Fort Wayne. A good time was had by all.

RESULT OF GRABILL ELECTION

Three of four officials of Grabill were re-elected Tuesday, November 3. Maurice Klopfenstein was the only candidate of the Citizen's ticket to win. He was re-named clerk-treasurer, defeating Abner Gerig, of the People's ticket. Klopfenstein received 49 votes to Gerig's 27.

Daniel E. Witmer received 43 votes and Russell Snyder 33 for Councilman of the First Ward. George O. King polled 46 votes to defeat Andrew Conrad, who received 30 votes for Councilman in the Second Ward. King will succeed Henry Schwartz as Councilman. Joseph A. Klopfenstein received 43 votes for re-election as Councilman of the Third Ward. His opponent, Ray Knisely, received 33 votes.

GRABILL

(Intended for Last Week)

Miss Hazel Klopfenstein of Fort Wayne called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Klopfenstein Sunday.

Bernell Klopfenstein spent the week-end with friends at Manchester College at North Manchester, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Werling of Fort Wayne called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Klopfenstein Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Klopfenstein and daughter, Carolyn returned to their home here after spending three weeks in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frisoe and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Klopfenstein were guests in the home of Mr. Frank Killian near Woodburn Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Schlatter and children of Wapakoneta, Ohio, visited at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Schlatter Sunday.

Clarence Snyder returned to his home at Columbus, Ohio, after spending the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Snyder and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Neuen-schwander and daughter, Phyllis spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Neuen-schwander's father, Mr. J. F. Geiger, in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Menno Klopfenstein and family and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Klopfenstein spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Homer J. Klopfenstein and family at Portland, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Knisely entertained at dinner Sunday Mrs. Elizabeth Knisely, Mr. Gene Lophire, and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hatley and family of Harlan and Mr. Ray Knisely and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Klopfenstein and family entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Victor King of Ft. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Roth and children and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conrad and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Reams and Mr. and Mrs. Ruhl Jackson and son, Palmer motored to Hudson, Mich., Saturday to see Mrs. Richard E. Reams who underwent a serious operation at the Hudson Hospital.

ALL AMERICA NOW RIDING THE GOAT

Popular Mohair Upholstery Made Only From Hair of the Angora.

The subject is usually associated with more or less unpleasant initiation ceremonies but did you know that millions of persons have been "riding the goat" on the railroads and have been enjoying the ride?

Every time you ride in a railroad car upholstered in genuine mohair you are literally "riding the goat" for the mohair is the fleece of the Angora goat, not cloth, moss or any other of the many strange products that some persons erroneously associate with mohair. There are many reasons why this material was chosen and has been so widely used on the railroad and some of them are unusually interesting because it has taken modern scientific methods to reveal them and they are new. For years people have known that mohair must be a good material or the railroads would not use such large quantities of it. Its mere durability and fast colors are by no means the only reasons why it is popular.

Here is one important factor that makes genuine mohair so popular for railroad and auto upholstery usage. The tiny, erect fibers of the goat's hair actually mesh with the clothing of the person in the seat and so help to hold him in a comfortable position and to keep him from slipping off the seat in case of a sudden stop.

The Angora Goat.

At first thought, this does not seem to be so important but it is a vital safety matter, especially in the case of old persons and small children and if you have ever tried to keep a comfortable position in a chair that was too big for you and was covered with the old-fashioned horse hair, for instance, you'll realize anew how pleasant it is to feel the strong, friendly little fibers of the mohair, holding you in place.

Then, mohair doesn't make the clothing shiny as do some other materials. It also has less wear on them and these are important points in the mind of the traveling man especially as he would find his tailor bills considerably higher if he had to ride on hard, smooth seats on all his journeys.

Every service man and woman knows how easily real mohair is cleaned with the vacuum cleaner, how easily spots and stains can be removed and how fresh the material looks after it has been given a thorough brushing and cleaning.

Just recently, improved processes of weaving have been developed so that mohair promises to be more popular than ever. There are now more than 3,000,000 Angora goats in this country and the United States is the largest producer of Angora fleeces. Automobiles as well as railroad travelers are "riding the goat" too for millions of yards of mohair are in use as automobile upholstery. The material is also finding wide employment in airplanes whose cabins are upholstered in durable, sound-absorbing mohair, for beauty, economy and greater comfort.

MOHAIR IS GIVEN 'TUG O' WAR' TEST

Angora Goat Hair Used in Velmo Must Stand a Severe "Pull."

Behind the scenes at Sanford Mills, Sanford, Me., the home of Angora goat, the hairs of the Angora goat, are stretched between the two small spools below a big dial, a lever is released and the spools slowly draw apart while a pencil writes on the paper chart a record of the amount of pull being applied to the fibers. When the needle on the big dial has swung far around, the fibers will begin to break and the test is over.

One of these is a strength tester. Mohair fibers, the hairs of the Angora goat, are stretched between the two small spools below a big dial, a lever is released and the spools slowly draw apart while a pencil writes on the paper chart a record of the amount of pull being applied to the fibers. When the needle on the big dial has swung far around, the fibers will begin to break and the test is over.

This "tug of war" is applied to the fibers to make sure that no weak threads enter into the manufacture of the upholsteries and other fabrics destined for years of hard service on automobile seats, railroad cushions and scores of other uses. Many of the companies purchasing upholsteries apply their own tests so before the materials get to the ultimate user they have passed through several different tests, insuring reliable quality and freedom from adulteration.

In addition to the pulling test, there are chemical tests to prove that the dyes used in velmo will not run when the goods are subjected to perspiration or other moisture, there are rubbing tests to prove how long the erect fibers of velmo will last and there are other color tests to show that mohair is little likely to fade.

Samples of dyed mohair are left out in the sun for months and then compared to the new materials to show that the colors have not faded. When more rapid results are needed, powerful lights with rays like those of the sun apply in a few hours the equivalent to many days of exposure to the sunshine to show that the velmo colors retain their natural hues after long service.

Making Old Mohair Velvet Look New

F. F. Knoerzer, of the Chicago Nash Company, showing Ruth Ray and Helen Hatch how to make Mohair Velvet or Velmo upholstery look new by applying a damp cloth.

After prolonged use, the mohair fibers in mohair velvet or velmo upholstery may become temporarily flattened down, resulting in a "rubbed" appearance but this is quickly and easily removed. In the accompanying illustration F. F. Knoerzer, star salesman for the Chicago Nash company, is explaining to Miss Ruth Ray, left, and Miss Helen Hatch, how a mohair upholstered seat may be made to look like new although it may have been in use for years.

A damp cloth is stretched over the upholstery as shown and allowed to dry. The moisture with the consequent drying affects the mohair fibers, the hairs of the Angora goat, in such a way that they are lifted back to their original vertical position. This same result may be obtained by steaming the upholstery.

Since mohair velvet or velmo as it is widely known is a pile fabric, that is, one in which the fibers are on end instead of lying flat as is the case with many other upholsteries, they are capable of withstanding long wear with little sign of service. In many cases, mohair upholstery will outlast the automobile. It is easily kept clean, no slip covers are needed and it is comfortable.

NOVEMBER

L 918

0338

ST. JOE NEWS

ST. JOE, INDIANA

NOVEMBER

1881 Fifty years service to humanity

1931

JOIN!

AMERICAN RED CROSS

The American Red Cross in Action

Above—Red Cross paid the grocery bill, and maintained the health and morale of more than two million drought sufferers. Balanced rationing and ample provisions prevailed. The Red Cross commanded the services of thousands of volunteers. It was an impressive demonstration of neighbors helping neighbors. At right—Hot lunches for school children in the drought area.

Colorful and strange is a field trip out of Manila. The native nipa house is a real home that warmly welcomes the Red Cross nurse.

Bits of cheer at Christmas time—80,000 boxes spread good will and happiness round the world. An important phase of Junior activities.

Men's classes are popular features of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick.

The American Red Cross was founded in 1881. It is, by Presidential proclamation, the National Relief Agency. It is chartered by Congress, headed by the President of the United States, and supported by annual memberships.

These memberships make possible a program which includes:

- Disaster Relief—1,000 catastrophes in 50 years—all the way from Johnstown flood to Drought.
- Veterans—150,000 social and financial problems in a year for ex-service men and their families and for the men of the regular Army and Navy.
- First Aid—71,000 certificates awarded in a year—the answer to the annual toll of 100,000 deaths from accident.
- Life-Saving—70,000 candidates pass tests in year—one way to prevent the 7,000 drownings now occurring each year.
- Public Health—Nursing—1,340,000 visits to patients in 12 months—building health in home, school, and community.
- Home Hygiene—168 Chapters conducting this work—teaching the family how to care for sickness.
- Nutrition—138,000 children and adults taught in year—better food and better bodies.
- Junior Red Cross—7,000,000 school children enrolled—spreading cheer and good will round the world.
- Insular and foreign activities—aided in 12 disasters last year.
- Volunteers—110,000 in one year—ever ready in war and in peace.

Says Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes: "The American Red Cross represents the united voluntary effort of the American people in the ministry of mercy. It is the best and most effective expression of the American heart."

The annual party for disabled veterans on the lawn of the White House. President Hoover who is also president of the American Red Cross is interested in all phases of Red Cross service to both the sound and the well among soldiers, sailors, marines, veterans and their families.

Water Safety methods, as taught by the Red Cross, prevent many needless deaths from drowning.

Currants from Greece were used in these cookies baked by Juniors and served in school lunches in drought areas. There are 12,000,000 Juniors in the world, bound together by mutual understanding and ideals.

A rollicking row cheerfully expounding the principle, "Keep well babies well!" at a baby welfare conference conducted by the Red Cross Public Health Nursing Service.

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOV. 19, 1931

NUMBER 46

HISTORY OF CHRISTMAS SEAL IDEA

It is to the inspiration of a Danish postal clerk, Einar Holboell, that we owe the Christmas Seal idea. In 1903 he interested his government in the idea of a sale of stamps at Christmas time to build a hospital for tuberculous children.

In 1907 a story written by Jacob Riis about the Danish seal appeared in the "Outlook." One of the magazine's readers, Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Delaware, was interested in a small tuberculosis hospital which was sore in need of funds. Miss Bissell promptly adopted the idea and that year raised $3000. From then on the Christmas Seal rapidly became a nation-wide enterprise, and since 1910 has been under the management of the National Tuberculosis Association. Since 1919 the stamp, in addition to an attractive design appropriate to the Christmas season, has always borne the double-barred cross, which is the emblem of the tuberculosis movement.

Splendid co-operation has been afforded the National Tuberculosis Association and the 2084 affiliated state, city and local associations and committees by such organizations as women's clubs, luncheon clubs, parent teacher associations, labor unions, and lodges, as well as by hundreds of magazines and newspapers. In addition, extensive use is made of posters, circulars, leaflets, cards, motion picture trailers, window displays, and exhibits.

The sale is conducted largely through the mails, supplemented by booths, coin boxes and personal solicitation. The enormous number of individual givers is shown by the fact that over sixty per cent of the total sum comes in through the mail sale and, for the most part, in small contributions of one or two dollars.

What Seals Do

These tiny seals, sold for one cent each, have made possible an organized campaign against tuberculosis that has been carried on with ever increasing emphasis year after year. But they stand for something more for they are truly health seals, since whatever helps to prevent tuberculosis makes for health. The accumulated pennies provide tuberculosis nurses or a vast number of communities, clinics supervised by specialists in chest diseases, and promote open-air schools and sanatoria lacking sufficient funds where official health organizations so recommend.

Most important of all, a wide-spread educational campaign has been prosecuted vigorously through schools, clubs, and many other channels, while the National Association maintains two magazines devoted to the subject of tuberculosis. To thousands of afflicted people there has been borne the news that the disease is curable if recognized early enough and given adequate treatment.

TAX COLLECTION IS REPORTED GOOD

Total collections by County Treasurer Merritt M. Maxwell during the fall taxpaying period that recently closed were $443,746.95. This is a reduction of $30,000 as compared with a year ago.

The taxes received last spring were $542,000, making a total for the year of $985,000. The fall collections include $21,056.65 in delinquent taxes and Mr. Maxwell finds that the amount remaining delinquent this fall is not unusually high.

The largest remittance received this fall was, as usual, from the New York Central Railroad Co., the amount being $50,687.59. The local taxpayer making the largest remittance was the Auburn Automobile Co., which sent $15,823.77.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad paid $29,730.59, the Wabash $8,847.90, the Pennsylvania $4,472.04, and the Indiana Service Corporation $2,590.25.

The fall installment paid by the banks of the county follows: Garrett State bank, $1,857.57; Auburn State bank, $1,381.77; City National bank of Auburn, $1,545.36; Knisely Bros. & Co. of Butler, $1,267.80; Citizens State bank of Waterloo, $505.60; St. Joe Valley bank, $197.23; and the Farmers and Merchants bank of Spencer, $401.58.

MEN'S CHORUS ORGANIZED

A male chorus has been organized by a group of men from St. Joe and vicinity who met Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koch. Those who attended were: Elgin Currie, Reuben Koch, Harvey Hull, Joe Woodcox, John Crothers, Frank Johnson, Mark Williams, Roy Koch, Willis Cox, Meade Baker and Roscoe Coburn.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Meade Baker; vice president, Roscoe Coburn; secretary, John Crothers; treasurer, Mark Williams. John Woodcox will serve as director and Mr. Cox will be the pianist.

It was decided to hold meetings once a week and to learn both sacred and secular music. A name for the organization will be selected at the next meeting which will be Thursday night of this week at the home of Roy Koch.

All men who are interested in singing are welcome to join this chorus.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

L. L. C.

Miss Helen Dittmars entertained the Ladies Literary Club, Wednesday evening, November 11th at the home of Mrs. Cora Currie. Being November 11th it was only fitting and proper that each member should be made to revel and reflect back thirteen years into the past when "The War to end Wars" came to an end. This atmosphere was created by the general course the program took.

The entire group sang the national anthem, "Star-Spanned Banner." "The Name of Old Glory" by James Whitcomb Riley was read by Mrs. Lora Leighty. Then, the war itself was taken up. Mrs. Grace Dille led the discussion on the causes of the war, the three major causes being, nationalism, imperialism, and militarism. Mrs. Belle Woodcox gave an account of the drafting of soldiers. Martha Miser gave an interesting account of soldiers embarking for France. Cleota Morr was to have had the discussion on the landing of the soldiers in France, but since she was unable to be present Miss Grove carried the discussion on by reviewing some of the experiences of soldiers during the war. Figuratively speaking, she painted a picture vivid with war atmosphere. Violet May gave a resume of what happened on Armistice Day, November 11th, followed by Mrs. DeLora Currie telling what the soldiers did after the Armistice was signed.

After Miss May ended the war for us, Mrs. Cora Currie read Henry Van Dyke's beautiful poem, "America For Me." Mrs. Daisy Woodcox read "In Flanders Field," then the program ended with the singing of America. Each member responded to roll call with patriotic quotations.

Coming To St. Joe

November 22, Prof. C. A. Gerber of the Fort Wayne Bible Institute and his family will have charge of the morning service at the St. Joe Methodist Church. Prof. Gerber is director of music in the Bible Institute. He will deliver the morning message and he and his family will furnish

BABIES

There is no other baby in the world like yours. Surely you will always want to see him as he is today. Arrange for a photograph of him now at the D. Webster Smith Studio, Butler, Ind.

BIG LAND AUCTION

Locally known as David Keller East, DeKalb County, Indiana Thursday, December 3, 1931 Beginning at 10:00 A. M.

5 Small Farms will be sold regardless of price; all are located about 4 to 5 miles south-west of village of Butler, all fronting on good gravel roads.

Tracts 1 and 2 consisting of 40 acres each, will be sold promptly at 10:00 A. M. Tracts No. 3 and 4 consisting of 40 acres and 38 acres, will be sold promptly at 1:00 P. M.

Tract No. 5 (40 acres) will be sold immediately after sale of tracts No. 3 and 4.

Full description ad will appear in this paper later.

Terms: Each tract will be sold on terms of 15 per cent cash day of sale, 20 per cent on or before March 1, long time on balance.

Take heed, be present, be prepared to buy even though you do not bid or buy.

For further information previous to next advertisement, consult Carl Becaw, First National Bank of Butler or Ralph Drake, Auct., Montpelier, Ohio, or Wayne Burke, Sale Manager, Edon, O.

4661.

THREE FINED FOR ILLEGAL TRAPPING

Sherman Zimmerman and Jas. Moody of near Spencer, were arraigned before Judge Endicott late Saturday on a charge of trapping skunk out of season.

The defendants pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs each. They were unable to pay and were committed to jail.

The arrests were made by Capt. Rodney Fleming of Fort Wayne, representing the state conservation department, on affidavits prepared by Prosecuting Attorney R. W. Sharpless and signed by Fred Finkenbinder, a deputy game warden. Zimmerman, who formerly lived in Auburn, and Moody made the excuse that they thought the trapping season opened November

1, but the law fixes the date as November 15. The officers found five skunk skins and a racoon skin in the possession of the defendants.

A similar charge was filed against George W. Frick of near Waterloo, and he was taken into the court of James L. Griffin of Auburn, justice of the peace, Saturday night. He was fined $10 and costs, a total of $20. He had two racoon pelts in his possession, the officers reported.

CHARGES THAT WIFE ABANDONED HIM

A charge of abandonment is made by Fred H. Saylor in instituting divorce proceedings in the DeKalb circuit court last week against Cecelia I. Saylor.

The couple married December 4, 1922, and the plaintiff says his wife left him August 1, 1929, living apart from him ever since without his consent.

Richard W. Sharpless is attorney for the plaintiff, who resides 2 miles north of St. Joe.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

Edna M. Perkins was appointed Friday in the DeKalb circuit court as administratrix of the estate of her grandmother, Catherine Rickett of St. Joe, who died November 8. There is $1,900 in personal property and the granddaughter is the only heir. She filed $3,800 bond, with Carl E. Perkins and Meritt Sechler as sureties.

ASKING FORECLOSURE

The state of Indiana, by Frank E. Lyon, county auditor, Friday brought suit in the DeKalb circuit court against Daniel C. and Clara McCann and Lamont J. and Mabel Likes to foreclose a mortgage on 76 acres of land in Concord township. The complaint, prepared by County Attorney H. C. Springer, states that the McCanns borrowed $3,150 from the school fund February 26, 1918, payable in five years. In 1916 the farm was conveyed to Likes. A judgment of $4,000 is demanded, together with the appointment of a receiver.

OBITUARY

William C. Shull, son of Joseph S. and Lucy F. (Jones) Shull, was born in the Coburntown community, DeKalb County, Indiana, August 23, 1870, and died at his farm residence near Hicksville, Ohio, November 13, 1931, aged 61 years, 2 months and 20 days.

The deceased was the first born of five children, four sons and one daughter. His brothers are Clement Shull of Hicksville, Ohio; O. K. Shull of St. Joe, Indiana; and Dannie Shull of Tyro, Ohio. His sister is Mrs. J. Sherman Hart of Hicksville. William's death is also the first in the Joseph Shull family. His brothers and sister are active in their chosen fields. His father and mother, after sixty-two years of married life, still live at the old homestead.

The early life of the deceased was spent at the farm which was the common birthplace of all of the children. The day school, Sunday School and Church of that community contributed liberally to his early training.

Mr. Shull was united in marriage with May Newton, April 1, 1892. To this union were born a son, Victor, and a daughter, Inez. The widow, these two children and four grandchildren constitute the entire family of the deceased.

Mr. Shull was an ambitious man and an intelligent worker. He was an enterprising farmer, in which vocation he advanced rapidly among his fellows. He was a loving husband and father and faithfully discharged his duties in those high offices. He was also a most worthy citizen and will be greatly missed from the community, as well as from the immediate family circle.

The funeral was at the residence near Hicksville, Sunday, at 2:30 o'clock and was conducted by the Rev. J. N. Scholtes. The burial was in the Scipio cemetery.

LOOK HERE?

Start long Winter Evenings
RIGHT

"Buy A RADIO"
Note the TERMS

$1.00 Down and $4.00 in 3 Days at the End of the Demonstration, or $5.00 Down, $1.25 per week on Balance

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture Undertaking

Using Your Head

A noted Doctor says: "The human body has many organs that serve no purpose." Merely hangovers that evolution has failed to "evolute" as yet.

Things like the Appendix, for instance. No, he wasn't referring to HEADS. Most of us still use our Heads—at times. The ones who really use their Heads to advantage are those who keep their money in the Bank, pay by check and are guided by their Banker on all their investment deals.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

McBRIDE'S
AUBURN, IND.

Public Auction

November 20

Starting at 1:00 o'clock

CONSISTING OF

Furniture, Fan Ware, Dishes, Silverware, Clothing, Automobile Supplies and Radios.

One Oil Burner for Heating Stove Complete
Some Good Used Hardware
Lumber, 8x8

Newville Auction House
Try Callaway, Auct.

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney, of Columbia City, were guests here Sunday.

Miss Fern Ward has returned from a week's visit with her uncle, John Milliman, and family at Napoleon, Ohio.

Miss Susan Sechler is home after spending a few weeks with Mrs. Catherine Nicholls south of Newville.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price visited Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Keller Fling and daughter, Patty, at Waterville, Ohio.

The Concord Township Home Bureau will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nella Morr, northwest of Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kessler and Mrs. Susie Scholes, Troas and Dorothy Epler spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Erickson and family at Garrett.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kinsey, Mrs. Mollie Sanders, the Misses Inez Kinsey and Viola Coburn were Sunday dinner guests in the John Willet home, near Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and family were at Fort Wayne Sunday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Ben Jones, and family Sunday. A new baby named, Charlotte Helen, has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

The Gerber family, of Fort Wayne will have charge of the music in the M. P. Sunday School next Sunday morning, and also for the church service. A special request is made for the membership to be present. The public is cordially invited.

Kenneth Cunningham of Hicksville and Miss Agneta Horr were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Krontz at Butler. They will also spend this weekend at Kendallville, in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Horn. Friday Miss Horn will attend an operators meeting at Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hillegas of Huntington were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham. Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hoffman and children of Defiance were afternoon visitors. Friday guests in the same home were Mrs. Nerva Keisly, 92, of Bucyrus and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hyser also Mrs. Minnie Wiseman of Fort Wayne.

Put Your Personality Into Your Gifts. Your family, relatives and friends can buy anything you can give them, Except Your Photograph. It's none too early now to arrange for your Christmas portraits. A 7x9 enlargement will be given free with each $7 order. Try our twenty-four hour kodak service. D. Webster Smith Studio, Butler, Indiana.

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a snail's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it. YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM.

Let The News have your films developed.

Miss Fern Ward spent Tuesday night at the Foster Gee home.

For Sale: Michigan Apples at 75c per bushel. Garth Shull. 45t2p

Glen Freeburn is home for a few days from his work in Fort Wayne.

For Sale: 2 Plymouth Rock Breeders. See Wm. Fairfield, Spencerville. 46t1p.

Mrs. Hattie Widney attended the William Shull funeral near Hicksville Sunday afternoon.

Grace Curie is spending the week at Garrett, a guest of her brother, Herbert Curie and wife.

If you are thinking of a new car let us show you a new Ford. The Cities Sales, Inc., Hicksville. 46t1p

Mrs. Anna Koch is spending the week with her brother, John Timmerman, and wife at Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni were among the Fort Wayne visitors last week.

Mrs. D. C. McCann spent several days the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bishop. Mrs. Bishop has not been so well.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Quance and son called at the J. C. Hull home Sunday afternoon.

The Misses Violet May, Kathleen Gee and Opal Bishop called on Rev. and Mrs. O. V. Harrold near Grabbill Sunday afternoon.

A number of the members of the Legion, accompanied by their wives, attended the annual banquet held at Auburn last Wednesday evening.

Nothing will make a newspaper office prouder longer over the mysteries of life than to have some fellow who isn't a subscriber raise the devil about something printed in the paper.

Miss Eloise Bowman returned to Bloomington Sunday, after being home since last Thursday. Her eyes were giving her trouble and she came home to have an examination and to be fitted with glasses.

The petition filed by the B. & O. railroad, on behalf of all trunk lines operating in Indiana, asking that the public service commission grant a general 15% increase in rates, was rejected, and rightly so, we believe. This is no time for increases as every other business has been subject to a great reduction in its revenue.

Due to the fact that Miss Beadle, Extension Nutritionist from Purdue, was injured in an automobile accident, and was unable to be here November 18th, the Achievement Day program for DeKalb County Home Bureau has been postponed until December 2nd. All arrangements have been made to hold the program on that date in the Alumni Gymnasium at Auburn.

A hearing was held in the DeKalb circuit court Friday in the suit of Lester Moore against Daniel Bodiker for $127.50 wages. The defendant filed a cross complaint demanding $570 for room, board and washing. The court found against both the plaintiff on his complaint and the defendant on his cross-complaint. Attorney W. D. Stump represents the plaintiffs and Attorney H. C. Springer the defendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Ella Wilmot celebrated their fifty-seventh anniversary at their home and also Mrs. Wilmot's seventy-ninth birthday Sunday, November 15. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lake and Edward Kimes of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Dale McNabb and son, Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Buzz and children of Garrett; Mrs. Nettie Abel from Newville; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gieque and George Baker from Butler; Mrs. Lavon Murphy and baby of Hicksville; Mr. and Mrs. Alvy Perry and Carlton Wilmot of St. Joe. They also had a very interesting program at the Coburn's. Corners Church in their honor and Walter Coburn gave an interesting talk along that line, that was very much appreciated.

SAVE YOUR EYES—WEAR COIL GLASSES

DR. COIL

Optician and Ophthalmologist

White Gold Filled Frames, Special $3.00

225 CALLOWAY

East Side of Calhoun—Just at Wayne

Have Dr. Coil over your eyes and you will

Subscribe for The News, Now. Merritt Sechler made a trip to Indianapolis this week.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45.

Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 46t1p

Mrs. Harriet Sechler is visiting at her son, Roscoe Sechler's this week.

Miss Kathleen Gee is spending the week with Miss Lillian Hollinger near Butler.

A new garage is being built at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lehr Wilder at Coburn's Corners.

We are now in the midst of an epidemic of drives, Farm Bureau, Red Cross, and Christmas Seal.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Coburn visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ella Wilmot Wednesday.

The funeral of Mr. George Place, living east of Coburntown was held Wednesday afternoon.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience.

Say a Merry Christmas to your wife by subscribing for The News or some of your favorite magazines.

We are planning on issuing The News a day early next week and all news will have to be in by Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Myers and daughter, Jean of near Edon were visitors in the Sam Kees home Saturday.

For Sale: 10 head of breeding ewes. These sheep had 19 lambs this year. M. Gerig, 4 miles west of Spencerville. 45t2.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Staman finished moving the first of the week and spent the first night in their new home on Monday.

Mrs. Hazel Baltz, daughter, Ila Monroe, Mrs. Grace Sheffer and Mrs. Edna Perkins were in Fort Wayne Friday shopping.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

S. E. Barkey, of Pittsboro, Ind., has been here since Sunday as a guest of his brother, Floyd Barkey and family, and helping in the garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees, Mrs. Anna Koch, Mrs. Nan Lysher and son, Edgar enjoyed a chicken dinner at the George Kees home Sunday.

Howard Gee, of Fort Wayne and two daughters, Lucille and Marjorie, of Hicksville, were guests here Sunday in the home of Mrs. Sam Gee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Van Scoic of Auburn, to Indianapolis Wednesday morning, where the gentlemen will attend the I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge.

John Engle will have a sale of his personal property on November 24, consisting of horses, cattle, machinery, household goods and grain. Bills are being printed at News Office this week.

For Rent: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swainner home. It lays 8 miles southeast of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio. 44t3.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wade and son, George and Mr. M. D. Engle drove to Zanesville, Ohio, Saturday morning and visited until Sunday with their son, Russell Wade, and family. Little Miss Bernadine Wade accompanied them home and entered the school here Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hart sold their farm last week to W. E. Baxter and wife of Butler. The Harts moved this week into the W. J. Staman home for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Baxter will take possession immediately and expect to repair the home and make it modern. Some years ago Mr. and Mrs. Baxter were residents of St. Joe, being in the coal business for a time and also run a grocery, where The News is now located. We welcome them to our community.

The county highway department is busily engaged in tearing up our gravel roads, picking up stone, grading and rolling the roads and putting in shape for winter. Most of the roads in this section have been put in shape during the past week. On the road north of the Leighty orchard to the Saylor school house, 22 truck loads of stone were removed. A gang of men are at work picking stone and the county trucks are doing the other work.

"INSIDE DOPE" ON STUFFING FOR THAT THANKSGIVING-DAY BIRD

The reason the turkey is bursting with pride is because of the stuffing he carries inside!

Perhaps the above reasoning of some young turkey-gobbling boy is more truth than poetry! Certainly the stuffing of the Thanksgiving bird is no small part of our annual feast, as all who serve second helpings must realize.

How are you "on stuffing?" Do you know how to achieve the light, fluffy and savory kind? The best stuffing is that into which the full flavor of the fowl has permeated and, to be sure no conflicting flavor creeps in, only the most delicate of moistening and shortening agents should be used. Up-to-the-minute cooks are now using a delicate oil, which will not conflict with the flavor of the fowl, and will keep the stuffing from getting the least bit soggy. The best oil for the purpose is one made from the pure heart of corn, because of its bland and unsalted qualities. Then, too, it is easy, quick and economical.

The same wholesome ingredient is used to make the dry bird savory and the tough bird tender. For the roast chicken or turkey, rub the fowl with oil before putting it in the oven. If you need additional basting liquid, other than that supplied by the "cooking-out" of the fowl, add a tablespoon of oil to the basting liquor. The breast of practically every fowl needs protection from the driving heat; try rubbing it with the oil instead of using the old salt-pork method.

About the Gravy

Following the above directions will vastly improve gravy made from the basting liquor. In making this necessary adjunct of the stuffing and mashed potatoes, be sure to cream the cornstarch with a little cold water then add a little of the hot liquid, before adding the basting liquid. Use a half teaspoon of cornstarch to each approximate cupful of liquid.

NEW STUFFING RECIPES

Swedish Stuffing

(For Turkey)

2 cups stale bread crumbs, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, 1/2 cup corn oil, 1/2 tsp. sage, 1/2 cup seeded raisins, 1/2 cup walnut meats. Mix ingredients in the order given; raisins should be cut in pieces and nut meats broken in pieces.

Oyster Stuffing

1 cup cracker crumbs, 1 1/2 tps. lemon juice, 1/4 cup corn oil, 1/2 tsp. finely chopped parsley, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, 1 cup oysters. Add seasonings and oil to cracker crumbs. Clean oysters and remove tough muscles; add soft parts to mixture, with two tablespoons oyster liquor to moisten.

Bread and Celery Stuffing

3 1/2 cups stale bread crumbs, 1 1/2 tps. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 1 cup boiling water, 1/4 cup finely cut celery, 1 tps. poultry seasoning, 1/4 cup corn oil.

Pour water over bread and let stand twenty minutes; then squeeze out all the water that is possible. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly.

Turkish Stuffing

1/2 lb. rice, 2 oss. almonds, 1 doz. French chestnuts, 1/4 tsp. each of salt, paprika and cinnamon, 1/4 lb. well-mashed currants, 1/2 cup corn oil.

Wash rice and cook until half done in boiling water; drain and add other ingredients, the chestnuts cooked and cut in small pieces, the almonds blanched and chopped.

Chestnut Stuffing, American Style 1 lb. chestnuts, 2 cups stale crumbs, 3 tps. corn oil, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 3 tps. onion, 2 tps. parsley, 2 tps. salt, 1 cup stock.

Cut a half-inch "gnash" on flat side of each chestnut and put in a heavy skillet. Add 1 tablespoon oil and shake over heat for 5 minutes. Take from oven and remove shells and skins with a sharp knife. Put 2 tablespoons oil in sauce pan, add finely chopped onion and cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Break chestnuts in pieces and add to onion with bread crumbs, salt, pepper, finely chopped parsley and stock from giblets. Mix with a fork.

OTHER THINGS THAN TURKEY INTERESTED PILGRIM COUPLE THREE CENTURIES AGO

Dan Cupid has his innings while the task of gathering material for the Thanksgiving feast is temporarily forgotten.

Not All Americans Look on Day of Thanksgiving With the Pessimistic Eyes of Will Carleton

Will Carleton in his verses on "Captain Young's Thanksgiving," says:

Thanksgiving day, I fear,
If one the solemn truth must touch,
Is celebrated, and endeavor to spread
As for the sake of getting more.

It is the "feastive" day on which Little Willie, on nearing the end of a bountiful meal, will sigh, "I've pretty near reached my bust measure." And dad will again wonder why Thanksgiving day doesn't follow Christmas so he can be thankful that both purveying days are over. It is also the season in which dogs and cats beat a tattoo on drumsticks with their teeth.

Truly, a man is old when he begins to fear mince pie. What this world needs is for some one to devise a plan whereby the bone of contention can be utilized like the Thanksgiving turkey for making hash and soup. But 'twas ever thus—these big Thanksgiving meals. Indeed, some 140 years ago the Thanksgiving menu of which George Washington partook at Mount Vernon consisted of:

Conceit of Fresh Fruit
Oyster Soup
(Mrs. John Marshall's recipe—black eye peas and Virginia ham knuckles added.)
Roast turkey stuffed with wild rice, pulverized boiled chestnuts, artichokes.

truffles, chicken livers and toasted bread crumbs, flavored with rosemary, sage and mother of thyme, larded with Virginia ham fat and basted with Madeira wine; served with bogberry sauce, fresh cauliflower and candied sweet potatoes.
Old Virginia mince pie, served in flames.
New Orleans old French market coffee.

Mum! Those were the good old days! But, observes the Providence Bulletin:

The special blessings for the sake of which children and some adult persons celebrate Thanksgiving day are transitory at best. They center round the dinner table, "grooming" with good things." But even if Will Carleton thinks that most of us regard such matters as these more seriously than the finer and nobler teachings of the day, surely many of us grace the occasion with the spirit of gratitude for our "blessings," and endeavor to spread this spirit by providing for the comfort and happiness of some less fortunate household than ours at this one festival of the year.

It is a familiar law of nature that the more we give the more we have. This may not be true of material possessions, but it is certainly true of the things of the spirit. If we increase the sum total of others' happiness we increase our own.

Anyhow, here's hoping you get the long end of the wish bone—Pathfinder Magazine.

Thanksgiving Day

Ah! On Thanksgiving day, when from east and from west,
From north and from south, come the pilgrim and guest,
When the gray-haired New Englander sees round his board
The old broken links of affection restored,
When the care-worn man seeks his mother once more,
And the worn matron smiles where the girl smiled before. . . .
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

Thanksgiving Dinner in 1621 Hardly What Would Be Considered Much of a Special "Spread" Today

A modern, transplanted to Puritan New England, wouldn't give many thanks over Thanksgiving day dinner. He would find it pretty bad fare.

Cranberries were available in 1621, and wild turkey—if the head of the house was a good marksman. There were nut trees in the woods, and wild grapes. But the stock of perishable foodstuffs was meagre. Probably grain was to be had to supplement the small supply of Indian corn, but butter, milk and eggs were almost unheard of in Plymouth 310 years ago. Maybe they had potatoes in 1621, but if they did they came by ship.

A modern expert in nutrition, given a Puritan Thanksgiving dinner to analyze, would have several convictions. Dr. Walter H. Eddy points out in Good Housekeeping that he would find few green vegetables, no milk, a high preponderance of proteins and acid ash.

"Wild fruits may have helped to avert scurvy," says Doctor Eddy, "but this disease was always imminent in the winter, and probably much of the so-called winter rheumatisms were due to scorbutic joints."
Pneumonia and what was called consumption wiped out whole families in old New England, Doctor Eddy points out, because the food did not have the proper vitamin content.

"Palatability and quantity were in those days almost the sole guides to dietary adequacy," he says. "But families were large and, in spite of high mortality that would produce a scandal in health circles today, they managed to survive and gradually increase in numbers."

FROM time immemorial, the bringing in of the last sheaves of corn and the cutting of the last of the fruits of the land have been accompanied by feasting and all the outward expressions of joy and happiness. It is a time for reunion of families, for happy greetings, for the renewal of friendships and of general gaiety.

THANKSGIVING day is only our annual time for saying grace at the table of eternal goodness.—James M. Ludlow.

SPENCERVILLE

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Edna Goldsmith.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith attended the funeral of William Shull of near Hicksville, Sunday afternoon.

Wanted: Nice clean rags, thoroughly washed and boiled, no linty rags wanted. Will pay 2 1/2 cents per pound. Deliver to Tyn-dall Oil Co., Spencerville. 44t2.

Mrs. Esther Johnson and son and Mrs. Ina Kraft, of Butler, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kraft. Mrs. Kraft remained for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Helf, of De-fiance, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz.

Mr. and Mrs. George Salmon of Fort Wayne spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hafner.

The Young Ladies Social Club will meet with Mrs. Tross Car-penter at Coburn's Corners.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Of-fice in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Miss Beadle, of Purdue Univer-sity, was injured in an automo-bile accident near Angola recent-ly and the Home Bureau meeting has been postponed until Miss Beadle's recovery.

The C. C. Club met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Tressie Kel-ly at the home of Mrs. Ray Baker. A prize was won by Mrs. Maude Beams. The guests were Mrs. Audra Wade and daughters, Mary and Edith, Mrs. Vol Hay and Mrs. Appleman.

On Saturday evening Bert Fisher, while crossing the street, walked in front of an automobile driven by several young men from Garrett. Mr. Fisher was cut in the head and suffered bruises but was able to be around on Sunday morning.

The Missionary Society gave their Thanksgiving program at the Methodist Church Sunday morning.

The Home Bureau met on Wed-nesday afternoon with Mrs. Gay-lon Tustison at the home of her mother, Mrs. Stella Goldsmith. A debate was given between Mrs. Stella Goldsmith and Mrs. Ross Abel which was greatly enjoyed.

CONCORD

Mrs. George Johnson spent a day last week with her daughter and family near Garrett on ac-count of their baby being ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Jackson en-tertained Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Holl Jackson and Mrs. C. Jackson and daughter Mable.

Mrs. DuWayne Baker was taken ill Saturday night with symp-toms of pneumonia. Sunday it was reported both lungs were ef-fected. She runs a high fever and is quite sick.

Mrs. Ira Bone entertained on Friday honoring her seventy-ninth birthday, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wyatt, Mrs. Gill and Mrs. Let James of Auburn, and on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Will Keeler and fam-ily and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bas-sett and son, Junior.

THE SINS OF THE FATHER

And the sins of the father shall be visited upon the son, even to the third generation.

Thus saith the Bible. In these days when honored and respected men of the com-munity suddenly are found to have betrayed their trusts and within a few days find the iron doors of a penitentiary cell closed against them, separating them from the sunshine of life and all it holds dear, we sometimes wonder if all of today's crime is due to the fantastic working of this moral law, or if men of today are making a moral law of their own. And if so, if the law laid down in the Bible is to work against their children for three generations.

If the man who goes wrong to-day could realize even one one-thousandth part of the terrible burden of sorrow and shame he is laying upon his parents, his sisters and his brothers, and his own wife and family, if he has one, it would seem that this blot and this realization would deter him from the first step that leads to the career of crime.

Probably in some instances it does. But in the case of those who do go wrong either the man does not think on these things or else he puts away the thought deliberately. Youth is ever rash and thoughtless.

There died out in the state pen-itentiary in Arizona a convict who had been shut out from all life could hold dear for him for more than 40 years. In his youth he had blazed a trail of crimina-lity that had included every-thing from common stealing to train robbing, ending finally, as almost always in such cases, with murder.

Just before he died this man wrote a warning to youth.

"There is nothing to be gained by being a criminal," he said. "If I had my life to live over I would never depart from honest endeavor. No criminal ever escapes justice, either at the hand of organized government or from his own soul. My last word to the young man of today is to avoid crime as he would something threatening to take his life."

This man's words are true. They have been repeated, in one form or another, by many men who have led lives of crime.

There is no escape from one's crimes. For a time the pathway may appear rosy, and escape af-ter escape from apprehension will lull the criminal into believing that he, at least will not be caught. But the Nemesis of crime is always at his elbow and, sooner or later, it lays upon him the frightening hand of the law.

And when this time comes, be he honored business executive and church man, or be he what-ever he may be, it is his parents, his family and those who hold him dear that must suffer most at this shock of his uncovering.

BASSETT'S

WELDING SHOP

NOW OPEN

-IN THE-

ST. JOE GARAGE

WE WELD ALL METALS

BANKERS DEVELOP NEW FINANCE AID

President of American Bankers Association Describes Plan and Services of National Credit Corporation

NEW YORK—The National Credit Corporation, a billion dollar cooperative institution, is the method worked out by bankers to put into practical effect the central point in President Hoover's plan for renewing the com-mercial and industrial activity of the nation as proposed in his statement to the nation of October 7, Harry J. Haas, president of the American Bankers Association stated in a recent inter-view.

The corporation is strictly coopera-tive in character, he said, to unite the entire banking system and increase the effectiveness of the financial ser-vices of banks to their communities in the rural districts as well as the cities. The plan will marshal the banking re-sources of the country, he explained, by creating a national institution whose funds will be loaned when nec-essary to banks which have assets in their portfolios that are thoroughly sound but are not eligible for loans at federal reserve banks.

To Benefit Everybody "There is no citizen in the United States but will benefit in very practical ways from the results of the operation of this forward-looking plan of coop-eration, which may be regarded as one of the most constructive steps that have been taken toward revival of sound business activity," Mr. Haas declared, adding:

"The National Credit Corporation represents an instrumentality that should have far-reaching effect in re-storing the confidence of the public. The plan not only has been formulated by the country's leading banking au-thorities, but also will be carried out locally as well as nationally by bank-ing representatives who have given their time and thought to this under-taking as a real public service."

"The American Bankers Association convention was in session at the time the plan was proposed and unanimo-usly endorsed it in principle. I have ex-aminated the detailed formulation of the working plans as developed by the innumerable bankers who have under-taken to put it into practical operation in single-minded devotion to the national welfare, and I am able to say without reservation that the National Credit Corporation as set up by them constitutes a practical, sound and ef-ficient means for carrying out President Hoover's proposal."

HARD TIMES RENEW BANKER'S OPTIMISM

Former Bankers' Chief Finds Much in Past Year to Inspire Confidence in Financial Reliability

ROME C. STEPHENSON, retiring president of the American Bank-ers Association, declared in an address on the expiration of his term of office that, in travelling about among the banks from one end of the country to the other during the past year, he had "come out of it with a renewed faith in the strength of our banking struc-ture and our banking situation, and a renewed faith particularly in the spirit and courage of the men in the banks that have enabled them to rise uncon-querred over difficulties such as men never had to face before, or to accept with fortitude misfortune that, were beyond human power to prevent."

When he reflected, he said, that the "entire human economic structure has been brought to the verge of ruin under the difficulties that have swept over not only the nation but the entire world, and that the results of events of this kind react with particular di-rectness upon the stability of our banks, and yet how few have suc-cumbed, we may well renew our con-fidence in the banks of America; when we think also of how many of our bankers have stood up under the stress and storms of these times and how relatively few of them have been proved wanting in the series of crises that have assailed them, we may well feel a sincere pride in our fellow bank-ers." He added:

"So I come out of this year of som-ber experiences not as a pessimist, but as an optimist—as one with a renewed faith and confidence in the spirit of his fellow men under overwhelming difficulties. And particularly do I come out of this year as a banker who is proud of his fellow bankers for the un-daunted way in which they have met their part of the great test through which the times have put the nation. I believe that this year has brought new honor to our banking traditions and our banking profession and has won for the banker new title to the faith and trust of all classes of his fellow citizens."

Wise Spending Careful and wise spending will help solve our economic problems and will be of untold benefit to the farmer. Our troubles are not caused by the spend-ing of money, but because it was spent unwisely.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

Friday was the 13th all right. Ask some of the pupils if their luck changed that day. Tests! Bawlings out! Bah!

Mr. Appleman, the instructor in Solid Geometry, says that he has never taught a class, on the whole, that has as high a degree of mathematical intelligence as the present class.

The boys of the Manual Train-ing class are making mortise joints. They are also making broom holders for the domestic science girls in Miss Hollabaugh's class.

The Freshman party was well attended, all except three mem-bers being present. Before re-freshment of apples, pop corn balls, and cider were served, the group enjoyed themselves with parlor games. Later in the even-ing out-door games were played on the lawn by the aid of auto lights. The hostess was Irah Mc-Crory. A number of the Sopho-mores were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Appleman made a drive to Fremont after school Friday evening, calling upon Mrs. Appleman's parents.

Tuesday morning Rev. Stoll di-rected the chapel service, his sub-ject was, "Eternal World Peace." Rev. Stoll said that he was much in doubt about the meaning of Armistice, whether it celebrated a victory, the end of the war, or the beginning of World Peace.

Wednesday from 11:00 to 11:30 the school gave an Armistice pro-gram. Mr. Appleman gave a talk on why we should face the east each November 11th of the year. Taps were sounded and everyone stood silent facing the east for several seconds. The boys and girls chorus sang two songs each. The school trio then sang two songs, after which the assembly sang the National An-them.

The Home Economics girls served soup again on Thursday this week. The girls must be good cooks for their customers are increasing. Each Thursday soup will be served here at the school house by the Home Econ-omics class.

Wayne Shook is now able to go without his crutches.

Miss Zimmerman is now wear-ing her glasses.

The school store has several new supplies such as candy, pop corn, paper, pencils, and potato chips. The store is doing a thriv-ing business.

Miss Tague has asked that the store order two dozen drawing pencils for the pupils of her room.

Raymond Ayers of the sixth grade was absent from school on Monday.

Bernard Kimes of the fifth grade was absent on Thursday.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

For Sale!

1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at NEWS OFFICE if at all interested.

Winifred Harper missed school on Tuesday.

Senior Class

The Senior class met on Thurs-day the fifth, and decided to have a party at the home of Frederick Laub on the twenty-seventh of November.

The members of the refresh-ment committee are, Eunice Shilling, Clarissa Rediger, Flor-ence Steward and Esther Hahn. The members on the entertain-ment committee are Floyd Pfau-mer, Frederick Laub, Harry Far-ver, and Dwight Koch.

Florance Wasson was absent from school, on Friday the sixth. He had pink eye.

Florence Steward was absent from school on Friday, the sixth, and on the ninth.

Athletics

Spencerville basket ball team was defeated by Harlan's team last Friday night by a few points. The Junior High team was also defeated. There was a large group of people there from Har-lan. The yell leaders had lots of pep.

The Spencerville team plays Hamilton, Friday night, Novem-ber 20, at Spencerville. We are hoping they will win. Everybody is invited.

Spencerville basket ball sched-ule for the rest of the season: Nov. 20, Hamilton ..... Here. Nov. 24, St. Joe ..... There. Dec. 4, Leo ..... There. Dec. 11, Jefferson Twp. .... There. Jan. 29, LaOtto ..... Here. Feb. 6, Waterloo ..... There. Feb. 12, Harlan ..... There. Feb. 13, Hamilton, ..... There. Feb. 19, Auburn ..... Here. Feb. 26, Leo ..... Here. March 4, LaOtto ..... There.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian ..... 109—$4.35
M. P. .... 57—$2.86
Spencerville M. E. .... 63—$3.72
Lutheran ..... 85—$3.70

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Dis-eases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana
9-1-29

Used Cars

1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1929 Model A Ford Tudor.
1928 Model A Ford Tudor.
1928 Chevrolet Coupe.
1926 Buick Sedan.
1927 Hudson Coach.
1928 Studebaker DeLuxe Sedan.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot in-stalled inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equip-ment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Our prices on printing are not always the lowest . . . but our work is always the best

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office

Ask to See It

Safety

Service

Courtesy

This Bank Represents the Future To Many

WHEN people pass our doors and say, "That's my bank," they mean they're building their own financial future.

Our future is simply the joint future of all we serve

Can We Make Yours Brighter?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME"
GOOD IDEA

We Sell:
ENVELOPES
LETTERHEADS
STATEMENTS
INVOICES
CALLING CARDS
TAGS
BLOTTERS

We Can Furnish:
CARBON SALESBOOKS
PRINTED FORMS IN FOLDED PACKS FOR ANY PURPOSE
AUTOGRAPHIC SALES REGISTERS
PRINTED GUMMED TAPE AND MACHINES

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS — CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR HOME TOWN PAPER
Get The Idea — Buy At Home

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

OTHER THINGS THAN TURKEY INTERESTED PILGRIM COUPLE THREE CENTURIES AGO

Dan Cupid has his innings while the task of gathering material for the Thanksgiving feast is temporarily forgotten.

Not All Americans Look on Day of Thanksgiving With the Pessimistic Eyes of Will Carleton

Will Carleton in his verses on "Captain Young's Thanksgiving," says:

Thanksgiving day, I fear,
If one the solemn truth must touch,
Is celebrated, not so much
To thank the Lord for blessings o'er
As for the sake of getting more.

It is the "feastive" day on which Little Willie, on nearing the end of a bountiful meal, will sigh, "I've pretty near reached my bust measure." And dad will again wonder why Thanksgiving day doesn't follow Christmas so he can be thankful that both pursuing days are over. It is also the season in which dogs and cats beat a tattoo on drumsticks with their teeth.

Truly, a man is old when he begins to fear mince pie. What this world needs is for some one to devise a plan whereby the bone of contention can be utilized like the Thanksgiving turkey for making hash and soup. But 'twas ever thus—these big Thanksgiving meals. Indeed, some 140 years ago the Thanksgiving menu of which
George Washington partook at Mount
Vernon consisted of:

Concise of Fresh Fruit
Oyster Soup
(Mrs. John Marshall's recipe—black eye peas and Virginia ham knuckles added.)
Roast turkey stuffed with wild rice, pulverized boiled chestnuts, artichokes.

Thanksgiving Day

Ah! On Thanksgiving day, when from east and from west,
From north and from south, come the pilgrim and guest,
When the gray-haired New Englander sees round his board
The old broken links of affection restored,
When the care-worn man seeks his mother once more,
And the worn matron smiles where the girl smiled before. . . .
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

Thanksgiving Dinner in 1621 Hardly What Would Be Considered Much of a Special "Spread" Today

A modern, transplanted to Puritan
New England, wouldn't give many thanks over Thanksgiving dinner.
He would find it pretty bad fare.

Cranberries were available in 1621, and wild turkey—if the head of the house was a good marksmen. There were nut trees in the woods, and wild grapes. But the stock of perishable foodstuffs was meagre. Probably grain was to be had to supplement the small supply of Indian corn, but butter, milk and eggs were almost unheard of in Plymouth 310 years ago. Maybe they had potatoes in 1621, but if they did they came by ship.

A modern expert in nutrition, given a Puritan Thanksgiving dinner to analyze, would have several complaints fit. Dr. Walter H. Eddy points out in Good Housekeeping that he would find few green vegetables, no milk, a high preponderance of proteins and acid ash.

"Wild fruits may have helped to avert scurvy," says Doctor Eddy, "but this disease was always imminent in the winter, and probably much of the so-called winter rheumatism was due to scorbutic joints."
Pneumonia and what was called consumption wiped out whole families in old New England, Doctor Eddy points out, because the food did not have the proper vitamin content.

"Palatability and quantity were in those days almost the sole guides to dietary adequacy," he says. "But families were large and, in spite of high mortality that would produce a scandal in health circles today, they managed to survive and gradually increase in numbers."

FROM time immemorial, the bringing in of the last sheaves of corn and the cutting of the last of the fruits of the land have been accompanied by feasting and all the outward expressions of joy and happiness. It is a time for reunion of families, for happy greetings, for the renewal of friendships and of general gaiety.

THANKSGIVING day is only our annual time for saying grace at the table of eternal goodness.—James M.
Ludlow.

DAIRY FACTS

TO FEED SKIMMILK
BACK TO THE COW

Experts Prove Practice Is Profitable.

Some dairymen are finding profitable a practice which virtually amounts to skimming the milk once, and then skimming it again—and again. This is possible only in districts where butter is the principal dairy product and a quantity of skim milk is a by-product.
One way to use the by-product is to feed it to the dairy cows that produced
it. The cows require a protein supplement in their ration. The butter maker, however, is interested in the fat.
Ordinarily the dairyman feeds the oil meals. But skim milk contains much of the protein which the dairy cow consumes and does not require for her maintenance. The protein is less concentrated than it is in an oil meal,
but it is in an easily available form.
Where skim milk is cheap it may be an economical source of protein.

Feeding tests at the University of Minnesota indicate that eight pounds of skim milk will take the place of one pound of linseed oil meal. Knowing the local prices of meal and skim milk, it is easy for the dairyman to calculate which is the cheaper for him to feed.

When the dairyman feeds skim milk for its protein he sets up what amounts to a circular movement of milk from the cow to the separator and back through the cow to the milk pail. Each time as it passes through the separator he skims the cream and sends the milk back to gather more cream within the cow.

Few cows will drink the skim milk
when it is offered to them unadorned with some other feed. The practice at the Minnesota station was to mix the skim milk with the grain feed in a pail and then pour it over the silage.
Obviously the quantity of skim milk that can be fed without waste depends upon the quantity of grain and upon its liquid-holding capacity. On account of the fact that cows in summer often receive no silage and but little grain and that skim milk is very attractive to cows, there is no doubt that skim milk is more advantageously fed in the winter than in the summer.

Cow May Give Less Milk Yet Show Bigger Profit

Records made by two cows in the same herd on test in a Dakota county dairy herd improvement association during 1930 afford an interesting example of what a dairyman learns in a testing association. One of these cows produced 11,058 pounds of milk in her lactation period of 11 months.
The other produced only 8,591 pounds of milk in the ten and a half months during which she was milked. Although this was almost a gallon a day less on the average than Cow No. 1, yet Cow No. 2 made an income over feed cost of $80 more than Cow No. 1.
"Yes, that can be," says Minnesota County Agent W. E. Watson, "because Cow No. 1 tested 2.40 per cent butterfat, and produced 275.5 pounds, while
C. w. No. 2 tested 4.03 per cent butterfat, and gave 398.3 pounds. It is not always the cow that milks the most per day and has the longest lactation period that makes the most money," he adds.

Another striking example of the differences between cows, as brought out by dairy herd improvement records, was cited at the annual meeting of the Rock county (Ill.) dairy herd improvement association. The ten high cows of the association gave an average return over feed cost of $110.54, as compared with only $3.71 for the ten low cows. It was also stated that there was a spread between the high herd of the association and the low herd of 188 pounds of butterfat per cow for the year.

Separator Profits

E. T. Leavitt tells about a whole-milk dairyman in Illinois who bought a separator to separate his surplus milk. In the first month he received $18.00 more than in the previous month, and had the skim milk to feed his pigs and chickens. Interesting how that $18.00 was secured. He actually got $9.54 more for 1,673 pounds less milk sold than in the previous month, and received $8.71 for cream from the milk withheld from market.
Need we remark that a great many whole-milk dairymen have this same opportunity? Charles Buhmann, Attica,
Ohio, says he gets from 75 cents to $2 a pound for cream in the form of cottage cheese, buttermilk, ice cream, etc. Depression forced him into a change he has found profitable.—Farm Journal.

Dairy Production Leads

In a recent survey of co-operatives in twelve northeastern states, the volume of dairy products outranked all other agricultural commodities. Ninety-five co-operative market associations serve 126,100 farmer members with dairy products valued at $228,
611,428. This amount represents 55.8
per cent of the total cash income received from dairy products sold to farmers in the area. Ninety-six per cent of these sales constitute fluid milk and cream.—American Agriculturist.

De Luxe Velvet Suits Now "Say It"

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THAT which fashion's followers are going to wear this fall and winter in the way of fur-trimmed velvet suits is enough to dazzle the eye of even the most sophisticated. There are no adjectives too extravagant to describe the elegance and beauty of these luxurious fur-trimmed suits which are in promise for the coming months.

In planning the new wardrobe about the most important subject to consider in the way of a street or afternoon ensemble is the two-piece suit, the jacket of which may be either short, three-quarter or seven-eighth, and some of the smartest models even adopt the coat which is full length.

As to materials which fashion these voguish suits, choice lies between the new awnky woolsens or velvet made ornate with lavish fur—the more fur the better. An argument among others in favor of velvet for the suit is that it makes a smart costume for all day, and with a stunning dressy blouse of lace or a sumptuous lame weave, it carries over into evening for informal dining and dancing.

Then, too, no woman needs to be reminded that there is nothing in the way of costume fabric so eminently flattering as velvet. Which is especially true of this season's velvets in that their rich dark greens, radiant browns, gorgeous wine tones and purples such as enter into the scheme of things this autumn are incomparably lovely.

It adds to the zest of the velvet mode that fashion approves all accessories, ranging from quality-kind silk Lyons velvet with upstanding

WHEN FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method.
You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips'
Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for correcting excess acids.
25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips'
Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

Book Thief Sees the Light
Employees of the Muskegon public library came to work recently to find 60 volumes, stolen in 1929 and 1930, piled at the outside return box.
A letter accompanying the books said the author had "forsaken the ways of sin," and asked forgiveness.
"I am sorry that these are all the books I have left; I burned the other three boxes before I received the light," the note said.—Kansas City Star.

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore. Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.
This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain.
Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.
To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Bees Carried to Work
Grazing the bees in the blooming heather to make up for the failure of the clover to blossom earlier in the summer was the novel device resorted to this year by farmers on the west coast of Sweden. The wet and cold spring stunted the clover, but the heather bloomed profusely and at night the bees were transported in their hives to the ridges where it abounded.

See Out, but Not In
An opaque glass which a person can look through to the outside but not inside has been put on the market. When installed on an automobile the driver can see objects outside the car clearly, but when one looks through the windows to the inside of the car the glass acts as a mirror.

This Little Girl Got Well Quick

"Just after her third birthday, my little daughter, Connie, had a serious attack of intestinal
flu," says Mrs. H. W.
Turnage, 217 Cadwallader St., San Antonio, Texas. "It left her very weak and pale. Her bowels wouldn't act right, she had no appetite and nothing agreed with her."
"Our physician told us to give her some California Fig Syrup. It made her pick up right away, and now she is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for her wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable.
For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows it gives satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.
There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

FELTS SUPREME IN MILLINERY FIELD

Felts are again in the supremacy with a number of hats in velvet and some in fabrics and in antelope.
Tailored felts have brims with a roll which is laced to go up on the left and down on the right. Their trimming is tailored and flat, or of stiff little feathers, to give a touch of color contrast, or of grosgrain ribbon in the same shade. Most felts have noticeable brims and are variations of the sailor or bowler types.

It is important to note that the newest shapes are down in back as well as down in front. They do not perch on top and land somewhere in mid-head in the back. They come down and hug the back of the neck closely, so as not to interfere with large important collars of fur.

Choice of Accessories Requires Consideration

Accessories make or break a costume—in the very beginning. It starts with choosing them. Bag and shoes match in color, for instance, and are of the same material. But bag and shoes do strike a pert and expert contrast with the rest of the ensemble—for that all-important surface interest,
if for nothing else.
Yet the choice of accessories for daytime wear is not complete without, an oblong envelope and a smartly new and graceful step-in pump. Those tip-toe necessities for fashion's fall costume include a pair of slightly flared yet simple pull-on gloves—up to six-button length for general wear.
And hose, of course, are sheer and dull, with low, square heels that scarcely peer above the shoe—always on a darkish tone to harmonize with the costume colors of the season.

Dress of Black Satin Can Be Distinguished

A black satin dress, very simply made, and with relieving touches of white or mesh or beige satin, can be dramatically distinguished. It can be as formal or as informal as you please, depending on the occasion for which you wear it. You will like black satin with a rough wool coat, in all black, or a mixture with green. You will like it with dull accessories, hat of felt, bag and gloves and shoes of suede, with perhaps an echoing touch of shiny patent on the shoes. The satin frock won't be the standby in your wardrobe that wool or flat crepe is, but it will make a splendid creation.

Sailor Suit Revived

The "sailor suit" has been revived.
Its latest version is made of soft wool with a square collar and fagoting for trimming.

TRIM WITH DARK FUR

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

This afternoon gown of beige dull-surfaced velvet declares an outstanding style trend, namely, the trimming of light materials with dark furs. The small cape gives the required breadth to the shoulders, thus accentuating the tight waistline, and interpreting the new silhouette which calls for width above and slenderness below the hips.

Long Evening Wrap of Velvet Is Newest Note

The long evening wrap of velvet is the newest note of the season. Short jackets and three-quarter wraps are with us in large numbers and their acceptance is unquestioned. Yet we believe it is the long romantic looking wrap that most women will turn to. It may or may not be belted in fox or ermine. It may have wide sleeves cut in one with the upper part. It conforms to the waistline, sometimes rather high, and then it flows and flares to cover or almost cover the bottom of the evening gown.

Legs-Mutton Returns

The leg-o-mutton sleeve—almost exactly like the ones grandmother wore —are shown on new fall coats.

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"For other foundation can no man lay than is laid, which is Jesus Christ." I Cor. 3: 11.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred E. Leighty, Supt. Sunday School 9:30. Prof. C. A. Gerber, instructor in music in the Fort Wayne Bible Institute, will speak in the St. Joe Church Sunday morning. Special music will be furnished by Prof. Gerber and his family.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt. Sunday School 9:30 A. M.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt. Sunday School 9 o'clock. A revival campaign of at least two weeks duration will begin next Sunday. Rev. Joseph Klopfenstein of Grapill, Ind., will be the evangelist. The work of Mr. and Mrs. Klopfenstein among young people and children has been especially blessed. Mr. and Mrs. Klopfenstein will furnish special music and Mrs. Klopfenstein will take charge of the children's meetings. There will be services Sunday mornings at 10:00 and every evening except Saturday at 7:30. V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt. Church School 9:30. Evening Worship 7:00.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt. Church School 9:15. Morning Message 10:30. G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurl, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt. Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt. Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTOR

State of Indiana
DeKalb County, SS:
I, Glenn Potter, Clerk of the Circuit Court, for the County of DeKalb, State of Indiana, do hereby certify that Walter J. Baker, has been appointed executor of the last will and testament of Anna Baker, late of DeKalb County who died testate, and the said Walter J. Baker, having qualified and given bond as such Executor is duly authorized to take upon himself the execution of said will. Witness my hand and seal of said Court, this 22nd day of October, 1931.

GLENN POTTER,
Clerk of DeKalb Circuit Court
W. D. Stump, Attorney. 4313

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3575
Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Joseph R. Sechler deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of December, 1931 and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the

C. E. McCLINTOCK

Attorney at Law
City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares. Witness, My name, this 2nd day of November, 1931.

MERRITT SECHLER,
Administrator.
Stump & McClintock, Atty. 4413

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3530
Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Martha R. Widney, deceased, to appear in DeKalb Circuit Court held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 5th day of December, 1931, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares. Witness, My name, this 9th day of November, 1931.

BYRON E. WIDNEY,
Executor.
H. C. Springer, Atty. 4513.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, Administratrix of the Estate of Catherine Rickett, deceased, late of said County.

Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.
EDNA M. PERKINS,
Administratrix.
November 13, 1931.
C. E. McClintock, Atty. 4613.

FALL MOLTS

(By Prof. H. D. Munroe)
Many flocks of early pullets are now in a fall molt. This condition was brought about by the very warm weather; by forced production caused by using lights; by feeding too heavy with milk and by over-feeding with scratch feed causing the birds to develop a dull appetite for some grains and finally to lose weight. To bring the birds out of this molt as soon as possible it is necessary to increase the laying mash consumption. Feed a moist laying mash once or twice each day. For awhile decrease the amount of scratch feed. Feed extra milk in the moist mash or in the condensed form. Increase the day to about thirteen hours by use of lights. Egg mash will develop feathers faster than any other feed. As the flocks begin to come back to normal production (80 per cent.) gradually increase the scratch feed until you are giving them all they will "clean up" daily. Reduce the amount of moist laying mash fed daily and when production reaches 40% change to a moist fattening mash. Discontinue the use of extra milk when production reaches 50%.

Russel R. Reidenour

Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

A MATRIMONIAL CHART

(By means of which it is easy to judge how long any given couple have been married.)
If he goes shopping and carries all her bundles for her without a word—two months.
If she tries so hard to persuade him to go out with the boys for an evening, and he won't go—three months.
If he goes—over three months.
If she insists that he invite his mother down more often—three weeks.
If he complains about the steak being too well done—one year.
If he would rather sit by the fire than go out—two weeks or twenty-five years.
If they play every hole in the links and come in smiling—you're all wrong, brother, they're not married at all!

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.
Frank Tustison.
W. J. Staman.
J. N. Scholes.

S. J. H. S.

Notes of Interest Gleaned from The Several Departments

The Boys' and Girls' basketball teams were defeated in their first home game Friday night, November 6th, by Hamilton. The boys had Hamilton beat up to the last three minutes, when Hamilton rallied and got one basket which put them one point in the lead. Our boys tried hard to score, but couldn't. The final score was St. Joe 11 and Hamilton 12.

The girls also put up a good fight, but were defeated by a score of 12 to 29. Perhaps you didn't know it, but the girls have named their team the "Trojans." Gladys Dressel was named captain and is very capable.

Saturday was the regular Teachers' Institute at Auburn. All of the teachers attended, but Mr. Noffsinger who either was lost, strayed, or stolen.

From the 9th of November to the 13th was National Education Week. In keeping with this idea "Visiting Day" was observed on Tuesday. Those visiting the classes that day were Mrs. Ruth Davis, Mrs. Clay Coburn, Mrs. Mary Donley, Mrs. Lester Pugsley, Mrs. Schondelmayer, Mrs. E. R. Kinsey, Mrs. Nick Riddle, Mrs. Albert Moore, Mrs. Roy Maxwell, Mrs. George Kees, and Floyd Knisely.

Tuesday evening, November 9, the P. T. A. met in the gym for their monthly meeting. A large crowd was in attendance. An interesting program in keeping with Armistice Day was given. Many of the local men who served during the World War gave short talks on how they celebrated November 11, 1918. Other features of the evening were a number from Mrs. Oberlin's room, a reading by Gladys Dressel, a musical reading by Margaret Hamilton, and a tableau was given. The Superintendent of the Garrett Schools gave a fine address on "Character."

Earlier in the year the four high school classes organized for the year. The Senior Class elected Gladys Dressel as president, Malcolm Woodcox as vice-president, George Wade as treasurer, and Mona Traxler as secretary. Their sponsor is Mr. Maxwell. The Juniors elected Milton Garrison as president, Marshall Morr as secretary, and Idalena Dressel as treasurer. Their class sponsor is Mr. Noffsinger. The Sophomores elected John Dille as president, and Orville Coburn as secretary-treasurer. Their class sponsor is Miss Dittmars. The Freshies elected John Kelter as president, Robert George as vice president, Jean Goodwin as secretary, and Eloise Draggoo as treasurer. Their sponsor is Miss Groves.

Glenn Likes has been absent from school for some time due to a scarlet fever quarantine.

Mona Traxler and Kenneth Gaff were absent from school Wednesday. Just what the reason really was is a mystery.

The dinner which was given by the Junior class, Tuesday, November 10, at the Hot Lunch room proved to be a success. The menu consisted of: Mashed potatoes and gravy, sandwiches, baked beans, peaches, cold slaw, cake, coffee, and milk. The prices were 15 cents for school children and 25 cents for outside patrons. Everything was donated by members of the class. After some expenses were taken care of the Juniors had $17.56. Mrs. Sam Wyatt, Mrs. Nick Riddle, Mrs. Charles Dressel and Mrs. Frank Curie assisted the Junior class in preparing the dinner.

The Play Committee, consisting of Lucille Smith, John Woodcox, and Idalena Dressel, which was chosen to pick the Junior class play, met Thursday night after school. As yet, nothing definite has been decided, but the choice is among "Tea Toper Tavern," "Midnight Rose," "The Henpecked Hero," and "The Wild Oats Boy." The play is to be directed by Miss Grove and will be given before the second week of January.

A pep session was held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon prior to the game with Pleasant Lake that night. Both the boys' and girls' team traveled in a bus to Pleasant Lake.

Rummage Sale

All kinds of Clothing within the reach of Every Poor Person—at Callaway's, at Newville

PUBLIC FARM SALE!

Having left the farm, I will sell at Public Sale on the Martin Engle farm, 1 mile north and 1/2 mile east of St. Joe, between the Leighty-Widney orchards TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24 Commencing at 10 o'clock
HORSES: Black mare, 10, weight 1600; Bay mare, weight 1200.
CATTLE: Durham cow, 7, to freshen Mar. 2; Durham cow, 8, open; Jersey heifer, 9 months old; Guernsey cow, 4 yrs. old, to freshen March 1. 8 head of sheep 3 and 4 years old. Good Mixed Hay in the Mow.
CORN IN THE CRIB
MACHINERY: Binder good as new; Mower; Spreader; Corn planter; Hay loader; Rake; Roller; Spring tooth harrow; Disc harrow; Riding plow; Bryan plow; Ohio corn plow; Turnbull wagon; Log bunks; Harness; Collars; Oil drum; Household goods: Beds; chairs; tables; china closet; dresser; commode; davenport; stove; side board; cabinet; stands; cupboard; carpets; etc; etc.

The Usual Terms.
Rhodenbaugh & McNamara, Auct.
F. R. Bowman, Clerk.

John Engle, Prop.

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER. SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, NOV. 26, 1931

NUMBER 47

THE LATER HISTORY OF THANKSGIVING

During American Colonial history Thanksgiving was a feast day largely confined to the New England states.

Following an action by the United States Congress, President George Washington proclaimed November 26, 1789, as the first national Thanksgiving Day, in gratefulness for the adoption of the Federal Constitution.

In 1855 Governor John of Virginia asked the state legislature to set aside a day for Thanksgiving, so that he might issue a formal call for its observance. For some years Thanksgiving Days were regulated by the various states. They fell upon almost any of the Thursdays in November.

During the Civil War Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale of Philadelphia sent to President Lincoln without comment a copy of the original proclamation of George Washington. President Lincoln proclaimed a national Thanksgiving Day. Firmly established as a national matter the custom has continued unchanged.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ethel Marie Baker nee Wolf was born in Defiance County, Ohio, January 20, 1910. She departed this life November 20, 1931 at the age of 21 years and 10 months. With her folks she moved to DeKalb County, Indiana in 1920.

She was united in marriage on February 15, 1929 with Dewayne Baker of Concord Township. To this union were born one daughter, Isabelle Etta, age 17 months and one son, Eugene Kenneth, who preceded his mother in death but a few days. Mrs. Baker attended the Concord Methodist Protestant Church and lived a Christian life until the time of her leaving this earth.

Mrs. Baker's father, John Wolf, died when she was about two and a half years of age. A half sister, Marcella, also preceded her in death. She leaves to mourn their loss her husband, her daughter, Isabelle Etta, her mother, Mrs. Etta Schuler, her step-father, Philip Schuler, one sister, Margaret Wolf, two half sisters, Marvell and Phyllis Schuler, one half brother, Walter Schuler, and a large group of relatives and friends.

The funeral was held from the Concord M. P. Church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. V. O. Harrold. Interment was made at Auburn, by E. R. Kinsey.

Candace Cordelia (King) Dermott, the only daughter of Alonzo and Marilla King and the granddaughter of Benjamin Alton, one of the first settlers in DeKalb County, was born in Concord Township on November 19, 1852, departed this life November 19, 1931, aged 79 years, and 10 days.

She became the wife of Marion Dermott on May 7, 1871. To this union was born three children, Mark, who died when he was one year old, Victor and Forrest. Mr. Dermott departed this life on December 31, 1902.

She became a member of the church at Coburn's Corners under the preaching of Cyrus Alton on May 15, 1867 having been a member for 64 years.

The sickness which terminated in her death dated from September 26 when she fell breaking

THANKSGIVING DAY has its true and complete significance only when it is contrasted with trouble, privation and suffering which are past and gone. Few there are in this country of ours who in the last two years have lacked the common experiences which in their passing give us cause for thanksgiving. Few there are who cannot find some reasons for gratitude and satisfaction on this anniversary of Thanksgiving Day.

May this day for once and all be a day of promise if not of bounty, of neighborly friendliness, and goodwill, and of the faith that our country, as we ourselves, is bound for a prosperous future which will be even more gratefully appreciated because of the trials of the immediate past.

To everyone we are safe in offering this Thanksgiving Day toast "EAT HEARTY!"

With sincere good wishes,

FRED B. LEIGHTY, Pub.

her limb. During all her suffering she was cheerful and bore it bravely, she seemed content with the workings of One "Who doeth all things well."

The care given by her son, Victor in her old age has been a perfect expression of love and devotion.

She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Victor and Forrest, two grandchildren, Marion and Evelyn and a host of friends.

The funeral was held from the home, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, in charge of Rev. J. O. Rose and Walter Coburn. Burial was made in the Alton cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the kindnesses shown us during the illness of our mother and also for the expressions of sympathy in her passing from our midst. We deeply appreciate all that has been said and done and also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Victor Dermott.
Forrest Dermott and Children.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP LADY DIES SUNDAY

Mrs. Mary Gerig, the widow of the late Noah Gerig, a large land owner of Jackson township, who died a year ago in April, passed away at 8:30 o'clock Sunday night at the Dr. J. A. Sanders hospital in Auburn. The cause of her death was pernicious anaemia. She had been in the hospital five weeks. For the last two years Mrs. Gerig had been in failing health.

Mrs. Gerig was 56 years of age on the 21st of September, the daughter of John Koble, residing near the Gerig farm eight miles south of Auburn.

The deceased is survived by six children, Forrest, residing at Auburn, Joseph Gerig and Mrs. Goldie Kruse, living south of Auburn, Virgil and Naomi, residing at home and Mrs. Wilbur Hartung of Huntertown.

Besides the children there survive the aged father, two brothers, Sol and Christ Koble of Fort Wayne and a sister, Mrs. H. A. Schlatter of Seattle, Wash., and seven grandchildren.

The deceased was a member of the County Line Church of God.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Hopewell Church, in Jackson township, Rev. Williams officiating, and burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

ARE OPOSSUMS HATCHED FROM EGGS? EH!

A few days ago, one of our citizens stepped into our sanctum, saying, he wanted our help in settling a controversy in which he had just been engaged: the point in question being the manner in which a mother opossum brings forth her young; are they born, as are most animals, or are they hatched from eggs?

The man who asked for our opinion, contending opossums are born, while his disputant stoutly maintained they were hatched from eggs. We had to agree with the gentleman that he was right.

This conversation brought to our mind some peculiar exceptions to the rule, regarding the manner in which different animals, birds, reptiles and mammals propagate their kind.

For instance: the whale a mammal, gives birth to their young, contrary to the manner of fishes; a whale is also warm blooded.

Not in this connection, however, a peculiar thing in regard to the owl, is that it has a stomach instead of a gizzard, resembling animals in this respect. And, did you know it, the giraffe is the only animal which possesses no vocal organs, therefore is incapable of emitting any sound from that source?

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The President of the United States writes, "We approach the season when, according to custom, dating from the garnering of the first harvest by our forefathers in the New World, a day is set forth to give thanks, even amid hardships to Almighty God for our temporal and spiritual blessings."

Hence, on Thanksgiving Day, services at the Spencerville Lutheran Church at 9:30 A. M., and the St. Joe Lutheran Church at 10:30 A. M.

ASKING FORECLOSURE ON NEWVILLE TWP. FARM

The state of Indiana by County Auditor Frank E. Lyon has sued Ray M. Herrick and others in the DeKalb circuit court.

The complaint, prepared by County Attorney H. C. Springer, says that on April 3, 1916, Ray M. and Millie A. Herrick borrowed $1,200 from the school fund, due in five years, and executed a mortgage on 42.50 acres of land in Newville township. On the same date the Herricks gave Clara E. Allen a second mortgage for $1,000. In 1930, Beyer Bros. secured a judgment against Herrick for $719.47 and the receiver of Beyer Bros. is made a party defendant. Last May the trustees of Nettie Bevington under the will of John M. Ainsworth procured a judgment against the Herricks for $10,000.89 and they are also named as parties defendant in this case.

The court is asked to render a judgment of $1,800 and foreclosure and to appoint a receiver.

Eager Men
There are men who, with clear perceptions as they think, of their own duty, do not see how too eager a pursuit of one duty may involve them in the violation of others, or how too warm an embracement of one truth may lead to a disregard of other truths equally important.

—Daniel Webster.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

CULTURE CLUB

The ladies of the Culture Club held their pre-Thanksgiving meeting at the country home of Mrs. George Hart, Wednesday evening, November 17th.

Seventeen members responded to roll call with Thanksgiving quotations.

After a short business session the committee for the evening, Dessie Hurni and Catharine Bowser took charge and the remainder of the evening was passed playing the game, Gobble, Gobble and the progressive game "Thanksgiving Bunk-O." Prizes were won by Alice Ridenbach, Pluma Hamilton and Neva Hursh.

The hostess served dainty refreshments consisting of cottage cheese, sandwiches, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee.

Three guests were present, Mrs. Sawyer, Margaret Hamilton and Mrs. Shull.

HOME BUREAU

The Concord Township Home Bureau held a most enjoyable meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Nella Morr. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Borthwick. Singing was led by Mrs. Mary Krise. During the business session it was decided to put a limit of ten cents on gifts for the Christmas exchange, same to be along the grocery line, each lady is requested to enclose an original four line verse with her gift, which will be read by the one receiving it.

Twenty-four members responded to roll call with "What I have enjoyed most in the club this year." The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Millie Shull. The project work was presented by Mrs. Pluma Hamilton and it was agreed that a demonstration of dip painting of vases, candles, and Christmas wrapping paper would be given in the forenoon of the December meeting, those interested being present at that time.

A Thanksgiving party committee composed of Mrs. Pauline Simanton, Mrs. Hazel Nichols, and Mrs. Ross Watt then took charge, giving a Thanksgiving menu contest and a turkey hunt. Mrs. Millie Shull writing the best menu and Mrs. Cora Fetters finding the most turkeys, for which they received prizes from the committee.

The hostess, assisted by Harriett Johnson, Inez Hadsell, Laura Washler and Katie Storer served brick ice cream, delicious white cake and coffee.

Members will please take notice that the December meeting will be held the second Friday, December 11th, and unless otherwise notified will be at the home of Mrs. Anna Tustison.

BUNCO CLUB

Miss Inez Kinsey and Mrs. Roy Bowser entertained in honor of their sister, Mrs. A. W. Mohney, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Kinsey, Friday evening, November 20th.

Those present were: Hazel Hanna, Dessie Hurni, Lillian Ridenbach, Lena Meek, Elnora Blue, Mary Kinsey, Viola Coburn. The out-of-town guests were, Ruth Jenkins from Auburn and Inez Daub and Beale Willett from Hicksville, Ohio.

The evening was spent playing progressive Bunco. Prizes were won by Mrs. Hazel Hanna, Inez Daub, Viola Coburn and Elnora Blue.

The hostesses served dainty refreshments, and the remainder of the evening was passed visiting and enjoying the music contributed by Mrs. Mohney.

Great Source of Talcum

North Carolina has one of the largest talcum mines in the United States. From this mine comes much of the fine soft talcum used as face powder, and also the talcum used in roofing and in automobile tires. The cosmetic type of talcum measures 90,000 particles to the inch.

LOOK HERE?

Start long Winter Evenings
RIGHT

"Buy A RADIO"

Note the TERMS

$1.00 Down and $4.00 in 3 Days at the End of the Demonstration, or $5.00 Down, $1.25 per week on Balance

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

Using Your Head

A noted Doctor says: "The human body has many organs that serve no purpose." Merely hangovers that evolution has failed to "evolute" as yet.

Things like the Appendix, for instance. No, he wasn't referring to HEADS. Most of us still use our Heads—at times. The ones who really use their Heads to advantage are those who keep their money in the Bank, pay by check and are guided by their Banker on all their investment deals.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

RIDE THE BUS

LOW Round-Trip Fares
TO FORT WAYNE

-- FROM --

ST. JOE - - $1.00
SPENCERVILLE - - .85c

SCHEDULE OF BUS

Bus Leaves St. Joe.....7:50 a.m. 1:50 p.m.
Bus Leaves Spencerville.....8:00 a.m. 2:00 p.m.
Leaves Ft. Wayne.....10:00 a.m. 4:40 p.m.
Sunday Schedule, leaves St. Joe 5:50 p.m., Wayne 11:00

All Passengers Covered with Insurance

Use the Bus for Special Trips such as Basket Ball, Theatre parties at a very low cost. Ask the driver

Let the bus deliver your freight and parcels from Ft. Wayne.

FARMERS NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE-STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HOME-COMING OF EMILY

By FANNIE HURST

IF ONLY coming home had been the warm relaxed experience it should have been.

There they all were, bless them, in the boxy old red brick house in which every member of that family of five children had first seen the light of day.

It was a house plastered over, time and time again, with the most poignant memories of Emily Stoddard Brandt's life. Her baby sister prints were still on one of the under layers of wall paper in what had once been the nursery, and which now served as guest room during family reunions or visits of the married children.

Emily had seen the light of adolescence in this house, the happy teens, the first eager twenties; love; marriage.

Coming back to it, after a five-year period as the wife of a young attaché to a Far East government, was the reward of a silent nostalgia she had privately endured through every one of the long intervening months. Not even her mother, with hair that had gone even whiter in the interval, and who now sat in her accustomed place at the head of the table, her hand in the familiar gesture of tilting the teapot, had sensed to what extent this girl had been lonely for her.

In many ways, all except the fundamental one, it was an ideal homecoming. There were all four of her brothers and sisters, with wives, husbands, children, around that board, and her father, even with his deafness and increasing disabilities, still sitting with his handsome old authority at his place where the sideboard mirror reflected him three times.

The only one missing of all the little compact group was Robert. His work as attaché did not permit a visit from the Far East.

This was Emily's trip, alone, after five years, back to the sweet warm scenes of her childhood.

This was Emily's trip—silently, secretly, her trip. Not even Robert yet knew the deep-rooted mission of her trip. She had come home to the bosom of her family to unburden that mission.

How good and staple and right and normal and decent they were, Ellison and his blond wife, Marie. Their marriage had taken, all right. Regarding them across the table, they seemed to Emily, so tired, like sleek purring young cats. Even the high-handed, always difficult to manage sister Hilda, had found her mate in Hugh. Their banter, if nervous and high, was quick, good natured; their shafts of glances seeming to dart through intervening figures straight for one another. The same with Mercia and Roy. The brood which came, home occasionally to roost at the paternal board was a thriving one.

The brood had come home now to do honor to Emily, five years absent, and the only one of the children who had as yet set foot on foreign land.

"Aunt Emily, do Chinamen eat dead rats?"

How good to be among these, her own! The prattling children of her brothers and sisters; the warm understanding glances of those with whom she had grown up.

"Daughter, tell us about Robert's work."

"Ah, father, Robert will go far. These years are just his apprenticeship. He takes to diplomacy like a fish to water."

"Well, the family needs some one to shed a little glory of distinction on it, what say, father?"

This from Roy, at thirty-five a lumber millionaire, and already known for philanthropies.

Curious of his wife, Letta, sitting beside him, with her hand touching his, to utter that, "What, yes?"

But oh, how good to be home among them. How it eased her heart and at the same time, wrung it with the tightness of pain.

To have to enter a wedge here! To have to inject into this well-woven group the first strange alien note of disharmony. And yet the time had come. Five years of warding it off had been only evasion.

Thank God her mother would understand. No matter how difficult the telling; no matter how bitter for her to have to hear the woman there in the lace cap, tilting the teapot with a gesture dear to Emily, would understand.

Later, the rest of them must know. Father, whose high pride would suffer, Mercia, who would seem unympathetic, but stand fiercely by; Roy, who might not comprehend, but would rally with a sense of clan. . . oh, it was going to be hard to tell these people, whose lives were on even keel.

The first term of endearment he had used since their honeymoon. A sparse word that years before would have meant much.

But now, in the long period of his self-concentration, embittered by her loneliness, satiated with his sapping ambition, weary of his coldness, even though it were only a temperamental coldness, it meant nothing to Emily.

Excitedly, it meant nothing to Emily. No longer could Robert hurt and chill and defeat her.

She was not going back to him. That was her homecoming. Emily had come home to stay!

It was not going to be difficult to tell mother. Alone, upstairs, with the others down at bridge, they huddled, as of old, on the wide old bed in her parents' room.

"Oh, my sweet," sighed the mother of Emily, and drew her close and kissed her a dozen times and let the tears flow from her cheeks onto those of her daughter, "sometimes, in these five years, it has seemed to me I must fly to you. My most understanding child. The only one to whom I can talk. Unburden myself. Cry."

"Oh, mother—my dear—"

"Emily dearest, tell me the good things. Tell me of you and Robert. The only marriage of all my five which has brought happiness. So much to tell you darling. What we've been through! With Roy and Letta, trying to hold them together, dear. It's been a wrong marriage from the start, but scandal would kill your father. Then there's Ellison and Marie, I didn't want to write it to you darling, but did you know? For almost a year they threatened divorce, until, almost on my knees, Emily, I succeeded, for your father's sake, for the family's sake, in patching things up. Oh, my Emily, I've needed you so! Tell me some things—some good things about you and Robert."

Before she sailed back to Japan, and three months later, the mother of Emily had been fed with a banquet of good things about her and Robert.

Diplomatic Trick That Served Useful Purpose

Bismarck precipitated a great war by altering a telegram.

Daniel Webster and Alexander Baring, Lord Ashburton, prevented one by a very similar device, but they never bragged about it. Isaac S. Metcalf writes, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

They were trying to fix the boundary between the United States and Canada from the Atlantic and the Rockies. They made much progress in the first months of 1842, for they were alike eager for peace and they recognized that the old treaty of 1783 would no longer work.

It was, however, one thing for Webster and Ashburton to draft a treaty and very much another to get it ratified. The Canadian rebellion of 1837 and the Fenian adventure of the Caroline had stirred up the jingoes on both sides. The British parliament was properly indignant and the United States senate ran true to form.

In July, 1842, however, Webster produced before the senate an early French map which showed a red line sustaining the British claim. This line, he said, represented Benjamin Franklin's understanding of what the boundary should be. The senators from Maine and the house delegation, too, took one look and came to heel.

Almost on the same day the British foreign office submitted to parliament a map which was supposed to have belonged to King George III, and which showed a red line which followed closely the American claim.

The legend ran to the effect that this line indicated the boundary, "as described" by Mr. Oswald, who had been one of the British peace commissioners of 50 years before.

"Lord Palmerston, always a freer, ranted against what he called the 'Ashburton capitulations,' but parliament made haste to approve the treaty. The United States senate was also surprisingly tame and voted hastily to ratify. 'The battle of the maps,' as Webster called it, was won and the present boundary, midway between the red lines of the two maps, was fixed for keeps.

The Canadians, especially in New Brunswick, felt that parliament had let them down. A good many people in Maine regarded the senate's action in the same light.

Then, too, there are still those who suspect that both the maps were prepared for the occasion.

Autos Kill Wild Life

With paved roads and fast automobiles on the increase, the number of birds and animals killed on highways mounts steadily every year, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Very few small birds can fly faster than 25 miles an hour, and small land animals move much more slowly, specialists of the biological survey point out, so they have no chance whatever with a fast motor car.

In the prairie regions of the country ground squirrels and jack rabbits suffer most, while in the autumn in the eastern states the box tortoise is perhaps the chief victim.

The Two Assistants

Upton Sinclair, the radical writer, said at a dinner in Monterey: "We have a lot of millionaires in America, but they all worked hard, too hard, to accumulate their millions. They broke the laws of health, and some of them broke a lot of other laws."

"In fact, gentlemen, we might almost say a millionaire can't get along nowadays without two assistants—a doctor to keep him out of bed and a lawyer to keep him out of jail."

New Headquarters for War Mothers

National headquarters of the American War Mothers have been established in Washington in this large residence building on New Hampshire avenue. A portion of the building will be used for office and administrative purposes, while the remainder will be fitted for residence purposes to be used by dependent war mothers and mothers visiting their sons in government hospitals here.

AMATEURS LINK UP FAR EAST BY RADIO

Keep in Touch With Expedition 7,500 Miles Away.

Washington.—Communications history between organization headquarters and expeditions in the field is being written at this time in Washington, where the National Geographic society is in almost daily touch with its staff representative, Maynard Owen Williams, who is with the "Citizen-Herald Trans-Asia" expedition among the Himalaya mountains of northern India 7,500 miles away.

The reception of the frequent messages that fly from this remote region to Washington is dependent on the co-operation of the most elaborate network of amateur radio operators, that ever has been organized as an aid to scientific exploration.

Each evening at 8 p. m. eastern standard time more than 150 of America's most expert amateur radio operators, under the supervision of the American Radio Relay league, listen in for messages from the expedition, which are relayed from a station in Beirut, Syria, at the eastern end of the Mediterranean sea, more than 6,000 miles from Washington.

In most cases the messages are copied direct in Washington and are telephoned a few moments later to the headquarters of the National Geographic society. On some occasions, however, atmospheric conditions have been so bad in the Washington area that it has been impossible to receive the messages. At these times some of the many other listeners with more favorable conditions in their regions have copied the messages, and they have been quickly relayed to their destination.

During the period of more than three months since the expedition began its trek across Asia no messages have failed to reach Washington within a few hours after they were sent.

The value of keeping in almost daily contact with a field party which is often far from ordinary channels of communication has been demonstrated on several occasions. The most recent of these was when a telegraphic report from Srinagar, a capital of Kashmir, stated that the expedition had found it impossible to negotiate the 14,000-foot Burzil pass in the Himalayas with its motor cars and that they had been abandoned. Fears at the society's headquarters were set at rest a few hours later when a radio message from the mountain-climbing party itself, 100 miles north of Srinagar, announced that the cars had climbed over Burzil pass without serious difficulty and were proceeding steadily on their way toward the India-Chinese-Turkistan border.

This is not the first experience of the National Geographic society in communicating between headquarters and field parties by means of radio. With the co-operation of the American Radio Relay league the society pioneered in such activities in 1925, when numerous reports were received through amateurs from the MacMillan-National Geographic-navy expedition to northwestern Greenland, the expedition with which Rear Admiral Byrd obtained his first Arctic flying experience. The technique of radio communication has been greatly improved since 1925, however, and the present communications network is believed to be more efficient than any similar organization which has been in operation.

Flyers Will Test Two-Seated Pursuit Planes

Mount Clemens, Mich.—Two-seated pursuit planes will be tried out for the first time by the army at Selfridge field this winter, according to Maj. Gerard E. Brower, flight commander of the first pursuit group.

Major Brower said 24 of the new type planes were being sent here to undergo tests to determine how they can be used to the greatest advantage. Delivery of 45 new single seaters also is to start soon, Brower said.

The depression has cut into the activities of flying officers, Major Brower revealed. Whereas an officer usually flies 400 hours a year, he now is flying at the rate of about 220 hours yearly, he said.

Population of Detroit Is Placed at 2,104,764

Detroit.—After a year's study and discussion, the bureau of census finally has determined, over the area of the metropolitan district of Detroit and the population.

The bureau has placed the area at 740.52 square miles and the population at 2,104,764. Of the population, 1,508,082 is inside the Detroit city limits and 536,102 in the remainder of the area.

WAIFS GRANTED OFFICIAL CERTIFICATES OF BIRTH

Bar Sinister Removed by New Illinois Law.

Chicago.—Approximately 800 waifs of unknown parentage, adopted recently in Chicago, have been granted official birth certificates under a law passed by the last session of the legislature. Hundreds of similar certificates have been and are being issued throughout the state, thus removing the bar sinister from innocent infants.

Regarded as one of the most humane and righteous measures ever enacted, the bill was drafted by William E. Golden, deputy clerk of the Cook County court at Chicago, Representative Edward Skarda of Chicago, introduced the bill which was passed unanimously by both houses of the legislature at Springfield and promptly signed by Governor Emmerson.

Attorney General Carlstrom has formally pronounced the law valid and mandatory, and also retroactive, so that thousands of individuals may now be availed of the opportunity to erase the "bar sinister" from their records.

Here is the "meat" of the bill, effective as law July 1, 1931: "Whenever a decree of adoption has been entered declaring a child adopted in any court of competent jurisdiction in the State of Illinois, a certificate of the decree of adoption may be recorded with the proper department of registration of births, and a certificate of birth shall issue upon request, bearing the new name of the child as shown in the decree of adoption, the names of the foster parents of the said child, age, sex, date of birth, no reference in any birth certificate shall have reference to the adoption of the said child."

Prior to the passage of this law almost endless trouble had been caused in and out of courts, and bitter shame and distress to those unfortunate who have been unable to obtain a formal birth certificate.

TO SUCCEED CLAUDEL

An especially posed portrait study of Count Charles de Chambrun, who will be assigned to duty as French ambassador to the United States, succeeding Paul Claudel, who will be transferred to Germany. Count de Chambrun is a veteran of many years in his nation's diplomatic service.

Cousin of King George Forced to Sell Home

London.—Britain's heavy tax burdens have struck another personage high in British society.

Lady Louis Mountbatten, the former princess of Battenberg, cousin by marriage of King George, has instructed her real estate agents to sell her London home because of the tremendous taxes its upkeep entailed.

The Mountbattens' London home, Brook house, is one of the show places of the West end.

Man and Wildcat Scare Each Other

Albany, Ore.—Truck-driver Louis Swander went fishing. A wildcat came out of the brush, stared at him. Swander remembered the copy-book advice and looked the animal in the eyes. Then Swander turned and ran. Looking back, he saw the wildcat running in the opposite direction.

agar, announced that the cars had climbed over Burzil pass without serious difficulty and were proceeding steadily on their way toward the India-Chinese-Turkistan border.

This is not the first experience of the National Geographic society in communicating between headquarters and field parties by means of radio. With the co-operation of the American Radio Relay league the society pioneered in such activities in 1925, when numerous reports were received through amateurs from the MacMillan-National Geographic-navy expedition to northwestern Greenland, the expedition with which Rear Admiral Byrd obtained his first Arctic flying experience. The technique of radio communication has been greatly improved since 1925, however, and the present communications network is believed to be more efficient than any similar organization which has been in operation.

Flyers Will Test Two-Seated Pursuit Planes

Mount Clemens, Mich.—Two-seated pursuit planes will be tried out for the first time by the army at Selfridge field this winter, according to Maj. Gerard E. Brower, flight commander of the first pursuit group.

Major Brower said 24 of the new type planes were being sent here to undergo tests to determine how they can be used to the greatest advantage. Delivery of 45 new single seaters also is to start soon, Brower said.

The depression has cut into the activities of flying officers, Major Brower revealed. Whereas an officer usually flies 400 hours a year, he now is flying at the rate of about 220 hours yearly, he said.

Population of Detroit Is Placed at 2,104,764

Detroit.—After a year's study and discussion, the bureau of census finally has determined, over the area of the metropolitan district of Detroit and the population.

The bureau has placed the area at 740.52 square miles and the population at 2,104,764. Of the population, 1,508,082 is inside the Detroit city limits and 536,102 in the remainder of the area.

WAIFS GRANTED OFFICIAL CERTIFICATES OF BIRTH

Chicago.—Approximately 800 waifs of unknown parentage, adopted recently in Chicago, have been granted official birth certificates under a law passed by the last session of the legislature. Hundreds of similar certificates have been and are being issued throughout the state, thus removing the bar sinister from innocent infants.

Regarded as one of the most humane and righteous measures ever enacted, the bill was drafted by William E. Golden, deputy clerk of the Cook County court at Chicago, Representative Edward Skarda of Chicago, introduced the bill which was passed unanimously by both houses of the legislature at Springfield and promptly signed by Governor Emmerson.

Attorney General Carlstrom has formally pronounced the law valid and mandatory, and also retroactive, so that thousands of individuals may now be availed of the opportunity to erase the "bar sinister" from their records.

TO SUCCEED CLAUDEL

An especially posed portrait study of Count Charles de Chambrun, who will be assigned to duty as French ambassador to the United States, succeeding Paul Claudel, who will be transferred to Germany. Count de Chambrun is a veteran of many years in his nation's diplomatic service.

Cousin of King George Forced to Sell Home

London.—Britain's heavy tax burdens have struck another personage high in British society.

Lady Louis Mountbatten, the former princess of Battenberg, cousin by marriage of King George, has instructed her real estate agents to sell her London home because of the tremendous taxes its upkeep entailed.

The Mountbattens' London home, Brook house, is one of the show places of the West end.

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes the acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water neutralizes instantly many times that much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go, get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

What About the Nose Ring?

Customer—I want to buy a diamond ring.

Salesman—Yes, sir. Allow me to show you our combination sets of three pieces—engagement, wedding and teething rings. The very latest thing out, sir.

Frank and truthful people are a nuisance if you are not perfect.

An onion a day is altogether too continuous.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Cast H. Fletcher
CASTORIA
CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

A man isn't laid up for a week with chigger "bites" all over him, but maybe he'd like to be.

A messenger boy would be a novelty in moving pictures.

World's Tallest Hotel
46 Stories High

CHICAGO'S MORRISON HOTEL
Madison and Clark Streets

Every room in the Morrison Hotel is outside with bath, circulating ice water, bed-head reading lamp and service. Garage facilities.

LEONARD HICKS
Managing Director

2500 ROOMS $3.00 UP

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains of Abraham

By James Oliver Curwood

© by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc. WNU Service.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

The fire burned down until they were even in the night. Hours passed, and the Seneca listened in the stillness as if oppressed by fear. At last they heard the chanting of a voice coming nearer as fast as a canoe could travel. It was the death song with which Tiaoga had grieved for his daughter, and the savages were moved by it as leaves are moved by a wind. The suspense was broken, for in the song of grief was also a note of triumph which brought the message that Tiaoga had been successful in his pursuit. Fresh fuel was piled on the fires, and the flames leapt high. When Tiaoga and his companions came from the river, they brought no prisoner with them. Yet a fierce light shone in their countenances as they entered the illumination, and beginning his death song again Tiaoga unrolled a sheet of the pitchy material about the torture stake. In a moment a winding sheet of flame licked its way up the pole, and around this Tiaoga danced, finishing his song to the cracking of the pitch. He described how they had overtaken the fleeing ones at the edge of the Great rocks beyond which the water thundered in a maelstrom. The blind man had fought with a hatchet he had stolen from Ah De Bah's tepee until another blade was sunk in his brain to quiet him. He was a devil in his blindness, and Tiaoga pointed to Shindas, who held back his buckskin shirt to show a long and bleeding gash. The white man was dead, and his body, weighted by the darkness of his soul, was gone forever in the deep waters beyond the rocks.

But the unseen one who had tricked them, the girl whose evil spirit had come to bring dishonor upon them and to desecrate the soul of Soi Yan Makwun, they had taken alive. Tiaoga's face grew livid. His soul had gone so black when they caught her that he could see only death, for he heard his daughter's voice crying to him for vengeance. So he had killed her treacherous one. He had killed her at the command of Silver Hoels, whose spirit was singing to him. He had killed the white girl with his own hands and had flung her body to disappear with that of the blind man.

Suddenly Tiaoga drew from his hiding place next his breast a thing which brought a gasp to the lips of those about him. All recognized it as Toinette's beautiful braid of hair streaming from the bleeding scalp the savage held above his head.

Tiaoga became more than ever a fiend in the flesh as he danced about the stake. Flecks of blood from the red scalp struck his face. At the height of his madness he flung it into the heart of the pitchwood fire.

Tiaoga Became More Than Ever a Fiend in the Flesh as He Danced About the Stake.

Soi Yan Makwun was avenged and the demand of his people answered.

CHAPTER XII

At noon of the second day of his journey Jeems came to the village of Kanetio, whose chief was Matosee, or Yellow Bear. He had traveled the seventy miles in thirty hours, and was determined to return as quickly, for he was troubled deeply by the thought that Toinette was alone at a time when the sentiment of the Indians was turning against them. Why he and not a tribal runner had been sent to Yellow Bear puzzled him, and the fact that he bore a message of small importance increased his uneasiness.

He had scarcely reached Kanetio when his weapons, a knife and hatchet, were taken from him and he was brought to Matosee. This individual who was killed at Lake George the following year and who was a boy in appearance though the French held him among the bravest fighters of the Six Nations, informed Jeems that he was a prisoner. He said Tiaoga had defaulted in a payment of corn that was due, and Jeems was to cover part of the obligation. Matosee tersely explained the agreement between the chiefs. If Jeems attempted to escape and was caught by his warriors, he would be killed; if by any chance he succeeded in getting back to Chenusio, then he would answer to Tiaoga with his life. A dead line was drawn encircling the tepee in which he was to live, and he found himself under a surveillance little less strict than that accorded to a prisoner whose fate was to be torture or death.

The fourth afternoon he perceived an excited gathering of women and children some distance from him but paid no attention to it. Depressed by fears which had become unbearable, he was determined to gain his freedom before another dawn. Increasing cloudiness during the afternoon and a promise of storm with the beginning of evening added to his hopes for success. Thunder and rain came with darkness, and he feigned sleep at an early hour. It was almost midnight when he sat up and listened to the downpour. He was about to rise to his feet, certain that no Seneca would be lying in the deluge, when he heard the sudden rustle of the skin flap to the tepee as it was drawn back and some one entered.

In a moment a small voice whispered his name. Cold hands found him as he held out his arms. He felt a child's drenched form.

Then came choking words half smothered in the heat of the storm: "I am Wood Pigeon. I ran away from Chenusio three days ago. I have come to tell you Silver Hoels is dead."

Lightning flashes which accompanied the storm that night revealed a solitary figure hurrying through the wilderness toward Chenusio, a figure which sped until it was winded and then continued at a slower pace with a persistence no beat of rain or blast of wind could halt.

The traveler was Jeems. Wood Pigeon had repeated the message Toinette entrusted to her a few minutes preceding her flight with Hepab Adams, and no blackness was so thick that it hid from him the tortured faces of his wife and his blind uncle as they beckoned him to vengeance.

Even vengeance seemed futile and inadequate. Hope did not rise in his breast. He had hoped when he knew his mother was dead, he had hoped he sought for life among the ruins of Tonteur manor, he had never quite given up hope that his uncle was alive. But now it was impossible for him to find that saving grace within his mental reach. As he went on, he was slowly dispossessed of the power to hate, though every sinew in his body was bent with implacable resolution in its mission of death. He would kill Tiaoga. He would kill Shindas. There would be only justice and no gratification of the flesh or the spirit in his act. A greater and more encompassing thing than the impulse which had sent him from Matosee's village began to choke him with a force that was sickening. It was his loneliness. The vastness of the world. The sudden going of the one who had remained to make it habitable for him. Without Toinette there was no reason for his existence, no reason why it should continue to give him the warmth of life. Toinette was dead. It was a fate predestined from the beginning, something he had always feared vaguely. Nothing counted now; to kill Tiaoga and Shindas would not cause a rift in the hopelessness which lay ahead of him.

He advanced with a speed which would have exhausted him at any other time. As the hours passed, an explanation for this haste gathered in his consciousness. He was going home. That in all of its significance was the cabin in which Toinette and he had lived. Their home. A thing that had not gone with her body and yet was a part of her which he would find as he had left it when he came to the end of the trail, unless Tiaoga had destroyed that, too.

He reached Chenusio. The place gleamed with pools of water. Suspicious dogs appeared to identify him, but the people were asleep. He found his cabin with the door closed as it would have been if Toinette were asleep inside. He could feel her presence when he entered. But she was not there. He made a light cautious search and it was so that eyes outside could not see. The door, the walls, the room were illumined faintly. He began to put his hands on things, to gather them here and there, making a bundle of his treasures on the table—her things. When he had prepared the bundle he armed himself with a knife and a hatchet and his bow, then extinguished the light and went out, closing the door behind him.

He sought Shindas, for his plan was to kill him first.

Then he would kill Tiaoga. Shindas was not in his tepee. The place was empty and his weapons were gone, evidence that he was away on a journey. For a few moments after this discovery, Jeems stood in the shadow of an oak looking at Tiaoga's dwelling place. The urge to destroy was not strong in him. The gentle whispering among the trees and the drip of water from their foliage combined in a melody of peace which struggled to turn him from the thought of death. It might have won if a tall figure had not come out of the tepee he was watching. Jeems knew it was Tiaoga. The chief's advance toward him as if an invisible fate were leading him to his execution. Then he paused. The moon was bright. It lit up his features thirty yards away as he gazed into a mystery of distance which his eyes could not penetrate. What he had brought him, what he was thinking, what the night held for him, Jeems did not ask himself. He strung his bow and fitted an arrow. Then he called Tiaoga's name in a low voice to let him know that retribution had come. The bow twanged and a slender shaft sped through the moonlight with the winged sound of a hummingbird. Tiaoga did not cry out. His hands clutched at his breast as he sank to the earth and lay there a motionless blot.

He Heard the Arrow Strike.

Jeems went down the river. For many days he hid along its shores seeking for Toinette's body. He saw Seneca pass and repass, but as he traveled almost entirely in the water he was successful in evading them.

When he reached Lake Ontario, he turned eastward, still crying his bundle. At night he slept with it close to his face, breathing the sweet incense of Toinette's things. Sometimes he held to his lips the piece of red cloth she had worn around her hair.

No spring of action encouraged him to return to Forbidden valley or the Richelieu, and it was chance and not a definite purpose which brought him to the place on Lake Champlain called Monticou by the Indians. This was late in the summer of 1750. The French had occupied a point of land and were building Fort Vaudreuil and Fort Carillon. Jeems seized upon these activities with the avidity of one who at last had found something to assuage a killing hunger. He joined Monticou's forces and was given a musket and a spade in place of his bow and arrows.

He entered now an apprenticeship of digging and building in the earth where the forts were going up. The work and its environment, the excitement of war, and the ever-increasing news of French victories were a relief to his broken spirit, but they did not thrill him. He fought against this apathy. He tried to hate once more. He repeated to himself many times that the English and their Indians were responsible for the tragedies which had befallen his loved ones. But he could not rise to the passion for vengeance. He wanted to fight, he wanted to see the English and their allies overwhelmed, but his emotions were as dull as they were implacable. They burned with a fatalistic evenness which neither triumph nor defeat could raise to great heights or lower to the depths they had plumbed. Death could never stir him again as it had already stirred him, no shambles could sicken him and no victory bring to him the remotest gladness of the song he had chanted in the freilicht at Chenusio.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Bus Passengers Out of Luck in Spanish Town

The poorer class of Spain believes that if you cannot catch the man who deserves punishment, the best thing to do is to punish some one else, even if vengeance is exacted upon those who knew nothing about what had happened.

In a little village in the province of Valencia a small boy was knocked down and slightly injured by a passing automobile. The driver did not stop, but the villagers decided that some one ought to be punished. So they lined up in the main street, under command of the magistrate, to pummel the first automobilist who came through.

Unluckily, the first car was a big bus. It was halted and the driver and all the passengers were pulled out and given a thorough beating. None of them knew what it was all about, but the punishment was so real that 15 had to be treated by doctors when the bus reached the nearest city and three had to go to a hospital.

Resourceful Officer

When two men who had stolen an automobile were surprised by a Marylebone (England) policeman recently, they jumped from the machine and fled in another car, but the officer mounted the abandoned machine and overtook them.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. D. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 29

PAUL'S LETTER TO PHILEMON

GOLDEN TEXT—There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus.

LESSON TEXT—Philemon.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Treat a Servant.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Servant Becomes a Brother.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Slave Made a Brother.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ Transforming Social Relationships.

This letter is a private one. Philemon was a member of the church at Colosse. Onesimus, his slave, wronged him, and fled to Rome. At Rome he came under Paul's influence and was converted. Paul sent Onesimus back to Philemon with this letter—one of the most tactful, tender, and beautiful letters ever written, and the first anti-slavery petition ever penned.

I. His Salutation (vv. 1-3).

In salutation he refers to himself as a prisoner and links Philemon to himself as a fellow laborer in the gospel, having as his special aim to touch Philemon's heart. He makes mention of Apphia, Philemon's wife, and Archippus, the son, who had already enlisted as a fellow soldier.

II. Philemon's Reputation (vv. 4-7).

Paul paid a fine tribute to Philemon's character, reminding him that he never proved without bearing him up before God.

III. Paul's Request (vv. 8-10).

He requests Philemon to receive back Onesimus, the runaway slave, as a brother in Christ. Note the incomparable delicacy and courtesy with which Paul approaches Philemon.

IV. The Basis upon Which Onesimus Is to Be Received (vv. 11-14).

Paul makes his plea on the grounds of grace (vv. 11-14). He admits that Onesimus has been unprofitable, but that on grounds of justice his plea might well be rejected and yet because Onesimus was begotten in his bonds (v. 10), was in a real sense a part of his own suffering nature (v. 12), he ventures to suggest that he should be accepted. This plea is his master's, he is now profitable to both Paul and Philemon.

V. Paul Requests Lodging (vv. 22-25).

He expected a speedy release from imprisonment and purposed to sojourn with Philemon. In all probability this was realized. What a welcome he must have received! Jesus Christ is saying to everyone of his redeemed ones, "Prepare me a lodging."

Yesterday, Today

As for the past, let it sleep if it can. "Sleep on now and take your rest," is the gentle voice of Jesus as to the past. "Rise, let us be going," is the next sentence. The past is past. Let that sleep if it can. But there is a future task right now to be done. Don't sleep over that.

Necessary

Before you can come into communion with him you must come into covenant with him.—Matthew Henry.

Live a few moments with each of your friends this Christmas

A CHRISTMAS CARD is next best to a personal visit. As you address the cards it's like living for a moment with your friends. It is your enjoyment—as well as theirs. And whether you select one design for all or get variety from the famous Burgoyne box assortment of twelve, do so early—and enjoyably.

Burgoyne CHRISTMAS CARDS

YOUR LOCAL DEALERS CARRY THEM

Roads in National Parks

Eight thousand miles of automobile road will be constructed in the national forests during the present fiscal year. Some of these highways will traverse country fully as beautiful as any found in the national parks and will cause many more to enjoy the recreational facilities of the national forests.

Vanity indeed is a venial error; for it usually carries its own punishment with it.—Junius.

Your children's

FUTURE

depends on the sound, sturdy foundation you help them build. Give them Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. Doctors say its Vitamin A potency aids in building resistance to childhood diseases, and promotes correct growth. Its Vitamin D, along with calcium and phosphorus salts, helps develop strong bones and teeth. Good for adults too... and it's really easy to take. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

Listen to Scott's Emulsion's "Romance of the Sea" every Sunday and Tuesday at 10:30 p. m. over the Columbia Radio Network

Scott's Emulsion OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

Consoling Mother

"Now, Robert, you've made me lose my temper."
"Never mind, mother—it isn't much of a loss."

Where Indians Thrive

Pure-blooded Indians constitute more than a third of the entire population of Mexico today.—Collier's Weekly.

Tired, Nervous and Depressed?

Health Suffers When Kidneys Do Not Act Right

Doan's Pills

A Diuretic for the Kidneys

Before Dinner

The Boy—I want to get on your mother's good side.
The Girl—Now, don't praise the pie. Mother's next door neighbor made it and they're on the outs.

Looking Ahead

Mother—Do you know that grandfather left you a farm in his will, son?
Little Boy—Do you suppose we can raise peanuts, mother?

"I'm going, anyway"

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to ensure your complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves," by day, or a sleepless night.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

ST. JOE PERSONALS

The senior class of the high school went to Fort Wayne Monday to have their pictures taken.

Say a Merry Christmas to your wife by subscribing for The News or some of your favorite magazines.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ginther and F. B. Leighty and wife were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance at Auburn.

A. J. Struble, son, Harley, wife and daughter of Sidney, Ohio, were Saturday and Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shroyer.

Nothing will make a newspaper office prouder longer over the mysteries of life than to have some fellow who isn't a subscriber raise the devil about something printed in the paper.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Borthwick and the latter's sister, Mrs. A. L. Anderson from Chicago, spent Wednesday at Edon, Ohio, as guests of the ladies brother, W. R. Winn, and family.

E. L. Cord, chairman of the board of directors of the Auburn Automobile Co., has announced his return to the presidency of the organization. R. H. Faulkner, who has served as president since February, 1931, has resigned.

Congress has authorized the sum of $700,000,000 for government buildings. It is proposed to construct 245 new buildings to replace obsolete structures, to provide 191 existing buildings with major extensions, and to erect buildings in 1,085 communities which are now without Federal buildings.

The petition filed by the B. & O. railroad, on behalf of all trunk lines operating in Indiana, asking that the public service commission grant a general 15% increase in rates, was rejected, and rightly so, we believe. This is no time for increases as every other business has been subject to a great reduction in its revenue.

Mrs. Ruth Davis visited with her parents in Chicago during the past week. While in the city she visited the flower show at Garfield Park Conservatory. She also observed Mayor Carmak posing for his picture amidst a group of boy scouts; the scouts have been engaged in mending toys for the poor children in Hartman's Furniture Store.

A birthday surprise supper in honor of Mrs. W. A. Wilson, was served at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Morr on Saturday evening, November 21. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson and daughters, Merle and Ruth of Mooresville, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Krantz of Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wyatt, Mrs. Ernest Farver and son, James and Mrs. W. A. Wilson of Auburn.

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it.

YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM

Let The News have your films developed.

Miss Violet May and Miss Inez Kinsey spent Saturday in Fort Wayne.

We are now in the midst of an epidemic of drives, Farm Bureau, Red Cross, and Christmas Seal.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Shroyer were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Young at Fort Wayne.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young spent a few hours in Fort Wayne Saturday afternoon and on Sunday they were guests of relatives at Deshler.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni and children called on Mrs. Hurni's brother, Guy Mettert, and family at Hicksville, Sunday afternoon.

The Indiana state fair in 1932 will be from September 3 to September 9, inclusive, it was announced Monday at Indianapolis by the state board of agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Andress were entertained to Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hursh.

Twenty-five cousins of Wm. Sechler recently gathered at his home near Newville and gave him a genuine birthday surprise. An oyster supper was enjoyed.

Leave your order at News Office for a year's subscription to Better Homes and Garden magazine. Just the thing for every home. One year, 60c; two years, $1.00; three years, $1.50.

For Rent: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 8 miles southeast of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio. 44t3.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gerber and two children of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull took Sunday dinner with Rev. and Mrs. Harold at the home of Mrs. David Roth and family near Grabbill.

Miss Susan Sechler went to Spencerville Monday afternoon to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baltz until Thanksgiving Day when she will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Moffett at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hart and daughter, Lea, of Ecorse, Mich., spent Saturday and Sunday here with Mrs. Hart's father, J. L. Rhodenbaugh. On Sunday they all took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Fordyce Daub and daughter, at Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni and children will go to Akron, Ohio, for a Thanksgiving and week-end vacation and visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Davis. Mr. Hurni's brother, Dale Hurni, and George Wade will take care of the business during their absence.

On the island of Porto Rico, three distinct denominational groups, Congregational, Christian, and the United Brethren, have united, the union Church being known as the Evangelical Church of Porto Rico. This movement toward union originated in the island itself.

There were twenty-one deaths in DeKalb county during the month of September, the monthly bulletin just issued by the Indiana Board of Health at Indianapolis, reveals. Of the number five were under the age of one year and seven were 65 years and older. Two of the deaths were from tuberculosis and two from accidents.

The Loyal Happy Hustlers class of the Christian Sunday School met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Rude in St. Joe. Mrs. Lena Meek called the meeting to order and led in the devotional reading from the first chapter of Acts, after which all joined in repeating the Lord's prayer. During the business session it was voted to hold the December meeting at the home of Mrs. Lena Meek, with a Christmas exchange. Games and contests and a bountiful pot luck supper finished the evening's program.

Subscribe for The News, Now. Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45.

Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45tf

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Jenkins of Auburn were over Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser.

Ray Herrick commenced this week to drive the Perfection bread truck circulating this territory.

Mrs. John Beard and Mrs. Buel Smalley of Waterloo were Monday guests in the W. H. Randall home.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baltz, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hart and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lehr Wilder and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hart spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pinkerton at Bryan, Ohio.

Miss Mary Jane Currie was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop and daughters. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Warstler of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Warstler of Jackson township and Miss Virginia Shull.

The Indiana state fair in 1932 will be from September 3 to September 9, inclusive, it was announced Monday at Indianapolis by the state board of agriculture. The period will be one day shorter than this year, when the fair ended September 10. The fair will start on Saturday and end the following Friday night.

Rev. Benjamin E. Rediger, 38, of Fort Wayne, evangelist and pastor of the Fort Wayne Gospel Temple, died at 8:15 o'clock Sunday morning. His death was caused by a general peritonitis following a ruptured appendix. Rev. Rediger, who was a resident of Fort Wayne since 1926, was taken to the Lutheran hospital early Saturday morning when his condition became critical. A few hours later he submitted to an emergency operation in an attempt to save his life. He rallied following the operation but Saturday night his heart weakened, and his condition was soon hopeless. The evangelist was one of the first to use radio broadcasting for his services, and his last sermon was delivered Friday morning from the Gospel Temple by radio.

NATION'S FINANCE STANDS TEST WELL

Economic Policy Commission of Bankers Association Points Out How 22,000 Banks Protect Public Interest

OVER 22,000 banks all over the United States are "quietly and efficiently serving their communities, helping tide many business enterprises over their difficulties, helping many concerns to earn money, helping create the economic activities that mean payrolls and spending power in their zones of influence, and faithfully keeping guard over the working capital and savings funds of their depositors," the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association says in a recent survey, adding: "It surely stands strikingly to the credit of the banking profession that, during a period of unparalleled international economic depression, this vast majority of bankers have so competently, so courageously and so successfully met their difficulties and obligations. The effects of the drought, the demoralization of agriculture, the stagnation of industry, the breakdown of trade, the inability of so many heretofore desirable customers to meet their obligations to the banks, the impairment of public confidence by mob-scares and false rumors resulting in unreasoning runs, the abnormal depreciation of quoted security values even in the most wisely conceived investment accounts, the utter collapse of real estate values—all these things have occurred on a nationwide and worldwide scale with unprecedented severity.

"The effects of every one of them have assailed the banks with destructive forces because they are of the very essence of a bank's economic substance. Yet, as we have shown, the great bulk of our banking deposits has been protected without harm, and our banks in a vast majority have continued to serve, support and strengthen their customers and their communities with unflinching and unquenched devotion."

HARLAN (Intended for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reichelderfer visited Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Blaisdell and family at Edgerton Sunday.

Eighty-one children were present at the story hour conducted by Miss Esther Baird of the Fort Wayne public library at Harlan community library Friday afternoon.

A Progress Subscription will be appreciated by that friend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Werts visited Sam Spindler and family Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pfirman at the home of William Bates, a son.

L. V. Likens of near Fort Wayne was a Harlan visitor Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Egly of Ft. Wayne were Harlan visitors Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Zeis are visiting their sister, Mrs. Dora Shawl and family at Tiffin.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Burk and Mrs. Anna Furney were Fort Wayne visitors Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snyder spent the week-end with their son, Claud Snyder and family at Kalamazoo.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Timbrook and daughter, Harriett, Mrs. Ollie Holzworth, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Harter, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Roller, Mr. and Mrs. Will James and son, Wilton, attended the funeral of Herbert Timbrook at Auburn Sunday afternoon.

The P. T. A. met at the high school building Thursday evening November 12 with an Armistice Day program. Singing led by Lois Fuelling; orchestra; Roll call, response, "What can the individual do to show patriotism?" Devotional led by Rev. Mumma; Is war necessary, by Goldie Bassett; Teaching American ideals to those of foreign lands by Wallace Kinsey.

The Informal Bridge Club entertained twelve guests at the home of Mrs. Hazel Roller Tuesday evening, November 10. A delicious two-course dinner was served at six o'clock after which bridge was played. Those present were, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Blaisdell of Edgerton, O., Mrs. Haller, Miss Meyer of Fort Wayne, Hulda Woods, Edith Fryback, Eleanor Wann, Miss Hass, Mrs. Downey, Sophia Emme, Beryl Swartz, Hazel Boston, Janet Woods, Linda Lake, Mildred Julian, Frances Miller, Elsie Zeimner, Dortha Roller and Hazel Roller.

Ed Roberts is a patient at the Lutheran Hospital.

Mrs. Mattie Long entertained the Harlan Culture Club Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Zimmerman of Fort Wayne were Harlan visitors Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boggs are moving into the Ben Stuckey property this week.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church met with Mrs. Ella Ringwalt Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Jessie Minick went to Auburn Monday evening, to spend the week with Mrs. Ethel Twerrell.

Charles Stopher, Lewis Fueling and Charles Hartzell, Jr., with their families visited Sherwood Hartzell and family at Garrett recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Shone and daughter, Gloria returned to their home in Fort Wayne Saturday evening after a few days visit with their mother, Mrs. Clara Smith, and brother, Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Kurtz, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Will Spindler, Phyllis Kurtz, Mary Gayle and Wayne Spindler and Richard Stauffer were Sunday guests in the C. Kinsey home.

THE GERBER FAMILY PLEASED AUDIENCE

Prof. C. A. Gerber, wife, son and daughter, of Fort Wayne, were given a splendid audience Sunday morning at the M. P. Church, where they assisted in the music and at the church service. Mr. Gerber delivered the message. Everything worked out splendidly and a real spiritual service was the result. A number of visitors enjoyed the preaching service.

SURPRISED ON EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY

Without any knowledge whatever, that a party was being held for her, Mrs. Amanda Coburn, 80, completely surprised by her daughter, Mrs. L. B. Meek, at her home, when on Saturday afternoon six ladies came in to make a visit and remind her of the event. Those present were, Mrs. Susie Scholes, Mrs. Nan Lysher, Mrs. Eva Sheffer, Mrs. Ida Williams, Mrs. Anna Koch and Miss Marie Goldsmith.

Mrs. Meek had prepared refreshments for the occasion and the ladies each brought a small gift for Mrs. Coburn, and wished her many more birthdays. The afternoon was pleasantly spent together and Mrs. Coburn appreciated the event immensely.

SENSATIONAL DISCOVERY, 666 SALVE

A Doctor's Prescription for Treating Colds Externally
Everybody Using It—Telling Their Friends

$5,000 Cash Prizes For Best Answers

"Why You Prefer 666 Salve for Colds"
The Answer Is Easy After You Have Tried It

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST

First Prize $500.00; Next ten Prizes $100.00 each; Next twenty Prizes $50.00; Next Forty Prizes $25.00 each; Next one hundred Prizes $10.00 each; Next one hundred prizes $5.00 each. In case of tie identical prizes will be awarded.

RULES: Write on one side of the paper only. Let your letter contain no more than fifty words. Tear off Top of 666 Salve Carton and mail with letter to 666 Salve Contest, Jacksonville, Florida. All letters must be in by midnight, January 31, 1932. Your Druggist will have list of winners by February 15th.

666 Liquid or Tablets with 666 Salve Makes a Complete Internal and External Treatment

OVERCOATS!

Not A SALE
But Solid
VALUES

A COAT for EVERY PURPOSE

Heavy and California Weights

During this showing you can choose from hundreds of new—selected overcoats—a collection comprising all the latest styles—materials and colors. You can obtain values that will probably never be duplicated. This is a rare opportunity.

$16.50 to $30.00

English Tweeds, Boucles, Fleeces, Llamers, Meltons, Town Ulsters, Storm Ulsters, Chesterfields, Fitted Styles, Dress Coats, Belted Backs, Guard Models, Raglans, Styles, Materials, Values, All Colors—All Sizes. Priced

$16.50 to $30.00

Schaab & Bro. Company

AUBURN, INDIANA

SPENCERVILLE

Mrs. Emilia Gloyd and granddaughter left on Sunday to spend a few days at the Fred Osborne home at Andrews, Ind.

Word was received Sunday evening of the death of Mr. Miller and the serious injury of Mrs. Miller, parents of Mrs. Aubur Butler, in an automobile accident at Fountaintown, Indiana. Mr. and Mrs. Butler left at once for their home.

Mrs. Jennie Walter will entertain the C. C. Club at her home on Friday afternoon.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Wal Ruppert of near Harlan, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hafner and family.

Mrs. Fred Steice of Bluffton and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brettian of Fort Wayne were recent guests at the Charles Brettian home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter and family recently entertained the following guests for dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cronmiller, Mrs. Lilla Mullen, Mrs. Jennie Floring and William Cronmiller of Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Alberts Timmerman very pleasantly entertained the Cheerful Workers class of the Methodist Sunday School on Thursday afternoon. A Thanksgiving program was enjoyed. Two guests, Mrs. Anna Koch and Mrs. Frank May of St. Joe were present.

Mrs. Lloyd Goldsmith very pleasantly entertained the Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church recently at her home. Election of officers was held at this time as follows: President, Mrs. Claude Hafner; vice president, Mrs. Maude Beams; secretary, Miss Pearl Goldsmith; treasurer, Mrs. LeAnna Steward; assistant, Mrs. Rilla Markle.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beams and children of Detroit, Mich., are visiting in the Frank Beams home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ulm and children and Mr. and Mrs. John Ulm were recent guests of Mrs. M. A. Ulm.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church will meet on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elsie Allen.

James Reed and Roy Bowser, who have been assisting in the building of the Tell Elson barn, finished their work on Thursday.

The Young Ladies Social Club met on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Trass Carpenter. Those winning prizes were, Mrs. Ruby Kraft, Mrs. Zelpha Steward, Miss Bina Zimmerman and Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner. One new member was added to the club, Miss Doris Beams.

SCHOOL VACATIONS

The rural schools will close on Wednesday, November 25th for the remainder of the week on account of Thanksgiving and on Thursday, December 24th, until Monday, January 4th, for the Christmas holiday vacation.

LEO

(Intended for Last Week)

Mrs. Charles Sauder and family spent Sunday with relatives in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Sible and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Page.

Miss Pauline Frederickson of Angola spent Sunday with relatives and friends at Leo.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Beck and daughter and Mrs. Mary Neuhouser took dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. S. Neuhouser and family.

The Mid-Winter Institute of the Epworth League met at the Leo M. E. Church, Sunday evening. All enjoyed a pot luck supper and the evening was divided into classes. The attendance was around one hundred.

The Fellowship class of the M. E. Church at Leo was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stuckey on Wednesday evening. Meeting was opened with song, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer," followed with scripture reading from the fifth chapter of Luke and prayer by the president. After the business and devotional meeting came to a close various games were enjoyed by all. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Disler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flagg, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neuhouser, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McCartney, Rev. and Mrs. I. L. Pusey, Mr. Clyde Kryder, Mrs. Charles Sauder and Mrs. Howard Scherer. The next meeting is to be held in December at the home of Mr. C. E. Kryder. All members are invited to attend.

LEO

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Sible and family and Mr. Mike Sible spent Sunday with Mrs. Susan Holloper and daughter, Myrtle.

The Robinson Chapel Church is having their Win-My-Chum Week this week. Everyone is welcome to come.

Miss Maxine Kryder spent Saturday in Fort Wayne with her sister, Mrs. Don Glock.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stuckey and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conrad and family.

Rev. and Mrs. Rochte left Monday to spend a few days with friends in Michigan.

Divon Kryder, who is a student at Purdue, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kryder.

Mrs. Hazel Schlatter and daughter spent Friday in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Christine White, of California is spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. John Kryder and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Neuhouser and daughter, Wanda spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Schlatter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuckey and children, Joan and Davy Lee were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Fenstermacher and daughter, Marion at Huntertown.

Mr. and Mrs. George Holloper spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Page.

Miss Idella Beller spent Sunday with Miss Marjorie and Gladia Beck of Leo.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Olson, Mrs. Caroline Hans and daughter of Fort Wayne spent Sunday with Miss Hattie Schlatter and Mr. Gustie Schlatter and son.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Pusey and son, Lloyd entertained the Messrs. Delmer Denny and Charles Gofhorn and the Misses Bertaline Confer and Wanita Neuhouser Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhouser and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhouser and family, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neuhouser and family, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Neuhouser and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller spent Sunday at Archbold, Ohio.

Mrs. George Tonkel, Mrs. Rose Garman, Mrs. Charles Soule and daughter, Mrs. Ed Killian, Mrs. David Neuhouser, Mrs. Monroe Neuhouser and Mrs. Andrew Miller spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Neuhouser and family. The day was spent in trying comforts.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

School will close next Wednesday evening for Thanksgiving vacation.

Twelve weeks of the 1931-32 term will be ancient history on November 27.

The class in high school geography has worked out a code of ethics for high school students. It is composed of three parts: general conduct, relationship with the world, and relationship to society. On Thursday morning Frederick Laub gave an explanation of the code as a whole. On Friday morning Lynn Fisher discussed in detail the first part; the second part was discussed by Glenn Brace on Monday morning, and the discussion of the third part is to be given by Lloyd Laux on Tuesday morning.

On Tuesday of this week the chapel services were carried on by Rev. Williams, the pastor of the Church of God. Rev. Williams' subject was "Artesian Wells." A very interesting talk, comparing the wells of the earth to the wells of the heart from which flow streams of conduct, making for character.

Thursday at noon the Johnson Moving Picture Company put on a show at the school house. The reels portrayed "Bird Life." The picture was very educational to every one who saw it. Mr. Johnson was formerly Indiana's Bird Man, and was exhibiting the pictures which he himself filmed.

Sophomores

Winifred Harper was absent from school last Wednesday forenoon. Charles Agler was also absent last Thursday forenoon.

Lynn Fisher was absent from school on Wednesday.

Harold Goldsmith was on the sick list last Monday and Tuesday.

Florance Wasson was absent on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday.

Eunice Shilling was not present on Thursday afternoon.

Athletics

The game with Hamilton high school basket ball team last Friday night was the best of the season so far. The result stood 20 to 22 in favor of Hamilton.

The local team meets the St. Joe team on Tuesday evening, November 24, at the St. Joe Community gymnasium. Everybody is expecting a good game.

Spencerville basket ball schedule for the rest of the season:

Dec. 4, Leo	There.
Dec. 11, Jefferson Twp.	There.
Jan. 29, LaOtto	Here.
Feb. 6, Waterloo	There.
Feb. 12, Harlan	There.
Feb. 13, Hamilton	There.
Feb. 19, Auburn	Here.
Feb. 26, Leo	Here.
March 4, LaOtto	There.

BUY
THE NEW
6-in-1
FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office

Ask to See It

Safety Service
Courtesy
This Bank Represents the Future To Many.

WHEN people pass our doors and say, 'That's my bank,' they mean they're building their own financial future.

Our future is simply the joint future of all we serve

Can We Make Yours Brighter?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

IDEAS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS
"TRADE AT HOME" IS A GOOD IDEA

WE SELL:
ENVELOPES
LETTERHEADS
STATEMENTS
INVOICES
CALLING CARDS
TAGS
BLOTTERS

WE CAN FURNISH:
CARBON SALESBOOKS
PRINTED FORMS IN FOLDED PACKS FOR ANY PURPOSE
AUTOGRAPHIC SALES REGISTERS
PRINTED GUMMED TAPE AND MACHINES

MANY OTHER SPECIALTY ITEMS — CAN NOW BE SUPPLIED BY YOUR HOME TOWN PAPER

GET THE IDEA — BUY AT HOME

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-29

BASSETT'S

WELDING SHOP

NOW OPEN

—IN THE—
ST. JOE GARAGE

WE WELD ALL METALS

For Sale!

1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at NEWS OFFICE if at all interested.

Used Cars

1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1928 Model A Ford Tudor.
1926 Buick Sedan.
1921 Chevrolet Roadster.
1927 Hudson Coach.
1928 Studebaker DeLuxe Sedan.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Unusual

With every $16.50 Dress Sold—A dress valued at $7.90 will be sold for.....

98c

With every $11.95 Dress Sold—A dress valued at $6.95 or $5.95 will be sold for.....

78c

With every $9.85 Dress Sold—A dress valued at $4.95 will be sold for.....

58c

With every $5.95 dress sold—A dress valued at $1.95 will be sold for.....

48c

With every $2.95 Dress sold—A dress valued at 98c will be sold for.....

38c

McBRIDE'S

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

by WALTER TRUMBULL

Nothing so stirs the imagination of the human race as buried treasure. From childhood, man wants to dig for it. He never gets over wanting to dig for it. Expeditions constantly are being organized to unearth hidden hoards of silver and of gold. Old maps are still handed down in some families, showing the spot where buried riches are supposed to lie. Books which deal with treasure have to be carefully watched in the New York public library. Readers are constantly tearing out pages and illustrations.

SURE WAS TOUCHED

Jack—I suppose you were touched when your wife gave you that one-hundred-dollar watch on your birthday?

Tom—You said it. Exactly one hundred.

For example, Ralph D. Paine wrote a book on buried treasure and put an index in the back. It isn't there in the library copy. Somebody tore it out long ago. Probably the man who has it never has been east of the Battery or west of the Hudson, but he likes to feel that some day he will start out on a journey of rich adventure.

The New York aquarium probably holds the greatest collection of rare fish in the United States and possibly in the world. It is a notable exhibit. The other day the aquarium was almost empty. I doubt whether there was a total of a dozen visitors in all that big building. About four blocks away is a sea food restaurant. In the window of this place is a glass box, about four feet long, filled with water. Swimming around in it was one lonely and very ordinary fish. Outside the window, watching the fish swim, was a crowd of perhaps forty persons. They blocked traffic on the sidewalk. That's New York.

A well-known woman painter in New York attended an exhibition of pictures. On her return home, she was telling her brother, who goes in for sport and knows surprisingly little about art, what an enjoyable afternoon she had experienced.

"I met the nicest young man," she said. "He was a big, handsome blond and he talked so intelligently about some of the pictures that I asked him if he was a painter himself, but he said he was not."

"What did the guy do?" asked her brother.

"I haven't the slightest idea," said the woman, "but I remember his name. It was Tunney."

My wife is urging me to move to Farmington, New Mexico, and go on a fruit diet. She contends that for a dollar you can buy there enough melons, peaches and grapes to support a family for a week and that the quality is far superior to anything found in a New York market. But, while I am fond of fruit in moderation, what I am looking for is some place where for a dollar one can buy enough beefsteak to live on for a week. In my case, that means a lot of beefsteak.

Walter Banks has been showing me some pictures of his truly lovely sisters. One of these harmony singers and dancers is a blond and the other a brunette. If they sing and dance as well as they photograph, it will not be long before they will be seen in some musical show on Broadway.

#2, 1921 Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Happy Moon Legends

Many suns and moons and snows ago there was born to Na-quill, god of the sky, a wife, a son.

Now Na-quill, who had all the storms, rain and snow to attend to, as well as the thunder and lightning, was very busy. But just the same he sat down on the edge of a cloud and tried to think of the best gift he could give his son.

Because he lived in the sky, Na-quill was very fond of blue. And Na-quill remembered that once he had seen a blue stone exactly the color of the sky.

So Na-quill pounded on the edge of the cloud and Kye Yay, his helper, came running.

"Blue beads are the finest things in the world," said Na-quill. "My son shall have many blue beads. I'd better fly down and ask Oola Kah Stee where those stones are."

"Here are your wings," and Kye Yay handed him the claws, beak and wings of a golden eagle. The wings are seven feet from tip to tip and Kye Yay can hardly lift them.

"While you are flying, are you going by that valley over there? It is only a thousand miles, and they need rain badly," said Kye Yay.

"No, I'm in a hurry to get the beads," said Na-quill. "Oola Kah Stee goes to bed with the sun. I must hurry."

"But, the Great Valley needs rain badly," said Kye Yay.

"I'll send them some," promised Na-quill.

Na-quill had put on all of his eagle suit except one wing. He had not put his arm into the right wing yet, so with his free hand he gathered up a cloud and rolled it into a ball. Then he threw the ball a thousand miles into the valley. The ball hit against a hill on the other side of the Great Valley. Then they had rain in the Great Valley, and Na-quill flew down to visit Oola Kah Stee.

Oola Kah Stee is a great snake. He lives down in the earth and he is king of the Under-ground. His name means "Fertile," but when he saw Na-quill flying toward him he moved near his hole.

"Good flying to you," said Oola Kah Stee.

"The name—I mean, I wish you good weather," said Na-quill.

"The weather could be better," replied Oola Kah Stee, looking over toward the Great Valley. "But can I do something for you?"

"Yes, I am going to give my son a string of blue beads to wear when he is older. Will you give me some of your sky-stones?"

"If you will stop the storm that is flooding the Great Valley you can have all you wish."

"I'll stop the storm," said Na-quill. "Goodbye."

Na-quill dipped his wings in the waters and then shook out his feathers and the water dried up.

Na-quill had dried up most of the waters when he came to a waterfall high up in the mountain.

This was the very place where the storm ball had struck and it had knocked down a little tree. The tree lay across the stream and the rocks held it so it could not get away.

It was a brave little tree and though the river pounded it and threw rocks and branches at it and bent it, the little tree would not break. Every

Island to Be Roosevelt Memorial

A view of Anacostan Island in the Potomac river as seen from the tower of Georgetown university. It was sold to the Roosevelt Memorial Association by the Washington Gas Light company for $394,000, and has been turned over to the nation as the latest addition to the District of Columbia's park system. The association proposes to erect upon it "an appropriate monumental structure in honor of Theodore Roosevelt."

His Suit Wore Out Hanging in Store

Hamilton, Ont.—When Robert Baker was unable to meet the payments on his suit, it was confiscated and returned to the store where he had bought it.

Mysteriously, the suit continued to wear out. First the pants became shiny, then a button tore loose. Each Monday, the suit, apparently unused, needed a pressing.

Under questioning, Baker confessed to police he entered the clothing store every Saturday night for the past few months, "borrowed" the suit and then returned it Sunday night.

*****

time it was bent it sprang back straight.

Its bark was cut and its branches broken, but it sang a song to the angry river.

"This tiny tree fights better than

*****

A Button Doll

This doll is made of white china buttons of two sizes. The body is made of eight large buttons and the head is fastened on as in the picture. Arms and legs are made of smaller buttons tied onto the body.

any large one I ever saw," said Na-quill. "Even though it is torn from its roots and is soon to die, it sings."

Through the cut bark Na-quill could see the white heart of the tree.

"What a strong heart," he said. "It will be a better gift for my son than many blue beads. I shall give it to him."

So Na-quill stopped the river and picked up the little tree. He flew to the mountain where he had left his wife and his little brown son. He hurried into the house. The baby winked when the baby's eyes winked shut. Na-quill caused the strong heart of the tree to enter and live in his son.

When other people heard of this, they named the boy Strong Heart.

(Copyright)—WNU Service.

Mummified Dogs

Mummies of dogs that were pets of Indiana 2,000 years ago, were found during excavations in the Southwest.

"Legion-Heirs" Organization

W. H. Chapman, World war veteran of Butte, Mont., has begun the organization of the Sons of Legionnaires, an idea approved by the American Legion convention at Detroit. The organization will be made up of boys ranging in age from ten to eighteen. With Chapman is his son Walter, an enthusiastic "Legion-help" booster.

Rare Chinese Tapestry Is Found in New York

New York.—Lost for nearly three centuries, a rare Chinese tapestry, valued by Manhattan art connoisseurs at $150,000, reappeared here in a strange manner.

The treasure was unearthed in an obscure little antique shop by Paramount's officials while in quest of objects d'art for a motion picture. Unaware of its value the antique dealer rented the tapestry for a relatively small sum.

Research experts discovered that the piece was a genuine tapestry of the

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"Coming Up to Scratch"

TO SAY of a man that he comes up to scratch is to indicate that he meets the requirements of the particular situation confronting him and, by inference, that he is able to cope with whatever may be in store for him.

As is the case with many other phrases that are now used metaphorically in everyday communication, "coming up to scratch" once had a literal sense.

The phrase comes from the world of pugilism. Years ago, before the advent of the modern fistie amphitheater, the practitioners of the manly art, so-called, engaged each other on the bare turf.

Their fighting area was not the roped square, which was a later refinement, but was simply an inclosure marked off with deep scratches dug into the ground with any instrument available for the purpose. The inside of this inclosure was again marked or scratched off with lines upon which the respective contestants would place one foot, so coming up to the scratch line, when prepared to advance toward the other.

It is from these circumstances that there arose the expression "coming up to scratch" to indicate somebody who was on the spot and ready for action.

According to Stirling these fragments of pottery fitted together form elaborately designed pieces giving evidence of a high-type Chokio village. The things unearthed were not found under the mound as usual, but in it.

© 1921 Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

U. S. Flyers at Border Get Official Warning

Del Rio, Texas.—American aviators who have been in the habit of flying across the Mexican border near here, now and then, have been given a final warning by Fidel I. Baudry, chief immigration inspector, stationed across the Rio Grande from here at Villa Acuna.

Not an Old Idea

Prints and calico are of great antiquity, but the printed cotton cloth which is highly colored and known as calico in England, appears to have been first developed, to a point approximating its present perfection, in the Eighteenth century.

My Neighbor Says

(By the Associated Newspapers) (WNU Service.)

WHEN frying doughnuts, have a dash of boiling water on the stove beside your kettle of fat, and as you take the doughnuts out of the fat immerse them quickly in the water. They will not be greasy.

Do not use darning stitches when the heels of your stockings become thin. Use a snood of silk and make parallel lines of chain stitches. This matches the mesh so well it can scarcely be detected.

When making marmalade grease the preserving pans well with butter and the marmalade will never burn; also skim well. This makes the preserve beautifully clear.

If a piece of fat about the size of a nutmeg is added to the water in which any kind of greens are being cooked, there will be no boiling over and no stirring will be required.

To remove glass stoppers in cologne bottles dip them in hot water, or place over the steam in a kettle. This will loosen a stopper so it may be easily removed.

When kerosene is spilled, the stain may be entirely removed by the application of linewater.

Clear ammonia—pure, not household, will remove paint from windows, even when it has been on a long time. Apply with a scrubbing brush.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of seed skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. It removes wrinkles and the sunken, powdered baselines dissolved in one-half pint of warm water. At drug stores.

Rooster in "Pants"

Jeremiah, pet rooster belonging to Mrs. J. E. Winkley, of Seattle, Wash., was hit in the neck by an arrow shot by a youngster. He seemed to be dead, so his owner began to dry pick him. She had removed all his tail feathers when he came back to life with a squawk and staggered into the yard. His neck healed and Mrs. Winkley felt there was only one thing to do for poor, nule Jeremiah. She made him a pair of pants.

Kills Pain and Heals

It kills pain while it heals; because it penetrates into the wound. If you have Pain in Back, Cold in Head, Cough, Sore Throat, Earache, Piles or know of a wound on man or beast that will not heal, try ZMO-OIL.

35¢ at Drug Stores

If you have never used ZMO OIL we will gladly mail you a free sample bottle. Write M. R. ZAGEL & CO., 821 New York Ave., SHEBOYGAN, WIS.

Practice of Medicine

Swell Patient—Don't you think I have traumatic neurosis, doctor? Fashionable Medicine—Not yet, but I'll give you a list of the symptoms and you can go home and start working on them.

John's Mother Praises Doctor

There isn't a mother living who won't agree that no half-sick child should be the subject for an experiment with medicines of uncertain merit. When your child is bilious, headachy, half-sick, feverish, restless, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, you know that nine times out of ten it's a sign his little stomach and bowels need purging. And when you know that for over fifty years leading physicians have endorsed one preparation for this condition, there doesn't seem to be any reason for "trying" things.

Rich, fruity California Fig Syrup clears the little stomach and bowels gently, harmlessly and in a hurry. It regulates the bowels, gives tone and strength to them and to the stomach; and helps to give your child new strength, energy and vitality. Thousands of Western mothers praise it. Mrs. Joseph W. Hill, 4300 Bedford Ave., Omaha, Nebraska, says: "I'll never forget the doctor who got me to give my baby boy, John, California Fig Syrup. Nothing else seemed to help his weak bowels. That was when he was just a baby. He suffered a good deal before I gave him Fig Syrup, but it stopped his trouble quick. I have used it with him for colds and little upset spells ever since. I consider him a Fig Syrup boy."

Insist on the genuine article. See that the carton bears the word "California." Over four million bottles used a year.

Just a Visitor

Mrs. Hay—Do you and your husband live in the suburbs? Mrs. Jay—I do—my husband merely sleeps there.

For Stomachs TEMPORARILY Out-of-Order

Occasional constipation should never be allowed to attach itself. Check first with a cup of cold water. If that fails, take a good old-fashioned, tried and true Garfield Tea. It stimulates sluggish liver and renews the cheery good health of an upset stomach. Recommended by many scores of specialists, certain results. Ad good for children as it is for grown-ups. Get it at your druggist's.

GARFIELD TEA

A Natural Laxative Drink

Sunshine

—All Winter Long

At the Famous Desert Resort of the West—marvelous climate—warm sunny days—clear starlit nights—dry invigorating air—splendid roads—gorgeous mountain scenes—finest hotels—the ideal winter home. Write Once & Chatter.

PALM SPRINGS

California

100% PROFIT—HOT NUMBER—UNIQUE toy not in any store. Perfect economy Christmas gift. Bells for $50 in any home. Box 318, Clyde, Ohio.

PECANS—New crop grown in the famous Suwanee River Valley, Florida. A fine, post-grad. 100% Suwanee River Pecan Co. Parshley Bldg., Live Oak, Fla.

Motion Picture Operators Wanted—Learn Western Film, and R. C. A. Free practical training if you qualify. Operators Assn., 105 N. Rowan Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

Spirit of '31

(Copyright)—WNU Service.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

How People Play

The Philippine Slapping Game.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.)

WITH interest in miniature golf waning, enterprising members of the "play industry" in a western city substituted fishing poles for golf clubs, fish for golf balls, and transformed the diminutive golf courses into fishing ponds, thus ushering in the "pee wee fishing grounds."

Play knows neither geographical boundary, nor historical limit. There was a law among the Persians by which all children were to be taught three things: horsemanship, shooting with the bow, and telling the truth.

Carthaginians and Phoenicians owed something of their maritime glory to a love of swimming, the sport by which they first mastered their fear of the sea. One wonders whether the more rapid strides made in England toward the political emancipation of women may not be traceable to the ardor of British women for outdoor exercise and sports.

Climate often determines the way a people play. It is obvious that coasting is popular in a zone where snow falls, and reasonable that those peoples most generally proficient in swimming should be found in the equatorial islands, where limpid waters invite succumbance from the scorching sun; but less well known, perhaps, that card and board games developed in southern Asia, where zephyr for play is just as keen, but temperature dampens the ardor for exertion. To the Netherlands is traced the origin of sult and skate which even yet have their work-a-day use in flooded and frozen areas, but to the rest of the world they are playthings. Norway once had a regiment of skaters and Holland's soldiers were taught to drill and play on ice.

Just as the individual adopts games which meet his bodily needs, so national pastimes are modified to foster and fortify the peoples who play them. In the age of personal combat, there were men like Milo of Crotona, a veritable Samson, reputed to have been able to break a cord wound about his head by swelling the muscles; or Polydamas of Thebes, said to have slain an infuriated lion, and to have been able to hold a chariot in its place while horses tugged at it. Those were the times when boxing and wrestling, most ancient of sports, were in their heyday, though they were not always gentlemen's diversions, reckoned by modern standards.

Misile-Throwing Games. When missile-throwing became the technique of warfare the Italian city youth reduced stone-throwing to a fine art, and in winter made use of snowballs on fete days. In Perugia as many as 2,000 would engage in this game. Defensive armor was worn but many fatalities resulted. Old English laws encouraged archery, and Charlemagne sought to popularize the sport. Play and love of competition have often been the mother of invention. The great automobile races have revolutionized the automobile. With the try, Benjamin Franklin, employing a boy's familiar plying, snatched from the clouds a secret that outdoes the pranks of a magic carpet. On the other hand invention made popular certain ways to play. For example the invention of the rubber bladder was a boon to the game of football and the gutta-percha ball added immensely to the popularity of golf.

Theodore Roosevelt's influence is generally accounted in social, political, economic and literary fields; yet time may show that one of the most profound lessons he impressed upon American people was a deeper regard for healthful, vigorous, strenuous outdoor sport.

The story of how the weakling Roosevelt went to the open places of the West and played at broncho-busting and cattle-herding and later relaxed in African jungle from seven years in the hardest job in the world, is an oft-told tale. Such an uprooting of one's life, thanks to our national parks, is not necessary today. More and more it is the habit of young men and old to seek the health-giving recreations to be had in Uncle Sam's matchless play places.

Walking is one of the most healthful and invigorating "games" and is free to everyone. Yet it is much neglected by Americans. Perhaps the automobile is to blame in some degree; but the fact that walking is deliberate and lacking in that element so dear to the American heart, competition, also must be taken into account. To the seasoned pedestrian, "joy riding" cannot compare with "joy walking."

The instinct is universal.

Sports of a nation afford an almost invariable barometer of its progress in civilization. Baseball is one of the most complicated and highly organized pastimes known to any people. It is a veritable instrument of the most delicate precision in the world of sport. A South Sea Islander no more could play it than he could operate a linotype machine or deftly handle the paper money in a bank teller's cage.

Yet the instincts baseball satisfies—the zest of racing to a goal ahead of the ball, the deep satisfaction of diverting a swiftly moving object to serve his own ends, the mere impact of the speeding sphere against the instrument he controls, bagging the spheroid as it flies aloft, the suspense of nine men as they await the batter's fate—each and all find their counterpart in play as old as animals that walk on two feet and have enough gray matter after their spinal columns to control nature's laws for their human purposes.

The foot-race was the most popular of the 24 Olympic events. Roman gladiators fought with the forearm swathed with bandages, and the Gilbert Islanders wrap coconut shells with cord so they will rebound to a blow from the open palm; Homer's princess of Phaeacia is represented in the Odyssey as jumping to catch a ball tossed by her maids of honor; and the Chinese had a game in which a suspended ball was kept hurling to and fro by blows from the players.

Wrestling is much older than Greece, as indicated by bouts pictured on tombs along the Nile. In Greece boxing fell into disfavor among the Spartans for an unusual reason. The Greeks had developed sportmanlike rules for the game, eliminating kicking, biting and ear pulling, and the bout closed when one boxer admitted his defeat. Lycurgus held it improper for any Spartan to acknowledge defeat, even in a game. Boxing and wrestling have been popular sports in Japan for ages.

Running, throwing, hitting and kicking are the fundamental muscular operations of America's characteristic sports—baseball, football, tennis and golf. The peoples of antiquity manifested all these instincts in cruder form. Luron hitmen, the Polynesians, the Eskimo and Sumatra Islanders had games played by kicking a ball. Greeks played it, and the Roman game, harpastum, derived its name from the Greek "I seize" which is evidence that carrying a ball was practiced then.

In old England football was even rougher than most sports of those hardy times. James I thought it was "meeter for lameling than making ale the user thereof." Edward II frowned upon it for its interference with archery and also because of the commotion it aroused. In those times it was played in the city streets. A writer of the sixteenth century called it a "devilish pastime" and charged it with inciting "envy and sometimes brawling murder and homicide."

Tennis Goes Far Back.

One must also go back to the Greeks and Romans for the origin of tennis. In the twelfth century a game with ball and platted gut bat was played on horseback. Then came "la boude" in which the horse was abandoned. Louis X died after excessive playing of the game. Henry VIII was a devotee of the game. Until the sixteenth century the hand was used for batting the ball, but soon the racket came into general use.

If tennis has a royal lineage, golf, which was later regarded as a rich man's game had most plebeian beginnings. Contrary to widespread belief, it seems not to have originated in Scotland, but in northern Europe. Apparently it was first played on ice, being one of the winter sports adapted to the physical geography of the Low countries. By the fifteenth century golf had attained such vogue in Scotland that it threatened the cherished archery, and it was classed with "futeball" and other "unprofitable sports" by James IV.

America's love of play is a distinctive part of her Anglo-Saxon heritage. Where two or more English-speaking people get together, be it in Bagdad or Buenos Aires, their common tongue makes the point of contact, but generally is their love of active play that forms the tie that binds their comradeship.

The DAIRY

BEST TO DISPOSE OF "LEAKING" COW

Percentage of Cures Shown to Be Small.

Many high producing milk cows will be seen with the milk dripping or streaming from their udder for some time before the usual milking time. The owners of such cows will be desirous of learning how to prevent this loss of milk. Usually there is only one way to prevent that is generally satisfactory, and that is to milk these cows often enough to prevent the distention of the udder which causes this leaking. By milking these cows three or four times a day, this loss usually is prevented. Since many owners do not find it convenient to do this, it is usually best to dispose of these animals.

Several different treatments have been advocated for this condition, but none of them promise sufficient results to warrant their being generally used. Under no condition should rubber bands be placed around the teats nor should the teats be tied off with tape. Where the leakers are not too bad, occasionally the openings in the end of the teat can be contracted slightly by painting with tincture of iodine or by making a saturated solution of alum and injecting it just inside the opening. Most owners find any of these treatments too troublesome to be practical.

When the cow is a persistent leaker and leaks away a good quantity of her milk, it is usually best to dispose of her unless she is an exceptionally valuable cow for breeding purposes, as the percentages of recoveries are so very small that it hardly seems desirable to keep such cows in the herd unless they are exceptionally valuable. —Montreal Herald.

Impossible to Find Any Profit in "Scrub" Cows

When the prices of butterfat and feed are normal, ten cows producing an average of 100 pounds of fat per annum will earn $135. Under the same conditions one cow producing 400 pounds of butterfat will earn $133. When you multiply the butterfat production of a cow four times, you multiply your income ten times and you cut your feed costs per pound of butterfat in half.

It is suggested that out of the more than a million cows milked in Texas there must be a very large number that never make a profit for their owners. How much better it would be to sell six scrubs for butchering purposes and buy one good cow.

When scrub cows are sold to other farmers for dairy purposes the industry has not been helped. Every non-profitable cow should be disposed of, even at sacrifice in price, to the butcher or killed and canned for home consumption. What we need in the Southwest is fewer and better cows.—Farm and Ranch.

Kill Lice in Calves.

The problem of lice on cattle, and especially calves, in the winter is difficult to control but by using certain well-known methods as recommended by J. B. Fitch, Kansas state college, the insects can be eradicated.

"Probably the most efficient treatment for lice in an application of a 2 per cent solution of a coal-tar dip to all parts of the calf's body. A second treatment, a week or ten days later, will usually eliminate most of the trouble. This treatment should be applied only when calves are in a warm place and can be rubbed dry. During severe weather a mixture of equal parts of kerosene and lard, or a good commercial louse powder will usually control the lice. Through cleaning and disinfecting of the calf shed will also help to control the lice."

Curing "Sucking" Cow

A cow that has formed the habit of sucking the other cows usually is difficult to break. A writer in Hoard's Dairyman states that he has had this trouble with two animals in his herd and cured both of them by putting bits in their mouth, securing them there with a small rope running over the head, halter fashion, and a piece of hailing wire for a throat latch. The halter must not be tight enough that the bit binds in the corners of the mouth, as this causes the mouth to get sore and they will refuse to graze or eat. The directions are to use a common light anafite bit. The bit is left in the mouth for several weeks and when removed the habit is cured. At least, it was so in the case of this writer.

DAIRY FACTS

The composition of milk is, with small variations, 87 per cent water, 8.7 per cent fat, 3.5 per cent protein, 5 per cent lactose, and 0.8 per cent ash.

In spite of low prices for dairy products, the present trend in the number of milk cows in the country as a whole seems to be distinctly upward, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.

Velvet-Clad Youth in Style Revue

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WELL, well, who comes here promoting along fashion's highway with all the poise and assurance of a sophisticated grown-up who glories in a feeling of being well-dressed? 'Tis none other than the younger generation ranging from tiny tot to self-important Miss Junior, and you can tell at a glance that, like their elder sisters and their cousins and their aunts not to forget to mention mothers dear, they, too, have become decidedly velvet-conscious this season.

There is no doubt about it, that to the very young, fashion is broadcasting the message of velvet with as much emphasis as to the older. The favor for velvet in the juvenile world has reached such a high point of enthusiasm designers are not only exploiting it for coats and frocks but in a trimming way as well as for cunning accessories. It is regarded as a medium of outstanding importance. For instance, with their costumes of gay wool weaves, little girls are wearing darling muffs, beret and scarf sets made of velvet, often shirred as fanciful as you please or perhaps touched up with a bit of fur. Mothers who are left with the needle and who are gifted with a sense of imagination when it comes to designing will not doubt be intrigued with the idea of fashioning these cunning "sets" for their little ones. It's really surprising what a yard or so of velvet thus manipulated can do in the way of adding chic, charm and "class" to a little girl's costume.

Even newer than the scarf effects are the clever little velvet shoulder capes which are detachable and which usually are accompanied with a diminutive matching muff. Sometimes the order is reversed in that the capelet and the muff or the scarf and the beret, as the case may be, are made of dainty fabriclike fur, with velvet for the coat.

In the picture, little Miss Seven-Year-Old is wearing a capped coat made of black silk lons velvet, topped with a hat of the same. White fur for the collar, of course, for have not their elders set the example this season.

TAILORED FROCKS FOR ALL-DAY WEAR

Not matter how colorful it may be, the favorite daytime dress of the winter season is simply but cleverly tailored, of wool, varying from very sheer to fairly heavy weights; or of silk crepe, in its various weights and degrees of urenesness—flat crepe, can ton and roshanara. Satin and transparent velvet will, of course, be worn in the daytime—but for the all-day dress—for the woman whose day is more practical than social, the more tailored frock is a better choice. Transparent velvet and satin, made along simple lines, are attractive for luncheon, bridge, matinee and other daytime occasions for which there is time to dress especially.

Knit woolen fabrics also put in a bid for daytime attention. Although usually considered as sports outfits, knit materials have such interest and such prestige that they make smart daytime frocks for town wear complete with fur jackets, sports fur coats, or jackets of corduroy or other informal fabrics.

Blue Lined Drawer Will Keep the Linen Whiter

Here is a good suggestion for your linen closet or linen drawer. Paint the inside of it to give it a smooth, easily washed surface, and choose blue for the color. A blue lining, it is said, will keep the linen whiter.

For other drawers you may prefer to use varnish instead of paint. It can be applied quickly, and it helps to make an easier job of cleaning out drawers. A damp, soapy cloth rubbed over the surface collects the dust and leaves the drawers ready for their lavender sachets and fine linens.

VOGUE FOR CONTRAST

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fashion stages startling contrasts this season both in color and in materials. A favorite theme is that of the sleeves in direct color contrast to the rest of the dress. The gown pictured, which is a June Regny model, interprets the mode by contrasting lustrous black and dull white damberg satin. The soft fullness of the bodice and sleeves, and the lower skirt blouse effect reflect a favorite wifon of fashion for fall and winter.

POISON in Your bowels!

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels, cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The difference it will make in your feelings over night will prove its merit to you.

Dr. Caldwell studied constipation for over forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need to make their bowels help themselves. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the most popular laxative drugstore sells.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN
A Doctor's Family Laxative

Modern Girl Has Small Knowledge of Thimbles

Charley Chaplin, the world's funniest film star, is not credited with many amusing stories. His forte is pantomime. It is related, however, that he recently addressed a girl's industrial school on the fringe of the London slums and regaled them with bits of Hollywood life.

But Charley laid stress on the domestic ignorance of the average modern American girl, exclaiming: "Why, most of them don't know one end of a needle from another. 'I know a charming young lady who, on graduating from a celebrated 'finishing school' speedily got engaged and as the wedding day approached, was showered with gifts. Among them was a nest of gold thimbles. When she looked at the tiny glistening things she exclaimed in dismay: 'For goodness sake, what do you serve in them?'—Los Angeles Times.

Too Many
"Mother, when the depression is over may I have a pony?"
"Well see, Bobby. What did daddy say?"
"He said I could have a dozen ponies, but I wouldn't know which one to ride if I had that many."

Noisless
"Isn't your new overcoat rather loud?"
"Not when I put my muffler on."

FOR CUTS
HANFORD'S
Balsam of Myrrh

Ten Million Stockholders
A recent survey shows that 128 leading companies in the United States having 10,000 or more stockholders. It does not include the army of stockholders in smaller corporations.

Burning Skin Diseases
Quickly relieved and healed by Cole's Carbolicative. Leaves no scars. No medicine chest complete without it. 50c and 1.00 at druggists, or J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

Safety First
Magistrate—Witness says you neither slowed down nor tried to avoid the pedestrian.
Motorist—I took all precautions. I blew my horn and cursed him.

1,200 Air Voyagers Daily
More than 1,200 paying passengers travel daily on air lines in the United States. Their average flight is 250 miles.

COLDS

RUB Musterole well into your chest and throat—almost instantly you feel easier. Repeat the Musterole-rub once an hour for five hours . . . what a glorious relief!

Those good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor—are mixed with other valuable ingredients in Musterole to make it what doctors call a "counter-irritant" because it gets action and is not just a salve. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MUSTEROLE
BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PLASTER

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 47-1981.

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH
Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Evening Service 7:00.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH
Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Morning Church Service 10:30.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH
Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
Morning Message 10:30.
Thanksgiving Service Thursday at 10:30 A. M.
Choir Practice Wednesday night at Mrs. Cora Curie's.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.
Evening Worship 7:00.
Thanksgiving Service Thursday at 9:30 A. M.
G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurni, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3575
Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Joseph R. Sechler deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 1st day of December, 1931, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.
Witness, My name, this 2nd day of November, 1931.

MERRITT SECHLER,
Administrator.
Stump & McClintock, Atty. 4428

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE

Cause No. 3530
Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Martha R. Widney, deceased, to appear in DeKalb Circuit Court held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 5th day of December, 1931, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said deceased should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.
Witness, My name, this 9th day of November, 1931.

BYRON E. WIDNEY,
Executor.
H. C. Springer, Atty. 4518.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb Circuit

C. E. McClintock
Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

Court of the State of Indiana, Administratrix of the Estate of Catherine Rickett, deceased, late of said County.
Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

EDNA M. PERKINS,
Administratrix.
November 13, 1931.
C. E. McClintock, Atty. 4613.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian ..... 117—$4.60
M. P. .... 71—$3.29
Spencerville M. E. .... 59—$3.38
Lutheran ..... 91—$4.00

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.

Frank Tustison.
W. J. Staman.
J. N. Scholes.
Hattie Widney.

HARLAN

Miss Garnet Rich and Mon'oe Gerig were united in marriage Saturday.

Rev. A. E. Burk is still holding revival meetings at Woodburn with good success.

Mr. and Mrs. George Koch of Shelby, O., are visiting Mrs. Lilly Mack and other relatives here.

Miss Edna White and Walter Dean, son of Eph Dean were united in marriage Wednesday.

Mrs. Minnie Fry underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Lutheran hospital Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Julian of Bellevue, Mich., spent the weekend with Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Julian.

Mrs. Jennie Nusbaum returned home Tuesday after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Irven Hall at Hicksville.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Auer and daughters, Helen and Nancy of Fort Wayne, visited Wm. Spindler and family Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. James, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. Leonia Peters visited A. B. Ulmstead at Kendallville Sunday.

Miss Thelma Amstutz and Paul Conrad were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Snyder and daughter, Norma Lou at Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Reichelderfer, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gruber, of Goshen, Mr. and Mrs. George Koch of Shelby were Sunday guests in the Ora Blackburn home.

Mrs. Everett Carey and daughter, Joan, Mrs. Carl Roberts and daughter, Betty, Mrs. Hannah Starr and Franklin Ross visited Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Reichelderfer Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kruse and children, Robert and Helen, Ralph Boger and Miss Velma Vincent of Fort Wayne were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Boger. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Zeis visited them in the afternoon.

Russel R. Reidenour
Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

At the News Office

Come, ye thankful people, come,
Raise the song of harvest-home:
All is safely gathered in,
Ere the winter storms begin;
God, our maker, doth provide:
For our wants to be supplied:
Come to God's own temple, come,
Raise the song of harvest-home.

Del Luce of Fort Wayne was a Harlan visitor Monday morning. The Past Matrons Club was entertained by Mrs. Barbara Kniseley Thursday evening.

Robert Beams and family of Fort Wayne visited S. V. James and Melville Dix and family Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Ringwalt of Fort Wayne came to the home of her sister, Mrs. Anna Kurtz for a visit.

Mrs. Carrie Stauffer and son, Dick and Stacey Standley of Fort Wayne were Harlan visitors Saturday.

Perry Lantz is at Terre Haute and Mrs. Lantz is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hobbs at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Tomlinson and Miss Dessie Perkins of Fort Wayne visited Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Perkins and children Sunday.

Lucile Blume, Dorothy Gerig, Lester Applegate and Howard Amstutz visited Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hutker Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin DePew and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald DePew of Fort Wayne spent Sunday afternoon with Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Burk.

The Worth While Club met Wednesday, Nov. 4 at the home of Laverne Roller. Those present were Thelma and Mae Amstutz, Genevieve Harris, Bertha Amstutz, Vivian Spindler and Frances Miller.

ASSASSIN

A Drink of Hashish!

In eleventh-century Persia, a secret order was founded by Hassan ben Sabbah, indulging in the use of the Oriental drug hashish; and, when under its influence, in the practice of secret murder. The murderous drinker of hashish came to be called hashish in the Arabic and from that origin comes our English word assassin!

Write for Free Booklet, which suggests how you may obtain a command of English through the knowledge of word origins included in

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

"The Supreme Authority"

G. & C. MERRIAM COMPANY
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Verlando Clark and family of Pleasant Mills visited Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Burk Saturday evening.

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Mary James Thursday.

The executive committee met Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Werts to arrange the program for the Farmers Institute which will be held in the public hall the fifth and sixth of January.

HERMAN LEVY, 14, SHOOT BROTHER OF 11

Clarence Levy, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy, residing in the Hopewell neighborhood, 6 miles west of Spencer-ville in Jackson township, was instantly killed Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock by being shot by his brother, Herman, aged 14, because Herman did not know the gun was loaded.

Clarence was shot in the left eye with a .20 gauge shot gun.

Coroner John R. Clark of Auburn, rendered a verdict of accidental death due to gross negligence on the part of the older brother.

Herman and Clarence hitched their pony to a buggy and drove over the farm of Willard Strong, a neighbor, to go hunting with Ivan and Carl Strong. They hunted for awhile on the Strong and P. P. Lochner farms and then went over into a woods and sat down, fooling with their guns.

After awhile Herman left and went over a hill into a depression carrying his brother's rifle. Meanwhile Carl Strong and Clarence exchanged shotguns after shooting into a beach tree to see which gun scattered the most.

Some time afterwards Clarence took his rifle back from Herman, saying, "Let's play war. I can shoot." Herman replied, "I can shoot straighter than you" and as he said it he aimed the gun at Clarence. He declared to the coroner that he did not pull the trigger but that the gun was discharged accidentally.

Clarence fell backwards and Herman, horror stricken exclaimed, "Oh, my papa and mamma."

Herman, slight for his age, picked his brother up from the ground, carried him a distance of eighty yards to the lane on the Strong farm and placed him in the buggy and took him home.

Clarence is survived by his parents, his brother, Herman and two sisters.

The funeral was held from the Apostolic Church, east of Leo, Monday afternoon.

BIG AUCTION

Lands Locally Known as the David Keller Estate, Comprising
193 Acres in Its Entirety, located in DeKalb Co.

These tracts of land are slightly scattered but are all in the area about 4 to 5 miles southwest of the town of BUTLER. All farms front on good gravel highways.

Thursday, December 3 on SALE RAIN OR SHINE--REGARDLESS OF PRICE

First Sale at 10 a. m.

This first tract of 80 acres is located 1/2 mile south of Mt. Pleasant Church. Can also be sold in two parts of 40 acres each, if desired by bidder. This 80 acre farm has gravel road on west and north, Wabash Railroad touches it on east portion. On the east 40 is a large barn with excellent frame timbers, but needs some siding and other minor repairs.

The residence is of average size, well built, but needs slight repairs. Excellent land with nearly perfect natural drainage. DO NOT MISS THIS FORENOON SALE — IT WILL SELL CHEAP—BE PRESENT, BE PREPARED, THEN HAVE NO REGRETS.

Second Sale at 1 p. m.

This sale will consist of 73 acres, in two parcels of 40 and 33 acres, as you may desire. Extra fine soil, nearly level, about 8 acres of onionland. Buildings on the 40. A splendid brick residence in good condition. Also large barn. This is an exceptionally good farm and a money maker.

Third Sale at 2:30 p. m.

This farm is a 40 acre tract (no buildings) but especially well located and the fact that we have about 15 acres of timber will easily offset the lack of buildings, as we believe that in addition to the saw timber, enough fence posts can be secured to fence 2,000 acres of land.

FREE - Numerous Cash Gifts - FREE

Numerous cash gifts will be given away at each sale. Just a little sport. You are not required to bid or buy.

TERMS OF SALE: All land in large or small parcels, which ever way you buy it, will be 15% at time of sale, 20% on or before March 1, 1932, 65% long time if desired or purchaser can pay all cash.

THIS SALE IS GENUINE—BIDDERS ALONE MAKE THE PRICE. COME BE CONVINCED

For Any Further Information

Call by phone or in person or address the following: Wayne Burke Sale Manager, Edon, Ohio, or Ralph Drake, the Auctioneer, Montpelier, Ohio.

L 918

0356

DECEMBER

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER. SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1931

NUMBER 48

AUBURN LOSES A VALUABLE CITIZEN

Auburn has lost another one of its most valued citizens in the death of Dr. U. G. Souder, last week. While in Columbia City on a visit the doctor was taken ill. He returned to his home in Auburn and was met in Fort Wayne by his daughter. At the time he urged that she hasten him home as he had a premonition that his illness would be fatal.

At the time of the dedication of the new addition to the Souder hospital, the doctor was in bed, unable to see any of his friends.

He was born in Whitley county in 1866. He was republican county chairman for two terms, 1918-1922.

NO CHANGE FOR SANTA

The movement to change the name of Santa Claus has ended in defeat.

The Santa Claus in question is not the portly old gentleman who drives around in a toy-laden sleigh, but the small Indiana town where Jim Martin and his combination post office general store are swamped with Christmas mail each year.

Various Indiana postal officials asked that the name of the post office be changed, but the post office department announced that no change would be made and that letters bearing the cheerful postmark would continue to circulate.

JURORS DRAWN FOR CIRCUIT COURT

The jury drawing conducted by Jury Commissioners Herman L. Brown of Auburn, and Clyde E. Hart of Spencer township, Monday, at the office of County Clerk

Glenn Potter for the December term of court, starting next week, resulted as follows:

GRAND JURY

Lela Northrup, Concord.
Earl J. Lowe, Franklin.
Merril Wilson, Jackson.
Scudder E. Shutt, Keyser.
Ray Miller, Stafford.
Ralph R. McClellan, Troy.

PETIT JURY

David Bonecutter, Franklin.
Charles Kepler, Franklin.
J. W. Zimmerman, Smithfield.
L. E. Harding, Richland.
Fred Elm, Spencer.
Levi Kessler, Smithfield.
Jacob Varner, Wilmington.
W. L. Webster, Keyser.
Bert Bachtel, Grant.
Mrs. Wm. Curie, Concord.
Martin J. Miser, Grant.

TALESMEN

Claude Gorrell, Butler Twp.
E. A. Baker, Union.
Marvin Stroh, Grant.
O. M. Gramling, Jackson.
Orla Schrader, Wilmington.
O. D. Baker, Concord.
Henry Rakestraw, Keyser.
Ora Lockwood, Butler Twp.
Hugh Strong, Newville.
A. J. Moore, Wilmington.
Mrs. Emma Draggoo, Union.
Alva Perry, Concord.
Clark Roberts, Franklin.
Chas. W. Smith, Newville.
Melvin Swartz, Grant.
G. W. Rudolph, Butler Twp.
Karl Pankop, Fairfield.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.
Frank Tustison.
W. J. Staman.
J. N. Scholes.
Hattie Widney.

FARMERS MUTUAL RATES 25 AND 33 1/2 CENTS

Losses in the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of DeKalb County for the fiscal year which ended October 1, 1931, totaled $29,357.98, Philip S. Carper, secretary of the organization, announced today.

Of the total $28,353.80 was in the rodded class and $6,004.18 in the unrodded division of insurance. To pay the losses an assessment of 25 cents on the $100 will be necessary in the rodded class and 33 1/2 cents per $100 in the unrodded.

The company carries $10,506,420 insurance in the rodded class and $2,001,540 in the unrodded, a total of $12,507,960.

Claims of interest to our readers in this section of the county paid are as follows:

Earl Mullett, house fire, $57.30.
Jas. H. Leighty, house, lightning, $3.00.
Leroy White, one cow, lightning, $75.00.
Sherman Rickett, house fire, $100.00.

W. W. Wilder, house fire, $347.42.
Clarence Baron, automobile fire, $100.00.

Clark Roberts, automobile fire, $100.00.
John W. Koch, house fire, $16.

Sherman Meek, house, lightning, $4.00.
Floyd Roberts, house contents fire, $6.00.

H. C. Borthwick, house fire, $5.05.
Forest Dermott, house fire, $2.25.

W. H. Moore, house, lightning, $7.70.
Wm. and D. Curie, barn and contents fire, $1,812.00.

Frank Baker, barn contents fire, $1,475.00.
Ben W. Markins, barn contents fire, $35.00.

Everett Mullett, garage and contents fire, $129.00.
T. H. Elson, barn and contents fire, $2,735.75.

Fred Elson, barn contents fire, $820.95.

CARD OF THANKS

Only time can heal our broken hearts in the passing of loved ones, a wife and baby, yet without the assistance and consolation of our many neighbors and friends, our burden would have been too great to bear. We thank them all for their kindness.

DeWayne Baker.
Mrs. Etta Schuller.

LUTHERAN PASTOR RESIGNS

After serving the Spencerville and St. Joe Churches faithfully for nearly two years, the Rev. G. D. Stoll has felt it his duty to resign and go to his home in Evans City, Pa., to assist his sister in the care of an invalid mother.

He will act as substitute pastor

Public Auction

Will hold a Public Auction at Newville, Ind., commencing at 1 o'clock, on consisting of following articles: 2 bed room suites; Living room suite; Dressers; Beds; Tables; Trunks; Dresser bases; Fancy glassware and dishes; 5-tube radio set, speaker; Heating stove; Complete oil burner for heating stove; Some clothing.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4

Newville Auction House

Ivy Callaway, Auct.
at News Office.

in a church not far from home so that he may work and still be with his mother and sister.

He will deliver his farewell sermon at Spencerville Sunday morning and at St. Joe in the evening.

It is with regret that we see him leave as he has endeared himself not only to his people but to the community as well.

FORMER ST. JOE GIRL DIES OF PARALYSIS

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock for Mrs. Joseph Arnold at the Clark funeral home, Rev. O. R. Keller, pastor of the Church of Christ, Auburn officiating. Burial was made in the cemetery at St. Joe.

Mrs. Arnold, a former resident of Auburn, died Friday night at 8:40 at her home two miles south of Dublin, Indiana. Death was the result of paralysis of the heart. She had been in a serious condition for four years and had been in failing health since an operation eleven years ago.

The Arnold family left Auburn three years ago after having been residents for twenty-five years. Mrs. Arnold was born at St. Joe December 15, 1880, and her age was 50 years, 11 months and 12 days.

She was married to Mr. Arnold thirty years ago and they have one daughter, Helen Wise, at home.

Surviving besides the husband and daughter are three brothers, Clarence Malone of Auburn, Samuel Malone of St. Joe and Fred Malone of St. Louis and three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Winebrenner and Mrs. Addie Keister of Auburn and Mrs. Martha Hawkins of Coldwater, Michigan.

The deceased was a member of the Auburn Church of Christ.

Mrs. Arnold will be remembered as the daughter of Wm. Malone.

CAN'T OR WON'T PAY TAXES

It is claimed that 25 per cent of the real property in a north central state has reverted to the counties because of the inability or disinclination of property owners to pay high taxes. If another 25 per cent is abandoned, which may happen, one-half the land in this state will be taken to support the other half. Perhaps that would convince state governments that taxation can become confiscatory.

P. T. A. PROGRAM

To be given at 7:30 P. M., on Tuesday night, December 8, at the gymnasium.

Opening Song ..... America
Foreword
Song, Oh God Beneath Thy Guiding Hand, led by Girls Chorus
Discussion: What "Life, Liberty and Pursuit of Happiness" Mean to Me.
Life ..... Walter Coburn
Liberty ..... Clyde Hart
Pursuit of Happiness ..... Gordon Nofsinger
Business
Piano Solo ..... Mr. Riden
Vaudeville Skit .....
Earl Kinsey and Wm. Finzer
Reading ..... Thelma Curie
Musical Reading ..... Kate Bowser
Song ..... Joy to the World
Bible Reading ..... Mrs. Lena Meek
Chorus with Tableau, Oh Come All Ye Faithful, Girls Chorus
Adjournment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian ..... 87—$3.18
Writing tablets and envelopes at News Office.

FARMERS' NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

ORGANIZING AGAINST PROHIBITION LAW

O. C. Clark, of Garrett, merchant, has been appointed DeKalb County chairman of the Association against the Prohibition Amendment at a luncheon meeting at the Keenan hotel in Fort Wayne Monday. The appointment of Mr. Clark was made by Arthur F. Hall, president of the Lincoln Life Insurance Co., and fourth, district chairman, who presided at the meeting. It is the intent to extend the organization into every precinct. Mr. Hall says this fight is distinctly not for the "return of a legal liquor traffic, so-called, but is a demand on the part of the outstanding citizens of the country for a return of sane government provided by the Constitution of the United States."

It is our impression that the eighteenth amendment, against which Mr. Hall inveighs, is a part of the Constitution of the United States, and in view of the Preamble to the Constitution which states its purposes; rightfully so. "To promote the general welfare, and to insure domestic tranquility," being two of its objects. Thus, "in theory, in intent and in operation," the eighteenth amendment is not "a radical and disastrous departure from the fundamentals laid down for the guidance of the country by the framers of the Constitution," as Mr. Hall would have us believe, but, its very opposite. How any person can have the temerity, the audacity, to give forth such a statement is astounding, unless, we take into consideration the depravity into which some men have fallen, in whom conscience is stilled, and "reason is fled to brutish beasts."

"The Association against the Prohibition Amendment demands and is working for the outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

"It is by this complete action only that there can be returned to the states of the union their rightful and constitutional prerogatives of local self government." That selfsame old cry of states rights, we, who are old enough to remember, and we, who have read of since the Civil War; favored then by those who wished negro slavery. Now, by those who want to profit by the sale of liquor or cater to an appetite created by liquor, and by no means natural or essential.

Are we so soon to forget the lessons of that terrible conflict that threatened our national unity; should the Northern forces lose in this cause for liberty? Had the South won, we would have been a nation of little principles, instead of a United States.

Now, as then, a coterie of selfish interests plead in the name of liberty, forgetting all but their own selfish little group. In both cases the small group plead for the liberty to enslave another group. Men of America! let us remember those trying days when our Nation's fate hung in the balance, and banish forever, this old bugaboo of States rights.

The eighteenth amendment was not placed in our constitution in a "period of emotion, stress and hysteria," but by sober common sense and a growing conviction that liquor has been a curse, morally, socially and financially to the nation, and any effort to restore this monster in any manner whatsoever, should be fought to the last ditch, by any and every well disposed person who has claim to being an honest to God American.

Let The News have your films developed. School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

Day Brothers of Edgerton, O., have leased the St. Joe Garage, and are installing their Sinclair gasoline pumps. Floyd Barker will continue to operate the garage. The Tyndall Oil Co. surrendered their lease the first of December.

Dr. J. M. Pulliam, 60, prominent physician for 27 years, committed suicide at his sanitarium on East Wayne Street, Monday morning, by shooting himself with a shot gun. Worry over business and grief over the death of his wife, are the attributing causes.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

R. H. C.

The ladies of the R. H. C. were entertained at the home of Mrs. Winifred Hart Tuesday afternoon Nov. 24. The social hour was in charge of the hostess and Mrs. Gladys Hart. Mrs. Minnie Gee winning first prize. The contests proved very interesting as well as instructive. The hostess served a dainty lunch suggestive of Thanksgiving. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Gladys Hart, Tuesday, December 8th.

FIVE HUNDRED CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis and two children, of Auburn, came to this place last Wednesday evening to be guests, among relatives over the Thanksgiving vacation. Mr. Mavis returning to his work at Auburn, while the family remained the latter part of the week. On Saturday evening Mrs. Mavis was very pleasantly surprised when she was the guest of honor at a party given at the home of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie, when the Five Hundred Club and her husband came in to remind her of her birthday anniversary.

Those present to enjoy the evening of games and refreshments were, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Staman, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Monroe, Merritt Seehler, Sam Mumma, Mr. and Mrs. Mavis and the host and hostess.

EVERYONE WILL LIKE THIS

Well, folks, you have all heard of Peter B. Kyne, California's favorite writing son, and know that his name attached to a book or short story is a guarantee of something extra good. With this surety in mind, we are pleased to announce as a serial for The News one of his late novels entitled, "Money to Burn." It is typically Kyne-esque in its stirring action, pleasant romance, and keen humor. It tells about how a poor young fellow feels—in this case a clerk in a store—who wakes up one morning to learn that he has inherited a million dollars. The adventure which that million brings him are extremely interesting. The tale bears a little resemblance to the life story of Mr. Kyne himself, who only a few years ago, was a clerk in a general store, wrote a story, sent it to a publisher, and woke up one morning to find himself famous. Don't fail to read "Money to Burn," which starts in the issue of December 24th.

TOMORROW

Have you ever stopped to think That today is not so bad— It's the dread of dark tomorrow That makes us glum and sad. We're sure, some how or other, We can make the present grade; It's tomorrow's vexing problem Of which we're sore afraid. And yet our past tomorrows— Were they worse than our to-days? Was not the darkness riven By hope's beguiling rays? Might we then not curb our worries By mindfulness always That the God who makes tomorrows Is the God of our to-days?

The following guests are being entertained at the home of Miss Susan Seehler, today: Mrs. Josie Baltr and Mrs. Jessie Sommers of Spencerville and Mrs. Cora Curie and Mrs. Grace Dille of this place.

Kilt Was Imported

It seems that the time-honored Scottish kilt has an English origin. Two hundred years ago an English tailor named Parkinson, while in camp with General Wade, was commissioned to make the first kilt. In those days it was called the "Welsh bag"; to distinguish it from the belted plaid, made in one piece.

LOOK HERE?

Start long Winter Evenings
RIGHT

"Buy A RADIO"
Note the TERMS

$1.00 Down and $4.00 in 3 Days at the End of the Demonstration, or $5.00 Down, $1.25 per week on Balance

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture Undertaking

Using Your Head

A noted Doctor says: "The human body has many organs that serve no purpose." Merely hangers on that evolution has failed to "evolute" as yet.

Things like the Appendix, for instance. No, he wasn't referring to HEADS. Most of us still use our Heads—at times. The ones who really use their Heads to advantage are those who keep their money in the Bank, pay by check and are guided by their Banker on all their investment deals.

The ST. JOE VALLEY BANK
A STATE BANK
4 Percent SAVING 4 Percent SAVING

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

HERE IS TO BE SOURCE OF 2,000,000 HORSEPOWER

The initial 500,000 horsepower station at Beauharnois, near Montreal, nearing completion for delivery next year. The Beauharnois development is part of the international navigation and power development of the St. Lawrence river, which will furnish 2,000,000 horsepower.

How It Started—By Jean Newton

"The Boston Burglar"

I was born in Boston, a city we all know well. Brought up by honest parents, the truth to you I'll tell. Brought up by honest parents, and raised most tenderly. Till I became a sporting man, at the age of twenty-three.

There are many schools—or perhaps the proper word is cycles—of popular music.

Songs are written, published, and apparently become popular in bunches.

So, in the early development of the popular song, the theme was almost always patriotic. The advent of the steamboat furnished the impetus to songs dealing with boating, water travel and marine life generally. The railroad inspired a host of songs featuring the engineer, the fireman, locomotive life and railroad doings. The circus, too, was productive of a school of songs portraying the trials, tribulations, joys and thrills connected with the existence of its balmy-hooded performers. And last but not least we have the school of crime songs, of which a typical composition was "The Boston Burglar."

The author of "The Boston Burglar" was said to be M. J. Fitzpatrick. It was a good song and quite popular in its day. It had a ballad-like rhythm that caught the transient fancy of those who liked that sort of thing. And long after most songs of its kind were consigned to the land of forgotten tunes, "The Boston Burglar" continued to be sung, both for pleasure and as a warning to the young. As the last stanza so eloquently implores:

All you who have your liberty, pray keep it if you can. And don't go 'round the streets at night to break the laws of man. For if you do you'll surely rue, and yourself like me, Who is serving out a twenty-year term, In the penitentiary. (M. J. Fitzpatrick.—WNU Service.)

Former Navy Wrestler

Tries Out Holds on Wife

Elyria, Ohio.—The wrestling holds that won Max Johnson the championship of the United States navy were brought home and applied on herself, Mrs. Marie Johnson complained in filing suit for divorce recently. She said her ex-champion husband tried out his favorite holds on her with painful results.

Let Your Conscience Be Your Guide

My Neighbor

Says:

SAVE all fat and grease for soap. Clean grease, such as sausage, ham and pork fat, should be saved for frying pancakes, eggs, potatoes, etc.

Chamois leathers that are used for cleaning silver require frequent washing. The simplest way to do this is to squeeze them through the hands in warm water and soap, to which a few drops of ammonia have been added, till quite clean, changing the water if necessary. Rinse in warm soap-suds and hang out to dry, rubbing the leather through the hands a few times before it is dry to soften it. If rinsed in clear water leathers get stiff.

Before driving nails for picture hooks into the wall first see where the nails in baseboard are driven. Nails in baseboard are always driven into the studding, which gives support which plaster fails to give. (M. by the Associated Newspapers) (WNU Service.)

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Marrow Bone Soup.—Get a good-sized marrow bone, leaving on some of the meat, split and wipe with a damp cloth. These bones may be bought in most markets for ten to twenty cents. Cover with plenty of cold water (two or three quarts) if the bones are large. Bring to a slow simmer and cook at low temperature for three to four hours, so that all the extractives are well dissolved in the water. Season with salt and pepper, strain and set away. For a vegetable soup put carrots, a bit of cabbage, celery and onion with a peeled or three into a kettle with boiling water. Cook until nearly tender, then add some of the broth, season well and serve. Use the broth unseasoned except with salt and pepper, as it will keep for several days in the ice chest. Adding the vegetables will increase the chance of spoilage. The meat may be cut into small pieces and served with the vegetable as a stew, as all its nutriment except the extractives which give it flavor are still in it.

Eggs a la King.—Cook the eggs, allowing one and one-half eggs to each person. Cook them in boiling water closely covered, one pint of water to each egg. Leave thirty minutes on the back of the stove, not where they will even simmer, but keep the heat that is in the water. In thirty minutes the egg will be cooked to the center, the white tender and the yolk mealy. If eggs are taken from ice chest and very cold add extra water. For six eggs take three tablespoonsful of butter and three of flour; when bubbling hot add the flour and stir until smooth, add two cupsful of rich milk and cook until smooth. Add green pepper that has been parboiled, half a can of mushrooms and the eggs cut into quarters. (WNU Serv Co.)

NEW JAPANESE EMBASSY AT CAPITAL

The new Japanese embassy in Washington which has been under construction for many months, is almost ready for occupancy. It is situated in a prominent place on Massachusetts avenue, which is becoming "Embassy Row." Upon completion it will be one of the loveliest of all the impressive embassies in the Nation's Capital.

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Basket to Make

Would you like to make a new kind of basket? Take the bottom of some small, round cardboard box, one which has been used for face powder or ice cream, or even a large paper nut cup is fine. Punch two small holes, one at either side of the box and into each one put the end of a six-inch piece of picture wire. This is the handle of your basket.

Cut a narrow strip of crepe paper and wind this about the handle. Wrap several small round hard candies in circles of different colored paper. Twist a piece of small wire around the ends of these circles. Then cut your leaves according to the pattern, and paste them on the wired stem. Now wind narrow strips of green crepe paper about the stems of the very ends and your candy flowers are complete. The number of flowers needed depends upon the size of your basket.

Line the sides of your basket inside with a lace dolly, taking care that the "lacey" part appears about the top edge of the box. Then fill the bottom of the basket with sawdust or sand, and stick the stems of the candy flowers into this. Cover the sawdust with scraps of green paper or a piece of wax paper. Now the flowers do really look as if they were growing in the basket. And they will keep fresh for long time.

Next cut your outside frill, as shown in the illustration, and paste around the outside of the basket. If you wish you can add a small bow of satin ribbon to the handle. This basket will prove very attractive if shades of yellow, light blue, and pink are used for the flowers, green for leaves and stems, and lavender for outside and handle.

A Picture for You to Color

(Copyright.—WNU Service.)

Lights of New York

By WALTER TRUMBULL

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Baer are ardent crossword puzzle fans. Mrs. Baer is pretty good at these puzzles but she was absolutely astounded at the skill, speed and brainwork shown by her husband. Together they would do the puzzle published in a certain New York paper and they never were more than child's play for Mr. Baer. If ever she was stuck for a word, he instantly supplied it. Mrs. Baer took a wholesome pride in her husband's remarkable ability until it accidentally came to light that Mr. Baer was obtaining advance proofs of the puzzles at the newspaper office, working them out at his leisure, and then doing them over at home. Mr. Baer has lost prestige.

There is a sign on the road near Poughkeepsie which reads on one side, "House to let. Inquire within." On the other side, the sign reads, "Be-ware of the Dog."

Arthur William Brown, the illustrator, and Le Roy P. Ward, the architect, had a miraculous escape from injury of death recently while driving back from East Hampton, Long Island, to New York. The road was crowded with rapidly moving cars.

Mr. Ward was at the wheel of his own automobile, with Mr. Brown in the seat beside him. Suddenly a driver swung out of the line coming the other way. Mr. Ward wrenched the wheel but barely prevented a head-on collision. The other car struck his car on the side, pushed it 20 feet, and overtured it in the ditch. It crashed to its side with Mr. Brown on the under side. Now comes the miracle. The car was badly smashed, windows shattered, running boards and windshields, yet, when they were pulled out, neither Mr. Ward nor Mr. Brown was more than slightly bruised and the glasses Mr. Brown was wearing were not even broken.

Barle—Pa, what is a prospective bridegroom? His Dad—Well, my son, a prospective bridegroom nowadays is a young man prospecting for an heiress.

A friend of mine entered an automatic near Seventy-second street and was thoroughly surprised to find it fairly well filled with men with canes and spats. A few even had monocles through which they made a careful examination of the ready dishes before parting with their nickels. The only way in which my friend was able to account for this clientele was to assume that the customers were officers of the former Bank of United States, which had branches in this vicinity before the parent stem and all branches withered. This automatic, by the way, is one of the few New York eating places which bars smoking. A nonsmoking rule is hard to enforce, not because of the men, but because of the women, a far more independent sex.

Dr. Frederick W. Hodge tells me of a veteran entomologist who entered the Explorers' club in great excitement. He was pounding a folded newspaper against his hand. "Did you see?" he asked. "Did you see the Colorado river has overflowed?" "Yes," answered someone. "It is terrible about the poor people who have lost their homes." "People!" said the scientist. "What concern have I with people? It is the bugs."

It seems that he had discovered some new variety of insect in the district which now was flooded. Well, it's all in the point of view. (M. J. Fitzpatrick.—WNU Service.)

Husband Puts Value of Only $5 on Wife

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—George Youngman of Greycourt valued his wife at only $5, he asserted in court during a separation action brought by Mrs. Youngman. He said his wife signed an agreement a year ago whereby she was to leave him forever on payment of $5. She denied this.

Lived in Bed Ten Years

Adria, Italy.—Just to prove he could do it, Medoro Marzani of Gavello village has stayed continuously in bed for ten years. Marzani, who is seventy, says he feels more robust and cheerful after his ten years' rest.

STOP YOUR COLD IN 12 HOURS WITH

DAROL

Breaks a cold in 6 hours. Drives it away in 12 hours. Relieves Headache—Neuralgia—Pain. McKesson & Robbins Quality Since 1833

Family Secret

Teacher—Where does wool come from? Boys—Sheep. Teacher—What is made from it? No answer. Teacher—Well, for instance, what are your trousers made of? Willie volunteers—My dad's.

This Mother Had Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show by feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, mallow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by the quick and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merit and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Western mother, Mrs. May Snavely, Montrose, California, says: "My little girl, Edna, tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving her California Fig Syrup. It helped her right away and soon her stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice about her bowels. I have also used California Fig Syrup with my little boy, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.

Roses for Diabetes

Taking vinea roses in the form of a tea as a remedy for diabetes is quite a common practice in Africa and Australia. Now science has decided to find out the actual remedial value of the plant.

Going without his supper is ten times the punishment to a boy that it is to a man. Think of that.

STOP THAT COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours. This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole acts because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a rawe—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

RONEY PLAZA hotel

Innovations this year include reductions in room rates and a new dining service... club breakfast at $6.00... served in your room... and the Cabana Club luncheon at $1.50, without sacrificing the best of the traditional niceties of America's finest ocean-front hotel.

M. E. RONEY, Pres. Open from Thanksgiving Day

MIAMI BEACH FLORIDA

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 48-1981.

Copyright, 1961, The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

Firestone Service Stores and Service Dealers Save You Money and Serve You Better

The St. Joe News

Published at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription .....$1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Mrs. Helen Randall and Miss Ina Frisk, of Chicago, spent Thanksgiving in the Wm. Randall home. On last Sunday, Rev. G. D. Stoll was a dinner guest.

Mrs. Belle Ridgway accompanied her son, Derwood Ridgway, and wife to Hobart, Ind., on last Wednesday to visit relatives. Mr. Ridgway and wife returned home Sunday evening but Mrs. remained for a longer visit.

A stock selling campaign is being launched by the Indiana Standard Telephone corporation and each of the employees have been included in the list of salesmen.

Miss Horn, local manager, attended a meeting Tuesday morning held at Hicksville.

Thirty-one states will change the color combination for automobile license plates for 1932 and twenty-three different motifs will be used throughout the country, indicating that almost every hue will be represented in next year's parade, according to the Hoosier Motor club.

Three and a half tons of turkeys were sold last week by Chas. Kepler and wife, north of Butler. The birds averaged 19 pounds each and brought 22 1/2 cents per pound. There were 365 young turkeys in this sale and the Kepler's kept plenty for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

W. P. Coburn of Coburn's Corners, Spencer township, son of the first clerk and recorder of DeKalb county, was in Auburn Monday to call upon his old friend, W. H. McIntosh. Mr. Coburn's father was John F. Coburn, who became one of the first county officials in 1837. The offices of clerk and recorder were combined at that time.—Star.

The Harman Brothers meat market at Avilla, was sold last week to D. Faulkner of Fort Wayne. The market was managed by Eugene Harman and run in connection with the local market, under the management of W. G. Harman. Eugene will continue in charge of the Avilla shop, as Mr. Faulkner is a salesman for the Eckhart Packing Co., of Fort Wayne.

Thanksgiving morning Mrs. J. P. Buckingham sent Mrs. Leighty a basket of fresh garden picked flowers, all neatly arranged. The basket contained the following varieties: English Daisy, Verbena, Fever Few, Red Phlox, Chrysanthemum, Lavatera, Delphinium, Gaillardia, Calendula, Sidalcea, Hardy Verbena and Dwarf Hollyhock. It was surely appreciated, being an offering of choice varieties, and the last of the season.

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it. YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SEE THEM.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Goodwin and family spent Thanksgiving Day in the Arthur Kester home at Butler.

Miss Enid Curie spent her Thanksgiving vacation at Harlan in the James home, returning Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Guilford spent Thanksgiving Day with their grandmother, Mrs. George Trece at Cedarville.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Miss Agnetta Horn and Kenneth Mavis of Hicksville were Thursday evening guests in the Quentin Mavis home at Auburn.

Mrs. Nettie Culbertson spent from Thursday until Sunday with her brother, Chas. Herrick, and family at Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kessler and Mrs. Susie Scholes were Thanksgiving Day guests of the latter's daughter, Mrs. Rob Ulm, and family at Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hamilton and two children and Mrs. Lela Northrup and son, Curtis, spent Thanksgiving Day in Defiance with Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Tustison.

Leave your order at News Office for a year's subscription to Better Homes and Garden magazine. Just the thing for every home. One year, 60c; two years, $1.00; three years, $1.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Freeburn and family were Thanksgiving Day guests of their sister, Mrs. Blanch Dorsey, and husband. Other guests were June, Kenneth and Jean Ridgway.

Children who desire to send their letters to Santa this year, may bring them to The News. Hope many of the youngsters will send in their letters so that he won't forget to visit our community.

Vice President Charles Curtis announced Monday that he will seek renomination to the vice presidency. Curtis said he had decided not to be a candidate for senator from Kansas, a matter he has had under consideration for many months.

Thanksgiving Day dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Carpenter were, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bolinger and two children, Mrs. Hazel Mahler and daughter and Loyal Bolinger and family of Pioneer, O., Nelson Bolinger and family of Toledo and Mrs. D. L. Carpenter.

Legal notice is being given by the state highway commission that bids for the construction of a new bridge, 8 of a mile south of Auburn on Road No. 1 will be received December 22. This is better known as the Gramling bridge and now is wide enough for only one-way traffic. The new bridge will be 52 feet, 6 inches in length.

The Avilla News has changed hands. Hersh and Dolan selling to Guy Richards, who has been foreman and advertising manager for a number of years. Guy came from Hicksville at the time of L. W. Yaiser selling the paper to the above named men. Guy has given Avilla a splendid newspaper, much better than the community realizes.

F. W. Richardson, 69, of Hicksville, died as a result of an automobile accident near Roanoke a week ago. He had been on a business trip to Southern Indiana, on his return he ran off the pavement in passing a car, and when his car came back on, it turned over three or four times. Mr. Richardson died at Fort Wayne. He was widely known as a fruit and melon farmer in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

A happy day was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kees on Thanksgiving Day when thirty of their children and grandchildren gathered at their home to spend the day with them and enjoy the bountiful dinner at the noon hour. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and four children, Woodrow, LeVon, Catherine and Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. John Hart, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bob Beard and baby, all of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Will Beam and two sons, Willard and Gerald of Whitehouse, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Danny Myers and two daughters, Jean and Lenna Fern of Edon, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Gillingham of Garrett; Mr. and Mrs. George Kees and children, Dean, Betty, Nelda, Sammy and Harry Lee and Mr. Driver.

Chas. Woodcox is sick in bed with a severe attack of the flu.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45. Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45c. A number of citizens are having their trees trimmed this week.

Keith Tustison, of Defiance, spent Friday and Saturday at this place visiting among relatives.

A 24-page yearly program for the Country Club at Harlan, was delivered Monday from The News office.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Coburn and children, LeRoy and Eloise were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Rosenberry.

A real assortment of Christmas cards, with lined envelopes at 1c; 2 for 5c; and 10c each. See them at News office before it's too late. An assortment of 17 cards for 25c, also a real buy.

Harry Richwine, of Flagstaff, Arizona, arrived in St. Joe yesterday to visit his sister, Mrs. Meade Baker, and husband for a while. He came to Wabash in September due to ill health. Ralph and Floyd Richwine of Wabash, drove through for the day.

First prize in the junior feeding contest for Hereford summer yearlings has been awarded Gale R. Harris, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Harris of two and a half miles south of Columbia City, for his entry in the International Live Stock exposition at Chicago.

W. K. Schaab of the Community Loan and Discount Co. Saturday by Attorney H. C. Springer, sued Gerry H. Wason in the DeKalb circuit court on a note for $22 given to J. P. Henry February 25, 1931, due in three months and assigned to the plaintiff. The demand is for $60.

Robert E. Proctor, prominent Elkhart attorney and former national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, may be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor. Proctor calls himself a "Dripping Wet" and for which cause an investigation might be justified.

Dr. George Reese, 52, of Edon, Ohio, well known here as being associated in the Reese Bros. Hardware store, died at his home on Monday of last week from heart trouble. He is survived by two brothers, Orvey of Hamilton, Ora of Montpelier, a sister, Mrs. Dan Dickert of Montpelier, O., and his father, Jack Reese.

Otto Loomis, 20, of Butler, was sentenced to the Indiana reformatory Saturday for a term of one to five years, by Judge Endicott for petit larceny. He was also fined $1 and the costs. Loomis admitted several offenses, in which he broke into the Campbell station at Auburn and obtained $16.90; stealing a pocketbook, stealing a shot gun were among the recent crimes committed.

Mr. Courtland Blakesley, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grandman, Miss Harriett Searl and LeRoy Searl, all of New London, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jones and children of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Dix and children of near Hicksville were all guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hart on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis and children of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curie of Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jump and daughter of Woodburn, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Curie and son, Mrs. Jennie Sechler, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie and family were entertained to Sunday dinner at the home of Merritt Sechler north of St. Joe.

Subscribe for The News, Now.

Mrs. Wm. Fee of Edgerton, O., is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. F. Abel and calling on her many friends in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Washler and three children of Garrett spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Trostel east of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee were Sunday afternoon callers in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hose and Mrs. Ida E. Hose of the Butler vicinity.

Charles Petty and family and Mrs. Edith Love of Roan, Ind., were Thanksgiving guests in the Abner Trostel home. Miss Violet May was a supper guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hursh motored to Elkhart Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Andrews.

Since the chain store tax was declared constitutional in Indiana crooks have been at work collecting the tax over the state. All tax must be paid to the tax board direct.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hurni and children spent from Thursday until Sunday at Akron, Ohio, guests of Mr. Hurni's sister. They also spent a day at Warren, visiting an uncle.

Miss Eloise Bowman and DuWayne Kinsey of Bloomington were home over the Thanksgiving vacation, returning to their school Sunday. Miss Hazel Storer of Purdue, was also home.

Mrs. J. O. Quance, daughter, Mary and son, Wayne, Wm. Quance and family, of Auburn, Chas. Quance, wife and son, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Hull of Helena, Ohio, and ye editor and wife were Thanksgiving dinner guests in the J. C. Hull home.

A combined Thanksgiving and birthday dinner was enjoyed at the D. W. Yaiser home Thursday. Master Harold was seven years old and he was the center of attraction. Those present were Mrs. Jane Coburn and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kessler.

A Thanksgiving dinner and supper were held at the home of Dan Keller and family of near Butler. There were 21 present including Mr. and Mrs. Erman Haidley and family of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Don Keller and two sons of St. Joe. Mr. and Mrs. Mac Keller and family of Butler, Dan Keller and family, Miss Bernice Keller and friend of South Bend. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Keller and daughter were present. A delightful time was had.

Used Cars

1927 Buick Sedan, Master.
1928 Model A Ford Tudor.
1929 Model A Ford Roadster.
1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1928 Whippet Coach.
1927 Star Six Coach.
1921 Chevrolet Roadster.
1924 Chevrolet Touring.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

For Sale: Sorghum molasses. 471lb.
Mrs. Lela Northrup.
For Sale: Good Heating Stove. See Delbert Furnish, Spencer-ville. 481lb.

The Coburn's Corners Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Fred Hart Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Curie and Master Harold G. Curie were Thanksgiving dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee.

J. L. Rhodenbaugh enjoyed a fine Thanksgiving dinner with his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Chambers at Lima, O.

The Butler Business and Professional Women's Club was hostess to an inter-city meeting held Tuesday, December 1 at the U. B. Church. Approximately fifty guests attended including members from the Fort Wayne, Kendallville, Garrett and St. Joe clubs. Miss Marion Ingham of Fort Wayne, who attended the International conference at Vienna this summer, was the principal speaker. Miss Zoe Jennings, the seventh district chairman spoke on the club emblem. Special musical numbers were also featured on the program. Those attending from St. Joe were Martha Miser, Helen Dittmars, Neva Hursh and Lora Leighty.

Miss Fern Ward spent Thanksgiving at Wauseon, O., the guest of her father, Rev. G. A. Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reichelderfer spent Friday afternoon and over night with Mrs. John Betz. The Home Bureau will meet December 11 with Pluma Hamilton instead of Mrs. Anna Tustison.

Mrs. M. H. Andrews was a week end guest of her daughter, Mrs. Melba Wyatt, and husband at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham attended the funeral of Mr. Andrew Patterson at Hicksville Tuesday afternoon.

For Sale!

1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at NEWS OFFICE if at all interested.

SENSATIONAL DISCOVERY, 666 SALVE

A Doctor's Prescription for Treating Colds Externally
Everybody Using It—Telling Their Friends

$5,000 Cash Prizes For Best Answers

"Why You Prefer 666 Salve for Colds"
The Answer Is Easy After You Have Tried It

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST

First Prize $500.00; Next ten Prizes $100.00 each; Next twenty Prizes $50.00; Next Forty Prizes $25.00 each; Next one hundred Prizes $10.00 each; Next one hundred prizes $5.00 each. In case of a tie identical prizes will be awarded.

RULES: Write on one side of the paper only. Let your letter contain no more than fifty words. Tear off Top of 666 Salve Carton and mail with letter to 666 Salve Contest, Jacksonville, Florida. All letters must be in by midnight, January 31, 1932. Your Druggist will have list of winners by February 15th.

666 Liquid or Tablets with 666 Salve Makes a Complete Internal and External Treatment

THE Publix Shirt

With Pre-shrunk collar and body, seven button front. Guaranteed fast color.
SIZE 14 to 17:

98c

2 for $1.95

COLORS: White, blue, green, tan and fancy colors, with or without Rayon stripes.

May we suggest that you come in and see our COMPLETE LINE OF

HABERDASHERY FOR CHRISTMAS

McBRIDE'S

AUBURN, INDIANA

BASSETT'S
WELDING SHOP
OXY-ACETYLENE
WELDING
BRAZING
SOLDERING
IN ST. JOE GARAGE

DR. COIL
SAVE YOUR EYES—WEAR COIL GLASSES
Eye Exam Specialists
4000 and 4100 First Street, Second Floor
St. Joe, Ind. Phone 20-21
Get Your Eyes Exammed by Dr. Coil One Word and Well

SPENCERVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stodde, Fredie Chapman, Miss Irene Webb of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Belle Brown of Hamilton, Ohio, were Thursday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hafner.

Miss Bina Zimmerman, only daughter of Mrs. Alice Zimmerman, and Fred Glawe, of Auburn, were married Thursday morning at the M. E. Parsonage by the Rev. Homer Studabaker. The wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's brother, Earl Stiman and family of west of town. The young couple left at once for the southern part of the state and on their return will be at home with the bride's mother. Mrs. Glawe is a teacher at this place.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and
Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

John Shutt and wife have moved from the Buckingham property in with Martin Hull.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church met on Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Vaughn Allen.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Thanksgiving services were held on Wednesday evening at the Methodist Church and on Thursday morning at the Lutheran Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walter, Sr., Miss Fern Walter, Martin Walter, and Mrs. Cora Steward and daughter, Miss Arminta, were Thanksgiving Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter.

A new filling station is in the process of erection by Joe Bice on the point where the paved road leaves the old gravel road near the Buckingham home. The location seems to be a desirable one from all angles.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubur Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler, Mrs. Audra Wade and Merritt Butler, attended the funeral of Mr. Geo. Miller at Morristown, Ind., on Wednesday. Mr. Miller was the father of Mrs. Aubur Butler and was killed in an automobile accident on Sunday of last week at Indianapolis. Mrs. Miller was also seriously injured in the same accident.

Miss Garnet Beams was home for a few days the past week.

Mrs. Nancy Chaney is visiting a few weeks with relatives at Auburn.

Mrs. Gertie Wasson was a Thursday guest of the Frank Wertman home.

Maurice Hollabaugh spent several days at St. Louis, Mo., on business last week.

Mrs. Mary Calaway left on Thursday for Muncie where she will spend a few days.

Miss Mary Comiskey of near Hometown is visiting Mrs. Mabel Erick, and other friends here.

Mrs. Tressie Kelley and children and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baker spent Thursday at the Vol Hay home.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortie Widdfield were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mortoff and family of Garrett.

Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser and Theodore Garstka of LaOtto were dinner guests on Thanksgiving at the James Reed home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dwyer spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Dwyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Maurer, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beams, Mrs. Rebecca Beams, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beams of Fremont, Ind., were Thanksgiving dinner guests at the Forrest Beams home.

The C. C. Club met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Jennie Walter. One guest was present, Mrs. Ina Kraft. A prize was won by Mrs. Maude Beams for having the best Thanksgiving menu.

CONCORD

Paul Fetter and wife took dinner Thursday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Fetter.

Mrs. John Timmerman of Spencerville and Mrs. Anna Koch were Tuesday guests in the home of Mrs. Lee Jackson.

George Johnson is doing some improving at his place by building a nice chicken house. Ford Jackson is doing the work.

Mrs. Less Sebring of Auburn came down Saturday to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Ford Jackson and family, and on Monday they took dinner with Mrs. Lee Jackson.

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-29

Mrs. John Fetter and Mrs. O. Baker took Thanksgiving dinner with L. G. Fetter and family.

Mrs. Carrie Peabody nee Keller from Columbia City spent the week-end in the George Johnson home.

Mrs. Richer, mother of Mrs. Orin Rude, suffered a severe heart attack a few days ago, but is now much better.

Mrs. John Fetter entertained to Sunday dinner Mr. Elza Jones, and Mrs. Rosa Camp of Edon, O., Mr. and Mrs. Israel Layman and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Fetter and daughter, Dortha.

On last Sunday Bert Jackson rather surmized that he was going to have company and sure enough, he did. About 9:30 the guests began to arrive each bringing well filled baskets and all enjoying the pot luck dinner, especially Mr. Jackson. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Holl Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Jackson and daughter, Iris, Mrs. Less Sebring of Auburn, and Mrs. Lee Jackson and daughter, Mable.

HARLAN

Emett Guff and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hailey Saturday evening.

Miss Enid Curie of St. Joe, spent the week-end with her aunt Miss Babe James.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hailey and children visited Doy Gorrell and family Sunday evening.

Mrs. Lizze Witmer, of Fort Wayne, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Tillie Kinsey.

Levi Mumma and family, of Cleveland spent a few days with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Mumma.

Mrs. Martha Mattson returned to her home on Fort Wayne Tuesday after a visit with Guy James and family.

Amherst Miller, Frank Miller and Merritt Oberholzer are in Pennsylvania this week on a hunting trip.

Wm. Blen and family, of Legioner spent Thanksgiving Day and the week-end in the George Wilson home.

Karl Gardiner and family, of Fort Wayne visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lantz and children Saturday afternoon.

Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Crall of the death of Chauncey Zeis, which occurred recently in Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. Norford Gates and Margaret Ghafter of Findlay visited Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Boston and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hulsberg and daughter, Patsy Jean, of LaGrange, Ill., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cummins.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public
In General

Mrs. Mina Amstutz and family and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hailey and children visited with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Knisley, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Tomlinson and Dessie and Mae Perkins spent Thanksgiving Day with George Perkins and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vallieu and daughters, of Fort Wayne visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vallieu the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day.

Will Spindler and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nuttle and daughter, Marcell, visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kinsey at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Snyder and daughter, Norma Lou, returned Sunday to their home in Kalamazoo, after a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kinsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Del Boston, Mrs. Beryl Swartz, and Don Boston were called to Findlay Monday by the death of Mr. Boston's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth McFarland, who was killed in an automobile accident Sunday afternoon.

The following students spent their Thanksgiving holidays with their parents, James Blume of Purdue University, James Fueling and Clifford Gorrell of Indiana University, Paul Kinsey and Irene Lake of North Manchester.

The Harlan Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Dora Reichelderfer on Monday afternoon. After the business session, Mrs. Mildred Julian spoke interestingly on "The Pulitzer Prize Winners and the Scarlet Sister." Miss Jean Blackburn entertained in song. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, December 15th at the home of Mrs. Julian.

Golden Gate Deep Channel

The waters of San Francisco bay are generally shallow far out from the shore, but the Golden Gate and the part of the bay adjoining San Francisco, as well as a central channel running through its whole length, have a depth of 30 to more than 100 feet.

"Horsey" Term

What is known as a "Canterbury trot" is a gentle gallop, such as is supposed to have been used by the pilgrims when going to the shrine of Thomas a Becket at Canterbury.

Early Steel Needles

The Chinese are believed to have been the first to use steel needles, and these implements gradually found their way westward and were brought into Europe by the Moors.

The Sun Shines Brighter
Every Day For Folks
Who Spend Wisely and Save

At least it seems that way to the Thrifty. There is the happy comfort of knowing that they have the means of conquering Adversity and accepting Life's Opportunities as they come! CAN YOU SAY AS MUCH FOR YOURSELF?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

Jams and Jellies Help To Make 1931 Christmas Presents Useful

This year's Christmas presents will be useful, say those who set the fashion in gifts.

Things to wear, things to eat, things which come in handy around the house, will carry the 1931 holiday sentiment.

And many of this year's stockings will be filled, figuratively, with handmade, home-made presents—knitted and crocheted articles, cakes, candies and the like.

Jams and jellies, too, because of the appropriateness of their colors, and because almost everyone has at least a few glasses to spare, are extremely popular as gifts this Christmas.

Mrs. R. B. White, of New York, is one of those who are keeping the holiday sentiment by giving glasses filled with her own jellies to her friends.

In the photograph she shows just what can be done with ribbon, crepe-paper, cellophane, trinkets which can be purchased anywhere for a few cents apiece—and her jellies. Mrs. White bought all of her's for ten cents each, with the exception of the large basket which she had on hand.

The doll hides, beneath her crepe-paper skirt, a glass of Mrs. White's elderberry jelly, and becomes a present for a young girl because in the folds of the doll's skirt are to be found four light, fluffy powder puffs.

The teapot is, temporarily, the holder for a glass of strawberry jelly. Later, when an elderly lady has the present the jelly will be useful on biscuits and butter to go with the tea made in the teapot.

Mrs. White has tied, with a bright ribbon, a set of measuring spoons to a table jar of tomato relish, and a red tomato pincushion and strawberry candy appropriately deck a glass of mint jelly.

In her hand she holds a sewing basket in which nests a glass of her plum butter, and three other jellies

Mrs. R. B. White and some of the novel Christmas presents made from jellies that she is giving friends.

are peeking from a ribbon-gay box which will be someone's stocking or trinket box after the first of the year.

The jolly elephant carries a glass of deep red cherry jelly—and seems to be happy to do it. And he's very practical, too, because he turns out to be an attractive tooth-brush holder.

Three glasses of dried apricot jam, blackberry jelly, and grape jelly are tied up with red ribbon in a green three compartment relish and jelly dish that is so nice to have when serving one of those good roast dinners.

And for a very special present, Mrs. White has arranged a larger collection of her jams and jellies in a basket with some fruits and candies—all decorated and festooned with red and green ribbon and cellophane.

There are so many little presents one must give," says Mrs. White, "so I hit upon this idea of dressing up my jams and jellies and giving them alone, or attached to something that will be useful, later, in itself."

"I've told many of my friends about my plan, and they're as enthusiastic as I am. Some of them, who didn't make any jellies this summer, are preparing special batches, for Christmas presents only, using canned fruit and bottled fruit pectin."

"I'm giving away dozens of glasses myself—to the ladies at church, to the needy families in the neighborhood, and to acquaintances I feel I simply should remember with something."

"I know I'm going to enjoy this Christmas more than ever before, because I'm giving useful gifts that I've made myself, and feel I'm doing something to help others enjoy theirs."

The Seniors and their friends held their party on Friday evening at the home of Frederick Laub. In spite of snowy weather the group of some thirty-five had a good time and each enjoyed the evening of games and music. All of the Seniors except Clarissa Rediger and Dwight Koch were present. Refreshments consisting of chicken sandwiches, Waldorf salad, pickles, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and cocoa were served.

Reports for the third month of school will go forth next Wednesday.

The per cent of attendance and the honor roll will be announced next week.

School closed Wednesday for the usual Thanksgiving vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Appleman entertained a few relatives and friends at dinner on Thursday and made a drive to Mr. Appleman's farm in Lagrange County on Friday.

Mr. Russel and family left Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with friends and relatives.

Miss Hollabaugh and friend spent Thanksgiving Day in Battle Creek with friends.

Miss Zimmerman and friends had dinner with her brother, Earl Stiman.

Miss Walker spent the day with friends at Hometown.

Miss Tague expected to go to Convoys.

Miss Reed had the day at home.

THIRST

A Seventh Grade Composition
By John Franklin

We started from Cairo one cold morning before daybreak. There were about seventy-five camels in the caravan. The chief was mounted on a speedy little Arabian pony. We were headed for an oasis about one hundred miles away, to get dates.

It took the caravan until the next morning to get to the oasis. It seemed as though we never would get there, but we finally did. All of that day the workers gathered and packed dates into bags on the camels, and we started for Cairo.

At noon when we stopped to eat dinner, it happened that I was the first person to the water bag. To my horror, it was empty, the water having leaked out. I went to the chief and told him what had happened. He said, "Well, there's no use crying over spilt milk, only its water this time." I always admire that man who had the courage to joke in a critical time like that.

We had to make a meal on raw dates, for we had no water to cook anything. When we finally did get started again, I thought I would croak, but, it of worse than that. After about an hour I was almost wishing I could die. My throat was parched, my mouth dry, and my tongue was swollen until it filled my whole mouth. When night finally came, I was relieved a little, but still I was very thirsty. We traveled all of that night just as hard as the camels could go, and when we got to Cairo, I was almost ready to give up. I believe I drank a gallon of water before my thirst was quenched.

I always will remember that trip.

Spencerville basket ball schedule for the rest of the season:
Dec. 4, Leo ..... There.
Dec. 11, Jefferson Twp. .... There.
Jan. 29, LaOtto ..... Here.
Feb. 6, Waterloo ..... There.
Feb. 12, Harlan ..... There.
Feb. 13, Hamilton ..... There.
Feb. 19, Auburn ..... Here.
Feb. 26, Leo ..... Here.
March 4, LaOtto ..... There.

WE CAN GIVE YOU
what you want
IN PRINTING
when you want it!
Try us out with your next job

THE ST. JOE NEWS
The Home Town Paper

Air View of "the West Point of the Air"

Known as "the West Point of the Air" the new Randolph field, 10 miles northeast of San Antonio, stretches like a model city before the camera eye in this aerial photograph. The "field" will include 500 buildings surrounded by flying fields for the use of the 500 planes and 3,500 pupils and instructors who can be accommodated.

Bread and Butter Diet for Children

U.S. Nutritionists Prescribe Proper Food.

Washington.—Old-fashioned bread and butter is the backbone of the diet recommended by Uncle Sam's nutritionists with the Department of Agriculture for all growing children, according to an official bulletin just issued.

"Ideas about feeding children have undergone many changes in recent years," the official food experts say. "The former tendency to keep children unduly long on a baby diet has given way to the recent practice of supplementing the milk diet early in life with a variety of wholesome foods simply prepared."

Milk and bread and butter and potatoes are among the foods recommended for each meal; fruit and other vegetables at least twice a day; egg or meat, and small amounts of sweets.

Variety is advised in the preparation and serving of food in different ways and different combinations. Thus bread is recommended either plain with butter or toasted, toasted rolls, bread pudding or in sandwiches. The sandwich combinations suggested include grated carrots, lettuce, water cress, or peanut butter with chopped celery. Or bread, they suggest, may be served with jelly or jam in limited quantities either as dessert or immediately after the meal.

Breakfast for the young child may usually consist of fruit, cereal, toast with butter and milk, the report suggests. Variety is offered in the fruits served and a strip or two of bacon cooked until crisp and drained of fat may be served occasionally for variety. There is no objection to eggs when the child is not having egg for dinner or supper. A typical dinner permitting of variations is given, consisting of broiled meat ball, buttered string beans, baked potato, bread and butter, lettuce, milk and baked apple. The report gives a dozen other dinner menus.

A dozen supper menus are also listed such as, to give the first, baked potato and bacon, fresh tomato and lettuce, bread and butter, milk, muskmelon.

"A healthy child," to quote the government experts, "who has an abundance of the right kinds of food grows normally and is contented and well developed. His legs are straight and strong and his weight is satisfactory for his build, height and age. He has sound teeth and hair that is glossy, smooth and not brittle. His skin is clear and his color is good. He has an alert expression and bright, clear eyes, with no dark circles underneath. He is active and has a good appetite for his meals."

Aged California Woman Tells of Trek in 1853

San Francisco.—Recounting tales of the great trek from Missouri to California in '53, Mrs. Mary E. Harris, who, as a child crossed the plains in a covered wagon, celebrated her eighty-ninth birthday recently.

Surrounded by her four sons at 122 Carl street, Mrs. Harris spoke of her adventures: "I was eleven when we made the trip," she said. "For over six months home was a lumbering Conestoga wagon."

"Not once during the trip were we bothered with Indians. Those whom we saw seemed friendly. It seems a long, long time ago now, when I think of how people are shot across the continent in express trains."

"Over the Sierra we went, past the famous gold diggings. The tales of the goldfields brought my mother and father West."

Mrs. Harris' family finally settled on a ranch near San Jose. It was there that she met her husband, then sheriff of Santa Clara county.

Her four sons are Marshall, Cyrus, James and Nicholas, all San Francisco business men.

Bees Use Eagle for Home

Christiansburg, Va.—Apparently in search of a unique storage place, a colony of bees has established itself in the large eagle which, mounted atop a large ball, stands on the Christiansburg courthouse. Dozens of bees may be seen every day sitting in and out.

Radio revealed in all its baldness how many people don't like classical music. Another exposure.

Woman Dies as Home Is Fired by Robbers

Phoenix, Ariz.—Mrs. W. L. Wright was burned to death and her husband was rescued from their flaming home in a critical condition after two men had robbed them, beaten them and set fire to the house.

Danish Chemist Claims He Has Ideal Gas Mask

Copenhagen.—A filter for gas masks which excludes 99.8 per cent of all poisons from the breathing tubes has been invented by the Danish chemist N. L. Hansen, and with it he has evolved an elaborate plan for the protection of cities against air raids dealing gas.

Denmark is disarmed. It has no military forces. But experiments with poison gases have been continued by military chemists against the day when Denmark might possibly be the object of such an attack. Heretofore gas masks, the only known protection against this invisible death, have never been really effective in keeping out the poison. Even the very best known filters permit up to 20 per cent of the fumes to be inhaled. Hansen believes his invention will revolutionize the work of war laboratories the world over. It is expected that the Danish government will place the invention at the disposal of all nations.

Art Relics Recovered
Pisa.—A fine fresco by Spinello Aretino, another representing the annunciation, and two monolithic granite columns were discovered during restoration of an old church in Ripoli.

Girl Is Given Sight and Sees Wonderland

Skill of the Surgeon Banishes Child's Blindness.

Belmont, Ohio.—The world is a wonderland to Edna Goddard, nine, who stares rapturously at strange objects which she had conjured differently in a life of blindness.

The skill of a surgeon gave Edna sight which had been plotted out at birth by a double cataract.

"Everything seems so funny," she laughed gleefully, looking at her mother. "Even mamma seems strange. She seemed different before."

The generosity of local civic clubs and the skill of Dr. Leo Covert, neighbor of the Goddards, opened up the wonderland for Edna. She had been born blind. As she learned to walk, she also learned the ways of the blind, how she must grope her way about and depend upon her accentuated senses of hearing and touch to safeguard herself from danger.

She learned how to read from the raised alphabet. Her parents said she never complained.

The Goddards were poor, unable to take Edna to a specialist. Civic clubs interested themselves in her case. They consulted Doctor Covert, who offered to perform the operation.

When the bandages were removed Edna shrieked in childish joy. "I can see," she said.

"But everything seemed different from what she had conjured in her world of darkness. Color was particularly puzzling."

"I didn't know that eyes were of different colors," she said. "Everything is so bright and different. It's wonderful."

She is learning the names of chairs and other objects about her home. Although she had known them by touch, in sight they were strange.

Why be afraid of responsibility? It is something you can always get used to.

Woman Discovers She's Been Dead for 5 Years
Genoa, Italy.—After seven years of insanity, Sig. Angela Moresco regained her reason to find out that she has been officially "dead" for five years. The hospital for the insane, after investigation, admitted that an error in names had been made and another woman had died under the name of Moresco. Legal steps are under way to straighten out the tangle.

Learning How to Cross the Street

Policeman William Nixon of the Philadelphia police force showing children of the Horace Burney school the proper and safe method of crossing street intersections. Policemen are visiting each Quaker City school, attempting to instill the "safety" idea into children.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 6 ROME AND BEYOND

GOLDEN TEXT.—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.
LESSON TEXT.—II Timothy 4:6-18.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Finishes His Work.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Finishes His Work.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Missionary Work Goes On.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Unto the Ends of the Earth.

I. Paul's View of Death (v. 6).
This he sets forth under two metaphors:

1. An offering (v. 6). "I am ready to be offered." This figure, meaning a drink offering, or libation, shows that Paul was looking forward to a violent death. The shedding of his blood was to be an offering poured out on the sacred altar as an act of worship. Death can only be an offering to God when the life has been wholly yielded to the doing of God's will.

2. A departure (v. 6). "The time of my departure is at hand." The same idea is expressed in Phil. 1:23. "Departure" is a nautical term which signifies the losing of a ship from its moorings in order to enter upon its voyage. It is not the end of the voyage, but its beginning. It indicates that the vessel is outward bound. The anchor is being lifted, and the sails are being spread for the homeward trip. The same idea is expressed in Luke 9:31, where the theme of conversation on the Mount of Transfiguration is said to be the departure or exodus which Christ should accomplish at Jerusalem. What the exodus meant to Israel, and more, death means to the Christian.

II. Paul's Backward Glance at Life (v. 7).
God has a definite purpose for each life. Life should be so spent that at its close one may look back with a definite consciousness that the divine purpose has been accomplished. This backward look is presented in three figures:

1. "I have fought a good fight." The figure here is that of a soldier. The Christian life is a warfare. Conflicts, dangers, and temptations must be met.

2. "I have finished my course." The figure here is that of an athlete who sets out to win a race. The Christian life is a race to be run.

3. "I have kept the faith." The figure is that of a husbandman to whom had been entrusted a treasure. This treasure was the Christian faith. In a peculiar way Paul was made steward of the Christian faith. He was conscious of having been faithful to the trust committed to him.

III. Paul's Forward Look to the Future (v. 8).
This is a beautiful picture of the calm at the end of a period of faithful service. Knowing that death was awaiting him, there was no dark cloud.

1. He saw before him a life with God. Eternal fellowship with God is a prize greatly to be desired.

2. A prize was laid up for him—a crown of righteousness. This reward will be given at the coming of the Lord to all who love his appearing.

IV. Paul's Associates (vv. 9-12).
1. Demas, the deserter (v. 10). Demas has become immortalized as one who was religious, but because of its attractions went after the world. The love of the world caused him to turn his back upon principle, friendship, honor, and duty.

2. Luke, the faithful (v. 11). What a comfort it must have been to have with him this one faithful soul. Perhaps he was the best fitted of all to minister unto Paul. Luke was faithful in shipwreck, imprisonment, in journeying by land and sea.

3. Mark, the restored runaway (v. 11). Mark had gone back but was restored. This is a beautiful picture and most comforting. Though we have become trustworthy. Everyone who has taken to heart his failure should be given another chance.

V. Personal Matters (vv. 13-15).
1. Bring the cloak, books, and parchments (v. 13). In the jail the cloak would be needed for his comfort. The books and parchments would be required for his study and writing.

2. Wronged by Alexander, the cooper-smith (vv. 14, 15). We have no way of determining just when this deed was committed.

3. Defended by the Lord, though forsaken by man (vv. 16-18). Paul in his last trying hours was like the Lord—left alone. He says: "All men forsook me. It was said of Christ that all forsook him and fled. Paul manifested a like spirit. 'I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge.'"

The Spiritual Christian
Normally, the spiritual Christian will be occupied with effective service for his Lord. This is not a rule. We need only to know that we are yielded and ready to do whatever he may choose. To "rest in the Lord" is one of the essential victories in a spiritual life. "Come ye apart and rest awhile." We are just as spiritual when resting, playing, sleeping, or incapacitated, if it is his will for us, as we are when serving.—Christian Cynosure.

Sees Regard for Dogs Notably on Increase

A woman who is a great lover of animals recently told two incidents, or retold them, on the press, to stress her point that the wholly commendable, but rather limited, attitude of "love me, love my dog," shows hopeful signs of progress. She says that this affection is rapidly being stretched to include the other fellow's dog.

"There was that tiny item in the paper the other day, for example, about the dog that selected the middle of a busy street in Bloomsburg, Pa., for his siesta," she said. "Little noting the vast number of persons who were affected by his discriminating search for a shady spot, the dog took a peaceful nap, according to the Boston Globe, while 400 respectable motorists detoured around him."

"Then there was that other dog who had made himself unpopular with his neighbors over in New Jersey because of his habit of barking at night. The local police recorder had been notified, and the aged resident who owned him was given the sad command to dispose of him. It happened that the owner not only actually depended on the dog for companionship, but for errands at which the creature had proved remarkably dependable."

"Well, the upshot of it was," said the lady who loves animals, triumphantly, "that 60 persons, led by the mayor of the town, heard of the matter and testified in the dog's behalf. Some of them, mind you, even gave up their vacations so that they might aid the case. And the dog was officially forgiven."

STOP THAT COUGH!
Bronchitis is increasingly prevalent at this season. Alone, it is seldom serious, although the cough may be very annoying. But the serious side of Bronchitis and other mild infections of the lungs and throat is that the inflamed tissues may be invaded by some far more serious organism, particularly Pneumonia.

This is a real danger in most cases. It is the best of reasons why a bronchial cough or an attack of laryngitis should be stopped as quickly as possible.

The quick effective way to check these troubles is to apply B. & M. The Penetrating Germicide, three times a day, spreading it over the entire chest and throat. Usually the first application will bring out a reddish flush showing where the trouble is.

B. & M. is obtainable from most druggists. If you cannot supply it, send his name and $1.25 for a large-size bottle sent postpaid. Helpful booklet free on request. F. E. ROLLINS COMPANY, 53 Beverly St., Boston, Mass.—Adv.

Just the Man
Magna—The man who marries my daughter will want a lot of money.

Suitor (hopefully)—Well, sir, nobody wants me more than I do!—London Humorist.

The Final Laugh
Jack—Well, Bill has played his last practical joke.

Jill—That so? What did he do? Jack—Well, he's dead—and he bequeathed his brains to science.

Main Items
"What's the costume for a statesman?"
"Plug hat and hair shirt."

Queerest things you can think of can make money in a city. For there are plenty of the queerest kind of people in a million.

Even a baby learns that what was "cute" when it was a year old it gets spanked for at two.

It is hard to tell which there is the more delight in: Neglecting what one ought to do or doing it.

Graft by any other name would produce as many plums.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get on wax and use as directed. Fine particles of good wax seal off all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Wax is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax takes out the hidden beauty of your skin. It removes wrinkles one by one. Mercolized Wax is the most beautiful skin cream in the world. It is made in one place with wax. A drug store.

Are We Created Unequal?

"The biological discoveries of a half-century or more," Prof. Harrison R. Hunt told the Eugenics Research association, "have revealed that people, instead of being potentially equal at birth, vary enormously, and that such differences are often inherited; so one might say it is self-evident that men are created unequal."

Don't Neglect Your Kidneys

Heed Promptly Kidney and Bladder Irregularities

If bothered with bladder irregularities, nagging backache and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling due to disordered kidney action or bladder irritation, don't delay. Users everywhere rely on Doan's Pills. Praised for more than 50 years. Recommended the country over. Sold everywhere.

Didn't Dare Brag

"Does your husband ever brag what a good cook his mother was?" asked the caller.

"No," smiled the young married woman, "he knows I know his father died of indigestion."

WOMEN: watch your BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

When you're a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

Dr. W. B. CALDWELL'S
SYRUP PEPSIN
A Doctor's Family Laxative

To the MERCHANTS of this City
Before the rush of Christmas business this year, give a thought to the customers who constitute your trade. At what other time could you more fittingly send them a greeting than at Christmas.

Select your Christmas card now. Your dealer will imprint it with your name, in whatever quantity you need.

Burgoyne CHRISTMAS CARDS

YOUR LOCAL DEALERS CARRY THEM

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains of Abraham

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

© by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc.

WNU Service.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

He made no confidants, and no one knew his story. An officer found he was acquainted with the country, and he was made a Lake George scout in time to be captured by Rogers and his rangers on Christmas eve of 1756. He escaped in January and was back at Fort Carillon early in February, when he learned that Paul Tache had been one of the French officers at Oswego, and that he had been killed. Jeems felt a pang of regret. Lately he had been thinking of Paul Tache and of Toinette's mother, wondering what their attitude would be when some day he told them what had happened after the massacre at Tontour manor.

There is no letter of information which covers the lapse in Jeems' military history between February and August of 1757, at which time he was present at the capture of Fort William Henry, or Fort George, and witnessed the massacre of its English garrison by uncontrollable French Indians led by the Abenakis. Here Jeems must have experienced an unusual shock, for soon after the killing, when in their madness some of the Indians were cooking English flesh on spits and in kettles, he came upon the black-frocked priest who had accompanied the Abenakis and found him to be the Jesuit, Pierre Roubaud, who had made Toinette his wife at Chenusio. Father Roubaud was even then preparing that eyewitness document which was destined to become a valuable part of Jesuit and French-English history, and whose hundred or more are-yellowed pages, written mostly by torchlight amid scenes of horror, one may read in the Jesuit archives at Quebec. The priest saw Jeems, but so intent was he upon his task and so great were the changes wrought by sixteen months that he did not recognize him, and Jeems left his presence without making himself known.

After Fort William Henry and the brilliant French successes which preceded it, Jeems began to feel the inevitable pressure which is bound to crush the life from a country that is enormously outweighed by its antagonist. The English colonies had put an end to quarrels among themselves, and a million and a half people were set in motion against the eighty thousand in New France, and behind this inundating force were powerful English armies and a still more powerful English navy already inspired by Pitt and Wolfe. As the Deums were sung because of his victories, Montcalm knew that New France was hovering at the brink of ruin, but at no time did the outcome of his heroic contest press with greater certainty upon himself than upon Jeems.

As the captured cannon were rushed from Fort William Henry to Ticonderoga, Jeems surrendered himself, as Montcalm was doing in another way, to the last chapter in his fate. There was no goal at which he could aim, nothing for which he could play; winning for Canada, should the miracle of ultimate victory come, could hold no more of solace and happiness for him than defeat at the hands of the English. There were times when his French and English body was divided against itself, when his mother and Hepzibah Adams and all they stood for looked upon him questioningly from out of the past as if he had turned traitor to some precious part of them, yet in such a way that they could not condemn him. In hours like these, the spirit of Toinette came to his side and placed her hand in his, and he knew it was for her he was fighting, for the home which would have been theirs, for the country she would have made a paradise for him. She grew nearer as the sureness of an approaching end crept upon him, and he felt the beginning of a comfort he had not known before. It was the consolation of something about to happen. Something that would have to do with her and with him. He knew what it was and waited patiently for it as another year passed.

Then came Ticonderoga, that July 8, 1758, when over a space of a hundred acres one could not walk without staining the soles of his shoes with French or English blood—that red day in history and heroism when three thousand full-blown, harassed soldiers of New France faced six thousand British regulars and nine thousand American militiamen; the day on which Jeems and his comrades drove back the waves of scarlet and gold and a thousand killed Highlanders of the Black Watch led by Duncan Campbell of Inverawe, until, as Montcalm wrote to his wife, even the bullet-scarred trees seemed to be dripping blood. Through hours of tumult and death, Jeems loaded and fired, and stabbed with his bayonet, and the thing for which he was waiting did not come. Men fell around him, tens and scores and hundreds of them, as the day wore on. He saw whole ranks shiver and crumble before blasts of fire. But when it was ended and the English dropped back in a last smashing defeat, he was unscathed except for bruises and powder burns on his face.

But Montcalm retreated, and this puzzled Jeems. The army began to learn the truth as, weary and foot-sore, it turned toward Quebec. Rapidly, fully, intrigue, and falsehood had fed at the heart of New France until it was honeycombed by the rottenness of dissimulation. Montcalm was its one star of hope, and as autumn came, then winter, it seemed to Jeems that Montcalm's God had deserted him. The St. Lawrence was filled with British ships. The harvest was meager, and a barrel of flour cost two hundred francs. Even Montcalm ate horse-flesh. Still he did not lose faith in God. A thousand scoundrels headed by Vandreuil had fattened on the nation's downfall, and he prayed for them. "What a country!" he exclaimed. "Here all the knaves grow rich and the honest men are ruined." A fighting man, a man of sword and death, he kept his faith to the end. "If we are driven from the St. Lawrence," he wrote to his wife, "we will descend the Mississippi and make a final stand for France among the swamps of Louisiana."

Thus planned and prayed the man whose bleached skull is now shown to visitors in the Ursuline convent at Quebec. Through the spring and summer of 1759, Jeems watched the spiders as they wove their web ever closer about Quebec, the last French stronghold in America. It was in May of 1759 that Toinette had been killed, and it was in May of 1759 that he first saw from the Montmorency shore the mighty rock which so long had been the mistress of the New world.

Four months later, on the most eventful September 13 of written history—that "To-morrow Morning" which will never be forgotten—he stood on the Plains of Abraham. Montcalm's God was about to complete an immaculate slay which hung in the air like a mighty chorus waiting for a whispered command to begin. To Jeems DuRoi, facing the sun and the thin red line of the British across the meadows where Abraham Martin had grazed his cattle, fate was bringing an end to uncertainty and chaos. It had missed him at Fort William Henry, but here he could feel its presence—a release from bondage—something greater than iron or flesh—as the crimson lines drew nearer. He felt the spirit of what Montcalm had said to his doomed soldiers a few minutes before, "God is surely watching over the Plains of Abraham today."

CHAPTER XIII

It was ten o'clock, the hour of the crisis. At dawn it had been foggy; at six showers had fallen; now it was hot. It might have been July instead of September. In darkness twenty-four British volunteers had climbed the steep height from the river, hanging by their fingers and toes, crawling with their faces against the earth, making their way foot by foot. "I am afraid," you cannot do it," Wolfe had said, looking at the pitlike blackness above. But they did. Nameless in history, they destroyed the old map of the world and put another in its place. In that hour twenty-four men ruined France, gave rise to a greater England, created a new nation.

At the top, Vandreuil, the French officer, slept soundly with his guards. To him fate might have given the glory of keeping the old map intact. But he was killed before he could wipe the daze of slumber from his eyes. Wolfe's path was made, and like this stream of red ants the British continued to ascend the trail which had been blazed for them.

Vandreuil, the governor, the arch-villain who lost half a continent for France, lay in his cosy nest of inequity a short distance away dreaming of sensual days with the faithless Madame de Ticonderoga and planning a future with the king's own mistress, La Pompadour. Across the St. Charles, expecting the British in a different direction, sleepless, worn, robbed of every chance to win by the weakness and imbecility of this favorite of a king's mistress, was Montcalm.

Gave Life to Further Fight on Yellow Fever

In order to discover the yellow fever germ, Dr. James Carroll sacrificed his own life by permitting an infected mosquito to bite him. He was a member of the board that was appointed by the United States government to investigate the scourge which had been sweeping the island of Cuba. He submitted himself to inoculation, with a consequent severe attack of the fever. He recovered, but died seven years later in Washington, September 18, 1907. His death was regarded as an ultimate result of the disease. Doctor Carroll was born in England June 5, 1854, and was a physician and surgeon in the United States army at the time of his appointment to the Havana yellow fever commission. The other members of the board Jeems was with the battalion of Guenne which had come up from its camp on the St. Charles at six o'clock in the morning, its white uniforms throwing the ridge of Buttes-a-Neveu, from which it beheld the British molehill growing into a mountain.

About him Jeems saw the Plains of Abraham, and a strange song was in his head as he thought that Toinette had been of this soil and that her great-grandfather had given name to the earth soon to run red with blood. The Plains were wide and level in most parts, with bushes and trees and cornfields dotting them here and there. These were the front yard to Quebec, a field of destiny lying between the precipitous descents to the St. Lawrence on one side and the snake-like, lazy St. Charles on the other, with a world of splendid terraces spreading in a panorama under the eyes.

As he lay watching with the men of Guenne, Jeems could scarcely have guessed that this scene of pastoral beauty was the stage upon which one of the epic tragedies of all time was about to be enacted. A feeling of rest possessed him, as if a period had come to mark the end of the confusion and unhappiness which had held him a victim for three years, and he felt mysteriously near the presence of influences he could not see. He was a product of times when faith in the spiritual guidance of the affairs of men was strong, and it was not difficult for him to conceive that Toinette was close at his side, whispering words which only his soul could hear that he had come home.

Six o'clock grew into seven, seven into eight, and eight into nine. In front of him England was forming. Behind him, tricked and outgeneralled, Montcalm was rushing in mad haste across the St. Charles bridge and under the northern rampart of Quebec to enter the city through the Palace gate. At the edge of the Plains of Abraham the boyish Wolfe, poet and philosopher, was preparing for glory or doom. In the quiet, narrow streets of the town were gathering hordes of Indians in scalp locks and war paint, troops of red and black Canadians ready to make a last stand for their homes, battalions of Old France in white uniforms and with gleaming bayonets, battle-scarred veterans of Sarre and Langueadoc and Roussillon and Bear, eager to fight for Montcalm. Ahead where Jeems was looking stood the English's morale. Behind were courage and chivalry and the iron sinews of heroes in the throes of excitement and undisciplined rush.

Jeems saw none of this and nothing beyond the distant red lines. The Plains lay in sunshine, with bird-singing, crows feeding in the cornfields. The earth was a great oriental rug worn with autumn tints, the woods yellow and gold in a frame about it. The guns of Samos, of Sillery, of the boats in the river made sleepy detonations, and on the rise of melody, a cheer to man, another appeal to God. New France was on her knees, and Montcalm was on the Plains, some of his men coming through the gate of St. Louis and some through that of St. John, breathless and eager, to where the banners of Guenne fluttered on the ridge. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

There's No Limit as to Huge Cuffs

By CHERIE NICHOLAS.

A SLEEVE is known by its cuff these days. This gesture of fashion in the direction of enormous as well as very fanciful cuffs is confined neither to coat or frock, but every type of garment be it wrap, gown or blouse, if it has long sleeves, gives conspicuous expression to highly ornate and out-of-the-usual cuff silhouettes.

Take it in the matter of the smartest daytime frocks made either of the swanky sheer woolsens or of voguish silk crepes or of velvet. It is their whimsical elbow-length lace and lingerie cuffs which are their pride and their glory. These may or may not be an actual part of the dress, for while many of their sleeves adopt to-the-elbow cuffs made of self or contrast materials, it is just as likely that the cuffs are detachable, for the neckwear departments are a revelation in the way of "aest" which include cuffs with a daring flare which extends halfway up the arm.

However, when it comes to calling attention to out-of-the-ordinary cuffs it is the now-a-modish fur-trimmed cloth suit and the fur-trimmed coat, like-wise the all-wrap which are carrying away the honors. Judging from the latest models, there is no limit as to how far a cuff may be permitted to wander toward the top of the sleeve. Recognized as a stopping place. Frequently the effect is more that of a half-sleeve either contrasting two kinds of material or two kinds of fur or forming the upper portion of the sleeve of cloth with fur meeting it at or above the elbow. Which goes to show very erratic sleeves can be this season.

In designing the swagger deep-cuffed sleeve the very fashionable furs such as astrakhan, Persian lamb, geyak, seal and gray kidskin which is the rage at the present moment, nor should dyed lapin or ermine be omitted from the list, are manipulated like fabric with all sorts of intriguing dressmaker touches. We must not neglect to mention in this connection the very smart spotted furs such as leopard and ocelot, for they are immensely popular.

It is interesting also to note how deftly sable, mink and other similar types are sewed row and row to form bell of huge puff effects which reach often to beyond the elbow.

The jacket suit and the long fur coat in the picture tell the story of that which is new in cuffs in a thoroughly up-to-date manner. The suit is really a three-piece in that the jacket top is a dress rather than merely a skirt. It is, of course, styled of one of the fashionable novelty woolsens such as is causing the world of fashion to stop and admire. The fur which trims it is seal. Furriers are very enthusiastic in regard to sealskin this season.

The black astrakhan coat shown to the right is a Lanvin model. It features straight conservative lines and elbow cuffs. The tie of black velvet is an interesting item. In their most recent collections Paris couturiers are stressing not only velvet scarfs, but on their frocks of every material they are positioning at strategic points great soft-tied velvet bows either in contrasting or self-color.

(© 1931 Western Newspaper Union.)

SLEEVES TO BEAR BURDEN OF STYLE

By its cuffs shall you know it—as a frock or jacket of this season's crop. Sleeves carry the burden of much of the mode this year.

First we had oversteers with long narrow cuffs, then puffed sleeves or arms covered with fabric cut on wholly correct leg-mutton lines. Now come wide cuffs, blashop's sleeves and other cuffy glories.

There's no doubt about it, there is a picturesque note about the wide cuff whether it be on frock or coat and it is especially luxurious when it is fur-trimmed, as it is being done this season. Then, too, the glove gets a chance to expose its crinkled, or wrinkled surface with grand effect and effect.

Wide cuffs of white are very good with black frocks and they give even the largest, most utilitarian hand a soft, delicate appeal. And that's something when hands have been gripping tennis rackets or golf clubs through the years.

Feather Trimmed Frocks Spring Into Popularity

With the advent of the feather trimmed hat, it is not surprising that many designers are now showing frocks with feather trimming a dominant feature.

The hat seems to be assuming additional importance with the introduction of fur-edged borders and now, with feather edges, too. Of course, such a frock is not meant for the woman who has to watch her wardrobe expenditures; it is a gift for the fortunate woman who can afford one or two extra gowns.

A feather-trimmed frock quite plainly demands perfection in detail, accessories and grooming, or else the effect would, more likely be more and then acclimating.

Muffs on Scarfs

Scarft muffs are a new Paris wrinkle for fall. Wrist scarfs to match street frocks are tipped with double bands of fur at the ends which serve the wearer as a muff.

LIGHTWEIGHT WOOL

A frock in lightweight wool is one of the smartest frocks of the season, especially when it has the added touch of fur. For just as sheer wool dresses top the mode so, too, does the organdie trim that can be left off to suit the occasion—Woman's Home Companion.

Earrings for You

Ball-shaped earrings add breadth to your face, and long tapering ones will give a short full face the appearance of being much longer.

KILL COLD GERMS

NAVAP

NASAL VAPOR
Clears head instantly.
Stops cold spreading.
Sprinkle your handkerchief during the day—your pillow at night.
50¢ AT ALL DRUG STORES

Unusual Fertility

If producing unusual things is any indication of land's fertility, the farm land around West Memphis, Ark., must be unusually fertile. J. W. Stotts went to his garden to gather vegetables. Pulling a radish, he found that it was a twin radish, two well-developed radishes growing together. He next gathered tomatoes and found quadruplet tomatoes. Encouraged by that, Mr. Stotts next picked cabbage and harvested one with seven heads.—Exchange.

DRINK to Your HEALTH

If your stomach is temporarily distressed, if you feel uneasy, if you have indigestion or feel sluggish, if you have a headache, if you have a cold, if you have a fever, if you have a sore throat, if you have a cough, if you have a whooping cough, if you have a croup, if you have a diphtheria, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a typhoid fever, if you have a cholera, if you have a dysentery, if you have a malaria, if you have a yellow fever, if you have a plague, if you have a smallpox, if you have a measles, if you have a mumps, if you have a rubella, if you have a scarlet fever, if you have a

St. Joe High School News Notes

Written for your enlightenment as to the progress being made by Teachers and Pupils

The teachers planned a quiet and restful Thanksgiving vacation. Miss Miser and Miss Dittmars were at their homes in Garrett; Miss Morr at her home west of town; Mrs. Oberlin, at home and in Fort Wayne; Miss Grove, at her home in North Manchester; Mr. and Mrs. Cox and son at Helmer; Mr. Maxwell around St. Joe and Mr. Noffsinger at his home in Defiance.

The Senior class gave a Thanksgiving party at the Gymnasium on Saturday night, November 21, with a good number of Seniors present along with a few guests, including both students and alumni of the school.

The guests were greeted by a reception line at the door and after all had arrived the entertainment was started with a treasure hunt which ended with George Wade's side capturing the prize. After a few other games the refreshment committee, which consisted of Mona Traxler and June Ridgway, took charge. A pleasing lunch of ice cream, pie, and sandwiches completed the program after which all were at their leisure to play cards or leave. Everyone said they had a good time, so we'll take their word for it.

On Tuesday night, November 24th, the St. Joe basketball team washed their old rivals, Spencerville, off the map with a score of 18-24. The boys played a good game and showed that they could be a winning team.

Friday, November 20th, St. Joe lost to Harlan with a score of 17-19. This was a hard fought game, but St. Joe could not come thru with a victory.

On Wednesday night, November 25th, the girls team went to Garrett and lost with a score of 28-11. The Seventh and Eighth grade boys lost to Altona with a score of 67-8.

The twelve copies of "Tea Topper Tavern" selected for the Junior class play arrived Thursday, November 20, and the characters were chosen, so that the practice could begin immediately under the direction of Miss Grove. The date of the play is not known definitely. Those taking part are Dorothea Wasson, Enid Curie, Adalena Dressel, Beatrice Storer, Wilma Lyon, Alma Franks, Lillie Smith, Mary Jane Curie, Reigan Schondelmayer, Milton Garrison, Robert Wiers, Woodrow Martin, John Woodcox, and Kenneth Gaff.

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out." John 6: 37.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Drago, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Children's Service at 6:45 P. M. Mrs. Harrold will be in charge and all the children are urged to come.
Evening message at 7:15.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
The revival services will continue this week. Services every evening at 7:30 except Saturday evening.
V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
Evening Worship 7:00.
Ladies Aid Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Price. There will be election of officers.
Choir Practice Friday evening at Mrs. Cora Curie's.
Light Brigade Saturday afternoon at Jean Ridgway's.

SPENCERVILLE

Rosecoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.
Chief Service 10:30.
G. D. Stoll, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE
Willard Hurl, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, Administratrix of the Estate of Catherine Rickett, deceased, late of said County.

Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.
EDNA M. PERKINS,
Administratrix.
November 18, 1931.
C. E. McClintock, Atty. 4623.

Read the Ads in this issue.

The experts are telling the girls how to beautify themselves, but most of them are too beautiful now for the public safety.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office.

ANOTHER MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The Indiana Farm Bureau is ready for its regular annual membership drive. It has prepared for one of the most thorough campaigns in its history. A quota of 80,000 members has been set for Indiana and special meetings are being held this week in DeKalb County.

Our local meeting is scheduled at St. Joe Gymnasium Thursday evening, December 3. We are to have a state speaker, good music and a play "Polly's Parade." The public is invited to this meeting.

The Farm Bureau is the farmer's Chamber of Commerce. Its purpose is to do for the farmer and his community by group action what it is impossible for him to do for himself. Any farmer or his wife who joins the Farm Bureau or a cooperative association should understand that they are volunteering to enlist in a great army of public spirited American citizens, who hope that through their organized efforts agricultural people will be able to secure a position in the scheme of the nation's economics, that will be in favorable comparison to other important group of workers. A strong and loyal organization has every reason to be confident of results.

Telephone 45 when you have some news.

The bootlegger's favorite poem should be "Oft in the still night."

This country needs more wheels turning in the factories, and less of them in people's heads.

Many families seem to regard the gasoline tank as a more essential necessity than the bath tub.

The politicians, instead of keeping their ears to the ground, should keep their noses in the air to smell out corruption.

The American people might find more money for aged widows, if there wasn't so much spent for alimony for blooming wives.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for next order. Let us have your next order.

It is claimed that free speech is not allowed in this country, and they can at least prove that the dogs are not allowed to bark in some neighborhoods, and the radio must be turned to its mildest tone position.

Nickname of Distinction
Maryland is called the Cockade state because of the cockades worn by the Maryland Revolutionary troops.

C. E. McCLINTOCK

Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

At the
News Office

F. A. PATTERSON DIES AT HICKSVILLE

F. A. Patterson, 73, retired business man and for 40 years engaged in the jewelry business at Hicksville, died early Sunday morning at his home following a stroke of apoplexy suffered Friday. He is survived by the widow; one son, George A., principal of the Hicksville high school; also by one brother, C. A. Patterson and one sister, Mrs. Arvilla Derck, both of Fort Wayne. Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2 P. M. at the residence, conducted by Rev. Frank E. Higbie, pastor of the M. E. Church. Burial at Forest Home cemetery.

ST. JOE AND SPENCERVILLE CLASSES ENTERTAIN.

The Young People's class of the Spencerville Lutheran Sunday School, which is taught by Mr. Frank Balts entertained the corresponding class from the Lutheran Church in St. Joe, which is taught by Mrs. Hollis Dilley. Forty-four were in attendance. Miss Gaylon Markie was chairman of the committee in charge composed of Marjorie Hollabagh, Stanley Means, Virgil Laux, and Virginia Goldsmith.

Miss Hollabagh was in charge of delicious refreshments which were served by Dorothy Markie and Pauline Furnish who were dressed like John and Priscilla Alden. Miss Goldsmith was in charge of the entertainment which consisted of delightful games and a talk by Rev. Stoll on "What are You Good for, Any-way?"

IN THE MATTER OF FRIENDSHIP

All that can be expected of any man is to make the best use of the things that are within his power. Only the contented man is rich; so we must look for the things that bring contentment and first of these is to find a friend; and if you find two friends you are indeed a lucky man; and if you find three friends—real friends—then you are a rich and powerful man. In prosperity it is easy to find a friend, but in adversity it is most difficult of all things. No matter how small a man's means may be, if he gives of what he has to his friend it is the same as if it was a great amount. A man's pleasures are insured by sharing them with a friend and his griefs are reduced by securing the sympathy of a friend. The counsel of a friend is the best counsel because it will be true advice; for, when received from a mere acquaintance, it may be so filled with flattery that its value will be destroyed, and faithful and true counsel rarely comes excepting from the true friend. It is said that in youth we have visions and in old age dreams, and the vision and the dream may give us an ideal of perfection; but experience and large contact with men compel us to accept the man who measures in his virtues only to the substantial average. If we view a man as a whole and find him good as a friend, we must not be diverted from the happy average—the everyday, human average—by using a magnifying glass upon his faults or frailties. We must, in order to have and hold a friend, accept him as he is, demanding one thing in return for our affection—his fidelity.

Russel R. Reidenour

Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

"The Supreme Authority"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Here's the EVIDENCE

Hundreds of Supreme Court Justices concur in highest praise of the work of this authority.

The Presidents and Department Heads of all leading Universities and Colleges give their indorsement.

The Government Printing Office at Washington uses the New International as the standard authority. High Officials in all branches of the Government indorse it.

The Colleges voted overwhelmingly in favor of Webster as standard of pronunciation in answer to questions submitted by the Chicago Woman's Club.

Get The Best

At Your Bookstore, or send for free illustrated booklet.

G. & C. MERRIAM COMPANY
Springfield, Mass.

Making Life Richer at Less Cost...

Three cents to hear the world's greatest in your home...

Three cents is all you pay to listen in on the radio all evening.

Less than a dollar a month. Isn't this electrical service a truly great value?

Or consider the other services illustrated below. Has any other industry ever given you more for your money?

Where do you get more for your money than in buying Electric Service?

More than 3 hours

for 1c

More than 1/2 hour

for 1c

More than 1/2 hour

for 1c

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 10, 1931

NUMBER 49

CHAIN STORE TAX LAW NOW IN OPERATION

The chain store tax law is now in operation. Every store, gasoline filling station and association which deals in any retail article in Indiana will come under the Indiana store license law, retroactive as of July, 1929, according to the store tax circular just issued. The annual license fees are as follows:

For a single store, $3.00.
For two or more, not to exceed five, $10.00.
For more than five, not to exceed ten, $15.00.
For more than ten, not to exceed twenty, $20.00.
For more than twenty, $25.00 for each store.

The money collected from the law after expenses are deducted, is to be turned over each year to the state general fund and part of that which accrues will be turned over to the school fund.

Any person or firm which violates the law, according to the penalty attached shall be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100 for each day the violation is committed.

The law defines the term "store" to include any store or stores, or any mercantile establishment or establishments which are owned, operated, maintained or controlled by the same person, firm or corporation or association, in which goods, wares or merchandise of any kind are sold either at retail or wholesale.

The state tax board is authorized to carry out the provisions of the law and to collect the taxes and issued certificates of the payment of said store tax, which certificates are to be displayed in the stores so taxed.

All licenses shall be so issued as to expire on the 31 day of December of each calendar year. On or before the 1st day of January of each year every person or firm having a license, shall apply to the state board of tax commissioners for a renewal of the license for the calendar year next ensuing.

COUNTY AGENT MYERS MAKES REPORT

This report has been completed by the County Agricultural Agent, T. E. Myers, for submission to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, to Purdue University and to the DeKalb County Board of Education.

The report lists 108 method demonstrations during the period, 209 meetings were held with a total attendance of 21,367. Mr. Myers lists 139 1/2 days spent in the field and 145 days spent in the office. He traveled 7,258 miles.

571 farm visits were made by the agent, 3,130 office calls were received and 488 telephone calls handled. 117 News articles were published, 727 individual letters written, 168 circular letters published, 2,786 bulletins distributed and three tours were conducted. A total of 261 boys and girls completed their projects for the year in 4-H club work.

A FISH FRY FRIDAY EVENING

The Fish and Game Club will hold a fish fry Friday evening in the basement of the Lutheran Church for its members, with a business session at the Town Hall following the supper. Every member be there.

$6,898.74 INHERITANCE TAX IN BENNINGHOFF ESTATE

Inheritance tax of a total of $6,898.74 was assessed in the estate of the late Mrs. Amelia Benninghoff of St. Joe, by Judge Endicott during the September term of the DeKalb circuit court, which closes Saturday.

A large number of relatives and institutions share in the distribution of the estate, which for inheritance tax purposes, was valued at $109,453.45. The tax assessed is $1,000 more than in the $241,000 estate of the late Warren A. Mason of Butler, inasmuch as the widow, Mrs. Nettie Mason, was the sole heir and paid a smaller percentage of tax.

The gross value of the Benninghoff estate was $115,481.44. Deductions include expenses, $6,027.99; real estate bequeathed to Roscoe, Ralph, Harlow and Merritt Sechler, $6,300; Evergreen Cemetery association, $1,000; six churches, $1,000 each, $6,000; real estate of Joseph Sechler to Ralph and Merritt Sechler and Agnes Monroe, $6,050; specific bequests to various people, $4,700; Merritt Sechler note, $578; $5,000 from the Joseph Sechler estate given to divers people by Mrs. Benninghoff prior to her death; $650 for personal property deducted in order to determine exact amount on which each of the forty-two heirs is taxed.

The total deductions thus made are $36,305.99 and the balance divided among forty-two heirs is $79,175.45.

The following first cousins of Mrs. Benninghoff share in the estate to the extent of $1,885.13 each and each pays $124.96 tax: Henry, Susan, Wilson, Oscar and Jacob Sechler, Mary Long, Hannah and Caroline Deitrich, Jane Braucher, Kate Bailey, Kate Selberling, Sarah Bevin, Emma Leibesberger, Mary Nestor, Joel Leininger, Tom Leiser, James Donat, Mary D. Lutz, Lewis Donat, Adam Bachman, Sabilla German, Wilson Donat and George Leininger. Henry Sechler is now dead and his widow is his heir. Wilson Donat is dead, with Neil Donat as his heir. Geo. Leininger is dead, with his widow and children as heirs.

The following second cousins share a like amount as the first cousins and pay a like amount of tax: Jennie Moffett, Jessie Somers, Frank Baltz, Edith Cole, Cora Curie, Wm. Sechler, Nora Blue, Argyl Sechler, Frances Cooper, Grace Dille, Avis Staman, John and Leon Sechler and Flossie Mavis. Roscoe and Harlow Sechler, also second cousins, receive $2,685.13 each, and each pays $180.95 tax. Agnes Monroe, a second cousin, receives $2,735.13 and pays $191.45 tax. Ralph Sechler, a second cousin, receives $5,485.13 and pays $376.95 tax. Merritt Sechler, a second cousin, receives $8,663.13 and pays $599.42 tax.

Other beneficiaries under the will follow: Mabel Thornton, $500, $28 tax; Arva Hershey and John Koch, $100 each, no tax; Howard Benninghoff, $1,000, tax $63; Daniel and Margaret Benninghoff, $1,500 each, tax $98 each; Newville United Brethren Church, Newville Christian Church, St. Joe Evangelical Lutheran Church, St. Joe Methodist Church, and Evergreen cemetery of Newville township, $1,000 each, no tax; and Jacobs Union Church, Pennsylvania, $1,000, tax, $63.

HOME BAKED GOODS

Phone your orders for Saturday. White bread, whole wheat bread, cakes, cookies, pies, etc. 491p Mrs. Frank Aikins.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night. Frank Tustison. W. J. Staman. J. N. Scholtes. Hattie Widney.

Candid Information

Doc (after exam)—Don't worry about your liver trouble, you can live to be seventy years with it. And as to the leaking heart valve, you can carry that around easily until you're eighty, but the kidney disease, that's worse. It'll surely bring you to the grave inside of a year.

DAVID HOGG BACK TO WASHINGTON

(Special to St. Joe News)

Washington, D. C., Wednesday, December 9th. Legislation to establish a government agency through which funds may be secured to expand the currency of the Nation and loosen frozen assets in trust companies and banks and stimulate industry will be among the principal work of the present Congress according to Representative David Hogg of the Twelfth Indiana District.

Mr. Hogg will introduce a bill along these lines, and also one to limit profits in the event war is declared, to a very low rate of dividends upon the theory that to take possible profits out of war there will not be much clamor for war.

Concerning farm relief Mr. Hogg stated that failure of the Farm Board has taught many important lessons as to what can or cannot be done for agriculture. The farmer is the victim of so many circumstances that no one legislative act can reach all of them.

Congressman Hogg is preparing to wage an aggressive fight on unnecessary expenditures of the government, seeking to diminish the number of government employees and to consolidate bureau and government agencies.

He has taken an emphatic stand against the sales tax which will fall heaviest on those having families to support. He believes that whatever increase of tax will be necessary should be placed on those who are best able to pay it.

Mr. Hogg has also introduced bills to do justice to the widows and orphans of World War veterans.

ANTICIPATE 1,000 TO ATTEND FARM BUREAU BANQUET FRIDAY NIGHT

Following is a very interesting program that has been arranged by the DeKalb County Farm Bureau. It is to be the crowning feature of a four days campaign for membership in the above organization and will take place in the McIntosh High School Gym, at 8:00 o'clock Friday night, December 11.

The American Legion band will head a parade at 7:45. Program will be free to the public and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

A banquet at the Chamber of Commerce and several churches for all members and their wives will precede the program. During the past week the DeKalb County Farm Bureau assisted by C. W. Humrickhouse who is deputy organizer for Indiana Farm Bureau, held meetings in all parts of the county. Intense interest in the enrolling of members has been manifest.

The leaders anticipate and every indication points to an attendance of 1,000 members at the banquet.

The program to be held in the Gym is as follows: Invocation, C. C. Cripe, pastor of the Church of the Brethren. Presentation of Pennant, C. W. Humrickhouse, to winning township.

Coronation ceremony, Albert Yoder and Frank Baltz.

Rainbow quartet of Pennsylvania railroad Co. Remarks, L. C. Cooper, Auburn agent for the Pennsylvania railroad.

Address, J. H. Cooper, superintendent of the Fort Wayne division of the railroad.

Why Be Despondent?

Let me Help You Right Now as I am helping others attain Health, Happiness and Success in all the affairs of life, no matter what your troubles may be, write me in confidence, send lock of hair, birth date and 25c for Individual letter of instructions, time waits for no one, take advantage of this special offer right now.

R. ALEXANDER HAZELL
Consulting Psychologist for Personal Problems.
3009 Smith St. Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Address, E. M. Christy, supervising agent of the Fort Wayne division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Music, Rainbow quartet.
Address, C. M. Townsend, director of organization, Indiana Farm Bureau.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

To the people of DeKalb County, greetings. According to an agreement between the National Red Cross and the Tuberculosis organizations, the Red Cross drive ends on the day before Thanksgiving and the Christmas Seal Sale starts on Thanksgiving Day.

This procedure has held for many years. The Christmas Seal Sale continues through the holiday season.

The fight against tuberculosis has been carried on for years, by the National State, and County Tuberculosis Societies. This little seal—a penny a piece—is the only source of revenue, for carrying on the fight against this stealthy disease.

The bigger the sale—the bigger the battle. The great danger lies in the money conditions. This silent enemy never ceases its attack. With small means to carry on the work, results in less vigor in overcoming the enemy. So we appeal to the people of our county to do their best—a little here—a little there—helps wonderfully.

We thank you for your generous support in years past. Anyone desiring admittance to Irene Byron Sanatorium, call Mrs. Mae Meyer or Mrs. Mabel Broward or J. Y. W. McClellan. We will give you information and help you to obtain the admittance.

J. Y. W. McClellan, Pres.
DeKalb Co. Tuberculosis Assn.

RECEIVES RECOGNITION AT INDIANA UNIVERSITY

Eliza DuWayne Kinsey of St. Joe was given honorable mention for his showing in freshman football this fall by the Indiana University Athletic Board of Control.

The Board in its annual meeting to award letters and numerals for fall sports honored 108 Crimson athletes for distinguished service in the field of sports during the fall campaign just closed.

Sixty-one freshmen were honored. Forty of these received numerals for their participation on the freshman football squad. Three were recognized for services on the freshman cross country aggregation. In addition to the usual numeral awards the Athletic Board saw fit to commend and offer honorable mention to 18 other members of the freshman football team. Should these men report for spring practice they are practically assured of their numerals at that time.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian ..... 108—$4.49
Lutheran ..... 69—$3.86
M. P. .... 41—$2.64
Spenceville M. E. .... 84—$5.05

Let The News have your films developed.
School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

$57.50

Radio to be given away on
Dec. 24th.

Get particulars by calling
at the
St. Joe Filling Station

LOOK HERE?

Start long Winter Evenings
RIGHT

"Buy A RADIO"
Note the TERMS

$1.00 Down and $4.00 in 3 Days at the End of the Demonstration, or $5.00 Down, $1.25 per week on Balance

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture Undertaking

Using Your Head

A noted Doctor says: "The human body has many organs that serve no purpose." Merely hangovers that evolution has failed to "evolute" as yet.

Things like the Appendix, for instance. No, he wasn't referring to HEADS. Most of us still use our Heads—at times. The ones who really use their Heads to advantage are those who keep their money in the Bank, pay by check and are guided by their Banker on all their investment deals.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

That spiffy new model is here and everyone is enthused with its appearance and performance. Call for a demonstration.

Furnish Sales & Service Spencerville

FARMERS NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA

OVERSEAS PLANE TRIPS IN 5 YEARS

Regular Weekly Service Is Predicted by Ace Pilot.

New York.—Weekly transatlantic airplane service within the next five years was predicted recently by Holger Holmlund, pilot of the monoplane Liberty on its recent flight from New York to Copenhagen.

Discussing ocean flying and its possibilities, Holmlund declared the commercial mastery of the ocean which has claimed a score or more of lives since it has been challenged by airmen is within sight of aeronautical progress.

"The route will be by way of Bermuda and the Azores," he said. "Large multi-motored flying boats or amphibians, able to land on the water in an emergency, will be used."

The northern route or Lindbergh circle via Harbor Grace and Ireland which he himself took on the recent hop with Otto Hultig, Liberty, N. Y. photographer, will never become the airline for commercial operations, he said.

"Having flown the North Atlantic, I am convinced that it is not the route because of the fog, heavy seas and the absence of ship lanes and also the low temperatures. Furthermore, the season in this latitude is too short for regular service."

"There are really only a few months in which such a crossing can be made with any degree of safety."

"Down below the weather is better and the conditions generally more favorable."

Transatlantic operations, he believes, should develop on a schedule of intermediate stops instead of non-stop flights from one continent to another.

He believes seadromes should be established along the route, cutting down intermediate hops to approximately 600 miles each, permitting the carrying of a pay load and insuring greater safety.

"Engines will have to be improved and a cruising speed of about 140 or 150 miles an hour developed," he said. "As conditions now stand, it is still quite a hazard."

While Holmlund viewed the possible introduction of stratosphere planes as an important step in the right direction, he declared that high altitude

Coffin Is Mistaken as Cache for Rum

Topeka, Kan.—A busybody, who saw a suspicious looking box being carted into a certain house, notified Joe Delmer, special liquor investigator. He rounded up a squad of policemen and investigated.

The findings: An undertaker's convention was in progress at the house. The suspicious box contained a sample casket.

flying will not be a necessity if transoceanic service is down with intermediate stops.

"On long distance flights high altitude will be preferable, but for 600 mile hops the planes can operate just as efficiently at 2,000 feet," he asserted.

In referring to his Copenhagen flight, Holmlund disclosed that but for a miscalculation of position after the two flyers had crossed the ocean, they would probably have landed at their destination as planned without making intermediate stops.

Buck Had Freak Horn

Tonopah, Nev.—William Marsh, veteran rancher, brought down a five-point 187-pound buck near here, with a freak horn in the center of his forehead about 4 inches long. Sportsmen said it was the first they had ever seen.

Pittsburghers Live in Grass Houses

Some of the unfortunate men of Pittsburgh who cannot find work and have no homes have erected for themselves huts in Schenley park, and nobody interferes with them. One of them is seen above receiving a caller.

Enforce Uniform Dress to Keep Girls in School

Port Huron, Mich.—Miss Margaret Franklin, Port Huron high school, dean of women, was responsible for the enforcing of the rule requiring a uniform dress for all girl students. The rule, which requires a garb of middie and skirts, is to be rigidly enforced to prevent a further decrease in the enrollment, as many students have left the school because they were unable to dress as well as other girls, according to Miss Franklin.

Forestry Service Man Wins Fishing Honors

Kemmerer, Wyo.—Wyoming fishing honors for 1931 went to Bert Chessman, a member of the United States forest service, who caught a 14-pound trout in the Green river. Chessman battled the fish, which was the largest rainbow trout ever taken in western Wyoming, for nearly an hour before he landed him. Chessman used a small reel and the usual tackle to land the fish which was 30 inches long.

Jailer Releases Wrong Prisoner by Mistake

Memphis.—Willie Mitchell, negro, in jail here on a larceny charge, got a break and wasn't slow to take advantage of it when the turnkey released him, mistaking him for Mack Mitchell for whom the release order was intended.

France and Germany Work in Great Secrecy.

Washington.—Germany has matched France with construction of an airplane for traveling in the stratosphere, far above the earth, at an exceedingly high speed.

Manufacturers of this type of plane visualize it making a trip across the Atlantic to New York, flying ten miles high, in five or six hours, thus revolutionizing all present modes of airplane travel.

Both the French and the German machines, the latter built by the Germans Junkers firm in Dessau, were constructed secretly.

A general description of the German plane has been forwarded to the Commerce department here. The ends of the wings are pointed and the fuselage is long. The width of the ship from wing tip to wing tip is 30 feet.

France and Germany Work in Great Secrecy.

The plane flies slowly at low altitudes, but is capable of making 300 miles an hour at high altitudes, or better. The construction is of the all-metal low-deck type, with one built-in Junkers 800-horse power motor of the L-88 type.

To supply oxygen to the motor in the rarefied atmosphere in which the plane will fly, the motor is equipped with a bellows arrangement. The pilot and his assistant will occupy a low-pressure sealed chamber into which oxygen will be pumped, instead of the usual cabin.

The air pressure in this chamber

BUILDING AIRPLANES FOR STRATOSPHERE

Marriage Rate Among Youths Is Increasing

St. Louis, Mo.—The marriage rate among young people between eighteen and twenty-four has been steadily increasing since 1890, Peter Kasius, executive secretary of the Missouri Social Hygiene association, said here.

Twice as many girls between the ages of fifteen and nineteen marry on the Pacific coast as compared with the number of marriages between the same ages in the New England states, Kasius said.

"Climatic conditions, religious views, social upheavals and cultural, economic and educational factors influence such young marriages," Kasius declared.

Air View of the Great "Lake of the Ozarks"

This great man-made lake, formed by the new Bagnel dam, is the fifth largest project of its kind in the United States and by far the largest in the Middle West. The "Lake of the Ozarks," as the body of water is called, is 45 miles south of Jefferson City, Mo., midway between St. Louis and Kansas City. It cost more than $80,000,000, and its initial capacity of 201,000 horsepower will later be increased to 288,000 horsepower.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. D. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 13

JOHN'S VISION ON PATMOS

GOLDEN TEXT—And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last: I am that which liveth, and was dead: and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 1:1-20.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Heavenly Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—John's Vision of Heaven.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—John Sees the Ever-living Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Glorified Saviour.

We should be glad that the lesson committee has given us another lesson from the Book of Revelation, which contains Christ's last message to man.

I. The Preface (1:1-3).

1. The title of the book (v. 1). The Revelation (unveiling) of Jesus Christ. The revelation of Jesus Christ refers to his personal appearing in glory to judge the world and to establish his kingdom. The word "apocalypse," translated "revelation," signifies according to New Testament usage the unveiling of a person (II Thess. 1:6-10; I Pet. 1:7). The theme of the book is Christ's second coming, his personal, visible appearance in glory (vv. 1, 7, 10).

2. To whom made known (v. 1, 2). To his servant John—"To show unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass."

3. A benediction to those who read, hear, and keep the sayings of the book (v. 3). It must be possible to understand these sayings, or the promise is meaningless.

II. The Salutation (v. 4-8).

1. To whom (v. 4). The seven churches then existing in Asia Minor. Seven, the number of completeness, suggests a symbolism of the Church throughout her course.

2. From whom (v. 4).

a. From him which was, and is, and is to come.

b. From the seven spirits which are before the throne—the Holy Spirit in his seven-fold plenitude as set forth in Isaiah 11:2, also in the Gospel of John.

c. From Jesus Christ (vv. 5-7). While presenting Christ as the gracious Redeemer, John's prophetic eye caught the vision of the Coming One in glory, exclaiming, "Behold he cometh" (v. 7), the Alpha and Omega (v. 8).

III. The Vision of Glory (vv. 9-18).

1. The seven golden lamp stands (v. 12). These candlesticks are the churches (v. 20), thus presented because they are the light holders in this world's darkness.

2. The son of man in the midst of the candlesticks (vv. 13-18). Christ in the midst of the churches indicates that they give forth light only when Christ is the central figure.

a. "Clothed with a garment down to the foot" (v. 18). This is a royal as well as a priestly robe (Isa. 22:21), and signifies his right to judge and to rule, as well as to offer sacrifice.

b. His head and hair white as wool (v. 14, cf. Dan. 7:19, 20). This has a twofold significance—purity and eternity.

c. Eyes as a flame of fire (v. 14). This suggests his infallible knowledge.

d. Feet like burnished brass (v. 15). This indicates that he comes as Judge and King, with irresistible power.

e. His voice as the sound of many waters (v. 16). His voice of judgment will be outside of man's control. All excuses will be swept aside by his relentless word.

f. Seven stars in his right hand (v. 16). According to verse twenty, stars mean the messengers of the churches, perhaps pastors or representatives sent forth to comfort John in his lonely exile. The minister lies in the right hand of Jesus Christ, hears his message, and speaks it out.

g. Out of his mouth was a sharp two-edged sword (v. 18). Observe that this is a mouth sword. "The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him" (John 12:48). "The word of God is sharper than any two-edged sword" (Heb. 4:12). The two edges indicate its double action, condemning the evil and approving the good and excellent.

h. His countenance was as the sun shining in his strength (v. 16). The effect of gazing in his beautiful and glorious to some things, while it is death dealing to others. The sunshine of God's love cheers some while it hardens others. The manifestation of the glorified king will be hailed with delight by those who love him, and will create dismay in those who do not love him.

GLEANINGS

The devil always pays big wages.

The Lord's payroll is never padded.

A hard heart never makes a warm hand.

A dollar an hour will keep a man from getting sore.

The world is like a floating island and as sure as we anchor to it, we shall be carried away by it.

Hat-and-Muff Sets Fashion's Latest

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DESIGNERS are as busy as bees creating the most fascinating hat-and-muff ensembles one may ever hope to see. These little sets which invariably include a muff—for not in decades have we been privileged to carry such intriguing muffs as the style program now offers—are mostly made of velvet which is shirred, smocked, ruffled, puffed and otherwise manipulated to the queen's taste.

You will be finding one of these flattering sets just the thing to wear with your winter fur coat. Note the winsome velvet hat and muff which the smartly cloaked young woman to the left in the picture is wearing. Black velvet ribbon shirred in a full ruche effect makes the muff, a band of the same enriching the caplike turban which dips down over the right eye exactly as it should be fashionable.

The very charming velvet hat-and-muff set which adds such a conspicuously outstanding note to the coat of black broadcloth which the seated figure, below to the right in the picture is wearing, stresses the ever chic black-and-white note, for they say in Paris that the feeling for black and white is waning not a whit, which is some record when one considers the beguiling of the delectable colors shown on the full and winter color card. The muff in this instance is especially interesting in that it is one of those tricky little affairs which is supposed to slide up the arm like a huge cuff when not in actual use.

Sets which feature velvet in contrast, as does this one, are also being shown in brown or in dark green with beige handings. The idea is that they be a perfect color match to the cloth of the coat or suit which they complement.

There's simply no way of telling all the desirable things that are being done with velvet in the creation of these sets which fashion decrees shall be worn with the afternoon suit or the street coat. One seek, for example, the hat with a brim crowned with velvet all puffed and shirred, the treatment repeated for the muff. Like as not the ensemble will develop into a foursome, in that a shirred and puffed velvet neckpiece likewise a handbag will be added.

Not infrequently velvet shares the glory with fur in that the two form an alliance in the making of these decorative ensembles. The black velvet hat and muff which is trimmed in white ermine is a favorite theme with designers. One-color schemes are worked to perfection such as, for instance, brown velvet with milk trimmings for both muff and hat. The flat pelts such as caracul, angora and astrakhan are especially favored since they permit of a fabriclike handling as they combine with the velvet.

The little shoulder cape made of velvet hunted now-and-then with fur is exceedingly smart. Of course, in order to attain chic supreme it must be accompanied with a muff similarly worked with fur and velvet.

It is quite the thing, too, if one's muff be all of fur to adorn it with a huge velvet bow to match the velvet of one's hat and one's neckpiece. Fact is there is a thousand and one ways in which velvet is partnering with fur in the making of the new hats, scarfs and muffs, and the game is to choose the set you like best and be the envy of your neighbors and your sister club members as they note the chic and charm of your appearance.

The bag shown in the panel above is smart for formal afternoon or evening. It is the new long shape which fits the hand. It is closed under the flap with a talon fastener. The bow-knot and bracelet are of pearls, for a revived flair for pearls is noted in the realm of jewelry.

(© 1931 Western Newspaper Union.)

LAVISH WITH FUR

Handsome evening wrap of transparent velvet trimmed with peach-beige fox. The unique diagonal treatment of the fur bordering is typical of the new trend. This coat is three-quarter length and is worn over a gown of dull white velvet.

Dresses Grow Wider at Top in Latest Fashion

Whether you have worried about narrow shoulders and wide hips as exhibited by your own figure or just let them go unnoticed, you will glory in the new fashion for making the dresses wider at their tops. This patterning does so much for feminine shapes that it is impossible to believe that it ever went out of style.

WALKING DRESSES REVIVE PROMENADE

Walking dresses are well in the running this season. The apparently lost pastime of the promenade is being revived and whether the lovely street frocks are a cause or a symptom it is not for us to discover.

Wool, of course, is about the most popular fabric and is used in its various weaves, with the corduroy weave being a tremendous favorite.

Despite the apparent simplicity of these frocks, there is a vast amount of fine workmanship and detail about them and fine furs are smartly used to complete the scheme, although the model must never be overburdened with fur trimming. Harmony and restraint must of necessity be the keynote of the really fine frock meant mostly for outdoor town wear.

Modern Clothes Given Touch of Old Styles

Even if we sometimes cannot exactly date any particular coat or frock, there is no gainsaying the charm and gracious lines of the new autumn clothes. And why should it be necessary to tug a historical epoch onto a garment that is quaint and picturesque, with a touch or feature that is reminiscent of other days?

If any particular garment was definitely of the Second Empire or of mid-Victorian days it would look dreadfully out of place in a modern building. No, the new clothes are splendidly up-to-date.

Designers are far too wise to go in for anachronisms. They use just enough of the bygone styles to give a different look and feel to ultra-modern clothes.

Humble Corduroy Takes Its Place in Fashions

Among the reigning members of the velvet family, the humble corduroy takes its place in Paris fashions, this season. This new corduroy is more lustrous than the kind we are familiar with and is made of wool instead of cotton. Paris likes this material for skirts to wear with fur jackets, for topsuits trimmed with fur, and above all, for smart afternoon suits and ensembles.

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription .....$1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Paul Carpenter spent Sunday in the Harvey Hull home.

Ask St. Joe Filling Station about their Christmas gift offer.

A Christmas pageant "The Star Came" will be given at the Lutheran Church on Christmas Eve.

Mrs. Bird Nicholls, Mrs. Parlia Hull and son, Calvin, spent from Thursday until Tuesday at Lafayette.

Paul Curie was at Indianapolis Tuesday, appearing before the Veterans Bureau at the new government hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. F. Abel and Mrs. Wm. Fee visited Friday and Saturday in Peru, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Abel.

Mrs. Mary Dorsey and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Green, of Lagrange were Sunday guests in the Adam Shilling home.

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregory and six children, of Brooklyn, Mich., were over Saturday night guests in the L. D. Young home. They were enroute to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Andress had as Sunday dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wyatt.

Mrs. Velma Mohny and daughter, Barbara, Inez Kinsey and little Miss April Bowser spent Sunday in Hamilton with their brother, Harry Kinsey, and family.

Treat your home folks to a little of the Christmas spirit by having a few colored electric light bulbs in use about the home. The News has red, green, blue, and flame tinted bulbs, also tree bulbs.

Children who desire to send their letters to Santa this year, may bring them to The News. Hope many of the youngsters will send in their letters so that he won't forget to visit our community.

Mr. Henry Schreff, of Milton Center, Ohio, father of Mrs. L. D. Young, died Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Young arrived there before he passed away. Mrs. Young remained until after the funeral Wednesday, when her husband joined her in the afternoon.

The Concord Township Home Bureau will hold their December meeting Friday, at the home of Mrs. Will Hamilton. A ten cent limit has been put on the Christmas exchange, and must be along the grocery line. Each lady please inclose an original four line verse. Pot luck dinner at the noon hour. An invitation is extended to the new members to attend this Christmas party.

The City National bank of Auburn, has sued Frank A. Provinces of Auburn in the DeKalb circuit court on a note for $25 executed January 2, 1931, and due in thirty days; on another for $350 and signed March 3, 1931, and due in ninety days; and on another for $375 executed July 1, 1931, and payable in ninety days. The balance due on all three notes is $389.50 and the demand is for $514.50. Attorney C. E. McClintock represents the bank.

For Sale!

1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at NEWS OFFICE if at all interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cox were at Fort Wayne Tuesday evening. A 1928 Chevy Coupe for sale or trade for live stock. Joe Koch, 4911p.

In the rural section of DeKalb county, 16 births were reported for November.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience. Mr. and Mrs. Beeks Erick and son of Spencerville were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh.

County Agent Myers was re-appointed Monday by the County Board of Education for a period of two years.

See the new Gloritone Electric Radio at St. Joe Filling Station. Someone will be happy on December 24. Ask about it.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

A new anaesthetic has been developed which is said to be far superior to other forms and with less objectionable effects.

Mrs. W. B. Cox spent Wednesday afternoon in Ashley attending the Symposium Club at the home of Mrs. Newman Urban with Mrs. Robert Stingle as assistant hostess.

Mrs. Chas Koch entertained the executive committee of the Home Bureau in an all day meeting last Friday and at this time they made out the programs for the coming year.

Leave your order at News Office for a year's subscription to Better Homes and Garden magazine. Just the thing for every home. One year, 60c; two years, $1.00; three years, $1.50.

A real assortment of Christmas cards, with lined envelopes at 1c; 2 for 5c; and 10c each. See them at News office before its too late. An assortment of 17 cards for 25c, also a real buy.

For Rent: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 8 miles southwest of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio 491f

A shipment of canned goods and clothing was made some weeks ago by the Lutheran Church to the Osterlin Orphans Home at Springfield. A very appreciative letter was read to the congregation Sunday evening from Supt. Young.

News has been received by Mrs. Belle Ridgway of the promotion of her son, George Ridgway, who has been working for the Holland Furnace Co., at Vincennes, Ind., for the past several years. He has been made branch manager and will move to Valparaiso.

Mrs. Wm. Fee, of Edgerton, O., and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. F. Abel were Thursday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Coburn were evening callers. Sunday dinner guests in the same home were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Curie and son.

During the September term of the DeKalb circuit court, which ends Saturday, Judge Endicott has approved the final reports in twenty-eight estates and nine guardianships, the partial reports in fifteen estates and the current reports in thirty-nine guardianships.

The Red Cross drive in DeKalb county is falling short. The report shows the following returns thus far: Garrett subscribed $225; Butler, $57.50; Waterloo, $76.75; Concord township, $14; Newville township, $9; Wilmington township, $6.25; and Keyser township, $5.75. The total amount so far turned in is $394.25.

Mr. and Mrs. John May of Cornuna and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch of this place were entertained to Sunday dinner by Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price. The Dr. and wife have had a lovely flower garden this summer and Sunday morning picked a large bowl of snapdragons and dwarf chrysanthemums, which formed a lovely center piece for the dining room table.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No 45. Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45tf

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and Mrs. Alice Copp were in Fort Wayne, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Copp, of Fort Wayne made The News a pleasant call Monday afternoon.

George Kees and family have moved in with his father and mother for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rickard spent Sunday evening in the home of Clay Coburn and family.

Harold Baker enrolled the first of December in the Indiana Technical College at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey, Mrs. Wm. Pepple and Mrs. Roy Ridgway spent Monday in Ft. Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Armstrong were among the Fort Wayne shoppers Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baltz had as their guests Sunday Mrs. Baltz's brother, Mrs. Henly, and family of Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Anna Koch spent last week at Spencerville. She is at the home of Waldo Rosenberry and family visiting a few days this week.

Willard Maxwell, of Covington, Ky., was home over the weekend. On Saturday, he and his mother, visited in the Merritt Maxwell home in Auburn.

Mrs. J. C. F. Abel and her guest, Mrs. Fee, called on Mrs. Manda Coburn and other friends in the west end of town Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Wm. Maxwell and son, Willard, were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bishop. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Warstler and son, Ronald Gene.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. P. Church will meet with Mrs. Chas. Koch Thursday afternoon. At this time there will be the annual election of officers, after which the ladies will enjoy the Christmas exchange.

LEO

(Intended for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wolfe spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Favorite at Mud Lake.

Mr. George McCarty had the misfortune of breaking his finger while playing basket ball at school.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marolf and family spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond King.

Many from the Leo Mennonite Church spent Thanksgiving Day at the Mennonite Mission Church in Fort Wayne.

Clyde Kryder and daughter, Maxine were Tuesday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Glock of Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Harry Klopfenstein and son, Elsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Warner and Mr. Ernest Page spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Warner and family and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Porter.

Miss Bernice Roth, Mr. Glenn Leman, Miss Edna Ream of Fort Wayne and Mr. Herbert Amstutz of Harlan were Sunday evening supper guests of Miss Loma Warner.

Mr. and Mrs. Saul Gerig, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gerig, Mr. and Mrs. Burd DuVall and son, Derald, Mr. Jay Gerig, Miss Wanita Lee, and Miss Verda Gerig were guests. Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gerig of Leo.

BASSETT'S

WELDING SHOP

OXY-ACETYLENE
WELDING
BRAZING
SOLDERING

IN ST. JOE GARAGE

Miss Loma Warner entertained Mr. Max Steele of South Bend over the Thanksgiving vacation.

Mrs. William Thompson spent a few days of last week with her daughter, Mrs. Dora Anspaugh.

Miss Bernice Myers and Mr. Earl Schowe spent Sunday in Auburn with the former's relatives.

Mr. Clyde Kryder and daughter, Maxine entertained Rev. and Mrs. I. L. Pusey on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. George Doll and family spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Eck Hursh and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodenbeck, of Ft. Wayne spent Thanksgiving with their daughter, Mrs. Henry Lantz and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lantz and daughter were Tuesday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lantz and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Conrad and daughter, Pat spent Sunday with Mrs. Conrad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maxfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Kashmirier and family of Fort Wayne were Sunday callers of his brother, Mr. John Kashmirier and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scherer were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neuhouser and daughter, on the evening of November 26th.

Miss Bertha Yoder and Miss Lucinda Yoder and Mrs. Helen Scherer spent Thursday evening with Aaron Steury and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Page and son, Winfred, Mrs. George Hoppeter and Miss Myrtle Hoppeter spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Sible of Churubusco.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Binder and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Conrad and daughter were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Maxfield, Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gerig entertained their son, Saul Gerig and his bride, who was formerly Miss Irene Tyler of Rome, New York, for the Thanksgiving vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy and daughter, Leona and son, Herman and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoller were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Conrad and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Viberg, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zollars, Mrs. Angie Roberts, and Miss Viberg of Fort Wayne were Sunday afternoon callers of Mrs. Mabel McCrory and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond King and family entertained the following guests Sunday evening at supper, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Henschen and family, Mr. Ernest Henschen, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rodenbeck and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Schowe and family and Miss Bernice Myers.

Used Cars

1927 Buick Sedan, Master.
1928 Model A Ford Tudor.
1929 Model A Ford Roadster.
1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1928 Whippet Coach.
1927 Star Six Coach.
1921 Chevrolet Roadster.
1924 Chevrolet Touring.

A good Studebaker Coach made special for traveling, has cot installed inside, reading light, and plenty of room for other equipment. All new tires. Priced to sell. If you are going South this winter, do not pass this up.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office

Ask to See It

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Tharpe attended a funeral at Warren, Indiana, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lantz and son, Wayne were week end guests at Painesville, Ohio and they also spent Sunday at Mansfield, O.

HARLAN

Born to Mr. and Mrs. George Hoppeter Tuesday, December 1, a son.

Mrs. Edna Higgins and children moved recently into the J. H. Zimmerman property.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bauserman returned Tuesday from a two months stay in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Zeis and Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Boston left Tuesday on a motor trip to Florida.

Mrs. Abbie Cummins is visiting this week with her daughter, Mrs. Lulu Klopfenstein and family.

Mrs. Flora Zeimmer, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boulton, Mr. and Mrs. S. Stopher and Mrs. Marjorie Applegate attended the funeral of Joseph Dorsey at Hicksville Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Rachel Zimmerman and G. S. Kurtz were Harlan visitors Monday evening.

Miss Agnes Lake underwent an operation for appendicitis Monday at the Lutheran hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reichelderfer visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Blaisdell at Edgerton Sunday.

Mrs. Agnes Grueb underwent an operation Wednesday and is a patient at the Lutheran hospital.

Wortle Heath, George Ashton, Nick Nussbaum and C. H. Kinsey spent Tuesday hunting near Albion.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shawl and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shawl of Tiffin were Sunday guests in the E. E. Zeis home.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Spindler and daughters, Mary and Gayle and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kinsey visited Mike Flaig and family at Fort Wayne Sunday.

The Parent Teachers Association met in the school building Monday evening. A Christmas program was rendered and a good crowd was in attendance.

Attention Farmers!

REEF brand OYSTER SHELLS and BLOCK SALT
AT CAR LOT PRICES

Hurni's Cash Store

The Sun Shines Brighter Every Day For Folks Who Spend Wisely and Save

At least it seems that way to the Thrifty. There is the happy comfort of knowing that they have the means of conquering Adversity and accepting Life's Opportunities as they come! CAN YOU SAY AS MUCH FOR YOURSELF?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank

Spencerville, Indiana

MOTHER DAUGHTER

What could be a nicer Christmas Present than a new dress from our complete stock of materials? ? ?

Georgettes
$1.50, $1.59, $1.95, $2.50

Plain Colored Crepes
89c, $1.19, 1.50

Figured Crepes $1.00; $1.50
Travel Crepes 48c

Silk Bias Tape 19c. Silk Thread 10c.
Mercerized Thread 4c.

McBRIDE'S

AUBURN, INDIANA

SPENCERVILLE

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Watt a daughter, named Barbara Ann. Mrs. Nancy Chaney, who has been visiting in Auburn, returned home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gloyd were Saturday night guests of Mrs. Emilia Gloyd.

The Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church was entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Lochner.

Mrs. Ethel Bowser, who has been visiting her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitacre, and other relatives at Richmond, Ind., returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitacre, Miss Leah Dennis and Edgar Dennis of Richmond, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. James Reed were Sunday dinner and supper guests in the R. U. Bowser home. Mr. and Mrs. Gale Bowser and son, James, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson were afternoon guests in the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Badiac, of near Fort Wayne were recent guests of Mrs. Emilia Gloyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beams and family, of Detroit, Mich., were recent guests of the Frank Beams home.

The C. C. Club will meet on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Floyd Dean. There will be election of officers.

The Home Bureau met Wednesday in an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Resor. Pot luck dinner was served.

Rev. Walter Coburn, of Coburntown delivered the sermon on Sunday evening at the Methodist Church. The Coburntown quartet had charge of the music. Rev. Homer Studabaker, pastor of the Methodist Church is assisting in revival meetings at Bluffton, Ind.

The Friendly Bible class of the Lutheran Sunday School met on Thursday evening at the parsonage. Election of officers was held as follows: President, Ray Means; vice president, Katherine Dean; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Miller; teacher, George Beams. There were 28 members of the class present.

Rev. George Stoll of the Lutheran Church preached his farewell sermon on Sunday morning at this place and at St. Joe in the evening. A reception of the St. Joe and Spencerville churches was held on Monday at the basement of the church at this place. Rev. Stoll will leave on Thursday for Evans City, Pa., to assist in caring for his mother who is ill.

Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner very pleasantly entertained the Young Ladies Social Club on Friday evening at her home at a six o'clock dinner. Following the dinner the initiation of new members Mrs. LeAnna Steward, Mrs. Janice Wade, and the Misses Marjorie Hollabaugh and Doris Beams. The club presented to the bride, Mrs. Bina Glowe, a gift after which games were enjoyed. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Janice Bowser, Mrs. Ellen Hart, Mrs. Bina Glowe and Miss Doris Beams.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

Chapel Service

The Chapel Service was carried on by Rev. J. O. Rose of Angola, pastor of the Church of Christ at Coburntown, Tuesday morning.

He gave a very interesting talk on the Division of Bible History. He divided the history into three parts: family religion or starlight age, national religion or moonlight age, and world religion or sunlight age.

Rev. Rose will continue on the subject of Bible History in his next talk.

New School Schedule

The school schedule has been changed in regard to the time spent at school. There is, now, a thirty minute noon period for those who bring their lunch and there is a forty-five minute period for those that go home for lunch. This is being done so school will be dismissed thirty minutes earlier on account of the short winter days.

HONOR ROLL

High School

Glen Brace, Harry Faver, Lynn Fisher, Hubert McNamara, Loyd Laux, Lon Laux, Isabel Chapman, Blanche Sponhour.

Junior High

Alice Baker, Fred Steward, Margaret Walter, Billy Erick, John Franklin.

Grades

Rose Warden, Max Hollabaugh, Lucille Chapman, Walter Van Coburn, Robert Hafner, Roy Laub, Phyllis Tyndall, Stanley Carper, Paul Crothers, George Hart Jr., Carol Reed, Marion Walter, Marcille Harper, Glen Kimes, Dick Reed, Francis Russell, Donna Mae Washler, June Allen, Josephine Chapman, Edver Coburn, James

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Cook of Ann Arbor, Michigan, a daughter. Mrs. Cook will be remembered as Miss Margaret Lake.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 82 volts for Delco plants. All at News office.

Crothers, Lynn Shilling, Evelyn Shook, Aileen Stemen, Dewey White.

Ethics For High School Students

General Conduct:

A. Personal conduct at public or private gatherings.

1. We consider it beneath the dignity of a High School student to cause altercation or disturbance by using profane language, by disorderly conduct, and by being unmannerly at public gatherings.

2. Should such a condition arise at any time at any public gathering, opposing these standards, we recommend that students endeavor to bring about normal attitude without causing ill feeling.

B. Non-interference with other persons.

1. In his everyday affairs the student should never do that which would be injurious to fellow students' development, either physically, mentally, or morally.

2. No student should harm the reputation of a fellow student.

Relationship With the World:

A. Responsibility of upper classmen.

1. We recommend that each class in High School set a good example for the lower grades.

2. We recommend "The Three R's—Reverence for those above us—Respect for those around us—Responsibility for those below us."

B. Loyalty to school and faculty.

1. The student should be loyal to the school by attendance.

2. The student should avoid adverse criticism.

3. The student should encourage inter-school relations.

4. The student should respect the authority of the teachers.

5. The student should avoid feelings of strife between teachers and students, and between students and students.

C. Students should show appreciation to the public for their school.

1. They should protect property.

2. They should promote school standing.

3. Students should choose courses for their worth rather than their available grades.

The Social World:

A. The social affairs of the school.

1. Students should not oppose sports or social organizations that pertain to school betterment because of personal dislikes.

2. Students should take active part in social affairs.

3. Students should be orderly at parties.

4. Students competing in athletics should do all within their power to win by fair means.

B. Each student should strive to make this world a bit better to live in.

1. A student should be a good Samaritan.

2. A student should be a pusher rather than an anchor.

C. Recreation and social environment.

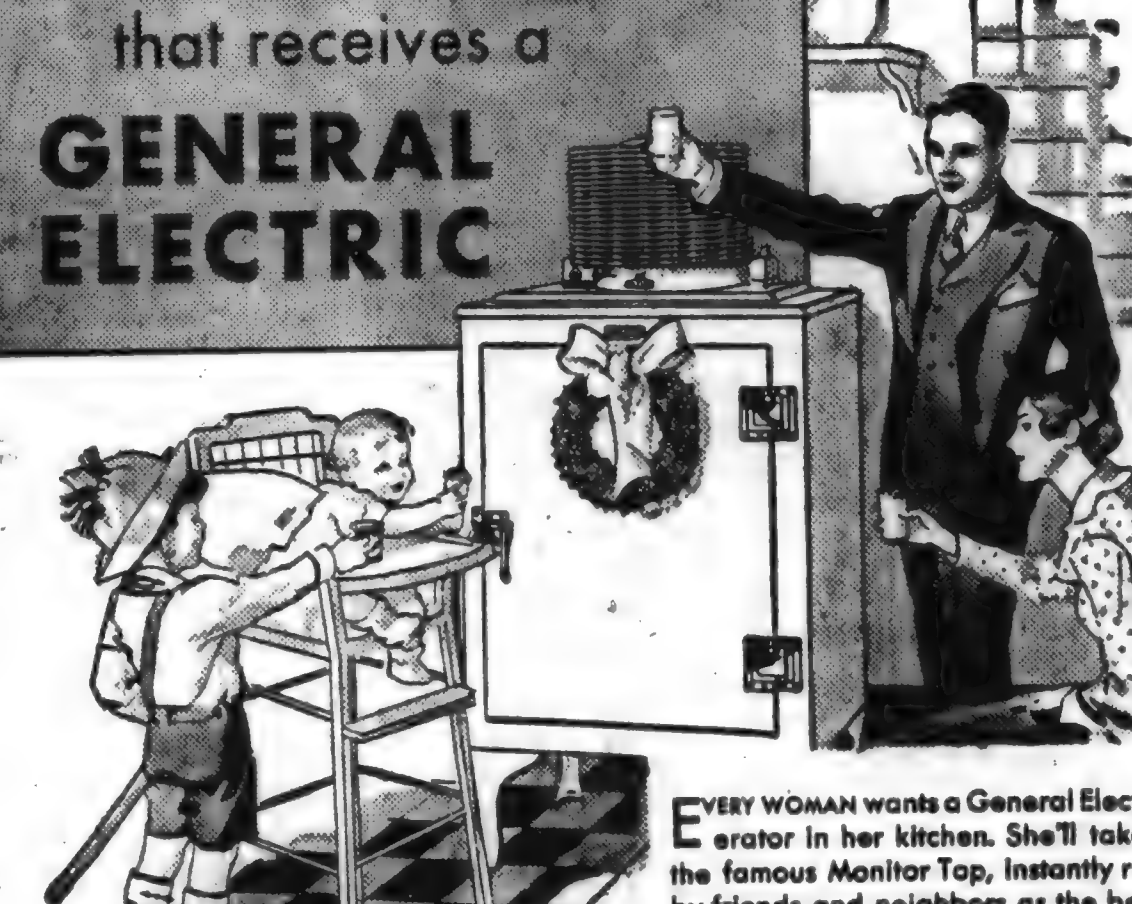

1. Recreation should be of the type that improves the person in body and mind.

2. Both private and public action should reflect the character which the school hopes to maintain.

3. Students should meet problems in school with a smile and vigor as they wish to meet their problems in later life, for as the old rule goes, "Practice makes Perfect."

Spencerville basket ball schedule for the rest of the season:
Dec. 11, Jefferson Twp. . . . . There.
Jan. 29, LaOtto . . . . . Here.
Feb. 6, Waterloo . . . . . There.
Feb. 12, Harlan . . . . . There.
Feb. 13, Hamilton, . . . . . There.
Feb. 19, Auburn . . . . . Here.
Feb. 26, Leo . . . . . Here.
March 4, LaOtto . . . . . There.

GOOD FORTUNE SMILES ON THE HOME
that receives a
GENERAL ELECTRIC

EVERY WOMAN wants a General Electric Refrigerator in her kitchen. She'll take pride in the famous Monitor Top, instantly recognized by friends and neighbors as the best in electrical refrigeration. A General Electric quickly saves its cost. Eliminates waste by preserving left-overs. Makes it possible to do all the family's marketing on bargain days, in large quantities. Never needs attention—not even oiling. And a full guarantee protects every General Electric against any service expense for three full years. A small down payment assures Christmas delivery... choose your model today.

Join the G-E Circle. A special program for women every day at noon (except Saturday). On Sunday at 3:30 P.M. a program for the whole family. (Eastern Standard Time).

$10 DOWN
24 MONTHS
TO PAY THE BALANCE

GENERAL ELECTRIC
ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

DOMESTIC, APARTMENT HOUSE AND COMMERCIAL REFRIGERATORS, ELECTRIC WATER COOLERS

Dr. U. G. SOUDER

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-29

Do Your Christmas Shopping Early

FOR THE BOY

GAMES
PAJAMAS
SLICKERS
SWEATERS SHIRTS
SCHOOL SUITS
BLOUSES
GLOVES
BATH ROBES
PLAY SUITS OVERALLS
COMB AND BRUSH
CAP OR HAT
INITIAL BELTS
NECKTIES
LEATHER COATS
SHEEP LINED COATS
SUSPENDERS

FOR THE BABY

BOOTS AND MITTENS
KNITTED SACQUES
BABY BLANKET
HONEYCOMB SHAWL
BABY PILLOW
4-PIECE KNIT SUITS
BONNETS
CUDDLY TOYS
RATTLES
COAT
CARRIAGE ROBE
CREEPERS
SOFT SOLE SHOES

Every department of Schaab's is ready once again, for those glorious days of Christmas shopping. Courteous service, smiling attendants, displays fresh and intriguing, gay symbols of another Merry Christmas everywhere, it doesn't seem possible that the year has rolled around. Here are a few suggestions you may use in

MAKING UP YOUR GIFT LIST

For DAD and MOM

BED JACKET
UMBRELLA
HAND BAG - WALLET
FOUR-IN-HAND TIES
HANDKERCHIEFS
DRESS and DRESS MATERIALS
SILK NIGHT GOWNS
FLANNELETTE PAJAMAS
COAT-OVERCOAT

HOSE - SOCKS

WOOL BLANKETS
BATH ROBE
JEWELRY
LINED GLOVES
WOOL SWEATER
SILK SCARF
WOOL MUFFLER
BRIDGE SET LOUNGING PAJAMAS FLANNEL ROBES
AUTOMOBILE ROBES

FOR THE GIRL

BATH ROBE
DRESS
SWEATER
POCKET BOOK
JEWELRY
RAINCOAT
UMBRELLA
SEWING KIT
COAT SCARF
UNDER GARMENTS
BERET
GLOVES
HANDKERCHIEFS
HOSE
PAJAMAS
MAKE-UP BOXES
COMPACTS
PERFUMES

FOR THE HOME

LAMPS
BED LINEN
BLANKETS
CURTAINS and DRAPES
COUCH COVER
TOWELS and TABLE LINEN
CARPET SWEEPER
BATHROOM ACCESSORIES
FANCY CUSHIONS
RAYON QUILTS
INCENSE BURNERS
IMPORTED POTTERY

Schaab & Brother Company

WE CAN GIVE YOU
what you want
in PRINTING
when you want it!
Try us out with your next job

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Children's Corner

EDITED BY DOROTHY EDMONDS

A Greeting Card for One You Love

Color the pieces in the square marked "A" yellow or gold, those in the square "B" blue, those in the rectangle "C" red or pink and those in the rectangle "D" green. Cut them out, and find places for them on the hearts above. Then paste them on.

Cut out the large hearts, bend on dotted line and paste together with decorations on the outside. You will now have a double faced card.

*****

The Lily of the Valley

*****

A lovely lady told to me

This story of the ivory pails.

You've seen these buckets off, I know,

You've seen them too, down in the valley.

A fairy mamma gave the pails

To her sweet fairy children eight.

And said, "My darlings, go and fill

*****

The little pails 'ere it's too late."

"I want the pails all full of dew

Cool and sparkling, fairies mine.

Now run along for you must work

Before the sun begins to shine."

The fairies took their ivory pails

And started out to get the dew:

How sweet they looked in dresses

green.

And white and pink and buff and blue.

They skipped along, they sang, they danced,

And hung their ivory buckets high,

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

My Neighbor

Says:

Oysters and fresh fish should be kept very cold. Oysters may be put into a covered jar and buried in cracked ice.

When purchasing buttons for children's clothing, always buy an extra dozen of each kind so that when a button is lost you will find no difficulty in replacing it.

Always close the piano at night and in damp weather; open it on bright days, and, if possible, let the sun shine on the keys, for the light prevents the ivory from turning yellow.

The fruit in solid cakes will sink to the bottom if baked in a slow oven. Heavy streaks through a cake will undoubtedly appear if the butter and sugar are not thoroughly beaten, or if the butter is not properly rubbed into the flour.

Take a candle by the wick and give it a coating of white varnish, then put it away to dry for several days. When lighted, the candle will last twice as long.

(© by the Associated Newspapers)

(WNU Service)

*****

On a long grass blade in a row,

The sun came up and winked his eye.

He dried up every drop of dew

Before the fairies stopped their play.

Then they were sorry as could be

That they could get no dew that day.

*****

The fairies ran back home and told

Their fairy mamma what they'd done:

"We played and played 'till we forgot

Our duty."

We quite forgot about the sun.

We're very sorry, mamma dear,

Tomorrow more we'll early go

And get the dew, we left our pails

_____

St. Joe High School News Notes

Written for your enlightenment as to the progress being made by Teachers and Pupils

Iris Wilnot has been absent from school this week on account of an infection on her arm.

The sixth grade have committed the Gettysburg Address to memory this week in their reading lesson.

Miss Ditmars and Miss Miser are staying in town now at the Ed Leighty home.

Dorothy Wasson spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Mills Oberlin, here in town.

Do you suppose Miss Ditmars has a "pull" with Mr. Noffsinger—or do you suppose she swipes that little blue Ford.

Miss Morr spent Friday evening at the home of Miss Miser at Garrett.

The teachers of the school attended the Institute at Auburn Saturday. Dr. W. Vernon Lytle, President of Defiance College, delivered the main talk.

The Likes children who have been out of school for six weeks, because of scarlet fever quarantine returned to school Monday.

The Bookkeeping class received their practice sets this week and are attempting to solve the mysteries of a real business.

One of the best programs of the Parent Teachers Association was given in the gymnasium of the Concord Township High School, on the evening of November 8th of this week. The program committee for this session, was composed of parent members instead of the regular committee, as heretofore, and to say they committed themselves creditably, is but faint praise for their painstaking effort.

The arrangement of the program was diversified in such a manner as to please all, being educational, as well as entertaining. Talks upon three phases of the object of the Constitution and Declaration of Independence in regard to "Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," were made by citizens and teachers in our community, which showed a good grasp of the subjects, and thoughtful preparation of same. The program was arranged with a view toward inculcating proper patriotic ideals, and in view of the approaching event of Christmas, the religious aspirations of mankind were shown in tableau and hymns.

In a lighter vein, with the purely entertainment end in view, a number of readings, and a dialogue were given, in which by no means, did the participants lower the standards erected by previous efforts. We have learned to expect good work from these people, and were in no wise disappointed. The program committee is to be congratulated upon the cleverness of the idea, and for the excellent manner in which it was carried out.

Notice Everybody

Hot Lunch started Monday, December the 7th, and the menu for the week 7-11 is:

Monday, Vegetable soup.
Tuesday, Pear salad, cocoa and wafers.
Wednesday, Hamburg, biscuits and gravy.
Thursday, Scalloped potatoes.
Friday, Meatloaf sandwiches.

DAMP LITTER IN POULTRY HOUSES

(By Prof. H. D. Munroe)

Damp litter in poultry houses is a common complaint this winter. In crowded hen houses, this condition is often due to the lack of fresh air and proper ventilation. Enough fresh air must be admitted to the hen house so that moisture will not collect on the walls and ceiling.

It does not take much water to cause damp litter. Leaky roofs are a common cause of this condition. Just a few small leaks in the roof will cause a lot of trouble with damp litter.

The common cause of damp litter in poultry houses is the water that falls from the beak and wattles of a hen when she drinks. When hens are laying the most eggs we have the most trouble with damp litter. When hens are laying well, they drink the most water and at that time spill the most.

Many cases of damp litter in hen houses will be stopped by putting a tub, half-barrel, or pan under the drinking fountain to catch the water that falls from the beak and wattles when hens drink. Many times open drinking dishes which allow the birds to walk in them are the cause of damp litter.

Read the Ads in this issue. You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; for He is faithful that promised." Heb. 10: 23.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Attend the morning service at the St. Joe Methodist Protestant Church, the pastor will have a worthwhile message for you.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriet Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
The revival meeting which has been going on for the last two weeks in the M. P. Church at Harlan, will continue this week. There will be services every evening but Saturday at 7:30. Continue to pray for these meetings.
V. Odell Harold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Huml, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Sunday election of officers.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the undersigned has been appointed by the DeKalb Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, Administratrix of the Estate of Catherine Rickett, deceased, late of said County.

Said Estate is supposed to be solvent.

EDNA M. PERKINS,
Administratrix.

November 13, 1931.

C. E. McClintock, Atty. 4812.

C. E. McCLINTOCK

Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.

Auburn, Indiana

LEO

Mr. John Gerig and Miss Lina Gerig spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Garman and family of Cedarville.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyell Paff and family and Mr. Charles Stevick spent Sunday, December 6 with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sauder and family.

All Junior Leaguers are urged to come to the M. E. Church on Sunday evenings. It begins at 6:45. The lessons are very interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Stevick, Mrs. Marie Michaels and children, LaMar and Kay, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sauder and children, Jo Ann and Davey Lee had an oyster supper at the home of Mr. Charles Stevick Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lochner spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlatter and family, finding them all well.

Mrs. Ben Gerig is taking care of her daughter, Verda, who is ill, in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scherer, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Stry and children and Misses Bertina and Lucinda Yoder are going to spend several days in Davis County, Ind., with relatives of the Stry's. From there they will motor on to Florida. Miami will be the farthest point they will reach. They will make an extended visit over a month.

Mr. George Schlatter and daughters, spent Saturday with Miss Hattie Schlatter and Mrs. Gustie Schlatter and son, Frederick.

Miss Martha Schlatter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schlatter, has been suffering with a gathering in her throat.

Mr. and Mrs. John Garrett and son and granddaughter, Betty Lou Garrett, of Anderson spent Sunday with Mr. Clyde Kryder and daughter, Maxine.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neuhauser and family spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neuhauser and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhauser and family and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neuhauser and sons.

Revival meeting began at the Lao Mennonite Church. Sunday evening and will continue till Sunday evening, December 20, beginning at 7:30 sun time, with Rev. O. N. Johns, evangelist and D. J. Johns Bible instructor. Everybody welcome.

Rev. and Mrs. Cotton and son, Warren, of Ft. Isabel, Ind., took dinner with Rev. and Mrs. L. L. Pussey and son, Lloyd, Monday evening, also accompanied them to Robinson Chapel to assist in the revival service which has been going on about three weeks and are having good success. All are welcome to attend.

Russel R. Reidenour

Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

"The Supreme Authority"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Here's the EVIDENCE

Handfuls of Supreme Court Justices concur in highest praise of the work as their authority.

The President and Department Heads of all leading Universities and Colleges give their endorsement.

The Government Printing Office at Washington uses the New International Dictionary as the standard authority. Many Officials in all branches of the Government endorse it.

The Colleges voted overwhelmingly in favor of Webster as standard of pronunciation in answer to questions submitted by the Chicago Women's Club.

Equivalent in type matter to a 15-volume encyclopedia. 2,700 pages. 482,000 entries. Including thousands of NEW WORDS. 12,000 illustrations. American's Great Question-Answer.

Get The Best At Your Bookstore, or send for free illustrated booklet. G. & C. MERRIAM, Springfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Disler and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith of Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Buy Conkey's 32% Egg Supplement. Latest results. One lady bought some Egg Mash in the morning and at noon received the first egg. Leo Hatchery.

Money to Burn

By Peter B. Kynne

Elmer Clarke had money to burn, and there were plenty of people willing to hand him a match. Here is a sprightly, stirring tale of now you have it, now you lose it, now you find it again—maybe. It is Peter B. Kynne, America's great story teller at his very best.

New Serial Starting in

ST. JOE NEWS, DEC. 24

Brighten Up! for the Holidays

You'll need a supply of Edison MAZDA Lamps for the holidays—white inside-frost to brighten up your home, colored lamps to decorate inside and outside the house. Buy them before the Christmas shopping rush.

Incidentally, if you've never brightened up with light for the holidays, you'll be surprised at how cheaply you can "dress up" your home with Edison MAZDA Lamps.

Lower in price than ever before, Edison MAZDA Lamps are the last word in using current economically.

Come to us for Edison MAZDA Lamps, in all sizes, in all colors. For practical lighting use, or for decoration, these good lamps are unsurpassed.

20¢ each
25¢ and
60¢ watt sizes

St. Joe News Office

365 DAYS of KITCHEN TASKS MADE LIGHTER

CHRISTMAS DINNER! Will Mother prepare it the old-fashioned way... over a hot stove... with that constant watching, basting, turning, trying, testing, pecking and worrying? Or, will she join the happy throng of happy home-makers who cook electrically?

With the new 1932 Advance Hotpoint Automatic Electric Range in her kitchen, cooking and baking worries are over.

No more watching... oven-peeking... no over or under-done pies, cakes or roasts... no pots to scorch.

Electric Cookery is clean... cool... convenient... certain... fast and economical. And a Hotpoint Automatic Electric Range is the last word in this modern, better way of Electric Cookery. Give Mother What She Really Wants... this Modern Maid for Modern Mothers.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

Hotpoint

Automatic Electric Range

AS LOW AS

$800

DOWN

Placed in Your Home Ready for Use.

Balance in 24 Months With Your Electric Service Bill.

LIBERAL CHRISTMAS OFFER

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 17, 1931

NUMBER 50

FISH FRY PROVED A GREAT SUCCESS

Fifty-eight members of the local Fish and Game Club certainly enjoyed the fish fry Friday evening, served in the Lutheran Church basement. Lester Coburn certainly proved his ability as a cooker and everyone ate as though they were enjoying the efforts of the chefs. Pickles, sweet and dills, doughnuts, coffee, rye and white bread, with plenty of butter and celery, made up the menu.

After the supper hour the men gathered at the town hall for a business session and smoker. Plans were made for the annual pest hunt week between Christmas and New Year. The entry fee is 50 cents in advance and sides will be chosen on Wednesday evening, December 23, at the town hall. The two Captains selected were Roy Keller and Harry Smith.

Men from Garrett, Hicksville, Butler and Arctic were present. Many things were discussed by the boys as to law observance, protecting of game and the like. Two convictions of recent date, were reported, for shooting pheasants brought forth fines of $25 and $340 respectively.

A NUMBER OF THIEVING CASES LATELY

A quantity of steel traps were stolen a few nights ago from in front of the Kinsey hardware store and the Donald Kinsey restaurant was entered by way of the basement window and cigars and cigarettes taken to the amount of $5.

Merritt Sechler had a battery and eight gallons of gasoline stolen from his Ford car at his farm.

Z. T. KAGEY DIES AT AGE OF EIGHTY-FOUR

The death of Zachariah T. Kagey took place Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock at his residence at Auburn after a long illness. Hardening of the arteries which has gradually affected his health for the last nine and a half years was the immediate cause of death at the age of 84 years.

Mr. Kagey was born in Ashland County, Ohio, September 16, 1847, and came to Spencer, Ind., in DeKalb County in 1873. For many years he operated the flour mill at Spencer, afterwards moving to St. Joe where he resided for 18 years. Leaving St. Joe Mr. Kagey and his wife, who was Minnie A. Bishop before her marriage to the deceased on October 23, 1873, then came to Auburn twenty-three years ago.

For a year after moving to Auburn Mr. Kagey was employed in the Auburn Roller Mills by M. E. Hursh and he then was employed by the Auburn Manufacturing Co. for a period of nine years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kagey are the parents of two sons, Charles Kagey at home and George Kagey of Willard, Ohio. Surviving besides the widow and sons is one brother, Christ Kagey of Ashland, Ohio and a sister, Mrs. Libbie Hough of Sunfield, Eaton County, Mich., and a granddaughter living at Warsaw, Indiana.

Mr. Kagey was a member of the Church of the Nazarene.

The funeral services were held from the late home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Grant Barton, pastor of the Nazarene Church, officiating and burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. F. Abel and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sailer of this place attended the funeral.

Santa Said It With Doll Babies

SUNDAY SCHOOL ELECTED OFFICERS FOR 1932

Election of officers was held Sunday at the Church of Christ as follows:

Superintendent, Willard Hurni.
Assistant Supt., Ed Storer.
Secretary, Beatrice Storer.
Assistant Sec., John Woodcox.
Treasurer, L. C. Pugsley.
Pianist, Lena Meek.
Assistant, Lucile Smith.
Chorister, Mark Williams.
Assistant, Dorothea Kessler.
Librarian, Leroy Coburn.
Assistant, Dean Kees.

FARMS BROUGHT $5,995

The farm known as the David Keller estate which was sold last Thursday through Ralph Drake, auctioneer, and Wayne Burke, sales manager, brought $5,995. It was sold in three parcels and was knocked off to Clarence Keller, O. L. Griffin and L. F. Tombow. The old homestead went to Mr. Griffin, 80 acres near Mount Pleasant went to Mr. Keller and the 40 acre tract to Mr. Tombow. One hundred and fifty people attended the sale.

CRUELTY IS CHARGED

On a charge of cruelty, Minnie B. Hatch of Newville, has brought suit in the DeKalb circuit court against Malcolm Hatch for a divorce.

The plaintiff alleges that her husband has an ungovernable temper; that he abused her, pushed around and threatened her frequently.

Married October 8, 1923, the parties separated last Tuesday.

HOME BAKED GOODS

Phone your orders for Saturday. White bread, whole wheat bread, cakes, cookies, pies, etc. 491tp Mrs. Frank Aikins.

New Assortment

COLORED DISHES

Ideal Christmas Gifts

PRICES:

10c. 25c. 50c.

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

To Win Success

"What plan should I follow in order to win success?" We are asked that question many times. There is only ONE ANSWER.

You must follow some definite plan of SAVING, and then consult your Banker about INVESTMENTS. Just one thing more: Be SURE that you do your banking with a Bank that is RELIABLE, one in which you have CONFIDENCE. Ours is that kind of a Bank.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEY BANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

640 FARMERS JOIN DEKALB COUNTY BUREAU

DeKalb county farmers climaxed a four-day drive for members in the Farm Bureau Friday night with the greatest demonstration organization ever held.

The celebration was staged as the result of securing 640 new members and renewals of old memberships, representing every township in the county. Keyser township won the pennant for securing the most members of any township. It was the second year that Keyser has been accorded the honor.

Seeking to reach the quota of 475 members fixed by the state federation, DeKalb county passed it by 165, which is expected to be a record for the district. This impressive figure was the result of a number of individual townships passing their quotas.

The demonstration and celebration were the result of many months of preparation and hard work and gave evidence that the spirit of co-operation for mutual protection and advancement has brought results.

Preceding a great mass meeting at the Alumni gymnasium, the attendance of which was conservatively estimated at 2,500 people, suppers were held at five different places. At the Chamber of Commerce about 350 were served by the ladies of the Church of Christ. The Ladies' Aid societies of the First M. E., Presbyterian, St. Mark's Lutheran and Trinity Lutheran churches served the remainder. Twelve hundred reservations had been arranged for.

At 7:45 a parade was formed at the west entrance of the court house. Led by the American Legion band, in columns of four the farmers and their wives marched once around the court house square on Main street to the gymnasium. Seven hundred and fifty were in the line of march.

When the first contingent of marchers reached the gymnasium they found the building already well filled and by the time the vanguard filed through the doors the building was filled almost to capacity.

Each pastor and newspaper editor in the county were awarded memberships for 1932.

BEWARE OF FIRE DURING THE HOLIDAY SEASON

A warning as to holiday fire dangers has been issued by Alfred Hogston, State Fire Marshal. The warning follows:

In setting up the Christmas tree, keep it away from stoves and all other heating devices. Make sure that it is securely fastened, not only near the base, but also braced at the top. These trees should be taken down after a few days, and burned, not stored in an out of the way place. Dry Christmas trees are highly inflammable.

All temporary electric wiring should be installed by professional electricians. Amateur wiring is usually unsafe and has been the cause of many fires. Have an electrician approve of the system for lights for the Christmas tree, as many such systems are unsafe.

Never attach decorations of any kind to electric wiring, fixtures, or bulbs. Inflammable decorations should not be used.

Do not use lighted candles as part of your Christmas decorations. Guard all open flames. Be sure that films used for home motion pictures are of the slow-burning type, commonly termed non-inflammable.

It is wise to fireproof costumes used in plays and pageants, as well as certain types of decorations, such as bunting. A fireproofing spray may be made from the following:—2 pounds sulphate of ammonia, 4 pounds chloride of ammonia and 8 gallons water.

Finally, the public should remember that of all deaths from fire, 65% are the result of panic, crushing and trampling, and 35% only are caused from flame. So in case of fire, avoid panic; in practically all cases there is time enough to get out of the building.

Attention Farmers!

REEF brand OYSTER SHELLS and BLOCK SALT
AT CAR LOT PRICES

Hurni's Cash Store

FARMERS NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian	104—$3.99
M. P.	62—$3.60
Lutheran	81—$3.36
Spencerville M. E.	87—$4.52
Lutheran	69—$3.08

"The Supreme Authority"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Here's the EVIDENCE

Hundreds of Supreme Court Justices concur in highest praise of the work as their authority.

The Presidents and Department Heads of all leading Universities and Colleges give their endorsement.

The Government Printing Office at Washington uses the New International as the standard authority. High Officials in all branches of the Government endorse it.

The Colleges voted overwhelmingly in favor of Webster as standard of pronunciation in answer to questions submitted by the Chicago Women's Club.

Get The Best
At Your Bookstore, or send for free illustrated booklet.
G. & C. MERRIAM COMPANY
Springfield, Mass.

$57.50

Radio to be given away on

Dec. 24th.

Get particulars by calling
at the

St. Joe Filling Station

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

American Baseball Players at the Meiji Shrine

Members of the squad of American baseball stars, including Lou Gehrig, Al Simmons, Lefty Grove and Lefty O'Doul, walking from the Meiji shrine at Tokyo, which they visited during their barnstorming tour of Japan.

May Use Coffee to Haul Trains

Seeking Practical Use for Its Surplus Crop.

Washington.—Coffee, not coal, may soon haul passengers and freight on Brazilian trains. After dumping tons of coffee into the ocean and burning other tons to avert a crash in the coffee market, Brazilian government officials announce that coffee will be pressed into bricks and tried out as fuel in locomotives.

"Coffee is a prolific stepchild of Brazil, for the original home of the coffee plant is Ethiopia," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. "But coffee has by no means been given the proverbial treatment of a stepchild," continues the bulletin. "Its beans have been fondled to build up enormous fortunes, cities, towns and railroads. The coffee bean started its world-wide rambling from the Ethiopian hills centuries ago. Tradition has it that its stimulating effect was discovered by a priest when he investigated the plants consumed by his herd of goats because the animals refused to take their proper rest. His tests led to the cultivation of the coffee plant."

"Shortly after its discovery, coffee 'jumped' the Red sea and began sprouting along the southern coast of Arabia, home of the famous Mocha coffee. In the fifteenth century, the aroma of coffee rose from European coffee pots and when colonization got under way in the West Indies and South America, coffee beans were among some of the early cargoes from Europe.

"There are about eighty species of coffee but only a few are cultivated for commerce. The cinchona tree, from the bark of which quinine is produced, is one of coffee's botanic relatives. So is gambier, which furnishes tanning material and dyes that bear the same name."

"In its meteoric rise coffee has had its ups and downs. Its first use was in the form of a paste which was eaten. Moslems, prohibited from drinking wine, took to coffee. Moslem leaders, upon learning coffee's stimulating effect, called a meeting at Mecca and banned its use in 1511. Fanatics burned the coffee warehouses, raided the coffee houses and beat the shop proprietors with their brewing utensils."

"The ban lasted only thirteen years in Egypt where Sultan Selim denounced it, and further impressed his feeling upon his subjects by executing two Persian doctors who warned against coffee drinking. Egypt now is among the world's leading coffee consumers. Some Egyptian peoples even use the beverage in connection with religious rites.

"The world's leading coffee-producing region is a pear-shaped district on the Atlantic coast of Brazil in the 'backyard' of Rio de Janeiro. The prosperity of Sao Paulo state rises and falls with the rise and fall of the coffee industry. Coffee built a fine modern capital which bears the name of the state. Its excellent railroad system and its good roads. The railroad leading from Sao Paulo, the so-called coffee capital of the world, to Santos, the world's greatest coffee port, is one of the richest steel highways in the world because it is literally a coffee funnel with the small end of the funnel set in ships' holds at Santos."

GIANT HOWITZERS NOW TRAVEL FAST

Army Develops New Transportation for Guns.

Washington.—A picture of giant motorized howitzers—some of 5-inch caliber—dashing over highways at 45 miles per hour, was painted in the annual report of Maj. Gen. Samuel Hoff, chief of army ordnance.

Guns of such weight have in past wars had to be moved slowly by mules or crawling tractors. Now, apparently, it will be possible to transfer them between fronts 200 miles apart in five hours.

The first of these large mobile guns, Hoff reported, was completed last year at Rock Island arsenal. It is now at Aberdeen (Md.) proving ground, undergoing tests.

"Preliminary firing tests," Hoff said, "indicate that it is satisfactory as a firing unit. In road tests it has been transported at 45 miles an hour, this being made possible by the use of pneumatic tires and spring supports provided in the carriage and limber."

Development of a semiautomatic shoulder rifle to increase the firing power of infantry is being carried out by the ordnance department, Hoff said.

Cuba Planning Law to Oust 'Fag' Lighters

Havana.—The lowly cigarette lighter, butt of many a stage joke, is to be legislated out of existence in Cuba. Congress in its wisdom believes it has eaten far enough into the profits of the match business.

The proposed law, which is expected to be passed shortly by congress, will impose a penalty or fine on any person found using a lighter. At the same time the price of matches, with an increased tax, will retail for seven cents as against five cents now.

Dress Failed to Fit, So Wife Misses Boat

San Francisco.—Failure of a dress to fit delayed the liner Santa Ana, distracted a husband and three children and caused a search of the ship. After her son, Luis, had swung ashore and frantically telephoned police, Mrs. Pedro Escalon arrived at the pier half an hour after the vessel departed. She had trouble getting the proper fitting for a new dress, she calmly told officials.

95-Year-Old Man Sleeps Days, Reads at Night

Evansville, Ind.—The time-honored adage "early to bed" etc., doesn't apply in the case of Dr. C. P. Bacon, ninety-five, a resident here.

Doctor Bacon stays up most of the night. He often reads until 3 or 4 a. m., then sleeps until late in the afternoon. He said he formed a habit of remaining awake late while a medical student.

Doctor Bacon has used tobacco most of his life.

Three Types of 276-Caliber Rifles

—The Garand, Pederson and White guns—are now being tested.

During the last year the army increased its artillery by 15 75-mm. pack howitzers, 15 3-inch antiaircraft guns, 11 37-mm. guns, 12 75-mm. mortars and 4 105-mm. howitzers.

Cavalry Radio Found Practicable in Tests

Washington.—Use of radio within mounted organizations has been found practicable, Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry, chief of cavalry, stated in his annual report. He added that during recent cavalry division maneuvers receiving sets were installed in airplanes, in armored cars and carried on horseback, accompanying widely separated columns of mounted troops.

"In these maneuvers," Major General Henry said, "the importance of quick and reliable radio communication between cavalry columns, while they were actually marching and in combat, was clearly demonstrated. The radius of action of a cavalry command is being greatly increased and its ability to disperse safely into several columns on a wide front is being insured by improved radio communication."

"Intensive study is being given to proper radio communication within mounted organizations, within mechanized units and to the problem of intercommunication between both of them."

Shakespeare's Gloves Placed in U. S. Museum

Philadelphia.—More than 300 years ago there was a man named Will in London.

And he had a pair of soft, gray fringed buckskin gloves. He was a well known figure in the taverns and around the courts where the strolling players congregated.

He wasn't a very important fellow then, so that when he died no one was especially interested in his soft buckskin gloves.

But now his gloves have been placed on exhibition at the University of Pennsylvania.

For Will of old London was none other than William Shakespeare.

Baby's Cries Save Family From Death

Hopewell Junction, N. Y.—There was an occasion when Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harvey of Pawling actually were happy when their baby cried during the night. For the infant saved their lives.

Coal gas had flooded the house and the baby's cries awoke his parents, who managed to stumble outside to safety.

Coal gas had flooded the house and the baby's cries awoke his parents, who managed to stumble outside to safety.

Coal gas had flooded the house and the baby's cries awoke his parents, who managed to stumble outside to safety.

Coal gas had flooded the house and the baby's cries awoke his parents, who managed to stumble outside to safety.

Coal gas had flooded the house and the baby's cries awoke his parents, who managed to stumble outside to safety.

Scraps of Humor

VALUED REWARD

"You have labored faithfully in the service of your country."

"My country," replied Senator Sorghum, "has rewarded my efforts."

"What reward do you especially value?"

"If you are speaking in a purely practical sense, I don't know of anything I appreciate more than the special parking facilities a statesman enjoys in Washington, D. C."

PRESENT WORRIED

She—This is my birthday.

He—Just think we'll be married in a few months.

She—Never mind the future, how about the present?

Brightness

"You say you look forward to bright skies in the political sky?"

"Poetically speaking," said Senator Sorghum, "I do."

"The other day you intimated that you expected some thunderstorms."

"That's correct, too. There's nothing that illuminates a political sky more sharply than a few flashes of oratorical lightning."

Equal Division of Labor

Man (to poor woman who has her husband in a wheelchair)—Take this, poor woman! It must be very hard work to push your husband about all day.

Woman—Oh, we do it turn and turn about—I push him in the mornings and he pushes me in the afternoon.—Nebelspater, Zurich.

Looking Forward

Joseph spent his vacation with a great-aunt who showed the lad all of her keepsakes.

The lad's sixth birthday was drawing near and a member of the family inquired what he wished most for a gift.

"A mustache cup," he announced.

Not Nice

For nearly an hour she had been compelled to listen to the conversation of a fatuous admirer.

"I fell off my bicycle last week and was knocked senseless," he chuckled. "When do you expect to get better?" she asked quickly.—Border Cities Star.

HAS HE EATEN IT?

Sporty Girl—He says he's a good judge of horse flesh.

Innocent Thing—Mercy, Ethel, do you think the man has actually eaten the flesh of a horse?

Sympathy

Employer—Just how would it affect you, Smithers, if we let you go?

Bookkeeper—I'd have to tend the baby, sir, and wash dishes and scrub the kitchen floor and—

Employer—Say no more, I'll let some single man go instead.

It Can Be Done

"What a lovely sunset. The sun sinks lower and lower."

"Let it sink below par if it likes I have no share in it."

In Court

Since the juror showed some signs of distress, the court very kindly asked: "Mr. Juror, are you able to bear well?"

"I ought to be, Judge. I just paid $500 to have my ears fixed."

He was excused.

Nothing Doing

"Sir, I want your daughter for my wife."

"Young man, you tell your wife she can't have her."

Bright Colors for Little Ladies

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MOTHERS and others who cater to the needs and whims of the younger generation declare a growing interest in fashioning on the part of the little folks of the present day. Since the little ladies of our land with true feminine instinct are making it so clearly understood that they have their own definite ideas about what to wear, it brings it up to those who have to do with creating juvenile modes to live up to the expectations of these now-so-sophisticated youngsters.

A sur of the juvenile specialty shops and departments is most gratifying in this respect, for the fall and winter collections there displayed are without a doubt as attractive as practical and as versatile as creative genius can devise.

The reaction to this demand of the very young for modish dress is especially keen in the fabric sections, for after all the chic and the wearability of a child's dress or suit depends first of all upon the material of which it is made.

To discriminating mothers who demand and know values, fabrics of synthetic yarns are proving of special interest. Where wear and tear is a major factor and frequent laundering an essential, weaves of fibre structure are winning increasing recognition from those seeking media which will give super service at the same time lacking nothing in the way of smart and winsome appearance.

The pleasing school ensemble which customizes the modern little lady posing to the left in the picture features a frock of bright red crepe of hemberg (a fiber of multi filament structure, which is made of cotton lintere by a stretch-spinning process which provides unusual strength and pliability). Pure dye fabrics woven of it such as the crepe which fashions this cunning frock combine durability with beauty. Note the soft-tied bow of self fabric and the novel yoke effect which are details quite of the same type as those which give distinction to grown-up models this season. The coat with its matching hat is made of hand-woven hemberg and wool in red and white, the same woven in the open spongy mesh which is so fashionable at present. Crepe to match the dress lines the coat.

Hand-forged white collars and cuffs and glistening white ocean pearl buttons trim the other pretty little frock. "Monday blue" flat crepe of hemberg fashions this quaint model.

Gunton-wave crepes of a new hemberg and rayon mixture particularly if they be in brilliant colors, are finding favor not only with professional designers of children's frocks, but mothers who are fabric-wise and who sew for their little ones are especially enthusiastic over the merits of weaves of this type, since they launder perfectly.

The matter of color is very important in childhood's fashion realm, the choice running from either very dark rich tones such as the popular wine tones, deep greens and bright blues or if light effects are employed then the tints are unusual and distinctive.

For older girls beyond the tiny-tot age an interesting trend is that of lengthening the party frock to ankle depth thus reviving a quaint and picturesque silhouette which prevailed in days of yore.

(© 1931 Western Newspaper Union)

TWISTED VELVET

Newest necklines are formed of twists of velvet in different colors which are in striking contrast and which are worked as sketched at the top in the illustration. For this Paton ensemble twisted black and pink velvet about the neck matches a toque trimmed with a tiny pink bow. In fact, velvet as a trimming is used in most unusual ways. A favorite theme is the bright velvet bow on the black or somber velvet or silk crepe frock such as pale jade green or black, rust color on brown or white on black and so on. Velvet neckpieces with matching hats such as the handsome model shown below are the rage in Paris. This one is of gray velvet treated to imitate brocade.

Far Afternoon

The proper handkerchief for the afternoon frock is made of the sheerest of linen with a single taped stripe of the white. It is bordered with a flat edge of inch-wide net.

MUCH DIVERSITY IN NEWEST FUR COATS

There is much diversity in fur coats this year, and more types suited to the young girl than we have seen in many a season. In the first place, she must have one of the new fur jackets. Fortunately, this is not an extravagance, for in many of the shops it is possible to purchase cloth frocks—plus fur jacket—at a price surprisingly low. Barunduki, lapin or seal are the furs most frequently used.

For sports coat three-quarters is the smartest length, and there are lots of new tricks as to scarf collars, drop yokes, sleeves, etc. If no belt is worn, the coat is usually shaped slightly at the waistline, although some coats are cut with a real raglan flare. Kidskin and lapin—the latter in the new Paton brown—are very good, as is logwood brown Alaskan sealskin, which costs more but wears forever.

Black and White Shown in Pleasing Variations

Black and white, still good for fall and winter, is presented in a new way in several evening gowns seen recently. One of shaded georgette has an entirely black bodice, but the skirt passes through every shade of gray until white is reached at the hem. A gorgeous lace frock has only the gray shading from smoke and pearl to a violet. A chiffon velvet gown with gray bodice shades to cream at the hem.

Ermine on Black Now Favored by the Mode

Black is the favorite ten-time coat color, although a new putty beige and deep reds, greens and purples, so dark they are almost black, are offered to color the mode.

Ermine, once reserved for the robes of queens, is one of the smartest furs. Black broadcloth coats with swirling ermine collars and melon cuffs are the fashionable Parisian's favorite tea-time wraps.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Plains Of Abraham

By James Oliver Curwood

Illustrations by Evelyn Morgan

Copyright, by Doubleday, Deane and Co., Inc.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued

In this way Jeems found his wife and boy. Their story was destined to be remembered because it was a marked incident in a transition of land, people, and customs which history could not regard too lightly. Manuscripts and letters were to bear it on, until, almost forgotten, it was to remain only a whisper among a thousand others of days and years whose echoes grow fainter as time passes. The walls of the old Lotbiniere home in St. Louis street, close to the residence of the beautiful but infamous Madame de Paeen, witnessed the pining together of the story and might repeat it today if they could talk. For Jeems the few minutes after his entry in the Lotbiniere house, where he and Tolnetta were guided by Nancy and her father while a black servant brought up the rear with the baby, were nearly as unreal as the last moments of his consciousness on the Plains of Abraham. Inside the door, Nancy placed the child in his arms, which had not relinquished their hold of Tolnetta, and the discovery that he possessed a son leapt upon him. He was so overwhelmed by the emotion which followed that he did not see Hepsiabah Adams as he felt his way through the wide hall to find what the excitement and crying were about. It was Hepsiabah's wailing, slight, less face and his voice breaking under joy when he found Jeems alive under his great, fumbling hands which added—as Nancy wrote in her letter to Anne St. Denis-Roch—as a final proof that God does answer prayer.

That this God who had seen New France sink into ruin had guided their own destinies with a beneficent hand Jeems devoutly believed when Tolnetta told him what had befallen her after the flight from Chenuselo. They were alone in her room. It was the eleventh of December, and the afternoon sun shone from a sky filled with the smiling warmth of autumn rather than the chill of winter. A few hundred yards away, General Murray was holding a review of the regiments which were some to face Lewis in his attempt to retake the city. The sound of martial music came to them faintly, and with it the distinct but softer tolling of a bell which marked an hour of prayer, and to this appeal Tolnetta bowed her head and murmured words of adoration taught her by the white-robed Sisterhood of Christ. Three years had changed her. Not time alone, but motherhood and the grief of hopeless waiting had made her more a woman and less a girl. At last she had believed Jeems was dead, and now she had him again, an indescribable beauty suffused her face and eyes with its radiance as the mystery of the years was unveiled.

She told of Hepsiabah's capture by the Mohawks in Forbidden valley, of his escape, his recapture later by the Senecas, and of her appeals to Shindas and Tiago, and of her failure to inspire their mercy when, blinded, he was brought to Chenuselo.

"Only God could have directed me after that," she said, "for I was so desperate that I scarcely know how events shaped themselves as they did. I feared what your action might be when you returned and found your uncle had been blinded and killed, and not until I entered Ah De Bah's tepee did it strike me as an answer to my prayers that a hunting knife should be dangling by its cord in the opening. With this knife I freed Hepsiabah and cut a hole in the skin tent through which we crept to the canoe, after I had given Wood Pigeon my message to you. When we were pursued and overtaken my hope died, but the depth of my despair was no greater than the joyous shock which overcame me when I heard Tiago's voice telling us not to be afraid but to go ashore quietly and that no harm would befall us. Shindas explained what they were about to do, for as soon as we were ashore, Tiago went off alone into the darkness. He told us that three days before retaking Chenuselo they had learned, through facts which Hepsiabah related, that their prisoner, already blinded, was your uncle and my own dear friend. It was too late for them to save him, for the warriors were in bad humor and demanded the sacrifice at the stake of the one who had killed several of their number. Shindas came ahead so you would not be in the village when the prisoner arrived. As Shindas talked to us I learned that hearts as kind as any in this world beat in savage breasts, for these three men had turned traitors to the Senecas that we might live. In the light of a torch, Shindas disclosed a long braid of hair which looked horribly like my own, and drenched its scalp in fresh blood which he drew from his breast. It was a scalp Tiago had taken from a French Indian he had killed, and I turned faint when I saw it gleaming in the flare of the pitch pine. Then Hepsiabah and I went on in the canoe. Hours later, Shindas rejoined us and said that Tiago had danced with the scalp before his people and that they believed we were dead. Shindas stayed with us until we came upon French soldiers near Fort Frontenac, and each day I dressed the wound in his breast.

She paused, as if revisiting what had passed, then said:

"There were a few moments with Tiago—alone—that night we stood on the shore, while Shindas took the blood from his wound. God must have made Tiago love me, Jeems, almost as he had loved the one whose place I had taken. When I found him, he was so cold and still in the darkness that he might have been stone instead of flesh. But he promised to make it possible for you to come to me as soon as he could do so without arousing the suspicions of his people. And then he touched me for the first time as he must have caressed Silver Heels. He held my braid in his hand and spoke her name in a way I had never heard him speak it before. I kissed him. I put my arms around his neck and kissed him, and it seemed that even my lips touched stone. Yet he loved me, and because of that I have wondered—through all these years—why he did not send you to me."

"Yet He Loved Me—"

Jeems could not tell her it was because he had killed Tiago.

"My Own Dear Nancy:

"Sadness has fallen over us here at Tontour manor. Odd is dead. I no longer have a doubt that God has given souls to the beasts, for wherever we look we miss him, and a fortnight has passed since we buried him close to the chapel yard. It is like missing a child who loved us, or more than that, one who guarded us as he loved. Even last night little Marie Antoinette sobbed herself to sleep because he cannot come when she calls. I cannot keep him from my own eyes. When I think of him, and even Jeems, strong as he is, turns from me when we pass the chapel yard, ashamed of what I might see in his face. Odd was all we had left to us of other days—he and Hepsiabah. And it is Hepsiabah for whom my heart aches most. For years dear old Odd has guided him in his blindness, with a cord attached to his neck, and I believe they knew how to talk to each other.

"Hepsiabah now sits alone so much, keeping away from others, and every evening we see him groping about the gate to the chapel yard as if hoping to find some one there. Oh, what a terrible thing is death, which rends us all with its grief in time! But I must not moralize or unburden my gloom or you will wish I had remained silent another month.

"It is a glorious June here. The roses—"

One wonders if the misty spots on the yellow page are tears.

[THE END.]

Accumulation of Ages in Dead Sea's Flotsam

Travelers in the Holy land visiting the deepest hole in the earth's surface, that occupied by the Dead sea, into which the Jordan empties itself, are always struck with astonishment at the sight of countless numbers of palm tree trunks, heaped by the waters on its banks.

There are now so many numbers of palm groves in the vicinity, or on the banks of the Jordan, the Arnon or other rivers flowing into the sea, as would account for so prodigious an amount of debris. Any attempt at building a fire out of the mass of flotsam, results, after exercising much patience, in feeble, blue flames of no great intensity. The wood is heavily impregnated with salt from the Dead sea—Salt sea, or Lake Asphaltites as it has been called—that is, is pickled and will last for centuries. The accumulations of countless ages are represented in those piles of roots and logs, carrying the mind back to the time when the four kings made the first incursion from Mesopotamia into Canaan, near Hamson-Tamar, or "The Bows of Palms," the modern Engedi, (Genesis 14:7), captured Lot and his family, but were followed and defeated by Abraham.

At the End of the Road Many people go through life haunted by the fear of death, only to find, when it comes, it is as natural and as satisfying as life itself.—American Magazine.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(BY REV. F. B. FITEWATER, D. D., Member of the Faculty of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.) (© 1911, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 20

THE SUPREME GIFT OF LOVE (CHRISTMAS LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—1 John 4:7-21. GOLDEN TEXT—Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Gift of Love. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Greatest Love in the World. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Jesus Came to Earth. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gift of the Saviour.

The committee's selection of this Scripture passage for a Christmas lesson is most fitting. The birth of Christ—the entrance of the Son of God upon the condition of humanity—was the supreme expression of God's love (John 3:16). The meaning of Christmas is rightly apprehended will put love in the heart of a man for his fellows.

I. The Origin of Love (v. 7, 8). Love is of God for God in the essence of his being is love. God does not merely love, he is the fountainhead of all love. Love of country, love of humanity, filial and parental love, every particle of love everywhere, has been derived from God. His love is infinite, eternal and unchangeable. Since love is of God, every one who loves is born of God and knoweth God. The Christian by his life of love interprets God to the world.

II. God's Manifestation of Love (v. 9, 10).

God's method of making known his love is through the incarnation, the sending of his only begotten Son into the world to be the propitiation for our sins (John 3:16). The coming of Jesus Christ into the world and his taking upon himself human nature makes eternal life possible for those who receive him. If one would know God's love, let him look at Jesus Christ. Those who gaze upon him with reverent contemplation cannot doubt God's love.

III. The Supreme Motive of Love (v. 11).

God's love is the grand incentive for bringing his children to love. Since the Heavenly Father loves, his children should show their resemblance to him. In the proportion that we apprehend God's love, in that measure we will love his children.

IV. Love, the Proof That God Dwells With Us (v. 12, 13).

1. No man hath seen God at any time (v. 12). But there is abundant proof of his being. The unmistakable evidence of his being is love in the heart of man. Love is the mark of the human heart, for the heart is beautiful above all things and desperately wicked (Jer. 17:9). Out of the heart proceed murder (Mt. 15:19). Love in the heart is proof that God dwells therein.

2. Love proves that God's Spirit is within us (v. 13). The fruit of the Spirit is love (Gal. 5:22).

3. Love testifies that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world (v. 14). The indwelling Spirit shows us Christ and makes us believe in him as God's Son, the Saviour.

4. Love makes fellowship with God possible (v. 15, 16). Since God is love, he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him. Those who deny the deity and saviourhood of Christ have no fellowship with God, and those who have fellowship with God will confess Jesus Christ as his divine Son.

V. Love's Relation to the Judgment (v. 17, 18).

It casts out fear. A judgment day is coming, for God hath appointed a day in which he shall judge the world in righteousness by that Man whom he hath ordained (Acts 17:31). It will be a terrible thing for those unprepared to meet God at that time. But for those who are indwelt by the Living God there will be a joyful meeting. The way to get rid of the fear of meeting God in the judgment is to be living now in fellowship with him.

VI. God's Love the Ground of All Love (v. 19).

The reason we love is that our lives have come into touch with the great Fountainhead of love. The incoming of God's being and nature becomes the animating and controlling principle of our lives.

VII. The Child of God Possesses Dual Love (v. 20).

The proof that one loves the unseen God is that he loves the person who bears the likeness and image of God and has become a member of the same family through the redemption in Christ Jesus. Love to God and man is united in the heart of the Christian.

VIII. The Solemn Command From God (v. 21).

God commands that those who love him should love their brethren. Obedience to this command will do away with all war and strife.

Successful Living

The art of successful living consists not in making our own way, but in being true men and women, and then surrendering ourselves to whatever drift of act or purpose comes our way, absolutely assured that it is the will of the Almighty.—Charles H. Parkhurst.

Spiritual Happiness

"It is indeed true that we never find the heights of spiritual happiness until we touch the fountain of sacrifice."

Dangerous days

AHEAD

In midwinter you and your children need reserves of sturdy resistance to ward off those nasty colds. Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will help you gain this resistance. Its Vitamin A promotes growth and fortifies against the common cold. And then there's a wealth of Vitamin D that helps build strong bones and teeth. Doctors will tell you how good it is for run-down adults as well as growing children. And the pleasant flavor of Scott's Emulsion makes it easy to take. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

Lesson: Scott's Emulsion's "Bromides of the Sea" every Sunday and Tuesday at 5:30 p. m. over the Columbia Radio Network.

Scott's Emulsion OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

High Honors Accorded Fourth-Century Hermit

The world laughed tolerantly at last summer's "Monkey Marathon," when small boys took to trees in endurance contests; and there could be no better proof that times have changed. The Fourth century took similar performances more seriously.

Consider Simeon Stylites. He chained himself to a great rock on which he began to erect a column of smaller stones. Aided by his aid, who rapidly increased in numbers, he raised the pile, first to a height of 9, and finally to 60 feet. In this last and lofty situation, he endured the heat of 30 summers and the cold of as many winters.

He sometimes prayed in an erect attitude with his outstretched arms in the figure of a cross; but his most familiar practice was that of bending his meager skeleton from the forehead to the feet, and a curious spectator, after numbering 1,244 repetitions, at length desisted from the endless account.

Simeon died, without descending from his pillar, as a result of an ulcer on his thigh. The ulcer owed its origin to pride. The devil, so the story goes, assumed an angelic form and drew up beside the pillar top in a fiery chariot. He invited Simeon to ascend, as had Elijah, and the saint was ready. As he lifted his foot to step in, the devil spunked him cruelly and vanished in a cloud of sulphurous smoke.

This chastisement to pride won for the hermit great repute and when, a few years later, his bones were borne to Antioch, the patriarch of the city, the master-general of the East, six bishops, 21 counts or tribunes and 6,000 soldiers former the guard of honor.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

None are so blind as those who imagine they see it all.

Cuticura For Lady's Toilet

Just a shake or two of this fragrant, antiseptic powder gives that finishing touch to your toilet. Pure and delicately medicated, it absorbs excessive perspiration and cools the skin.

Price 50c. Sold everywhere. Proprietors: Porter Drug & Chemical Corp., Malden, Mass. Try the new Cuticura Shaving Cream.

Little Damage Done by Missile, as It Happened

Mark Twain, at publishers' dinner in New York, talked of his reporting days in Virginia City.

"We were trying a horse thief one day," he said, "and all of a sudden the big, burly scoundrel pulled off his boot and threw it at the judge. It was a heavy boot, too. It was studded with hobnails. I am still rather proud of the way I wrote up that little incident, going up neatly, and at the same time getting back on a rival reporter whom I disliked. I got it all in one paragraph—something like this:

"Suddenly the blackguardly thief, pulling off his boot, hurled it with all his might straight at the judge's head. This desperate act might have been attended with most disastrous consequences, but, fortunately, the missile only struck a reporter, so that no harm was done."—Pathfinder Magazine.

There are people who just naturally make you cheerful because they are—bless 'em.

RELIEVES HEAD, CHEST AND BACK COLDS

ALBATUM 35¢

Stainless "Rub In" and inhalant unsurpassed in preventing and relieving cold congestions. QUALITY SINCE 1833. MCKESSON & ROBBINS SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES

Camels and Locomotives

One of the biggest concrete bridges in the world is along the new railway lines being built through Turkey. Although only a little over 500 miles long, the two lines penetrate difficult country, necessitating the building of about 2,000 bridges, large and small and many tunnels. In Angora an average of 8,000 blasts of dynamite a day are used to dislodge the rocky wastes. More than 18,000 peasants and shepherds are employed on the work besides thousands of peasant women who labor as stone breakers. An oriental touch is given to the picture by thousands of camels used to transport supplies as the building progresses.

For Domestic Peace

Teacher—Yes, children, one of the duties of the lord high chamberlain "was to put the king to bed." (Villie O'Leary has observed things)—And did he have to think up excuses to tell the king's wife?

The people of any nation who want to be free had better get an education. You can't be free unless you know.

drifting

You vowed to keep in touch with this friend and that. But you didn't. Time slips by. You're drifting farther apart each day. Renew those friendships this year with a Christmas card. Now—while stocks are complete and you have the leisure—select your cards and remind those friends that out of sight is not out of mind!

Burgoyne CHRISTMAS CARDS

YOUR LOCAL DEALERS CARRY THEM

The St. Joe News

Entered at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Ask St. Joe Filling Station about their Christmas gift offer.

Iris Wilmot has been absent from school on account of sickness.

Miss Beatrice Woodcox is in Columbus for an indefinite period, visiting relatives.

The state highway commission expect to build 400 miles of concrete road next year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Elm were Tuesday evening dinner guests in the J. P. Buckingham home.

Roy Maxwell, Ford Jackson and Harvey Hull attended Legion meeting at Auburn, Monday night.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

Say a Merry Christmas to your wife by subscribing for The News or some of your favorite magazines.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beams at Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baxter are now residents of Concord township, moving onto the C. S. Hart farm last week.

Attorney General Ogden thinks business is improving, and then we hear someone say, and what business is he in anyhow?

Keep a roll of films on hand for that camera as you may want to snap a picture in a hurry. Get them at The News office.

Several from this vicinity attended the lecture given by a foreign missionary at the Auburn Lutheran Church, Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shilling and son, Richard and Lucille Wiler were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Watt Sunday evening.

St. Joe was well represented at the Farm Bureau meeting at Auburn last Friday night by farmers, business men and players in the American Legion Band.

The young people will have charge of the Christmas program to be given on Christmas eve at the M. P. Church, presenting a pageant entitled, The Holy Night.

Treat your home folks to a little of the Christmas spirit by having a few colored electric light bulbs in use about the home. The News has red, green, blue, and flame tinted bulbs, also tree bulbs.

Children who desire to send their letters to Santa this year, may bring them to The News. Hope many of the youngsters will send in their letters so that he won't forget to visit our community.

The News will be printed a day early next week in order to get our work out of the way before Christmas. All news should be in early and those wishing advertising please note the change in publication.

The Rev. C. E. Rediger, secretary and registrar of the Marion college at Marion, has been appointed to succeed his brother, the late Rev. B. E. Rediger, as pastor-evangelist of the Fort Wayne Gospel temple. He will assume his duties next Sunday.

For Sale!

1928 Chevrolet truck, excellent condition, good tires, priced right; also one 1927 model T Ford truck, stake body, motor overhauled like new, good tires, at an excellent price. Inquire at NEWS OFFICE if at all interested.

Mrs. Wm. Staman is at Sturgis, Mich., with her daughter for the winter.

Candace Mae Loftus has been absent from school since Thursday with tonsillitis.

Any item of news is always appreciated. Our mail box at the office door is for your convenience.

Mrs. Chas. Freeburn, of Fort Wayne is spending the week with her son, Glen Freeburn, and family.

Mr. C. E. Thorpe, of Toledo, O., was a Tuesday dinner guest of his daughter, Mrs. Roy Koch, and husband.

Leave your films at News office for developing and printing. We have films for sale, too. Come in and ask us about prices.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller were here Sunday. Mrs. Miller will remain for the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Andrews.

Carl Johnson, Mrs. Alonzo Brace and daughter, Dottie, of Hicksville were Sunday afternoon visitors in the Adam Shilling home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sailer ate Sunday dinner in the Don Keller home. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Whitelock from Auburn came also spending the evening.

Leave your order at News Office for a year's subscription to Better Homes and Garden magazine. Just the thing for every home. One year, 60c; two years, $1.00; three years, $1.50.

J. E. Sturgis, of Cincinnati has been engaged in an evangelistic meeting with Rev. Small of Columbus, at Fort Wayne, closing Tuesday evening. He passed through town Saturday.

A real assortment of Christmas cards, with lined envelopes at 1c; 2 for 5c; and 10c each. See them at News office before its too late. An assortment of 17 cards for 25c, also a real buy.

For Rent: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 8 miles southwest of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio 49tf.

Wm. Goldsmith of Spencerville figured in an automobile accident east of Coburntown Sunday afternoon, demolishing his car and injuring himself severely. Dr. Shook was called upon to dress the wounds.

Oral Hughes had a scare Monday night when he came to get his car to go home, it was gone. He looked about town but could not locate it. He walked home and Tuesday morning the car was found at the B. & O. car house. His car is used to being parked at the Wabash car house all day and this time it thought he might be found at the B. & O. Well, it was just a joke.

Number 28147, Helen Hellinger, St. Joe, has been awarded the prize for having the best P. W. drawing sent in from St. Joe to the Perfection Biscuit Co., at Ft. Wayne. Her award was on display Saturday at the Harman meat market, consisting of a wonderful assortment of cakes and cookies all decorated for the occasion. Her entry will be entered for the grand prize.

Used Cars

1931 Model A Ford Tudor.
1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1929 Model A Ford Roadster.
Chevrolet Roadster.
Chevrolet Touring.
1924 Model T Ford Sedan.
1923 Model T Ford Sedan.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and
Roselawn Cemeteries
AUBURN, IND.

Let The News have your films developed.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45. Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45tf.

A baby daughter arrived Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shuff.

Roy Maxwell is driving a new Chevrolet and Ralph Sechler has a new International truck.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office. 8tf.

Herman H. Grubb, a former St. Joe resident, was president of the defunct New Haven bank. Withdrawal of deposits sapped the reserve strength of the bank and in order to protect its depositors, the closing step was taken. It is reported that no shortage or irregularities exist inside the bank.

By the end of the coming winter there will be no standing trees left on the Peabody tract, formerly known as the Case woods. Monday the remaining timber was let out in tracts to be cut off this winter, to a number of St. Joe and Spencerville men. The letting was in charge of Roy Keller and the company is to receive one-sixth of the wood cut. The land will then be seeded for pasture.

Dr. Bonnell M. Souder HOSPITAL

206 WEST SEVENTH STREET

AUBURN'S NEW MODERN FIRE PROOF INSTITUTION
NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC AND ALL PHYSICIANS

Private rooms may be obtained for $17.50, $21.00, $28.00
$30.00 and $35.00 a week

Equipped with all modern conveniences with beds of the new crank style and closets off each room, laboratory and X-ray facilities.

MRS. BURDGE, a registered nurse, is in charge of the hospital

Dr. BONNELL M. SOUDER, will make outside calls on her Father's patients as well as her own.

For Holiday Shoppers

GEDDES' REXALL DRUG STORE

HAS THE RIGHT GIFT FOR EVERYONE ON YOUR LIST

HERE'S THE WAY TO MAKE IT A REALLY
MERRY CHRISTMAS

Do your Christmas Shopping any time at our store. Then you won't have to search all over town tiring yourself out.

We have just the thing for Tom, Betty, Dad and Mother, Grandmother Jones and the little William boy across the street.

All these goods are arranged where you can see them quickly. All are offered at prices pleasing to pay. We are always glad to help you pick and choose.

Toilet Requisites
Shaving Needs
Electric Goods
Clocks
Watches
Jewelry
Stationery

Toilet Cases
Ladies and Gents Purse
Leather Goods
Books
Manicure Sets
Greeting Cards
Candy

and scores of useful and beautiful gifts for the grownups and children.

Shop for the Holidays at our Store, save time, trouble money—make it a real Merry Christmas

Save with Safety on All your Purchases.

GEDDES' Drug Store

THE REXALL STORE
BUTLER, INDIANA

Weather records were shattered in St. Joe last week as well as elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney, of Columbia City were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Alice Copp.

Dr. J. B. York, superintendent of the Harris county insane ward finds fewer persons are going crazy these days because "people are talking too much about the depression to give thought to going crazy."

The News has sent in a number of applications for 1932 license tags and they are passing the state office, and many of the applicants will receive their old numbers again, in compliance with our request.

Mrs. Velma Mohney, Inez Kinsey and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kinsey were at Fort Wayne Monday. Roy is taking treatments each week at Fort Wayne and his doctor gives him encouragement that by spring he will be able to get about again.

With the closing of the Farmers and Merchants bank at Hicksville and the New Haven bank in the past week, things are tightening up and there are some folks in these communities facing a rather blue Christmas. Now just what could be more criminal than to cause the loss of a life's savings in this manner?

Chicago will get the Republican national convention.

School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

I will bake Thursday before Christmas all kinds of cookies, fresh cakes, pies, bread and doughnuts. Phone me your order. Mrs. Frank Atkins. 50tf.

A judgment of $4,366.02 has been entered in the DeKalb circuit court in the suit of the county auditor against Clara McCann and a school fund mortgage on 7 acres of land in Concord township was ordered foreclosed. County Attorney H. C. Springer appeared for the county and the defendant defaulted.

Mr. J. R. Knisely is confined to his home with rheumatism. Mr. Knisely is 74 years of age. He and Mrs. Knisely celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary in November.

Dr. U. C. Souder

Specialty: Treatment of Diseases of the Nose and Throat, and the Removal of Tonsils and Adenoids.

206 West 7th Street
Auburn, Indiana

9-1-29

The Sun Shines Brighter Every Day For Folks Who Spend Wisely and Save

At least it seems that way to the Thrifty. Theirs is the happy comfort of knowing that they have the means of conquering Adversity and accepting Life's Opportunities as they come! CAN YOU SAY AS MUCH FOR YOURSELF?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank

Spencerville, Indiana

TOMMY LAD SHIRTS

Plain White, Blue, Green, Tan.
Also fancy patterns, 98c
Sizes 12 to 14

Other Shirts and Blouses, 49c and 75c
Sizes 6 to 14

Boys' Knickers

ALL WOOL
$1.95; $2.50; $2.95; $3.50
Light and Dark Greys and Tans. Sizes 6 to 16

BOY'S CORDUROY KNICKERS

$1.95
With Elastic Knee Band
Boy's Knickers with Elastic or Knit Knee Bands
79c to $1.50
Size 6 to 16

Boy's Fleece Underwear

49c and 79c
Shorts ..... 39c - 50c
Undershirts ..... 25c
¾ length Sox ..... 19c - 49c
Dress Ties ..... 24c
Bow or Four-in-Hand
Scarfs ..... 49c
Wool Knit Caps or Leather Helmets with Wool Linings 98c

McBRIDE'S

AUBURN, INDIANA

SPENCERVILLE

Mrs. Mary Betz was a Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz.

Jimmie and Jean Hatch were week end guests of their father at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reed were Sunday evening supper guests of Wm. Reed and family.

Miss Ida Reed spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Charlotte Miller, who is quite sick.

The Young Ladies Social Club will meet with Mrs. Ellen Hart at Hicksville on Friday night.

Mrs. Ada Berry, of St. Joe spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Hazel Steward and family.

Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser were Sunday guests of their son, Roy Bowser, and family at St. Joe.

The Young People's class of the Coburn's Corners Sunday School was entertained on Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Lehr Wilder.

The funeral of Mrs. Isaiah Smith was held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Scipio Church. The Rev. Homer Studabaker, officiating.

Mrs. Bonnie Peters and daughter, who spent the past four weeks at the George Lochner home, left for their home near Auburn last week.

Mrs. LaVern Koch has been ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rhodes, and Monday she was taken to Ann Arbor for an examination.

An all day meeting of the Cheerful Workers class of the M. E. Sunday School will be held on Thursday at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Clyde Rectenwall.

Election of the Sunday School officers at the Methodist Sunday School will be held on December 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. Gale Bowser and son, James were Sunday dinner guests of Iven Butler and family at Fort Wayne.

The C. C. Club met at the home of Mrs. Mary Dean on Friday afternoon. The election of officers was postponed until the next meeting. A prize was won by Mrs. LeAnna Steward. Three guests were present, Mrs. Katherine Dean and daughter, and Mrs. Ina Kraftt.

The Home Bureau met on Wednesday in an all day meeting at the Joseph Spittler home. Several guests were present, Mrs. Roy Chaney and two daughters and Mrs. Fred Hart. A prize was won by Mrs. Dora Wilder. One new member was taken in the club, Mrs. Fred Hart.

CONCORD

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fetter are the proud parents of a son, born several days ago, named Irvin J.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Jackson and daughter, Iris spent Sunday with Mrs. Less Sebring and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Farver and family at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Quance and son, Richard have returned to their home in Fort Wayne, after spending some time in the Chas. Murphy home.

Mr. Elza Jones and Mrs. Rosa Camp of Edon, Ohio, took Sunday dinner with Mrs. John Fetter. In the afternoon they went to Auburn to visit Jay Fetter in the hospital.

Eloise Draggoo spent Friday night and Saturday with Iris Jackson.

Jay Fetter was operated on last week at the Auburn hospital and is improving nicely.

Mrs. Peabody and a lady friend of Columbia City were Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott, Wayne Scott of Hicksville and Mrs. Frank Scott of Tiffin, Ohio, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bone.

This unusual weather is giving the farmers an opportunity to get much of their fall plowing done, and practically all of the corn is in the crib.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Coyle of 333 West Fourth Street of Auburn entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of their twentieth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Johnson and Clifton Draggoo of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baker of St. Joe and O. B. Draggoo of Auburn. It was also the sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

HARLAN

Charles Stophar went to Chicago Monday on a business trip.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eley, Monday, December 7th, a daughter.

Del Bauserman, of Geoglein spent Tuesday with his brother, Gene Bauserman.

Miss Ethel Clausen, of Fort Wayne visited Mrs. Sade Smith Monday, who is ill.

Villa Tilberry, of near New Haven moved in with her father, William Brown, recently.

Charles Grueb and children visited Sunday at the Lutheran hospital with his wife, Mrs. Agnes Grueb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gruber and son, John Jr., of Warsaw spent Sunday with Ora Blackburn and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Orange Cook, of Fort Wayne visited Sunday afternoon with Charles Stophar and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanger and daughter, Rose Mary, of Fort Wayne, visited Harlan Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller of Fort Wayne visited his grandfather, Amherst Miller Sunday evening.

Harl Stauffer, of Gladwin, Al Stauffer, of South Bend and Bert Stauffer, of Woodburn, spent Wednesday afternoon with Will Spindler and family.

The Junior class of the Harlan High School was entertained by Bernice Schlatter and the Sophomore class met with Marguerite Guiff, Saturday evening.

The Harlan grade pupils, accompanied by their teachers, Walburga Downey and Pauline Smith, were entertained with Christmas stories at Harlan Community Library Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Spindler and daughters, Mary and Gayle, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Kipsey took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nuttle at Milan Center. Mr. and Mrs. George Nuttle of Gar Creek and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kinsey and family of Fort Wayne were afternoon guests.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

Chapel Service

The weekly Chapel Service was held Tuesday morning with Rev. Stoll in charge. The subject was the parable of the Prodigal Son. Rev. Stoll mentioned the fact that if people would read their Bibles they would find many interesting stories and lessons.

General School News

The piano was tuned last week by Mr. Sheets from Auburn. The boys chorus and the orchestra did not meet because they could not use the piano.

The Manual Training boys have been making tie racks and now two of the boys are making a foot stool for Miss Reed.

Mr. Russell gave a speech last Monday about the sportsmanship shown by the fans at the game between Leo and Spencerville.

Two of the basket ball boys took girls to the game at Leo; no wonder we didn't win.

Mr. Appleman believes in helping the boys and girls start their vacation correctly so we are planning a nice little Christmas program. The program is to be held during the afternoon, Thursday, December 24. A program committee was appointed by the student manager: chairman, LaNore Laub, associates, Florence Steward and Dwight Koch. Each class will contribute some number for the entertainment.

The Foods Department served soup Thursday. It must be good because a large percentage of the school students patronize the soup house.

Students in General History think that they are taking word study instead of History.

The school store does not accept Canadian coins. The store is doing a paying business even in these hard times.

Eunice Shilling stayed with one of her schoolmates Sunday night.

Margaret Walter was a guest at the home of Anna Ryan Tuesday night.

A decree has been stated that banishes all outsiders from the hall while the boys are practicing basket ball.

We wish to correct the honor roll of last week. LaNore Laub of the junior class should have been included. We are sorry that this oversight occurred.

The basket ball team goes to Jefferson township for a game on Friday evening. We wish you luck, boys. Lynn Fisher has been unable to practice with the team for the past few weeks due to some ailments of the arches of his feet.

The attendance for the third grade is 100% for the two weeks of this month.

Roy Laub of the fourth grade was absent on Thursday and Friday of last week and Tuesday of this week because of sickness.

The English II class has been having a series of debates during the past week. The boys' team debated the question, Resolved: That the State should furnish free text books to all its public school pupils. The decision was in favor of the affirmative. The girls' team chose the question, Resolved: That corporal punishment is an objectionable mode of punishment for children. The decision here was also in favor of the affirmative by the close majority of one vote.

Spencerville basket ball schedule for the rest of the season:
Jan. 29, LaOtto ..... Here.
Feb. 6, Waterloo ..... There.
Feb. 12, Harlan ..... There.
Feb. 13, Hamilton ..... There.
Feb. 19, Auburn ..... Here.
Feb. 26, Leo ..... Here.
March 4, LaOtto ..... There.

Open Evenings
TILL
Christmas

GIFTS

6
Shopping
Days 'till Christmas

FOR A WOMAN

Costume Jewelry $1.00 to $2.95
Philippine Gowns $1.00 to $1.95
Rayon Pajamas $1.00 to $1.95
Silk Pajamas $3.95 to $7.95
Silk Gowns $2.95 to $5.95
Cotton Blouses $1.00 to $1.95
Silk Blouses $1.95 to $5.95
Wool Jersey Blouses $2.95 to $3.50
Boxed Stationery .50c to $1.00
Flannel Robes $3.50 to $10.00
Quilted Robes $5.00 to $6.95
Beacon Robes $3.95 to $5.95
Compacts .25c to $5.00
Gift Toilet Sets $1.00 to $3.50
Dusting Powder .50c to $1.50
Perfumes $1.00 to $5.00
Umbrellas $1.00 to $7.95
Raincoats $2.95 to $7.95
Silk Teddies $1.95 to $5.00
Step-in Sets $1.00 to $3.95
Bloomers .39c to $4.95
Slips $1.00 to $4.95
Linen Handkerchiefs 10c to $1.00
Box of 3 Handkerchiefs .50c to $1.00
Leather Handbags $1.00 to $12.50
Party Bags $2.95 to $4.95
Mesh Bags $1.00 to $2.95
Silk Scarfs .79c to $1.95
Wool Scarfs .79c to $1.95
Scarf - Beret Sets $1.50 to $1.95
Silk Hosiery .49c to $1.95
Lace Hose .39c to $1.00
Silk and Wool Hose .39c to $1.00
Lace Collars .29c to $5.95
Net Blouses .39c to $1.00
Chamoisuede Gloves $1.95 to $3.95
Lined Kid Gloves $1.95 to $3.50
Imported Pottery $1.00 to $1.00
Cookie Jars .59c to $1.00
Bronze Book Ends .75c to $1.25
Antimony Silverware $1.00
Plymouth Pewterware $1.00
Prayer Rugs .89c to $1.95
Tapestry Pieces .15c to $5.00
Bridge Sets $1.00 to $1.95
Luncheon Sets $1.50 to $5.00
Flannel Table Cloths $2.95 to $5.00
Linen Table Cloths $1.95 to $7.00
Crash Table Cloths .69c to $1.39
Bed Spreads $1.00 to $7.95
Wool Filled Rayon Quilts $7.50
Cotton Blankets .63c to $1.59
Part Wool Blankets .95c to $2.95
All Wool Blankets $5.95 to $8.95
Table Lamps $1.95 to $2.50

During these busy days of Christmas shopping Schaab's as ever ask you to make their store your headquarters. Special displays have been arranged to make your selecting easier. New low prices have been inaugurated to enable you to fit your "List" to any budget. The same high quality of merchandise has been mentioned that make GIFTS FROM SCHAAB'S MEAN MORE.

FOR A GIRL

Wash Dresses .59c to $2.95
Wool Dresses $1.00 to $5.95
Silk Dresses $2.95 to $5.95
Sweaters $1.00 to $2.95
Sweater and Beret $2.95 to $5.95
Beret and Scarf $1.50 to $1.95
Berets .50c to $1.00
Cotton Hose .19c to 25c
Rayon Hose .25c to 50c
Silk Hose .50c to $1.00
Wool Hose .39c to $1.00
Lace Hose .39c to $1.00
Wool Anklets .50c to $1.00
Sewing Cabinets $1.00 to $1.00
Desk Sets .5c to 25c
Handkerchiefs .5c to 25c
Box of 3 Handkerchiefs 25c to 35c
Rayon Blouses .25c to $1.00
Rayon Combinations 89c to $1.00
Rayon Pajamas $1.00 to $1.50
Pajama Ensembles $2.95 to $3.50
Umbrellas .75c to $1.00
Raincoats $2.95 to $4.95
Chamoisuede Gloves .39c to 59c
Lined Kid Gloves $1.25 to $1.50
Lined Mittens .50c to $1.00
Wool Gloves .50c to $1.00
Gym Suits $1.25 to $1.50
Blue Rose Sets .25c to $1.00
Stationery .25c to $1.00
Outing Pajamas $1.00 to $1.95
Sweater and Golf Sock Sets $2.95
Dusting Powder .50c to $1.00
Make-up Boxes .50c to $1.00
Suede Jackets $1.65 to $1.65
Compacts .25c and 50c
Handbags .50c and $1.00
Mesh Bags $1.00 and $1.95

FOR A BOY

Golf Socks .19c to $1.00
Rayon Socks .25c to $1.00
Suede Jackets $1.65 to $1.65
Wool Jackets $1.85 to $1.85
Suede Leather Jackets $6.25 to $6.25
Leather Coats $5.75 to $9.25
Leatherette Coats $4.85 to $4.85
Corduroy Coats $4.85 to $4.85
Kid Gloves $1.00 to $1.50
Kid Mittens .50c to 75c
Suspenders .50c to 75c
Belts .50c to $1.00
Four-in-Hand Ties .50c to $1.00
Bow Ties .25c to $1.00
Broadcloth Shirts .75c to $1.50
Silk Striped Shirts $1.50 to $1.50
Blouses .69c to $1.00
Rain Coats $2.50 to $5.00
Rayon Shirts .50c to $1.00
Rayon Shorts .50c to $1.00
Scarfs .50c and $1.00
Tie and Pencil Sets .29c and 50c
Scarf and Tie Sets .50c to $1.00
Tie and Ushalee Sets .50c to $1.00
Desk Sets $1.00 to $1.00
Beacon Robes $3.00 to $3.00
Wool Knickers $1.00 to $2.65
Corduroy Knickers $1.95 to $2.65
Corduroy Longies $2.75 to $3.00
Heavy Sweaters $1.65 to $1.65
Slip-over Sweaters $1.00 to $3.95
Sweater and Golf Sock Sets $2.95
Aviator Helmets .50c to $1.35
Lined Jackets $1.45 to $1.45
Caps .50c to $1.00
Overalls .65c to $1.00
All-over Overalls .69c to 79c
Little Tots Wool Suits $1.95 to $1.95

FOR A MAN

Flannel Bathrobes $6.50 to $10.00
Rayon Lounging Robes $4.95 to $4.95
Beacon Bathrobes $4.00 to $6.00
Four-in-Hand Ties .50c to $1.50
Spur Bow Ties .50c to $1.50
Shieldtex Ties .50c to $1.50
Bandtex Ties .50c to $1.50
Rayon Hose .17c to 50c
Silk Hose .50c to $1.00
Outing Pajamas $1.00 to $1.50
Broadcloth Pajamas $1.15 to $4.00
Silk Pajamas $5.00 to $8.50
Lined Kid Gloves $1.50 to $5.00
Unlined Kid Gloves $1.50 to $3.50
Chamoisuede Gloves .85c to $1.50
Silk Suspenders .50c to $1.50
Silk Suspenders and Garter Sets .85c to $1.50
Broadcloth Shirts .95c to $3.50
Silk Striped Shirts $1.50 to $1.95
Radiant Silk Shirts $4.00 to $4.00
Silk Scarfs $1.00 to $3.50
Leather Bill-folds $1.00 to $3.50
Leather Letter Cases 50c to $1.50
Brief Cases $3.00 to $10.00
Gladstones $7.50 to $28.50
Suit Cases $1.00 to $6.00
Wardrobe Trunks $26.50 to $37.50
Leather Coats $7.50 to $12.50
Leatherette Coats $5.50 to $5.50
Corduroy Coats $5.85 to $5.85
Leather Suede Jackets $6.90 to $6.90
Suede Cloth Jackets $3.75 to $5.00
Wool Sport Coats $2.95 to $6.00
Heavy Sweaters $3.00 to $10.00
Linen Handkerchiefs .20c to 75c
Silk Handkerchiefs .50c to $1.00
Pongee Handkerchiefs .25c to $1.00
Garters .25c to $1.00
Initial Belts .50c and $1.00
Silk and Wool Hose .25c to $1.00
Underwear Sets $1.00 to $1.00
Tie and Handkerchief Sets $1.00 and $1.50
Hats $1.95 to $7.00
Caps .50c to $2.50
Golf Hose .50c to $1.50
Golf Hose and Sweaters $5.00 to $5.00
Sedpack Handkerchiefs 10c to 25c
Oshkosh Overalls $1.25 to $1.25
Work Shirts .49c to $1.50
Automobile Robes $5.00 to $11.50

YOU can advertise profitably...

The first step toward success in advertising is the choice of the proper medium. If you decide upon special folders or circular letters, let us aid you in the choice of paper, ink and type. The result will be a finished product that will attract attention and be read by your prospects.

Now That You're Gone

No moon, no stars, no dawn, Nothing to stand out. I don't think there's any question but that they have succeeded with a bang. In a song of this sort the matter of tempo is quite important if the one singing or playing it wants to get the most out of it. I find that it must be taken slowly, so that its melody, which keeps climbing up the scale to a climax, will not be fumbled and its rhythm spoiled. But any way—fast or slow—it's certainly my "Song of the Week."

Reviewed by

Ring Crosby

SCHAAB & BROTHER CO.

AUBURN, INDIANA

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Railroad Depot at Chicago's Great Airport

This new union depot at the municipal airport of Chicago was dedicated recently. The building cost $100,000 and is one of the best equipped of its kind in the world.

Ice Box Proves Hot Box for Apartment Dweller

Evanston, Ill.—In the apartment building where William Dawson lives there should be a tourist bureau—or something.

One night recently Dawson opened his kitchen door, entered, closed the door, went to the ice box, opened it, ate ham and pickles, then went into the living room, laid down on a sofa, and prepared for a nice comfortable sleep.

He was settled only a minute when he heard movements in the kitchen. "Help! Burglars!" cried Dawson. "Help! Burglars!" came a voice in the night—and it wasn't an echo.

Mr. Dawson was locked up by police for burglary. He had eaten the wrong pickles and ham. He lived upstairs he then discovered.

Fate's Adjustment

When fate has allowed to any man more than one great gift, accident or necessity seems usually to contrive that one shall encounter and impede the other.—Swinnburne.

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

The Book Said

"Please wash your hands, (thus spake my book)
Before you ever take a look
Upon my pages clean.
I do not like soiled finger prints,
So kindly take these gentle hints,
And when ink spots are seen
I'm apt to get into a rage.
And if you hap to tear a page
It pains me through and through;
I like to be spick-span and write
And crispy fresh—it's my delight—
Oh yes, indeed, I do."

A child who tears and rudely spoils
A pleasant book or smears or soils
Its cover or a leaf
Without a thought, is far from nice
And if you will take my advice
It is my firm belief
That every single story book
Will turn into a glory book
Before your very eyes.
If you but treat it the right way
'Twill give you joy for every day
And many a glad surprise.

Good Advice Puzzle

If you will add and subtract the letters to and from these pictures, as indicated by the signs, you will have a seven-word sentence that will offer good advice.

BUNNY ENVELOPE & CLIPPINGS

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

Wife Gets Laugh on Fugitive Mate

Hammond, Ind.—Mrs. Robert Quigley waited a long time to get the laugh on her flying husband so when her turn came she made it a hearty one.

Weeks ago when the Quigleys separated Quigley hastened across the state line into Illinois to avoid a suit charging nonsupport.

"Then," said Mrs. Quigley, "he bought an airplane, just to taunt me. Every day he'd fly across the border and dip the wings of the plane over my house. It got on my nerves, but I knew my turn to laugh would come and it did."

The turn came when Quigley's airplane motor failed while he was making the daily "dip." His ship crashed in Mrs. Quigley's yard. Police met him when he crawled out of the wreckage unhurt.

Motor Speedway Turned Into Water Race Course

When Cecil G. Bigby of Houston, Texas, found that the motor speedway he had built there was a losing venture because of the heavy rains, he turned it into a water race course, the first of its kind in the world. It is half a mile long and has a surface width of 100 feet.

My Neighbor Says

WHEN flies are troublesome in the sick room try placing sweet peas in the room. The odor of them is so offensive to the flies they will not remain where it is.

Kerosene lamps should be filled every day and chimneys washed once a week. To insure a perfect light, let every lamp have a new wick once a month, and just before lighting rub carefully the body or stand of the lamp, so that all the smell of the oil is removed.

If the sink has been unused for a considerable length of time through the house being vacant or the occupants away, rub mutton or beef tallow on it. The sink should be flushed every day with boiling water and now and again soda should be added to the water. By this treatment a lot of unnecessary bother may be saved, as when sinks are not properly cleansed they become greasy.

Leftover meat, even if there is very little, will make a tasty supper or luncheon dish if it is added to scrambled eggs, omelets or rice.

Odd "Remedy"

Among the curious remedies used in the past for epilepsy was the Greek suggestion that holding anise seed in the left hand would prevent convulsive attacks.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

by WALTER TRUMBULL

mark at which to shoot.

Bob Kelley told me a funny football story the other day. He says that several years ago it was evident to the Notre Dame coaches that an opposing team was gaining through the line because one of their tackles was punch drunk. They sent in a substitute and all gains ceased. Something seemed a bit out of the ordinary to the other team and finally it took time out to check up. One mathematically inclined player idly counted the Notre Dame men and found they numbered twelve. They had numbered twelve for the better part of a quarter. The substitute had come in, but the injured tackle had neglected to go out and, reinforced, had been doing valiant work. It's a good story, and Mr. Kelley sticks to it.

To my personal knowledge, taxicabs are being driven in New York by women, and by men who originally were lawyers, preachers, aviators, carpenters, singers, actors and electricians. I even know one former cowboy who drives a cab. I suppose that among the thousands of drivers almost every profession and trade is represented. It always has seemed to me that there was a noticeable difference in temperament between the night and day drivers. The former are, somehow, a more adventurous type, although nobody could ask for more adventure than he gets driving with some of the more reckless day workers.

A well known and high-priced illustrator once rode in a New York taxi to the extent of fifty cents on the meter. When he got out and started to pay the driver, the latter called him by name and said:

"Say, I've always thought your stuff in magazines was O. K. If you'll take my address and send me one of your original drawings, this ride won't cost you a nickel."

An Irish driver told me recently that a quiet, nice looking woman carrying a bag hailed him and that, just as he stopped for her, the bag came open and "the biggest snake that St. Patrick ever drove out of Ireland" stuck its head out.

"What did I do?" he said. "I almost ran down a cop on a corner three blocks away."

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Vanilla Ice Cream.—Add three tablespoonfuls of tapioca to two cupfuls of milk, one-third teaspoonful of salt and cook in a double boiler until the tapioca is clear and the mixture thickened. Stir frequently. Add one-half cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of light cream and continue cooking until all are well blended. Strain the mixture, stirring—not rubbing—through a fine sieve, then chill. Add two tablespoonfuls of sugar to the whites of two eggs and whip until stiff, add one cupful of cream, whipped, and a tablespoonful of vanilla; fold into the chilled mixture and turn into the tray of an automatic refrigerator and freeze three to four hours.

Deep Sea Newburg.—Prepare the following white sauce: Three tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, salt, pepper, paprika as desired and two and one-half cupfuls of milk.

Cook until smooth and thick, then place over hot water to keep warm. Take a one-half pound can each of crab and lobster, flaked in good-sized pieces, and one can of shrimps which may be cut into halves or left whole. If for a fine occasion add a small can

"SMARTEST FRESHMAN"

William Robert Bowden, seventeen-year-old Haverford college student, who has been adjudged the "smartest freshman" in the country a competition sponsored by the American Council on Education. Young Bowden was selected from a field of more than 35,000 first-year college students competing in the examination. He is the son of Mrs. Jane B. Bowden of Dunbar, Pa.

MAGIC PETTING

She—There's a sort of magic about petting.
He—Yeh—sort of neck-romancy.

STOP YOUR COLD IN 12 HOURS WITH

Two Days of "Freedom" for Husband and Wife

It is a mistake to think that two people can, in this Twentieth century, live their whole lives happily, successfully and abundantly on the basis that husband and wife are one, unless each party to the arrangement is free to follow his own tastes and fancies. Otherwise you inevitably get boredom and unbearable dullness. Dullness has wrecked many marriages which otherwise would have been successful.

I have eliminated the possibility of dullness. On two days each week I never see my husband. It has proved a really sound arrangement. I do what I like, go out with friends I choose, even though some of them he dislikes and others he thinks just silly. Still, he does not object. For those two days we live our lives apart as if we had no mutual responsibilities at all.

He chooses his own friends. Some of his friends I dislike as much as he dislikes some of mine. Others are just dull and uninteresting.

The days we are together we enjoy each other more because we have been apart. We are each of us refreshed and have something new to talk about. It is not a bad plan, and I might even say that it is a plan which many other people might find very suitable. They will be surprised at the results.—Anita Loos in the London Saturday Review.

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Muterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Muterole is just good old Muterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Muterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Keep full strength Muterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Muterole for little tots. All druggists.

Maronites Largest of Lebanon's Many Cults

Biblical Lebanon, Asia's only Christian state and the smallest one in the world, has seven different confessions among its 326,018 inhabitants, according to the last census. Despite mass emigration among people of their faith, Christians again maintain their majority. The largest group is the Maronites with 214,313 adherents. In addition there are 20,448 emigrants of this faith in the United States who still pay taxes to the homeland. They form one of the oldest Christian churches. Its history goes back as far as the Fourth century, retaining Aramaic as the church language. Since the Middle Ages, the Maronites have recognized the pope, although they have a patriarch of their own. There are only 5,421 Protestants in the Lebanese republic. The ancient churches such as the Syrian Jacobite and the Assyro-Chaldean claim the majority of 11,000 church-goers claimed among the minorities. Next to the Maronites in strength are the Sunnite Moslems with 130,040 and the Shillites with 113,530.

Wanted to Know

"John, it says here the government has a plan to throw out the frozen assets of the banks," remarked Mrs. Dumbell.

"Well, what of it?" he asked.

"Why, don't the banks hire plumbers to do that?" she inquired.

If It's Your Liver—

Your liver is a delicate machine. When it becomes clogged with bile it is liable to "get right." That's exactly what you do when you drink a few cups of Garfield Tea.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM

For itching scalp, dandruff, itching humors, itching skin, itching eyes, itching nose, itching throat, itching ears, itching all over the body. It is the best remedy for all itching conditions. It is the best remedy for all itching conditions. It is the best remedy for all itching conditions.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Faeroes

It Takes Two Months to Dry a Codfish in the Faeroes.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

THE black, wind-swept Faeroes soon will hear the drone of regular mail planes, for a new landing field is planned for accommodation of planes which will fly the proposed America-Denmark air mail route.

The Faeroes, numbering twenty-one small islands sprinkled over a small area about 230 miles off the northern tip of Scotland have remained practically unchanged since Viking days. Modern civilization can find no foothold on their windy cliffs; there life can exist only when modeled on ancient, primitive patterns. And so the islanders, forever wrestling with waves and winds, have little time for the tourist or his money.

Each of the islands rises from the sea with flanks as sheer as a ship's sides and with a plateau top, flat like a ship's deck. In all the Faeroes there is only one small sandy beach of a hundred feet or so, a beach which is considered such a remarkable gift of nature that the big island of Sandoy takes its name from the tiny strand.

Basalt cliffs rise majestically on all the islands. Some tower nearly 2,000 feet above the restless sea, and against these black barriers the Atlantic sends her mighty waves, to break with explosive force and burst into probably the most remarkable clouds of spray and surf to be found in all the world.

Vidaro is probably the bleakest island of them all and therefore visitors seldom land there. But the effort pays, for there the dwellings are of the most ancient type, customs have been handed down unmodified, and it is such a colony as Leif Eriksson might have planted. There is no town; not even a store. Low stone farmhouses, built sunk in the ground and grided by outer stone walls to escape the violent winds, cling to the barren, steep grass at will.

Live in "Smoke Rooms."

So poor is Vidaro that only one house, that belonging to the schoolmaster, a very great man indeed, has a "glass room." Such an extravagance is not for the average Vidaro dweller, who lives with his family in a "smoke room," or a converted smoke room. The smoke room, which was once typical of all rural homes in the Faeroes and still survives in many, harks back to the feast halls of the Vikings. Usually it is large, since it is often the only room in the house, except the stable below it for horses and cows, and must serve for the entertainment of the neighbors as well as for all family uses. Around the room there are no windows; only the entrance door and those that open on the original "pullman beds," which may be single—or double-deck.

In the center of the room stands a low stone forge on which burns peat or, rarely, brown coal, and above the fire hanks a wooden chimney, which carries some, but not all, of the smoke to the outside air. Converted smoke rooms with modern improvements boast a stove where once the open fire gleamed, and a skylight glass window where once an aperture in the roof, uncovered in good weather, suffered to admit light.

While the schoolmaster has his "stove room" and is the only man of Vidaro with a glass room, nearly all the farmhouses on Stromo Island have glass rooms, and in Thorshavn, the capital itself, the communal stove room has been left out in the new, graceless concrete houses.

A glass room is an appendage of the smoke or stove room, having glass windows. Usually it is a parlor and like parlors of an earlier day, can be used only on state occasions—for a funeral, for a marriage, or a reception of a special guest. Generally the unused parlor contains the family's only furniture, such as a table, a few chairs, a vase with paper flowers, and religious pictures on the wall.

Frequently the glass room is opened for travelers but the stranger usually prefers the family living room, with its warm stove, to these parlors, which give forth the cold, musty odor of a cellar closed for many years.

Like Their Food "High."

The stove room serves, of course, as the dining room. Sheep, fish and whale are staples with the islanders. The first two are common enough to most people. The method of preparing the food for the table in the Faeroes scarcely recommends it to the fastidious. Like most primitive northern peoples, the islanders prefer "high" meat, and to satisfy this desire they hang a skinned sheep in an open shed for about a year before eating it. The carcass acquires a crust like cam-bert cheese. This is pared off, each man using the knife which he carries constantly. The highly toned meat beneath the crust the natives eat raw. Similarly, whale blubber must season for a month or more before the family makes high feast. Other seafood, however, receives different treatment. Newly caught fish are cleaned, dried and dried—until they become so hard that one's teeth can shake no impression. But with a stout hammer the islander will powder his durable codfish on a stone and eat its dust, so to speak.

No one goes to Myggenaes, the westernmost island of the Faeroes, unless the trip is necessary, for it has the most violent surf. Myggenaes consists of a main island, supporting about 125 inhabitants who raise sheep and catch fish. Cursed it is by winds and waves, for the storms that leave Newfoundland and Greenland gather all their forces and loose them here. The rest of the Faeroes and Europe get the storms later; Myggenaes gets them first and worst.

At the very western end of the island is a holm, or islet, separated from the main block by a crevice 75 feet wide. At the outer point of the detached piece stands the westernmost lighthouse of the Faeroes. Its beacon blazes out 415 feet above the sea. At the foot of the lighthouse cliff, their foundations melting year by year in the tossing waters, are two pinnacles of rock on which in summer the gannets rest.

Life in the Lighthouses.

The lighthouse is operated by a Dane, who lives with his family in a house sheltered behind the lighthouse rock. The keeper tells of the awesome storms of winter, when a screaming, whirling blackness descends on the island and the sea lifts up higher, blitzer, and higher on their rock; when the suffocating blast of stinging salt spray that no living creature can stand against rages merrily.

But more telling even than his descriptions is the kerosene lamp which hangs from the ceiling of his living room. It has a large globe with a hole on either side, as if a shot had passed through. During one winter storm a wave that rose up the cliff crashed over the lighthouse, a public, which broke his window, passed through his lamp, and struck against the wall. He shows visitors the water-worn stone, which he retains as a keepsake.

The farmer-fishermen of the north islands like Myggenaes and Vidaro are self-supporting, living on the fish of the sea and the sheep on their barren, almost independent of what the world has to sell or wishes to buy. Different conditions obtain, however, in the southern and more populous islands, where extensive fisheries have long been operated. A decline in this major industry has been occasioned by many factors. The modern equipment used by steam trawlers elsewhere, never used in Newfoundland and Norway, and a reduced world demand necessitated a recent extensive program of aid by the Danish government. Figures show a tragic loss of trade; but to a newcomer, Sydero appears to have all the fish any island could possibly wish. On bright days the rocky shore is white with the codfish which are Sydero's chief stock in trade.

Acres of fish lie everywhere, soaking up the stifling Faeroe sunshine. Fish follow the shore line as if they had been cast up by the sea. They cover a slope like slates on a roof, thousands of oval slabs of white fish meat—a thirsty sight! A line, two hooks, and some fish or bird intestines for bait, are all the gear a native needs. When his boat has been anchored, over go the lines, and in come the fish. For the novice, there is a thrill in pulling in a five-to-twenty-five pound fish, but it is an old story to the islander.

Fish are cleaned at once and salted down. Often a ship will return to port with 250,000 pounds of hand-caught fish. Again it will go out and never return at all. These are brave men who go to sea for cod. Each year numbers of island fishermen lose their lives at their trade. Each grim cliff is the tombstone of some schooner and her crew.

Once safely back in port, the schooners unload their fish, which are passed on to women out on the pier, who bend over huge vats of water, scrubbing the cod clean. Pictures of these arduous workers are obtained only with great difficulty, for in the Faeroes, as elsewhere, women do not want their pictures taken unless they are dressed in their best clothes.

DAIRY

USES TOBACCO TO FIGHT CATTLE LICE

Dairymen Got Good Results, He Reports.

While we are considering the dairy industry, here's a seasonable suggestion. Do your cattle rub and give indications of itching? Possibly, perhaps I should say probably, they have some cattle lice. Now, if you had one of these lice on your hand you could see it readily enough, but when it is smugling down in a cow's winter coat, it isn't very visible.

Most farmers say that these lice come from sparrows by means of bedding in which sparrows have roosted. According to Prof. R. H. Pettit of the entomology department of the M. S. C., this is a superstition and not scientific fact. He says that the lice found on cattle do not molest other animals and that sparrow lice would not live on cattle.

Just why cattle lice confine their activities to winter and early spring I do not understand, but such seems to be the case. There are probably a number of equally good ways to rid the cattle of these irritating pests. We have tried several. Last winter I mixed up a solution of "Black Leaf 40" (powdered tobacco) at the rate of a teaspoonful to a gallon of water and used this with splendid results. I do not know whether this is the best strength to use or not, as I was unable to find any directions for using this poison for such a purpose. Anyway, it seemed to stop the itching without harming the cattle. Last week we went over all our cattle, including the cows, herd sire and young stock, with such a solution, rubbing it well into the hide with a stiff brush. This is a case of where it is good policy to "rub the fur the wrong way." Our milk flow has increased since the treatment.—Michigan Farmer.

Poor Feeders Usually Have Poor Production

Which are in the majority—poor dairy herds or poor dairymen? Some years ago, at a national dairy show, a Jersey cow was on display that had made a ridiculously small amount of butterfat in the previous year. She was the poorest cow in the local cow-testing association. Professor Van Pelt purchased the cow and recorded her milk and fat for the next year with good feeding—not forced feeding—but intelligent, economical feeding—and her record was in excess of 500 pounds fat. Such a cow could never have been a poor cow. The trouble was probably with her owner. The late Henry Glendinning, when in his prime as a lecturer at farmers' institutes, was in the habit of saying that the reason there was so much of poor cows in the country was because there were so many poor feeders and he would then cite experiences similar to the above. Business conditions are against us but it is unquestionably true that for many of us there is plenty of room for improvement right at home on our own farms.—Montreal Family Herald.

Soy Beans in Feed

Roughly speaking, fed with farm grains in the proportion needed to make a balanced ration for a dairy cow, ground soy beans are equal pound for pound to such feeds as linseed meal and cottonseed meal. Thus when linseed meal brings $40 to $45 a ton, soy beans have a value of $13 to $15 a bushel, less the cost of grinding.

A good crop of soy beans will yield about 20 bushels per acre, which at $13.10 a bushel would bring a gross income of $262 an acre. This compares very favorably with oats at 55 bushels per acre at present prices. Practically every Wisconsin farmer can grow enough soy beans to supply his cow herd with all the protein needed for supplementing his ordinary grains and should do so.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

When Cows Chew Bones

When cows chew bones or wood it is usually an indication that there is something lacking in the feed. In a good many cases these cows are not getting enough mineral and this in turn is usually an indication that the ration is not well balanced. Dr. G. R. Weaver of the South Dakota state college at Brookings, suggests that where this condition is noted that bonemeal and salt should be kept before the cattle all the time. The bonemeal may be fed along with the grain ration at the rate of 2 to 3 pounds per 100 pounds of grain or it may be mixed with salt at the rate of 1 pound of salt to 4 pounds of bonemeal.

Long Dairy Record

Martin Kecker, who lives near Alma, has kept a cow herd for 22 years and never, with the exception of the 61 head he is creep-feeding this year, has he ever grain-fed any of his calves. He plans to cull to 75 head the best individuals out of his 70 head-cow herd and his 14 coming two-year-old heifers. His cows are bred so that about half of them calve in November and December, with the remaining ones calving before April.—Kansas Farmer.

MAXINE was entertaining the bridge club of which she was president with a Christmas party. The group of lively young women gushed about the tree for their annual election.

"Before we take up the election of officers for next year," Maxine announced, "I want to review with you a little of what we have done this year."

"It was on our last January meeting that we decided that good times alone would not keep our club alive. Then it was suggested that we carry the Christmas spirit through the year by considering the 25th of every month a 'Christmas anniversary' and doing some act such as we would do if it were really Christmas time."

"On January 25 we helped the Stone boy get a new suit; on February 25 we took out and cooked a real Christmas dinner for the Perkins family; on March 25 we arranged to buy music for the postman's boy, and got Mr. Williams to give him free violin lessons, and by the way, I understand he is showing real talent. In April we took care of Mrs. Perkins while she was sick, stopping in every noon to fix lunch and straighten up."

"May 25 was a Sunday, and we took all the poor children we knew to the park for the day. In June we gathered discarded winter clothing for the Welfare society to put in shape for fall use."

"On July 25 we started Phyllis Riverson off to a tuberculosis sanitarium. In August we bought school supplies for Sarah Stone, and in September we made another drive for discarded clothing."

"For a couple of weeks during October we helped in the Community Chest campaign; in November we waited until Thanksgiving day, when we distributed five turkeys; and here it is December again. What are we to do this month?"

"Well," said one of the girls, "of course we have been working all month on toys for the Community tree for poor children. So I suggest that next year we follow the same plan, and I nominate our President Maxine for re-election." (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

The French Santa Claus The French Santa Claus is dressed like a Harlequin in the old pantomime.

ELLI, Jennie," said Mr. Jameson. "I don't see but that I'm a failure after all. Even though I could probably sell out this minute for a cool half-million, I cannot give you the only happiness you really want this Christmas eve."

"What's that?" queried his wife. "Why, our son," he exclaimed.

"Don't you suppose I know how you are going to miss him this first Christmas birthday of his that he has not been home. Don't you suppose I realize as well as you do that he is our life, our joy, our only true wealth; that money and things are really worth nothing to us in comparison with him?"

"Of course," answered Mrs. Jameson. "But you are a success, nevertheless. If it hadn't been for the money you've made by your hard work, we never could have given Richard the advantages he has had. He has that splendid opening in Chicago, and even he is too far away to come home for just one day. I am glad that he has the opportunities which our wealth has given him. Of course our son means more to us than all these things, but we still have each other, you know."

"Yes, my dear, we still have each other," he said.

Mrs. Jameson kissed her husband affectionately and led him toward the window.

"Look!" she exclaimed. "A plane!" Sure enough, high over the great expanse of white lawn before the house circled a tiny plane the sound of whose motors just barely reached their ears. Nearer and nearer the earth it came, and Mrs. Jameson kissed her husband again. She knew that in the plane was Richard, their boy, their treasure.

"It is my Christmas present to you, and to him," interrupted his wife. "Just as twenty-one years ago today I gave him to you as your son and heir, today I give him back to you. With this machine he can visit us on holidays, for now we are twelve hours nearer Chicago."

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

The French Santa Claus The French Santa Claus is dressed like a Harlequin in the old pantomime.

The French Santa Claus The French Santa Claus is dressed like a Harlequin in the old pantomime.

The French Santa Claus The French Santa Claus is dressed like a Harlequin in the old pantomime.

The French Santa Claus The French Santa Claus is dressed like a Harlequin in the old pantomime.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get in shape and use as directed. Fine particles of wax skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, freckles, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. It removes wrinkles in one course. Freckled hands disappear in one-half hour with hand. At drug stores.

Highest Possessions

Above Monetary Value

What are the things which the average human being values most? A Wisconsin clergyman has been asking this question of leading men all over the country, and the answers, as analyzed by Channing Pollock for the American Magazine, indicate that most of the desirable possessions in people's lives cost them nothing in money.

A list of fifty such valuable possessions, for instance, shows that 48 of the 50 had no monetary cost. The three leaders are: Health, love of work and capacity for it; ability to look any man in the eye.

Most of these things, comments Mr. Pollock, are very common possessions, and yet nobody would take a million dollars for any one of the lot.

All Joined in Song

While on a tour of the coal mines, near Ashland, Pa., Leo Minster, barytone and member of the Apollo club of Boston, heard a miner far down underground singing at his work. The song was "My Wild Irish Rose." The miner took up the song and he and Minster made it a duet. Then every miner within hearing distance as well as officials of the company who were taking Minster on the tour joined in the chorus.

Stokes by Push Button

One man, by merely pressing push buttons, stokes all the coal-burning boilers in a 47-story New York hotel. The boilers burn pulverized coal, and when a button is pushed exactly the right amount of coal to keep the fire at proper heat is automatically released from the bunkers of the fire box.

If some men were compelled to pay as they go, they would stay.

RONEY PLAZA hotel

Innovations this year include: reductions in room rates and a new dining service, club breakfast at $1.00, served in your room, and the Cabana Club luncheon at $1.50, without resorting to the least of America's finest ocean-front hotel. S. E. T. RONEY, Pres. Open from Thanksgiving Day

MIAMI BEACH FLORIDA

The Ideal Vacation Land

Sunshine All Winter Long

Splendid roads—towering mountains—highest type hotels—dry invigorating air—clear starlit nights—California's Foremost Desert Playground

Write Geo. A. Chaffey Palm Springs CALIFORNIA

Marvelous New Investment Starts off in cranks. Pastest winter driving season on market. No competition. No money for agents. Write today. Specialties Sales Co., Redgrave Bldg., Sioux City, Ia.

For Sale—2 farms, 20 and 150 acres, each with 30 head live stock, full line stock, good buildings, near town. With or without personal. Write Bros., Cully, Wisconsin.

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 60-1023.

St. Joe High School News Notes

Written for your enlightenment as to the progress been made by Teachers and Pupils

General School News

The Honor Roll from Mrs. O. Berlin's class consists of the following students: Helen Fae Curie, Jack Goodwin, Richard Riden, Barbara Coburn, Helen Goodwin, Betty Kees, and Bobby Wade.

The Honor Roll for the Junior High consists of Violet Baker, Jean Goodwin, John Kaelner, Bonnie McSorlie and Esther Richards. Those on the roll from the Senior High are Ethelmae Freeburn, Helen Like, Virginia Shull, Idalena Dressel, Beatrice Storer, John Woodcox, and Weldon May. The grades of these students were not lower than B.

Dean Cox and Jean Hurni were small visitors in Miss Miser's class this week.

Dean Ramsay, who was in the second grade, has entered the grade school in Fort Wayne.

Miss Grove was a Sunday visitor in Topeka where she visited with Miss Opal Baker a teacher in the high school.

The fifth and sixth grades received the banner Saturday for having the highest percent of attendance in the grades of the town schools of the county for last month.

The Seniors got their pictures the latter part of the week. Time alone will tell whether they are sure cures for keeping the rats and mice away.

Miss Dittmars, Miss Miser, Miss Grove and Mr. Noffinger plan to spend the week end at their homes.

The St. Joe High School basketball team won another game off of Avilla, Friday night, December 4th. It was a hard fought game, but St. Joe beat them by a score of 18 to 20. The girls also played at Avilla, but they were defeated by their team with a score of 21-30.

The St. Joe High School basketball

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; for He is faithful that promised." Heb. 10: 23.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Evening Service 7:00.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Morning Message 10:30.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
A Christmas pageant "The Star Came" will be given at the Lutheran Church on Christmas Eve.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE

Willard Hurni, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Sunday election of officers.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

ball team was defeated by the Ashley team Saturday night, December 5th. The boys put up a hard fight, but due to the game the night before they were tired and the Opponents won with a score of 18-28. The girls won had a game with Ashley and won by a score of 30-10.

The parents and teachers held their third meeting Tuesday night, December 8, at the St. Joe Gym.

Wednesday night, December 9, the Farm Federation held a meeting in the St. Joe Gym. After the meeting they had an oyster supper.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

R. H. C.

The R. H. C. was entertained December 8 by Mrs. Clyde Hart. After the regular order of business, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Claude Mason; vice president, Mrs. Will Hamilton; secretary, Mrs. Inez Hadsell; assistant secretary, Mrs. Roscoe Conline; treasurer, Mrs. Louise Washlet; press correspondent, Mrs. Abner Trostel.

HOME BUREAU

The Concord Township Home Bureau held a most enjoyable Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Pluma Hamilton Friday. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lela Northrup, Mrs. Myrtle Pugsley and Mrs. Anna Tustison arranged and served pot luck dinner at the noon hour which all enjoyed.

The meeting was called to order at 1:30 by the president and Christmas Carols led by Mrs. Mayola Kinsey. All responded to roll call with Christmas Bible verses. Mrs. Mary Washlet gave two Christmas readings after which all joined in singing, "I heard the Bells on Christmas Day." Mrs. Arline Koch gave an interesting talk on "Is there a Santa Claus?" A Christmas hoop contest was won by the green side and all were rewarded with candy. Original verses were enclosed with the Christmas, exchanged and to say there were some weird and wonderful examples of poetry would be putting it mild.

After the meeting adjourned Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Ruth Davis, project leaders, gave a demonstration of dip painting, making Christmas wrapping paper, dipping candles and vases.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.

Frank Tustison.
W. J. Staman.
J. N. Scholes.
Hattie Widney.

PURELY PERSONAL

Read the Ads in this issue.
Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Hart spent the past week at Ravenna, Ohio, guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Jones.

A change has taken place in the Nathan Grain Co. Mr. Ben Levy of New Haven will have charge of the business.

Ed Millman, son of John Millman, was in town last week calling on relatives after an absence of 21 years in the west.

Chas. Cochran and George Millman and wife drove to Napoleon, Ohio, Sunday and spent the day in the John D. Millman home.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Staman, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole and Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bowman, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins.

Mrs. Marjorie Ramsey, who has been home for the past couple months sick, is now a patient in the Irene Byron Sanatorium, being taken there for treatment last Friday.

Nine more indictments were returned Thursday against Rollo N. Walter at Lagrange while he was already under eight indictments charging embezzlement, as the result of the failure of the Lagrange County Trust Co., of which he was treasurer.

J. M. Life, attorney of Charleston, West Va., and Russell Reidenour of Auburn called on ye editor and wife Saturday afternoon. Mr. Life came to Indianapolis on a business trip and concluded to come to Dekalb county and see some of his old friends. He has been absent eleven years.

Swallowing a tack while putting up holiday decorations in a Portland, Ind., bakery in which she is employed, Miss Lillie Wisch of that city, was in a serious condition Thursday. The tack first lodged in her esophagus, later reaching her stomach. An X-ray examination was made, which disclosed the tack in her stomach. No prediction is made regarding her condition. This is a very common thing to do, but this incident should make one more careful.

BASSETT'S WELDING SHOP

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDING
BRAZING
SOLDERING

IN ST. JOE GARAGE

DR. COIL
Specialist in Eye Treatment
Office: 104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Ind.

WE CAN GIVE YOU
what you want
in printing
when you want it!
Try us out with your next job

SHE BELIEVES IN ASKING LARGELY OF SANTA

St. Joe, Ind.
Dec. 11, 1931

Dear Santa,
I thought I would write you a few lines. To let you know what I want. First I want a sweater, wrist watch, pajamas, a pair of beads and a bracelet to match, a pretty red dress, and a manicure set and some pretty handkerchief and lots and lots of nuts and candy.

With love,
Jean Ridgway.

AMERICA'S WORLD RESPONSIBILITIES

By H. J. HAAS

President American Bankers Association

WE are in a changing world, with many new financial problems for which we have no precedents; and many old problems which have so changed as to be unrecognizable. American bankers have been called into world affairs to blaze new trails of financial finance. We may expect these calls to be more numerous in the future than they have in the past. We are the world's financial leader and we must accept the responsibility which goes with it.

Let us look to the future with confidence. Every one has experienced a great sorrow some time, perhaps so great we felt we could never overcome it, but time is the great healer and eventually we have come out of it. As it is with individuals, so it is with nations. Our nation has had much sorrow in the 155 years of its existence. In that time we have passed through the major depressions of 1837-1843, 1857-1859, 1873-1879, 1893-1899, 1907-1914, 1921 and the present.

I venture to state that in each of these periods there were those who had doubts of the future just as we have them today, but what happened? Our country recovered, to be better and stronger than ever. Its people were introduced to modes of living they never dreamed of, until today, notwithstanding our depression, we live on the "highest plane of any nation in the world." Should we not judge the future by past experience?

Surely our people are better prepared, financially and intellectually, to cope with even greater problems than they have been in the past, so why not look to the future confident that fundamental social and economic problems will be adjusted satisfactorily? Confidence is not established by any one thing but by an accumulation of things. If we can get confidence started on its way, gathering a little here and there, it will accelerate its speed and go along. This is not the work of any one man to perform but is the cumulative effort of each and every one of us. What we are in the future is not the result of what we have done on any one day but the result of all that we have done for all time. The American Bankers Association is endeavoring to do its part. Individually our efforts may not count much, but they are part of the whole plan and taken in the aggregate they amount to the sum total of all our efforts.

Rat Most Destructive

The common house rat is the most destructive rodent in the United States.

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

Russel R. Reidenour
Attorney
Auburn, Ind.

Santa Answering His Letters!

Spencerville, Ind.
Dec 9 1931

Dear Santa Claus,
I'm six years old.
Please bring me a Scout knife and a airplane,
your friend,
James.

December
Date 12 1931

Dear Santa
I am a little boy 8 years old. I want a foot-ball and electric train and some candy and nuts.

My brother is 5 years old. And he wants a little gun a games and some candy your friends
Paul and Ned
Keller.

St. Joe Ind Dec 14 1931

Dear Santa
Are you coming to St Joe this year if you do come to my house on the North side of the B and O I am a little girl 6 years old I want a set of dishes storey book pare of Gloves some nuts and candy and a Ball for my dog Jack yours Truly
Candace Mae Loftus

St. Joe, Ind.
Dec. 16, 1931

Dear Santa Claus
I want a doll with a red jacket and red hat, wrist watch, ring, bicycle games to play house-slippers, ball, and book.
Your Friend
Margaret Hellingner

Dear Santa Claus:
I'm a little boy 3 years old. Please bring me a top and red ball but most of all I want a tractor that goes by itself. Bring Harry Lee something that is nice so he won't want my tractor. He is just a baby 1 year old and wants my things. Don't forget the tractor and Thank you ever, so many times.
Sammy Kees.

Dear Santa:
Please bring me a Coloring Book, a Merry-Go-Round that plays music, a Western Style Cow-boy outfit and a Dump Truck. Mary Ann wants a Christmas Tree and a Street Car.
Thank you.
Raymond Paul Quance.

Dear Santa Claus
Please bring me "Our Best Cowboy Outfit" shown in Sears Catalog page 424, a Gee-Whiz Horse Race, and a Lionel Electric Train
Robert Boyd Quance

St. Joe, Indiana
December 11, 1931.

Dear Santa:
I am writing a few lines to tell you what I want. I want a sweater, a pair of pajamas, a pair of stockings, a bracelet and a pair of beads to match, a few dresses and lots of candy and nuts.
Your friend,
Eloise Coburn.

Dear Santa:
All that I want for Christmas is a sled, a green leather jacket and a fountain pen lots of candy, nuts and oranges
Yours truthfully
You know who I am
Mary Dressel

Nugget of Wisdom
Kindness is the sun of life, the charm to captivate and the sword with which to conquer.

Brighten Up! for the Holidays

You'll need a supply of Edison MAZDA Lamps for the holidays—white inside-frost to brighten up your home, colored lamps to decorate inside and outside the house. Buy them before the Christmas shopping rush.

Incidentally, if you've never brightened up with light for the holidays, you'll be surprised at how cheaply you can "dress up" your home with Edison MAZDA Lamps.

Lower in price than ever before, Edison MAZDA Lamps are the last word in using current economically.

Come to us for Edison MAZDA Lamps, in all sizes, in all colors. For practical lighting use, or for decoration, these good lamps are unsurpassed.

20¢ each
15¢ and 60¢ sizes

St. Joe News Office

THE BEST BOOSTER FOR
YOUR BUSINESS
IN DeKALB COUNTY

ST. JOE NEWS.

NEWS MAKES A GOOD
PAPER, SO SEND IT
IN TO US.

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 24, 1931

NUMBER 51

WHERE YOU CAN FIND THAT CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

For the benefit of those who wish to attend a Christmas program somewhere in their community, we have made an effort to give you complete data on the services for several miles about St. Joe and Spencer, as follows:

ST. JOE

Lutheran, Thursday evening, pageant entitled, "The Star Came."

Christian, Thursday evening, two Christmas playlets, one featuring a radio program.

Methodist Protestant, Thursday evening, A two part program. First part, a miscellaneous children's program. Second part, a pageant, "The Holy Night."

Concord M. P., Thursday evening, with a miscellaneous program.

Rehoboth M. P. Thursday evening with a cantata.

SPENCERVILLE

Lutheran, Thursday evening, with a miscellaneous program.

Methodist, Thursday evening, with a specially prepared cantata.

HARLAN

Methodist Protestant, Wednesday evening with a miscellaneous program.

Church of Christ, Wednesday evening.

Scipio M. E., Thursday evening, Springfield, Center, Thursday evening.

NEWVILLE

Christian, Wednesday evening, with a miscellaneous program and a short playlet.

United Brethren, Thursday evening, composed of a miscellaneous program by the children, and a fifteen minute playlet.

Mt. Pleasant, (Sawdust,) Sunday evening with mixed program and playlet.

LUTHERAN SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFICERS FOR 1932

The following officers have been elected for the Lutheran Sunday School to serve for the year 1932:

Superintendent, Derwood Ridgway.

Asst. Supt., Frank Aikins.

Secretary, Floyd Pflaumer.

Assistant, June Ridgway.

Treasurer, Carl Perkins.

Assistant, Frank Bowman.

Chorister, Harvey Hull.

Assistant, Joe Woodcox.

Pianist, Gladys Dressel.

Assistant, Jean Goodwin.

COBURNTOWN SUNDAY SCHOOL ELECTED OFFICERS

The result of the Coburntown Sunday School election of officers last Sunday, is as follows:

Superintendent, Fred Hart.

Assistant, Leroy Mann.

Secretary, Dwight Koch.

Assistant, Leoral Hart.

Treasurer, Fred Laub.

Chorister, Bernice Wilder.

Pianist, Lenora Laub.

"A Merry Christmas"

"Now!! What did I tell you?"

Once again comes Christmas and Santa Claus, the bright light of love reflecting his approach. He comes bearing gifts, never failing to reward those who have faith in goodness and love in their hearts for their fellowmen. Merry Christmas is the song of the day and we join in singing its harmony----

"Peace on Earth---Good Will Toward Men"

NO CHANGES IN COUNTY OFFICIALS

No change in the personnel of the DeKalb county official staff are scheduled for the new year beginning January 1.

However, Chas. G. Potter of Franklin township, will begin his second three-year term as county commissioner on that day. The other members are Nicholas Funk of Wilmington township, whose sixth year on the board starts January 1, and Arthur Grube of Keyser township, who has two years more to serve of his first term.

The board will reorganize at the first meeting of the new year, starting January 4. Mr. Funk is now the president, Mr. Potter vice president and Mr. Grube secretary.

A county attorney and a county physician also will be appointed by the board for the year 1932.

To Fill Many Offices

With the arrival of the new year the political pot will begin to boil in anticipation of the primary in May and the election next November. Among the offices involved are the following:

President of the United States.
Governor of Indiana and other state offices.

United States senator.

Congressman.

State senator.

State representative.

Prosecuting attorney.

County clerk.

County treasurer.

County surveyor.

County sheriff.

County coroner.

County commissioners from the southwest and southeast districts.

At the primary in May will also be selected the convention delegates and precinct committeemen. The committeemen will meet on the Saturday following and elect their respective county chairmen.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Lutheran ..... 74-$4.11

M. P. .... 68-$3.11

Coburntown ..... 95-$4.50

Spencerville M. E. .... 86-$3.90

Lutheran ..... 87-$3.88

IN MEMORIAM

Three long years have been gone. How we have missed you no one will really know.

Our thoughts return to days now past.

Life rolls on but memory lasts.

Your loving Wife, Sach and Son, Bert.

Local Briefs

Paul Knisely of Auburn Junction spent two days in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Knisely. Mr. Knisely is not much better at this writing.

Eloise Bowmen, Hazel Storer, Dorothy Ginther, DuWayne Kinsey, Frank Miser, Kent McCrory and a number of other college students of the community are home for their holiday vacation.

Mrs. Inez Hadsell will go to Columbus, Ohio this week to spend Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Hough, and family, and New Year's day she will spend with her son, Paul Hadsell, and family.

Mrs. Ada Mann, Mrs. Anna Hursey, Leoral Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mann went to Peebles, Ohio, Thursday morning to attend the funeral of Mr. Mann's sister, Mrs. Lois Brownley. Mrs. Mann and daughter, Mrs. Hursey, went to Adams county, and visited until Wednesday with Jessie and Woodrow Boggess.

Ora Baker is home from Gary, where he has been constructing guard railing on a state road, having completed the job in just three weeks, where he figured it would take six weeks. The nice weather, of course, allowed them to work every day. Every road contract of Baker & Son is now fully completed.

Hollis Wise and three daughters, Mrs. Ed Wise, Mrs. Robert Hoderman of Waterloo, Mrs. Mary Sims of Scotville, Mich., Miss Pearl Tyndall of Branch, Mich., Mrs. Leone Irmacher of Fort Wayne, Miss Cecil Shull of Auburn, and Wellington Shull of Spencerville ate Sunday dinner in the C. C. Shull home. Afternoon callers in the same home were Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shull and son, Carlton, Paul Carpenter, Mrs. M. E. Stuck, Miss Lizzie Hart and Mrs. Guy Platter and children.

Community Wide

To you and yours, our heartiest Christmas Greetings. May this indeed be a season of happiness and joy for all of our loyal friends in this community.

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture Undertaking

Santa Claus in Person Brings Joy to Everyone
So would a Membership in our Christmas Savings Club

We extend the Season's Greetings to our Friends and Patrons

The ST. JOE VALLEY BANK

Santa Gets Shower of Letters

St. Joe, Ind., Dec. 16, 1931.
Dear Santa I am a little girl 4 years old. I want a doll and a doll and blanket for it please bring my little sister a doll to.
Your little Friend
Helen Fay Wiers

Spencerville, Ind.
Dear Santa Claus:—
I am seven years old. Please bring me a doll baby, book and a string of beads.
From
Donna Mae Washler

Spencerville, Ind.
Dear Santa Claus,
This is what we would like to have. Us three boys Loren biggest, your lovingly,

Loren, Roy, Roger

Dear old Santa Claus,
Please let me have a steam shovel and a toot-toot train on a track.
Calvin Hull.
(Letters Continued on Page 8)

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Money to Burn

By Peter B. Kyne

© by Peter B. Kyne.
WNU Service

"You can't miss what you have never had," said Elmer Clarke when asked how he would feel if he learned that the story about his inheriting a million dollars were all a myth. Pretty good, he said, in that for a philosophy to meet the ups and downs of life, if one has wealth and loses it, the thing to do is to forget that one ever had it. More easily said than done, and that fact has given Peter B. Kyne the central idea for one of the most sprightly and joyous of the many clever tales he has turned out for the delight of readers.

Elmer was a cigar store clerk in a small town in California. He was young and such a human life that anyone with half an eye could see he was not destined for long to spend his time handing out "ropes," cigars and plug cut smoking tobacco to a clientele none too discriminating. If Elmer stayed in the game at all, it would be to own his own smoke emporium, and it would be no hick affair but in the latest city style and a credit to the town. Something in the nature of these preliminary ambitions was about to be worked out when news came of the death of a relative and Elmer's being made sole heir to a million dollars. Something was lost to economics and progress, for a natural hustler now found himself with no incentive to hustle.

You may think it is the old story of the new rich or of a beggar on horseback; but it isn't. Our Elmer was a quite level-headed citizen, with plenty of savvy and a backbone that was built for carrying burdens and also acting as an efficient power station for the generation of courage; but with all these qualities he would most certainly have slipped had not a manager suddenly arisen to take him in hand and guide him from the pitfalls which his money-blinded eyes failed to see.

It was a girl, of course; but what a manager and what adroitness she used to put her management into effect! She had been trust officer in the town's bank, and from behind her desk had seen more of the foibles of life and had absorbed more human nature than Elmer had come into contact with during his whole career. She had a strong hand, even if it were encased in a delicate, soft glove; but no muscling, stiff-armed methods for her. No, indeed! You will have to learn how she worked it, by reading the story—one of the happiest efforts of one of the nation's best story tellers.

CHAPTER I

Mr. Absolom McPeake's secretary came into her employer's office with an unpleasant announcement. Mr. Hiram Butterworth was waiting in the outer office and desirous of seeing him. "Keep him waiting half an hour," the lawyer answered. "I haven't finished reading the morning paper and a half-hour wait will have a good psychological effect on that old rascal. It will add to my importance and diminish his."

McPeake finished reading the paper and lighted a cigar; when the clear was consumed, he opened the door leading to the general office and bowed Hiram Butterworth in with a cheery good morning and a polite inquiry as to the state of the Butterworth health.

"I'm done for," his visitor replied agitatedly and sank heavily into the overstuffed armchair which Absolom McPeake reserved for his clients. "Yes, McPeake, done for!"

"I wouldn't say that, Mr. Butterworth," McPeake soothed him. "You are always pessimistic. Try being optimistic for a change."

Hiram Butterworth flared in sudden impatient impatience. "Why wouldn't you say it?" he growled, and answered the question himself. "Because you don't know anything about it, that's why. And I do. I ought to. I've paid out enough good cash money to find out. I've been to six specialists in six cities and have received six identical verdicts. I'm done for, I tell you, and don't you try to tell me I'm not. I guess I know when I'm done for. Cost me enough to find out."

He shuffled his feet, and McPeake, glancing down, observed that Butterworth's shoes were old, cheap and worn. And the thin, threadbare suit, cheap and ready-made, old and demodé, coupled with the saw-edged collar and the plain black "ready-to-wear" necktie, still further heightened the atmosphere of misery and neglect which this old man radiated.

McPeake replied without irritation: "I'm very sorry to hear this disturbing report, Mr. Butterworth. What did the doctors say was the matter with you?"

"Hardening of the arteries and heart disease," the old man barked. "Three years ago I found myself getting a pain in my chest, so I called on Doc Reiter to cure it. Reiter told me what was what and six others have since confirmed his diagnosis." He bowed into McPeake with his gimlet eyes. "I'm liable to die at any moment," he said then in a low, sad voice, "so I've come to set my house in order."

McPeake frowned but kept his temper. "History will recall—pardon me for reminding you—that for twenty years I have been urging you to make a will, Mr. Butterworth."

"That's right, that's right," the miser complained. "You're one of those I told-you-so fellows. For two cents I'd have another lawyer draw up my will."

"That would please me greatly," Absolom McPeake replied serenely. "For less than that I'd decline to draw your will."

His peevish client subsided instantly. "Tut, tut, Absolom. You're too quick on the trigger. You know mighty well it's too late for me to quarrel with my lawyer now, and besides you know more about my affairs than anybody else."

The lawyer glared at him for a half-minute, then drew a pad of legal-size yellow scratch paper toward him and prepared to place Hiram Butterworth's house in order.

"To whom do you wish to bequeath your estate?" he queried. Butterworth pursed his lips. "Well, Absolom, I've only got one blood relative I care to leave it to, and that's my late sister's son, Elmer Butterworth Clarke."

"But you have other nephews and nieces, Mr. Butterworth?" "Yes, my sister Hattie's two girls and two boys. Hattie's husband left them mighty well fixed, but they went hog-wild once they got control of the money—d—d extravagant wasters. Let 'em work for a living now, like I did. 'Atch me leavin' 'em anything. I'd die first."

"According to the doctors' verdicts you probably will. What inclines you toward Elmer Clarke?"

"Well, in the first place I thought more of his mother than any other member of my family. She never bothered me with her troubles. Why, her husband was dead two years before I heard of it. She never asked me for a dollar and I never gave her a dollar. I don't suppose we'd written to each other for twenty years before Hattie died, on account of me not thinking much of her husband. Good enough cuss, but no git-up-an-go to him."

"To Whom Do You Wish to Bequeath Your Estate?" He Queried.

The old wretch chuckled pleasantly as he recalled his futile brother-in-law. "Never laid eyes on Elmer," he went on. "Never heard from him in my life and wouldn't know him from Adam's old ox, if I hadn't seen his photograph. Absolom, he's the dead spit of his Uncle Hiram."

He handed the lawyer a photograph. McPeake studied it a moment and gave it back. "You flatter yourself," he remarked acidly. "That boy resembles you as much as he resembles a wart-hog. But go on."

"He resembles me when I was his age," the miser persisted. "And I know all about him. Hattie! You bet. Never made a move in my life until I knew just why I was making it. Yes, sir." He fumbled in his pocket and brought forth some envelopes.

Absohom McPeake opened the one his client handed him and drew out a sheet of typewritten pages. The first page was a carbon copy of a letter:

"Muscatine, Iowa,
July 10, 1924.

"Gentlemen:
"A valued customer of this bank is desirous of ascertaining in the strictest confidence the mental, physical, social, and moral status of his nephew, Elmer Butterworth Clarke, of your city. Any information you can give as to his character, habits, occupation, the degree of application he exhibits in his pursuit of a living, how he is regarded by his associates and any other information you may consider will enable our customer to form a vivid picture of Elmer Clarke, will be appreciated and reciprocated."

*****

Much Hidden Treasure Awaits Lucky Finders

It's funny that people should spend thousands of pounds in sitting up expeditions, to Trinidad, Cocos, and other islands reputed to contain treasure, when the soil of Great Britain hides great hoards of gold and plate and jewels, says a writer in London Answers.

History tells us that King John's treasure lies in the sand at the edge of the Wash. It includes his golden crown and a wonderful collection of jewels. Another royal treasure, that of Edward II, lies buried in a rocky chasm in Wales, where he hid it when he fled from his cruel queen and her confederates.

Great hoards lie buried under the ruined walls of the old baronial castles, and much treasure was hidden in similar fashion by the abbots of the monasteries at the time of the Reformation.

Buried treasure is constantly coming to light. Not long ago a wonderful find was made in a Peakland cave. It was a collection of Saxon coins, along with other articles of gold and silver, buried more than 1,000 years ago by a Wessex king.

whenever possible. Please bill us for any expense incurred in securing the information desired.

"Thanking you in advance, we are, Yours very truly,

"First National Bank of Muscatine, By Geo. O. David, Cashier."

The lawyer grunted disdainfully. "Catch you spending any money for a report from a detective agency when your banker will do it for nothing," he remarked. "This letter, attached to the report, I take it. Hum-m!" He read:

"Dear Sir: We have for acknowledgment your letter of the 10th inst., requesting that we furnish you with a confidential report on Mr. Elmer Butterworth Clarke of this city."

"Mr. Elmer B. Clarke is a well and intimately known to us and has been for the past fifteen years. The Great Register of Voters of this county informs us that Mr. Clarke is a Republican and that he was born October 10, 1898, in Selma, Fresno county, this state. He is the only child of the late Prof. James J. Clarke and the late Mabel Butterworth Clarke."

"Professor Clarke was a graduate of the University of California and was very eminent in the field of parasitology. His research work contributed much information of tremendous value to the fruit growers of this state. He perished of a fever contracted while in Brazil studying the life and habits of a pest known as the Brazilian fly which had succeeded in invading the territory of Hawaii. His wife died of pneumonia as a sequel to influenza contracted during the epidemic of 1918-19. She was a woman of great intelligence, probity and force of character and, like her husband, was held in the highest esteem here."

"We enclose herewith a photograph of Elmer Butterworth Clarke, which we succeeded in securing from a local photographer at a cost of $1.50, for which we would be pleased to have your remittance.

"Elmer Clarke was twelve years old when his father died. As is the case with most professors and particularly those in federal employ, Professor Clarke's salary was never commensurate with his ability. Also, he was careless in the matter of providing life insurance for his dependents, with the result that the care of his widow fell immediately upon Elmer."

"At twelve years of age, therefore, Elmer Clarke played his last game of bluff and became the sole and efficient support of his mother—a burden lightened somewhat by reason of the fact that Professor Clarke had left his widow a comfortable six-room bungalow on a lot of 100 feet frontage, on C street of this city."

"Elmer Clarke graduated from the Union high school here at the age of sixteen and was No. 1 on the honor list of ten pupils. He immediately went to work in a local fruit cannery, where the remuneration of employees is regulated by their industry. When the canning season closed he had three hundred dollars in the saving department of this bank. The following season he bought fruit, on commission, for various packing houses and proved himself an untiring judge of fruit values and crop tonnage."

"However, realizing the drawbacks of a seasonal occupation and faced with the necessity of insuring the care of his mother, he learned telegraphy in his spare moments and secured a position as assistant station agent in the local office of the Southern Pacific railroad. He had just been promoted to station agent at the outbreak of the World war. He enlisted at once and served with the Rainbow division as a radio sergeant, until October of 1918, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant. He was wounded twice and slightly gassed."

"For the three years following his discharge from the service, Mr. Clarke's health, due to his wounds and the gassing already referred to, was too precarious to permit of his acceptance of his old position as station agent at Muscatine. He therefore accepted a

*****

Stage Tragedies

The word "tragedy" is from Greek words meaning god songs. There are many explanations of the reason for this. Possibly "god songs" was applied to the chants used by the men, clothed in goat skin, who represented the satyrs in the festival of Bacchus.

Tragedy took its rise from these songs. The Greek developed it to a high point, especially in the dramas of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides. Aristotle gave as the reason for the existence of tragedy "the purification of the passions through the arousing of fear and pity."

*****

Mosquitoes Real Pest

So thick are the clouds of mosquitoes that swarm about Alaskan airplanes fields in late summer, that pilots have been forced to use smoke screens at times in order to take off for a flight.

*****

The Legal Heirs of Her Body

McPeake cut in professionally. (NO MORE CONTINUING.)

position of less responsibility and lighter duties as assistant to the proprietor of a local billiard and pool hall, with a cigar stand in connection with same.

"He has gradually recovered his health, and the last time the writer spoke to him on this subject, he stated that he was now as well as he had ever been."

"Mr. Clarke is a very ambitious young man, never satisfied with what he has, always scheming for something better. He is well and very favorably known in this city. As commander of the local post of the American Legion, he is a strong force for better citizenship in our community. He is profoundly interested in politics but too shrewd and far-seeing to desire a political office."

"Mr. Clarke is unmarried and there are no immediate prospects of this status being changed. He pays cash for everything and has a savings account in this bank of approximately twenty-five hundred dollars. At the present time he is endeavoring to negotiate with us a loan on his C street property, his object being to engage in business for himself. He is a member of the Rotary club, the Kiwanis club, the Hundred Per Cent club, the Optimists' club, the Advertising club and president of our local chamber of commerce. He is a Go-Getter and too big for this town and it is our opinion that he will leave it for wider and greener pastures. We regard him as a model young man and worthy of every confidence."

"Respectfully yours,

Pilardiotis Commercial Trust and Savings Bank.

By N. C. Cathart, Trust Officer."

Absohom McPeake looked up and caught a gleam of pride in old Butterworth's piggy little eyes. "Pretty flattering report, I should say, Mr. Butterworth."

"He takes after me," the miser asserted.

"God forbid!" said Absolom McPeake.

"Don't get nasty, Absolom. The boy takes after me, I tell you. A young fellow like that who knows the value of money is the man who ought to have my estate. He'll make it grow. He'll do things with it. I want to leave everything to him and cut Hattie's children off at the pockets."

"Very well, then, Elmer Clarke draws the capital prize. However, I suggest that you leave his cousins something also."

"Not a penny, Absolom. They're wasters, I tell you."

"Yes, we'll leave them five dollars each just so they'll be remembered in the will, and that will block a lawsuit."

"You bet, Absolom; I want you to make that will air-tight."

"Do you desire to make any other specific bequests, Mr. Butterworth?"

"Yes, five thousand to old Bunker. Only five thousand to old Bunker!" McPeake looked and felt surprised. "Why, he's been as faithful to you as a dog for a quarter of a century! I think you're a miserable ingrate to cut Bunker off with five thousand. You ought to give him fifty thousand at the very least. Get some other lawyer to draw your will. I'm through handling your business. You're a wolf. Get out!"

"No, you're not through. Now, Absolom, you hold your horses. You sit fresh with me and I'll name somebody else executor of my estate."

"Oh, so you want me to be your executor also, do you? Well, I don't want the job. Now, how does that strike you?"

"Absolom, you've got to accept the executorship. You're the one man I can trust."

"Well, I'll take it provided you leave Bunker ten thousand dollars."

"Very well, to please you, but not a cent more. That's final."

"We will not quarrel about it further. Any other specific bequests?"

The miser's gaze sought the carpet and it was evident now that he was embarrassed. "Absolom," he stammered finally, "I got a confession to make. Some forty years ago I had a farm in Illinois—I'll give you the full legal description later—and I mortgaged it to a man for forty thousand dollars. I wanted the money to put into the worst investment I ever made, and that was a Nevada silver mine—Consolidated Virginia. I bought stock with that money during the days of the big Comstock excitement. I could have sold out and doubled my money two weeks after I'd made the investment, but I held on and on, taking more and more profit—on paper—until that underground river busted into the Comstock lode on the two thousand-foot level and ruined the mine—and me."

"Well, I lost the farm. I couldn't repay the mortgage, Absolom, and after there was a flood and the Mississippi river changed its channel and ruined that farm, I didn't want to repay the loan. Of course the man who loaned me the money lost his forty thousand and the interest. He got a deficiency judgment against me, but I dodged it for twenty years and then his widow or his executor permitted the judgment to lapse—and—well, Absolom, I reckon I'd ought to have paid the widow that money. However, I didn't and now I want to fix it in my will so that every dollar, both principal and interest, due under that judgment to date shall be paid to the widow or—"

"The legal heirs of her body," McPeake cut in professionally.

(NO MORE CONTINUING.)

Corduroy Plays Chic Sports Role

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AND again fashion's pendulum swings to a favorite in days of yore. This time it is corduroy which is staging a conspicuous comeback, in that leading style creators of the present day are sponsoring it for their smartest spectator and active sports modes.

Once corduroy was heavy stuff that lumberjacks preferred. Now it has a social entree at the smartest functions. For lounging pajamas, for the utilitarian jacket suit, for sports coats, blouses, scarfs, bags and accessories in general it is corduroy which is finding its way into high places these days.

But the corduroy we speak of is corduroy with a difference. At most it is but a fifth cousin to the stalwart ribbed cotton fabric which once we knew. Soft, lightweight and with a velvety surface, the corduroy which is making appeal to the smart set of the now drapes with the easy grace and elegance that the modern style-wise woman demands.

It is good to see how gaily corduroy is "flying the colors." Such rich dark greens and beautiful wine tones as go to make up the wide range of bright shades as are in the landscape of the new winter corduroys. Black, too, if you so choose and the modish reds or if you prefer the subtle pastel tones and tints, just ask to see them, and then while your eyes are feasting on their loveliness, pause for a moment to consider the chic and the charm of the swanky white corduroy which its solid will be quite the rage for winter resort wear.

For coats and suits the wide wale corduroy is most popular. This type offers snug comfort especially where north winds "do blow," yet it drapes readily in the trim, wide-shouldered silhouette of Schiaparelli's woodensoldier models, which are so voguish just now.

For afternoon wear the softer, lightweight hollow-cut corduroy is favored. In this new weave the pile is almost flat, with the wale narrow and lustrous, giving the effect of velvet. For sports apparel several new kinds of narrow-wale velvety corduroy share the spotlight with the wider wale varieties. Ski suits, skating costumes, riding habits and spectator costumes use these weaves. Hinge corduroy with tiny wales just visible under close scrutiny is popular for street and sports wear.

Corduroy coats lined with lambs' wool or angora, which have been prominent in the football cheering sections, are now leading in the lineup for the Olympic games at Lake Placid. The coat shown to the left in the picture is of this swanky sort. It is of chocolate brown corduroy, lined with lambs' wool in natural tone. The nifty laced-across sports shoes which are fleecelined will banish cold feet from the cheering sections, while the handsome coat will guarantee smart comfort in even a way-below temperature.

Wide wale brown corduroy, combined with yellow angora, fashions the stunning spectator sports (clever for skating, too) model pictured to the right. A bolero jacket of the corduroy tops the turtle-necked angora blouse. A yellow and brown angora turban and shamols gloves complete the ensemble.

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

BRIGHT COLORS IN FAVOR FOR WINTER

Fashion has come out for color for winter wear—gray, vivid, brilliant colors, with red predominating. All shades of red from the rust and tangerine shades to geranium, cerise, apple red, a shade that used to be called American beauty, and down to the wine colors. Purple, also, is very smart. There are bright greens and soft greens. Blue is insistent and very bright. A blue which used to be royal blue now has a counterpart in banner blue.

These colors are seen in all types of dresses, beginning with the tailored dress with long sleeves in wear with the street coat. Afternoon dresses are particularly lovely in colors, and the bright-colored evening dress is gaining ground every day. A red evening dress is one of the things that make losing beauty sleep worth while. It is becoming to every one because whatever the color or type one can always find a shade of red that is becoming.

Whatever You Wear You Cannot Be Far Wrong

Suits and gowns this year the either classically plain or orientally rich in trimming.

The plain are enhanced by self drapings, intricate sleeve effects, cowl or scarf necklines, gathered, or pleated fullness in the skirt. The trimmed feature incrustations on the bodice, deep fur collars, cuffs, hip and hem edgings, or sleeves, half fur or half gold or silver embroidered crepe. Clips, buckles, buttons, ruchings of lace, edging of fringe, and bows and ashes are used.

Flowers, Lace Used to Adorn Satin Slippers

Dainty velvet and silk flowers and lace medallions are being used for decoration on the satin slippers worn with the formal tea gowns or pajama ensembles. One pair of flame satin with gold kid insteps had the toes covered with a heavy white lace pattern. It resembled an old-fashioned valentine.

SAILOR HAT IS "IN"

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Again we have the sailor hat in our midst. It returns as an exponent of the new narrow-brim types which are now so fashionable. The model pictured emphasizes a recent trend which trims felt with flowers. Most of these true chic notions are worn tilted. Advance midseason and winter resort straws include many sailors.

Feather Gives a Smart Touch to Hat and Frock

The feather points the way to smartness. Not only on the hat, but on the evening frock does the feather appear. Very new is an ensemble of white chiffon with a white satin coat, both feather trimmed. White ostrich shows petticoat fashion as a border beneath the semi-trailing hem. The jacket is fitted and flared with a fluffy collar of white ostrich.

Jackets Are Now Worn With Evening Gowns

Whether women as a class have revolted or not cannot be ascertained but the fact remains that they no longer consent to silver in evening gowns. There is a jacket with every other dress seen where smart people are gathering and many of these little nothingnesses are trimmed with bands of fur, which at least makes them warm looking.

The St. Joe News

Published at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

CORN SHOW AND CORN GROWERS BANQUET HELD DECEMBER 18, 1931

K. E. Beeson, Extension Specialist in Soils and Crops Department at Purdue University and Secretary of the Indiana Corn Growers Association acted as Judge at the Corn Show.

In the forenoon he gave a short talk on the 4-H corn club boys on methods of judging corn and various points necessary in corn to make a good exhibit. Judged corn in the afternoon.

Four major classes of corn on exhibit. Total 113 exhibits.

(1.) Rural school class had 8 exhibits. Jackson Center, Miss Margaret Kelly teacher won first prize which was indoor ball and hat.

(2.) Open class. (a) Ten ear sample of corn (any color.) 33 exhibits. First, Harry Shull; second, Wm. Boger; third, Perry A. Muhn. (b) Single ear. (any color.) 15 exhibits. First, Wm. Boger; second, Roscoe Taylor; third, L. N. Chapman. Prize ribbons only.

(3.) 4-Club class. (a) 1st Year. 10 exhibits. First, Kenneth Mertz; second, Russel Berry; third, Albert Drerup. (b) Advanced. 5 exhibits. First, John Stackhouse; second, Howard Emme; third, Harold Harnish. Prize ribbons only.

(4.) Chamber of Commerce 5-Acre Club. (a) Best ten ears of yellow. 15 exhibits. First, Lester Boger; second, Howard Emme; third, Albert Yoder. (b) Best ten ears white. 4 exhibits. First, L. N. Chapman; second, Orlo Deetz; third, Herman Pankop. (c) Best ten ears mixed. 2 exhibits. First, Darrell Carpenter; second, Harry Provines. (d) Best single ear. (any color) 21 exhibits. First, Woodrow Drerup; second, Howard Emme; third, John Stackhouse.

Winners of first in above classes receive $15.00 given by the Auburn Chamber of Commerce to apply on Educational trip to Purdue during the Agricultural Conference January 11 to 15.

Six similar trips are given on yield by the Auburn Chamber of Commerce. The winners of these trips are:

Herman Pankop, yield 156.2 bu. per acre; Karl Pankop, yield 144.5 bu. per acre; Floyd Dixon, yield 95.7 bu. per acre; Ollus Moughler, yield 85.1 bu. per acre; Orlo Deetz, yield 80.7 bu. per acre; Carl Carpenter, yield 71.9 bu. per acre.

Medals will be given to the following men in the county by the Indiana Growers Association for producing the yields necessary for such a medal.

Herman Pankop and Karl Pankop will receive gold medals for producing over 100 bushels of corn to the acre these men also automatically become members of the Indiana 100 bushel corn club.

Floyd Dixon and Ollus Moughler will receive silver medals for producing between 85 and 100 bushels of corn to the acre. Orlo Deetz will receive a silver medal for producing between 75 and 85 bushels of corn to the acre.

The annual corn growers banquet given by the Auburn Chamber of Commerce was held in the evening and was attended by approximately 150 farmers and merchants. Mr. W. C. McBride, president of the Chamber of Commerce acted as chairman. After a short address he turned the meeting over to Vern Sparks who acted as toastmaster. There was community singing. County Agent Myers expressed to the Chamber of Commerce the appreciation of the 5-acre corn club member for the generous awards and the sponsoring of the club. The winners of the show were also announced.

Toastmaster Sparks introduced Dr. K. E. Beeson who spoke on history of the 5-acre corn club. The coronation ceremony was

To the Spirit of Christmas

by Thomas Taylor

THOU spirit of Christmas, high and refined,
Enhancing the concepts of life,
Afar we should drift from our mooring, I ween,
Sometimes in the gloom of our strife.

Oh, but for thee, we'd oft lose the way
That Jesus has charted so plain,
And find ourselves in need of a star
To guide to its portals again.

Like Angels of light, percepts of the truth,
Are caught as we fondly admire
The deeds of this season when giving is rife
To even the meaneast inspire.

Our fears and our hatreds driven away,
We know for awhile the sweet peace,
The good will to men that ever will reign
When caviling and differences cease.

As back of our gifts each giver is seen,
So back of the giver art Thou—
That Spirit that e'en when ways are most dark
Will guide us to harbor somehow.

'Tis sweet just to dream and picture a time,
Tho' far in the future perhaps,
When Thou shalt hold sway, unhampered by sin,
Till millions of aeons elapse.

For sure as that star that once led to the place
Where in the rough manger of hay
In arms of the Virgin Mary a babe,
Who was to be King, calmly lay.

So surely the day will dawn very soon,
When Thou, the True Spirit, shall reign,
From east to the west, and man against man,
Shall take up the sword ne'er again.

(C. 1925, Western Newspaper Union)

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Mrs. Martha Forkner is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hursay called on Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Inlow Sunday afternoon.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Mrs. Howard Shilling spent several days last week at the home of her mother, Mrs. Barrows at Hicksville, who has been quite sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hatch and daughter of Fort Wayne and granddaughter of Spencerville were Sunday afternoon callers in the Mrs. Mary eBtz home.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Provines and family of near Butler were Sunday guests of Mrs. Flora Gee. Evening callers were Miss Lucille Gee and boy friend of Fort Wayne.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office.

For Rent: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 8 miles southwest of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio 4917.

Joe Woodcox sang a solo Sunday morning at the Presbyterian Church in Auburn and in the evening at 5 o'clock when the choir rendered their Christmas cantata he sang in a quartet number.

Merritt Sechler and mother, Mrs. Jennie Sechler, Mrs. Grace Dilley, Mrs. DeLora Curie and Mrs. Cora Curie called on Mrs. Marjorie Ramsey at the Irene Byron Sanatorium Sunday afternoon and presented Mrs. Ramsey with a shower of Heart Gifts for Christmas from the Ladies Literary Club. The guests found Mrs. Ramsey in good spirits and the doctor gave them very encouraging reports of her condition.

Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45¢.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway spent Monday afternoon in Auburn.

Mrs. Ruth Davis and Mrs. Amanda Coburn were among the sick of the past week.

For Sale: A St. Joe residence, for cash or monthly payments. Auburn Building & Loan Assn. 5117.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and ye editor and wife took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr, Gladys Reinhart, Lloyd Curie and Harvey Hull were Fort Wayne visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel and son, Dale, spent Friday at Butler visiting Will Brown and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey and sons, DuWayne and Earl were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baxter, north of St. Joe.

The Coburntown Aid met with Mrs. Cel. Hart Wednesday afternoon. Officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Abner Trostel; vice president, Mrs. Louis Washier; secretary, Mrs. Clyde Hart; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Wilder; flower committee, Mrs. Fred Hart. The next meeting will be at the church, January first, when this community will be entertained.

The will of the late Minnie L. Thompson of St. Joe, admitted to probate in the DeKalb circuit court, provides that a note of $1,750 given her by John Stamen and wife in 1928 in the sale of the Harvey Kimes farm should be returned to Mr. Kimes for his personal use. A diamond ring owned by the testator is devised to Mrs. Pluma Houser. The will was executed December 6, 1928, with Fred B. Leighty and Lora E. Leighty as witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and ye editor and wife took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr, Gladys Reinhart, Lloyd Curie and Harvey Hull were Fort Wayne visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel and son, Dale, spent Friday at Butler visiting Will Brown and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey and sons, DuWayne and Earl were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baxter, north of St. Joe.

The Coburntown Aid met with Mrs. Cel. Hart Wednesday afternoon. Officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Abner Trostel; vice president, Mrs. Louis Washier; secretary, Mrs. Clyde Hart; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Wilder; flower committee, Mrs. Fred Hart. The next meeting will be at the church, January first, when this community will be entertained.

The will of the late Minnie L. Thompson of St. Joe, admitted to probate in the DeKalb circuit court, provides that a note of $1,750 given her by John Stamen and wife in 1928 in the sale of the Harvey Kimes farm should be returned to Mr. Kimes for his personal use. A diamond ring owned by the testator is devised to Mrs. Pluma Houser. The will was executed December 6, 1928, with Fred B. Leighty and Lora E. Leighty as witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and ye editor and wife took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr, Gladys Reinhart, Lloyd Curie and Harvey Hull were Fort Wayne visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel and son, Dale, spent Friday at Butler visiting Will Brown and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey and sons, DuWayne and Earl were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baxter, north of St. Joe.

The Coburntown Aid met with Mrs. Cel. Hart Wednesday afternoon. Officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Abner Trostel; vice president, Mrs. Louis Washier; secretary, Mrs. Clyde Hart; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Wilder; flower committee, Mrs. Fred Hart. The next meeting will be at the church, January first, when this community will be entertained.

The will of the late Minnie L. Thompson of St. Joe, admitted to probate in the DeKalb circuit court, provides that a note of $1,750 given her by John Stamen and wife in 1928 in the sale of the Harvey Kimes farm should be returned to Mr. Kimes for his personal use. A diamond ring owned by the testator is devised to Mrs. Pluma Houser. The will was executed December 6, 1928, with Fred B. Leighty and Lora E. Leighty as witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull and ye editor and wife took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr, Gladys Reinhart, Lloyd Curie and Harvey Hull were Fort Wayne visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Trostel and son, Dale, spent Friday at Butler visiting Will Brown and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kinsey and sons, DuWayne and Earl were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baxter, north of St. Joe.

The News was printed early to reach its readers before Xmas.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young spent Saturday evening in Fort Wayne.

Coburntown Christmas program will be given Wednesday evening and the public is invited.

The News has sent in a number of applications for 1932 license tags and they are passing the state office, and many of the applicants will receive their old numbers again, in compliance with our request.

Christian ..... 120—$4.23

Legal Notices

SHERIFF'S SALE

No. 5231

In the DeKalb Circuit Court State of Indiana.
State, Ex Rel, Frank E. Lyon Auditor DeKalb County vs.
Daniel C. McCann, et al

By virtue of an Order of Sale, to me directed and delivered by the Clerk of said Court, in the above entitled cause, I have levied upon and will expose for sale by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the Court House Door, in said County, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock P. M., of the 16th day of January, viz:

Part east half, northeast quarter section eight, township thirty-three, Range fourteen. (14) east, containing seventy-six (76) acres, more or less, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

And on failure to realize therefrom the full amount of the judgment, interest there on and costs, I will at the same time, and in the manner aforesaid, offer for sale the fee simple of the above described premises. Taken as the property of the defendant to satisfy said order of sale.

JOHN P. HOFF,
Sheriff DeKalb County.
Henry C. Springer, Atty. 5113.

PROGRAM AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The following program will be rendered on Thursday evening at the Christian Church:

Song ..... Joy to the World
The Old, Old Story ..... Lena Meek
Prayer

Welcome ..... Robert Maxwell
Reading, "A Dreadful Dream,"

..... Maxine Woodcox
A Christmas Riddle

Reading, "Settled"

..... Rosemary Yelzer
Song ..... "Jolly Santa"

Reading, "A Christmas Gift,"

..... Helen Fay Curie
Dialogue, "Changing Styles"

Edith Stewart and Martha Coburn

A Christmas Acrostic

Solo, "Waiting for Santa"

..... Iris Willmot
Reading, "Christmas Eve,"

..... Vivian Murphy
Playlet, "Ousting Sam Grouch"

Playlet, "The Christmas Radio"

Dialogue "Is There a Santa Claus?"

Used Cars

1931 Model A Ford Tudor.
1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1929 Model A Ford Roadster.
Chevrolet Roadster.
Chevrolet Touring.
1924 Model T Ford Sedan.
1928 Model T Ford Sedan.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio

Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and
Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

The Sun Shines Brighter Every Day For Folks Who Spend Wisely and Save

At least it seems that way to the Thrifty. Theirs is the happy comfort of knowing that they have the means of conquering Adversity and accepting Life's Opportunities as they come! CAN YOU SAY AS MUCH FOR YOURSELF?

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank

Spencerville, Indiana

Dr. Bonnell M. Souder HOSPITAL

206 WEST SEVENTH STREET

AUBURN'S NEW MODERN FIRE PROOF INSTITUTION
NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC AND ALL PHYSICIANS

Private rooms may be obtained for $17.50, $21.00, $25.00
$30.00 and $35.00 a week

Equipped with all modern conveniences with beds of the new crank style and closets off each room, laboratory and X-ray facilities.

MRS. BURDGE, a registered nurse, is in charge of the hospital

Dr. BONNELL M. SOUDER, will make outside calls on her Father's patients as well as her own.

GREETINGS!

THE GAY AND HAPPY SEASON OF FEASTING AND MERRY MAKING, THE TIME WHEN PEACE AND GOOD-WILL INHABIT EVERY HEART, TIME WHEN GIFTS GLADDEN BOTH DONOR AND RECEPTOR IS HERE, AND WELCOME. OUR THOUGHTS ARE PLEASANTLY DIFFUSED WITH MEMORIES OF PAST HOLIDAYS—AND IN ECSTASIC REALIZATION OF THIS PRESENT JOYOUS YULETIDE—WE EXTEND TO YOU THE GREETINGS OF THE SEASON.

GEDDES' Drug Store

THE REXALL STORE
BUTLER, INDIANA

SPENCERVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dwyer were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Maurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perkins of near Harlan were Monday guests in the Joel Betz home.

The C. C. Club will be entertained on Wednesday, December 30 at the home of Mrs. Ethel Bowser.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ulm and Fred Ulm, wife and children were Sunday guests of Mrs. Mary Ulm.

The Lutheran Sunday School elected officers on Sunday morning as follows: superintendent, Roscoe Walter; assistant, George Beams; secretary, Virgil Laux; assistant, Helen Hursh; treasurer, Frank Baltz; chorister, Dorothy Markle; pianist, Mrs. Josie Baltz.

Mrs. Jane Butler is at the home of her sister, Miss Bina Boots, assisting in household duties.

Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser were Sunday afternoon guests of I. C. Bowser, Sr., and family of near Cedar Chapel.

The Silberg garage recently changed hands. Messrs. Frank Butler, William Erick and Merritt Butler are the new owners. They have retained Dave Baughman in their employ.

The Rayo class of the M. E. Sunday School met recently and elected officers as follows: President, Mrs. Frances Chapman; vice president, Lena Zimmerman; secretary-treasurer, Hazel Steward.

The Ladies Aid society of the Lutheran Church was entertained on Wednesday in an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Lizzy Wearley and daughter, LeAnna Steward. A pot luck dinner was served.

Mrs. Princess Rectenwall very pleasantly entertained the Cheerful Workers class of the Methodist Sunday School at her home on Thursday in an all day meeting with dinner served at 12 o'clock. A contest was won by Mrs. Berdeen Beams of Fort Wayne. The guests were Mrs. Berdeen Beams and Mrs. Fannie Beams of Fort Wayne. The class officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Alice Watson; vice president, Mrs. Ethel Bowser; secretary, Mrs. Minta Rhodes; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Lochner; teacher, Mrs. Florence Bogar; assistant, Mrs. Ethel Bowser.

The Methodist Sunday School elected their officers for the year on Sunday morning as follows: superintendent, M. H. Howey; assistant, Mark Tyndall; secretary, Lynn Fisher; assistant, Alice Baker; treasurer, Mrs. Hazel Steward; pianist, Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner; assistant, Miss Mary Wade; chorister, Miss Frankie Allen; assistant, Miss Florence Steward; librarians, Betty Jane McClellan, Eva May Culbertson, Phyllis Tyndall and Dorothy Keller. Superintendents of departments: Home department, Edwin Guthrie; cradle roll, Mrs. Rebecca Behninghoff and Mrs. Gertrude Smith; temperance, John Koch. Teachers: Class No. 1, Mrs. Gertrude Smith; assistant, Mrs. Mary Guthrie; No. 2, Mrs. Florence Bogar, assistant, Mrs. Ethel Bowser; No. 3, John Koch; No. 4, Edwin Guthrie; No. 5, Mr. Appleman; No. 6, Mrs. Cleo Reed; No. 7, Miss Mary Wade, assistant, Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner; No. 8, Mrs. Golden High.

CONCORD

Mrs. Mary Kriese and Mrs. Hattie Draggoo were Butler shoppers on Saturday.

Ford Jackson completed the remodeling of the Vince Steman home last Friday.

On last Wednesday Mr. Lloyd Draggoo and family were shoppers in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. John Fetter, L. G. Fetter and family and Mrs. Fred Keller were recent shoppers in Butler.

Miss Iris Jackson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins to Fort Wayne last Saturday shopping.

Mrs. Chas. Morr, daughter, Miss Cleota and son, Ellsworth, were among the Fort Wayne Christmas shoppers Saturday.

Jay Fetter, who has been a patient at the Sanders hospital for the past three weeks, was able to be brought home last Friday. He was weak and tired when he arrived home, but is getting along well so far.

Ecstacy's One Value
Ecstacy is the anesthetic which nature gives us to deaden the pain of being a fool.—Herbert Shofield.

Dime a Day Is Baby Star's Pay

ALTHOUGH five-year-old Dickie Moore is now a full fledged moving picture star, making more money than lots of men, he goes to school like any other boy of his age and finds reading, writing and arithmetic much harder than acting before the camera. Dickie spends three hours every week-day during the winter in the Little Red Schoolhouse on the movie lot and sometimes, when no pictures are in production, he is the only boy in his class. He regards the movies as a sort of game, much more fun than school. He gets a dime every day he works well and a new toy whenever a picture is finished, which pleases him immensely. Dickie is making his radio debut in one of the forthcoming programs of the Radio Newsreels of Hollywood which will feature the film lot schoolhouse. And when he grows up and is through school this young star says he wants to be a garbage man so he can wear white gloves.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

Due to the absence of the speaker for our Tuesday morning Chapel, the High School practiced Christmas Carols for Thursday's program.

Christmas Programme

Orchestra
Song by School
Trio, Florence Steward, LaNora Laub, and Ether Hahn
Boys' Chorus
Reading ..... Alice Hart
Piano Duet, Helen Mason and Mildred McNamara
Harmonica Solo ..... James Butler
Play ..... Eighth Grade
Solo ..... Loren D. Laub
Duet, Isabel Chapman and Edith Wade
Reading ..... Mildred Carnahan
Girls' Chorus
Piano Solo ..... Alice Baker
Reading ..... Margaret Walter
Stunt by Teachers
Song by Juniors
Orchestra

The pupils of the primary room will have their Christmas exchange Thursday afternoon.

There are Christmas trees, beautifully decorated, in each room in the building this year.

The girls of the Home Economics Department have invited their mothers to a little Christmas party on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the school house. A short program is to be given and light refreshments will be served.

School will close Thursday for the usual holiday vacation. Classes will begin again on January 4, 1932. Until then A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year to all.

A Christmas Story — adapted

A long time ago, on the night before Christmas, a little child was wondering alone through the streets of a great city.

No one seemed to notice him except Jack Frost, who hit his bare toes and fingers.

Home after home he passed looking with longing eyes through the windows where glad, happy children were helping to trim Christmas trees for the morrow.

"Surely," said the child to himself, "where there is so much gladness some of it may be for me." So with timid steps he went up to a large, fine house. He rapped at the door. It was opened by a footman who looked at the child for a moment, then shook his head and said, "Go down off the steps. There is no room for such as you here."

As the child turned back into the cold and darkness, he wondered why the footman had spoken so. But he was to receive the same kind of treatment time after time this evening.

Finally he came to the end of the street and went up to a window from which the light came. Within sat a lovely faced mother with one child upon her knee and an older one beside her.

"What was that, mother?" asked the child by her side.

"I think it was some one tapping on the door. Run quickly and open it, for the night is bitter cold."

The child ran to the door and threw it open. The mother drew in the ragged little stranger and put her arms around him. They warmed him, and fed him, and gave him some clothes.

Later they lighted the Christmas tree, but so busy were they that they did not notice the room was filled with a strange light. Then they looked with wonder upon the child. With a sweet smile he looked upon them for a moment, then slowly rose and floated out of sight.

"O mother! It was the Christ Child, was it not?" and the mother said in a low tone, "Yes."

And so they say each Christmas eve the little Christ Child wanders through some town, and only those who take him into their hearts and homes ever see this wonderful vision.

Spencerville basket ball schedule for the rest of the season:

Jan. 29, LaOtto	.....Here.
Feb. 6, Waterloo	.....There.
Feb. 12, Harlan	.....There.
Feb. 18, Hamilton	.....There.
Feb. 19, Auburn	.....Here.
Feb. 26, Leo	.....Here.
March 4, LaOtto	.....There.

COLOR PRINTING

Increases the pulling power of any printing job. We are equipped to handle color printing quickly and satisfactorily.

We mean it when we say
MERRY CHRISTMAS
AND A
HAPPY NEW YEAR
Farmers & Merchants State Bank

A Faded Summer Love

Leaves come tumbling down, Round my head, Some of them are brown, Some are red, Reproduced by permission of the copyright owner.

I WAS very skeptical when some one told me that Phil Baxter, composer of "Piccolo Pete" had authored a ballad of great promise. Two more widely divergent songs can scarcely be imagined. But the reputation of this talented Kansas City bandman, achieved with "Piccolo Pete" proved to be enhanced by this second effort, for "Faded Summer Love" is certainly a beautiful song, and one that is rapidly capturing nationwide popularity.

It has an unusual idea, well developed lyrically, and a lovely, flowing melody. Soon after I heard it, I was one of the first to use it on the air. Since I first sang it on my Cremo program, I have had hundreds of requests to repeat it. This is especially remarkable, inasmuch as listeners don't usually entreat over a song until they have heard it several times. "Faded Summer Love" has only been in circulation a few weeks, and already it's passing other favorites with a rapidity that's a bit amazing, even in these days of over-night hits.

In singing or playing this number I take the tempo fairly slow, but anyone performing it has to be careful not to "drag" the tempo, for it has a melody that loses some of its effectiveness if the springing quality of its rhythm is lost.

Sometimes, when I start to select my "Song of the Week," I have a hard time deciding, but this week it's easy—"Faded Summer Love."

Reviewed by
Benj. Crosby

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Nations and Games in Flowers

"Nations and Games in Flowers," will be the subject of the tournament of roses on New Year's day in Pasadena. The pageant will portray the coming Olympic games with floral floats, and is being announced, in the photograph, by six pretty Pasadena girls.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Butterscotch Squares.
Cook one-fourth of a cupful of butter with one cupful of brown sugar until smooth and well blended. Cool. Add two unbeaten eggs and beat well. Add one-fourth of a package of dates, one-fourth of a cupful of nut meats, one-half cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla with a fourth teaspoonful of salt. Mix and spread in a pan lined with heavy waxed paper. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes. Remove from the pan and cut in squares when cool.

Raisin Cookies.
Stew two cupfuls of raisins and chop fine. Cream together one cupful of butter with two cupfuls of sugar, add two well beaten eggs, the raisins and two tablespoonfuls of sour cream, one tablespoonful of grated nutmeg, two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon, two teaspoonfuls of soda, with flour enough to make a soft dough. Bake carefully for they burn easily.

To Improve the Steak.
Dip steaks before broiling in good corn or other vegetable oil, they will be much more tender and a delightful brown. Add a pinch of asafetida to

Traffic Cop Cuts Phone Call Time

Chicago.—Thomas F. Zapotocki, a traffic policeman stationed for the last six months at Monroe street and Wabash avenue, makes a routine report to a police operator every hour. His conversations over the patrol box phone used to run like this:

Zapotocki—This is Zapotocki.
Operator—Who?
Zapotocki—Zapotocki.
Operator—I didn't quite get that.
Zapotocki—Z-a-p-o-t-o-c-k-i, Zapotocki!

One morning Policeman Zapotocki went before Judge William J. Lindsay in the Superior court with a petition to change his name. In the afternoon he made his "pills" as follows:
"This is Zapp."
"O. K." sang the operator.

The Children's Corner

EDITED BY DOROTHY EDMONDS

Happy Moon Legends

Strong Heart's Tears.
Once, many suns and moons and snows ago, Na-quill was dying over the earth on business.
Na-quill was supposed to take care of the rain, but some one else had started a stream of water in a valley. So Na-quill was in his golden eagle suit and he flew fast.
He found Strong Heart sitting on a mountain crying. "What is the matter, little one?" asked Na-quill.
Now Strong Heart was not little. He was such a good-sized boy that he could step over a mountain in one step. Na-quill only called him that because Strong Heart was his son.
"I—I am lonely," said Strong Heart, and kept on crying.
"How silly you are!" said Na-quill. He did not like to see Strong Heart keep on crying. Sometimes Strong Heart's tears were making a small lake.
"How can you be lonely? There are many, many children to play with," said Na-quill after a moment.
"What games can I play with them?" asked Strong Heart, looking up.
"Oh, many games. Hide-and-go-seek!" answered Na-quill, giving Strong Heart an eagle feather on which to dry his eyes.

"I can't play hide-and-go-seek with the other boys and girls. I am too big to hide behind a tree, and when I hide behind a mountain they do not want to climb it to look on the other side," and Strong Heart started to cry again.
"Well, let me see," said Na-quill.
"Let me see. Why don't you make a teeter-totter?"
"I made a nice teeter-totter," said Strong Heart, "and they wouldn't play on it. They said it was too high." He pointed to a long rock that lay across a tall rock. Then he started to cry once more. Balancing rock it is called today, but once it was Strong Heart's plaything.
His tears made a large lake.
"True, true," said Na-quill. "I can see that ordinary boys and girls will not do for your playmates.
"You want some one who will step over mountains.
"You want some one who can teeter-totter on the tallest rocks.
"Your playmates must be beautiful.
"Hmmm, it seems you want the Moon."
"That would be nice, Na-quill," said Strong Heart. "There is a new moon

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

by WALTER TRUMBULL

Dr. Hartley B. Alexander, noted philosopher and author, has been visiting New York. He told me of a man and his wife he heard arguing on the brink of the Grand canyon. It seems the man was a contractor, and that he was bent on demonstrating to his skeptical better half that the canyon could be filled up, and estimating the number of truck loads of stone and dirt that the job would require. To those who have seen the place, it would appear that the man was taking in a lot of territory.

Two women on a bus were talking so loudly that one couldn't hear the other. "Well, yes, the days are hot here. Yes, some of the nights are hot there, too. But my son wouldn't think of living anywhere else. And it is a great town for business."
"What is your son's business?" inquired her companion.
"He is an undertaker," said the woman, "and once he got five jobs in one night."

These doctors of philosophy and science tell some funny stories. When Dr. A. V. Kidder of Carnegie Institution was doing some archeological work at Pecos, New Mexico, tourists used to stop and evince great curiosity in the operations. They asked all sorts of unusual questions. One day, in the midst of such a conversation, a man said:

"My name's Spiderwhistle. What's yours?"
"Kidder," replied the archeologist.
"Gee!" said the man. "What a funny name!"

It was at another site that Doctor Kidder was down in a trench, excavating a skeleton. When a skeleton is perhaps 500 years old, work of excavation has to be carried on with the most minute care. Doctor Kidder was engrossed in his work when he suddenly became conscious of a tourist peering at him intently from the ground above.

"Did he die there?" asked the visitor breathlessly, "or did he fall in?"

An author who had been called to Hollywood actually met one of the heads of the movie firm for which he was supposed to be working. He asked him what he thought of his story.
"You should excuse me speaking out," said the magnate. "I think it is terrible and lousy."

"That's all right," said the author. "I always have heard you were a great fellow for innuendo."

Corey Ford, author of several books and a very prolific all around writer, is highly incensed. A publisher, of whom he had never heard, wrote to him saying that he had happened to see an article of Mr. Ford's in a magazine and that if he ever wrote anything else he would be glad to consider it.

There is a woman whose one parlor trick is her ability to imitate perfectly the cries and gurgles of a baby. But where she has the most fun with this accomplishment is in a sleeping car. She has the porter and other travelers searching the place for the supposed infant in distress.
(© 1931, Bell Syndicate)—WNU Service.

SAVE REHEARSING

She—The booking agent said my act would be a wow if I could get a guy to act dumb. Will you join the act?
He—Why me?
She—It would save a lot of rehearsing.

Hawks Predicts 10-Hour Trans U. S. Flights

Los Angeles.—Within a year the record between Los Angeles and New York will be clipped to ten hours, Capt. Frank Hawks, America's premier speedster of the skies, predicted. Hawks aspires to set a ten-hour record and intimated he is seeking a plane with a cruising speed of at least 220 miles an hour and preferably 240 to 250 miles.

Coeds Take High Rank as Sharpshooters

Coed sharpshooters at the University of California at Los Angeles on the rifle range starting practice for a series of telegraphic matches with other colleges in many parts of the country.

Racing Drivers in Dead Heat, Given Same Fine

Kansas City, Mo.—Two motorists, accused of racing through downtown streets, were brought before Judge Thomas V. Holland.
"Who won the race?" his honor asked.
"It was a tie," the arresting policeman answered. Neither driver protested the decision of the officer of the law.

Fines, therefore, should be equal, the judge commented, and the race should be run again. So he gave each driver five days and told them to compete again, this time in a wheelbarrow race at the municipal rock quarry.

My Neighbor Says

CHASED silver may be polished by brushing it thoroughly with whiting, then washing with a little turpentine and soap. Polish with chamomile.

If you do not use a double boiler, oatmeal or any other article of food should scorch, set it immediately in a vessel of cold water. Let it stand five or ten minutes and the scorched taste and odor will disappear.

A slice of bread in the doughnut box will keep your doughnuts soft and light.

Much of the bamboo furniture is improved by washing with cold water and soap. The wicker furniture of the unstained variety should be scrubbed regularly with the brush. And if kept clean, in this way it will maintain its state of beauty and usefulness much longer.

If a can of paint has to be left open, stir it thoroughly, so as to dissolve all the oil, then fill up with water. When it becomes necessary to use the paint pour off the water and you will find it as fresh as when first opened.
(© by the Associated Newspapers)—WNU Service.

Find Gold Ring in Snake Killed in Clothes Box

Axtell, Kan.—To discover a snake in a clothes box and later find a gold ring in the reptile was the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Conable. Mrs. Conable found the snake when she put her hand in a box to take out some clothing. Her husband killed it, then cut it in pieces. A flattened ring fell out of the body. It was brought to a jeweler to have it rounded.

Fish Had Human Teeth

Pecos, Texas.—Sheriff E. B. Kiser is exhibiting a mounted fish with two teeth resembling those of a human being. He said he found a dog dragging the fish near the Pecos river.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Not Much of a Shower"

THEY tell a story that while Noah was building his ark, he was visited daily by one of his neighbors who would come to spend a playful half-hour having fun with the queer old man's preparations for a great flood.

It came to pass, however, that the rain did fall, and how! And old man Noah, looking out of his huge craft, saw his scuffer holding on to one of the projections of the ark, his chin barely above the water, begging to be taken on board.

Noah, according to the story, spent a playful half-hour having fun with the queer scuffer's preparations to get on board finally refusing him admittance, whereupon the man swam off exclaiming:

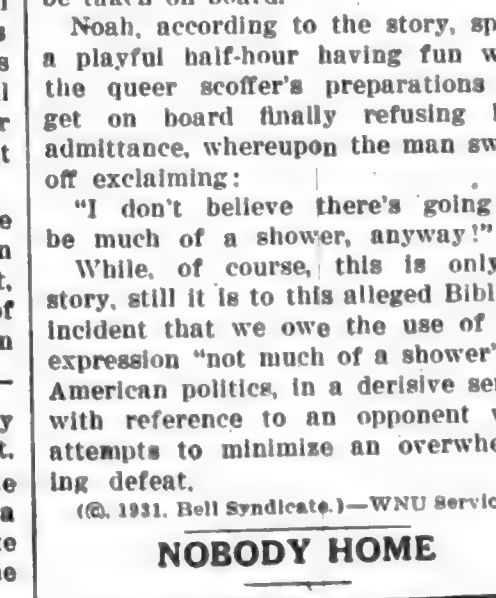

"I don't believe there's going to be much of a shower, anyway!"

While, of course, this is only a story, still it is to this alleged Biblical incident that we owe the use of the expression "not much of a shower" in American politics, in a derisive sense, with reference to an opponent who attempts to minimize an overwhelming defeat.

Na-quill frowned.
"This is no place at all for a lake. Let me see. There are mountains all around the lake. No use to tip the earth up to let the lake run out. Na-quill stuck a finger in and tasted. "Hmmm, salty, just as I thought. I'm afraid, Kee Yay, we will have to leave this salty lake here."

And to this very day there is a lake of salty water—ah! I have not finished. Hear, then, of the finding of Happy Moon—later on.
(Copyright)—WNU Service.

NOBODY HOME

He—Let's go into this cafe and get something to eat.
She—It's closed, dear, the proprietor must be out. Don't you see the sign, "Home Cooking!"

Kills Pain and Heals

It kills pain while it heals; because it penetrates into the wound. If you have Pain in Back, Cold in Head, Cough, Sore Throat, Earache, Piles or know of a wound on man or beast that will not heal, try ZMO-OIL.

35¢ at Drug Stores
If you have never used ZMO-OIL we will gladly mail you a free sample bottle. Write M. R. ZAEGL & CO. 631 New York Ave. SHERBOCAN, WIS.

Shortleaf Pine Ideal

The shortleaf pine, while not so fast-growing as some of the other southern yellow pines, has been found to be one of the most satisfactory trees for reforestation purposes. The trees grow well on poor and abandoned land and on uplands. It requires about 30 years for a tree to reach its maturity, but at that time the tree will average well over 60 feet in height and will have a diameter 4 feet from the ground of about 9 inches. The wood, being soft, is adaptable for many building purposes and is easily worked.

As many as 500 dominant trees per acre can be found in a good stand of this species, which makes the acre yield well worth while.

Fireplace Outside

One Kentucky home owner has reversed the usual procedure of having a fireplace inside a room. He has built a fireplace on the outside of his house. The old-fashioned fireplace in its new-fashioned setting is seen in an outer wall, affording heat for an open portico during early spring and late autumn. Inside is a modern heating plant.

STOP YOUR COLD IN 6 HOURS WITH
DAROL
Breaks a cold in 6 hours. Drives it away in 12 hours. Relieves Headache—Neuralgia—Pains.
A JACKSON PRODUCT 25¢ AT ALL DRUG STORES

CHICAGO'S MORRISON HOTEL

Madison and Clark Streets

Every room in the Morrison Hotel is outside with bath, circulating ice water, bed-head reading lamp and Servidor. Garage facilities.

LEONARD HICKS
Managing Director
2500 ROOMS $3.00 UP

RONEY PLAZA hotel

• Innovations this year include reductions in room rates and a la carte dining service...club breakfast at 60c to $1...served in your room...and the Cabana Club luncheon at $1.50, without sacrificing the highest quality of America's finest ocean-front hotel.
K. B. T. RONEY, Pres.
Open from Thanksgiving Day

MIAMI BEACH FLORIDA

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

ARIZONA'S Development

Odd Formation in Monument Valley, Arizona.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—N.G.S. Service.)

ARIZONA, youthful state of the Southwest, where yesterday bandits chased bouncing stage-coaches and wildcat calls and Indian warwhoops echoed across sage-brushed plains and barren hills, now is a land of modern cities with airports, golf links, western skyscrapers, fertile farms and thickly populated cattle ranches.

Although it was not admitted into the Union until 1912, Arizona has drawn from the cumulative experience of other states in politics, education and industry.

Years after the Chicago fire Apaches still scalped settlers in Arizona. Philadelphia saw the Centennial close before a railway crossed the Yuma desert, and Europeans by millions had migrated to our shores when Arizona boasted barely as many whites as New York now has policemen.

Dewey had sunk Montezuma in Manila bay and old Chief Geronimo was selling signed pictures of himself for ten cents each at the St. Louis World's fair when Arizona had barely emerged from her long social penitence of round agents, gold seekers, and fugitives from eastern justice.

Yet Spaniards had settled here, bringing the first cattle seen on our continent, introducing new plants, and teaching Pimas and Hopis to be better farmers, before the first English settlements were made in our eastern states. Tucson was old when Daniel Boone cut his name on a tree in Tennessee where he had killed a bear. In 1848, when the United States expedition lifted up the cross at the Grand canyon scarcely 50 years after Columbus reached America.

Across Arizona Kearny led his army to California and Forty-niners fought their hard, hot way. Kit Carson battled here and Lieut. E. F. Peelle made his famous experiment with imported camels as pack-animals in the Southwest—until infuriated prospectors shot the camels because they stamped their burros. But killer Indians, the difficulty of hauling in goods, and preference for California kept colonization down. As late as 1850, all the whites in Arizona probably numbered less than 5,000.

Railways Drought Advancement. Then Civil war. From it Arizona received a further setback that lasted until railways finally came, hauling in mining machinery, and judges, law books, and locks for jail doors. Thus, after years of neglect, the nation that owned the territory gave it law and order.

Arizona's white population, not including Mexicans, has increased by 600 per cent since the Spanish-American war and its wealth has multiplied many times. Lonesome cow trails were changed to crowded motor lanes, and million dollar hotels flung their splendor where "dobe huts and desert skies were long man's only shelter.

Now, to see modern Arizona whole, look hastily at its map spot and at high lights in its astounding past. Under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1848, the United States acquired land only as far south as the Gila river; by the Gadsden purchase, in 1854, it received the rest of that terra incognita later called Arizona territory.

A few studious Americans, delving in early Spanish chronicles, learned that explorers like Cabeza de Vaca and Coronado, and early missionaries like Father Kino had found here "rivers with banks three leagues high" and mines rich enough to yield a silver nugget so heavy that two mules were lashed together to carry it! From beaver trappers, too, who had ventured down the Colorado, tales of Arizona's scenic wonders, and especially of its warlike Apaches, had been brought back. But to most Americans practically nothing was known of Arizona; it was too hard of access.

This inaccessibility, the character of the country itself, and its savage inhabitants kept Arizona for decades the most backward of all our territories.

Early Stage Lines.

Buying Arizona was folly, Eastern people said; its arid wastes were useless. Yet surveys began to show that, for all its evil deserts, it had big rich spots of much value; also, now that it belonged to us, we were free to make roads across it, to tie up Texas with southern California. Yet for twenty years after the Gadsden purchase Arizona communicated with the outside world largely by water. Ships ran from San Francisco to the mouth of the Colorado, river, via the Mexican ports of Mazatlan, La Paz, and Guaymas.

A semi-monthly mail and passenger stage line was started in 1857 from San Antonio to San Diego; but at times it cost the government $35 to carry each letter! A year later the historic Butterfield stages began running between St. Louis and San Francisco. An early writer says: "This was one of the grand achievements of the age, to span the continent by a semi-weekly line of stages, under bonds to perform, by sole power of horseflesh, a trip of nearly 2,500 miles within the schedule of 25 days."

It was the trek of people from the South to the West after the Civil war that began to give Arizona population. Previous to that white men saw little of it, except the regions about Tucson, the Gila Bend, and Yuma, which lay along the Forty-niners' trails.

Today passengers on fast trains through Arizona complain if the shaver in the club car is not cool, or if the barber's razor is dull.

But look out of the window. Those brush-grown mounds are graves of Apache victims. The sufferings of such pioneers from heat, hunger, and thirst, from Apache torture, were almost without parallel in the history of human enterprise. Arizona really began to grow up with the development of her mines by Americans.

Quest for gold first brought white men here. Legendary gold-mined temples of Cibola lured Coronado. He didn't find a golden Cibola. But for generations Spain helped pay the huge cost of her glittering European armies with gold and silver from Arizona and Sonora mines.

From the Tough Nut, the Glory Hole, and other claims, incredible wealth was taken, before a subterranean river drowned the miners out.

Vast Fortunes in Copper. More than $100,000,000 worth of copper has been taken from one Arizona mine. Fears that when mines were worked out Arizona might decline in wealth and population have been allayed since the World war. There are two reasons: First, the increase of farm settlers under new irrigation projects; second, discovery of ways to mine and smelt copper at lower cost.

Where low-grade copper ore occurs in great masses near the top of the ground, as at Bisbee, miners simply blast and use steam shovels. More than 1,000,000 tons of rock have been broken by one "shot."

One can grasp the size of Arizona's mining industry when it is known that the state employs more than 25,000 men and digs each year 675,000,000 pounds of copper, 17,500,000 pounds of lead, 6,000,000 ounces of silver, and $5,000,000 in gold. The annual mineral output sells for more than $100,000,000.

Irrigation in this region is old. Corn, beans and squash were watered by gravity ditches centuries ago. Mormons from Utah, settling near where Phoenix now is, made use of prehistoric canals. All over Salt River valley men dig up stone implements, relics of ancient farmers.

It seems quite natural, then, that here America's modern irrigation policy should have been first tried out on a big scale. It was here with the Roosevelt reclamation service made its first big experiment, begun in 1903. It worked.

Today there is the great Yuma project; the big new dams at Horse Mesa and Mormon Flat; and the new multiple-dome Coolidge dam, on the Gila river, near San Carlos. At present about 4,400 Pima Indian farmers, with 50,000 acres, are the chief beneficiaries. But, to make the project practical economically, it also waters an equal area owned by white farmers near Florence and Casa Grande.

Under her new irrigation projects, Arizona's greatest economic need now is for more farmers with capital to live on until they make crops. But always, where the last irrigation ditch ends, the hard, hot, thorny desert begins.

DIVING ROBOTS MAY BE USED TO INSPECT LUSITANIA WRECK

New Device Found Great Aid in Salvage Work.

Brest, France.—Facts concerning the sinking of the Lusitania may depend, oddly enough, upon the world's greatest treasure hunt, now a realized dream off the storm-tossed coast of Brittany.

Sixty fathoms down, using mechanical robots, a group of Italian divers are bringing to the surface $5,000,000 in gold from a point off Armen light, near Douaenez. The spot, in marine terms, is latitude 48° 45' north, longitude 5° 30' west. The story of the gold was a ghastly tragedy of the sea.

On the evening of May 21, 1912, in thick sea fog off the coast of Finistere, the British ship Egypt of the Peninsular and Orient line, was rammed and sunk by the French cargo steamer Seine. Nearly a hundred of the passengers and crew of the Egypt were drowned.

The next day it was learned that 40 tons of gold bars had gone down with the Egypt. It was marked down as "lost gold" in marine records. But Italian divers decided to try their hand at salvage. A special diving machine was developed, a marvelous contrivance by which a diver, inside a steel tube, can go to depths undreamed of in early days. The tube carries its own oxygen and lights and is an undersea observation station.

With this the divers began searching under water for the Egypt—and found it, 390 feet down, 30 miles off Nantant. Then began the work of salvage. In the safe of the Egypt's captain they found the key to the bullion room—the steel closet in which the gold was packed. But the rusted lock refused to budge. Then came the test.

By almost superhuman efforts and giant cranes the steel roof was ripped clear off the bullion room and the great treasure, sought since 1929, lay exposed to salvage. Without difficulty the gold was started upward to the deck of the salvage ship Artiglio, where it will lie until brought to the mainland.

But of more importance than the treasure hunt, the greatest ever held, is the work of the steel tube by which it was located. For by this means, it is believed, divers may view the hull of the sunken Lusitania and answer once and for all the claim of a submarine attack which precipitated America's entrance into the World war.

Transparent Model of Body to Be Seen at Fair

Milwaukee.—A transparent model of the human body, said to be the only one of its kind in the world, will be a part of the medical exhibit at the Chicago World's fair in 1933. Dr. Eben J. Carey of Marquette university has revealed. Doctor Carey, who is in charge of the medical exhibit, found the model in Dresden, Germany.

Tells of Time Railways

Employed Smoke Signals

Denver, Colo.—Railroad signal systems have traveled a long way since engineers sent up a smoke screen to let the other fellow know the track was in use, but, then, so has P. A. Weldeman.

Weldeman, pilot of the Columbine, Denver-Chicago limited, has been riding in an engine cab for thirty-two years.

"We had to use Indian methods of signaling for safety," Weldeman said. "We'd make the old fire box belch up a smoke cloud that could be seen for miles."

"If anyone else was using the track, he would take the hint and clear it." After thirty-two years of riding, the veteran engineer declared there was such about life one could learn from railroading.

"Every man is his own engineer," he philosophized. "He goes down the track of life and has to observe the go ahead as well as the danger lights."

He maintains there still is a career in railroading for the young man, but said it was not a learn in ten lessons proposition.

Pens Note to Unborn Son; Commits Suicide

Detroit.—Preparing to end his life in a cell, Roy Bonathan desired his child should learn that he had erred. So before he drank poison, preferring death to ten years' imprisonment, Bonathan wrote a note to his wife. It was found pinned to his shirt.

"If our child be a boy, please name him Roy and tell him of his daddy's mistake," Bonathan wrote. He died before jailers got him to a hospital.

BAD BOY'S PRANK PROVIDES KEY TO NEW SUN-LIGHTING SYSTEM

Device Provides Both Light and Heat.

Paris.—A bad boy's prank has proved the key to a worthy invention, according to Jacques Arthurs, who conceived a new sun-lighting system from his own youthful misdeeds.

Flashing a piece of mirror about in a sunny window to land a glaring light in teacher's eye or in Sally's slate gave young Jacques an idea that may make him a millionaire.

If a tiny piece of broken mercuric glass could make such a bright spot in a dark room, then why couldn't a large piece of mirror in the same sun light up a large surface of a dark room? That was the theory upon which the young inventor went to work.

The finished product, as it has been installed in the newspaper plant of "L'Intransigeant" by its author and inaugurated recently by Louis Rollin, minister of commerce, is called the Arthel. It is a simple combination of mirrors and lenses and lights the interior of the building with a phosphorescent glow.

From a skylight on the roof of the central stairway solar rays are projected down the six flights and reflected back from a mirror bowl on the ground floor, acting as a fountain. Smaller, angled mirrors on each floor catch the strong descending rays and flash them back along the ceiling of corridors or rooms.

"After the original installation of the two huge mirrors in the roof there has been turned down at recruiting posts.

When General Hayes was wounded and not expected to live, he ordered Johnson to return to Pittsburgh with the body in case he died, and remain there. General Hayes died and Johnson returned to Pittsburgh with the body, but immediately returned to the front, where he served as a drummer boy.

Johnson died in 1880 without having his name officially enrolled in the war records. His family will seek to have that honor accorded him now.

Find Skull of Dog 10,000,000 Years Old

Berkeley, Calif.—University of California scientists have just gathered evidence that a primitive form of dog, the "Borophagus Littoralis," the skull of which was about 8 inches in length, was living in California about 10,000,000 years ago. The skull, which was found at Crocker Springs, represents not only the earliest fossil of the canine family found in the West but is a new species not yet reported elsewhere.

Old Tag Puts Civil War Vet's Name in Records

Springfield, Pa.—A half century after his death the name of a Pennsylvania Civil war veteran, who served as a messenger and drummer boy during the four-year struggle, is to be written in the official war records.

A rusty identification tag found in Frederickburg, Va., led to the identification. The tag bore the name, "Jos. Johnson, Co. H, 68d Regiment, Penn. Vol. War of 1861."

When the War department checked its records the name was missing. The real identity of the soldier remained hidden until Burgess I. W. Johnson, Springfield, learned of the tag and recognized the name as that of his father.

Johnson served as a messenger boy for Gen. Alex B. Hayes after he stowed away on a troop train carrying soldiers from Pittsburgh to Washington. The boy was twelve then and

One Pig That Didn't Get to the Market

Rochester, N. Y.—The widely known children's rhyme, "This Little Piggy Went to the Market," etc., had a parallel in real life, thanks to Policeman Charles Beardsley. The porker in this story, a 60-pounder, was bound for the market, all right, but enroute he fell from the truck.

Beardsley captured the pig and returned it to the owner.

Unmanned Boat Drifts Back to Save Fisherman

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Percy Buell, local storekeeper, had a fish story to tell, and if it hadn't been true he might not be alive today, he asserted. Buell, according to his story, was pulled from the motorboat in which he was fishing for bonito by a huge fish.

Thrashing about in the waves, endeavoring to remove his clothes, Buell was about to give up all hope when his unmanned boat swung towards him, guided by currents. As it went by he climbed aboard.

Stamps Sword Swallower

East Liverpool, Ohio.—Even sword swallowers can't swallow everything. William Bertram, who claims to be a former sword swallower in a circus, almost choked to death with he substituted the wire handle of a fly swatter for a sword while exhibiting his talents.

Legion Post Gets a Historic Flag

Jack Boly, prominent hotel man of Paris and host there to thousands of American Legionnaires, as he arrived in New York bringing a historic flag for presentation to the Fort Dodge (Iowa) post of the Legion.

KILL COLD GERMS

NAVAP

NASAL VAPOR

Clears head instantly.

Stops cold spreading.

Sprinkle your handkerchief during the day—your pillow at night.

50¢

AT ALL DRUG STORES

"Dew of Death"

Lady Cynthia Mosley, wife of the insurgent member of the British parliament and daughter of the late Marquis Curzon, told an audience of young people at Coventry that the next war will "finish civilization."

She said that scientists have developed a new chemical known as the dew of death and that a teaspoonful of this explosive dropped over a city would kill a million people. Enough dew of death could be carried in a lady's handbag to absolutely raze the entire city of London, so she says. Chemical warfare experts derided the idea.—Pathfinder Magazine.

When your MIND feels SLEEPY

Inactive bowels cause inactive minds. Don't let sluggishness and a heavy tired feeling get the best of you. Drink that concentrated feeling away with a cup of fragrant Garfield Tea. A simple, natural, good old-fashioned remedy. Garfield Tea consists of pure, fragrant, utterly harmless herbs.

At your druggist's

GARFIELD TEA

A Natural Laxative Drink

Seek Lost Atlantis

To discover lost Atlantis is the mission for which H. H. S. Challenger is being outfitted. A pencil will automatically trace on a scroll of moving paper the gradient of the ocean bed as the ship steers across the area where a submarine mountain is alleged to be, about 250 miles north of the Azores. A report made to the admiralty in 1850 contains a chart showing a shallow patch of 48 fathoms, surrounded like an island by depths of 1,200 fathoms and the like. An attempt will be made to definitely prove or disprove the report.

MENTHOLATUM

Open stuffy nostrils, soothe irritation by use of Mentholum in nose. Rub briskly on chest to improve blood circulation and prevent congestion. Jars and rubs 30c.

CHECKS COLDS

More Grief

Blinks—I see a vest pocket cracker that can sustain life for several days has been produced.

Jinks—Huh! I wonder if that means wives won't even come home from bridge parties in time to open cans for the evening meal?

PROMOTES HEALING

HANFORD'S Balsam of Myrrh

Dangerous

"I've always believed in looking out for number one."

"Yeah."

"And since my wife became that number one I'm more careful than ever about looking out for number one."

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Easy to Remedy

Mother—I guess my beauty has faded.

Daughter—Well, you can borrow my vanity case.

One Soap is all you need for Toilet Bath Shampoo

Use

Glenn's Sulphur Soap

Contains 33 1/2% Pure Sulphur. At drug stores. Robinson's Egyptian Cotton, 25c.

Sunshine

—All Winter Long

At the Foremost Desert Resort of the West—marvelous climate—warm sunny days—clear starlit nights—dry invigorating air—splendid roads—gorgeous mountain scenes—finest hotels—the ideal winter home.

Write Grace A. Oberway

PALM SPRINGS California

W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 51-1931.

PAGE EIGHT

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, December 24, 1931

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Rom. 6:23.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
The young people will have charge of the Christmas program to be given on Christmas eve at the M. P. Church, presenting a pageant entitled, The Holy Night.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Children's Service at 6:45 P. M. with Mrs. Harriett in charge.
Evening sermon at 7:15 by the pastor.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
Morning message at 10:00.
V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
A Christmas pageant, "The Star Came" will be given at the Lutheran Church on Christmas Eve.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE
Willard Hurns, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Letters to Santa

Spencerville, Ind.
Dec. 9, 1931

Dear Santa Claus,
I am seven years old.
Please bring me a tri-cycle and a foot ball.

Your friend,
Roger

Spencerville, Ind.
Dec. 9, 1931

Dear Santa Claus,
I am six years old.
Please bring me a foot ball and a bicycle.

Your friend,
Calvin

Spencerville, Ind.
Dec. 9, 1931

Dear Santa Claus
I am six years old. Please bring me a tri-cycle and a doll.

Your friend
Evelyn

Spencerville, Ind.
Dec. 9, 1931

Dear Santa Claus,
I am seven years old.
Please bring me a story book and a doll bed.

Your friend,
Marcille

Spencerville, Ind.
Dec. 9, 1931

Dear Santa Claus,
I am six years old. Please bring me a doll and a tri-cycle.

Your friend,
Jeanne

Dear Santa Claus,
I'll please take a doll-cart. I like you. Send it North to Santa.

Gloria Jane Zonker.

Dear Santa Claus
I'll please take an Electric-iron so I can iron for my mother Tell Miss Santa to wrap it nice for me.

Christine Zonker.

Dear Santa
I wish you would bring me a cowboy suit, three books, some water colors, and a graveltruck.

I wish you would bring me some candy, nuts and oranges.

Franklyn Sechler.

Dear Santa Claus:

I am a little boy five years old, and I've tried to be a good boy. I would like to have a green wagon and a tricycle, but Daddy says you can't bring both, so I want the wagon. And I'd like some candy and a ball, please.

Affectionately yours,
Dean Franklin Cox.

St. Joe, Ind.
Dec. 21, 1931.

Dear Santa

I am a little boy 4 years olds. I want a tractor with light on a monkey that run up the wall and electric train and lots and lots of nuts and candy.

Your friend,
Richard Shilling

St. Joe, Ind.
Dec. 19, 1931

Dear Santa:

Please bring me a desk and a little car.
Russell wants a tricycle and a little car too.

That is all
your little friends,
Robert and Russell Ridgway

St. Joe Ind.
Dec. 20-1931

Dear Santa I want to tell you to bring me a pair of over shoes and a belt, a sled an airplane and a little dump truck lots of candy nuts and oranges and please don't forget to bring my little sister Jeanne something good bye from your little friend

Jimmy Hatch

Dear Santa,

I am a little girl four years old. I want a pr Skates, Blackboard, and a Big Doll and an Electric train and Dont forget my little Brother Jack. He wants a dog and a little Cart with wheels on. Please dont forget us Your little Friends April and Jack Bowser

St. Joe Ind.
Dec. 1931.

Dear Santa.

I am a little girl three years old. I want a Big Doll and an Electric Train. and a tricycle. I am staying down to Grandpa George's. So don't forget me. Your little Friend,
Barbara Mohnney.

St. Joe, Ind.
Dec. 1931.

Dear Sandy Claus:
Well its near Christmas so guess I'd better get my letter sent out or you won't get it. I dont wan much this year. Jus a doll, electric train, tractor, and a car that runs.

Bring me lots of candy and nuts.

Your little friend
Samuel Eugene Gee

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.

Frank Tustison.
W. J. Staman.
J. N. Scholes.
Hattie Widney.

PURELY PERSONAL

Read the Ads in this issue.
You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

C. E. MCCLINTOCK
Attorney at Law
City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

The Romance on the Tree

by Martha Banning Thomas

HER eyes were blue
And her cheeks were pink,
She was dressed in the latest style:
Her hair was curled,
And in all the world,
She had the prettiest smile.

His eyes were black,
And he wore a coat
Of vivid, beautiful red,
His shoes were shined,
And he looked refined
From his toes to the top of his head.

"I wonder if he Could care for me."
She thought with a gentle sigh,
"He looks so trim,
I'm fond of him,
And his collar stands up high."

He glanced her way
As if to say,
"I wish I could get nearer;
For at every glance
You do entrance
My heart . . . and but grow dearer."

So there they hung
On the Christmas tree,
A doll and a soldier-boy,
And they longed to know
Each other so
With a wistful kind of joy.

At early dawn
On Christmas morn
A child came down the stair,
"I'll marry," said she,
"Those two on the tree,
For they'll make a handsome pair!"

(C) 1931, Western Newspaper Union, Inc.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

CULTURE CLUB

The Christmas meeting of the Culture Club was held at the home of Mayola Kinsey, Wednesday evening, December 11th.

Twenty members and three guests, Lucille Smith, Pauline Miller and Jean Ridgway, assembled at seven o'clock in the beautifully decorated living room of the hostess. After a short business session, the program committee, Neva Hursh, Esther Bowman and Floy Smith, took charge and presented the following program:

Christmas Carols, conducted by Esther Bowman.

Solo . . . . . Lucille Smith
Christmas Story, "When Father Christmas was Young," by Catharine Bowser.

Reading . . . . . Jean Ridgway.
Four contests followed the program and prizes were awarded Alice Ridenbach, Catharine Bowser, Minnie Pepple and Cora Price.

The exchange committee, Minnie Pepple and LoDema Curie then invited the ladies in to meet "Santa." After proper salutations were offered "St. Nick" a Christmas auction was conducted by LoDema Curie. Each lady left the room with a beautiful gift which happened to be her lucky bid.

Coming back to the living room from the "auction sale" the ladies were seated at prettily and appropriately decorated small tables.

The hostess then served a delicious lunch with her usual culinary and artistic skill. The lunch consisted of ribbon sandwiches, cranberry salad, pickles, cake and coffee.

The ladies departed at a late hour, wishing the hostess, the members and the guests, a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

L. L. C.

Last Wednesday evening the Ladies of the Literary Club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Belle Woodcox. It was the annual Christmas party. The rooms were very tastefully decorated in the Christmas colors, of red and green.

After a piano prelude by Lela Northrup, the guests enjoyed an inspiring Christmas pageant, "Heart Gifts," in which Belle Woodcox, Grace Dilley, Jennie Sechler, Violet May, Katie Storer, and Maggie May took part.

A humorous reading "The Night after Christmas," was given by Grace Dilley. Belle Woodcox and Lela Northrup conducted several clever contests.

The paper, "How Christmas is Observed in other Lands," by Belle Woodcox proved interesting. Under the direction of Violet May each guest wrote asking for three gifts, which they desired for Christmas.

In order to receive the full amount of physical exercise necessary to enjoy the rest of the evening, the ladies had to cross the room, each in a different manner.

A delicious two course luncheon was served. The guests were seated at small tables with red and green crepe paper. At each place was a small candle favor. The first course consisted of Escalloped chicken, Christmas package salad, beet stars and hot rolls; the second course, angel food cake, pecan roll ice cream, candied grapefruit and coffee.

Instead of the usual gift exchange, the gifts were all sent to Marjorie Ramsey, an L. L. C. member, who is ill.

The committee in charge of the evening was DeLora Curie, Maggie May, Jennie Sechler, Violet May, Belle Woodcox, Grace Dilley, Lela Northrup and Katie Storer.

Principle of Justice

The love of men, derived from self-love, is the principle of human justice.—Rousseau.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS 1931

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

25 ANNUAL SALE

FARMERS NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

Brighten Up!

for the Holidays

You'll need a supply of Edison MAZDA Lamps for the holidays—white inside-frost to brighten up your home, colored lamps to decorate inside and outside the house. Buy them before the Christmas shopping rush.

Incidentally, if you've never brightened up with light for the holidays, you'll be surprised at how cheaply you can "dress up" your home with Edison MAZDA Lamps.

Lower in price than ever before, Edison MAZDA Lamps are the last word in using current economically.

Come to us for Edison MAZDA Lamps, in all sizes, in all colors. For practical lighting use, or for decoration, these good lamps are unsurpassed.

20¢ each
35¢ 40¢ and 60¢ watt sizes

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

St. Joe News Office

Money to Burn

By Peter B. Kyno

Elmer Clarke had money to burn, and there were plenty of people willing to hand him a match. Here is a sprightly, stirring tale of how you have it; now you lose it; now you find it again—maybe. It's Peter B. Kyno, America's great story teller at his very best.

New Serial Starting in

ST. JOE NEWS, DEC. 24

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG

At Your Local Dealer

The News Office

Ask to See It

Russel R. Reidenour

Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

Extra

ST. JOE NEWS.

Edition

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 21, 1931

NUMBER 51

ANNUAL PEST HUNT SWINGS INTO ACTION.

The Fish and Game club met on Wednesday evening of this week, to arrange for the annual pest hunt which, in connection with the banquet which is awarded the winning team, is a feature looked forward to each year with interest by the members of this live and awake organization.

As the president could not be present at the appointed hour, the secretary got the meeting going by appointing a committee of three, consisting of Clarence Hart, Lester Coburn and Morris Hollabaugh to decide the question of points to be awarded for the killing of the following pests:

Sparrows	5 points
Rats	25 points
Mice	5 points
Crow	50 points
Hawk	100 points
Owl	100 points
Starling	10 points
Chucks	50 points
Moles	10 points
Red Squirrel	10 points

To count the points, on the last day of hunt, the following named persons were chosen: Clarence Hart, W. W. Gruesbeck, Frank Leighty and Lester Coburn.

The president having arrived at the meeting continued by adopting a method of choosing the members of the competitive teams which was satisfactory to all.

Harry Smith and Roy Keller were appointed Captains of the two rival teams. We herewith publish a partial list only, as all entrants must have paid in their dues before being entered as eligible to the hunt. The list to date, to be supplemented by additional members, until Christmas Eve, is as follows:

Captain, Harry Smith

Harry Kees
Russel Tustison

Ivan Griffith
Richard Wiers
Robert Wiers
Walter Gruesbeck
"Jim" Stewart
A. B. Durfee
Willard Hurni
Clarence Hart
Emory Smith
William Staman
Morris Hollabaugh
Delbert Furnish
Charles Timmerman
Grant Baltz.

Captain, Roy Keller

Harry Laux
Wm. Hamilton
Clayton Hathaway
F. B. Leighty
Ralph Sechler
Jay Bleeks
Fred Hull
John Coburn
Lester Coburn
Wm. Keeler
Wilbur Yeiser
Frank Leighty
Dale Hurni
Robert Johnston
Ed Storer.

The hunt begins on Christmas morning and ends on the eve of January 1st.

The losing side is to serve supper and program to the winners. Thursday evening, January 7th. Discussions in regard to the territory to be hunted over, seems to disclose the fact, that most members are alive to the value of confining their activities locally, as this is supposed, and rightfully so, to be of much good to our communities of St. Joe and Spencer-ville, in ridding it of noxious pests, that are a menace to the crops, and useful and harmless animals and birds we wish to have about us.

Our Fish and Game club is alive, and those who attended the fish fry given by them a short time ago, cannot even think of it,

THE NIGHT BEFORE—

REV. C. E. REDIGER TAKES BROTHER'S PLACE

(Reprint Community Progress) The Rev. C. E. Rediger, secretary and registrar of the Marion College at Marion, has been appointed successor of his brother, the Rev. B. E. Rediger, who died recently, as pastor-evangelist of the Fort Wayne Gospel Temple. The board of the Gospel Temple made the appointment and it has been accepted by the Marion pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Rediger assumed his duties with the interdenominational congregation Sunday, December 20, and will preach each Sunday until he assumes full charge of the work about January 10. He will maintain his work at Marion College until that time.

"The work of the Fort Wayne Gospel Temple will be conducted in the same manner that my brother, the Rev. B. E. Rediger, founded it," the new pastor-evangelist said.

Forset Wedditt, who for several years assisted the deceased pastor-evangelist, will continue as first assistant to the Rev. C. E. Rediger, the board decided.

The Rev. Mr. Rediger has been affiliated as an official of Marion College since 1924. He was first secretary and bookkeeper at the institution and about five years ago was made secretary and registrar.

He was born at Gridley, Illinois, and for six years was bookkeeper at the Meadows State Bank near Gridley. He then entered the ministry of the Mennonite church, and for three years served as assistant pastor of the Gridley Mennonite Church. He then went to Bluffton, O., where he was associated with the Mennonite Church for six years, the first two years as associate pastor and the last four years as pastor. He was at the Bluffton, O., church from 1918 until 1924, at which time he accepted the position at Marion College. While in Marion, the Rev. Mr. Rediger has reached before various congregations.

He has served during the last year as chairman of the Defenseless Mennonite Conference. He was vice-chairman of the conference for four years before becoming chairman, and for three years affiliated with the Mennonite church, his work at the Gospel Temple in Fort Wayne will be interdenominational, the Rev. Mr. Rediger asserted.

The minister received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Marion College in 1928. At present he is working on a Master of Arts degree in Theology at the college and will receive that degree in the spring of 1932.

Rev. Rediger is well known here having spoken at the local Mennonite Church on various occasions.

EASTERN STARS HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION

(Reprint Community Progress) At the annual election of the Eastern Stars, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Worthy Matron, Rose Murphy. Worthy Patron, Albert Lantz. Associate Matron, Mae Lantz. Associate Patron, Ed Brandon. Secretary, Anna Emma. Treasurer, Anna Zeis. Conductress, Dora Huter. Associate Conductress, Viola Place.

Initiation will be held in two weeks.

IS UNDER ARREST

(Reprint Community Progress) Henry Delagrang, Jr., of near Grabbill, was arrested by the local deputy sheriff, Ray Knisely, in Ft. Wayne Thursday forenoon, December 17, in Ft. Wayne. Delagrang who had appeared in court about a year ago on account of an automobile accident due to drunkenness and reckless driving was out on probation and now was arrested on a charge of child neglect. He was given a hearing Monday, December 21, and pleaded not guilty. His trial has been set for January 18.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young will go to Milton Center this evening to be the guest of the latter's mother, Mrs. Schreff for Christmas.

Jaunty Snap Brims or Conservative Homburg

THEY'RE all here in one of the finest displays we have ever shown. This is emphasized in one great selection, including all the wanted styles and colors at a feature

PRICE OF

$3.50 - $5.00

Derbies, too, in the more Rounded Crowns

$3.95

McBRIDE'S

AUBURN, INDIANA

without their mouths watering. Ask any one who was there.

We feel assured from past performances that this hunt is going to be another humdinger and lots of fun for the local nimrods of this, and neighboring communities.

MRS. MARY BAILOU PASSED AWAY TUESDAY

Mrs. Mary Ballou, 82, of Huntertown, well known Allen county resident, died Tuesday night of senility. Mrs. Ballou was a member of the Methodist Church at Huntertown where she was an ardent worker. She gained county-wide recognition last August when she took a pleasure ride in an airplane at a Fort Wayne airport. She had ridden in about every type of travel known in the country. Mrs. Ballou was also known for her ability to walk long distances. At the age of 75 she walked from Huntertown to Fort Wayne.

Two children are left, Miss Lillian Ballou, who is a nurse at the Irene Byron Sanatorium, and Judge Ballou, who is well known in this vicinity. Mrs. Ballou and family were very good friends of the Buckingham.

It has been reported that bees are busy making honey.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Perks and son, "Bill," of Newark, Ohio, are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baltz.

James Rhodenbaugh left Wednesday for Detroit, where he will visit with his daughter, Mrs. Elmer Hart, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham and Mrs. Frank Atkins and family will enjoy their Christmas dinner together at the Atkins home.

DR. LIDA LEASURE DIES AT AUBURN HOME

Dr. Lida Leasure, one of the most widely known residents of Auburn, died Monday night at her home at 350 West Seventh Street. The end came at 8:15 o'clock, the result of paralysis.

Dr. Leasure, age 81, had been sick since October 4th. While attending a guest meeting of the Ladies Literary club of Auburn, she became ill and was removed to her home. The same night she suffered a stroke of paralysis and until the time of her death her condition continued critical.

Dr. Leasure was very prominent in school affairs, being a teacher for years as well as county superintendent from 1911 to 1917.

She was laid to rest Wednesday afternoon in the Woodlawn Mausoleum.

THE FUTURE LOOKS BRIGHT SAYS STUMP

"The time is shortly at hand when we shall see a better and brighter day in the business world," Capt. W. D. Stump declared in an address to members of the Auburn Rotary club Monday evening.

"The year that we have gone through has not been a particularly liberal Santa Claus," Capt. Stump stated. "However, I believe that most of our troubles are more imaginary than real. There is now every indication of a turn about in business affairs and I predict the greatest prosperity we have ever known."

School closed Thursday for the holidays and at noon a pot luck dinner was greatly enjoyed by the faculty, pupils and friends.

Why spend the winter in the south?

In a few places home grown strawberries have been on the market.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Beyers and children of Butler called on friends here Thursday.

Roscoe Coburn of this place is working in the Fort Wayne post office during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland of Auburn were recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Koch are on the sick list. Their granddaughter, Mrs. Vera Rosenberry has been caring for them.

Mrs. Floyd Barkey has been on the sick list for the past week, but is able to be about the house at the present. Miss Fern Ward is assisting with the household duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster Stout of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney of Columbia City, will be the guests of their mother, Mrs. Alice Copp for dinner on Christmas Day.

Mrs. Carrie Harman is at the home of her son, William Harman, and is confined to her bed. Mrs. Harman has been suffering with high blood pressure and is in a critical condition.

HAD FOX CHASE

(Reprint Community Progress) Sam Platt and his two sons, near Yoder, with several local hunters, and two dogs enjoyed a real "fox chase" last Friday. They were successful in getting two foxes that has escaped from the Hoosier Silver Black Fox Farm some time ago. The hunters covered a great territory in their "hunt" but reported it to have been great sport.

Expenditures Continued from Page Four
J. W. Camp, Trustee, Poor relief	126 18
F. E. Rhodes, Trustee, Poor relief	59 65
O. M. Foote, Trustee, Poor relief	67 95
Harry Inhoff, Trustee, Poor relief	77 63
Benj. O. Shook, Poor relief	62 00
J. E. Foltz, Poor relief	4 25
Zonker's Store, Poor relief	32 83
F. R. Bowman, Adm., Poor relief	2 00
Nathan Grain Co., Poor relief	10 16
E. R. Kinsey, Poor relief	20 47
S. O. Devitt, Trustee, Poor relief	568 88
I. E. Barker, Trustee, Poor relief	84 54
John L. Weaver, Trustee, Poor relief	133 78
Sherman Meek, Trustee, Poor relief	49 41
Children's Aid Society of Indiana, Orphan Poor in other inst.	591 25
White's Indiana Manual Labor Inst., Orphan Poor in other inst.	276 00
Willis Snyder, County drain expense	12 00
Irene Byron Sanatorium, Irene Byron expense	183 57
Congressional Twp. Revenue Fund, School fund deficiency	99 65
J. E. Sweet & Son, New bridge expense	500 38
Wm. Martz, Assessing Keyser Twp.	50 00
E. O. Likens, Assessing Union Twp.	1 09
Albert I. Lumm, Erroneous tax	14 40
O. E. Donley, Erroneous tax	25 50
Auburn Courier, M. F. Long high const.	7 96
Auburn Dispatch, C. O. Griffin high const.	15 00
Wm. B. Burford Printing Co., M. L. Ault high const.	221 40
E. E. Turner, Gravel road repair	104 00
Lester Casselman, Gravel road repair	104 05
C. P. Martin, Gravel road repair	10
Central Market, Gravel road repair	1 25
Dan Smith, Gravel road repair	6 00
John A. Chittenden, Gravel road repair	6 00
C. U. Bowers, Gravel road repair	10 75
Hemmerling Hardware, Gravel road repair	85
Little's Hardware, Gravel road repair	10 85
Tri State Sand & Gravel Corp., Gravel road repair	35 00
Garrett City Coal Co., Gravel road repair	8 00
E. H. Barley, Gravel road repair	104 00
Carl Houser, Gravel road repair	13 50
James Smith, Gravel road repair	6 75
T. A. Worman, Gravel road repair	6 00
E. R. Burnison, Gravel road repair	6 00
Clarence Houser, Gravel road repair	10 00
W. T. Schowe, Gravel road repair	3 75
Oscar Fulk, Gravel road repair	104 00
Fred Rehnig, Gravel road repair	10 00
Olus Everhart, Gravel road repair	6 00
Bert Campbell, Gravel road repair	5 00
Adam Royal, Gravel road repair	3 75
Chancy Baxter, Gravel road repair	4 00
Ralph Harding, Gravel road repair	7 50
Hamilton Hardware, Gravel road repair	25
Wm. Keeler, Gravel road repair	104 00
L. J. Likes, Gravel road repair	4 00
L. J. Draggoo, Gravel road repair	4 50
Grant Baltz, Gravel road repair	5 00
Vern Coburn, Gravel road repair	20 00
Glen Kinsey, Gravel road repair	20 00
Harvey Hull, Gravel road repair	7 50
Russel Griffin, Gravel road repair	6 25
Charley Woodcox, Gravel road repair	6 25
Roy Koch, Gravel road repair	14 50
Geo. Snider, Gravel road repair	12 50
Wm. Henley, Gravel road repair	6 00
C. H. Sailor, Gravel road repair	6 25
St. Joe Filling Station, Gravel road repair	2 95
Clayton Keeler, Gravel road repair	1 25
Frank Bechtell, Gravel road repair	1 25
Harp Leighty, Gravel road repair	11 25
Elmer Jones, Gravel road repair	104 20
Wm. McCann, Gravel road repair	12 50
Wm. Johnson, Gravel road repair	12 25
Herbert Wilson, Gravel road repair	12 25
Tom McDonald, Gravel road repair	3 75
Ivan Farmer, Gravel road repair	1 50
Cleve Bevers, Gravel road repair	2 00
Virgil Devers, Gravel road repair	1 25
Boyd Jennings, Gravel road repair	5 25
Lewis Keller, Gravel road repair	2 50
Ralph McCollough, Gravel road repair	7 00
C. F. Kaiser, Gravel road repair	2 00
Wm. Mitzfeld & Sons, Gravel road repair	1 15
Bracy & West, Gravel road repair	1 60
Silberg-Jenkins, Gravel road repair	75
Moreland Oil Company, Gravel road repair	4 65
Theo. Hunt, Gravel road repair	1 65
Bruce Gurtner, Gravel road repair	4 75
Jack Johnson, Gravel road repair	104 00
Fred Rosenberry, Gravel road repair	104 00
Auburn Auto Top Co., Gravel road repair	2 50
Ernest R. Steward, Gravel road repair	104 00
Henry Zitman, Gravel road repair	3 75
Frank R. Bowman, Gravel road repair	6 25
Day & Son, Gravel road repair	36 80
Geo. Likens, Gravel road repair	4 50
Bert Hoat, Gravel road repair	25 35
B. L. Renner, Gravel road repair	15 00
James Stansbury, Gravel road repair	9 00
J. E. Sweet & Sons, Gravel road repair	25 00
E. E. Turner, Gravel road repair	3 25
William K. Schaab, Gravel road repair	40 00
Herbert C. Willis, Gravel road repair	11 25
Mossman Yarnell Co., Gravel road repair	43 89
Noble Motor Truck Corp., Gravel road repair	16 98
Arnold Link, Gravel road repair	10 00
H. C. Hoodelmier, Gravel road repair	6 55
R. A. Wilkes & Co., Gravel road repair	4 61
Wm. Currie, Gravel road repair	213 55
Root Spring Scraper Co., Gravel road repair	25 50
Gillette's Auto Service, Gravel road repair	8 25
Auburn Hardware Co., Gravel road repair	11 67
Brandon Lumber Co., Gravel road repair	3 30
Lake Service & Sales, Gravel road repair	1 25
Frank Zirwes, Gravel road repair	8 00
Auburn Machine Works, Gravel road repair	20 10
Auburn Water and Light, Gravel road repair	5 66
S. & L. Gravel Co., Gravel road repair	3 380 60
John Bonecutter, Gravel road repair	14 00
John Reeves, Gravel road repair	25 35
Murriel Wilson, Gravel road repair	97 80
Auburn Sand & Gravel Co., Gravel road repair	800 00
Wm. Benninghoff, Gravel road repair	200 00
Thacher's Automotive Service Co., Gravel road repr.	344 89
Dr. W. W. Schwartz, Salary Health Commissioner	93 41
Dr. W. W. Schwartz, Health Com. office expense	38 00
Dr. W. W. Schwartz, Health Com. other expense	10 00
COURT ALLOWANCES
Daniel Herrick, Meals for Jury	$13 00
Auburn Printing Co., Printing bar docket	$49 20

HOUSE AUTHORIZES LARGE SUM TO PREVENT FORECLOSURES

Hogg Opposes Sales Tax

(Special to St. Joe News)

Washington, Dec. 22 — The House of Representatives Saturday authorized 100 million dollars to prevent farm foreclosures by the Federal Farm Loan Banks. Congressman David Hogg supported the measure. In an address to the House he pointed out that state, local and national taxes had increased to 12 billion dollars per year and that two-thirds of local and state taxes were raised by an antiquated direct property tax.

"There are," said Mr. Hogg, "30 billion dollars worth of non-taxable securities. Bonded indebtedness of states and other subdivisions have increased at the rate of a billion dollars a year since 1921. Two-thirds of the money raised annually by the national government goes to pay the expense of war, of which 988 million dollars this year is for veterans' relief. The total per capita tax, local, state and national, is one hundred dollars per person."

GRABILL

Alvin A. Gerig left Sunday noon for New York City in the interest of the Hoosier Silver Black Fox Farm. He expects to return the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Yoder and Mrs. Marvin Geiger of Fort Wayne were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Schlatter at dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Klopfenstein entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. David H. Gerig and sons, David, Jr., and Jimmy, and Miss Hazel Klopfenstein all of Fort Wayne and Mrs. Lydia A. Gerig and daughter, Frances.

Peter Rupp of Archbold, O.; John Amstutz of Fort Wayne; Henry Amstutz, Fred Kamholz and Otto Stucky all of Berne; Levi Schlatter of Wapakoneta, O.; William Randall of St. Joe, and Noah Stucky of Warren attended a business meeting of the Hoosier Silver Black Fox Ranch, Inc. held at this place Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snyder spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Snyder and son, Richard.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Tilbury expect to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Tilbury at Ft. Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Schlatter of Wapakoneta, O., spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Eli Sommers and family.

Miss Ruth Wolford of Roanoke, Ind., spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Iven L. Klopfenstein and family.

Bert Frieze, who underwent an operation at the Methodist Hospital in Fort Wayne Monday afternoon is getting along as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Priester and son, Dannie Dean of Zanesville, spent Friday evening and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Woods and daughter, Vivian.

Clarence Snyder of Columbus, O., is spending the Christmas vacation with his sister, Miss Helen Snyder at Leo and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Snyder and family near Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roth and family entertained at dinner Sunday Rev. and Mrs. Henry Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Noah E. Roth and daughters, Geraldine and Maxine, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Schafer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lake, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lake and sons, Russell, Stanley and Paul Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lake of Ft. Wayne were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Witmer.

Bernell Klopfenstein, who is a student at Manchester College at North Manchester returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Klopfenstein, Friday, to spend his Christmas vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Ackerman and son, Bobby, of Marion, Ind., are spending their Christmas vacation at the homes of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. Sol Klopfenstein and daughter, Orpha.

We Do

STATIONERY

PRINTING

on

HAMMERMILL

BOND

Cheer and Good Fellowship

May cheer and good fellowship prevail for you this Christmas. May your hearts ever be lighted with the beacon of loyalty which has let us call ourselves your friends.

ST. JOE FILLING STATION

Elmer Rupp of Archbold, O., spent Friday afternoon with Maurice Klopfenstein.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlon Sutter of Fort Wayne spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gerig.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Klopfenstein and daughter, Carolyn are spending the week at the Joseph Clauser home in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. David Rediger and family had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Albert Geier and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Schlatter, and daughters, Marcella and Lila.

I. L. Klopfenstein accompanied Rev. J. K. Gerig to Chicago Saturday where they attended services at the Southwest Gospel Tabernacle Sunday. While in Chicago Mr. Klopfenstein visited his brother-in-law, Mr. O. D. Like, who has been seriously ill for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Goldsmith and son, Neal were Tuesday dinner guests in the D. E. Witmer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gerig and son, Neal spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stuckey and family at Leo.

Menno Steiner and Robert Norr were Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Souder and sons and Miss Marjorie Getz.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Klopfenstein enjoyed Sunday at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Klopfenstein and son, Jimmie at Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. David Neuen-schwander and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Neuenchwander and daughter, Phyllis were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Amstutz and family.

MERRY

CHRISTMAS

We hope, through our earnest efforts to offer good merchandise consistent with low price, that we have contributed in some measure to your Christmas pleasure.

HURNI'S

CASH GROCERY

Armloads of Wishes

An armload of wishes are now on their way. We've sent them to greet you sincerely today. May gifts of the season, true happiness give And fortune attend you a long as you live.

WOODRING'S RADIO SHOP

SPENCERVILLE, INDIANA

For Every One of You

This year of all years, when the patience and fortitude of all has been severely tested, we wish to thank our friends for their patronage—and wish for each and every one, a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a more PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

FURNISH SALES & SERVICE

SPENCERVILLE, INDIANA

"AS GOOD AS HIS BOND"

YOUR NAME, signed to a check,

makes you personally responsible for the amount indicated. Your name, signed to a note, a deed, a charge account, is your word that you will live up to the agreements in the document.

"His word," people say to you, "is as good as his bond."

Exactly the same thing holds true with manufacturers and merchants who advertise in this newspaper. They are willing to sign their names to certain definite printed facts about their products and the goods they sell. In advertisements they tell you about materials they use. They show you how to get the most for your money. They teach you how to choose among a multiplicity of products. And quite as important as all of these, they acquaint you with new styles, new inventions, new manners and customs of living.

By reading these advertisements you know even before you shop, precisely what you are getting. The manufacturer or merchant has signed his name.

YOU CAN TRUST THE MANUFACTURER OR MERCHANT WHO IS WILLING TO STAKE HIS NAME ON WHAT HE SAYS

LEO

Miss Kathryn Klopfenstein spent Wednesday in Fort Wayne. Mr. and Mr. Roy Moudy and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Hilbert last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Souder and daughter, Joan and son, Davy Leg spent Sunday with relatives in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wolfe and family will spend Christmas with the former's mother, Mrs. Julia Wolfe, at Ashley.

Misses Thelma Amstutz and Grace-Landstoffer were Sunday guests of Messrs William and Paul Conrad and parents.

Mrs. Harry Klopfenstein and son, Elsworth, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Porter celebrating the former's birthday.

Mr. G. Lantz, of near Bluffton spent several days this week with his sister and brother, Mr. John Lantz and Mrs. Jake Schwartz.

Miss Loretta Norr entertained her Sunday School class Sunday evening, December 20. The attendance was estimated to be about thirty.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schowe and daughter, Erma, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond King and children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Henrichsen and family.

Miss Maxine Kryder, Mr. Don Lepper and Miss Leona Levy were Thursday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hartman and son, Harry of Bluffton, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Warner, Misses Bernice Myer, Erma Schowe, and Cleo Warner, Messrs Ernest and Winfred Page and Earl Schowe spent Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schowe.

Farmers Institute to be held January 7 and 8. Thursday evening a play and music will be given and Friday the state speakers. Various prizes will be given. All come and enjoy the institute with us.

A birthday party was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burt DuVall and son, Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gerig, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Egley and daughters, Miss Verda Gerig and Mr. Jay Gerig. It being Mrs. Gerig's, Mr. DuVall's and Mr. Egley's birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marolf spent one day last week at Columbia City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Doll and family were weekend callers of Mr. and Mrs. Eck Hursh and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Glock were Sunday evening callers of Mr. Clyde Kryder and daughter, Maxine.

Mrs. Wm. F. Warner and daughter, Miss Loma and Mrs. Wm. Thompson spent Saturday in Fort Wayne.

Miss Hattie Schlatter and Frederick spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Olsen and family of Fort Wayne.

Many attended the Christmas program held at the Leo M. E. Church Sunday morning. The children all enjoyed Old Santa Claus.

A large number of the League members of Leo attended the League party at Garrett, December 15. There were about sixty young people from different charges enjoyed the party. At a late hour lunch was served. The next party will be held at the Leo M. E. Church, January 11.

The Sophomore class of Leo High School held a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bender Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing games and exchanging Christmas gifts. A lunch was served. Those present were: Misses Loma Warner, the class supervisor, Maxine Boger, Martha Miller, Peggy Parsons, Blossom Clem, Audrey Curran, Lorene Stuckey, Regena Warner, and Loraine Bender; Messrs Robert Snyder, Junior Bohen, Merle Soule, Harlyn Schott, Robert Currant, Jess Dan and Wayne Bellingier. Everyone had a very enjoyable time.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.
Frank Tustison.
W. J. Staman.
J. N. Scholes.
Hattie Widney.

WOULD ALTER OUR FINANCIAL HABITS

By ROME C. STEPHENSON
Former President American Bankers Association.

THE most constructive action that can be taken toward bringing about greater stability in our business life is the development of a more balanced attitude in the minds of all of our people in regard to the right relationship between saving and spending. There is more practical, workable economics in the sentence: Save during prosperity so as to be able to spend during depression: than in a whole library full of charts and tables and books on political economy.

I do not believe it is an impracticable dream to bring about an era of more intelligent saving and spending on the part of our people. It is not impossible to change the habits of the population. It has been done in many lines. The habits of our people have been improved and the health of the nation promoted in many ways by consistent programs of advertising and education that have brought about better hygienic understanding and practices.

The medical profession has virtually banished the scourge of some diseases by persistent, intelligent campaigns of preventive sanitary measures and inoculations, requiring new understandings, new habits among many millions of our people. Also a large part of this evolution of public health improvement has naturally developed through the intelligent advertising of many products that have to do with bodily care. I refer to the mass manufacturers and distributors of such things as more healthful shoes, more effective toothbrushes, food products with more wholesome values of nutrition and countless other practical ideas that have become commonplace of our daily business life,—and that have become a part, too, of the very texture of the personal habits and health of great masses of our people. If it has been good advertising and good business for so many of our national producers to spend millions of dollars thus to inculcate new habits of personal hygiene and personal care, is it not good business and good advertising for our banking interests to lay similar stress during the next period of prosperity upon better financial habits and customs of our people? Bankers above all are interested in stable, wholesome business. They have much to gain by a state of sound financial health among the people, and most to lose by epidemics of economic maladies such as have swept the country during the past two years.

The Romance on the Tree

by Martha Banning Thomas

HER eyes were blue
And her cheeks were pink,
She was dressed in the latest style:
Her hair was curled,
And in all the world,
She had the prettiest smile.

His eyes were black,
And he wore a coat
Of vivid, beautiful red,
His shoes were shined,
And he looked refined
From his toes to the top of his head.

"I wonder if he Could care for me,"
She thought with a gentle sigh,
"He looks so trim,
I'm fond of him,
And his collar stands up high."

He glanced her way
As if to say,
"I wish I could get nearer,
For at every glance
You do entrance
My heart... and but grow dearer."

So there they hung
On the Christmas tree,
A doll and a soldier-boy,
And they longed to know
Each other so
With a wistful kind of joy.

At early dawn
On Christmas morn
A child came down the stair,
"I'll marry," said she,
"Those two on the tree,
For they'll make a handsome pair!"

(C) 1925, Western Newspaper Union.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Guy James Tuesday, a daughter.

Mrs. Nettie Cummins returned home after a short visit with relatives at Fort Wayne.

The Farmers Institute will convene in the public hall the 5th and 6th of January.

Wallace Stoffer of Battenridge, La., is here the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stoffer during his vacation.

The state highway commission expect to build 400 miles of concrete road next year.

The Worth While Club met with Vivian Spindler Wednesday, December 16th. Those present were Lucille Blume, Frances Miller, Mae and Thelma Amstutz, Genevieve Harris, Lavere Roller and the hostess.

Paul Kinsey of North Manchester College, Irene Lake of Muncie, James Blume of Purdue University, Clifford Gorrell and James Fuelling of Indiana University are spending their Christmas holidays with their parents.

The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. Church met with their president, Mrs. Blanch Reichelderfer, Thursday. Election of officers was held which are as follows: President, Blanch Reichelderfer; vice president, Leonia Peters; secretary, Manda Blume and treasurer, Otie James.

At a recent election of the M. E. Sunday School the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Superintendent, Wallace Kinsey; assistant, T. Blume; treasurer, A. A. Adams; secretaries, Lucille Blume and Naomi Bittner; choristers, Sade Smith and Mae Lynde; pianists, Genevieve Harris and Janet Woods; temperance department, Ola Adams; missionary, Eva M. Kinsey; cradle roll, Beryl Swartz and home department, Anna Furney.

HARLAN

(Intended for Last Week)

Charles Stopher went to Chicago Monday on a business trip.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eley, Monday, December 7th, a daughter.

Del Bauserman, of Goeglein spent Tuesday with his brother, Gene Bauserman.

Miss Ethel Clausen, of Fort Wayne visited Mrs. Sade Smith Monday, who is ill.

Villa Tilberry, of near New Haven moved in with her father, William Brown, recently.

Charles Grueb and children visited Sunday at the Lutheran hospital with his wife, Mrs. Agnes Grueb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gruber and son, John Jr., of Warsaw spent Sunday with Ora Blackburn and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Orange Cook, of Fort Wayne visited Sunday afternoon with Charles Stopher and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanger and daughter, Rose Mary, of Fort Wayne, visited Harlan Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller of Fort Wayne visited his grandfather, Amherst Miller Sunday evening.

Harl Stauffer, of Gladwin, Al Stauffer, of South Bend and Bert Stauffer, of Woodburn, spent Wednesday afternoon with Will Spindler and family.

The Junior class of the Harlan High School was entertained by Bernice Schlatter and the Sophomore class, met with Marguerite Guiff, Saturday evening.

The Harlan grade pupils, accompanied by their teachers, Walburga Downey and Pauline Smith, were entertained with Christmas stories at Harlan Community Library Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Spindler and daughters, Mary and Gayle, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Kinsey took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nuttle at Milan Center. Mr. and Mrs. George Nuttle of Gar Creek and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kinsey and family of Fort Wayne were afternoon guests.

Our Friends

If we have pleased you, we are glad.
If we failed you, we are sorry
But to all of you we say,
MERRY CHRISTMAS—Our Friends

ST. JOE GARAGE

Christmas Greeting

To Our Customers and Our Friends:

Glory to God in the highest,
and on earth peace,
Good Will Toward Men

Again the Christmas spirit is abroad in the land—the time of year when we quit sniffing at trouble, cease frowning at fate and give thanks for the faith and the courage to carry on—that courage out of which was born the Nation and the faith that abides with us even to the end of time.

And in wishing you the ever old but always new—Merry Christmas, Happy New Year—may we tell you of our appreciation for your many favors, may we renew the old friendship and rededicate ourselves to the spirit of service with that faith and courage, which is the very staff of life, supremely conscious that while the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest shall not cease.

JOHN C. HULL, BARBER

WHITTLE FOR A PRIZE

$1000.00 in cash prizes and one thousand other prizes are offered for examples of skill with a jackknife. Entries may be any kind of model, figure or special carving, requiring skill and ingenuity, made entirely of wood, and with no other tools than a jackknife.

First Prize.....$250
Second Prize.....$100
Third Prize.....$75
Fourth Prize.....$50
Fifth Prize.....$25

And also there are twenty-five $10 prizes and fifty of $5.00 each. In addition, 1000 special jackknives will be distributed to all winners of cash awards and to those receiving honorable mention. In case of tie duplicate prizes will be given.

All rules and details of this contest are in the issue of Popular Mechanics Magazine now on sale. Buy a copy at any newsstand or consult one at your library. You do not have to be a regular reader.

POPULAR MECHANICS MAGAZINE
300 East Ontario Street CHICAGO, ILL.

HARLAN

The Freshman class of the Harlan High School entertained the Faculty with a supper Wednesday evening.

Miss Margaret Winning and Miss Esther Baird of the Fort Wayne Public Library, visited Harlan Community Library Saturday morning.

Miss Margaret Lantz, student of the Indiana State School for the Deaf at Indianapolis, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lantz, and family.

Miss Irene Lake of Muncie spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lake and family.

The Worthy Matrons club met with Mrs. Ethel Timbrook, Friday evening. Fifteen members were present. Officers were elected which are: President, Lyle Ringwalt; vice president, Clara Smith; secretary and treasurer, Blanch Reichelderfer.

Mark Ashton and family of Woodburn spent Friday afternoon with their daughter, Mrs. Frances Nussbaum.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boulton and grandson, Maurice Price visited for a few days with Frank Price and family at Laketon.

Miss Bess Stopher of Youngstown came Saturday to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Stopher.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wann entertained to dinner Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Swaidner in honor of their fortieth wedding anniversary.

The Harlan Culture Club gave a Christmas program Tuesday evening, December 16th at the home of Mrs. Mildred Julian. Those present were: Janet Woods, Mae Lynde, Blanch Reichelderfer, Dortha Roller, Sophia Emme, Frances Fuelling, Mattie Long, Hazel Roller, Elsie Zeimmer, Dora Reichelderfer, Florence Repp, Lois Fuelling, Mildred Julian, Eva Kinsey, Ethel Miller, Frances Miller and Garnet Repp.

We do but one kind of printing—GOOD PRINTING

The Shortest Thing in the World

No, not a gnat's eyelash nor a mosquito's whisker—IT IS PUBLIC MEMORY. You may have been in business for FIFTY years and the people know about it. But they forget—new customers are being born every minute and they grow up and have to be told.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Unless you keep telling them by advertising what you have to offer them, the fellow who has only been in business fifty weeks and who advertises intelligently will prove to you the truth of it.

YOU MUST TELL THEM TO SELL THEM

1931 • 1932

Community Wide

To you and yours, our heartiest Christmas Greetings. May this indeed be a season of happiness and joy for all of our loyal friends in this community.

HARMAN'S MEAT MARKET

for printing

Get your order when we are in to satisfy you

We guarantee

LEGAL NOTICE

The DeKalb County Board of Commissioners will allow the following claims at their regular December Special Meeting December 29th, 1931:

Indiana Bell Telephone Co., Telephone services	94 60
Glenn Potter, Clerk's office expense	5 00
Auburn Printing Co., Clerk's office expense	2 40
William B. Burford Printing Co., Clerk's off. ex.	100 40
Fort Wayne Printing Co., Auditor's office expense	15 75
William B. Burford Printing Co., Auditor's off. ex.	183 84
Ashton Staman, Auditor's office expense	45
Merritt M. Maxwell, Treasurer's office expense	6 85
Underwood Typewriter Co., Treasurer's office ex.	4 00
Auburn Printing Co., Treasurer's office expense	282 45
William B. Burford Printing Co., Treasurer's off. ex.	48 56
A. E. Boyce Co., Treasurer's office expense	20 00
Fort Wayne Printing Co., Treasurer's office expense	140 61
O. L. Waterman, Recorder's 60% Fee	3 05
O. L. Waterman, Recorder's office expense	32 00
Wm. B. Burford Printing Co., Recorder's off. ex.	6 00
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's per diem	2 00
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's office expense	6 00
Auburn Printing Co., Sheriff's office expense	138 25
John P. Hoff, Transportation of prisoners	40 88
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's mileage fees	40 00
John P. Hoff, Return of fugitives criminals	23 10
John P. Hoff, Surveyor's assistant salary	66 00
Mabel Kain, Surveyor's office expense	3 00
C. C. Kain, Surveyor's office expense	45 00
Auburn Lumber Company, Surveyor's office ex.	7 40
Fort Wayne Blue Print Co., Surveyor's office ex.	30 00
Mrs. Lucille Stallman, Co. Supt. ass't. salary	40 00
Carl F. Stallman, County Superintendent's office ex.	7 56
Ashton Staman, County Superintendent's off. ex.	4 65
Kiger & Co., County Superintendent's off. ex.	20 23
Underwood Typewriter Co., Co. Supt. off. ex.	71 60
A. E. Boyce Co., County Superintendent's off. ex.	7 40
John R. Clark, Coroner's expense	8 20
C. E. Miser, Assessor's office expense	8 20
Nora I. Brown, Probation officer's salary	60 00
Nora I. Brown, Probation officer's expense	59 65
H. N. Grimm, Deputy Sheriff's salary	500 00
Lizzie Dohner, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Melissa Smith, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Addie Campbell, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Chloey Davis, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Edith Walters, Board of Children's Gdn.	5 00
Gertrude Richards, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Jennie M. Frain, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Mabel Wyatt, Board of Children's Gdn.	10 00
Fanny Strange, Board of Children's Gdn.	25 00
Violet Morgan, Board of Children's Gdn.	3 00
Delta Kruse, Board of Children's Gdn.	13 00
Ethel Warstler, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Clara B. Krick, Board of Children's Gdn.	10 00
Anna Snyder, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Alice Lower, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Willis Rhoades Estate, Poor Attorney's salary	25 00
Wm. Stonebraker, Court House Emp. salary	150 00
Orville Summers, Court House Emp. salary	100 00
C. E. Frankenberg, Court House Emp. salary	50 00
O. J. Burnier, Court House Emp. salary	50 00
Ella Johnson, Court House Emp. salary	45 00
Lige Heating & Ventilating Co., Court House ex.	4 98
Fisher Bros. Paper Co., Court House expense	21 50
H. C. Hoodemier, Court House expense	282 81
Auburn Hardware Co., Court House expense	14 66
Auburn Laundry, Court House expense	3 15
Culbertson Hardware Co., Court House expense	2 20
The Lino Chemical Co., Court House expense	24 00
The Fitch Dustdown Co., Court House expense	10 50
L. W. Widney, Court House expense	7 95
Ashton Staman, Court House expense	75
Auburn Water & Light Co., Court House expense	102 55
Auburn Water & Light Co., Court House expense	66 60
Dr. C. Philip Fox, Jail Physician	10 00
John P. Hoff, Prisoner's board	31 40
John P. Hoff, Prisoner's washing	3 50
Auburn Hardware Co., Jail expense	8 68
Fisher Bros. Paper Co., Jail expense	8 25
Northern Indiana Fuel & Light, Jail expense	26 80
Ashton Staman, Jail expense	1 00
Sanitary Supply Co., Jail expense	65 48
M. E. Leighty, County Farm employee, salary	125 00
Mrs. M. E. Leighty, County Farm employee's salary	60 00
Nellie Robertson, County Farm employee's salary	45 00
E. D. Nelson, County Farm employee's salary	45 00
Arthur Woodcox, County Farm employee's salary	12 00
Ruben Close County Farm employee's salary	32 60
Indiana Mutual Fire & Cyclone Ins. Co. Farm ex.	88 47
Farmers Mutual Fire Ins. Co., County Farm ex.	6 00
M. E. Leighty, County Farm expense	1 85
J. L. Smith, County Farm expense	9 50
Geo. Merryfield, County Farm expense	3 55
M. A. Steele, County Farm expense	25 00
L. D. Robbins, County Farm expense	1 50
Auburn Machine Works, County Farm expense	76 44
Frank Hubbard, County Farm expense	17 85
Culbertson Hardware Co., County Farm expense	36 28
Auburn Water & Light, County Farm expense	211 92
H. C. Hoodemier, County Farm expense	7 75
DeKalb County Farm Bureau, County Farm expense	38 56
Schaab & Bros. Co., County Farm expense	2 63
Kraus & Apfelbaum, County Farm expense	2 95
L. W. Widney, County Farm expense	10 38
Neblung Shoe Store, County Farm expense	2 58
Ashton Staman, County Farm expense	1 30
L. W. Widney, County Farm expense	74 96
Dr. F. A. Hall, County Farm expense	43 66
Henderson & Beerbower, County Farm expense	12 52
Indiana Reformatory, County Farm expense	86 14
J. I. Holcomb Mfg. Co., County Farm expense	50 00
Dr. C. Philip Fox, County Farm expense	21 65
Jerome P. Heinlen, County Farm expense	14 81
Auburn Hardware Co., County Farm expense	28 25
E. A. Baker, County Farm expense	75 00
W. H. Ettinger, County Farm expense	21 60
Nicholas Funk, Commissioner's expense	21 42
Charles G. Potter, Commissioner's expense	22 40
Arthur Grube, Commissioner's expense	108 00
Blanche E. Nugen, Attendance Officer's salary	16 40
Blanche E. Nugen, Attendance Officer's expense	12 08
Blanche E. Nugen, Attendance Officer's off. ex.	4 46
Wayne Office Machinery Co., Att. Officer's off. ex.	33 33
Harriet Yarian, Co. Agent's Ass't. salary	50 94
The Waterloo Press, Public printing	50 94
Garrett Clipper, Public printing	10 65
Indianapolis Commercial, John Miller Hgh. location	18 52
S. E. Shutt, Trustee, Poor relief	1 532 72
S. E. Shutt, Trustee, Poor relief	362 72
R. W. Murray, Trustee, Poor relief

(Expenditures Continued on Page Two)

GIVES NATIONAL ECONOMIC PLAN

By ROME C. STEPHENSON
Former President American Bankers Association

WE hear much of future economic planning to save the nation from a repetition of depression and promote more stable business activity. I know no better plan to suggest to insure future better times than that every wage earner, every family and every business throughout the country lay down as soon as they are able a program of proper savings as the foundation of their financial policy.

I know of no better plan than this to build for the nation as a whole a stronger economic situation—that is, through a common structure of individual working, earning and saving. And I know of no better plan to revive activity in a depression than to spend a proper volume of past savings to keep the momentum of business going. But unless there are savings in prosperity there cannot be spending during depression.

Those who practiced this plan during the past period of prosperity have a security and a protection against present adversity that could be provided in no other way. Those who did not are the ones who are now most dependent upon others. If there had been more saving in respect to the purchase of goods, there would be less depression and less financial insecurity today.

However, while there should have been more emphasis on savings during prosperity, a measure of the emphasis today might properly be the other way—at least to the extent that those who can safely do so may well increase their spending instead of overdoing their saving. While many have seen their earnings fall, there are millions who have not suffered so seriously in respect to the real purchasing power of their incomes. If we listened to all the scare stories of the day, one might get the impression that everybody was out of a job and nobody's business was earning anything. Many of our people who are able to continue a normal program of prudent buying are curbing their expenditures beyond reason.

A Business Stimulus
The sum total of this unreasonable curbing of spending is an economic influence contributing to the stagnation of trade. By the opposite token, I believe the resumption of normal spending on the part of those who are able to do so would be an important tonic toward the stimulation of trade. I do not mean by this that we should have indiscriminate spending merely for the sake of spending, but the very motive power of our economic life is the interchange of goods, and unless we have that we cannot have prosperity. I strongly believe that we are at that point in the depression stage of the business cycle that any sound stimulating influence will start a real movement in the direction of a return toward prosperity. So much of the weakness of the old state of affairs has been liquidated, so many maladjustments corrected and such large volumes of our consumers' goods have been used up or worn out that the pressure of necessities purchases must sooner or later be felt. When that time definitely comes we may consider it the first impulse of a new era of normal business.

Melrose Abbey
Melrose Abbey, considered one of the finest ruins in Scotland, was founded in 1150 for the Cistercians and has some fine sculpture on the exterior. The heart of Robert Burns is said to be buried near the high altar.

C. E. McCLINTOCK
Attorney at Law
City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

DR. COIL
SPECIALIST IN EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT
Saves Your Eyes—Wear Coil Glasses
White Gold Filled Frames, Special $2.00
East Side of Columbia—North of Water
New Co. Coil Over WOOD and WOOD

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

(Reprint Community Progress)
Mrs. Daisy Witmer, Mrs. Amanda Klopfenstein, Mrs. Hulda Woods and Mrs. Bess Klopfenstein received awards at Lotto which formed the entertainment at the annual Christmas party of the Informal Club held at the home of Mrs. Carrie Conrad Friday afternoon, December 18. Unusually attractive were the decorations of silver and red used in decorating the rooms. The large table in the dining room was centered with a Christmas tree decorated with lights and tinsel, below were the packages for the Christmas exchange. Luncheon was served at small tables throughout the rooms. The members present were the Mesdames Daisy Witmer, Bess Klopfenstein, Amanda Klopfenstein, Hulda Woods, Janet Woods, Armeta Tibbury, Mae Lynde, Amy Woods and Carrie Conrad.

LARGE CROWD WITNESSED CHARITY GAME

(Reprint Community Progress)
Several hundred people attended the Charity basket ball game at the Leo gym Tuesday evening, December 15. Three games were played, the Leo Eighth Graders vs Freshmen; Leo Independent, second team, vs High School, second team; and the Leo Independent, first team, vs the High School, first team. The winners were the Eighth Graders; Independent, second team and the High School. The funds received during the evening will be used for charity.

NOTICE

(Reprint Community Progress)
The Cedar Creek Township Farmer's Institute will be held in the gym of the Leo High School Thursday evening and Friday, January 7 and 8. A good program and exhibits are being planned.

BIRTH

(Reprint Community Progress)
Word was received here Sunday morning, December 20, of the birth of a son, Neal Allen, to Joseph and Mary Klopfenstein Clausen, at the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne.

GRABILL—WEEK DEC. 14

Mr. Kenneth R. Zent, of Fort Wayne, was a business caller here Monday.

BUY THE NEW 6-in-1 FUSE-PLUG
At Your Local Dealer

The News Office
Ask to See It

Russel R. Reidenour
Attorney
Auburn, Ind.

Mrs. Mina Amstutz and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stiver and family at Harlan.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lynde were entertained at dinner Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reichelderfer at Harlan.

Some of the Harlan girls have organized a basket ball team and will be ready for games in the near future.

The Mesdames Daisy Witmer, Hulda Woods, Armeta Tibbury and Amy Woods were Fort Wayne shoppers Friday.

Mr. Ray Knisely and daughter, Marcella attended the funeral of the former's aunt, Mrs. Isaiah Smith, at the Scipio Church Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Witmer had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Guy Roller and daughter, Phyllis Ann and Mrs. Elizabeth Witmer all of Fort Wayne.

Murray Klopfenstein and Ralph Moody spent Sunday with the former's brother, Bernell Klopfenstein, who is a student at Manchester College at North Manchester.

The town of Grabill received $617.13 from the County Auditor in the December draw of tax money. The disbursement of township money will be made in a few days.

Charles L. Chapman took seriously ill Friday while visiting with relatives at Rome City. He was returned to his home here and latest reports are that his condition is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer J. Klopfenstein and sons of Portland, Indiana, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Klopfenstein and family. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Klopfenstein were afternoon callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfenstein and Mrs. Emma Grabill and sons, Max and Paul were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jess J. Gerig and sons. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin A. Gerig and children were afternoon callers.

Rev. and Mrs. Jonas A. Ringenberg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Amstutz and family, Mr. D. N. Klopfenstein and Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Gerig attended the dedication services at the Missionary Church at Auburn Sunday afternoon. Loyal Ringenberg is the pastor.

Swallowing a tack while putting up holiday decorations in a Portland, Ind., bakery in which she is employed, Miss Lillie Wiebush of that city, was in a serious condition Thursday. The tack first lodged in her oesophagus, later reaching her stomach. An X-ray examination was made, which disclosed the tack in her stomach. No prediction is made regarding her condition. This is a very common thing to do, but this incident should make one more careful.

Mrs. Elizabeth Witmer, of Ft. Wayne was entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Shank Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dorsey and Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Hollister and children, Richard and Helen spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Tustison and family at Hicksville, Ohio.

Miss Mabel Souder was a luncheon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Klopfenstein and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Friece, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Voors and son, Jimmy were evening callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Neuen-schwander and daughter, Phyllis, Miss Mildred Neuenchwander and Cyril Eicher were dinner guests of F. J. Geiger and son, Richard at Fort Wayne Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Klopfenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Klopfenstein and Mr. Ray Knisely and family motored to Pettisville, O., Sunday to visit Mrs. Christ Klopfenstein, who is ill with bronchial pneumonia at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Menno Amstutz.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stuckey and family entertained at dinner Sunday Rev. Otis Johns of Canton, O., Rev. Dan Johns and Mr. and Mrs. Len Pletcher and daughter, Wilma of Middlebury; Mr. and Mrs. Max Heller of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Simon Beck and family, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Beck, and Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Stuckey.

Money to Burn

By Peter B. Kyne

Elmer Clarke had money to burn, and there were plenty of people willing to hand him a match. Here is a sprightly, stirring tale of now you have it; now you lose it; now you find it again—maybe. It is Peter B. Kyne, America's great story teller at his very best.

New Serial Starting In
ST. JOE NEWS, DEC. 24

Brighten Up! for the Holidays

You'll need a supply of Edison MAZDA Lamps for the holidays—white inside-frost to brighten up your home, colored lamps to decorate inside and outside the house. Buy them before the Christmas shopping rush.

Incidentally, if you've never brightened up with light for the holidays, you'll be surprised at how cheaply you can "dress up" your home with Edison MAZDA Lamps.

Lower in price than ever before, Edison MAZDA Lamps are the last word in using current economically.

Come to us for Edison MAZDA Lamps, in all sizes, in all colors. For practical lighting use, or for decoration, these good lamps are unsurpassed.

20¢ each
25, 40 and 60 Watt sizes

St. Joe News Office

Extra

ST. JOE NEWS.

Edition

VOL XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DEC. 31, 1931

NUMBER 52

NEW YEAR'S PROGRAM THURSDAY EVENING

Following the supper Thursday evening at the Lutheran Church, a program will be given in the auditorium, and the public is welcome to attend.

The program is as follows:
Song ..... Congregation.
Invocation ..... Mrs. Mumma.
Greetings ..... Mrs. Grace Dilley.
Music on Chimes by Jean Goodwin and Virginia Shull.

Reading ..... Franklin Sechler.
Duet ..... Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baltz.
Address ..... Rev. A. K. Mumma.
Piano Solo ..... Jean Goodwin.
Benediction.

Friends from Auburn and Spencerville will attend and a good time will follow the services.

NEARLY 500 MILES IN COUNTY ROADS

DeKalb county added 20.81 miles of roads to its highway system during the year 1931, according to a report, submitted to the commissioners Tuesday by E. E. Turner, county highway superintendent.

To Win Success

"What plan should I follow in order to win success?" We are asked that question many times. There is only ONE ANSWER.

You must follow some definite plan of SAVING, and then consult your Banker about INVESTMENTS. Just one thing more: Be SURE that you do your banking with a Bank that is RELIABLE, one in which you have CONFIDENCE. Ours is that kind of a Bank.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

SALE of Winter COATS

You really need your winter coat by now, and here's a perfectly grand chance to get one at a saving. The styles are the favored children of the season, and include every important sleeve and collar detail that characterizes the most costly coats.

Women's and Misses' Sizes in a Variety of Lovely Styles

THE NEW WOOLENS

Diagonal weaves in interesting variety sponge woolens for the smartest formal sport coats, and smooth woolens for the dressiest types.

The New Colors

We've gone right through the color chart of richly toned browns, greens, and reds, and included a large selection of blacks and novelty fabrics.

THE SMARTEST FURS—

CARACUL
LAPIN
FITCH
FOX
WOLF
BEAVER

$59.50 Now	$39.49
$49.50 Now	$32.99
$37.50 Now	$24.99
$35.00 Now	$23.49
$25.00 Now	$16.99
$19.50 Now	$12.99
$16.50 Now	$10.99
$13.75 Now	$ 9.49
$11.95 Now	$ 7.99

McBRIDE'S

AUBURN, INDIANA

tem during the year 1931, according to a report, submitted to the commissioners Tuesday by E. E. Turner, county highway superintendent.

The county actually took over 25.81 miles, but the state assumed jurisdiction of one mile of county road south of Garrett in Keyser township and four miles north from Garrett to Corunna. The total mileage of county roads is now 486.785.

The additions of county roads by townships during the year follows: Jackson, 1.50; Newville, 75; Concord, 1.50; Keyser, 1; Smithfield, 5.06; Spencer, 1.31; Troy, 2; Fairfield, 2; Wilmington, 7.19; Grant, 1; Richland, 1; Stafford, .50, and Franklin, 2. From Keyser was deducted 1 mile and from Richland 4 miles.

The total mileage per township at the end of 1931 follows: Butler, 37.77; Jackson, 41.255; Union, 30.375; Newville, 18.45; Concord, 30.50; Keyser, 35.875; Smithfield, 38.56; Spencer, 23.56; Troy, 17.625; Fairfield, 38.625; Wilmington, 59.69; Grant, 24.35; Richland, 30.425; Stafford, 17.875 and Franklin, 41.75.

NEW YEAR'S EVE SUPPER

The public is invited to attend the supper at the Lutheran Church basement, Thursday evening, from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Menu: Meat loaf, mashed potatoes, gravy, cabbage salad, peas, carrots, pickles, jelly, bread, butter, pie and coffee for 25c.

52t.

JANUARY 1932
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
10 11 12 13 14 15 16
17 18 19 20 21 22 23
24 25 26 27 28 29 30

1/4 OFF
ON ALL OUR COAL or WOOD
HEATERS

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

CONCORD

Israel and Rosella Layman to John H. Messinger, 4.34 acres sec. 18, $1,000.

Jay A. and Gladys Penland to DeKalb Mortgage Loan Co., trustee, 47.81 acres sec. 1, $1.

Martha Rose Widney to Byron Widney, 30 acres sec. 3, will.

Mary Sechler et. al. to Blanch and Clarence Hart, 27 acres and 15 acres, sec. 11, $1.

Blanch and Clarence Hart to Worthy E. and Myrtle Baxter, 27 acres and 15 acres sec. 11 and 8.29 acres and 13 acres sec. 10, $1.

Fort Wayne Investment Co. to Geo. E. and Mary Grant, 80 acres sec. 13, $1.

SPENCER

Vinton L. Miller to Merritt A. Butler et. al., 25 acre sec. 33, $1.

Samuel Smith et. al. to Delilah Smith et. al., 160 acres sec. 36, $1.

NEWVILLE

Maud and Edwin May to Merle and Bessie Crouse, pt. lot 50, Vienna, $86.66.

Local Briefs

Clifford Millman, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Millman and two sons, Merritt and Lysle and Mrs. Amelia Beeber, spent Christmas Day at Napoleon, Ohio, with John Millman and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Scholes, of Madison, Ind., were guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Susie Scholes from Friday until Monday. Sunday they were dinner guests in the E. R. Kinsey home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ridenbach and two daughters spent Christmas with their parents, B. F. King, of Topeka, and John Ridenbach, of Wawaka. Frances and Erna remained for their vacation with their grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bowman, of Chicago spent Christmas in Fort Wayne the guests of Mrs. Helen Benninghoff and Mrs. Dorothy Reasoner and their families. Friday evening they were all entertained to dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reasoner. Mr. and Mrs. John Benninghoff, Sr., were also guests.

Joe Shull, of Columbia City visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shull, during his vacation.

Ruth Curie is suffering with an infection in her hands since Friday.

Mary Curie is at Garrett spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curie.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser and family were guests of relatives near Kendallville, Christmas Day.

Larry Condrey, of Indianapolis, is here a guest of Miss Dorothy Ginther for the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Furnish and daughter, Isabelle, of Detroit, were from Christmas until Sunday guests of relatives here and at Spencerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leins and son of near Avilla, and Lawrence Pfauamer of Urbana, Ohio, were Christmas guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pfauamer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ridenbach and son, of Alliance, Ohio, were dinner guests of the former's brother, Roy Ridenbach, and wife Sunday. They were enroute home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and children, Miss Mary Quance, Miss Erthenia Graham, Fred Quance and Wayne Quance all of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull were Christmas Day guests of F. B. Leighty and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hollabaugh of Spencerville; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland and son of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ridgway and family and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Freeburn and family were guests in the John Wineland home for Christmas dinner.

Friends here have received word of the marriage of R. L. Case of Shipshewanna, to Miss Edna Burkhalter, at the bride's home at Berne, Ind., on last Saturday. Mr. Case taught school here and has many warm friends who join The News in extending hearty congratulations.

Mrs. Jennie Sechler had a Christmas dinner with Merritt Sechler, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis and two children of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie and children, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Curie and son, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jump and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curie from Garrett, and Gerald Cook of Hicksville, as her guests. Miss Betty Mavis remained for the week.

Legal Notices

SHERIFF'S SALE

No. 5231

In the DeKalb Circuit Court
State of Indiana.
State, Ex Rel. Frank E. Lyon
Auditor DeKalb County

vs.
Daniel C. McCann; et al

By virtue of an Order of Sale, to me directed and delivered by the Clerk of said Court, in the above entitled cause, I have levied upon and will expose for sale by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the Court House Door, in said County, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock P. M., of the 16th day of January, viz:

Part east half, northeast quarter section eight, township thirty-three, Range fourteen (14) east, containing seventy-six (76) acres, more or less, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

And on failure to realize therefrom the full amount of the judgment, interest thereon and costs, I will at the same time, and in the manner aforesaid, offer for sale the fee simple of the above described premises. Taken as the property of the defendant to satisfy said order of sale.

JOHN P. HOFF,
Sheriff DeKalb County.
Henry C. Springer, Atty. $113.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Ox Cart Brings Potatoes to White House

Bearing a load of choice Irish potatoes, the pick of the Maine crop, an old fashioned ox cart, drawn by two blue ribbon-winning Hereford oxen, rumbled into the yard at the White House, just in time for Mr. Hoover's Thanksgiving day dinner. The photograph shows Frank P. Washburn, commissioner of agriculture of Maine, left, presenting the potatoes to Mr. Hoover. Lendell Hawks, who drove the oxen, is seen on the right.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Ice Box Cake.—Line the bottom and sides of a bread pan or a round cake pan with quarter inch slices of any sponge cake. Pour over this a layer of canned apricots cut into pieces, a thick layer of whipped, flavored cream and another layer of cake. Fill the mold nearly to the top with cake for the last layer. Then pour over it slowly the juice from the apricots cooked thick with sugar and cooled. It may be garnished with more whipped cream and shapely pieces of apricots.

Fish Veloute.—Scald a pint of milk in a double boiler with one-half cup of dry bread crumbs. Put two tablespoonsful of butter in a saucepan, when melted add one-half pound of fillets of fish and two slices of onion forced through a food chopper; stir and cook ten minutes. Add to the milk one cupful of fish stock made from the bones of the fish and cook ten minutes. Add three-fourths of a tablespoonful of lemon juice, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, and rub through a sieve. Return to double boiler, and just before serving add one-third of a cupful of cream mixed with two egg yolks.

Scrambled Eggs Royal.—Cook two ounces of macaroni until tender. Mix with four beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, six tablespoonfuls of cream. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and scramble the eggs with the macaroni. Dust with paprika.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

My Neighbor

Says:

HOT food should not be put into the refrigerator, as this raises the whole refrigerator temperature, and may result in the deterioration of other foods. The practice also wastes ice.

Do not take too thick a paring off potatoes. The best part of the potato is near the skin. On the other hand, parings from turnips should be thick. The turnip has an outer part that destroys the flavor of the whole if not thoroughly removed.

A teaspoonful of honey in a cupful of hot milk is one of the best drinks for small children.

If you break glass on the floor don't brush it up. Wet a woolen cloth and pat gently. In this way you gather up the smallest shivers without any trouble.

Oyster shells burned in a kitchen or parlor stove will remove cinders from the grate.

(Copyright by the Associated Newspapers (WNU Service))

Tank Perfector Dies.—Berlin.—Friedrich Wilhelm Goebel, who was credited with perfecting the advanced type of tanks which Germany used with startling effect in the World war, died recently in extreme poverty.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Why Do We Say "Mirror"?
ANY globe-trotter can tell you exactly how many miles it is from Rome to London. He will also tell you that in between is Paris, and if he knows his fashions, he will inform you that it was in Paris that the first "mirror"—forerunner of today's mirror—was used.

But, you may ask, what has Rome and what has London to do with it? This is what it has to do with it: Our word "mirror" is rooted in the Latin "miror" meaning "to look with wonderment." The first mirror undoubtedly was a limpid pool, and sometimes the reflection there was in deed something to look upon with wonderment.

Of course, it would be Paris that would find the first ready need for the "mirror"—and in all manner of ornate designs. And it was the influence of Paris that finally brought the use of this indispensable article of the toilet to London and from there to America.

(© 1931, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

REALIZATION

"Did he realize anything from his venture?"
"Yes."
"What was it?"
"That he shouldn't have undertaken it."

Plesiosaurus' Skeleton
Found by Montana Man
Roundup, Mont.—The almost complete skeleton of a plesiosaurus, a prehistoric marine reptile, was found recently by three Roundup men. The fossilized remains of the animal were uncovered near Pole creek, about 18 miles west of here, while the men, Louis Hartmouth, Dr. J. H. Johnson, and F. C. Montgomery, were on an exploring trip. The skeleton indicated that the animal was from 15 to 16 feet long. It was imbedded in Bear Paw shale about five or six feet below the surface. A plesiosaurus, which lived in the Mesozoic age, had a long neck, a small head, and four paddles, corresponding to legs, which it used for swimming. The skeleton found near Pole creek was smaller than those found elsewhere. One was found in England which was from 25 to 30 feet in length. Hartmouth also has found a section of connected, movable vertebrae of a member of the ammonite family, a low form of animal life, which was especially plentiful during the Mesozoic age.

Farmer Says Skunks Help Tobacco Crop

Marion, Va.—T. J. Hickam, Lee county farmer, has found skunks useful in tobacco growing. Hickam noticed many stalks of his barley had been eaten and then discovered worms were responsible. After that he saw skunks dodging through the patch picking off the worms.

Hunter Avers Squirrel Pilfered His License

Hagerstown, Md.—Roy Pervance used to be a good hunter. Now he's a candidate for presidency of the "Tall Story" club. Pervance lost his hunting license and he is ready to affirm that squirrel stole it. "I lay down beneath a tree to sleep," he said. "When I awoke I was attracted by a noise in the tree above and, looking up, saw a squirrel trying to pull something over the entrance to a hole in the tree. It was my own hunting license, which the squirrel had picked from my coat. He was trying to fasten it over the hole, presumably as a 'house number.'"

Lights of New York

By WALTER TRUMBULL

M. H. Aylesworth and Bruce Barton are fast friends, but before they knew each other very well, Mr. Aylesworth wanted Mr. Barton to do some writing for the electrical industry. So he took him out to dinner and sold him the idea. The next day, in the cold light of morning, Bruce Barton reflected that he had more work than he wished to do anyway, and that he foolishly had taken on an additional burden. So he sent Mr. Aylesworth a telegram telling him he was sorry, but must reconsider. A message came from Mr. Aylesworth saying that everything was all right, but would Mr. Barton dine with him again. Mr. Barton would and did, and Mr. Aylesworth sold him the idea a second time. Moreover, on this occasion, he had brought with him all the papers in the case, and he gave them to Mr. Barton.

The first thing upon which Bruce Barton's eyes lighted the next morning was this mass of data. It gave him a headache just to look at the outside of it. Hastily he dressed so as to get to the office early and send all the stuff back to Mr. Aylesworth. With it went a message that Mr. Barton had reconsidered. It really

The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

The Flower of Egypt

It was a sunshiny summer morning in long ago, far away Egypt. In a garden surrounded by orchards and vineyards, a little girl was playing among the flowers.

"Tala," called her mother's voice. "Come here. We must make garlands and bouquets for our guests who come today."

Tala quickly obeyed the summons. She loved to prepare the floral gifts for the visitors. These were made of different flowers according to the time of blossoming. Sometimes they were violets, sometimes roses and again chrysanthemums.

Today the flowers were lotus blossoms which one of the slaves had gathered from the pool in the garden. Tala loved these beautiful water lilies which she had always been told were the flowers of the gods.

There were two kinds of these blossoms. One was white and opened in the evening, the other blue with its petals lying expanded in the sunshine as if to catch the hue of the sky above. Tala liked this one better because she could see it when she was at play, while the white one opened only at night time.

While Tala worked on the garlands she asked many questions about her favorite.

"It is our country's flower," replied her mother, "The 'Lily of the Nile' and it is honored everywhere."

When the pleasant task of garland making was finished Tala and her mother went to the house. Around the wall outside and within the rooms stood pots of growing plants. Tala was allowed to arrange some of the lotus blossoms in vases for decoration. In honor of the expected company she was dressed in the dress embroidered with lotus blossoms. Later when the guests arrived she watched the servants throw the garlands around their necks, and offer each a small bouquet to hold in his hand. When the guests praised the beauty of the flowers Tala was greatly pleased.

At the noon meal, lotus bread was served, which Tala always liked. She knew that this was made from the seeds of the plants, for she had often seen the servants grind it into flour.

This was a festival day and there were to be special ceremonies in the temple near Tala's home. She was delighted that she was to attend with all the grown-up people.

Once more lotus blossoms were brought and Tala, like the others, was given a handful to carry with her. In the temple she saw many of these flowers placed before the statues of the gods and she reverently laid her own offering among them.

Flower Puzzle

What four well-known flowers can you spell from these ten letters? You may use each letter as many times as necessary.

Draw and color. Yellow, two wishbones from above pattern. Color Willie's suit blue with white bands—Winnie's dress orange with green spots. (Copyright.)—WNU Service.

LITTLE OF EVERYTHING

Boarding House Mistress.—Did you say the soup had everything in its favor, Mr. McLean?
Boarder.—Yes, everything in its favor, Mrs. Bunk.

tors. The tenor of each was the same. One and all congratulated Mr. Barton on having accepted a job for which he so eminently was fitted and which, done by him, would be of benefit to industry, the country, and the world at large. At this point in the proceedings, Bruce Barton gave up. He naturally knows super salesmanship when he runs across it. But it must have cost "Deac" Aylesworth considerable money to send those telegrams.

A geologist told me this story. Once, on the Jersey shore of the Hudson, a sack was found containing the torso of a murdered man. With the severed head, arms and legs missing, there not only appeared to be no way of identifying the body, but no way even of telling where the murder had been committed, or in whose jurisdiction. They thought for a time that the murder might have been committed on some boat. But the sack had been weighted with pieces of rock. A geologist happened to see these and immediately said they were Manhattan schist found nowhere except on Manhattan Island. This placed the murder in New York and, working from that, the police finally checked up on missing persons, made an identification, and caught the murderer.

"Whenever you see in the papers," a detective said to me the other day, "that a desperate character has been trapped, either in New York or hiding in some other part of the country, the chances are overwhelming that he has been 'turned in' by somebody. Sometimes it is a woman with a grievance; sometimes a suspicious neighbor; sometimes a relative who hates or fears him. But almost always the police are tipped off by somebody."

Owl Attacks Children.—Bristol, England.—An owl attacked and slightly injured the four children of Austin Hicks of Bristol, near here, when they climbed into an apple tree in which the bird was nesting.

Highest Happiness in Labor Well Performed

Today the most welcome word that can come to millions is a promise of employment—to have a share in the world's work. The song on which many of the older generation were brought up urged one to work in the morning hours, to work 'mid springing flowers, to work even through the sunny noon, and then on till the "fast beam fadeth, fadeth to shine no more." But it was a joyous song, and the only unhappy note in it was the one that suggested the coming of night, "when man works no more." The most fervent prayer that most men make, especially those who have not much goods laid up against days of ease, come from ancient times: "May I be taken in the midst of my work."

So far from work being a curse, Carlyle speaks of it as "the grand cure of all the maladies and miseries that ever beset mankind." It is the best physician. So in seeking to find employment for those out of work, the problem of misery is attacked at its root.

Skill in labor is man's highest vocation, but it is through labor of some sort, whether by hand or brain, whether of one's choice or by compulsion, whether as a vocation or an avocation, that he finds his way to his better and best self.

Giving a man a job is the best form of helpfulness, if he is still able to work. It has been often said that there is no good obtainable without labor; but it is better said that there is no good that is to be put above the ability and the opportunity to labor.—Kansas City Times.

Just Wouldn't Want Him on Bank's Directorate

There is an old story of the late Senator Canaway of Arkansas, and a speech he is alleged to have made in the senate, which may not be true; but it is fair to recall it because it might be true, and it is illustrative of some of his ways. The story is that he had been mildly called to account for what appeared to be a rather excessive attack on the integrity of a Republican senator. He apologized, says the yarn, somewhat after this manner:

"I am sorry if anything I have said appears to reflect on the character of my distinguished friend on the other side. I know nothing whatever against him. I have no facts whatever to support any assault upon him; and I would go no further than to say that he is not one whom I would choose to have serve on the board of directors of my home town bank."—Washington Star.

Hero Well Identified

When the body of John Paul Jones was exhumed eminent scientists of the United States and France conducted an investigation to identify the body. In the comparison of the life-size Houdon bust of John Paul Jones and the photograph of the body taken after the examination it is seen how the contour of the brow, the arch of the eyebrow, the width between the eyes, the high cheek bones, the muscles of the face, the distance between the hair and the root of the nose, between the sub-nasal point and the lips, and between the lips and the point of the chin, all agree. The peculiar shape of the lobe of the ear in the bust is the exact counterpart of that observed in the body.

Club Chat
"So you finally consented to teach your wife how to drive?"
"Yes, I need a new car anyhow."

The Ideal Vacation Land
Sunshine All Winter Long
Splendid roads—towering mountain ranges—Highest type hotels—dry invigorating air—clear starlit nights—California's Foremost Beach Playground
Palm Springs
CALIFORNIA
W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 32-1031.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

FINISHED

Year's End and Its Beginning

WHOEVER it was that invented the year as a division of time should share in the blessings invoked by Sancho Panza upon the man who invented sleep. With the latter comes surcease from the cares and worries of the day and a renewal of spirits for the struggles of the morrow. The year's end is also not only a sleep and a forgetting of things fled beyond redemption, but with its passing hours come the many-hued hopes that keep ever fresh and buoyant the human soul and make radiant again the paths that lead humanity into the unknown future.

The old year falls from our hands like the stem of a rose whose leaves, one by one, month by month, have silently dropped away into the void of time, some laden with the fragrance of pleasant memories, some with the pallid tints and withered aspects of misfortunes and griefs inseparable and irreparable and some with dust of dreams shattered beyond recall. But, at the birth of another New Year, Time brings to the hands of each of us a fresh bud from its eternal tree, the secrets of whose close-folded leafage no eye can penetrate, no conjecture of wisdom fathom. Yet within its depths we can scent the sweet and inspiring aromas of the hopes that spring eternal in the human breast, of hidden joys that hold fresh promises of full blossoming, of good deeds to be done for us and by us, of the blessings of peace, good will and prosperity again made possible for us and of the guidance of opportunity whose gates are swinging wide open for us.

Always in the cycle of human affairs the Spring of Hope follows the Winter of Discontent. And New Year's day is the symbol of human renovation—spiritual as well as utilitarian—and of the clearing process of the soul's past accumulations, making ready for the building of its "more stately mansions." It may be Fate that guides the hand of Time in placing in our grasp the new bud of promise, but each of us may do much to further its proper blossoming, to keep fresh its fragrance, to shape into full fruition the enjoyment of the unfolding, month by month, and day by day, of the flower of the year whose unopened moments lie before us.—Kansas City Star.

BORED

"Dear, your fortune tells that the New Year will bring you lots of happiness."
"Oh, then you won't be around any more."

Calling on New Year's Morning

THE young matron was looking back over some old magazines shortly before the holidays, when she ran across a picture showing an old-fashioned New Year's day reception. A great steaming bowl of hot fruit punch stood on one table and on another a pot of hot coffee. New Year's callers stood about, with glasses and cups held high, exchanging good wishes and toasts for the New Year.

"What a pretty, friendly custom that was!" she exclaimed to her suburban husband. "And what a pity that it has died out! Watching the old year out is a jolly ceremony, but how nice to welcome the New Year."

The Happy Day.

In on the afternoon of the day itself, with all one's neighbors dropping in to share it with one.

"Well, let's revive the custom," suggested her lord idly, through his pipe. "Let's send out a general alarm that we'll hold open house all afternoon. I'd like that."

"All right," agreed the young matron enthusiastically. "I'll have a big bowl of that wonderful orange ice punch on tap and Mary can make some of her amusing little Swedish decorated cookies to go with it. You know she makes snappy little wafers on which she puts lighted candles, evergreen trees and crimson winter berries, all done in colored icing. You can have a table of cigars and cigarettes in one corner of the sun room, for the men who want to smoke."

"We'll invite the entire neighborhood, all by telephone, of course, and just have a regular old-fashioned New Year's 'at home.' We can start the custom this year and then perhaps keep it up every year, and possibly some of the others will follow suit. I think it is too bad to lose sight of those charming old-time traditions. We have revived the custom of having our children dress up as 'waits' and sing Christmas carols through the snowy streets on Christmas eve, and we all go out and cut down our own Christmas trees now. Why not add the pleasant old fashion of calling on New Year's day?"

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (WNU Service.)

Future Is Ours

Amid all the welter of talk about the New Year, one great fact remains. What is past is past, beyond our alteration; but the future is always just ahead, and it is ours.—Collier's Weekly.

Swearing Off and Taking On

PEOPLE who do not wish to better themselves are few.

It is not hard for the average person to see all about him the privileges, opportunities and facilities for advancement which would place him in a position he does not but would like to occupy.

Too often these advantages are allowed to go unemployed and why? In many cases there seems to be a sort of equilibrium between desire and lack of motive power, which some slight thing or incident might incline forward.

A salesman had talked for hours with a customer who he did not wish to leave without the order. There was an impasse. Finally, opening his grip in the hope of finding a folder, card, picture or other thing which would upset the situation in his direction, he pulled a couple of apples which he had brought from home. He rolled one across the desk to the customer and retained the other for himself. The customer took a bite, munched it for a moment, then said, "Well, we'll just let 'er come that way." The deal was closed, the order signed. So small a thing as an apple had disturbed the equilibrium and tipped an important deal into the salesman's lap.

The custom of adopting New Year resolutions is the apple which tips many a man's course toward an improved program of living. It may be the "swearing off" of habits which he no longer feels are creditable to him, or it may be the taking on of others which he believes will develop his mental, moral, spiritual and physical capacities and gain for him greater respect, if not admiration, among those whose regard he would like to keep.

A comparatively small part of our population avails itself of the superb facilities of the public library in associating with the best minds of all ages and gleanings the treasures of history, biography, philosophy, poetry, religion and the sciences to be found there; the opportunities for physical improvement afforded by municipal golf courts, baseball grounds; frequent lectures, concerts and occasional operatic performances; the priceless capability of constructive thinking.

If you are standing at equilibrium, New Year's day is a good time to bite into the apple.

C. F. W.

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (WNU Service.)

TWO RESOLUTIONS

He—I just made a resolution to marry you this year.
She—Punny! I just made one not to marry you.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.) (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 3

THE SON OF GOD BECOMES MAN

LESSON TEXT—John 1:1-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Show us the Father?

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Comes to Live on Earth.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Comes to Live on Earth.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Seeing God in Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fact and Meaning of the Incarnation.

The lessons for this quarter are taken from the Gospel of John, giving an opportunity for the presentation of this great message from God. In order intelligently to present the lessons of the quarter, the teacher must get hold of John's central purpose and bend every lesson thereto. Happily the writer has plainly declared his purpose—John 20:30, 31. It is twofold:

1. To prove that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God.
2. To show that eternal life is to be obtained through faith in him.

With this twofold objective, John proceeds lawyer-like to lay down his propositions and to introduce his witnesses one by one in their establishment. The section for today's lesson is commonly called "The Prologue."

1. The Pre-existent Word (vv. 1-4).

The eternal Son is called the Word of God because he is the expression of God to man. He is the one who utters to men the Father's will. God has in the days spoken to us by his Son (Heb. 1:1, 2). Observe:

1. The Son is a person separate and distinct from the Father (v. 1). There is at the same time an inseparable union existing between them.
2. The Son is eternal (v. 2). He was with God in the beginning. He did not begin to exist when the heavens and the earth were created, neither did he become the Son at his baptism, for he was before all things (Col. 1:17).

3. The Son is divine (v. 1). "The Word was God." He is a being equal with God and one in essence with him.

4. The Word of God is the omnipotent Creator (v. 3). By him were all things made, the world and all things therein. This refutes the gross error which postulates the eternity of matter.

5. The Word is the source of all life (v. 4).

6. The Word of God is the light of men (v. 4). Man's power to reason has come from Jesus Christ. The very faculties which the skeptic uses in his attempt to destroy Christ's work in the world have been derived from Christ. The conscience has its source in him.

7. The World's Attitude Toward the Word of God (v. 5-13).

1. Men are insensible to the presence of the true light (vv. 5-10). So dense is the ignorance of mankind that the presence of the very Lord of Glory is unrecognized. Being thus unrecognized, God, in his grace, sent John the Baptist as a witness that all men might believe (vv. 6, 7). Man's ignorance can only be accounted for by the malicious blinding of his mind by the Devil (II Cor. 4:4).

2. The desperate wickedness of man's heart (v. 11). The Word was rejected by the chosen nation. They would not receive the one whom God had anointed to be their King. With the self-revealing light, the earnest testimony of John the Baptist, and the glorious privilege of becoming the sons of God, the rejection of Christ most certainly reveals the awful perversity of the human heart in its natural state. "To be carnally minded is death" (Rom. 8:6).

3. Some received Christ and thus became sons of God (vv. 12, 13). In this section we are shown how men become children of God. It is not by blood relation with the covenant people, "of blood" (grace is not inherited); not by the efforts of our natural hearts, "the will of the flesh"; nor by the acts and deeds of others—"the will of man; but of God."

III. The Eternal Word Became Incarnate, "Made Flesh" (vv. 14-18).

In these words we are taught that the eternal Word became the incarnate Son. The eternal Son of God became man, born of a woman. The eternal Son did not become a Jew, but "flesh." He designated himself "the Son of Man." He became really human. The eternal personality did not cease or become modified in any way when he entered upon human relation. The human and divine natures were united in one person. The incarnate Son of God tabernacled among us.

WORDS OF WISDOM

Ignorance is "darkness," education is "light."

God's "minorities" will overwhelm the devil's "majorities."

Sin is "international," "interdenominational," and "nonsectarian."

"When every other way of escape from temptation seems closed, try the gate of prayer."

RELIEVES HEAD, CHEST and BACK COLDS

McKesson's ALBATUM 35¢
Stainless "Rub In" and inhalant unsurpassed in preventing and relieving cold congestions
McKesson & Robbins
QUALITY SINCE 1833
SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES

BRITON SEEMS TO HAVE LOST "GRIP"

No Longer Feels Urge to Settle New Lands.

A hundred years or more ago Englishmen were swarming to every corner of the earth, taking over and populating vast stretches of new land, until it was possible—as indeed it may still be possible—to say that there were more English-speaking peoples than there were those of any other tongue.

In the last generation or two there has been a change. Britain still controls much of the vast areas of the earth. But Englishmen are no longer filling them up. Australia, despite its continental extent, remains a sparsely populated land, with most of the people concentrated in a few cities along the eastern coast. England proper teems with men and women unable to find work to do, but the old urge to get out and try what a new country can offer is gone.

Officialdom, in both the motherland and in the colonies, seeks to revive the old swarming spirit. But with small success. The story published in the morning papers is typical. Nearly 100,000 Englishmen who had been persuaded to move to Australia have petitioned the British government to repatriate them. They charge that they were induced to leave their homes by "mischievous, misleading and untruthful propaganda" circulated by paid agents of the Australian government and they tell a sad story of disappointment, starvation and despair. What is probably more suggestive, they tell also that many of their numbers have become mentally deranged and that suicide is frequent.

On this point Warren S. Thompson, in his famous book, "Danger Spots in World Population," has a stimulating discussion. At certain periods in their history nations tend to "swarm," like bees, and "the facts seem to show that only 'swarming' agriculturalists with a rather low standard of living can actually settle a new land." But an industrialized people, such as the English have become, gradually ceases to swarm. It ceases to be able to settle and develop new lands, for the city life to which it has become accustomed renders it unfit to master the soil. Such people, says Thompson, "can exploit certain of its accumulated resources, but . . . they are like the people of the fabled island who lived by taking in one another's washings."

The troubles the expatriated Englishmen are having in Australia and the similar troubles some of their fellows have had in Canada are simply cases in point. If the new lands nominally under the control of the British empire are soon to be filled, it will probably be with other folk than Englishmen from the industrialized mother country.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

HAILED FATHER OF GAME OF BASEBALL

Abner Doubleday Celebrated as Inventor.

Baseball has a picturesque vocabulary all its own, and when a word series is being played we expand this indefinitely. All season we have with us ears and moguls and kings of sport, but when Earnshaw pitches such a game as his first in the world series he becomes, in addition to a big moose and a human scythe, many other strange and wonderful things. However, baseball has had one general who was that in both fact and title, and was, besides, the father of his country's national game. He was Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, officially recognized by the Spalding commission in 1907 as the inventor of the sport, and in whose honor recently has been held an informal celebration at Cooperstown, N. Y., where Doubleday laid out the first diamond.

As has been said, Doubleday was a real general. He was a West Pointer and saw gallant service in the Mexican war and the campaign against the Seminole Indians. He fired the first Union gun at Fort Sumter, and at Gettysburg had just been given command of a corps that stemmed the first day's Confederate rush and made possible the subsequent victory which "Pickett" later changed gloriously but in vain. There is a monument to him near Cemetery ridge and another in Arlington cemetery and a third at Cooperstown. The latter proclaims, from its site on the original and lot, that there, in 1839, was played the first game of baseball, "originated by Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday."

Historians agree upon the glory due the man, but, as is their wont, differ as to the date. Some contend he was or should have been in the military academy at the time he was supposed to be making his bid for immortality, but that the date of New York officially recognized 1839, and so the marker stands. The field is one for end against which much can be said. It is just off Main street and the villagers are able to hurry back to their stores and wait on chance customers between innings. The weathering sun shines full in the catcher's eyes, but no perfect diamond ever has been built. Appropriately enough, Dr. E. L. Pitcher of Albany, N. Y., dug up the records that led to recognition of Cooperstown's almost forgotten glory.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Magistrate Had "Called the Turn," Unknowingly

The president of the Oxford union completed his term of office and came down to London to see some friends. The friends were congenial, not to say convivial, and in the early hours of the morning the president of the union was found reposing in a wheelbarrow in the middle of Piccadilly circus by a policeman.

Before the magistrate, the president, having very little recollection of what had happened, decided to bluff it out. The magistrate wanted to know why he had chosen a wheelbarrow for a resting place.

The president replied that he was there "for purely valedictorian reasons."

The magistrate pointed out the offender's lack of responsibility and respect for the court. "You talk," he added, "as if you were 'er, well, president of the Oxford union."

And the president leaned over the dock and in a very soft and tender voice said:

"We are."—London Tit-Bits.

Gilbert T. Hodges
PRESIDENT
Advertising Federation of America

Recently Said:

"... Reduced advertising appropriations will mean we shall continue in reverse gear, while advertising to tell people about the things which will enable them to live fuller and happier lives will play itself, as it always has, in keeping business moving."

Talk It Over with Your Own Home Publisher

Shake!

Mrs. Ritchey—This month is simply glorious. How I wish the end of it would never come!
Mrs. O'Connell—Shake, dearie. We have a lot of bills coming due on the first, too.

EVERY time you wash your face and hands use this delicately medicated Soap and note how it not only cleanses but also protects the skin. Made of the purest ingredients, Cuticura Soap is ideal for daily use for all the family.

Soap & Ointment Sec. and Soc. Tal. can Sec. Proprietors: Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Malden, Mass. Try the new Cuticura Shaving Cream.

PAGE FOUR

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, December 31, 1931

The St. Joe News

Published at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

HOW BAD ARE THE TIMES?

After you have struggled—struggled through heavy automobile traffic on the highways—threaded your way through a horde of well dressed, well-fed people on the streets—waited patiently at lunch time for a stool in a sandwich shop—stood in line at a movie—tried to get tickets for an important football game—after you have done these things, don't you wonder who it is that is depressed by the depression?

As a matter of fact, there are, as we all know, thousands of people out of work and there is much pitiful suffering. But the bottom hasn't dropped out the world—not by a long shot.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian ..... 100—$4.36
Lutheran ..... 76—$4.72
M. P. .... 61—$2.45
Spencerville M. E. .... 78—$3.62
Lutheran ..... 69—$4.31

ST. JOE PERSONALS

Mrs. Emma Slentz of South Haven, Mich., is here the guest of her brother, J. C. Hull, and wife. Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio.

Church going people need not worry over the criticism of those who are too "smart" for the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopstein of Grabill were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cox, of Helmer and Mrs. Clara Keen of Corunna, were over Christmas Eve guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cox.

Ms. Anna Dilley is at Ashley for a couple months, visiting in the home of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Osburn. Her son, Hollis Dilley took her Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Ginther, Miss Lenora Mays, Mr. Maurice Gunther and Mr. R. W. Eickmeyer all of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests in the O. E. Ginther home.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt of Fort Wayne were Sunday guests of Mr. Wyatt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wyatt, northeast of St. Joe.

For Rent: Farm of 129 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 8 miles southwest of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio 4911

Mrs. Hazel Steward, daughter, Florence, George Berry and little Jeane Hatch of Spencerville spent Christmas Day with Mrs. Mary Beta and Mrs. Ada Berry. Afternoon callers were Mr. Chas. Hatch, wife and daughter of Fort Wayne.

Notice to our Friends: We want to thank them for their kind and welcome gift that we received for Christmas, which was an honor the way we received it by Dear Old Santa. Wishing you all a Happy New Year with many thanks again, we remain as ever your friends, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Kinsey.

Ellen and Melvin Zimmerman of Harlan spent from Friday until Sunday in the Roy Zimmerman home east of town. They were accompanied home Sunday by Mrs. Roy Zimmerman, James Moody, wife and four children, James, Betty June, Jackie and Von Eugene, Sherman Zimmerman, wife and three children, Henry, Dorra and Harold, and spent the day with Chas. Zimmerman.

Calling on New Year's Morning

THE young matron was looking back over some old magazines shortly before the holidays, when she ran across a picture showing an old-fashioned New Year's day reception. A great steaming bowl of hot fruit punch stood on one table and on another a pot of hot coffee. New Year's callers stood about, with glasses and cups held high, exchanging good wishes and toasts for the New Year.

"What a pretty, friendly custom that was!" she exclaimed to her suburban husband. "And what a pity that it has died out! Watching the old year out is a jolly ceremony, but how nice to welcome the New Year in on the afternoon of the day itself, with all one's neighbors dropping in to share it with one."

The Happy Day.

"Well, let's revive the custom," suggested her lord idly, through his pipe. "Let's send out a general alarm that we'll hold open house all afternoon. I'd like that."

"All right," agreed the young matron enthusiastically. "I'll have a big bowl of that wonderful orange ice punch on tap and Mary can make some of her amusing little Swedish decorated cookies to go with it. You know she makes snappy little wafers on which she puts lighted candles, evergreen trees and crimson winter berries, all done in colored icing. You can have a table of cigars and cigarettes in one corner of the sun room, for the men who want to smoke."

"We'll invite the entire neighborhood, all by telephone, of course, and just have a regular old-fashioned New Year's 'at home.' We can start the custom this year and then perhaps keep it up every year, and possibly some of the others will follow suit. I think it is too bad to lose sight of those charming old-time traditions. We have revived the custom of having our children dress up as 'waits' and sing Christmas carols through the snowy streets on Christmas eve, and we all go out and cut down our own Christmas trees now. Why not add the pleasant old fashion of calling on New Year's day?"

(© Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (WNU Service.)

Year's End and Its Beginning

WHOEVER it was that invented the year as a division of time should share in the blessings invoked by Sancho Panza upon the man who invented sleep. With the latter comes surcease from the cares and worries of the day and a renewal of spirits for the struggles of the morrow. The year's end is also not only a sleep and a forgetting of things fled beyond redemption, but with its passing hours come the many-hued hopes that keep ever fresh and buoyant the human soul and make radiant again the paths that lead humanity into the unknown future.

The old year falls from our hands like the stem of a rose whose leaves, one by one, month by month, have silently dropped away into the void of time, some laden with the fragrance of pleasant memories, some with the pallid tints and withered aspects of misfortune and griefs inescapable and irreparable and some with dust of dreams shattered beyond recall. But, at the birth of another New Year, Time brings to the hands of each of us a fresh bud from its eternal tree, the secrets of whose close-folded leafage no eye can penetrate, no conjecture of wisdom fathom. Yet within its depths we can scent the sweet and inspiring aromas of the hopes that spring eternal in the human breast, of hidden joys that bode the promise of full blossoming, of good deeds to be done for us and by us, of the blessings of peace, good will and prosperity again made possible for us, and of the gardens of opportunity whose gates are swinging wide open for us.

Always in the cycle of human affairs the Spring of Hope follows the Winter of Discontent. And New Year's day is the symbol of human renovation—spiritual as well as utilitarian—and of the clearing process of the soul's past accumulations, making ready for the building of its "more stately mansions." It may be Fate that guides the hand of Time in placing in our grasp the new bud of promise, but each of us may do much to further its proper blossoming, to keep fresh its fragrance, to shape into full fruition the enjoyment of the unfolding, month by month, and day by day.

It is hard to tell whether the fishermen enjoy catching fish or lying about them.

R. H. Faulkner, former president of the Auburn Automobile Co., has been named as vice president of the Studebaker Sales corporation at South Bend.

Paul and Phyllis Mutchler of Brighton, Ind., were guests in the Willis Cox home from Friday until Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Mutchler spent over Monday night here guests of their daughter and family.

Because of the closing of the Farmers' bank at Hicksville and the National bank at Defiance, Defiance county commissioners are offering for sale January 18, $20,000.00 in bonds to meet their financial emergency conditions, due to money being in these two banks.

Because of the New Year and in taking stock of the many things we have to be grateful for, we find that the finest of all is the friendships formed between our readers and others whom it is our pleasure to serve. So to our friends in town and out of town we extend our best wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Swearing Off and Taking On

PEOPLE who do not wish to better themselves are few.

It is not hard for the average person to see all about him the privileges, opportunities and facilities for advancement which would place him in a position he does not but would like to occupy.

Too often these advantages are allowed to go unemployed and why? In many cases there seems to be a sort of equilibrium between desire and lack of motive power, which some slight thing or incident might incline forward.

A salesman had talked for hours with a customer whom he did not wish to leave without the order. There was an impasse. Finally, opening his grip in the hope of finding a folder, card, picture or other thing which would upset the situation in his direction, he applied a couple of apples which he had brought from home. He rolled one across the desk to the customer and retained the other for himself. The customer took a bite, munched it for a moment, then said, "Well, well, just a moment, then said, 'The deal was let 'er come that way.' The deal was closed, the order signed. So small a thing as an apple had disturbed the equilibrium and tipped an important deal into the salesman's lap."

The custom of adopting New Year resolutions is the apple which tips many a man's course toward an improved program of living. It may be the "swearing off" of habits which he no longer feels are creditable to him, or it may be the taking on of others which he believes will develop his mental, moral, spiritual and physical capacities, and gain for him greater respect, if not admiration, among those whose regard he would like to keep.

A comparatively small part of our population avails itself of the superlative facilities of the public library to associate with the best minds of all ages and glean the treasures of history, biography, philosophy, poetry, religion and the sciences to be found there; the opportunities for physical improvement afforded by municipal golf courses, baseball grounds; frequent lectures, concerts and occasional operatic performances; the priceless capability of constructive thinking.

If you are standing at equilibrium, New Year's day is a good time to bite into the apple.

C. F. W.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

TWO RESOLUTIONS

He—I just made a resolution to marry you this year.
She—Funny! I just made one not to marry you.

BASSETT'S
WELDING SHOP
OXY-ACETYLENE
WELDING
BRAZING
SOLDERING
IN ST. JOE GARAGE

Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45¢ J. P. Buckingham is still confined to the house, taking sick last Thursday.

The biggest job in town is taking care of the youngsters growing in its midst.

One financial rule that is worth knowing: It is easier to make debts than to pay them.

The pest hunt is on and much interest is being manifested. The weather is extremely favorable.

Lost: Spitz Dog, with right eye and ear black, and black bob tail. Notify Rev. Homer Studabaker, 5211.

34,000 deaths during 1931 have been attributed to automobile accidents, an increase over last year of 2 1/2%.

Mrs. Amanda Coburn, Mrs. Ruth Davis, Mrs. George Walter and Candace Mae Loftus have all been on the sick list the past week.

Ruth Swing, of Grabill, John Gossinger and Kenneth Cunningham of Hicksville, were Sunday evening supper guests of Miss Agneta Horn.

Kenneth Cunningham, of Hicksville, and Miss Agneta Horn, central operator, will spend the week and with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Horn at Kendallville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Renner and daughter, Mary Alice, of Newtown, Ind., called at the News office Tuesday afternoon. They are spending a few days with their parents near Waterloo.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kinsey had as Sunday dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kinsey and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Derrow and two sons of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Waterbeck and three children of Willard, Ohio.

Mrs. Viena Rude and two children spent Christmas in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Farnar, where twenty-nine relatives, and friends gathered to enjoy a bountiful pot luck dinner and Christmas exchange.

The Churubusco Savings bank reopened its doors Thursday morning for business after being closed for over two months. One hundred and twenty-eight shares of stock have been sold to persons living in this community.

Relatives of Mrs. Wm. Harman came Monday evening from Orland, Ind., Commerce, Pontiac, and Detroit, Mich., came bringing their supper and gifts. Due to illness of Mr. Harman's mother, they were unable to get together on Christmas.

Not everyone can have two Christmases, but passengers, officer and crew of the President Wilson, enroute here from Yokohama, did. They crossed the international meridian just as Christmas Day dawned and so had two December twenty-fifths.

Mrs. Fern Smith, of Fremont, Indiana, who has been at the Wm. Harman home for the past week, returned to her home, taking Mrs. Carrie Harman with her. Mrs. Harman is in quite a critical condition. Mrs. Hellinger assisted in taking care of her mother while here.

Used Cars

1928 Pontiac Coach, 6 wire wheels
1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1929 Model A Ford Roadster.
1926 Model T Ford pickup
1924 Model T Ford Sedan.
Chevrolet Roadster.
Chevrolet Touring.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

PHONE 390

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Agneta Horn spent Christmas in the Andrew Krontz home at Butler.

Miss Gertrude Lewis, of Indiana, Pa., spent the Christmas holiday season with Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hull spent Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. Virgil Freeburn and family, west of Fort Wayne.

The Friendly Circle Class of the Lutheran Sunday School were entertained in the Carl Perkins home Monday evening.

Several from this locality attended the Fort Wayne Hoosiers vs. Chicago Bruins basket ball game Tuesday night, staged for the benefit of the American Legion Post at Auburn.

Our telephone girls, surely received their share of Christmas gifts, $10.00 in cash, six pounds of candy and two plates were received, which they greatly appreciate.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull and son were Christmas Day guests in the Robert Nicholls home. Other guests were, Simon Nicholls and family, Mrs. Madalene Lemmon and daughter, and Preston Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Armstrong and family, of Auburn and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway and family were entertained to a turkey dinner on Sunday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Armstrong.

FARMERS NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

Your home is your Castle—Your bank your guard

The life of your family—its hopes, fortunes, activities—centers around your home. In many ways your bank is its guardian. When your home was merely a plan—a desire—the bank helped you, through savings and loans, to attain it. Your bank enables you to pay taxes, expenses for repairs—all the costs of its maintenance—easily, surely, without hardship. In the safe-keeping of your reserves—as a trustee for your estate—your bank assures the security and safety of your home and family. At every vulnerable point in the financial fence surrounding your home—your bank protects and guards.

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank

Spencerville, Indiana

Dr. Bonnell M. Souder HOSPITAL

206 WEST SEVENTH STREET
AUBURN'S NEW MODERN FIRE PROOF INSTITUTION
NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC AND ALL PHYSICIANS

Private rooms may be obtained for $17.50, $21.00, $28.00
$30.00 and $35.00 a week

Equipped with all modern conveniences with beds of the new crank style and closest off each room, laboratory and X-ray facilities.

MRS. BURDGE, a registered nurse, is in charge of the hospital.

Dr. BONNELL M. SOUDER, will make outside calls on her Father's patients as well as her own.

SPENCERVILLE

Men in this vicinity were called back to work at the Auburn Automobile works last week.

Many guests gathered at the Joel Betz home on Sunday in honor of Mr. Betz's eighty-first birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vol Hay, Mrs. Tressie Kelley and children and Elmer Smith were Christmas Day guests at the Ray Baker home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kimes and family and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Steward and baby were Christmas dinner guests of the Charles Brettingham home.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church will meet on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Lochner. There will be an election of officers.

Wm. Reed and daughters entertained at Christmas dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolf of South Bend, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reed, Dickie and Carroll Reed.

Rev. Fabianski of Fort Wayne, will preach a trial sermon at the Lutheran Church on next Sunday morning.

Miss Estella Baumgartner and Mr. Ercil Steward of Fort Wayne were Sunday guests of Mrs. Hazel Steward.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beams had as their guests on Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Beams, Miss Garnett Beams and Mrs. Howard Beams.

Rev. Walter Coburn of Coburn's Corners assisted the pastor, Rev. Homer Studabaker at the communion services at the Methodist Church on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz left on Tuesday morning to spend the winter with their children. They will go first to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perkins of near Harlan.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bowser and daughters, Isabelle and Virginia, C. L. Whitacre and wife, and Mrs. James Reed were Saturday dinner guests at the R. U. Bowser home.

On Wednesday an all day meeting of the C. C. Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Ethel Bowser and election of officers will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitacre of Richmond, came on Thursday evening to spend the holidays at the R. U. Bowser home and other relatives.

About twenty-five young people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCrory of east of town in a farewell party for their son, Victor McCrory, who left on Sunday for Gabriel, California, where he has accepted a position.

Mr. and Mrs. John Timmerman of Spencerville, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clark of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gerig of south of Auburn, were guests on Christmas of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gerig of 712 South Indiana Avenue Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson and Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lash of Kendallville, Ind. Miss Evelyn Miller returned with them for a week's visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wasson.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Betz entertained at their home for dinner on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perkins and family, Glenn Betz and sons of near Harlan, Charles and Willis Boston of Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wertman.

The following guests were entertained for Christmas supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Bowser: Roy Bowser and family of St. Joe, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitacre of Richmond, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. James Reed and Gale Bowser, wife and son, James.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter and family entertained to Christmas dinner at their home the following guests: Mrs. Sarah Crammer and Mr. Ernest Thomas of Ft. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walter and daughter, Fern and son, Martin, R. E. Davis, Mrs. Cora Steward and daughter, Armita.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson entertained the following guests at their home south of town on Christmas Day in the Wasson family reunion: Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bone, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hull of Concord, Jay Rickett, wife and children, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Webster, Wall Wasson, wife and family of Newville and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hull of Willard, Ohio. The family will meet next year with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bone at Concord.

CONCORD

Mr. Jay Fetters is getting able to drive out a little.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Provines entertained the Draggoo families at Christmas dinner.

Mr. Elza Jones, Mrs. Rosa Camp of Edon, Ohio, came Christmas afternoon and played Santa Claus in the Fetters home.

Well, Christmas is over for another year, and I think each and every one enjoyed themselves giving and receiving, for it is said, God loveth a cheerful giver.

Mrs. Chas. Jackson had for dinner Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins, Bert Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Jackson and daughter, Iris, Mr. and Mrs. Holl Jackson and Mrs. Less Sebring of Auburn. On Monday evening Mrs. Sherman Rickett was a guest in the same home.

JUST LIKE US

"Make any New Year resolutions?"
"No—what's the use? I'd only break 'em again!"

FRIENDS GARAGE

NOW OPEN AND READY FOR BUSINESS IN THE BUILDING FORMERLY OPERATED AND KNOWN AS THE SILBERG GARAGE IN SPENCERVILLE. ALL CAR REPAIRING AND SERVICE FOUND AT A FIRST CLASS GARAGE WILL BE ACCORDED EACH AND EVERY PERSON CALLING. A RELIABLE MECHANIC AT YOUR SERVICE.

W. G. ERICK.
FRANK BUTLER
MERRITT BUTLER.

Old Time New Year's

IT SEEMS strange to remember that before the Civil War there was no real conversation among casual acquaintances. Men and young women of promise spent the several hours playing silly games and New Year's calling was hailed with delight as the time for making new friends and incidentally, but highly important, for making matches.

There was little for girls to do outside the home and as a matter of course, they were supported. Mothers saw the point and persuaded the fathers to furnish means that they and the girls could visit the few stores in quest of suitable adorning for the great event.

A half dozen girls here and there met at houses most convenient for the group and the young men of the town clubbed and hired what were then known as hacks and there were private tandems which lent a dashing effect. The happy day having arrived, what bliss there was in discussing the beauties and blemishes and the tinsel "fixings"! The party dresses of that day were of Swiss muslin with a double skirt, and also of a material called tarlatan, of varying degrees of quality, often displaying long trains trimmed with satin ribbon and braids. Whether the material was white or some of the reds, pinks or blues, they were lovely creations.

"What a Pretty, Friendly Custom That Was!"

The men were busy making a living and the day's pleasure often emptied their pocketbooks, but it was considered well worth while. Now and then a pair of shoulder straps loomed among the cutlers and filled to the climax a day long to be remembered. These recurring sayings naturally gave the country village something to talk about and there was a demand for better raiment for men and women.

Information concerning it was well met by Peterson's and Godley's magazines with colored plates and fine suggestions, which had never before been shown and on which the imagination might rely.—Indianapolis News.

PRAYERS FOR THE NEW YEAR

FOR NIGHT

SET my heart free from bitterness, O God,
Now it is night—
Free from those unkind ghosts of hurt and pain
That haunt the light;
Forgive my faults and let me fall asleep,
Now day is through,
And in unbroken peace abide this night
Close unto You.

FOR MORNING

Let me not look behind night's pause of peace,
Now it is day;
With courage and with joy let me go forth
Answer I pray;
Resolved that I will strive, as my strength is,
To do my part,
Each hour with kindness and sincerity,
And a high heart!
—Ethel Arnold Tilden in Good Housekeeping.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public In General

GOOD HATCHABILITY OF EGGS

(By Prof. H. D. Munroe)

With the increased demand for chicks this year it is desirable to produce eggs that will hatch well. It has been proven by some investigators that hatchability is inherited. On the other hand there are certain conditions under which the birds may be kept which affects the hatchability of eggs and the livability of the chicks produced.

The breeding flock should have a rest from egg production prior to the hatching season. While the flock is molting it has time to store up materials that have been used up during the long period of production. The breeding flock should never be forced for egg production during the breeding season although normal high rate of production (50%) does not seem to affect fertility or hatchability.

The breeding flock should have access to the direct rays of the sun or be fed cod liver oil. Recent experimental work showed that hatchability was increased 30% by the use of cod liver oil for confined hens.

The breeding flock should have plenty of green, succulent feed. Green feeds develop yellow color. Breeders with an abundance of yellow pigment produce hatchable eggs.

Traffic lights in Hicksville have been taken down to allow free traffic.

A week's vacation is being enjoyed by the kiddies. The weather is such that they are playing about as in the summer.

R. W. Sharpless has been appointed in the DeKalb circuit court as commissioner to make the sale in the partition suit of George A. Henderson against Chas. D. and Wm. C. Henderson. The property is located at Spencerville.

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"Set your affections on things above, not on things on the earth." Col. 3: 2.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Mr. Melville Blasing, superintendent of the Sunday School at New Haven, Ind., will address the church at 10:30 A. M. on the subject, "The Qualifications of a Sunday School Worker." Mr. Blasing is an experienced Sunday School worker.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH
Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH
Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock
Christian Endeavor at 6:00 P. M.

Children's Service at 6:45 P. M. in charge of Mrs. Harrold.
Evening message at 7:15 P. M. V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.
A Christmas pageant "The Star Came" will be given at the Lutheran Church on Christmas Eve.

SPENCERVILLE
Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE
Willard Kurni, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS
Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

Chapel Service

The weekly Chapel Service was held Tuesday morning. The service was opened by a song, "Joy To the World." A talk on the First Christmas was given by Rev. Homer Studabaker. The closing song was, "O, Come All Ye Faithful."

The Christmas program was a great success. Santa Claus made a short stop on his round the world flight. He was using his new airship on account of the muddy earth.

The grade children came up to the High School assembly and added their bit to the program, which was very much appreciated.

There were about twenty visitors to the school Thursday afternoon.

Our new boxing gloves have been the cause of much excitement the last few days, not to mention black eyes, cut lips and so on.

The Sixth grade had perfect attendance the last week.

After the program in the assembly room, the little grade children went to their respective rooms and the gifts were distributed. Santa Claus remembered each and every one with a treat.

The students are thankful for the week's vacation. Let's hope we can store up a lot of pep and ambition to carry us through the strenuous second semester.

Happy New Year to All.

Spencerville basket ball schedule for the rest of the season:

Jan. 29, LaOtto	.....Here.
Feb. 6, Waterloo	.....There.
Feb. 12, Harlan	.....There.
Feb. 13, Hamilton	.....There.
Feb. 19, Auburn	.....Here.
Feb. 26, Leo	.....Here.
March 4, LaOtto	.....There.

We Print

PACKET HEADS
LETTERHEADS
INVITATIONS
STATEMENTS
BILL HEADS
ENVELOPES
RECEIPTS
DODGERS
FOLDERS
BLANKS
CARDS
TAGS

... and guarantee your satisfaction with our work

"The Supreme Authority" WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Here's the EVIDENCE
Hundreds of Supreme Court Judges pour in highest praise of the work as their authority.
The President and Department Heads of all leading Universities and Colleges give their endorsement.
The Government Printing Office of Washington uses the New International Dictionary in all official correspondence.
The New York City Police Department uses the New International Dictionary in all official correspondence.
The Chicago Woman's Club.
The Colleges voted overwhelmingly in favor of Webster as standard of pronunciation in survey to questions submitted by the Chicago Woman's Club.

Get The Best
At Your Bookstore, or send for free literature samples.
S. S. KNEASS COMPANY
Springfield, Mass.

For Long Winter Evenings Brighten Up!

The sun may set about 5 P. M.—but not Edison MAZDA Lamps. Rather, that's when they set to work—brightening up thousands of homes. And that's why Edison MAZDA Lamps are known from coast to coast as "The Sun's Only Rival."

We're sure you don't enjoy trying to work, trying to read, trying to sew, trying to cook, trying to see in the half-light of these early evenings. But you'd more than enjoy whole long winter evenings if you could bask in the plentiful, cheerful brilliance of light freely used.

Don't spend another evening in gloom. Spend a few cents with us for Edison MAZDA Lamps. For your convenience in always having spares on hand, we recommend a handy carton of six lamps.

St. Joe News Office

I cried for you—Now it's your turn to cry a-veer
Reproduced by permission of the copyright owners.

THEY've got to be good to last like this song has. It was written a long time ago by Abe Lyman and Gus Arnheim together with Arthur Fred. and its background is as colorful as its melody. It first became popular when Abe Lyman was creating such a future at the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles. Abe featuring it on nearly all of his programs. Its popularity spread, and at one time it was numbered among the country's leading songs.

The years rolled by and Lyman journeyed East to even bigger triumphs. The song stayed on at the Coconut Grove, however, becoming a regular tradition and each successive season wider or singer has, by popular request, included it in his repertoire.

When I was at the Coconut Grove a year ago, I sang it, just as

Reviewed by
Bing Crosby

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

MONEY TO BURN

BY PETER B. KYNE

© by Peter B. Kyne

THE STORY

Hiram Butterworth, miser, decides to leave his fortune to Elmer Clarke, a poor young nephew. He tells Absalom McPeake, his lawyer, of a deal forty years ago in which he swindled a man out of $40,000, and arranges for payment with interest.

CHAPTER I—Continued

Old Butterworth nodded and handed him a fat envelope. "This contains all the information," he explained. "Anything else?"

"Nothing, Absalom, except that—well, I reckon it's usual to have the executor give a bond, so you'd better stipulate in my will that the customary bond shall be filed with the court by the executor."

"Old Safety First," McPeake repeated. "I'll have your will ready in an hour. Stay where you are."

Within the hour Hiram Butterworth had signed his last will and testament. He carried a copy of the document away with him and left the original with his lawyer. On the first of the following month he received from Absalom McPeake a bill for fifty dollars for professional services drawing will.

"The dirty, cheap, two-for-a-cent legal jackal," he raved to his man Bunker. "Sending me a bill for drawing my will after all I've done for him." He telephoned immediately to Absalom McPeake and told the latter in lurid language exactly what he thought of him.

"You're a dirty robber!" the old man shrieked. "I'll change my will this very day. I'll learn you—"

He was terribly angry—so angry, in fact, that he quite forgot the advice for which he had paid so heavily to six heart specialists. He mumbled incoherently into the transmitter, then let it fall with a crash which was not lost on the lawyer at his end of the line. Then, very faintly, McPeake heard him say: "O God! Forgive me! I'm dying—dy—"

When McPeake reached his client's place of business he found Hiram Butterworth stretched out on the grimy, uncarpeted floor of his private office. He was quite dead. Bunker, a gray-haired, gray-faced, meek, cowed-looking little man, was sitting in a chair across the room watching the dead man.

He looked up as McPeake entered and a smile illumined his gray face, for he was free at last.

"The old man's heart went back on him," Bunker explained. "He's dead, and although I've worked for him nearly thirty years I can't say I'm sorry."

"You ought to be glad, Bunker. In fact, you will be glad when I tell you that his will, which I drew two weeks ago, provides a specific bequest to you of ten thousand dollars."

"Ten thousand! Ten thousand!" the old clerk repeated, in crescendo. "Why, he—he promised me for years that he'd leave me a hundred thousand. I've devoted my life to that man and all I ever got for it was abuse and a bare living. And now he—he's betrayed me!"

Bunker's form quivered and two tears coursed slowly down his lined cheeks. "My wife will feel badly about this," he quavered. "She was sort of figuring on it. Well, what can't be cured must be endured, I suppose."

McPeake went back to his office. Two hours later, in Pilarcitos, Calif., Elmer Clarke received the following telegram:

"Mascatine, Iowa.

"August 1, 1924.

"Your uncle, Hiram Butterworth, died suddenly here today. Please give disposition of body. I was your uncle's attorney during his lifetime, and am named executor of his estate."

"A. McPeake, Federal Trust Bldg."

This information was received by Elmer Clarke half an hour before his departure for the home of his heart's desire, whom he planned to escort that evening to the municipal band concert in the plaza. To this young lady Elmer disclosed the contents of the telegram.

"What disposition are you going to make of the body, Elmer?" she inquired.

"I feel like wiring McPeake to send the old man's carcass to a medical college for dissection, in order that at the finish it might be said of him that once he accomplished something constructive, something for the benefit of the world in which he had his being."

"Oh, please don't do that, Elmer!" "Oh, of course not, Nellie. He was my mother's brother, even if he was a heartless old skunk. I suppose he died penniless for all his miserly thrift, or his lawyer would not have wired me as he did. I'll send McPeake a night letter and instruct him to give the old man a plain, decent Christian burial, the expense of which shall not exceed one hundred and fifty dollars, and to draw on me at sight for the same. For mother's sake I can't have the old man buried in Potter's field."

Nellie parted Elmer Clarke's hand. "I'm glad you're going to do the right thing by him, even if he didn't deserve it."

"They went to the band concert and when they parted at Nellie's front gate Elmer held her hand longer than seemed necessary."

"Nellie, my dear, you're a great comfort to me," he said very seriously, apropos of nothing. "I like to think that some day when my ship comes in—"

He checked himself, and after a pause added: "But then it will never come in until I sail in it, so what's the use dreaming until I know my dreams can come true?"

"Elmer," the girl replied, "within a week your ship is going to come in. I feel it in my bones—somewhat after the fashion of old men who have rheumatic twinges just before the first rains. Wouldn't it be wonderful, Elmer, if your Uncle Hiram died with just a scads of money and left it all to you? You have never met him, have you, Elmer?"

"I'd Get Into Business for Myself of Course," He Replied.

"No, and I have never desired to."

"Elmer, if the unexpected should happen and you should receive a substantial sum from your uncle's estate, what would you do?"

He looked down at her very soberly and seemed about to answer her question without the hesitation which almost instantly he developed. He bit his lip and sighed.

"I'd get into business for myself, of course," he replied.

The girl nodded soberly and he had a vague suspicion that his answer had been a disappointment, for she withdrew her hand and said good night.

CHAPTER II

Mrs. Matilda Bray, familiarly known in Pilarcitos as Old Lady Bray, who came on duty at seven o'clock a. m. to handle the night letters arriving at the Pilarcitos telegraph office, closed her key, sat back and read with interest the message she had just received for Elmer Clarke.

"Elmer's never come!" she murmured—and reached for the telephone. When it responded she asked to have Miss Nellie Cathcart called to the telephone. A long wait; then Miss Nellie said "Hello."

"Nellie! What do you suppose has happened? This is Mrs. Bray of the telegraph office speaking. Elmer Clarke's uncle, Hiram Butterworth, died back in Iowa yesterday. You knew that didn't you?"

"Yes, Mrs. Bray."

"Well, just this minute I took a night letter from a lawyer, directed to Elmer, of course, and Uncle Hiram's will has been opened and Elmer's been left a million dollars! Do you hear me, Nellie? A million dollars! Isn't it wonderful, Nellie?"

"I'm very happy at Elmer's good fortune, Mrs. Bray."

"Elmer's good fortune!" Old Lady Bray practically shrieked the words. "What about your good fortune?"

"Have you just received the message over the wire, Mrs. Bray?" Nellie Cathcart's voice was calm.

"This very minute."

"Well, then, Mrs. Bray, why not send the telegram to Elmer immediately and permit him to be the one to tell the world of his good fortune?"

"But I thought—why—I-I thought you'd want to know it first—"

"I fear you think too much about other people's business, dear Mrs. Bray." The telephone clicked; Nellie Cathcart had hung up.

"Miserable, ungrateful little cat," snarled Old Lady Bray, and immediately called Rev. Mr. Claude Goodfellow, pastor of the First Christian church, of which Elmer Clarke's mother—now deceased—had been a member. To Mr. Goodfellow Old Lady Bray—in confidence this time—related the news of what she termed Elmer Clarke's windfall. Mr. Goodfellow promised to respect her confidence and immediately returned to the breakfast table and told his wife and eldest daughter.

Five minutes later his eldest daughter, Alice telephoned Ansel Moody, president and sole owner of the Pilarcitos Commercial Trust & Savings bank. Mr. Moody was the treasurer of her father's church, and as a banker he would naturally be interested in the prospect of a new account of such magnitude. Moreover, Miss Alice was Ansel Moody's housekeeper and was aware that some months previous Elmer Clarke had approached her employer with a proposition to lend him five thousand dollars on his house and lot in C street. At the time old Ansel had turned a cold ear to the request and Elmer had left the bank disappointed and angry.

Now old Ansel told Alice she was a sharp girl and as she hung up the receiver she was smug with the prospect of a salary raise.

Immediately upon hearing from Alice Goodfellow, Ansel Moody telephoned to Old Lady Bray and ordered her to withhold delivery of the telegram to Elmer Clarke for one hour. The banker was the telegraph company's principal customer, and Old Lady Bray would have trembled for her position had she failed to obey his order.

At half past seven o'clock that morning Elmer Clarke left his home and set forth to the locus of his labors in Sam Haskins' Smoke Shoppe at the corner of Main and F streets. Elmer Clarke was Sam Haskins' principal assistant and for his services drew a stipend of forty dollars a week—a sum regarded in Pilarcitos as truly princely.

At the corner of C and Main streets Elmer paused before a vacant store. Above the portal a faded blue sign informed whoever might have been interested sufficiently to wonder what local industry had on this spot taken root, withered and died, that once upon a time H. Wasservogel had here dispensed Choice Stall-Fed Meats.

Every morning of his life, en route to the Smoke Shoppe, Elmer Clarke was wont to pause before this dusty and forlorn arena of H. Wasservogel's despair and in his mind's eye make it over into Elmer Clarke's Smoke Shoppe, the Pilarcitos Sanitary Barber Shop and the Nonpareil Billiard and Pool Parlor. Elmer knew to the last tenpenny nail exactly how it could be done, provided he could borrow five thousand dollars on the lot and bungalow he had inherited from his mother. Five thousand, together with his savings, would enable him to transform the deserted butcher shop into something that would draw made from Sam Haskins' Smoke Shoppe so fast that within a year the latter place would resemble the ruins of one of those Maya cities in the jungles of Yucatan.

"The trouble with H. Wasservogel," Elmer mused, "was that he had too much overhead. He could have got along with half the space and subsided the other half. If I—"

"Morning, Elmer," a cheerful voice hailed.

He turned and gazed into a countenance that somehow appeared vaguely familiar. After the second look he recognized Ansel Moody, whom he had seen every day for five years.

"Why, I didn't recognize you, Moody," Elmer said flippantly and disrespectfully to the banker. He had been the first man in Pilarcitos to call old Ansel to his face anything but Mr. Moody. "No, sir, I didn't recognize you at first. You were smiling!"

"Ha-ha! Ha-ha-ha!" old Ansel barked merrily. "Still holdin' your little grudge, eh, Elmer? Well, I still feel the old pain," Elmer replied candidly. "You're a pawbroker, not a banker. Most bankers lend some money on ability and integrity, but you want collateral worth fully 60 per cent more than the loan, and even then you require a responsible indorsement."

"Well, I know, Elmer, us bankers ain't got all the say 'bout that," old Ansel soothed him. "We got to be careful. However, I been thinkin' your proposition over since you was in the bank last an' I've about come to the conclusion I'll take a chance on you, Elmer."

"Why, Mr. Moody?"

"*****"

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

The great man rumbled on. "I've come to the conclusion that if you was to get set up in a swell place of your own, Sam Haskins' trade would follow you, Elmer, like drunkards to a wrecked rum ship. Whenever you're ready, Elmer, come down to the bank an' see me. I'll give you a loan of five thousand on your property in C street an'—"

Old Ansel's face took on a harassed, quivering look. "You sure you can get by on five thousand, Elmer? I wouldn't bite off more'n I could chew if I was you, startin' out, but—"

"Well, I really ought to have ten thousand. I have twenty-five hundred in your savings department."

"If you'll put that twenty-five hundred into the venture, by golly that'll show confidence in your enterprise, Elmer, an' I'll give you an open credit of twenty-five hundred more. That's fair, ain't it?"

"More than fair, Mr. Moody. I'm afraid I was a little tight with you this mornin', and this mornin', but then—"

Old Ansel raised a deprecating hand. "Don't mention it, Elmer. A feller's bound to make mistakes. I've made 'em myself. Come see me when you're ready to shoot," and with a friendly wave of his hand he was off to open his little red-brick bank for the business of the day.

At the corner of Main and D streets Rev. Claude Goodfellow met Elmer, with a broad smile of brotherly love and appreciation.

He cut around Reverend Goodfellow and continued on his way. Before he had reached E street he had been accosted by four men and two women with whom he was not particularly well acquainted—certainly not friendly. And he could not help noticing that they had gone out of their way to speak to him kindly and shake hands. They had never done that before, so Elmer wondered what he had that they wanted and eventually came to the conclusion that it must be his lawn mower. Elmer was the only householder in his block who owned a lawn mower which was kept in excellent running order.

CHAPTER III

Elmer reached the Smoke Shoppe fifteen minutes late. Heretofore Sam Haskins had never failed to mark his assistant's rarely committed crime of tardiness. On such occasions Mr. Haskins was wont to cough loudly and look at Elmer. Then he would look at the clock, cough again and look back at Elmer. This morning, however, he varied his custom by crying joyously:

"Well, how's tricks with the old soldier this mornin'? Sleep well last night? Must have or you wouldn't be fifteen minutes late. Well, reckon you earn it, Elmer, if anybody does. And he dealt Elmer a heavy and aff—"

And he dealt Elmer a heavy and aff—"

Elmer sighed. He wished that Sam Haskins had not done that. He had planned to say:

"Well, Sam, take a good long, satisfactory look, because it's the last in my repertoire. I'm giving you two weeks' notice, Sam. I'm going into this business for myself. . . . If you will kindly step aside, Sam, I'll phone for the ambulance."

"I'm sorry, Mr. Haskins, that I'm late," he mumbled confusedly. "I started in time, but all the people in town that never come to the Smoke Shoppe had to stop me and talk a minute. Anything new?"

"Not a thing," Mr. Haskins lied blithely.

From under the cigar counter Elmer produced a bundle of clean cheese-cloth; one by one he took down the cigars from the shelves, dusted them carefully and replaced them, pausing from time to time to greet a customer and serve him. Presently, looking up from his task, he saw Nellie Cathcart standing on the edge of the sidewalk in front of the Smoke Shoppe looking in at him in a manner that brought a warm, comfortable glow to his heart. He came out of the Smoke Shoppe and greeted her with a cheery:

"Hello, Nellie, old dear. How are you this mornin'? You look wonderful."

Nellie Cathcart was a golden blond—a real blond, if you know what is meant by that—and she had very dark eyebrows and wide, beautiful blue eyes beneath a wide, beautiful white brow overlooking a sweetly wistful, paternal face. Her fine, even teeth were exposed as she carelessly favored Elmer with a million-dollar smile.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Floor-Length Coats for Evening

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WE LOVE the fanciful little jacquettes which have so persistently been holding the center of the stage this many a night and many a day, but oh! yep-fell-length velvet wrap your grace and your elegance as noted among grand opera audiences and at functions of like formality are at the moment making the world of fashion by storm.

Not that the winsome and novel shorter wraps have passed out of the picture, not by any means, for the younger generation know too well their flattering ways to lightly discard them, but when it comes to fashion's latest gesture, it is the velvet wrap in full-length versions which is registering a new style point of vital importance.

These long velvet wraps which are the center of attention at every formal social event carry a grand dame air about them which is very impressive and which bespeaks the dawn of a new era for the silhouette which is of regal bearing. Another message of importance which they convey is the fact of the leadership of soft velvet for evening wear.

It is not alone the majestic silhouettes, with their wide sleeves and definite waistlines, which intrigue the eye, but variety of color adds to the fascination of these gorgeous wraps. Some of the very loveliest are fashioned of snow white or ivory white velvet, or perhaps pale beige which is a color in high favor with the smart Parisienne. Dark furs contrasting these pale velvets give a chic accent, although white fur on white velvet is proving a theme of infinite charm in the realm of the formal evening wrap. Of course, black velvet loses none of its prestige since it perhaps outnumbers the color velvets, which include tones and tints ranging from pastels to hues of red.

From under the cigar counter Elmer produced a bundle of clean cheese-cloth; one by one he took down the cigars from the shelves, dusted them carefully and replaced them, pausing from time to time to greet a customer and serve him. Presently, looking up from his task, he saw Nellie Cathcart standing on the edge of the sidewalk in front of the Smoke Shoppe looking in at him in a manner that brought a warm, comfortable glow to his heart. He came out of the Smoke Shoppe and greeted her with a cheery:

"Hello, Nellie, old dear. How are you this mornin'? You look wonderful."

Nellie Cathcart was a golden blond—a real blond, if you know what is meant by that—and she had very dark eyebrows and wide, beautiful blue eyes beneath a wide, beautiful white brow overlooking a sweetly wistful, paternal face. Her fine, even teeth were exposed as she carelessly favored Elmer with a million-dollar smile.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

dark green and other effects of dazzling beauty.

The new idea of employing velvet in striking contrast is interpreted very effectively at times, such as in the instance of the handsome coat shown to the right in the picture. For this evening wrap of distinctive elegance, black transparent velvet is draped in Victorian manner, a slightly pointed train adding to its gracious dignity. It is luxuriously adorned with a large cape-like collar of white transparent velvet bordered about with sumptuous silver fox. This wrap is worn over a white satin gown, the costume entire sounding a note of high fashion.

The wide-shoulder-waistline effect which we are nearing about in connection with that which is latest is achieved through graceful dolman-cut sleeves in the model pictured to the left. Collared with exquisite Russian sable this stately wrap reflects the quiet elegance which is typical of the new full-length velvet coats which are being so enthusiastically acclaimed in the mode.

Outstanding on the program of coats which are full length and made of velvet are many stunning models which are sans fur, their claim to distinction being a fine artistry of "lines" acquired via subtle and intricate bias-cut sections which mold the garment to the figure. The sleeves and collars of models of this genre are a mass of ornamental shirring and other cunningly devised arrangements of velvet.

The picturesque quality in evening wraps of this description is accentuated, which together with the fact that the velvet employed is often gorgeously colorful, tells a story of unusual charm for the evening coats which society will be wearing during the winter festivities.

(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

BRIMMED HATS ARE MILADY'S FAVORITE

Every hat just now swoops down to capture its rightful share of smartness. And even if one eye is obliterated from view in the downward path of the brim, we see enough to know that our hat and costume is being duly admired. And that is the main thing.

Very few hats just now are not brimmed, be the amount of brim ever so infinitesimal. Of course the turban is always with us, but the majority of women, being cognizant of the benign power of the brimmed line, are wise enough to avail themselves of its services.

The big brim, of course, is out of the question with high fur collars, and even if this was not the case, the combination of the large hat with the fur-trimmed clothes of winter would be rather too dramatic.

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

RIGHT FOR FLYING

This orange-colored leather jacket with matching helmet and cloth skirt is just right for flying. To shield the wearer in the colder regions, the jacket is lined with lapin, with collar and lapels of the same helix-colored fur.

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

LEGAL NOTICE

The DeKalb County Board of Commissioners allowed the following claims at their regular December Special Meeting December 29th, 1931:

Indiana Bell Telephone Co., Telephone services	94 60
Glenn Potter, Clerk's office expense	5 00
Auburn Printing Co., Clerk's office expense	2 40
William B. Burford Printing Co., Clerk's off. ex.	100 40
Fort Wayne Printing Co., Auditor's office expense	15 75
William B. Burford Printing Co., Auditor's off. ex.	183 84
Ashton Staman, Auditor's office expense	45
Merritt M. Maxwell, Treasurer's office expense	6 85
Underwood Typewriter Co., Treasurer's office ex.	4 00
Auburn Printing Co., Treasurer's office expense	4 00
William B. Burford Printing Co., Treasurer's off. ex.	282 45
A. E. Boyce Co., Treasurer's office expense	48 56
Fort Wayne Printing Co., Treasurer's office expense	20 00
O. L. Waterman, Recorder's 60% Fee	140 61
O. L. Waterman, Recorder's office expense	3 05
Wm. B. Burford Printing Co., Recorder's off. ex.	32 00
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's per diem	6 00
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's office expense	2 00
Auburn Printing Co., Sheriff's office expense	6 00
John P. Hoff, Transportation of prisoners	138 25
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's mileage fees	40 88
John P. Hoff, Sheriff's mileage fees	40 00
John P. Hoff, Return of fugitives criminals	23 10
Mabel Kain, Surveyor's assistant salary	66 00
C. C. Kain, Surveyor's office expense	3 00
Auburn Lumber Company, Surveyor's office expense	45 00
Fort Wayne Blue Print Co., Surveyor's office ex.	7 40
Mrs. Lucille Stallman, Co. Supt. ass't. salary	30 00
Carl F. Stallman, County superintendent expense	40 00
Carl F. Stallman, Co. Superintendent's office ex.	7 56
Ashton Staman, County Superintendent's off. ex.	4 63
Kiger & Co., County Superintendent's off. ex.	20 23
Underwood Typewriter Co., Co. Supt. off. ex.	71 60
A. E. Boyce Co., County Superintendent's off. ex.	7 40
John R. Clark, Coroner's expense	8 20
C. E. Miser, Assessor's office expense	8 20
Nora I. Brown, Probation officer's salary	60 00
Nora I. Brown, Probation officer's expense	59 65
Lizzie Dohner, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Melissa Smith, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Addie Campbell, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Chloey Davis, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Edith Walters, Board of Children's Gdn.	5 00
Gertrude Richards, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Jennie M. Frain, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Mabel Wyatt, Board of Children's Gdn.	10 00
Fanny Strange, Board of Children's Gdn.	25 00
Violet Morgan, Board of Children's Gdn.	3 00
Delta Kruse, Board of Children's Gdn.	13 00
Ethel Warstler, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Clara B. Krick, Board of Children's Gdn.	10 00
Anna Snyder, Board of Children's Gdn.	15 00
Alice Lower, Board of Children's Gdn.	20 00
Willis Rhoades Estate, Poor Attorney's salary	25 00
Wm. Stonebraker, Court House Emp. salary	150 00
Orville Summers, Court House Emp. salary	100 00
C. E. Frankenberg, Court House Emp. salary	50 00
O. J. Burnier, Court House Emp. salary	50 00
Ella Johnson, Court House Emp. salary	45 00
Lige Heating & Ventilating Co., Court House ex.	4 98
Fisher Bros. Paper Co., Court House expense	21 50
H. C. Hoodelmier, Court House expense	232 81
Auburn Hardware Co., Court House expense	14 66
Auburn Laundry, Court House expense	3 15
Culbertson Hardware Co., Court House expense	2 20
The Lino Chemical Co., Court House expenses	24 00
The Fitch Dustedown Co., Court House expense	10 50
L. W. Widney, Court House expense	7 95
Ashton Staman, Court House expense	75
Auburn Water & Light Co., Court House expense	102 55
Auburn Water & Light Co., Court House expense	66 60
Dr. C. Philip Fox, Jail Physician	10 00
John P. Hoff, Prisoner's board	31 40
John P. Hoff, Prisoner's washing	3 50
Auburn Hardware Co., Jail expense	5 68
Fisher Bros. Paper Co., Jail expense	8 25
Northern Indiana Fuel & Light, Jail expense	26 90
Ashton Staman, Jail expense	1 00
Sanitary Supply Co., Jail expense	65 48
M. E. Leighty, County Farm employees salary	125 00
Mrs. M. E. Leighty, County Farm employees salary	65 00
Nettie Robertson, County Farm employees salary	50 00
E. D. Nelson, County Farm employees salary	45 00
Arthur Woodcox, County Farm employees salary	45 00
Ruben Close County Farm employees salary	12 00
Indiana Mutual Fire & Cyclone Ins. Co. Farm ex.	32 60
Farmers Mutual Fire Ins. Co., County Farm ex.	88 47
M. E. Leighty, County Farm expense	6 00
J. L. Smith, County Farm expense	1 85
Geo. Merryfield, County Farm expense	9 50
M. A. Steele, County Farm expense	3 55
L. D. Robbins, County Farm expense	25 00
Auburn Machine Works, County Farm expense	1 50
Frank Hubbard, County Farm expense	76 44
Culbertson Hardware Co., County Farm expense	17 85
Auburn Water & Light Co., County Farm expense	36 28
H. C. Hoodelmier, County Farm expense	211 92
DeKalb County Farm Bureau, County Farm expense	7 75
Schaab & Bros. Co., County Farm expense	33 56
Kraus & Apfelbaum, County Farm expense	2 63
L. W. Widney, County Farm expense	2 95
Neblung Shoe Store, County Farm expense	10 33
Ashton Staman, County Farm expense	2 58
L. W. Widney, County Farm expense	1 30
Dr. F. A. Hall, County Farm expense	74 96
Henderson & Beerbower, County Farm expense	43 66
Indiana Reformatory, County Farm expense	12 62

Lyman was creating such a huge following that there's a reason for the tremendous popularity it has gained and held over such a long period. Very few popular songs can claim as long a life. Then, too, it's a torch song (slow meaning tempo) a style of number all the rage just now. All in all it's a song with a great past and possibilities for an even greater future.

Reviewed by
Big Cooch

The Harlan Community Farmers Institute

Will Be Held in the High School Gymnasium
January 5-6, 1932

FIRST DAY TEN O'CLOCK

Song Service led by Bertha Amstutz
Devotional by Rev. A. K. Mumma
Factors Influencing Heavy Egg Production by Mrs. Stella Goldsmith
Piano Duet Olive Murphy, Mary Louise Emmet
Ten Marks of an Educated Man Mr. H. R. Muller

AFTERNOON ONE O'CLOCK

Music High School Orchestra
Looking Ahead in Agriculture Mrs. Stella Goldsmith
Playlet, Mechanical Lane by Country Club Women
Why Some Farmers Fail and Others Succeed Mr. H. R. Muller
Song Billy Schlatter
Talk County Agricultural Agent, H. S. Heckard
Presenting Silver Cup to School winning first on Corn Judging team.
Evening, 7:15 Music - 8:00 O'clock Play
"George in A Jam" will be given Tuesday and Wednesday Nights

SECOND DAY 9:30

Song Service led by Jennie Werts
Devotional by Rev. A. E. Burk
Citizenship Harry Foote
Our Branch Library Otto Greener
Talk by Home Demonstration Agent Miss Inez Deardorf
Piano Duet Gale Spindler, Violet Rediger
Prohibition and the Farmer John Thimlar

AFTERNOON ONE O'CLOCK

Music High School Glee Club
Question Box in Charge of Committee.
What Our Weather Bureau is Doing for Us Earl L. Hardy
Music High School Glee Club
Playlet, They Criticize, and How, by Culture Club Women
Financial Report Secretary
Reports of Prize Winners Committee
What is Time to a Hog? W. F. Burbank

Membership Committee: Moll Amstutz and Pluma Knisley.

Nominating Committee: Robert Murphy, Sylvester Stofor, Louis Geoglein, Jessie Yerks and Fern Amstutz.

Prizes of seventy-five cents on first; fifty cents on second and twenty-five cents on third will be given on the following, for men: A quart can of Wheat, Corn, Oats, Barley and Soy Beans; one half peck of Potatoes and a plate of six Apples. For Women: a quart can of Peaches, Beans, Tomatoes, and a dozen of white or brown Eggs, a loaf of White Bread, a small loaf of Ginger Bread, and a small serving of Potato Salad. All entries must be in by noon the first day. Exhibits and pot luck dinner will be in the Odd Fellows Club Room in front of the hall.

Henry Hutker, Chairman Jennie Werts, Secretary

Money To Burn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright By Peter B. Kyne W.N.U. SERVICE

IF YOU went to bed poor and NOW OPEN AND READY FOR BUSINESS IN THE BUILDING FORMERLY OPERATED AND KNOWN AS THE SILBERG GARAGE IN SPENCERVILLE. ALL CAR REPAIRING AND SERVICE FOUND AT A FIRST CLASS GARAGE WILL BE ACCORDED EACH AND EVERY PERSON CALLING. A RELIABLE MECHANIC AT YOUR SERVICE.

W. G. ERICK
FRANK BUTLER
MERRITT BUTLER

J. W. Camp, Trustee, Poor relief	126 18
F. E. Rhodes, Trustee, Poor relief	59 65
O. M. Foote, Trustee, Poor relief	67 95
Harry Inhoff, Trustee, Poor relief	77 63
Benj. O. Shook, Poor relief	62 00
J. E. Foltz, Poor relief	4 25
Zonker's Store, Poor relief	32 83
F. R. Rowman, Adm., Poor relief	2 00
Nathan Grain Co., Poor relief	10 16
E. R. Kinsey, Poor relief	20 47
S. O. Devitt, Trustee, Poor relief	568 88
I. E. Barker, Trustee, Poor relief	84 54
John L. Weaver, Trustee, Poor relief	133 78
Sherman Meek, Trustee, Poor relief	49 41
Children's Aid Society of Indiana, Orphan Poor in other inst.	591 25
White's Indiana Manual Labor Inst., Orphan Poor in other inst.	276 00
Willis Snyder, County drain expense	12 00
Irene Byron Sanatorium, Irene Byron expense	153 57
Congressional Twp. Revenue Fund, School fund deficiency	99 65
J. E. Sweet & Son, New bridge expense	500 36
Wm. Martz, Assessing Keyser Twp.	50 00
E. O. Likens, Assessing Union Twp.	50 00
Albert I. Lamm, Erroneous tax	1 09
Auburn Gravel, M. F. Long hgh. const.	24 50
Auburn Dispatch, C. O. Griffin hgh. const.	7 96
Wm. B. Burford Printing Co., M. L. Ault hgh. const.	15 00
E. E. Turner, Gravel road repair	221 40
Lester Casselman, Gravel road repair	104 00
C. P. Martin, Gravel road repair	104 05
Central Market, Gravel road repair	10
Dan Smith, Gravel road repair	1 25
John A. Chittenden, Gravel road repair	6 00
C. U. Bowers, Gravel road repair	10 75
Henzlering Hardware, Gravel road repair	85
Little's Hardware Gravel road repair	10 85
Tri State Sand & Gravel Corp., Gravel road repair	35 00
Garrett City Coal Co., Gravel road repair	8 00
E. H. Barley, Gravel road repair	104 00
Carl Houser, Gravel road repair	13 50
James Smith, Gravel road repair	6 75
T. A. Worman, Gravel road repair	6 00
E. R. Burnison, Gravel road repair	6 00
Clarence Houser, Gravel road repair	10 00
W. T. Schowe, Gravel road repair	3 75
Oscar Fulk, Gravel road repair	104 00
Fred Reing, Gravel road repair	10 00
Olus Everhart, Gravel road repair	6 00
Bert Campbell, Gravel road repair	5 00
Adam Royal, Gravel road repair	3 75
Chauncy Baxter, Gravel road repair	4 00
Ralph Harding, Gravel road repair	7 50
Hamilton Hardware, Gravel road repair	25
Wm. Keeler, Gravel road repair	104 00
L. J. Likes, Gravel road repair	4 00
L. J. Draggoo, Gravel road repair	4 50
Grant Baltz, Gravel road repair	5 00
Vern Coburn, Gravel road repair	20 00
Glen Kinsey, Gravel road repair	7 50
Harvey Hull, Gravel road repair	6 25
Russel Griffin, Gravel road repair	6 25
Charles Woodcox, Gravel road repair	14 50
Ray Koch, Gravel road repair	12 50
Geo. Snider, Gravel road repair	6 00
Wm. Henley, Gravel road repair	6 25
C. H. Saylor, Gravel road repair	2 95
St. Joe Filling Station, Gravel road repair	1 25
Chaston Keeler, Gravel road repair	1 25
Frank Bechtell, Gravel road repair	11 25
Harp Leighty, Gravel road repair	104 20
Elmer Jones, Gravel road repair	12 50
Wm. McCann, Gravel road repair	12 25
Wm. Johnson, Gravel road repair	12 25
Herbert Wilson, Gravel road repair	3 75
Tom McDonald, Gravel road repair	1 50
Ivan Farmer, Gravel road repair	2 00
Cleve Meyers, Gravel road repair	1 25
Virgil Meyers, Gravel road repair	5 25
Boyd Jennings, Gravel road repair	2 50
Lewis Keller, Gravel road repair	7 00
Ralph McCollough, Gravel road repair	2 00
C. F. Kaiser, Gravel road repair	1 15
Wm. Mutzfeld & Sons, Gravel road repair	1 60
Braey & West, Gravel road repair	7 75
Silberg-Jenkins, Gravel road repair	4 65
Moreland Oil Company, Gravel road repair	1 65
Theo. Hunt, Gravel road repair	4 75
Bruce Gurtner, Gravel road repair	104 00
Jack Johnson, Gravel road repair	104 00
Fred Rosenberry, Gravel road repair	2 50
Auburn Auto Top Co., Gravel road repair	3 75
Ernest R. Steward, Gravel road repair	6 25
Henry Zitman, Gravel road repair	36 80
Frank R. Bowman, Gravel road repair	4 50
Day & Son, Gravel road repair	25 35
Geo. Likens, Gravel road repair	15 00
Bert Head, Gravel road repair	9 00
B. L. Renner, Gravel road repair	25 00
James Stansbury, Gravel road repair	3 25
J. E. Sweet & Son, Gravel road repair	40 00
E. E. Turner, Gravel road repair	11 25
William K. Schaab, Gravel road repair	43 39
Herbert C. Willis, Gravel road repair	16 98
Mossman Yarnell Co., Gravel road repair	10 00
Noble Motor Truck Corp., Gravel road repair	6 55
Arnold Link, Gravel road repair	4 61
H. C. Hoodelmier, Gravel road repair	213 55
R. A. Wilkes & Co., Gravel road repair	25 50
Wm. Curie, Gravel road repair	8 25
Root Spring Scraper Co., Gravel road repair	11 67
Gilletta Auto Service, Gravel road repair	11 67
Auburn Hardware Co., Gravel road repair	11 67
Brandon Lumber Co., Gravel road repair	11 67

ST. JOE
Willard Murt, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS
Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH
John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

The College voted overwhelmingly in favor of Webster as standard of pronunciation in answer to questions submitted by the Chicago Women's Club.

32,000 geographers is subject to over 6,000 illustrations. Answer's Cheek Question.

Get The Best
At Your Bookstore, or send for free illustrated booklet.
A. & S. MERRIAM COMPANY
Springfield, Mass.

The News is

ST. JOE NEWS.

46 Years Old

VOL. XLV

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1932

NUMBER 1

UNION-JACKSON FARMERS' INSTITUTE TODAY

The Union-Jackson Township Farmers' Institute will be held Thursday, January 7, at Jackson Center hall, with the following Program:

FORENOON
Community singing, Albert Yoder.
Invocation, Albert Yoder.
"What We Expect of Farmers Today," J. P. Prigg.
Music, Mrs. Harry Shull.
"Community Interests," Mrs. Bertha L. Radcliff.
Appointment of committees.
Pot luck dinner.

AFTERNOON
Community singing, Albert Yoder.
Reading, B. W. Carper.
"Co-operative Buying and Selling," J. P. Prigg.
Violin solo, Lester Boger.
"Life's Challenge to You," Mrs. Bertha L. Radcliff.
Report of committees.
Roy Provines, chairman.
Mrs. Larry Brandon, secretary.
Ira Williams, treasurer.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The county commissioners reorganized for the year 1932 Monday by re-electing Nicholas Funk of Wilmington township, president, Chas. G. Potter of Franklin township, vice president and Arthur Grube of Keyser township, secretary.

Mr. Potter began a new term of three years January 1.
The board also reappointed Capt. H. C. Springer of Butler, as county attorney at a salary of $500 a year. Dr. C. P. Fox, of Garrett, was re-named county physician and Wm. Stonebraker was reappointed chief custodian of the court house.

The dog tax for the year was fixed as follows: for male dogs and spayed females, $2; for unspayed females, $4; and for each additional dog, $5. Last year the tax was $3 for males and spayed females. The other items were not changed.

PURDUE AGRICULTURAL CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD JANUARY 11 TO 15

The two Project Leaders from each township Home Bureau and the ten winners in the 5-Acre Corn Club sponsored by the Auburn Chamber of Commerce besides quite a number of DeKalb County farmers and farm women are planning to attend the Agricultural Conference at Purdue the second week in January. Last year DeKalb County won the attendance cup, donated by the Pennsylvania Railroad for the largest attendance from this district. There were 63 registered from this county. This year the attendance is expected to be fully as big. A large number are expecting to leave from Auburn at 8:30 A. M. January 11 for Lafayette on a special interurban car. Copies of the program can be had by writing to W. Q. Fitch, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. The program is also on file at the County Agent's Office.

Chas. Cochran spent from New Year's Day until Sunday at Elgin, Ill., with relatives.

LEO FAMILY HELD ON U. S. CHARGES

Four members of one family were arrested and a large supply of liquors, labels, wrappers and coloring were seized by Federal prohibition agents who raided two homes at Leo, in Allen County, early New Year's Eve.

Russell Gratz and Anna Gratz waived preliminary hearing on charges of possession, sale and manufacture of liquor before United States Commissioner William D. Remmel Friday and were bound to the United States District Court. They were released on bonds of $3,500 and $1,000 respectively.

Commissioner Remmel withheld decision in the case of James Gratz, aged 16, son of Russell Gratz, and the boy was turned over to Joseph E. Lewis, Federal District probation officer, Jacob Stuckey, aged 70, father of Mrs. Gratz, was ill and unable to appear before the commissioner today, but was ordered before Mr. Remmel Monday at 2 P. M. Russell Gratz was taken to jail New Year's Eve following the raid.

The agents found the liquor at both Gratz's and Stuckey's homes. The agents believe that the liquor was "cut" and bottled at the Stucky home. The seizure included 27 pints of whiskey, labeled "Old Crow," 13 gallons of moonshine whiskey in a keg, 70 gallons of wine, 24 pints of homebrew beer, in addition to a large quantity of labels, seals, bottle caps, wrappers, boxes and coloring. The agents made the raids about 5 P. M.

P. T. A. PROGRAM TUESDAY EVENING, JANUARY 12

Song Invocation . . . Rev. J. N. Scholes
Music . . . . . Grade Pupils
"Thrill," . . . . . M. M. Maxwell
Solo . . . . . Joe Woodcox
"Health" . . . . . Dr. Hathaway
Business
Adjournment.

$1,481,834 GAS TAX SUM IN DECEMBER SETS MARK

Gasoline tax collections reached a new December peak, according to a report issued Saturday by Joseph M. Treacy, state gas tax collector, in the office of Folyd E. Williamson, auditor of state.

Collections for the month were $1,481,834.95, which made a gain of $60,092.07 over the previous December. The tax collections were for gasoline sold in November. December sales of gasoline, upon which tax will be collected this month totaled $7,013,883 gallons, a gain of 1,470,311 gallons, indicating that January tax collections also will set a record over the 1931 collections for that month.

Including in the December tax collections was $10,216.75 in felon-quint taxes, the report showed. The number and amount of refunds for gasoline used for purposes other than automobile also showed an increase, according to the report. The number of refunds was 11,300, a gain of 2,445 over the same month a year ago, and the amount was $94,775.75, a gain of $10,484.91.

NEW YEAR'S DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Atkins were host and hostess on New Year's Day at a dinner party, when sixteen guests had been invited to come in. The house was beautifully decorated in colors appropriate for the holiday season. Covers were laid for twenty and the colors were carried out in rose and white. A gift of flowers, unusual at this time of the year, was picked from her garden and presented to the guests by Mrs. Lillian Buckingham.

Those present at this happy occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Don Blair and son, Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Todd and son, Carmen of Butler, Miss Belle Hawbletzie and Max Chapman of South Bend, Miss Gertrude Lewis of Indiana, Pa., Mrs. Inez Chapman of Orangeville, Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Scholes, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Scholes and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on my farm day or night.
Frank Justison.
W. J. Staman.
J. N. Scholes.
Hattie Widney.

"HAPPY NEW YEAR" was on every lip as the gallantly clad dancers assembled for the annual masquerade in a small New England town. Turks and Chinamen, pirates and ballet dancers, chefs, queens, princes, knights and clowns all were there hoping to win the ten dollar gold piece which was to be presented to the wearer of the most original costume.

During the first dance, Tommy Tolman stood in a corner carefully eyeing each couple that waited by him. He was trying to identify his beloved one, because if tonight he did not summon courage to propose to her he knew he never would. The disguise of his make-up and costume helped to steel this bashful boy for the ordeal of telling Mattie that he loved her.

He was dressed as an Italian in red breeches, yellow sash, white shirt with collar open at the neck, and a red bandanna handkerchief over his black silky locks. A false moustache accentuated the beauty of his burning lips, and the brown make-up seemed to enhance his virile features.

At last he spied her, and, oh, joy! she, too, had come as an Italian, with velvet bodice, and lace at her neck, a red sash, and a bandanna handkerchief just like his. He could hardly wait till the dance was over to go and speak to her.

During the second dance he held her closely in his arms and said, "You seemed to know you belong to me when you chose that costume for tonight. Will you be my partner forever?"

She was too moved to answer at once, but a rapturous little pressure on his hand conveyed to him her answer. When the prize was awarded that night, Tommy didn't win the ten dollar gold piece, but his newly won fiancée did, and on their way home she slipped it into his pocket to help pay for the ring, as Tommy had been the inspiration for her lovely costume. It was the happiest New Year either of them ever had.

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

Good Resolutions
Good resolutions are like Christmas tree ornaments—made to be broken.—The Tattler.

That New Leaf
One of the sad facts of life is how quickly the new leaf can become smudged.

HIKERS MADE TRIP TO SPENCERVILLE

Ten ladies from St. Joe, in order to relieve themselves of some surplus energy, made up a hikers party and hiked to Spencerville Monday evening, to celebrate the new pavement laid here last summer. The ladies were Addie Koch, Marie Akins, Loretta Hull, Blanch Leighty, Alice Copp, Anna Baker, Anna Bachtel, Neva Hursh, Jennie Andress, and Nora Blue.

Upon arrival at Spencerville they serenaded Harry Hursh, and of course, it cost him a candy treat. Loretta Funk at the Central grocery was next called upon and the only way the intruders would leave was for a treat. The same scheme was pulled off on Walter Baker and he was compelled to do likewise.

By this time the hikers were all pretty well tired out and they went to the High's restaurant and ordered sandwiches and coffee. High's immediately brought their orchestra in to furnish music for the ladies.

A jolly good time was had.

ST. JOE I. O. O. F. LODGE MERGES WITH AUBURN

Last week the final steps were taken for the merging of the local I. O. O. F. lodge with Auburn Mentor Lodge No. 671, when papers were signed, transferring property.

The present membership, who so desires, will be transferred in full fellowship and the dues have advanced to $3.00 with $4.00 weekly benefits, where before the dues were $6.00 with $3.00 weekly benefits.

It was found necessary to perfect such a merger in order to keep from turning the St. Joe property over to Grand Lodge. The membership is becoming fast depleted and lack of interest on the part of those remaining, with the exception of a few, has been responsible for such a merger being made.

In past years the local lodge was one of the best in the county.

HARRY SMITH AND HIS GANG ARE VICTORS

A week's pest hunt ended New Year's Night, with a round up of the greatest number of pests caught that has ever been recorded here since the annual hunt has been established, Harry Smith and his gang being victorious, by a majority of 8,125 points over Roy Keller and his ratters.

In order to give you an idea of the pests caught by the victors, the following is the result:

Mice, 246; rats, 225; sparrows, 3,700; starling, 115; crows, 3; hawks, 2; squirrels, 9; owls, 2; woodchucks, 2; making a total score of 27,235 points.

The losing squad had a record that is a good one but not good enough. Here is their record: Mice, 184; rats, 125; sparrows, 2,913; starling, 36; squirrels, 9; owls, 1; woodchucks, 3; making a total of 19,110 points.

The supper is all planned for Thursday night at the school house and a real feed will be given the winners.

PROMINENT SPENCERVILLE CITIZEN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Rebecca Beams, of Spencerville, died at her home Monday night at 10:40 at the age of 84 years and 10 days. She was the widow of Henry L. Beams, who preceded her in death August 16, 1922. To this union were born two sons, Frank L. and George H. Beams, both of Spencerville. Besides the two sons she leaves one step-granddaughter, Mrs. Russell Wade of Ohio, seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The deceased was a member of the Lutheran Church at Spencerville. The funeral will be held from the Lutheran Church on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, with Rev. A. K. Mumma, of Harlan, a former pastor of the church officiating. Burial will be made in the White City cemetery at Spencerville.

1/4 OFF

ON ALL OUR
COAL or WOOD
HEATERS

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture Undertaking

Maybe We are WRONG---

You have heard a lot about "Setting-Up" exercises these days. You ask what they are? Well, we don't know exactly, but presume they must be about the opposite from skating!

Maybe that's wrong. There are so many kinds, you know. If it comes to setting up in BUSINESS, that is something different from PHYSICAL exercises. That's a FINANCIAL affair, and possibly that is where our Bank can help you. Kindly let us know your needs.

4 Percent SAVING
The ST. JOE VALLEY BANK
A STATE BANK
4 Percent SAVING

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Lights of New York

By WALTER TRUMBULL

Dr. Frederick W. Hodge was talking about the remarkable eyesight of Zuni Indians. He said that when he was digging at Hawikuh, he had some Indian workmen. They were impressed with the idea that nothing in the dirt removed, no matter how small or how useless looking, was to be thrown away. One member of the party had indigestion and carried some soda mints in his pocket. One of these little tablets became so soiled that he tossed it aside. A Zuni, with horses and a scraper, was removing loose top soil. When he dumped the scraper at the refuse heap, he saw the soda mint. He picked it up and brought it back. Again it was thrown away, and again the Indian retrieved it. When this happened a third time, the owner of the mint bored a hole three feet deep, dropped the pellet in, and sifted earth in on top of it. This appeared to be the only manner in which he could get rid of it.

William F. Carey of Madison Square garden and two of three old and close friends are always putting up jobs on each other. Once, when they were together at a hot springs resort, they saw a very large man and got into a discussion as to how much he weighed. Finally, they made a pool, the whole amount to be taken by the man who guessed closest to the weight. Then the question arose as to how the weight was to be ascertained. Mr. Carey declared that the only way to find out was to ask, but when the time came to put the question he hung far in the background. One of his friends was bolder.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but the truth is we have made a bet on your weight. Do you mind telling us what it is?"

"Why," said the man, pointing to where Mr. Carey was trying to make himself unobtrusive, "I told that gentleman yesterday."

An illustrator I know has a servant from the South. This man has been with him for several years, knows all his business, cooks all his meals, occasionally wears some of his neckties, and is generally what might be called invaluable.

Not long ago the illustrator told him times were becoming so hard and orders so scarce that it was probable he wouldn't be able soon to afford a servant and might have to go out and dig ditches, if any. The man made no comment but later, when his employer had forgotten his remarks on the depression, asked for the afternoon off. He made straight for the office of a prominent art editor. The editor's secretary, supposing he had come with some message or letter when he insisted he had to see the editor personally, admitted him.

"Mister," he is reported to have said, "if you don't give us some work to do right quick, I'm certainly going to lose my position."

He got the job. Now the illustrator is thinking of putting him out as a salesman.

I know a man who spends much of his leisure studying the dictionary. He claims that more than a moiety of the New Yorkers he meets have such axiomatic heads that they cannot define such simple words as gimmel and grum.

(C. Bell Syndicate)—WNU Service.

ENGLISH AUTO MODEL THAT HAS FOUND FAVOR

The new model streamline automobile, designed by Sir Donaldson Burney, which recently made its appearance on the streets of London. The car is powered with a straight eight 29 horse power motor, has a silent three four-speed gearbox and is 10 feet overall in length. It can turn in 38 feet, twice its own length, and is under-slung between the wheels, giving it a maximum of comfort. This model is a seven-passenger affair and is capable of 80 miles per hour.

My Neighbor Says

THE best remedy for scratched furniture is a mixture of beeswax and turpentine, the former melted in the turpentine until it is as thick as slurr. Pour a little onto a piece of woolen cloth and rub it well into the scratched part. Then polish quickly with dry flannel and the marks will almost disappear.

To keep the stove clean rub off all grease with newspaper while stove is still hot. When the stove needs polishing use a paint brush and thus avoid getting your hands soiled. You can also reach the small crevices more readily with the brush.

Chuck roast, which is cheap, will

DROP HIM A LINE

First Fish—Well, good-by, old fellow.

Second Fish—Bye, by, while you're away don't forget to drop me a line!

86-Year-Old Man Is Champ Windmill Fixer

Mondovi, Wis.—Willard L. Standish, eighty-six, direct descendant of Capt. Miles Standish of Plymouth colony, is the champion windmill fixer of this district. Despite his years, he works on an 18-inch platform, 60 feet above the ground, and only wears a safety belt when his son, sixty-two, protests his negligence. Standish came to Wisconsin as a boy of thirteen and, like his famous ancestor, fought Indians.

NEW IDEA FOR "DIVING BELL"

Looking much like a sea monster is this odd machine of steel and glass which will soon be launched on an underwater search for sunken treasure. It is the invention of Emil Kulik of Brooklyn, shown entering the diving bell. A feature of the device is the interchangeable arms that extend in front and can be controlled from within.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

To Be an "Absalom" THE most unpardonable sin of them all—the offense than which hardly any other was considered more grave—an epithet than which none could be more scathing—such is the significance which attaches to the man who is an "Absalom" who is, in other words, an undutiful son.

For the origin of this expression, we must go to the Bible (II Samuel), source of so many of the phrases that all unknowingly we moderns let slip glibly from our lips.

And the allusion is to Absalom—headless, disheveled, headlong, heart-breaking Absalom, son of David, about whom David wept the bitter tears of a grieving parent.

In 1861 Dryden wrote a famous satire entitled "Absalom and Achitophel." This achieved considerable fame, particularly because it was known that in it Absalom represented James, duke of Monmouth.

(C. Bell Syndicate)—WNU Service.

Tides Control Water in Spring on Beach

Jonesport, Maine.—There is a spring on the beach of Little Spruce Island. At high tide it is covered with salt water. But at low tide one can get from the spring clear, fresh water to drink.

Carrot Pierces Brick

Erie.—Mrs. Hurley Bombay wondered why she had to strain so to pull up a carrot. She gave an extra hard yank, the carrot came up, and she fell backward.

The carrot, she found, had grown through a brick buried in the garden. The carrot was five inches long.

600 Miles of Bread

London.—The daily ration of bread for London, if the loaves were placed end-to-end, would stretch for 600 miles.

COLORS PRESENTED TO MISSOURI HIGHWAY PATROL

The members of the new Missouri state highway patrol saluting the colors presented by the Automobile Club of Missouri on the steps of the city hall in St. Louis. In front of the troopers are Governor Caulfield and other officials.

The Kitchen Cabinet

An ordinary boiled frosting is made most tasty by the addition of a half cupful of steamed and chopped raisins. Nuts, too, add both richness and flavor.

Sandwiches offer a wide field for original designs and garnishes as well as flour mixtures.

The citrus fruit—such as oranges and lemons—are especially recommended for the growing youth as they supply the valuable vitamin C and the much needed calcium and phosphorus.

A brilliant luster may be given mahogany by wiping the wood with a cloth or chamol skin wrung out of cold water and rubbing dry with a dry one. The rubbing should be continued until the polish returns to the wood.

In the large field of seasoning which we are privileged to enjoy, one may find something new in combinations every day. A clove of garlic, if used with delicacy and very lightly, will add a most intriguing flavor, but if overdone ruin ensues and woe.

Eggs and bacon may be cooked on a flat stone if one has no frying pan. Heat a flat stone with a good fire underneath and heap some coals on top. Brush off and lay on strips of bacon. When they are nearly cooked drop an egg on the bacon and the fat will fry the egg nicely.

For ordinary stains such as fresh fruit stains, pour boiling water at some height over the stain; the force of the water with the heat will fade it. If an obstinate stain, it may be smoked out with burning sulphur, or

The Children's Corner

EDITED BY DOROTHY EDMONDS

PAPER 3"X5" TO BE FOLDED

DRAW THIS FLOWER-POT PATTERN AND COLOR BROWN

CUT OUT FLOWER POT AND PASTE C'S AND D'S TOGETHER

FLOWER POT AND PLANT

- Questions:
1. Why does a chameleon change color?
  2. What makes thunder?
  3. Is there really a man in the moon?
  4. What are shooting stars, really?
- Answers:
1. The inner layer of the chameleon's skin is lined with a series of tiny pigment or color cells. When these expand or grow larger, and contract or grow smaller, the chameleon changes color. For instance, when the yellowish-green cells expand the chameleon turns orange, and if the reddish cells contract the chameleon becomes brown or black.
  2. Did you ever scuff your feet on a thick rug, then touch something metal with the tips of your fingers and watch the tiny spark it makes and hear the little "snap"? Thunder is just a very large "snap" like that, after an electrical flash.
  3. Perhaps there is, and perhaps there isn't. Some people even say the moon isn't made of green cheese, but that the little holes and bumps we see on its surface are really empty lakes and mountains and craters.
  4. Shooting stars, or meteors, are small heavenly bodies that the earth meets on its path around the sun. When they strike our atmosphere, they fall through it so swiftly that they become heated by the friction of the air and burn up in a blaze of fire even before they reach the earth.

(Copyright)—WNU Service.

Player Gives New Note to Usual Golf Alibi

There were two things in George Tweep's life that meant everything to him—his family and his golf. It is really difficult to understand how he managed to find time for both. At any rate, his wife and five children complained of no neglect and his golf score averaged around 78.

George had won the right to represent his club in the state golf tournament. During the period preceding the final matches, Mrs. Tweep presented him with a sixth child.

Another man would either have withdrawn from all sports, or would have deserted his family at such a time. George, however, was prepared for the situation. A putting green had been built on the front lawn of his home. Thus he could practice and he near the newest Tweep at the same time.

One afternoon an appreciative gallery came over to watch George do his putting. From all angles, he tapped the ball into the cup—his skill was little short of amazing. At length he decided to try one more and call it a day. It was a simple six-footer, the kind he had been making all afternoon.

He took his stance, held his breath, drew back his putter slowly and brought it forward smoothly. At the moment of impact, from within the house came the disturbing wail of the Tweep infant. George's wrist jerked—the sphere missed the cup by a good three inches!

Forcing a smile, George looked around at the gallery.

"Too bad!" he said. "I guess it's that new bawl!"—Kansas City Star.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of sand and wax will all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles, use one ounce Mercolized Wax dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. At drug store.

New Freezing Process

Utilizing intense cold at 50 degrees below zero, a process has been perfected by which perishable foods are frozen so that they retain their original fresh flavor and texture for months in a frozen state.

Meats, seafoods, poultry, vegetables and fruits are processed by the new method. According to Clarence Birdseye, quick-freezing inventor, the foods are frozen so quickly that no harmful chemical or organic change can take place in them.

KILL COLD GERMS

NASAL VAPOR

Clears head instantly. Stops cold spreading. Sprinkle your handkerchief during the day—your pillow at night.

A McKESSON PRODUCT 50¢ AT ALL DRUG STORES

Modern Girl Benefited

Nothing is more astonishing to us older physicians in London than the complete disappearance in one generation of a disease which I, as a medical student, saw extensively in hospital practice, namely, chlorosis of young girls. This was a serious form of anemia, which choked our outpatient departments with its frequency. Its disappearance was practically synchronous with the disappearance of the corset and the greater freedom of bodily movements, and the increased enjoyment of outdoor exercise by girls and young women, and it is a singular instance of how fashion may hinder or foster health. The very sensible exodus from London in the autumn and at week-ends is a comparatively modern invention and one contributing to better health and physique.—Sir Ernest Graham Little.

A Severe Test

Mrs. Howie—My husband says he has knocked off cussing for good.

Mrs. Yelps—And do you think he will hold out?

Mrs. Howie—Well, we will see how he gets by this month's gas bill.—New Bedford Standard.

A Miss Tree

From an author's description: "She was as slender as a young sapling." And looked spruce?

No Doubt About It

Bloody—"Travel broadens one, they say." Floozy—"Sure does. Travel to the dinner table."

TOUGH CLOTH

He (historically inclined)—It some parts of America the people still wear the same clothes their great-grandfathers wore.

She—Oh, George, you know no clothes would last that long.

Sunshine

—All Winter Long

At the Foremost Desert Resort of the West—marvelous climate—warm sunny days—clear starry nights—dry invigorating air—splendid roads—gorgeous mountain scenes—finest hotels—the ideal winter home. Write George A. Sharkey.

PALM SPRINGS California

Black Walnut Kernels and Shelled Pecans from the Ozark Mountains. These old-fashioned nuts delivered in labeled cans 11 per pound for walnuts and 80c pecans. Blodgett Nut Company, Fort Smith, Arkansas.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

RADIO
ProgramsOn Your Radio
"FRIENDSHIP
TOWN"FRIDAY, 8:00 P. M., C.E.T.
NBC Coast to Coast NetworkVaseline
PREPARATIONSSTUDIO VISITS WITH TWINKLING STARS IN RADIO FIRMAMENT

Modern small-town life is being portrayed in Friendship Town, a new program series inaugurated over an NBC-WJZ coast-to-coast network. An all-star cast, including Edwin Whitney, Don Carney, Pick Malone and Pat Paget, blackface comedians; Virginia Gardner, Edith Spencer and Harry Sailer's orchestra depict the various characters making up the country village of today. There are scenes in the drug store; the academy of music, upstairs; the garage; opera house and other local points of interest in Friendship Town. Local politics play a large part in the general theme, with love interest supplied by a pair of young sweethearts. Vocal selections are provided weekly by Frank Luther, tenor star.

Ray Perkins, radio funster, says there are a lot of men today who, when they think of business, get a slump in the throat.

Marcella Shields, who plays varied roles, is proud of a naive tribute to her ability as a delineator of children. Following a recent broadcast in which the former vaudeville actress played a little girl, she received dozens of letters from children who thought she really was a child.

A soldier who has been in the United States Veterans' hospital since the World War recently wrote to Elaine Page, fashion expert on the Woman's Radio Review, for instructions for crocheting a scarf described in a radio broadcast. The veteran explained he could stick to knitting like many of his comrades, but he preferred to do something different.

Many celebrities are nervous before a microphone, but not Frank Buck, the man who brings 'em back alive from the jungles. Buck, who was recently interviewed by Grantland Rice over a national network, admits he was jumpy during rehearsal, but perfectly at ease when he faced the "mike."

The other night on the Cantor program: Wallington: Hey Eddie! In China they grow pumpkins so big they cut 'em in two and each half makes a cradle for a baby. Huh! That's nothing! Back home they grow vegetables so large that three cops sleep on one best.

Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, dropped in on Rudy Vallee at the Pennsylvania Grill recently. Vallee suddenly broke into his routine, and called on Crumit to sing his "Gay Caballero." Crumit got up, cleared his throat, hesitated, and had to admit that at the moment he could not remember the words of one of the most famous of the songs written by none other than Mr. Frank Crumit. Some quick prompting by Miss Sanderson saved the day.

Dorothy Berliner, radio pianist, writes as well as plays. Her book "Making an Orchestra" has just been selected by the Child Study Association as one of the 100 best children's volumes published in 1931.

Harry Kogen and Paul Jonas started playing professional music together fifteen years ago, and became separated three years later. In the twelve years that the partners searched for each other, Paul never connected his field with the Harry Kogen who leads the National Farm and Home Hour orchestra and several other radio units. The pair met by accident recently when Jonas, who is a Joliet (Ill.) orchestra leader, visited Chicago.

The quintet of Hawaiian Sereaders hails from the South Sea Islands. Joseph Rodgers, the director, picked up the other four members and brought them to America. They are William Joseph, Frank Antiseri, Jim Hapikini and Samson Akaka.

One of the most enthusiastic admirers of Dean Gleson L. Archer, who broadcasts talks on law over a National network weekly, is an elderly blind man who sends gifts ranging from rare books on Colonial history to boxes of fruit.

MONEY TO BURN

By Peter B. Kyne

© by Peter B. Kyne

THE STORY

Hiram Butterworth, miser, decides to leave his fortune to Elmer Clarke, a poor young nephew. He tells Absalom McPeake, his lawyer, of a deal forty years ago in which he swindled a man out of $40,000, and arranged for payment with interest. Butterworth dies suddenly. Through a gossiping telegraph operator the town of Pilarctos hears of Elmer's fortune before he does.

CHAPTER III—Continued

"Well, Elmer?" she queried. "Well, Nellie?" he echoed. "You're keeping something from me, Elmer."

"If I am, Nellie, I don't know what it is. Do you?" "Well, I've heard, Elmer, that Uncle Hiram Butterworth has left you a million dollars."

"Interesting if true, Nellie. The stories that are circulated in this town and gain credence are unbelievable. However, Nellie, I have got some news for you, and you can believe this. That human leech Ansel Moody stopped me on the street half an hour ago and told me he'd accept my application for five thousand and give me an open credit for twenty-five hundred more. I'm going up at noon to close my lease on H. Wasservogel's old butcher shop."

Nellie came closer to Elmer and took each lapel in her little brown hands. "Elmer," she warned, "beware the Greeks when they come bringing gifts. Do not accept that loan and do not treat for that lease today. Please!"

"Why?" "I don't think you ought to. Today is not the day for you to discuss anything with anybody—even with me."

"Have you been going in for astrology, Nellie?"

"No, but the little birds tell me things."

"I had an impression that in Pilarctos that was the prerogative of old hens," he replied. "Very well, Nellie, I'll not do anything, then, without consulting my manager."

She drenched him with her smile and continued on to her work. She was paying teller for the Pilarctos Commercial Trust & Savings bank and one of old Ansel's dummy directors.

Nellie also was the trust officer of the bank and a notary public. Like Elmer Clarke, she was an orphan. She was twenty-two years old and while already in Pilarctos she was regarded as an old maid, more or less in the here and yellow leaf, she was still the recipient of much attention from the most presentable of the Pilarctos swains and was reputed to have declined to marry each of them.

Elmer Clarke, the last of a stricken field, was holding his own with Nellie, however. Two years had passed since first he had sat with her on the veranda of the Tully house, where Nellie made her home with old Mr. and Mrs. Tully.

Before Elmer could escape inside the Smoke Shoppe, he felt a hand plucking at his sleeve. The messenger had arrived with the telegram from Absalom McPeake. Elmer signed for it, read it, tucked it in his pocket and returned to the Smoke Shoppe. Sam Haskins waited for him to say something—waited five minutes, in fact, and then said:

"No bad news, I hope, Elmer." Elmer shook his head and went on wiping dust off the stock. Presently Sam Haskins essayed another sortie.

"Elmer, they tell me you've fallen heir."

"I have," Elmer answered without enthusiasm. Sam awaited him smartly between the shoulder blades again. "Well, why don't you say something, Elmer?"

"Nothing to say, Sam. The whole town knows it already. You couldn't expect Old Lady Bray to live with that news bottled up inside her, could you?"

"Reckon she'd bust if she tried it, Elmer." Sam heaved a heavy sigh. "I suppose this means it's up to me to get myself some new help," he added.

Now that Sam had opened the ticklish subject Elmer was quick to take advantage of the opening. "Yes, Sam, I don't suppose either of us can afford the luxury of a million-dollar man working for forty dollars a week. However, Sam, I was going to leave you, anyhow. In fact, it was my intention to slip you the bad news tonight. This telegram hasn't made the slightest bit of difference, because the news it contains is as great a surprise to me as it was to Old Lady Bray. I was going to quit you to go into business for myself."

"To what line?" Sam's tone was freighted with anxiety. "Same line as this."

"What? After working for me five years an' learnin' the business from me, you figure on startin' opposition?" Sam Haskins lost his temper completely. "It's a rotten trick to play on me, Elmer."

"I'm sorry you think so. At any rate, your protest does not move me, so you have my resignation, to take effect immediately. I wouldn't work a split second for a man who thinks I'm capable of dirty tricks and who has as little appreciation of loyalty and ability as you possess." And Elmer tossed the cheesecloth under the counter, took his salary to date from the cash register, made out a receipt for it—and walked out of the Smoke Shoppe.

"You goin' to let me down without notice?" Sam cried incredulously. "I wasn't—until you talked that way. Hereafter, Sam, get along the best way you know how."

He walked away down Main street, only to be stopped by a concerted rush of men congregated across the street. They pumped his hand, slapped his back and showered him with congratulations.

Eventually Elmer escaped from them and continued on down to the Pilarctos Commercial Trust & Savings bank. At Nellie's window he paused long enough to hand her the telegram from McPeake and continued on to Ansel Moody's office.

The banker rose expeditiously and shook hands with him. "Well, Elmer, did you bring the search of the title of your C street property with you?" he inquired with mock interest.

Elmer sat down. "I've decided not to go into that business after all, Mr. Moody," he announced. "Since speaking with you this morning I have returned the telegram to him. "I'm awfully happy for your sake, Elmer," she told him. "Still, this is not a surprise to me. I told you in fact that within a week your ship would come in."

"Thank you, Nellie. I came down to tell you first, but of course you knew it already. Old Lady Bray had broadcast it."

"Yes, she telephoned me first, Elmer." Ansel Moody turned to his paying teller and trust officer. "Why didn't you telephone me this great news, Miss Cathcart?" he demanded.

"I would have informed you when I reached the bank this morning, Mr. Moody, if Alice Goodfellow hadn't told me she had telephoned you at your home."

Old Ansel could have stabbed her with his paper knife. "To cover his confusion he picked up the telegram and studied it carefully."

"Sure somebody ain't tryin' to play a practical joke on you, Elmer?" he asked finally. "If you want, I'll wire some bank in Muscatine an' ask them to investigate an' report."

"If you will be kind enough to do that, Mr. Moody, I will be under obligation to you."

"Certainly, Miss Cathcart, attend to that matter, please, Elmer, if this bank can serve you in any way, always remember that that's what we're here for—to serve our customers. Good luck to you, boy, an' God bless you!"

He shook hands with Elmer again, very cordially, and answered the telephone. Elmer followed Nellie out into the lobby of the bank.

"Don't be misled by Mr. Moody's friendliness, Elmer," she warned him. "He's after your account. If he hadn't had advance information he would not have wasted your time this morning and offered to finance you."

"Think so?" Elmer was a trifle doubtful. "Know so. The man's a shark. Be careful of him. He'll try to get your confidence and unload some of his own cats and dogs on you under the guise of advising you in your investments. In fact, you'll have a great number of people sacrificing themselves to the solemn duty of safeguarding that million dollars, Elmer. Heretofore you had a host of friends who loved you for what you are. You will now double the number of your friends. Be careful of them, Elmer. They will love you for what you have. That, by the way," she added, "is the first and only advice I am going to give you and I prefer to give it to you before you come into your inheritance. I loathe competition."

Elmer was about to say something that had been close to his heart for two years, but reflected in time that the lobby of a bank was not the proper place to say it. Moreover, Mr. Crittenden, the cashier, had come out of his office now and was proffering a congratulatory handshake.

"You'll find that wealth is a burden," he informed the new millionaire sagely. "Put it in bonds, Elmer—Liberty bonds. The interest yield is small, but it's safe."

Elmer caught the small smile in back of Nellie's lovely eyes as he left the bank. On the sidewalk he met Ed Wyatt, mayor of the town, who promptly corralled him.

"Conserve it, Elmer, conserve it," his Honor boomed in his mellow, round voice that had a more sincere sincerity in it than near beer. "When you get around to it, see me and I'll put you next to one of the grandest buys in an apricot orchard that is to be found in the state."

Elmer thanked him and proceeded on his way. But not very far. Late in the evening he was awakened by a knocking at his door.

He opened the door and found a man in a blue uniform standing on his porch. "What's that?" he asked.

"That's the police, Elmer. Kidwell, the chief of police, called him over to his car and, leaning out, gave him his card, after first writing on it: 'To all peace officers:'"

"The bearer, Elmer B. Clarke, is a personal friend of mine. Any courtesies extended will be appreciated."

"You'll be getting yourself a new car, Elmer," the chief prophesied, "and this card might help you with the traffic officers."

Elmer tucked the card away in his wallet, a little pleased to have it in case of emergency. Arriving home, he changed into an old suit and gum boots, climbed into his second-hand flivver and departed for his favorite trout stream.

It was dark when he returned to Pilarctos. He changed his clothes and drove around to the Tully house. He found Nellie seated on the front porch.

"Have you had your dinner, Elmer?" she asked. "No, Nellie. Thought I'd come around and take you to dinner out to Joe Angelotti's. Been fishing. Didn't have much luck, but got enough for you and me. Joe will cook them for us."

She climbed into the coupe and took the wheel. "I'll drive, Elmer. Something tells me you have had a hard day."

"I have, Nellie. I've been experiencing the burden of wealth. Already old enemies show a disposition to let sleeping dogs lie and the Elmer B. Clarke Benevolent and Protective Association is in process of organization exactly as you foretold."

"What are you going to do, Elmer?" "I'm going to Muscatine as soon as I can, have a consultation with McPeake, learn what the estate consists of and then decide what I am going to do. While I'm away you can use the flivver."

"Thanks, Elmer. Want me to feed your dog and the canaries?" He turned toward her impulsively and laid his hand over hers, where it clasped the wheel. "You're a sweetheart, Nellie," he murmured.

Nellie looked at him with love lights in her eyes, but suddenly remembering that he was now a millionaire and she must not be guilty tonight of a tendency toward a sentiment she would not have bothered to repress if Elmer had been as poor as Job's famed turkey, she withdrew her hand from under his and asked him how many trout he had caught that day.

"Ten nice ones, Nellie. Somehow I couldn't keep my mind on the fish today. It's quite a shock to become a millionaire without warning."

"You'll grow accustomed to it. By the time the novelty of buying whatever you want has worn off, you'll have learned much of men and motives. Probably, too, you'll have learned much not live in Pilarctos."

"Really, Nellie, you wouldn't blame me for leaving this little country town of three thousand inhabitants. I've been weary of it for a long, long time."

"You've had the wanderlust ever since you went away to the war," Nellie complained. "However, I suppose you'll come back occasionally to visit your real friends in Pilarctos."

"Of course, Nellie. By the way, did Moody receive an answer from the Muscatine bank?"

"Not up to the time I left the office." "I'm not going to make any definite plans until that telegram comes, Nellie. Suppose McPeake's telegram has been garbled in transit. Suppose some trick clause should develop in the will. Suppose I have to do some foolish thing before I'll be eligible as a residuary legatee; suppose I decide not to do it and the million dollars goes to charity."

"Better play safe, Elmer. Tackle Ansel Moody for a large unsecured loan tomorrow morning. If the bank confirms the McPeake telegram, he'll fall all over himself to accommodate you. Then if your inheritance proves a disappointment you'll not be at Moody's mercy."

Elmer laughed. "I'll do it," he declared. "It'll be nice to know I have a ten thousand dollar credit."

"Make it twenty thousand and see if you can get away with it."

"It would be nice to have the money in case a cog slipped in that will," he agreed. "Well, I'll try old Ansel out in the morning."

He and Nellie had dinner at Joe Angelotti's Italian tavern ten miles out on the country turnpike. They danced until midnight to jazz strains from a radio with a loud speaker and drove home very happy in the second-hand coupe.

At parting that night Elmer Clarke kissed Nellie Cathcart for the first time since he had known her—and he had known her since his twelfth year. Nellie offered no serious objection. However, with maidenly repression, she did not invite a shower of osculation, and when Elmer seemed about to unload the secret he had reserved for unloading until he could afford to offer Nellie worldly comforts far in excess of those she at present enjoyed, she reminded him that he was not to make any plans until the morning.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Men seldom think deeply on subjects on which they have no choice of opinion; they are fearful of encountering obstacles to their faith.—Sheridan.

Drawbacks to Thought

Men seldom think deeply on subjects on which they have no choice of opinion; they are fearful of encountering obstacles to their faith.—Sheridan.

*****

Old Testament Writers Not Botanically Exact

Perhaps it is not to be wondered at that the Old Testament writers writing in, or at least of, a remote antiquity, should not be extremely exact in their botanical or other natural history nomenclature.

In early days men were not very particular about the naming of the trees of the field. There seems to have been a tendency then, as now, to place all trees in two classes, those that shed their leaves each autumn and those which do not. Just as we roughly speak of the first class as hardwood and the conifers with their perennial foliage as soft wood. Under the generic term fir, or it may be gopher wood, they classed the cedar, the fir, the cypress, the pine and the hemlock, while the wood oak covered a variety, possibly most of the trees of the hardwood or deciduous kind.

The sacred writers, we must always remember, were not concerned about imparting scientific knowledge or names. Their one great aim was to display the progress of God's revelation to his people and their attitude towards him, and his revelation.—Montreal Herald.

*****

Valley of Aare

If one would seek nature in a bewitching mood he should visit the valley of Aare. The River Aare had such an enormous hold on the imagination of Wyes he was inspired to write:

"Sometimes the Aare seems to me a young river god—rushing impetuously from its cavern and traversing the plains with easy speed, escorted by its troop of polychrome brothers. Before long, caught in cupid's bonds, he joins hands with some maid and lastly stretches himself in the lakes of Brienz and Thun, as if he wanted to taste the joys of calm repose." Core also remarked about this part of Switzerland, over a century ago: "It is impossible to describe all these majestic and astonishing scenes, for indeed they defy the strongest powers of pen and pencil."

*****

"Ain't Dat Sumpin'?"

The colored parson had invited a stranger to address the congregation, and wishing to say something wonderful in his introductory remarks, said, "Brethren and sisters, the gentleman who am to speak to you dis mo'nin' am de Soundin' Brass and de Tinkin' Cymbal of de Northern Methodist Church."—Exchange.

STOP YOUR COLD
IN 6 HOURS WITH

DAROL

Breaks a cold in 6 hours.
Drives it away in 12 hours.Relieves
Headache—Neuralgia—PainsMcKesson & Robbins Quality Since 1837Excellent Maxims for the Conduct of Life

My code of life and conduct is simply this, George Jean Nathan writes, in the Forum and Century: Work hard; play to the allowable limit, disregard equally the good or bad opinion of others; never do a friend a dirty trick; eat and drink what you feel like when you feel like; never grow indignant over anything; trust to tobacco for calm and serenity; bathe twice a day; modify the esthetic philosophy of Croce but slightly with that of Santayana and achieve for oneself a pragmatic sufficiency in the beauty of the esthetic surface of life. Learn to play at least one musical instrument and then play it only in private; never allow oneself even a passing thought of death; never contradict anyone or seek to prove anything to anyone unless one gets paid for it in cold, hard coin; live the moment to the utmost of its possibilities; treat one's enemies with polite inconsideration; avoid persons who are chronically in need, and be satisfied with life always, but never with oneself.

An infinite belief in the possibilities of oneself, with a coincidental critical assessment and derision of one's achievements; self-respect combined with a measure of self-surgery; aristocracy of mind combined with democracy of heart; forthrightness with modesty or at least with good manners; dignity with a quiet laugh; honor and honesty and decency—these are the greatest qualities that man can hope to attain. And as one man, my hope is to attain them.

DROWN YOUR HEADACHE
In This Cup of Tea!

Easy intestinal movement causes painful headaches. When the system clogs, make yourself a cup of fragrant Garfield Tea. Its effects are prompt—gentle but decidedly certain. The sense of heaviness vanishes from the stomach. Garfield Tea is thoroughly harmless and the sure, pleasant way to flush the bowels.

At all drug stores
GARFIELD
TEA

Living Characters Used on Ancient Chessboard

The Mogul emperors of India carried out some strange plans in connection with their domestic life, and a visitor to the famous fort in Agra will be able to see some of the beautiful buildings used as part of the seraglio. One of the most interesting features in the open space in the center of the fort, known as the Anjuri Bagh. This space is divided into many squares, marked off by marble slabs, and covered with green grass. There are broad marble causeways between the separate blocks. It is generally believed that the Mogul emperors used these as chess-boards, and the "pieces" used in the game were young slaves, who changed their position according to the directions of the players, who would be seated in one of the marble pavilions. The game played in those days did not correspond with the modern chess, but was known as pachisi. The size of the Anjuri Bagh is about 250 feet square.

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

*****

PAGE FOUR

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

Thursday, January 7, 1932

The St. Joe News

Published at the postoffice at St. Joe, Indiana, second class matter.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

F. B. Leighty, Editor and Publisher
Lora E. Leighty, Associate Editor

Subscription ..... $1.50 per year

Card of Thanks, Resolutions of respect, Poetry, Business locals and all items pertaining to money raising will be charged for at our regular line rate for advertising.

RHODES

Mrs. Margaret Ann Rhoads was born June 15, 1846. In the year of our Lord, November 10, 1864, a happy day dawned, when Miss Harriett Rhoads, with her heroic efforts to make an earthly home, where God could dwell, they were permitted to accomplish their aim.

On April 4, 1911, Mr. Rhoads was called from his earthly home, to make his anchor in the Haven of rest. While the dark clouds hung heavy by the loss of this companion, her children administered unto her, but like one of old, her longing was to depart and be with Christ Jesus.

On January 3, 1932, the pale horse and his rider, whose name is death, came to the home of Mrs. Amanda Rhoads, where she was making her home, and called her in the stillness of the night, this was her great desire to slip peacefully, quietly away.

Surviving are four daughters: Mrs. Amanda Rhoads, Mrs. Frances Lake, Mrs. Laura Chapple, of Davenport, Ia., Mrs. Ella Emerick, Huntstown; two sons, Charles Rhoads, Green Bay, Wis., and W. F. Rhoads, Fort Wayne; thirty grandchildren, twenty-one great grandchildren and one great great grandchild; two brothers, Aaren Harrold, Churubusco, Daniel Harrold, LaOtto; two sisters, Mrs. Francina Klingler, Mrs. Eliza Cuney, LaOtto.

Mrs. Rhoads was a member of the Lutheran Church.

Funeral services were held from the Lutheran Church, conducted by Rev. Homer Studabaker. Burial in White City cemetery.

BEERBOWER

Venus Josephine Beerbower, daughter of Albert and Clara Beerbower, was born December 10, 1906. Venus was a graduate of the Spencerville High School, in the class of 1924. While at home she took an active part in the Methodist Church, cheerfully working for her Master builder, building upon a foundation which can not be moved, Jesus Christ the solid rock.

November 6, 1928, Venus became the bride of Orville Corbin. The Rev. George Hubbard joining them in holy wedlock. On August 8, 1931, Merrill Kay, came to bless this home, with his child like smiles, only to languish his Mother's echoing smiles a short season.

On December 31, death knocked at the door, closing the life's book at twenty-five years.

She leaves to mourn her departure a husband, one son, father, and mother, three sisters, three brothers, Ruth, at home, Mrs. Mark Tyndall, Mrs. Anna Frysinger, Walter, Joseph and Frank Beerbower.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the M. E. Church, conducted by Rev. Homer Studabaker, with burial in White City cemetery.

WISE

The death of Mrs. Nellie Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cadmus Shull of Coburn's Corners, occurred Sunday evening, and the funeral was held Wednesday afternoon with interment in the Alton cemetery. Obituary will appear next week.

For Rent: Farm of 189 acres, known as the Jno. Swaidner home. It lays 8 miles southwest of St. Joe, Ind., near Ft. Wayne and Hicksville pavement. Write J. R. Cannan, Wapakoneta, Ohio 4917

GRABILL, WEEK DEC 28

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lynde and daughter, Martha and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Woods were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reichelderfer, of Harlan on Christmas.

Alvin A. Gerig returned home Thursday evening after spending several days of last week in New York City on business.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ackerman and son, Bobby, of Marion are spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. Sol Klopfenstein and daughter, Orpha.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Neuen-schwander and daughter, Phyllis were guests of Mrs. Neuen-schwander's father and brother, Mr. J. F. Geiger and Richard, at Fort Wayne for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfenstein entertained at dinner Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Graber and family, Mrs. Emma Grabill and sons, Max and Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klopfenstein and sons, Foster and Calvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Klopfenstein and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fricke called on Mr. Bert Fricke, who is a patient at the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne, Sunday. Miss Elvena Steiner spent several days with her aunt, Mrs. Fricke and family at Monroe.

After spending several days with relatives and friends at Portland and Ridgeville Mr. and Mrs. Loren Schafer returned to their home here Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Klopfenstein and daughter, Orpha had as their guests on Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Adam Ackerman and son, Bobby, of Marion, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gerig and children, Keith and Willodean, and Miss Lavera Sauder.

Mr. Jacob Klopfenstein spent several days at the home of Mrs. Mary Klopfenstein and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sumney and family. Mrs. Catherine Gerig, of near Woodburn is helping care for her mother, Mrs. Anna Shanbeck, who is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Sauder.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Woods were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bailey at Harlan at a six o'clock dinner on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ray and sons, Karl and Bobby spent the week-end with relatives at Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Shank, of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Witmer were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Shank on Christmas.

Mrs. Mina Amstutz and family entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Roth and children Elaine and Wendaldeen, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Amstutz and daughter, Lucile, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neuen-schwander and daughter, Mildred and Miss Mabel Hutker.

Mrs. Glenn R. Woods attended the Pan-Hellenic Breakfast Bridge at the Women's Club in Fort Wayne on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John V. Delagrang and family have returned to their home here after spending several weeks at the home of Mrs. Delagrang's parents. Mrs. Delagrang, who was seriously ill for a couple months, is able to be up and around most of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Cox and daughter, Kathryn moved on a farm southwest of Fort Wayne Monday. Mr. Cox was the assistant care-taker at the Hoosier Silver Black Fox Ranch for the past couple years.

Maurice Gehrig, Jesse Ringenberg, Kenneth Knisely, Richard Holloper and Richard Klopfenstein very pleasantly surprised Paul Roth on his birthday anniversary recently.

A 15-pound raccoon was shot by Glenn Lederman December 22. Miss Bertha Merchant, of South Bend is the guest of Mrs. Glenn R. Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Schlatter and family, of Wapakoneta, O., returned to their home Saturday evening after a short visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Emma Gerig is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Peter Strayer and family at Maumee, O. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Voors and son, Jimmy attended the funeral of Mrs. Meatrice Martin Bobay at the St. Vincent's Catholic Church Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Klopfenstein and family spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Reichelderfer at Harlan.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hartley, of Delta, O., and Mr. Vance Hartley, of Columbus, O., called on friends here Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Ida Stucky, of Ft. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Stucky and children, Virginia and Donald and Mrs. Lydia Gerig and daughter, spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. Jess J. Gerig and sons. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Gerig and family and Miss Lavera Sauder were evening callers.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Witmer enjoyed Christmas dinner with D. R. Yerks and family.

Albert Neuen-schwander attended a Foreign Mission Board meeting in Fort Wayne Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lederman and family were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rupp and family at Wauseon, O., Sunday.

Bernell Klopfenstein resumed his studies at Manchester College Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Holloper and children, Richard and Helen spent Sunday and Monday with the former's brother, Mr. Ray Holloper, at Gary, who is critically ill.

Mrs. Mary Klopfenstein and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sumney and daughters entertained Mr. and Mrs. Irvn L. Klopfenstein and family, Mr. J. P. Klopfenstein, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fricke and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Klopfenstein on Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder and family, of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. George Nuttle and family, of Gar Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lake and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, of south of Harlan, Miss Vera Crodian, of South Whitley, Miss Irene Lake, of Munster college, Mr. Cleland Snyder of Valparaiso University, enjoyed Christmas Day and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klopfenstein and sons, Foster and Calvin. Others who enjoyed lunch and evening at their home were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lake and son, Max of near Yoder, Miss Edith Adams of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Claude Snyder and daughter, Norma Lou, of Kalamazoo, Mich., Miss Jané McNoun of North Manchester, Mrs. Frank Snyder, Bernell and Murray Klopfenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfenstein and Mrs. Emma Grabill and sons, Max and Paul.

BASSETT'S
WELDING SHOP
OXY-ACETYLENE
WELDING
BRAZING
SOLDERING
IN ST. JOE GARAGE

At the
News Office

Local Briefs

Let The News have your films developed.

Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45tf

Charles Woodcox broke his arm Monday evening while cranking his Ford car.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 28tf.

The Misses Marjorie and Lucille Gee, of Hicksville spent a few days last week with their grandmother, Mrs. Flora Gee.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No 45. School supplies of every kind will be found at News office.

Mr. Eugene and Berwick Carper were Saturday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Gee and family. Walter Gee returned with them for a few days visit.

15, 25, 50, 60 and 100 watt bulbs at the Light Office at St. Joe. Also 50 and 100 watt, 220 voltage, and 25, 50 and 100 watt bulbs in 32 volts for Delco plants. All at News office. 8tf.

Mrs. Mary Inhofe of Wakarusa, Ind., is spending a week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Armstrong, also visiting in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ridgway of this place and Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Armstrong of Auburn.

James O. Leek of Terre Haute, Ind., has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination of treasurer of state at the state convention to be held in Indianapolis on June 8 and 9. Mr. Leek was the first republican to be elected treasurer of Vigo county in 20 years.

The regular meeting of Concord, Newville and Spencer townships Community Project was held Wednesday evening, January 6, 1932 at the St. Joe Gymnasium. There was a short business session. Music, community singing. Short talks. The entertainment was given by Keyser Township which put on a play entitled "Farm Bureau Police Court."

The number of births during December in DeKalb county outside of incorporated cities and towns according to a report submitted Tuesday by Dr. W. W. Swarts, county health commissioner, was males 9 and females 7, a total of 16. The deaths numbered 5 of which one was a coroner's case. The number of marriages for December was unusually small, only 16 having been reported.

Used Cars

1928 Pontiac Coach, 6 wire wheels
1930 Model A Ford Tudor.
1929 Model A Ford Roadster.
1926 Model T Ford pickup
1924 Model T Ford Sedan.
Chevrolet Roadster.
Chevrolet Touring.

All of these cars are in A-1 condition. Every car sold with a guarantee. If you are in the market for a new or used car of any make it will pay you to see us before you buy.

The Cities Sales

Authorized Ford Dealers
Hicksville, Ohio
Phone 20. Open Day and Night
(Have Phone Call Charged to Us)

Russel R.
Reidenour
Attorney
Auburn, Ind.

Stanley P. Nelson
Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and Rosedawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Gerald Gee spent the week end in the home of Waldo Baker at Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox and son visited in Detroit during the holidays.

For Sale: A St. Joe residence, for cash or monthly payments. Auburn Building & Loan Assn. 51tf.

You get an enlargement of that snap shot on your first order placed with The News for developing. Let us have your next order.

Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Kilpatrick and daughter, Margaret, of Fort Wayne were guests Thursday and Friday in the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Price.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Carper and son, Berwick, and father, Eugene Carper and Mrs. Foster Gee of this place, were Thursday guests in the home of Mrs. Geo. Packer and family at Lakeville, Ind. Mrs. Gee returned home Friday morning.

C. E.
McCLINTOCK
Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.
Auburn, Indiana

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koch were callers at the John Geisinger home in Garrett Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ridenbach were Sunday evening luncheon guests in the D. E. Witmer home at Grabill.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moore and children were Sunday dinner guests at the Walter White home, south of Garrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shilling and son, Richard, and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Shilling and daughter, Lucille were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Mary Dorsey and family at Lagrange.

BUY
THE NEW
6-in-1
FUSE-PLUG
At Your Local Dealer
The NewsOffice
Ask to See It

FARMERS NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

Your home is your Castle—Your bank your guard

The life of your family—its hopes, fortunes, activities—centers around your home. In many ways your bank is its guardian. When your home was merely a plan—a desire—the bank helped you, through savings and loans, to attain it. Your bank enables you to pay taxes, expenses for repairs—all the costs of its maintenance—easily, surely, without hardship. In the safe-keeping of your reserves—as a trustee for your estate—your bank assures the security and safety of your home and family. At every vulnerable point in the financial fence surrounding your home—your bank protects and guards.

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank
Spencerville, Indiana

Dr. Bonnell M. Souder HOSPITAL

206 WEST SEVENTH STREET
AUBURN'S NEW MODERN FIRE PROOF INSTITUTION
NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC AND ALL PHYSICIANS

Private rooms may be obtained for $17.50, $21.00, $28.00
$30.00 and $35.00 a week

Equipped with all modern conveniences with beds of the new crank style and closets off each room, laboratory and X-ray facilities.

MRS. BURDGE, a registered nurse, is in charge of the hospital

Dr. BONNELL M. SOUDER, will make outside calls on her Father's patients as well as her own.

SPENCERVILLE

The "Rayo" class will meet on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Frances Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitacre, who have been visiting relatives at this place returned to their home at Richmond on Friday.

Mrs. Tressie Kelley and son, Victor and Elmer Smith were Sunday dinner guests at the Floyd Dean home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lash, of Kendallville were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson. Miss Evelyn Miller, who has been visiting her grandparents returned home with them.

The Young Ladies Social Club was entertained on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Bernice Wilder at Coburn's Corners. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Cleo Reed, Miss Alein Rhodes, Mrs. Ruby Kraft and Mrs. LeAnna Steward. The guests were Mrs. Walter Coburn and Mrs. Jean Curie. Mrs. Coburn winning the guest prize.

Mrs. Jean Curie, of Waterloo was a guest last week of Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner.

The C. C. Club will meet on Friday afternoon with Mrs. Cora Steward and daughter, Armita.

Mr. Ethel Bowser and Mrs. Cleo Reed entertained the members of the C. C. Club at their homes in an all day meeting in observance of the twenty years of the club's organization. Dinner was served at 12 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Reed and the program, election of officers and Christmas exchange was held at the Bowser home in the afternoon. Nine charter members of the club were present of the original 15 charter members and they were presented carnations, the club flower by the hostesses. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Mesdames Tressie Kelley, Lizzie Wearley and Jennie Walter. The new officers are: President, Mrs. Zephra Steward; vice president, Mrs. Golden High; secretary, treasurer, Mrs. Minta Rhodes; assistant, Mrs. Ruby Kraft. Nine guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Baker of Fort Wayne were Saturday guests at the Ray Baker home.

Miss Marvella Brattian was a guest at the birthday dinner given on Sunday at the home of Miss Josephine Fisher.

The Home Missionary Society will hold an all day meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Culbertson. Pot luck dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brattian spent Sunday afternoon at the Lutheran hospital visiting Mrs. Ralph Brattian, who was recently injured in an automobile accident.

Kenton McCrory, who has been spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCrory, returned to Greencastle where he will resume his studies at DePauw.

Mr. and Mrs. Vol Hay and Madonna Kelley were New Year's guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bowser. Alva Place, wife and children, of Fort Wayne were guests last week in the same home.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Lochner. Fourteen members were present and three guests, Rev. Homer Studabaker, George Lochner and Mildred Osborne. The Aid elected officers at this time as follows: President, Miss Armina Steward; vice president, Mrs. Ethel Bowser; secretary, Mrs. Elsie Fisher; assistant secretary, Mrs. Gertrude Wasson; treasurer, Mrs. Golden High; assistant, Mrs. Mary Lochner; committee on birthday months, Mrs. Ethel Bowser, Mrs. Minta Rhodes and Mrs. Elsie Fisher.

CONCORD

Hog cholera is getting closer to our community.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins were in Fort Wayne Wednesday stopping.

Miss Tracy Bassett is spending a few days in the Virgil Bassett home.

Mrs. Sherman Rickett spent Monday evening in the Mrs. Chas. Jackson home.

Mrs. Daisy Keeler, of St. Joe spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Flossie Bassett and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kriese entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Swartz of Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Fetter, and Mrs. John Fetter, called on the little grandson Ervin Jay Fetter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bone went to Hicksville Sunday to see Wayne Scott, who is in a critical condition, has heart trouble.

Ford Jackson and family, Bert Jackson and Mrs. Chas. Jackson and daughter, Mabel spent Sunday in the Holl Jackson home.

Scarlet fever is about in the community and special care should be taken to keep other children from coming in contact with it.

Mrs. Marie Draggoo and daughter, Eloise spent Friday in the Ira Bone and Ford Jackson homes. Eloise remained over night with her friend, Iris.

Tuesday of last week while Mrs. Chas. Morr and daughter, Cleota, were at Fort Wayne and Mr. Morr was helping Chas. Murphy butcher, B. A. Rhodes and family of Fort Wayne, Joyce and husband and two friends, drove in to spend the day. They stayed until late in order to see them all. Mr. George Wilson was also a late caller.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public
In General

Monday morning the scholars were back to their old schedule again. It seems such hard work just after the vacation. Some one expressed the idea that one week vacation was just enough to get used to loafing. The day showed a few absences. Apparently they were still on their vacation. The teachers hope the idea of vacation soon blows over.

Howard Dermott and Mayola Dove were absent Monday.

The Home Economics department has purchased a new wall clock, wooden mixing spoons, and individual cake tins. The funds came from the profits of soup days. Bring on the soup!

Our principal gave a little reminder this morning that some good drilling would help the cause of finals. He suggested that all social engagements be called off until the hurdle is made.

There will be a few changes in the daily schedule for the second semester. Some of these changes are being worked out now preparatory to their placement in the program of studies.

Due to the fact that severe weather may be just around the corner, our trustee took advantage of the pleasant weather today to put in several tons of coal.

The basket ball boys resumed their customary practice hours beginning tonight. The junior high team practices immediately after school.

Our new boxing gloves continue to be as popular as ever; even the little fellows enjoy taking punches at opponents.

The library has been enlarged by the addition of some new books. Several copies of reference books for American history together with a new set of The World Books makes the reference section much more complete. Several copies of good fiction and short stories were added to the literary section. Of course the fiction is much more popular than any other type. Nearly every new copy was checked out today to some student or teacher.

Reviews have begun for the finals of next week.

Classes were regular today due to the non-appearance of Mr. Harshman, our music teacher.

The classes in music will be held up until the piano is again in condition for use.

Spencerville basket ball schedule for the rest of the season:
Feb. 6, Waterloo ..... There.
Feb. 12, Harlan ..... There.
Feb. 13, Hamilton ..... There.
Feb. 19, Auburn ..... Here.
Feb. 26, Leo ..... Here.
March 4, LaOtto ..... There.

We Print

PACKET HEADS
LETTER HEADS
INVITATIONS
STATEMENTS
BILL HEADS
ENVELOPES
RECEIPTS
DODGERS
FOLDERS
BLANKS
CARDS
TAGS

... and guarantee your satisfaction with our work

"The Supreme Authority"

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Here's the EVIDENCE
Hundreds of Supreme Court Justices and other high officials of the Government have testified to its value.

The President and Department Heads of all leading Universities and Colleges give their endorsement.
The Government Printing Office at Washington uses the New International as the standard authority. It is Official in all branches of the Government.
The Colleges voted overwhelmingly in favor of Webster as standard of pronunciation in answer to questions submitted by the Chicago Women's Club.

Get The Best
At Your Bookstore, or send for free illustrated booklet.

G. & C. MERRIAM COMPANY
Springfield, Mass.

For Long Winter Evenings
Brighten Up!

The sun may set about 5 P. M.—but not Edison MAZDA Lamps. Rather, that's when they set to work—brightening up thousands of homes. And that's why Edison MAZDA Lamps are known from coast to coast as "The Sun's Only Rival."

We're sure you don't enjoy trying to work, trying to read, trying to sew, trying to cook, trying to see in the half-light of these early evenings. But you'd more than enjoy whole long winter evenings if you could bask in the plentiful, cheerful brilliance of light freely used.

Don't spend another evening in gloom. Spend a few cents with us for Edison MAZDA Lamps. For your convenience in always having spares on hand, we recommend a handy carton of six lamps.

St. Joe News Office

Old Playmate
Folkie did it like you had funny ways. They used to wonder what I found to praise.
Reproduced by permission of the copyright owners.

HARRY's a fresh idea—a new twist on the "Old Gang of Mine" type of song. It has a sweet, appealing melody, climaxing in a vigorous finish. One of the things that struck me when I first heard it was the sensible way its lyrics had been handled, its eulogy of a boyhood chum being achieved without approaching the maudlin or mawkish type of sentiment. As far as I know this is the first time a tribute of this sort has found expression in a popular song.

Matt Mainek and Gus Kahn (the old reliable) are the authors. Matt has been associated with Paul Whiteman's orchestra for a long time as violinist and arranger, and is also the composer of "I'm Through with Love." He is a talented boy, and has written several lovely violin concertos in the modern manner. White-

Reviewed by
Bing Crosby

Charter No. 459
Report of the condition of Farmers and Merchants State Bank at Spencerville in the State of Indiana, at the close of its business on December 31, 1931.

F. E. Rhodes, President
L. B. Fisher, Vice President
C. G. Rectenwall, Cashier

RESOURCES
Loans and Discounts	$119 439 06
Overdrafts	17 62
Other Bonds and Securities, etc.	45 584 41
Banking House	2 749 88
Furniture and Fixtures	1 473 14
Due from Trust Companies, Banks and Bankers	16 036 73
and Cash on Hand	1 400 00
Trust Securities	1 400 00
Total	$186 900 84

LIABILITIES
Capital Stock—Paid In	$ 25 000 00
Surplus	10 000 00
Undivided Profits—Net	12 204 99
Demand Deposits	32 314 81
Demand Certificates	96 761 46
Savings Deposits	4 019 53
Bills Payable	5 000 00
Trust Investments	1 400 00
Total	$186 900 84

State of Indiana
County of DeKalb, ss:

I, C. G. Rectenwall, Cashier of the Farmers & Merchants State Bank of Spencerville do solemnly swear that the above statement is true.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 5th day of January, 1932.
(Seal) William M. Allen, Notary Public.
My Commission Expires January 13, 1935.

HER JELLY WINS PRIZE
AS CLEVELAND'S BEST

Mrs. Duncan Takes Honors With Grape Jelly Made By Short-Boil Method

Does "grandmother's art" still flourish in a big city? Can city-dwelling women make good jelly?

The answer to those questions—so important to every man with a sweet tooth—were sought, recently, by a Cleveland newspaper which held a contest to see who was the best jelly-maker in town.

And the answer, in both cases, was "yes."
Scores of women from every section of Cleveland and from every walk of life entered glasses of their jelly in the contest, which carried cash prizes for the winners. But when the tasting and the testing were finished, Mrs. Mattie Duncan, a white-haired lady who lives at 19711 Rugby Road, was adjudged the winner.

Her grape jelly, made the short-boil way, with bottled fruit pectin, was found to be the best. The judges were Ruth Merriam Wells of the Cleveland News, Winifred Van Duzer and Florence La Genke—all well-known home economists.
"My family has always liked my jelly," Mrs. Duncan said, "but I never thought I'd win first prize against all the good cooks of Cleveland."
Although grapes are not now in season, jelly just like Mrs. Duncan's can be made from bottled grape juice and bottled fruit pectin.

MRS. MATTIE DUNCAN

Here is the recipe:
Grape Jelly from Bottled Juice
8 cups (1 lb.) grape juice
8 cups (1 lb.) bottled fruit pectin
4 bottles (16 cups) fruit pectin
Measure cups and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 5 minutes. Remove from fire, strain, pour quickly. Pack in hot jelly at once. Makes about 6 quart-size glasses.

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"If ye love me, keep my commandments," Jn. 14: 15.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.
Children's service at 6:45 P. M.
in charge of Mrs. Harrold.
Evening message at 7:15.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Morning message at 10:30.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
Christian Endeavor at 6:00 P. M.

V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE
Willard Hurns, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

DAIRY

FINE DAIRY RECORD
OF HOLSTEIN COWSMilk Production That Goes
Into Five Figures.

When dairymen are being urged to cull cows that fail to pay their own way by giving at least 5,000 pounds of milk in a year, S. J. Brownell of the New York State College of Agriculture tells of sixteen Holstein cows' records for the past year.

Eight of these cows each gave more than 20,000 pounds of milk, three had records of more than 300 pounds of butterfat and five exceeded 700 pounds of fat. The sixteen cows averaged 19,821 pounds of milk and 699 pounds of fat to the cow, and some of the records were made by first-calf and second-calf heifers, he adds.

Canary Hope Ormsby Lass, a seven-year-old Holstein owned by the Shawangunk Valley stock farm at Walkkill, took her place as the forty-first highest producing Holstein in the United States for mature cows milked four times daily. In 365 days she gave 24,777 pounds of milk containing 889 pounds of fat. She is the tenth New York Holstein during the past testing year, and the one hundred and eighty-seventh on the all-time state list, to exceed 800 pounds of butterfat.

Another cow in the same herd, Daisy Tenke Sensation, has completed a senior four-year-old record of 24,777 pounds of milk containing 885 pounds of butterfat to rank sixth in the nation and first in New York state for her age and class.

Treatment for Udder

Weakness in Good Cows

Cows that leak their milk may be among the best in the herd. There is probably no remedy for this condition that applies to all cases but these suggestions were offered recently in Hoard's Dairyman: "Milking several times daily to relieve pressure on the udder will help if it can be conveniently done. Someone has suggested immersing the teats in a saturated solution of alum or a solution of one part tannic acid and eight parts glycerine. Dipping the ends of the teats in tincture of iodine and working a little of the tincture into the milk duct is also helpful. Applying flexible collodion to the tip of the teat after each milking is recommended by some." The writer has tried only the three-times-a-day milking instead of the regular twice daily milking and with notably good results. Fortunately this udder weakness is not common and with most cows that have it the loss extends only through the period of flush production.

Money in Curry Comb

Two implements seldom used in many dairy barns are the curry comb and brush. In one stable of 100 cows I could not find a comb. One veterinarian frequently prescribes currying in mild sickness to stimulate circulation and aid excretion through the pores.

Occasionally unhandled heifers are suspicious and it may be a trial to break them to milk. A curry comb gives them confidence in their caretakers.

My neighbor bought a load of range heifers as breeders. They were somewhat wild, but his son took a curry comb and started among them. In a month he could go up to any heifer. It was all due to the currying.

The dairy herd carried during winter will shed better, be more healthy and more comfortable than the one with a season's dust and filth. With a curried herd it is easier to produce a good quality of milk. Add to this the price felt in clean, well kept stock, which in itself is a real asset, —Capper's Farmer.

Proper Care of Cream

The dairy division of the department of agriculture, University of Minnesota, has launched a project on the care of cream on the farm. The plan is to make a special study of cream as delivered to the state experimental creamery at Albert Lea. A complete survey of the conditions under which cream is produced by patrons delivering cream to the state creamery will be made. Then a similar survey will be made in a section where a lower grade of cream is produced. These two surveys will permit a comparison of conditions in territories where high grade and low grade cream are the rule. Co-operation of several large creamery enterprises has been secured.

The outcome will be recommendations to farmers as to better methods in the care of their dairy products.

DAIRY NOTES

At no time has the poor dairy cow been such a luxury as she is today.

Five states, Wisconsin, Minnesota, New York, Illinois, and Texas, have more than 1,000,000 dairy cows.

To get a uniform test of cream, it is important to turn the cream separator at the speed recommended by the manufacturer.

IMPROVED
UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY
SCHOOL Lesson(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1931, Western Newspaper Union)

Lesson for January 10

THE FIRST DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—John 1:19-51.
GOLDEN TEXT—The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Makes Five New Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Makes Five New Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Follow Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Bringing Others to Christ.

I. John Pointing out the Lamb of God (vv. 19-34).

Through the testimony of John the Baptist, his disciples were directed to Jesus. His theme was "The Lamb of God, the Sin-bearer of the World."

II. Two of John's Disciples Followed Jesus (vv. 35-37).

As a result of the Baptist's testimony, two of his disciples left him and followed Jesus. One of these disciples was Andrew (v. 40) and presumably the other was John, the apostle. When John pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God, the long-expected Messiah, these disciples sought further acquaintance with Jesus. Through John's testimony, they looked upon the Lord. When they looked, they believed. The proof of their belief was their following after him. John speaks, the disciples hear and follow. The whole plan of salvation is wrapped up in this simple testimony and action.

III. The Two Disciples Abiding with Jesus (vv. 38, 39).

1. Jesus' question (v. 38). Seeing the disciples following him, Jesus most kindly inquired as to their object.

2. The disciples' reply (v. 39). They answered his question by inquiring as to his dwelling place. Their reply showed their desire to go apart privately where they could disclose their hearts to him. Knowing that he invited them to his place of abode. Therefore, for the remainder of that day they held sweet intercourse with the Master.

IV. The Disciples Bringing Others to Jesus (vv. 40-42).

This portion of the lesson is one of the most inspiring passages of the Bible for the encouragement of soul winning.

The very genius of Christianity is self-propagation. The usual method is to begin with those nearest us—home folk and relatives—and then pass out to ever widening circles. The disciples, who were with Jesus in blessed fellowship, go at once to tell others of the priceless treasure they have found.

1. Andrew brings Peter (vv. 40-42). This is a beautiful example of brotherly affection, expressing itself in bringing another to Christ. The best place to begin our testimony to Christ is among our kinsfolk (Luke 8:39). This was a great piece of work for Andrew, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church of God. This was with keeping with what Christ announced, for when Jesus beheld him he said, "Thou art Simon, the son of John. Thou shalt be called Cephas"—meaning a stone.

2. Philip bringing Nathanael (vv. 43-45). Christ found Philip the following day as he was going forth into Galilee. Philip followed him in response to a personal invitation. Then Philip found Nathanael and witnessed to him concerning the messiahship of Jesus. He said unto him, "We have found him, of whom Moses in the law and the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth" (v. 45). Christ is the sum and substance of the Old Testament. Nathanael was somewhat skeptical, but was honest. The proper thing is to invite the skeptical to put Christ to a test. Christianity welcomes inquiry.

V. Nathanael Seeing and Hearing Jesus Testifies to His Deity (vv. 47-49).

As soon as Nathanael heard and saw Jesus, all his doubts rolled away. Jesus proved that he was the omniscient One. We do not know what Nathanael was doing under the fig tree. Perhaps he was praying for heavenly light and guidance. Jesus saw him while there. He who acts upon the light given shall see greater things (vv. 50, 51). Angels ascending and descending upon the Son of man with the open heavens show that Jesus Christ is the means of communication between earth and heaven (Heb. 10:10, 20; Eph. 2:18; Gen. 28:12).

This narrative concerning the experiences of the first disciples exhibits the following stages of Christian experience:

1. Hearing about Jesus (v. 30).
2. Looking upon Jesus (v. 30).
3. Following Jesus (v. 37).
4. Abiding with Jesus (v. 39).
5. Witnessing for Jesus (vv. 41-45).
6. Bringing others to Jesus.

The Present Duty

Between the great things we cannot do, and the small things we will not do, there is great danger that we shall do nothing. There are not a few people waiting for an opportunity to be heroes, or something unusually brilliant, who in the meanwhile are not ordinary useful citizens.

Meet God

"Meet God in the secret place each day before you come in contact with the world."

African Province Found

to Be Fleasless Oasis

A plague prevention survey of Africa resulted in the discovery of a spot which is absolutely free of fleas and the incident was regarded as so remarkable that the investigators tarried for some explanation of the unusual situation. This favored spot was the town of Prieska and the country immediately surrounding it. Fleas are notoriously good carriers of the germs of this disease and therefore the entire wide reaches of Africa were systematically searched for animals carrying infected species of "pulex irritans." Hence it means of "pulex irritans" dogs at Prieska, which lies on the Karroo prairies of the Cape of Good Hope province, were searched for fleas by the medical men.

Not a solitary jumper could be found. Every cur, even the most neglected and mongrel native-owned brutes, was absolutely devoid of them.

The theory of some residents is that the nitrates in the barren lands surrounding this particular settlement act as a natural disinfectant.

One or the Other
Blinks—Is your wife a good driver? Blinks—I'm not sure whether she is or all the other drivers she meets are.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Faith is the soul going out of itself for all its wants.—Boston.

For wise

MOTHERS

During these winter days, wise mothers strengthen their children with Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It contains Vitamin A in abundance. This helps build up sturdy resistance against colds and against many other common childhood ailments. Then there is a wealth of the "sunshine vitamin" (D) in this emulsion that promotes the development of strong bones and teeth—a matter so important in growing children. Pleasantly flavored. Easy for children to take. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

Lenten to the Scott & Bowne radio program on Sunday night at 8:30 p. m. over the Columbia Radio Network.

Scott's Emulsion
OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

World's Slowest Animals

A rare three-clawed sloth was picked up by C. S. Webb, the explorer. It was swimming in a British Guiana river, two miles to the land. Day Dream is estimated to be about five years old. "It took her," said Mr. Webb, "exactly 3 minutes 47 seconds to climb from my boots to my shoulders, and I am not a giant." She was said to be at the top of her form. According to Mr. Webb, she and her mates live in perpetual twilight, more than 100 feet above ground. Sloth eyesight is so feeble that Day Dream wears a staring target pattern between her shoulders, or prospective hunters would never be able to "find the lady."

Liquid Air Production

About 800 cubic feet of air at ordinary temperature and pressure are required to produce one cubic foot of liquid air.

RELIEVES HEAD, CHEST and BACK COLDS

ALBATUM 35¢

Stainless "Rub In" and inhalant unsurpassed in preventing and relieving cold congestions.
McKesson & Robbins
SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES

MIAMI BILTMORE hotelCORAL GABLES
MIAMI, FLORIDA

Marcel A. Gotschli, Managing Director

Under new ownership and new policies... with its many improvements... the special arrangements thru new affiliations for guests' golfing, fishing, tennis, bathing and other sports, the Biltmore will be a colorful center of the southern resort season. Although the Biltmore is the world's most famous resort hotel, built without regard for cost during the "peak" season of all Florida's history, its accommodations are now available at popular rates.

London Office: SAVOY HOTEL, Paris Office: RUE AUBER

Miami Biltmore Country Club, Miami, Fla.

RONEY PLAZA
hotelMIAMI BEACH
FLORIDA

Wm. G. McMeekin, Managing Director

Innovations this year include reductions in room rates and a new dining service... club breakfasts at sixty cents a dollar and the Casino Club Luncheon at a dollar fifty, without sacrificing in the least the traditional European service and niceties of America's finest ocean-front hotel. Pool and surf bathing, without extra charge, and all the pleasures of the Roney Plaza's palm gardens, promenade and beach are privileges of every guest.

Miami Beach, Fla.

Roney Plaza, Miami Beach, Fla.

The GREATEST TIRE VALUES
Your DOLLARS Ever BOUGHT

SMOOTH tires and slippery roads are a dangerous combination. The difference between safety and danger is too slim to risk a skid or not being able to stop.

Keep ahead of trouble. Replace your smooth tires now with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Enjoy the extra strength, extra safety and extra service of the patented construction features found only in Firestone Tires. You get these extra values at no more cost because of Firestone economies in buying, manufacturing and distributing.

Drive in to the Firestone Service Dealer near you and get the facts. He has sections cut from Firestone and special brand mail order tires. Compare them.

COMPARE QUALITY • CONSTRUCTION • PRICE

MAKE OF CAR	TIRE SIZE	Firestone	Goodyear	General	Continental	Other	MAKE OF CAR	TIRE SIZE	Firestone	Goodyear	General	Continental	Other
Ford	4.40-21	4.98	5.00	4.98	5.00	5.00	Butch-M.	5.25-18	7.90	7.90	7.90	7.90	7.90
Chevrolet	4.50-20	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00	5.00	Auburn	5.50-18	8.75	8.75	8.75	8.75	8.75
Ford	4.50-21	5.49	5.49	5.49	5.49	5.49	Lincoln	5.50-19	8.90	8.90	8.90	8.90	8.90
Ford	4.75-19	6.56	6.56	6.56	6.56	6.56	Chrysler	6.00-18	11.30	11.30	11.30	11.30	11.30
Whippet	4.75-20	6.75	6.75	6.75	6.75	6.75	Viking	6.00-19	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45
Erskine	4.75-20	6.75	6.75	6.75	6.75	6.75	Franklin	6.00-20	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45
Chandler	5.00-19	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Hudson	6.00-21	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45
Deluxe	5.00-20	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	LeSalle	6.00-21	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45
Gray	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Packard	6.00-21	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45
Willys	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Stutz	6.00-21	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45	11.45
East	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Lincoln	7.00-20	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35
West	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Lincoln	7.00-20	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35
East	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Lincoln	7.00-20	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35
West	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Lincoln	7.00-20	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35
East	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Lincoln	7.00-20	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35
West	5.00-21	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	9.98	Lincoln	7.00-20	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35	15.35

Listen to the Voice of Firestone Every Monday Night Over N. B. C. Nationwide Network

Firestone

Copyright, 1931, The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.
Firestone Service Stores and Service Dealers Save You Money and Serve You Better

PAGE FOUR

THE ST. JOE WEEKLY NEWS, ST. JOE, IND.

Thursday, January 7, 1932

LEO

(Intended for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maroff and family spent Tuesday in Fort Wayne.

Mr. Max Steele spent several days with Miss Loma Warner.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Akey and family spent Tuesday in Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hilkey announce the marriage of their son, Paul on Christmas Day to Miss Kennedy.

Mr. Pierce Disler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fishburn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Disler and family, and Mrs. Wm. Hopper and daughter spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Warner and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sauder and family, Mr. Donald Akey, Messrs. Edward and Ronald Deventer and Miss Elizabeth Moore spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt Akey and family.

Mr. Chas. Stevick spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Michaels and family of Cedarville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sauder and family spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Carr and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rhodes and daughters, LaVern and Alene of Spencerville, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Warner and daughters, Regena and Cleo, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Warner and Mr. Ernest Page were Christmas guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Klopfenstein and son, Ellsworth of Ft. Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fishburn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Forsythe and family of New Haven. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Forsythe had the misfortune of being struck by a truck resulting in a broken leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Hoffman and daughters, Billy Jean and Mary Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. McKray all of Wallen, Indiana, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sauder and sons, Richard and Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. Silvan Short and son, Mrs. Sarah Short and daughter, and Miss Wilma Yoder had dinner Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhauser and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schowe and family spent Monday in Fort Wayne, shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neuhauser and sons spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhauser and children and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Klopfenstein and son, Ellsworth, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Porter.

Miss Eva Neuhauser spent one evening with Miss Rhea Neuhauser.

Mrs. Charles Schiatter and daughters, Louise, Charlene, and Carol spent a week with relatives and friends of Indiana.

Miss Erma Schowe spent Saturday with Miss Cleo Warner.

Mrs. Arthur Folsom spent several days last week with her son, Charles, residing near Cedarville.

Mary Richer, of Archbold, O., and Miss Rhea Neuhauser had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Neuhauser and family.

Mrs. Wm. Thompson spent her Christmas vacation with her daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Anspaugh and family of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hall and family of near Arcola.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Neuhauser and family had as dinner guests Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. David Neuhauser and family, Wayne and Rhea, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nofsinger and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Miller and Mr. Melvin Neuhauser and sons, Robert and Donald.

HARLAN

(Intended for Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. William McNabney and sons, of Anderson spent Sunday in the John Werts home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long returned Saturday after a visit with relatives at South Bend.

Mrs. Jane Reichelderfer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vawter and daughter, Alyce, of LaPorte are spending two weeks here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cupp and Mrs. Nettie Henderson, of Fort Wayne visited Mr. and Mrs. S. Stophar Sunday afternoon.

Vint James is visiting his son, Sam and daughter, Mrs. Berdene Beams and families at Ft. Wayne.

Rev. E. A. Burk made a business trip to Warren, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Julian, of Bellevue, Mich., visited Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Julian, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heck and daughters, of Fort Wayne called on Guy James and family, Monday morning.

Prof. and Mrs. Lee Swaidner of Findlay, spent the Christmas holidays here.

Miss Gladys Hames, Mrs. Inez Bowers, of Fort Wayne and Mrs. L. C. Gallett called on relatives here Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Braybrook spent Christmas Day at Marion with their son, Lawrence and family.

Lester Foote, of Fountain Green, Ill., was a Harlan visitor Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Clara Smith and son, Boyd and Miss Violet Smith attended the funeral of a relative at Oak Harbor, Ohio, Saturday.

Word was received of the birth of a son named Douglas to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gorman, of Detroit. Mrs. Gorman was formerly Miss Florence Blem and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson are the proud grandparents.

Mrs. E. A. Burk is at Geneva, caring for her father, who is seriously ill.

Miss Lucile Blume and Lester Applegate were united in marriage at the M. E. parsonage Christmas Eve by Rev. E. A. Burk. They left at once to visit relatives at Barborton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, of Auburn, visited William Brown Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Gorrell returned Wednesday from a visit with their son, Robert, and wife at Ithaca, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. August Blume and sons, William and Arthur, of Auburn and Edward of Bloomington, and Dorothy and James Fueling were Sunday evening dinner guests in the Dr. J. C. Emme home. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fueling were visitors later in the evening.

HARLAN

Mrs. Jessie Minick is ill at her home with heart trouble.

Miss Elizabeth Koontz, of Roanoke spent the past week with Miss Betty Highfield.

Mrs. Estella Knapp underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Methodist hospital Sunday.

Mrs. Lucretia Devaux is at Quincy, Mich., where she was called by the death of her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Snyder announce the birth of a daughter Saturday, January 2, named Phyllis.

Mrs. Leonia Peters was called to Fort Wayne for the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Myrtle Gollmer.

Mrs. Willard Snyder and son, Hubert, of Fort Wayne visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eley and son, Edwin, of Hessel, Mich., are visiting his brother, Edwin Eley and family.

Max Stauffer of the U. S. Marines of New York City visited Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kinsey New Year's Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Spindler entertained the members of the Worth While Club and their husbands New Year's Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long moved their household goods to Kendallville recently. Mrs. Long left Sunday for her sister's home in Ohio for a visit.

Rev. J. O. Hochstetler of Elkhart, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Fry and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Twerrell of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Flaig and daughter, Helen, Willis Eninger of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. John Gruber and son, John Junior of Warsaw and Mr. and Mrs. Emit Gruber of Goshen, attended the fiftieth anniversary of the M. E. Church Sunday.

TO LECTURE AT AUBURN SUNDAY AFTERNOON

J. H. Haramy, professor of history in Indiana Central College, will lecture Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Methodist Church in Auburn on "Liquor or Liberty," under the auspices of the Auburn W. C. T. U.

Prof. Haramy is a native of Jerusalem. During the World War was a newspaper correspondent in the Near East. He is a very fluent speaker, and will lecture in native costume.

There will be no admission charged but a free will offering will be taken.

The people of the county are invited to attend.

Legal Notices

SHERIFF'S SALE

No. 5231

In the DeKalb Circuit Court State of Indiana.

State, Ex Rel, Frank E. Lyon Auditor DeKalb County

vs.

Daniel C. McCann, et al

By virtue of an Order of Sale, to me directed and delivered by the Clerk of said Court, in the above entitled cause, I have levied upon and will expose for sale by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the Court House Door, in said County, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock P. M., of the 16th day of January, viz:

Part east half, northeast quarter section eight, township thirty-three, Range fourteen (14) east, containing seventy-six (76) acres, more or less, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

And on failure to realize therefrom the full amount of the judgment, interest thereon and costs, I will at the same time, and in the manner aforesaid, offer for sale the fee simple of the above described premises. Taken as the property of the defendant to satisfy said order of sale.

JOHN P. HOFF, Sheriff DeKalb County.

Henry C. Springer, Atty. 5113.

British Prime Ministers

Robert Walpole was the first English minister to be designated prime minister. He was head of the British cabinet from 1721 to 1742. It was about that time that the practice grew up of choosing a cabinet from the strongest political party. Not until about 25 years ago was the title "prime minister" recognized by law.

MASHES SHOULD CONTAIN VITAMIN D IN WINTER

(By J. H. Bodwell)

It is hard sometimes to realize why Cod Liver Oil should be added to the poultry mixtures in the winter and why it is not very essential in the summer to poultry flocks.

To begin with Vitamin D is very necessary to control rickets or leg weakness and to get good hatchability of eggs.

There are very few feeds that contain sufficient Vitamin D, which are practical to feed in the winter, except Cod Liver Oil.

Of course the Ultra Violet Rays of the sun help to prevent leg weakness, but think of the short hours of sunlight each day compared to summer time. Also think of the many days in winter that we do not see any sun at all. Furthermore, very few flocks are let out doors in the winter. Therefore, to insure sufficient quantity of Vitamin D to poultry flocks in the winter time one should buy poultry mash that contain 1% Cod Liver Oil or buy the Cod Liver Oil and mix it with the mash.

Charter No. 426

Report of the condition of St. Joe Valley Bank at St. Joe in the State of Indiana, at the close of its business on December 31, 1931.

Wm. H. Randall, President.

F. R. Bowman, Cashier.

F. L. Butler, Vice President

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$ 85 420 58
Overdrafts	40 46
U. S. Gov't. Securities	50 00
Other Bonds, Securities, etc.	9 500 00
Banking House	4 700 00
Furniture and Fixtures	3 600 00
Other Real Estate Owned	5 140 37
Due from Trust Companies, Banks and Bankers	7 438 56
and Cash on Hand	8 062 00
Other Assets not Included in the above
Total	$123 951 97

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock—Paid in	$ 25 000 00
Surplus	2 543 04
Undivided Profits—Net	851 52
Demand Deposits	41 909 83
Demand Certificates	42 010 48
Cashier's—Treas. Ch'ks.	75 10
Bills Payable	3 500 00
Other Liabilities	8 062 00
Total	$123 951 97

State of Indiana

County of DeKalb, ss:

I, F. R. Bowman, Cashier of the St. Joe Valley Bank of St. Joe, Indiana, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true.

F. R. BOWMAN, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 5th day of January, 1932.

(Seal) Fred B. Leighty, Notary Public.

My Commission Expires February 14, 1932.

Money To Burn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Peter B. Kyne

W.N.U. SERVICE

IF YOU went to bed poor and woke up to find yourself possessed of a million dollars, what would you do? With ruthless satire and keen humor Peter B. Kyne vividly portrays the exciting adventures of Elmer Clarke with his suddenly acquired million; how he had to side-step, duck and run to escape the "gold diggers."

Now Running in The St. Joe News

"Cigarette?"... "Thanks" and so cheap you never think of the price

If you paid for your cigarettes by the month as you do for electricity, you would appreciate how cheap electric service really is.

Look below—Fifteen cents a month will pay for nearly a whole month's washing or cleaning.

Truly, these values make the American penny look big.

... but where do you get more for your money than in buying Electric Service?

More than 1/2 hour

for 1c

More than 3 hours

for 1c

More than 1 1/2 hours

for 1c

We sell

Hotpoint

AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC RANGES

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

NEWS!
YOU HAVE IT!
WE WANT IT!
PHONE 45

ST. JOE NEWS.

ADVERTISE!
IN THIS PAPER AND REACH
THE READING PUBLIC—THE
BEST AND CHEAPEST.

VOL. XLVI

ST. JOE, DEKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1932

NUMBER 2

NOTICE

The Advisory Board of Concord Township will meet at their regular meeting place on Saturday, January 16 at 7:30 P. M. to consider additional appropriations to Fund No. 24, to pay for 30 large size school desks and chairs; one steel filing cabinet for permanent records; one steel cabinet and table. Amount $160.00; and to Fund No. 38, library, amount $40.00.

Taxpayers appearing may be heard thereon.

O. K. SHULL, Trustee.

BLALOCK-CURIE

Wellington Blalock, of Hicksville and Miss Thelma Curie, of St. Joe, were united in marriage at Van Wert, Ohio, last Saturday noon. Thelma has been employed as telephone operator here for a number of years. She is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Curie. Due to the fact that the marriage is a secret, we are unable to give any of the future plans of the young couple. We sure will miss Mrs. Blalock about town. Any way let us all join in extending congratulations.

REVIVAL MEETING AT SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

Jan. 10 to Jan. 24

Meetings now in progress. On Thursday night Mr. Neunschwander of Fort Wayne will be with us and have charge of the music. Each church in the community is given a special invitation. Sunday night the subject will be "Second Coming of Christ."

THRIFT AND HEALTH DISCUSSED AT P. T. A.

The fourth meeting of the Concord Township P. T. A. was held at the gym January 12, 1932.

Rev. Scholes conducted the opening devotional service of scripture reading and prayer.

The children of Miss Morr and Mrs. Oberlin's rooms sang five numbers under the direction of Mr. John Woodcox.

Merritt Maxwell gave a short address on the subject of Thrift. The outstanding point of this discussion was that thrift does not have to do primarily with saving, but rather with wise spending.

Stars of the Summer Night was played on the orchestra bells by Virginia Shull, accompanied by Cleota Morr.

Dr. Clayton Hathaway, of Butler gave a most interesting discussion on the question of Health. The importance of proper diet as related to health was stressed.

The secretary's report was read and accepted.

The chairman of the hot lunch committee gave a brief report on the progress of the hot lunch being served in the school.

Rev. Scholes dismissed the meeting with a short prayer.

MRS. WM. PEPPE PASSES AWAY MONDAY EVENING

The death of Mrs. William Peppe, Monday evening, completed the life of another of our citizens, after a short illness.

Mrs. Peppe was the daughter of Isaac and Lucinda Hornberger, and was born in DeKalb county, November 3, 1862. On April 10, 1920 she was married to William H. Peppe, and has been a resident of St. Joe during these years.

Death relieved her of suffering January 11, 1932 at the age of 69 years, 2 months and 8 days.

Of her surviving relatives there are the husband, two sisters, Mrs. Susie Sherwood of Auburn, Ind., and Mrs. C. A. Towles of Elkhart, Ind., and four nieces. Four sisters and one brother preceded her in death.

The funeral was conducted from the home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 by her pastor, Rev. V. Odell Harrold, with interment in Riverside cemetery.

TWO DEKALB COUNTY ROADS TAKEN OVER

Two DeKalb county highways with a total mileage of about forty have been taken over by the state highway commission in a new order entered at Indianapolis Thursday.

The local roads affected follow: from Auburn east to the Ohio state line, known as the Auburn-Newville road, connecting with Ohio state road No. 193, passing through Hicksville and from state road No. 1 north of Fort Wayne through Leo, Spencerville, St. Joe, Butler and Hamilton to the Michigan state line. This latter road runs entirely through DeKalb county. A five mile section through St. Joe and Spencerville was paved by the county last year.

These highways are included in a total mileage of about 1,000 taken over by the state and become a part of what is known as the "dotted line" system. They will be next in line for actual maintenance by the state and will be put under maintenance by the commission as rapidly as work can be financed, the board announced. It is the hope of the commission, Chairman Albert J. Wedeking of Dale, said, to begin maintenance of at least part of the new roads this spring, or possibly before.

"The commission is devoting its activities to providing as much work for Indiana citizens as it can and still be consistent with the main purpose of the organization, which is to build and maintain roads," said Mr. Wedeking. "While the highway commission cannot be an employment relief organization, it can provide jobs for many hundreds of citizens, and we are making the work possible."

Maintenance last year cost an average of $305 a mile for all roads in the state system. The maintenance department has available $3,400,000 for the fiscal year ending next September 30. Of this amount, $600,000 has been spent thus far.

Roads near DeKalb county that were taken over Thursday include the one north from Kendallville through South Milford to state road 20; from Markle to intersection with No. 3 south of Fort Wayne; from state road 9 north of Columbia City past Tri-Lakes fish hatchery to state road No. 2 at Chubbuck; and from New Haven east to the Ohio state line.

OBITUARY

Nellie M. Shull, daughter of C. C. and S. E. Shull, was born in Springfield Township, Allen County, Indiana, September 12, 1903. The family lived there until she was three and a half years of age, when her parents moved to the J. E. Dermott farm which has been her home for twenty-five years.

She graduated from the Spencerville High School and then attended college at Springfield, Ohio, one year. She then taught one term in the public schools of Defiance County.

On May 22, 1926, she was united in marriage with Hollis Wise and they have made their home on the farm of her parents since that date.

When she was about fourteen years of age, she united with the Church of Christ at Coburn's Corners and she has continued in the faith to the close of her life.

On the last of May, 1931, she suffered a severe attack of the flu. This was followed by pneumonia and this in turn by a baffling, wasting illness which in spite of the skill of the doctors and the loving care of her family and friends, grew steadily. Toward the last she suffered intensely, recovery seemed impossible even relief hopeless. Her body became a prison house of pain and at last her supreme desire was to be released.

Children to be told that she was asleep. And thus she passed from her home here to the "house of many mansions" at the age of 28 years, 3 months and 22 days.

One brother, George H. Shull and one sister, Bertha E. Shull have preceded her in death. She leaves of her immediate family, besides her bereaved husband and sorrowing parents, one sister, Mrs. Guy Platter and her three children, the twins, Jay Irene and June Maxine and the baby, Mary Lou. These together with other relatives and many friends, will cherish her in loving memory.

The funeral was held from the church at Coburn's Corners with J. O. Rose officiating, assisted by Walter Coburn. Burial in Alton cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We express our sincere appreciation for the kindness shown by our neighbors and friends during the long illness of our wife and daughter and in her death.

The Husband, Father, Mother and Sister.

MAKING PLANS FOR FARMERS INSTITUTE

The various committees of the Tri-Township Farmers Institute met with the executive committee last Friday night at the home of the president, J. E. Foltz, and made tentative plans for holding this year's institute. The institute will be held February 23 and 24 in St. Joe at the Gymnasium.

Mrs. Essie Fuller, of Farmersburg, Ind., and W. H. Senour, of Brookville, Ind., will be the state speakers, and will be on program the first day. The second day will be community day and a good program is being arranged with local talent on the program. Desiring to give the members of the institute a little extra in the way of entertainment this year, arrangements have been made to present a play each evening. On Tuesday evening, February 23, ladies from the Concord Township Home Bureau, assisted by members of their families, will give "Cyclone Sally," a three act comedy. On Wednesday, the 24th a group of folks from the Coburn town neighborhood in Spencer township, will give a play, the name of which has not been announced as yet. Both plays will be given free to members of the Tri-Township Farmers Institute.

This is your institute, the success or failure of it depends on you as an individual, no amount of effort or lack of effort on the part of officers or committees, can make or break this institute without your co-operation or lack of co-operation. So let us all pull together for a bigger and better institute. Let us cease to be "leaners" and all become "lifters."

CONGRESS TO PASS FINANCE BILL

Washington, D. C., Monday, January 11th—The House of Representatives on Saturday passed the Democratic Tariff Bill, which neither provides a lower or higher tariff for any article. It simply provides a means of changing the tariff through the Tariff Commission.

A Reconstruction Finance Bill will be enacted during this week which provides a Two Billion Dollar loan to lessen up the frozen assets of banks and other institutions. In discussing the measure Congressman Hogg said, "This is the most constructive piece of legislation to be enacted during the present session. It will provide capital for banks that the orderly processes of loans to farmers and business men may be resumed for the purpose of agriculture and industry."

Congressman Hogg today introduced a bill requiring the registration of aliens.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS MEETING

Tuesday night, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carpenter entertained the Home Builders class of the Coburn's Corners Sunday School to the first meeting of the new year.

Twenty persons including class members, teacher and his wife, two guests and two children, enjoyed the bountiful pot luck lunch served at an early hour. The remainder of the evening was spent in a business and social way. Among other business a committee was appointed to draft resolutions of respect for a former class member, Mrs. Nellie Wise, who recently passed away.

R. H. C.

The R. H. C. was very pleasantly entertained on last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Laney Gee, in St. Joe. Ten active members were present, also two guests, Mrs. J. C. F. Abel and Mrs. Alvy Perry. A fine lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Abner Trostel, east of town.

HENRY M. FRETZ, PROMINENT CHURCH MAN DIES

Henry M. Fretz, prominent Richland Township and DeKalb County Sunday School worker, died at his home, north-west of Auburn, Sunday morning of blood poisoning, caused by an infection developing in a finger. He was sick only ten days. He had reached 70 years. His funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 from the Showers Corners Church, conducted by Rev. Ernest Lewellen of Waterloo.

Mr. Fretz served as president of the County Sunday School Association for a number of years and was vice president at the time of his departure.

Mrs. Ella Northrup was a Tuesday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton. Mrs. Hamilton is attending the Short Course at Purdue this week.

C. E. MCCLINTOCK

Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.

Auburn, Indiana

SAMUEL M. HIGH OF JACKSON TOWNSHIP DIES

Samuel M. High, one of the well known residents of Jackson Township and former trustee of that township, died Sunday afternoon at 5:30 from complications, at his residence three miles west of St. Joe. Mr. High had been bedfast only a week although in failing health for a number of years.

The deceased was born August 24, 1855, in Jackson Township and at the time of his death he was aged 76 years, 4 months and 16 days. He was a son of Peter and Sarah A. High. The father was a native of Pennsylvania and the mother of Ohio, coming to DeKalb county at the early date of 1846 and were pioneers in what then was a wilderness.

The early education of the deceased was in the common schools. He subsequently followed farming and taught school for twenty-seven years.

He was elected as a Democrat to serve as trustee of Jackson Township from 1900 to 1905 and he also served on the township advisory board. He was a member of the board of directors of the Farmers and Merchants bank at Spencerville.

On July 30, 1897, Mr. High was married to Rosa A. Phillips and to them was born one child, who died at the age of six years. Mrs. High is the only member of the family with the exception of nephews and nieces to survive.

The deceased was a member of the Rehoboth Methodist Protestant Church of Jackson Township.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from Rehoboth Church. Rev. M. E. Cormican officiating and burial was made in Evergreen cemetery in Auburn.

LESS TAXES FOR 1932 BY $28,406.00

The abstract of taxable property for the year 1931 prepared in the office of County Auditor Frank E. Lyon discloses that County Treasurer Merritt M. Maxwell is charged with the collection of $977,570.22 in current taxes during the year 1932 and $73,241.20 in delinquent taxes, penalty and interest.

The current tax charged up a year ago was $1,005,976.12, the reduction this year being $28,406. The delinquent a year ago was $59,386, the increase this year being $13,905.

The total value of real estate in the county according to the new abstract is $24,299,480, an increase of $123,000. Mortgage and soldiers' exemptions are $1,649,920, an increase of $5,000. Personal property is valued at $6,671,870, a loss of $338,240. Polls number 4,041, an increase of 196.

Current tax to be collected for each unit of the county this year follows:

Butler township, $24,641.33.
Concord township, $34,908.51.
Fairfield township, $31,177.66.
Franklin township, $34,387.88.
Grant township, $35,025.31.
Jackson township, $51,343.34.
Keyser township, $41,866.84.
Newville township, $20,068.32.
Richland township, $43,125.47.
Smithfield township, $50,580.90.
Spencer township, $29,142.82.
Stafford township, $18,474.40.
Troy township, $18,424.26.
Union township, $54,392.32.
Wilmington township, $49,145.24.

Auburn, $205,908.90.
Butler City, $54,137.09.
Garrett, $133,476.29.
Altona, $5,106.88.
Ashley, $7,166.20.
Corunna, $6,187.94.
St. Joe, $9,664.19.
Waterloo, $38,918.33.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS

Christian ..... 78—$3.62
M. P. .... 60—$2.59
Concord ..... 68—$2.81
Coburntown ..... 98—$3.62
Spencerville M. E. .... 90—$4.03
Lutheran ..... 70—$4.09

Thirty-five men enjoyed the feed put on last Thursday evening by the Roy Keller gang of pest hunters, they being the losers in the hunt. The boys put up a real feed and everyone enjoyed the evening.

1/4 OFF

ON ALL OUR COAL or WOOD
HEATERS

KINSEY

Hardware Furniture Undertaking

Maybe We are WRONG---

You have heard a lot about "Setting Up" exercises these days. You ask what they are? Well, we don't know exactly, but presume they must be about the opposite from skating!

Maybe that's wrong. There are so many kinds, you know. If it comes to setting up in BUSINESS, that is something different from PHYSICAL exercises. That's a FINANCIAL affair, and possibly that is where our Bank can help you. Kindly let us know your needs.

4 Percent
SAVING

The ST. JOE
VALLEYBANK
A STATE
BANK

4 Percent
SAVING

BASSETT'S
WELDING SHOP

OXY-ACETYLENE
WELDING
BRAZING
SOLDERING

IN ST. JOE GARAGE

The DeBONAIRE
Beauty Shoppe

Butler, Indiana

Mrs. Lee Norigan, Proprietor
Mrs. Han, Operator

We specialize in all kinds of Beauty work and the new method of Croquonole Waving. All our work is full guaranteed.

Marcel ..... 35c Shampoo and Marcel ..... 50c
Finger Wave ..... 30c Shampoo and Wave ..... 50c
Permanents ..... $5.00, $8.00

DISTINCTIVE
RADIO
PROGRAMSOn Your Radio
"FRIENDSHIP TOWN"

FRIDAY, 8:00 P. M., C.S.T.

Vaseline
PREPARATIONS

COUNT VON LUCKNER

Count von Luckner, noted German raider, who spins yarns of the seven seas in the radio series "Adventuring with Count von Luckner."Will Show How Crop Estimates Are MadeCrop Reporting Board Will Take Listeners Behind the Scenes.

Listeners will be taken behind the scenes to hear an explanation of how the government Crop Reporting Board prepares the estimates of crop and live stock production which its members announce regularly in the National Farm and Home Hour when W. F. Callender, chairman of the board, speaks in the Department period of the National Farm and Home Hour on Tuesday, January 12.

Callender will describe graphically how the Board analyzes statistics collected from 300,000 farmers, and from this mass of data makes the monthly estimates which are considered the most authoritative in the world.

For stockmen, a group of three economists will explain the recent course of prices for beef cattle, hogs, and sheep. In the program of Wednesday, January 13.

The Federal Farm Board will continue its series of talks during 1932 setting forth the progress made in various lines of co-operative organization.

Future Farmers will hear their special monthly program on Monday, January 11, and on Saturday, January 16, there will be a broadcast of the monthly program by the National Grange.

Thirty-two measures of music written during the closing announcement of the National Farm and Home Hour, in the speed record of Harry Kogen, director of the Home-entertainers orchestra. As the announcer began, Kogen became aware of the fact that two of his violinists did not have the music for the "Homesteaders' Waltz," the closing theme number. Kogen wrote and finished it in the nick of time.

Aiming to stress the importance of forest fire prevention, the United States Forest service will broadcast the second in a series of dramatic skits on Thursday, January 14. "With Uncle Sam's Forest Rangers" features episodes in the life of an "old ranger" and its youthful cub assistant.

The Future Farmers of America will present their regular monthly broadcast in the National Farm and Home Hour on Monday, January 11, featuring news of Future Farmers activities and talks by their leaders.

Metropolitan Opera

Will Be Broadcast

Metropolitan opera went on the air for the first time Christmas Day. It was announced by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company. A weekly series of Saturday afternoon broadcasts from the Metropolitan stage will make portions of scheduled performances regularly available to music lovers here and abroad.

MONEY TO BURN

By Peter B. Kyne

© by Peter B. Kyne

WMTU Service

THE STORY

Hiram Butterworth, miser, decides to leave his fortune to Elmer Clarke, a poor young nephew. He tells Abolom McPhee, his lawyer, of a deal forty years ago in which he swindled a man out of $40,000, and arranged for payment with interest. Butterworth dies suddenly. Through a gossiping telegraph operator the town of Pilarcitos hears of Elmer's fortune before he does. Nellie Catheart, Elmer's sweetheart, tells him his inheritance is more than a million.

CHAPTER III—Continued

Elmer laughed. "Well, kiss me once more," he pleaded. "Unless a fellow can take a sporting chance he might as well be dead. So I'll take one sporting chance and tell you that I love you, Nellie. I'm crazy about you and I've been for years. I—I—"

"I've suspected this, Elmer," Nellie's face was uplifted to him again. "And I don't see any reason why you've kept it a secret from me when everybody else in town knew it! You old dear! I'm so happy about you I could cry—and I will if you don't let me go."

He let her go—but not until he had heard from her sweet lips an admission that she loved him better than anything or anybody in the whole wide world.

Long after Elmer Clarke, despite the strain and excitement of that momentous day, had fallen into his customary gentle slumber Nellie Catheart sat before her dressing table, mechanically brushing her hair and thinking. For Nellie could think. Although beautiful she was brainy—the type of woman whom the Creator occasionally fashions seemingly for the express purpose of demonstrating to egotistic men that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.

Just now Nellie was thinking that, although nobody, not even Elmer, would ever know it unless she should tell—which she would not do—she, Nellie Catheart, was really responsible for Elmer Clarke's legacy.

When the First National Bank of Muscatine, Iowa, had written for a report on Elmer Clarke, and old Ansel with a grin had handed her the letter with the suggestion that she had better answer it since she knew more about Elmer Clarke than any girl in town, Nellie had thrilled at the opportunity to write a report calculated to present Elmer in a light which could not possibly fall to impress the valued customer of the Muscatine bank who sought the information.

Old Ansel hadn't the slightest suspicion that this customer was Elmer's queer uncle, but Nellie, who had learned from Elmer all that the latter knew about his crabbed relative, was convinced instantly that Uncle Hiram was about to develop a long delayed interest in his nephew. With the adroitness of a clever woman she resolved instantly to foster that budding interest by forwarding a report calculated to appeal particularly to the sort of man she believed Uncle Hiram Butterworth to be.

That she had succeeded beyond her wildest expectations she now realized; wherefore, hers was now the quiet joy which comes of a consciousness of a worth-while task put through to a happy and profitable conclusion.

"I do hope it doesn't spoil Elmer," Nellie soliloquized. "There's so much that's fine in Elmer and so little that isn't all man. Still, the receipt of a million dollars by a young man who has never known anything but hard work and sacrifice is apt to cause a mental reflex. Oh, dear, if Elmer should prove silly my heart would break. But he'll not! I know he'll not. Wouldn't it be awful if I ruined Elmer?"

She resolved to marry him as quickly as possible, because she loved him tenderly and it was her duty to protect him from the pitfalls which she could see but which he did not even suspect. Like all women who devotedly love a man, she regarded Elmer as a particularly helpless, innocent, lovable boy, but little removed from the stage wherein he might reasonably be suspected of a tendency to neglect washing his neck and ears.

Eventually she had a good cry over nothing worth weeping about and fell into a troubled slumber.

CHAPTER IV

When Elmer Clarke strolled down town the following morning he found Sam Haskins struggling alone with the Smoke Shoppe and looking very sad and disconcerted. A night's rest and the knowledge that he was no longer dependent upon Mr. Haskins had erased all the irritability which Elmer had felt and manifested the day previous. He was congenially inclined to holding a grudge. His heart went out now to Sam.

"Good morning, Sam," he cried cheerfully, and swung in behind the cigar counter. "I've been thinking about our silly little tiff yesterday and have come to the conclusion that I can't let you down without notice."

haven't been a millionaire long enough to be hard and disregard the feelings of folks, so get out of my way and let me take charge again while you go forth into the highways and byways and hire my successor."

Sam's harassed countenance lighted up like the Grand canyon of Arizona at sunset. He thrust out his hand. He was embarrassed. "Guess I was a mite hasty myself, Elmer," he admitted.

"Well, we both feel better now," Elmer declared.

Throughout the morning trade was brisk, due to the fact that news had spread around town that the new millionaire was still on duty at the Smoke

Shoppe, apparently none the worse for wear. Consequently the citizenry, naively curious, congregated to study Elmer with new interest. Among them was the Clarion reporter, Charley Terrell, who considered this manifestation of democracy of such news value that he sent in a wire story to the United Press association.

The Los Angeles Record printed it in bold-faced type boxed, on the front page, where it was seen and read that very day by the promoters and bunco steers who had overlooked the story the day previous. Among the latter was one known to the room clerk of the New Biltmore hotel as Mr. James P. Hutton, a coal baron from Pennsylvania. To the police, however, Mr. Hutton was known as Colorado Charley.

Upon the instant that he read that story, Colorado Charley's eyebrows elevated automatically, which was always a sure indication that he had struck a lead worth following. For struck a lead he had been living in luxury at the New Biltmore, in the hope of working an elaborately conceived real estate swindle on a local bank. However, while he had by no means abandoned this enterprise, he had been disturbed of late by an apprehension common to all predatory animals. He believed that he was being watched by a plain man who haunted the hotel lobby and read the same newspaper too long and too thoroughly.

It would be well, therefore, Colorado Charley concluded, in view of his rapidly disappearing fund of ready money to branch out in some other line of endeavor—one that promised speedy action and equally speedy returns. In the recently created millionaire cigar clerk and pool-hall manager of Pilarcitos, he saw a golden prospect.

In response to a telephone message there appeared at his suite within the hour the companion of Colorado Charley's lighter moments—a gorgeous brunette female of perhaps twenty-five summers.

"Well, old thing!" she queried. Her voice, low and sweet, filled the room like a chord from a violoncello. "There's game afoot, Mas," the man answered in businesslike tones and handed her the Los Angeles Record with a well-manicured thumb nail indicating the boxed story.

The woman read it and smiled lazily. "He hasn't got the million yet, Carlo darling," she reminded him. "Why waste your little girl friend's fragrance on the desert air?"

"According to this press story he's going to get it, and when he does we'll take it easy from him. Nothing could be simpler, Mas. As the proposition unfolds itself to me, your job is to go up to Pilarcitos tomorrow. You will call upon Elmer Clarke at his home, introduce yourself as a Sunday supplement writer come to interview me, and then you can write a feature story for an Eastern paper—say the New York American—entitled 'How It Feels to Be Poor Today and a Millionaire Tomorrow.' He will be flattered. Do not confine yourself to a mere interview with him. Have a nice little view with him. Have a nice little view and do your stuff. Mas, if you can't land this poor fish out in the grass there isn't another woman in the world who can."

"Suppose he's already married?" Colorado Charley's white, handsome teeth flashed in a gay smile. "No matter. I'll take care of that for you, Mas. The most pitiful thing I know of is a small-town married man in the collar of a lady who threatens trouble if he doesn't divorce the wife of his bosom and marry her. In such situations the settlement is always larger and easier to collect. The man is usually the first to suggest a monetary bail."

The pair stared at each other for a minute. "You will be the coy, sweet, shy, trusting little thing, just breaking in as a newspaper woman, and the success of this interview is going to mean so much to you," Colorado Charley went on gibbly. "If he should take you to luncheon and offer you a cigarette, look horrified. If he suggests a ride in his new automobile, mention the desirability of a chaperon. And for the Lord's sake, dress for the part and act it. You've done it before. After you've won him, get him to write to you, but fight his advances, because you don't want him to think you're after his money."

"But I can't hang around Pilarcitos indefinitely to pull off a play like that, Carlo. I'll have to return here after I've interviewed him."

"Naturally. Meanwhile I'll have rented a modest furnished bungalow here. I'll be your hostess. You and I, as a couple, will be on a modest income. Lure him down here, invite him to the house for dinner and the rest will be as easy as hitting an elephant with a handful of bird shot."

"I hope he won't turn out to be a tightwad, Carlo."

"Boobs who have learned to cross a dollar bill before they spend it always put on the dog with the first million that's left them. The only money that means anything to anybody is money that's toiled for and accumulated dollar by dollar. That's why money means nothing in our young lives, Mas."

"Sometimes I think we work hard enough for what we get," the girl sighed.

"Oh, but we do not get it dollar by dollar," he reminded her. "It comes to us in chunks—when it comes."

"Doesn't trouble, Carlo. Well, this does look like an easy job. I'll tackle it."

Colorado Charley rewarded her with a grateful smile, a kiss and a hug and a hundred dollars for expense money.

At noon Elmer Clarke called at Ansel McPhee's office. "Well, how's my credit this bright summer day?" he inquired nonchalantly.

"A-I, Elmer, an' going up. Bank in Muscatine says their attorneys have read the will an' there ain't a Chinaman's chance to bust it. Think of a little money, Elmer."

"Why, yes, if you don't mind, Mr. Moody. I'd like to have twenty thousand dollars for, say, a year. It may be that long before the estate is distributed and I'll have to be in Muscatine and traveling back and forth considerably."

"Naturally, naturally, Elmer. I understand." The banker pressed a button and Mr. Crittenden entered. "Take Elmer's promissory note for twenty thousand at—well, let's see now, Elmer. The bank's gittin' as high as 10 per cent on chattel mortgages and 9 per cent on farm mortgages an' 8 per cent on call loans. I reckon we can let you have this for eight an' a half."

"Quite satisfactory, Mr. Moody." It wasn't, really, because Elmer knew he was about to be exploited successfully for the first time, but being a millionaire he concluded not to worry about an extra per cent or two.

Mr. Crittenden made out the note, *****

Man Called as Judge Thought Self Accused

In Germany the common courts are composed of three professional and two "lay" judges chosen like jurors. At a court in Berlin recently the presiding judge noted the uneasy demeanor of one of the lay magistrates. During the proceedings this man sat without any show of interest, looking miserable and casting appealing looks at the state's attorney. When the judge who had to pass the verdict were about to leave the courtroom, the president heard the unpaid magistrate speaking to the police sergeant. He approached and heard to his greatest astonishment, "I dare not go home, sergeant. I dare not tell my wife, who is ill in bed, that I have been found guilty. I have never been in court before! I have all my papers and testimonials with me; I was never asked to show them. Really, I have never done anything against the law in all my life." The judges crowded around, and under peals of laughter the poor lay magistrate was informed that he had not been asked to attend the court as an accused, but had been summoned to do his citizen's duty as a magistrate.

Maiden's Revenge

A motorist tried to beat a red light in West End avenue. The policeman signaled to him to draw up to the curb, and then stared at the driver's face.

"I seen ya before, some place," the cop declared. "D' I ever give ya a ticket, maybe? No," he ruminated further, and suddenly his face cleared. "You went to Washington Irving High, didn't ya? An' acted in the Thanksgiving day play. You was Miles Standish."

The motorist rather shyly admitted all this, and the cop's smile grew broader.

"I knew it!" he roared gleefully. "Don't ya know who I was in that play? I was Pizarro!"—The New Yorker.

Ship's Mouse Flag

The house flag of a vessel bears the device of the company owning the vessel, corresponding in a way to a trade mark.

Half a billion dollars a year is saved through reclaiming scrap iron and steel in this country.

Mercolized Wax
Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Plus particles of gold skin goes off until all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Wax in three soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. The jar comes with one ounce. Mercolized Wax dissolved in one-half pint with water. At drug stores.

World's Jewish Population

An interesting estimate of the number of Jews in the world has been made by the Jewish Chronicle. According to this account the world has roughly 15,000,000 Jews, their distribution being: Europe, 9,500,000; Asia, 6,000,000; Africa, 500,000; America, 400,000. The number in Australia and other parts of the South is negligible, perhaps 25,000. In all countries the Jews make good citizens and contribute fine artists, musicians, writers, and statesmen.—Montreal Herald.

Now easy to get rid of Gray

Keep Hair Naturally Dark

Now without using dangerous dyes you can darken gray hair naturally, quickly restore its original shade by the world's finest, safe way which is now keeping millions of heads young looking. Benefits the hair as it darkens it to the shade you want. As simple as brushing. Try it. Paydruggist $5 for a large bottle of WYETH'S SAGE & SULPHUR and just follow easy directions.

That's No Joke

"A person may lose 40 per cent of his blood and live to tell about it," says a passing item. Yes, and we have discovered, alas! that some of those who lost 99.9 per cent of their money in the stock crash can live to tell about it—and spend about 99.9 per cent of their time doing it, too.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

STOP RHEUMATIC PAINS WITH HEAT OF RED PEPPERS

Relieves Almost Instantly

Good old Nature has put into red peppers a marvelous therapeutic heat that gets right down to the source of trouble and almost instantly relieves the pains and aches of rheumatism, stiff joints, lumbago and neuritis. Thousands have found it the one safeguard against "cold" chills, too. Now this genuine red peppers' heat is contained in an ointment that you just rub on. In less than 3 minutes you feel relief come. It is called Rowley's Red Pepper Rub. Will not burn or sting. Get a small jar from your druggist.

Arranging an Appointment

"If you will call upon me sometime when I am entirely disengaged, I think I can relieve you."

"All right, Doc. What are your golfing hours?"

STOP YOUR COLD
IN 6 HOURS WITH

DAROL

Breaks a cold in 6 hours.
Drives it away in 12 hours.

Relieves
Headache—Neuritis—Pains

McKesson & Robbins

Quality Since 1833

Here's an Ideal

"I think you might talk to me while I sew." "Why don't you sew to me while I read."

Way Suffer Pain from a cut or burn? Cold's Carbollene stops pain instantly and helps soothe without a scar. Keep it handy. All druggists, 30c and 50c. J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Advertisement.

Habits make the day-pass easier.

The Ideal

Vacation Land

Sunshine All Winter Long

Splendid roads—towering mountain ranges—Highest type hotels—dry invigorating air—clear starlit nights—California's Foremost Desert Playground

Write Green & Sharkey

Palm Springs

CALIFORNIA

DISTRIBUTOR WANTED. New food product. Sanitation of poultry. Shown on only. No competition. Year round business. Uva Sane Products. 221 Van Buren, Chicago

PATENTS. Invaluable right. Invaluable right. World Patent Attorneys. 101 Bank St., Ottawa, Can.

KILL COLD GERMS
NAVAP
 NASAL VAPOR
 Clears head instantly.
 Stops cold spreading.
 Sprinkle your handkerchief during the day
 —your pillow at night—
 A MCKESSON PRODUCT 50¢ AT ALL DRUG STORES

Early Paper Money
 In Europe paper to represent money first came into use, apparently, during the Middle Ages when the Jewish financiers of those days reinvented the bill of exchange of Babylonian and recorded them in ink on parchment and paper.
 The Bank of St. George at Genoa and the Bank of Venice were the first corporations to use paper money. Their bills were hollow certificates. Because the use of these receipts were so much more convenient than carrying about heavy bags of gold and silver, they became popular with merchants and even circulated at a premium over coin.—Detroit News.

Kills Pain and Heals
ZMO OIL
 It kills pain while it heals because it penetrates into the wound.
 If you have Pain in Back, Cold in Head, Cough, Sore Throat, Earache, Piles or know of a wound on man or beast that will not heal, try ZMO-OIL.
35¢ at Drug Stores
 If you have never used ZMO-OIL, we will gladly send you a free sample bottle. Write
M. R. ZAEGL & CO.
 821 New York Ave. SHEBOYGAN, WIS.

Learned Men Poor Spellers
 A professor who mispelled ten of the 40 words submitted won a spelling bee held by Harvard faculty members. Every word was mispelled at least once by the professors. Such words as "all right," "dedicate" and "niece" were among the outstanding sticklers.

PERIODIC PAINS
 Terre Haute, Ind.
 "I am the mother of eight children, and as a result I became so weak and rundown I was compelled to keep to my bed the greater part of my time," said Mrs. John New, main, Route 2. "I had periodic pains in my sides and head. I tried almost everything on the market without obtaining relief; then about a year ago a friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I am proud to state that I soon found relief. Two bottles of the 'Prescription' made me well and strong."
 Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice, using the symptom blank found in package. Drugs sold all over the world.
Dr. Pierce's Prescription
 New Uses for Anthracite?
 Anthracite coal was subjected to X-ray tests, resulting in the discovery that this coal is a free carbon, in contrast to other coal which is a hydrocarbon, and in consequence anthracite may have new industrial uses where free carbon is needed.

A Nagging Backache
 May Warn of Kidney or Bladder Irregularities
 A persistent backache, with bladder irregularities and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling may warn of some disordered kidney or bladder condition. Users everywhere rely on Doan's Pills. Praised for more than 50 years by grateful users the country over. Sold by all druggists.
Doan's Pills
 A DIURETIC FOR THE KIDNEYS
 W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 2-1932.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FLETCHER, D. D., Member of the Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
 (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 17
JESUS AND NICODEMUS
 LESSON TEXT—John 3:1-21.
 GOLDEN TEXT—"For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."
 PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Tells How Much God Loves Us.
 JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Answer to a Ruler's Question.
 INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Beginnings of the Christian Life.
 YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The New Birth.

1. The History of Nicodemus (vv. 1, 2, cf. 7:45-52; 19:38-42).
 The lesson today has its peculiar significance in the light of Nicodemus' station in life. He was a learned rabbi, a doctor of the law, and presumably a man of good character. His coming by night indicates his timidity. Like Joseph of Arimathea, he was afraid to espouse openly the cause of the new teacher of Galilee. Though timid, as an honest man, he investigated and obtained first-hand information. Because of this information, he uttered the brave words in the Sanhedrin against judging a man before hearing him (John 7:45-52) and rendered loving service at the Lord's tomb (John 19:38-42).

II. Jesus' Discourse to Nicodemus on the New Birth (vv. 3-17).
 1. The necessity of the new birth (vv. 3-7). If one is ever to see or enter the kingdom of God, he must be born again. There can be no personal choice in the matter. Regeneration is the first demand of the gospel of Christ makes upon man. The reasons for this are:

a. The Kingdom of God is a spiritual kingdom, therefore there must be a spiritual birth in order to enter it (v. 3). As we enter the physical kingdom by a natural birth, so we enter the kingdom of God by a supernatural birth.

b. The nature which is ours through the natural birth is radically and essentially bad (v. 6, cf. Gal. 5:19-21). That which is born of the flesh is flesh. In the Galatian text Paul gives a catalogue of the works of the flesh. The flesh cannot be improved (Jer. 13:23). In order to enter into the kingdom of heaven there must be a nature fitted for heaven. There is nothing that can be substituted for the new birth. Men today are trying to substitute morality and education for the new birth. Nicodemus possessed these, yet Christ declared that he needed more.

2. The mystery of the new birth (vv. 8-13). Though the new birth is mysterious, its results are definite. This mystery is illustrated by the wind. We cannot discern from whence it cometh or whither it goeth, but we know by its effects that it blows. The fruit of the life demonstrates its nature, whether it is heavenly or carnal. We need not be told that we have had a physical birth for our bodies with their various faculties in exercise prove it. Even so, the presence within of a nature which has no affinity for the things of the world, a strong affection for God and a disposition to yield prompt obedience to his commands proves our birth from above. Just as the tree is known by its fruit, so tastes, desires, and ambitions prove the quality of our nature.

3. The ground upon which the new birth rests (vv. 14, 15). Christ's atoning death on the cross makes regeneration possible. He took the place of sinners. His infinite merit was placed to their account. He suffered in the sinner's stead. Just as the Israelites had only to look upon the brazen serpent in the wilderness, so the sinner needs only to look upon Christ upon the cross (Num. 21:4-9; John 12:32; 1 Cor. 5:21; 1 Pet. 2:24). Our salvation cost on the part of God the giving up of his only begotten Son, and on the part of Christ the suffering and shame of the cross.

4. For whom the new birth was provided (vv. 16, 17). "Whoever believeth in him." These verses give in a condensed form the whole plan of salvation. Observe:

a. Its source—"God so loved."
 b. Its ground—"the death of Christ."
 c. Its recipients—"Whoever."
 d. Its condition—"Believe in him."
 e. Its result—"Should not perish, but have everlasting life."

III. Man's Attitude Toward Christ (vv. 18-21).
 1. Some believe and are saved. Those who believe are now free from condemnation.

2. Some will not believe and are therefore resting under the condemnation of God. The awful sin which causes men to be eternally lost is unbelief in Christ. The cause of their unbelief in him is their love of sin.

Work and Worry
 It is not work that kills men; it is worry. Work is healthy; you can hardly put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery, but the friction.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Overcome Difficulties
 "The soul that the Holy Spirit is guiding will be taught to expect difficulties, and to patiently plod on and overcome them."

PARKER'S HAIR BALM
 Removes Dandruff, Itches, Redness, Itchiness, and Faded Hair. Keeps the Hair Soft and Healthy. Makes the Hair Grow Thick and Fast. Makes the Hair Soft and Healthy. Makes the Hair Grow Thick and Fast. Makes the Hair Soft and Healthy. Makes the Hair Grow Thick and Fast.

Doan's Pills
 A DIURETIC FOR THE KIDNEYS
 W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 2-1932.

Rheumatic Pains
 Relieved this Quick Way

If stabbing pains shoot across your back and cripple you, rub on good old St. Jacobs Oil. Relief comes before you can count 601. Relief without burning or blistering. This famous oil simply draws out inflammation and pain. It is soothing, healing. For the aches and pains of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago, Neuralgia or Backache there's nothing so quick or sure to bring relief. Get a small tube of St. Jacobs Oil from your druggist.

Oddly Named
 Yoho national park in the Canadian Rockies has the Kicking Horse for its principal river.

SORE THROAT
 FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore. Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief. This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole acts because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, and helps draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in smaller form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MUSTEROLE
 BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PASTER

Road to Prosperity
 Thinking and courage, sooner or later, lead back to better times.—American Magazine.

BREATHE FREELY
 in 30 seconds

Apply soothing cream—keeps nostrils open—Catarrh disappears
 What magical relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the head passages clear and you breathe freely the very moment you apply a little fragrant antiseptic ELY'S CREAM BALM to each nostril. Relief and comfort are yours all night and all day. There's nothing better for clearing air passages, soothing inflamed, sore tissue and even relieves Catarrh and head colds. Get a little ELY'S CREAM BALM from your druggist today.

Many Apple Varieties
 There are more than 800 standard varieties of apples grown in orchards of the United States.

Denver Mother Tells Story
 Nature controls all the functions of our digestive organs except one. We have control over that, and it's the function that causes the most trouble.

See that your child has regular bowel habits, and at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or constipation, give them a little California Fig Syrup. It regulates the bowels and stomach and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to. It helps build up and strengthen pale, listless, underweight children. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it's purely vegetable, so you can give it as often as your child's appetite lags or he seems feverish, cross or fretful.

Leading physicians have endorsed it for 50 years, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows how mothers depend on it. A Western mother, Mrs. R. W. Stewart, 4112 Barton St., Denver, Colorado, says: "Raymond was terribly pulled down by constipation. He got weak, fretful and cross, had no appetite or energy and food seemed to sour in his stomach. California Fig Syrup had him romping and playing again in just a few days, and soon he was back to normal weight, looking better than he had looked in months."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. The mark of the genuine is the word "California" on the carton.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM
 Removes Dandruff, Itches, Redness, Itchiness, and Faded Hair. Keeps the Hair Soft and Healthy. Makes the Hair Grow Thick and Fast. Makes the Hair Soft and Healthy. Makes the Hair Grow Thick and Fast.

Doan's Pills
 A DIURETIC FOR THE KIDNEYS
 W. N. U., CHICAGO, NO. 2-1932.

DAIRY FACTS
 GIVE PROPER CARE TO MILK UTENSILS

Matter of Great Importance in Dairying.

Failure to clean milk utensils thoroughly and to treat them properly to kill bacteria is one of the main reasons why milk and cream sour, says the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in a bulletin, the publication is "Farmers' Bulletin 1075-F, Care of Milk Utensils on the Farm."

Both the retail fluid-milk market and manufacturers of high grade dairy products of all kinds demand milk and cream of the highest quality. Dairies with clean utensils, thoroughly treated to kill bacteria, usually lead in the production of high quality milk and cream, according to the bulletin.

The proper washing of utensils and their treatment to kill bacteria, either by steam or with chemicals, is discussed in detail in the publication. Illustrations show the equipment necessary to carry on such treatment in the simplest yet most effective manner. Blue prints of the different types of steam cabinets discussed in the bulletin may be obtained free upon request to the bureau of dairy industry.

This bulletin should be of interest not only to owners of both large and small dairies but to 4-H club members as well. Copies may be obtained, as long as the supply available for free distribution lasts, from the office of information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Lowered Labor Charges in Larger Dairy Herds
 A survey has recently been made in Chenango county, New York, to determine the amount of labor expended per cow. On the 54 farms an average of 13 cows was kept, an average of 380 hours was spent per cow in milking, caring for the cows and delivering milk to the station. When an average of 20 cows was maintained, this was reduced to 117 hours per cow, the doubling the size of the herd increased the labor requirements only by a third. This advantage does not go on indefinitely as the herd increases, however, as the largest herds in the group required slightly more labor per cow than those with 20 to 30 cows. These herds, however, had the highest production per cow and more fall freshening, both of which factors tend to increase the labor requirements. On the other hand, herds of high production make the greatest profits, so the labor was well expended. An increase of 85 per cent in the average production per cow in a herd increased the labor only 27 per cent and the amount of labor per 100 pounds milk was reduced by 23 per cent.

Soybeans in Rations
 The time is at hand when the dairy farmer should appreciate the importance of growing all the protein he needs for his cows, and growing stock. This is true because of two main reasons: First, he can produce protein in the form of soybeans as a grain crop as well as in the form of legume roughages, such as clover and alfalfa; and second, because an acre of land will bring a higher income in feed value when mixed with other products, than when seeded to oats or barley. This, at any rate, is true so long as the right proportions between protein and carbohydrate feeds are maintained to properly nourish the dairy cow and her offspring.

For example, a mixture composed of 90 per cent of the ordinary farm grains and 10 per cent of a high protein feed, fed with corn silage and alfalfa or clover hay is considered a good ration for the average dairy cow.—Wisconsin Agriculturalist.

Cows' Water Supply
 There are many devices on the market for keeping water from freezing in the tanks, and they are well worth the cost of installation and maintenance. Where artesian wells are available the question of keeping the water supply in good condition is not so serious. This water may be either run through the tank and out at some waste, or if this is not possible, a turn or two of the pipe through the tank in which warm water from the well circulates, will keep the temperature from reaching the freezing point, and if the tanks are well banked and covered, the water is kept in very good condition. In many instances, such arrangements require only a little time and attention.—Dakota Farmer.

Winter Dairy Ration
 A winter ration for a dairy cow includes silage, a legume hay and a grain mixture. The value of such a ration was demonstrated in a recent survey, North Dakota. I. H. Wells led with an average of 883.3 pounds of fat a cow. He used alfalfa hay, silage, barley, oats and flax, and had sweet clover for pasture. Andrew Erickson used the same ration, except that he used linseed meal instead of flax. His average was 831.4 pounds of fat a cow.—Capper's Farmer.

Fight COLDS

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil contains a wealth of Vitamin A. This increases resistance to those winter colds that are apt to spread through the family. So smooth is this emulsion, so pleasantly flavored, that it lacks the fishy taste usually associated with cod liver oil. Doctors recommend it for men and women. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representatives, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

Scott's Emulsion
 OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

Followed His Flock
 After the most of his flock had deserted his church and gone to Pompano, Fla., to harvest the winter bean crop, Lewis Clark, negro Baptist minister at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., removed his church building, bell, pews, pulpit, collection plates and all, to Pompano so that the congregation might again be assembled for religious services.

So He Looked in Webster
 "I've never heard you say 'zythum,' auntie."
 "Of course not, Willie. Why?"
 "Daddy said you liked the last word."

RELIEVES HEAD, CHEST and BACK COLDS
ALBATUM
 Stainless "Rub In" and inhalant unsurpassed in preventing and relieving cold congestions.
 QUALITY SINCE 1923
 SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES

An Exception
 A scientist says that insects never cross. But how about the political bee and the straddle bug?

The Big Thing
 New Salesman—Shall I talk quality or price first?
 Sales Manager—Just talk first payment.

Cooks are the leading ladies
 in many domestic dramas.

The Helper
 Lover (clapping his adored)—How much is the fare?
 Taxi Driver—That is all right, sir. The young lady's father settled all that.—(Die Woche im Bild, Oiten).

Placing the Blame
 Mistress—Nora, did you break that beautiful china cake platter?
 Maid—No, mum, but I sure told that policeman what I thought of him for dropping it.

DAIRY FACTS

GIVE PROPER CARE TO MILK UTENSILS

Failure to clean milk utensils thoroughly and to treat them properly to kill bacteria is one of the main reasons why milk and cream sour, says the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in a bulletin, the publication is "Farmers' Bulletin 1075-F, Care of Milk Utensils on the Farm."

Both the retail fluid-milk market and manufacturers of high grade dairy products of all kinds demand milk and cream of the highest quality. Dairies with clean utensils, thoroughly treated to kill bacteria, usually lead in the production of high quality milk and cream, according to the bulletin.

The proper washing of utensils and their treatment to kill bacteria, either by steam or with chemicals, is discussed in detail in the publication. Illustrations show the equipment necessary to carry on such treatment in the simplest yet most effective manner. Blue prints of the different types of steam cabinets discussed in the bulletin may be obtained free upon request to the bureau of dairy industry.

This bulletin should be of interest not only to owners of both large and small dairies but to 4-H club members as well. Copies may be obtained, as long as the supply available for free distribution lasts, from the office of information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Lowered Labor Charges in Larger Dairy Herds
 A survey has recently been made in Chenango county, New York, to determine the amount of labor expended per cow. On the 54 farms an average of 13 cows was kept, an average of 380 hours was spent per cow in milking, caring for the cows and delivering milk to the station. When an average of 20 cows was maintained, this was reduced to 117 hours per cow, the doubling the size of the herd increased the labor requirements only by a third. This advantage does not go on indefinitely as the herd increases, however, as the largest herds in the group required slightly more labor per cow than those with 20 to 30 cows. These herds, however, had the highest production per cow and more fall freshening, both of which factors tend to increase the labor requirements. On the other hand, herds of high production make the greatest profits, so the labor was well expended. An increase of 85 per cent in the average production per cow in a herd increased the labor only 27 per cent and the amount of labor per 100 pounds milk was reduced by 23 per cent.

Soybeans in Rations
 The time is at hand when the dairy farmer should appreciate the importance of growing all the protein he needs for his cows, and growing stock. This is true because of two main reasons: First, he can produce protein in the form of soybeans as a grain crop as well as in the form of legume roughages, such as clover and alfalfa; and second, because an acre of land will bring a higher income in feed value when mixed with other products, than when seeded to oats or barley. This, at any rate, is true so long as the right proportions between protein and carbohydrate feeds are maintained to properly nourish the dairy cow and her offspring.

For example, a mixture composed of 90 per cent of the ordinary farm grains and 10 per cent of a high protein feed, fed with corn silage and alfalfa or clover hay is considered a good ration for the average dairy cow.—Wisconsin Agriculturalist.

Cows' Water Supply
 There are many devices on the market for keeping water from freezing in the tanks, and they are well worth the cost of installation and maintenance. Where artesian wells are available the question of keeping the water supply in good condition is not so serious. This water may be either run through the tank and out at some waste, or if this is not possible, a turn or two of the pipe through the tank in which warm water from the well circulates, will keep the temperature from reaching the freezing point, and if the tanks are well banked and covered, the water is kept in very good condition. In many instances, such arrangements require only a little time and attention.—Dakota Farmer.

Winter Dairy Ration
 A winter ration for a dairy cow includes silage, a legume hay and a grain mixture. The value of such a ration was demonstrated in a recent survey, North Dakota. I. H. Wells led with an average of 883.3 pounds of fat a cow. He used alfalfa hay, silage, barley, oats and flax, and had sweet clover for pasture. Andrew Erickson used the same ration, except that he used linseed meal instead of flax. His average was 831.4 pounds of fat a cow.—Capper's Farmer.

Followed His Flock
 After the most of his flock had deserted his church and gone to Pompano, Fla., to harvest the winter bean crop, Lewis Clark, negro Baptist minister at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., removed his church building, bell, pews, pulpit, collection plates and all, to Pompano so that the congregation might again be assembled for religious services.

So He Looked in Webster
 "I've never heard you say 'zythum,' auntie."
 "Of course not, Willie. Why?"
 "Daddy said you liked the last word."

RELIEVES HEAD, CHEST and BACK COLDS
ALBATUM
 Stainless "Rub In" and inhalant unsurpassed in preventing and relieving cold congestions.
 QUALITY SINCE 1923
 SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES

An Exception
 A scientist says that insects never cross. But how about the political bee and the straddle bug?

The Big Thing
 New Salesman—Shall I talk quality or price first?
 Sales Manager—Just talk first payment.

Cooks are the leading ladies
 in many domestic dramas.

The Helper
 Lover (clapping his adored)—How much is the fare?
 Taxi Driver—That is all right, sir. The young lady's father settled all that.—(Die Woche im Bild, Oiten).

Placing the Blame
 Mistress—Nora, did you break that beautiful china cake platter?
 Maid—No, mum, but I sure told that policeman what I thought of him for dropping it.

DAIRY FACTS

GIVE PROPER CARE TO MILK UTENSILS

Failure to clean milk utensils thoroughly and to treat them properly to kill bacteria is one of the main reasons why milk and cream sour, says the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in a bulletin, the publication is "Farmers' Bulletin 1075-F, Care of Milk Utensils on the Farm."

Both the retail fluid-milk market and manufacturers of high grade dairy products of all kinds demand milk and cream of the highest quality. Dairies with clean utensils, thoroughly treated to kill bacteria, usually lead in the production of high quality milk and cream, according to the bulletin.

The proper washing of utensils and their treatment to kill bacteria, either by steam or with chemicals, is discussed in detail in the publication. Illustrations show the equipment necessary to carry on such treatment in the simplest yet most effective manner. Blue prints of the different types of steam cabinets discussed in the bulletin may be obtained free upon request to the bureau of dairy industry.

This bulletin should be of interest not only to owners of both large and small dairies but to 4-H club members as well. Copies may be obtained, as long as the supply available for free distribution lasts, from the office of information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Lowered Labor Charges in Larger Dairy Herds
 A survey has recently been made in Chenango county, New York, to determine the amount of labor expended per cow. On the 54 farms an average of 13 cows was kept, an average of 380 hours was spent per cow in milking, caring for the cows and delivering milk to the station. When an average of 20 cows was maintained, this was reduced to 117 hours per cow, the doubling the size of the herd increased the labor requirements only by a third. This advantage does not go on indefinitely as the herd increases, however, as the largest herds in the group required slightly more labor per cow than those with 20 to 30 cows. These herds, however, had the highest production per cow and more fall freshening, both of which factors tend to increase the labor requirements. On the other hand, herds of high production make the greatest profits, so the labor was well expended. An increase of 85 per cent in the average production per cow in a herd increased the labor only 27 per cent and the amount of labor per 100 pounds milk was reduced by 23 per cent.

Soybeans in Rations
 The time is at hand when the dairy farmer should appreciate the importance of growing all the protein he needs for his cows, and growing stock. This is true because of two main reasons: First, he can produce protein in the form of soybeans as a grain crop as well as in the form of legume roughages, such as clover and alfalfa; and second, because an acre of land will bring a higher income in feed value when mixed with other products, than when seeded to oats or barley. This, at any rate, is true so long as the right proportions between protein and carbohydrate feeds are maintained to properly nourish the dairy cow and her offspring.

For example, a mixture composed of 90 per cent of the ordinary farm grains and 10 per cent of a high protein feed, fed with corn silage and alfalfa or clover hay is considered a good ration for the average dairy cow.—Wisconsin Agriculturalist.

Cows' Water Supply
 There are many devices on the market for keeping water from freezing in the tanks, and they are well worth the cost of installation and maintenance. Where artesian wells are available the question of keeping the water supply in good condition is not so serious. This water may be either run through the tank and out at some waste, or if this is not possible, a turn or two of the pipe through the tank in which warm water from the well circulates, will keep the temperature from reaching the freezing point, and if the tanks are well banked and covered, the water is kept in very good condition. In many instances, such arrangements require only a little time and attention.—Dakota Farmer.

Winter Dairy Ration
 A winter ration for a dairy cow includes silage, a legume hay and a grain mixture. The value of such a ration was demonstrated in a recent survey, North Dakota. I. H. Wells led with an average of 883.3 pounds of fat a cow. He used alfalfa hay, silage, barley, oats and flax, and had sweet clover for pasture. Andrew Erickson used the same ration, except that he used linseed meal instead of flax. His average was 831.4 pounds of fat a cow.—Capper's Farmer.

Followed His Flock
 After the most of his flock had deserted his church and gone to Pompano, Fla., to harvest the winter bean crop, Lewis Clark, negro Baptist minister at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., removed his church building, bell, pews, pulpit, collection plates and all, to Pompano so that the congregation might again be assembled for religious services.

So He Looked in Webster
 "I've never heard you say 'zythum,' auntie."
 "Of course not, Willie. Why?"
 "Daddy said you liked the last word."

RELIEVES HEAD, CHEST and BACK COLDS
ALBATUM
 Stainless "Rub In" and inhalant unsurpassed in preventing and relieving cold congestions.
 QUALITY SINCE 1923
 SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES

An Exception
 A scientist says that insects never cross. But how about the political bee and the straddle bug?

The Big Thing
 New Salesman—Shall I talk quality or price first?
 Sales Manager—Just talk first payment.

Cooks are the leading ladies
 in many domestic dramas.

The Helper
 Lover (clapping his adored)—How much is the fare?
 Taxi Driver—That is all right, sir. The young lady's father settled all that.—(Die Woche im Bild, Oiten).

Placing the Blame
 Mistress—Nora, did you break that beautiful china cake platter?
 Maid—No, mum, but I sure told that policeman what I thought of him for dropping it.

DAIRY FACTS

GIVE PROPER CARE TO MILK UTENSILS

Failure to clean milk utensils thoroughly and to treat them properly to kill bacteria is one of the main reasons why milk and cream sour, says the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in a bulletin, the publication is "Farmers' Bulletin 1075-F, Care of Milk Utensils on the Farm."

Both the retail fluid-milk market and manufacturers of high grade dairy products of all kinds demand milk and cream of the highest quality. Dairies with clean utensils, thoroughly treated to kill bacteria, usually lead in the production of high quality milk and cream, according to the bulletin.

The proper washing of utensils and their treatment to kill bacteria, either by steam or with chemicals, is discussed in detail in the publication. Illustrations show the equipment necessary to carry on such treatment in the simplest yet most effective manner. Blue prints of the different types of steam cabinets discussed in the bulletin may be obtained free upon request to the bureau of dairy industry.

This bulletin should be of interest not only to owners of both large and small dairies but to 4-H club members as well. Copies may be obtained, as long as the supply available for free distribution lasts, from the office of information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Lowered Labor Charges in Larger Dairy Herds
 A survey has recently been made in Chenango county, New York, to determine the amount of labor expended per cow. On the 54 farms an average of 13 cows was kept, an average of 380 hours was spent per cow in milking, caring for the cows and delivering milk to the station. When an average of 20 cows was maintained, this was reduced to 117 hours per cow, the doubling the size of the herd increased the labor requirements only by a third. This advantage does not go on indefinitely as the herd increases, however, as the largest herds in the group required slightly more labor per cow than those with 20 to 30 cows. These herds, however, had the highest production per cow and more fall freshening, both of which factors tend to increase the labor requirements. On the other hand, herds of high production make the greatest profits, so the labor was well expended. An increase of 85 per cent in the average production per cow in a herd increased the labor only 27 per cent and the amount of labor per 100 pounds milk was reduced by 23 per cent.

Soybeans in Rations
 The time is at hand when the dairy farmer should appreciate the importance of growing all the protein he needs for his cows, and growing stock. This is true because of two main reasons: First, he can produce protein in the form of soybeans as a grain crop as well as in the form of legume roughages, such as clover and alfalfa; and second, because an acre of land will bring a higher income in feed value when mixed with other products, than when seeded to oats or barley. This, at any rate, is true so long as the right proportions between protein and carbohydrate feeds are maintained to properly nourish the dairy cow and her offspring.

SPENCERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

News Events of Interest to the Public
In General

Chapel Service

The weekly Chapel Service was held Tuesday morning. Rev. J. O. Rose delivered a talk on early divisions of the Bible history, taking into account the creation as recorded in Genesis. Mention was made that scientists say animals that live in the water were the first creation because the gasses arising from the new earth would have killed any animal that breathed air that was not filtered. Meanwhile a landscape was placed on the face of the earth and pure air came into existence. At last God created man to take care of the earth and to rule over it.

Summarily, this universe is made up of two distinct things, spirit and matter. Spirit can think, feel and act. Matter possesses the quality of shape, is acted upon by gravity and possesses inertia. Matter cannot be made to act without a spirit behind it to conceive its purpose and actions.

What I'd Like To Be

I wouldn't be a fishworm
That is so very small.
All through life it has to squirm
At just a snail pace crawl.
Another thing I wouldn't be
I see it every day.
It is that great big willow tree
That stands along the way.
I'd like to be just what I am
And play all through the day.
Then go to bed with little Sam
And sleep the hours away.
—Roy and Loren Dale Laub.

Junior Class News

The Junior class held their first party Wednesday evening of December 23, at the home of Forrest Brattain. Since there are only six members of the class each one invited three guests; but the two girls of the class, failed to put in an appearance. However, a goodly number of young people and two teachers were present, and all seemed to enjoy the evening of games, stunts, and other amusements. A delicious lunch of cake, jello and whipped cream and sandwiches was served. The Junior boys want the Junior girls to know that the success of the next party calls for the attendance and assistance of the girls as well as that of the boys.

Church Notes

ST. JOE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

"If ye love me, keep my commandments," Jn. 14: 15.

ST. JOE M. P. CHURCH

Fred B. Leighty, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

CONCORD M. P. CHURCH

Mrs. Harriett Draggoo, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30 A. M.
Christian Endeavor 6:15 P. M.
Children's service at 6:45 P. M.
in charge of Mrs. Harrold.
Evening message at 7:15.

HARLAN M. P. CHURCH

Frank Moore, Supt.
Sunday School 9 o'clock.
Morning message at 10:30.
Christian Endeavor at 6:00 P. M.

V. Odell Harrold, Pastor.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCHES

ST. JOE

Derwood Ridgway, Supt.
Church School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE

Roscoe Walter, Supt.
Church School 9:15.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

ST. JOE
Willard Hurni, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

COBURN'S CORNERS

Fred Hart, Supt.
Sunday School 9:30.

SPENCERVILLE M. E. CHURCH

John Koch, Supt.
Sunday School 9:00.

The members of Mr. Russell's Manual Training class are working on their twelfth drawing plate. Their time is divided between mechanical drawing and woodwork. They have been working over some of the old desks during the past week.

The class in clothing has been busy making suits, dresses, aprons and crayon tapestries.

The girls of the cooking class have been baking cakes the past week.

The Home Management group have been making decorative vases with shellac, colored paper and gulf paint. The colored linings of envelopes make the most artistic designs.

The student body enjoyed tests last week as a sort of preliminary preparation for the final of this week.

Sociology is to be an added subject for the second semester.

There were no High School music classes last week because the piano was being fixed. Mr. Harshman will hold extra sessions this week to make up for the lost time.

The supplies of candy in the school store are low. Too many students like suckers better than bars.

Believe it or not: we have sportsmen in our school as well as sportsmen. It is rumored that two of the fairer sex had the boxing gloves on the 6th day.

SPENCERVILLE

Joseph Spitzer, of south of town is quite ill with pneumonia.

Thomas Farnier is quite ill at the home of Charles Gibbons east of town.

Donald LeRoy Woodring came recently to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodring, of south of town.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference was held on Sunday morning at the Methodist Church. Rev. Baan, of Fort Wayne in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Place and children, of Fort Wayne were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baker and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowser and children, of St. Joe and James Reed and wife were Sunday afternoon guests in the R. U. Bowser home.

Mrs. Marjorie Rezor, Mrs. Victoria Means and Mrs. Dora Wilder left on Monday morning for Lafayette to attend the Short Course at Purdue University.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hafner and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billman and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Markle were Sunday guests at the Frank Wertman home. Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wasson were evening guests in the same home.

The Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met in an all day meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Culbertson. The ladies knotted comforts to be presented to the babies in the community. Pot luck dinner was enjoyed.

The C. C. Club met on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cora Steward. Prizes were won by Mrs. Ruth Butler and Mrs. Floyd Dean. Several guests were present to enjoy the occasion, including Mesdames Miller, Baker, Taig and Kraft, and the Misses Vera Reed, Margaret and Fairie Lee Walter.

CONCORD

Iris Jackson spent Sunday with Eloise Draggoo.

Master James Draggoo spent Sunday with Wayne and Walter Fetter.

George Johnson and family spent Sunday with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Maurer at Garrett.

Master Earl Keller was sick all day Monday, had fever, sore throat and was broke out. In the evening the doctor was called and he pronounced it scarlet fever.

Mrs. Will Scott and Mrs. Frank Scott were callers Sunday afternoon in the Ira Bone home. Mr. and Mrs. James Wyatt and Mrs. Mattie Andrews of Auburn were also callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott and Mrs. John Kreig, of Hicksville, spent last Thursday with Mrs. Ira Bone helping her quilt. Mrs. C. Jackson and daughter, Mable were afternoon callers.

Lloyd Draggoo was laid up a few days last week with lagrippe. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty of St. Joe spent Sunday with Lloyd Draggoo and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bassett and son, Junior called Sunday afternoon in the Mrs. Ed Bassett home.

Sunday afternoon Lloyd Draggoo and daughter, Eloise and Iris Jackson, spent a short time in the Mart Hull home.

Mrs. Fred Keller, who is staying with her daughter, Mrs. L. G. Fetter, this winter has been having the gripp, but is better at this writing.

Mrs. John Fetter received word last week from a friend in Michigan stating the death of Mrs. Arvilla Fisher, of Hart, Mich. The lady was Mr. John Fetter's last sister.

The Ladies Aid turned out good last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Hattie Draggoo. There were forty present and at the noon hour a bountiful pot luck dinner was served. There were twelve gentlemen guests. After dinner the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Neva Johnson. Mrs. Hattie Johnson led the meeting by questions and answered by various members. Mrs. Carrie Morr then took charge and conducted a contest, which was real interesting, and it created much merriment. The exchange was five cents worth of some kind of candy. Numbers were drawn to see whose candy you would receive. Mrs. Edna Morr and Mrs. Thelma Baker had charge.

LOCALS

(Intended for Last Week)

Get a receipt book at News Office. With or without a stub. 45¢.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, of Moores were Friday guests of Mr. D. D. Burley.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gelhausen and two children, of Garrett, were Sunday afternoon guests in ye editor's home.

Mrs. Glenn Warstler and daughter, Martha Jane, spent Friday with the former's sister, Mrs. Carl Johnson, and family.

Martin Engle and Joseph Hull are quite poorly this winter, while about their homes, yet do not get up town very often.

Mrs. Ruth Davis is on the sick list and Mrs. Katie Storer has taken charge of the hot lunch at school during her absence.

Mrs. Jennie Sechler has gone to Auburn to be in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Everett Mavis, and family, for an indefinite time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dille, Mrs. Mary Sechler and Mrs. Emma Sientz of South Haven, Mich., spent Saturday afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Reichelderfer at Harlan.

Sunday dinner guests in the Chas. Bishop home were Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Bishop and children Therman, Fern and Lucille, also the latter's friend, Mr. Oscar Basse, all of Auburn. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Warstler and son, Ronald Gene, of Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bishop and children, Wilma, Thelma, Grace, Stanley and Robert, spent Saturday with their mother, Mrs. D. C. McCann. Miss Grace Bishop, who spent the past week with her grandmother, returned home with her parents. Mrs. Bishop has improved greatly in health.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No. 45.

We have come to learn, that not every time a thing is appreciated are we told of it, and publishing a newspaper seems to us a bit different, as we frequently hear how much better it could be published than the editor is doing, and then along comes a letter something like this: "Enclosed $1.50, please renew my subscription to The News for another year. It is just like a letter coming from home." Thank you. The above are the words of Mrs. Otis Fitch, Rt. 3, Fort Wayne, Ind. Don't you think it's a bit cheery to receive the jack and encouragement in the same letter?

DR. COIL
SAVE YOUR EYES—WEAR COIL GLASSES
Eyeight Specialists
White Gold Filled Frames, Special $5.00
225 CALDWAY
East Side of Calhoun—North of Wayne
New Dr. Coil Over WOODS and WIL

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cox and son, Dean spent Sunday with Mrs. Cox's parents at Brighton.

For Sale: A St. Joe residence, for cash or monthly payments.

Auburn Building & Loan Assn. 51tf.

James D. Adams, publisher of the Columbia City Post, plans to throw his hat in the ring and seek the Democratic nomination for congress. Only one other candidate has announced so far—J. I. Farley of Auburn.

Transfers of real estate in St. Joe of late are as follows: Edward N. and R. Mae Miser to Auburn Building Loan Assn., 150x50 ft. sec. 15, $1. Trustees St. Joe Lodge I. O. O. F. to Mentor Lodge I. O. O. F. lot 9, block 3, O. P., $1.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Quance and children, of Auburn were Saturday night and Sunday guests in the J. C. Hull and F. B. Leighty homes. Miss Ethenia Graham and Fred Quance, also of Auburn, were afternoon guests in the J. C. Hull home.

There seems to be a strong intimation that H. W. Morley, of Angola will again be a candidate for Democratic nomination for Congress. In 1930 he made his announcement but due to illness in his home was unable to make a campaign. Morley is a prominent Democrat in the district.

Lola Mae, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davis of Newville, DeKalb county, has recovered from an illness caused by drinking kerosene. She got hold of a can containing the oil and drank so much that she had to be worked with for several hours before she was out of danger.

Rev. J. O. Rose, of Angola, who has been pastor of the Church of Christ at Coburntown, the past two years, has resigned and preached his farewell sermon there Sunday. He will be succeeded by Rev. Walter Coburn, who now makes his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Coburn, in that neighborhood.

Theodore T. Wood, new prosecuting attorney for Lagrange and Steuben counties, announced Monday that he will not appoint a deputy prosecutor to serve in Lagrange county because no appropriation has been made that county to pay a deputy. Mr. Wood resides in Angola. He said that he cannot afford to pay a deputy out of his own salary and that it will be necessary for him to handle all the work of both counties.

Postmaster Baker is in receipt of a consignment of the new Washington bi-centennial postage stamps. Twelve different stamps are included in the series which starts with one-half cent and up to and including 10 cents. Each stamp is a different color and all show some phase during the life of Washington. There is on sale also a new Washington 2-cent stamped envelope with the home at Mount Vernon in engraving.

The annual report of E. E. Turner, county highway superintendent, shows that the average cost of maintaining the county's roads during the year 1931 was $155.24 a mile. The total expenditures of the department were $72,340.99. The receipts were $91,042.93, of which $32,026.62 was derived from gasoline tax and $57,982.45 from taxes. The balance on hand at the close of the year was $37,713.48. The expenditures during the year included $12,698.30 for salary paid the superintendent and assistants; $38,577.90 for tools, machinery and materials; and $21,064.79 for labor and teams.

PHONE 290

Stanley P. Nelson Monuments

Opposite Woodlawn and
Roselawn Cemeteries

AUBURN, IND.

Russel R. Reidenour

Attorney

Auburn, Ind.

For Sale: Guernsey springers. St. Joe phone, No. 2210. Vernon Kline. 212.

Mrs. Ruth Davis visited Tuesday in the Wm. Hamilton home east of St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Baker and Mrs. Anna Bechtol were Fort Wayne shoppers Friday.

Have your glasses fitted by Benj. F. Griest, Eyesight Specialist, Office in American Bldg., Hicksville, Ohio. 25tf.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young and Lantz Young and son, spent Sunday near Brimfield with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Young.

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Widney, of Columbia City were dinner guests of Mrs. Alice Copp Sunday. Mrs. Copp returned home with them for several weeks visit.

Mrs. John Koch is improved so as to sit up some. Mr. Koch is having a painful experience with the shingles, not being able to get much sleep but is about.

Henry L. Houser, a former trustee of Butler township, passed away at his home five miles southwest of Garrett Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. He had been ill for a number of years with organic heart trouble.

Mrs. Constance Maurer, of Coldwater, Mich., writes her father, Mr. D. D. Burley, that she is laid up with a sprained right ankle. She slipped on the back porch where ice had frozen, and fell injuring her ankle. She is some better but it is difficult for her to get around.

Mrs. Wendell Culler and son, Donald, of Hicksville, spent Wednesday in the Chas. Curie home.

Miss Catherine Eoll, of Ann Arbor, Mich., has been chosen as county nurse, taking the place of Miss Edna Grabel, who resigned several months ago.

The Honor Roll for the 3rd and 4th grades in the month of December: Frank Curie, Richard Davis, Jack Goodwin, Helen Goodwin, Richard Ridlen, Betty Kees, Bee Stroh, Bobby Wade, Barbara Coburn, Maxine Woodcox.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller, of Toledo, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt of Fort Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hursh were Sunday dinner guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Andress. Mrs. Lela Northrup was an afternoon caller.

The application for the admittance of Ellsworth Eakright of Wilmington township and Florence Widmer of Garrett, to the Irene Byron sanatorium were granted by the county commissioners. These make a total of four such applications within the last two months, the others having been Thelma Bachellor of St. Joe and Hal Stoner of Garrett.

666

666 Liquid or Tablets used internally and 666 Salve externally make a complete and effective treatment for Colds.

$5,000 in Cash Prizes
Ask your druggist for particulars

Dr. Bonnell M. Souder HOSPITAL

206 WEST SEVENTH STREET

AUBURN'S NEW MODERN FIRE PROOF INSTITUTION
NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC AND ALL PHYSICIANS

Private rooms may be obtained for $17.50, $21.00, $28.00
$30.00 and $35.00 a week

Equipped with all modern conveniences with beds of the new crank style and closets off each room, laboratory and X-ray facilities.

MRS. BURDGE, a registered nurse, is in charge of the hospital

Dr. BONNELL M. SOUDER, will make outside calls on her Father's patients as well as her own.

FARMERS NOTICE!

Brady Brothers, who have been buying LIVE STOCK every Saturday at Butler, will also buy Hogs, Calves, Lambs, and Cattle on every Wednesday at BUTLER.

Get Our Prices Before Disposing of Your Live Stock

BRADY BROTHERS

Your home is your Castle—Your bank your guard

The life of your family—its hopes, fortunes, activities—centers around your home. In many ways your bank is its guardian. When your home was merely a plan—a desire—the bank helped you, through savings and loans, to attain it. Your bank enables you to pay taxes, expenses for repairs—all the costs of its maintenance—easily, surely, without hardship. In the safe-keeping of your reserves—as a trustee for your estate—your bank assures the security and safety of your home and family. At every vulnerable point in the financial fence surrounding your home—your bank protects and guards.

Farmers-Merchants St. Bank

Spencerville, Indiana

NEWS!
YOU HAVE IT!
WE WANT IT!
PHONE 45

ST. JOE NEWS.

ADVERTISE!
IN THIS PAPER AND REACH
THE READING PUBLIC—THE
BEST AND CHEAPEST.

VOL. XLVI

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1932

NUMBER 3

DELINQUENT TAX LIST
LARGEST IN YEARS

The annual tax sale will be held at the DeKalb county court house Monday, February 8, by County Auditor Frank E. Lyon and County Treasurer Merritt M. Maxwell. The number of descriptions of real estate for which taxes are delinquent is 1,098, including drainage assessments. Last year the number was 606. In 1930 there were 311, in 1929, 528, in 1928, 435, and in 1927, 315. There were only 196 in 1924.

The list contains the town and city lots returned delinquent for the nonpayment of taxes for the year 1930 payable in 1931, with interest and penalty added, as well as for the taxes of 1931 payable in 1932.

Garrett has 170 descriptions in the list, besides 54 delinquent paving assessments. Auburn has 84 descriptions, together with 26 paving assessments. Butler city has 73. Waterloo 14, Ashley 10, St. Joe 6, Spencerville 3, Cornua 3, Altona 12, Fairfield township 9, Franklin township 6, Richland township 12, Butler township 15, Jackson township 8, Concord township 5, Spencer township 3, Newville township 10, Wilmington township 6, Stafford township 1, Union township 5, Auburn in Union township 11, Keyser township 15, Keyser out of Garrett 5, Troy township 5, Smithfield township 5, Grant township 3.

IRVIN HADSELL DIES
AT HICKSVILLE HOME

Irvin S. Hadsell, 72, one of Hicksville's best known residents, died Thursday at his home on West Edgerton Street, after an illness of several years, as the result of a stroke of paralysis.

A native of the Coburntown neighborhood, Mr. Hadsell taught school several years and then went to Peru, Ind., as a music salesman. Later he came to Hicksville in the same business, and resided here for the past fifteen years. While engaged in the sale of pianos and sewing machines for so many years, Mr. Hadsell became known for miles and knew practically every home in his territory.

He contributed much to the success of meetings in this community years ago, by furnishing the musical instruments, and always glad to co-operate from the standpoint of being interested in community affairs.

Burial took place in Alton cemetery, after funeral services, conducted by Rev. S. E. Brewster at 2 o'clock in the Hicksville Church of Christ.

Surviving are the widow, the former Nina Gee; and four children, Mrs. Fuschia McPherson, Marion, Ind.; Mrs. Blanche Miller, Peru, Ind.; Miss Maurine Hadsell, Albany, N. Y., and Selye Hadsell, Columbus. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. Cornelia Hadsell, Hicksville, and a brother, Marshall, Peru, Ind.

ATTEMPTED ENTERING
M. E. PARSONAGE

Awakened by someone trying to gain entrance to their home by raising the windows, Rev. Homer Studabaker of Spencerville, quietly used the telephone and calls for John Woodring, and when he emerges from his home, the vandals drove away in their car.

GREED OF BIG CORPORATIONS HAS CAUSED THE DEPRESSION

Washington, D. C., January 20.—"America's present depression has resulted largely from the ruinous course of certain profit seekers who occupy strategic positions in our economic life and have been able to collect most of the dividends on the effort and enlightenment of this change," Congressman David Higg declared in an address to the full membership of the House during the discussion of the Reconstruction Finance Bill.

"Since the war wages and prices have remained the same. Productivity per person has increased more than 50 per cent. The increase profits were squandered in 40 billions of foreign loans and speculations. These few men," he said, "have exacted from the public what traffic will bear and thereby have deprived the farmer and laborer of its just purchasing power."

"This Bill meets a most urgent need to loosen frozen assets of banks. It does not affect the disease. Labor and agriculture must receive its full share of profit before this country will recover. Bureaus and Commissions must be abolished and consolidated. Government forces in Washington must be decreased substantially."

MAKES GLEE CLUB
AT INDIANA

DuWayne Kinsey of St. Joe is one of the forty-two Indiana University men students who have been successful in trying out for the glee club of the university, according to Prof. Douglas D. Nye, director of this organization. The glee club will give its first public concert Wednesday morning, (January 20) when it will present the I. U. convocation program before a large group of students, faculty and townspeople.

The club is composed of nine first tenors, 12 second tenors, 10 first basses and 11 second basses. William Arbuckle of Lawrence is accompanist for the club. Kinsey sings second tenor.

HARLAN BANKER ILL WITH APPENDICITIS ATTACK

Frank Miller, of Harlan, cashier of the bank, was suddenly stricken Friday with an attack of appendicitis, while on duty. He was rushed home, and his physician is endeavoring to ward off an operation. Mr. Miller was not so well the first of the week.

OBITUARY

Samuel Marion High, the third child of a family of four children, was born to Peter and Sarah Henderson High, on the Old Homestead in Jackson Township, DeKalb County, August 24, 1855, and spent his entire life in Jackson Township, passing away on the farm on which he was born at the close of a beautiful day January 10, 1932, at the age of 76 years, 4 months and 17 days.

BASSETT'S
WELDING SHOP
OXY-ACETYLENE
WELDING
BRAZING
SOLDERING

IN ST. JOE GARAGE

The DeBONAIRE
Beauty Shoppe

Butler, Indiana

Mrs. Lee Norgan, Proprietor
Mrs. Han, Operator

We specialize in all kinds of Beauty work and the new method of Croqueonole Waving. All our work is full guaranteed.

Marcel	.....35c	Shampoo and Marcel	.....50c
Finger Wave	.....30c	Shampoo and Wave	.....50c
Permanents	.....$5.00, $8.00

He was converted in the United Brethren Church at Green's Corners, while teaching his first term of school. How fitting his decision for Christ in that his life did influence the youth of the community in the school room for over twenty years, in fact, his life has always been that of a teacher. If not in the school room that of teaching the youth in the Church School. He has been class leader almost continuously since the church was built. He was also church trustee for many years. The great controlling interest of his life since he united with the Old Bear Creek class under the pastorate of Rev. F. M. Husey has been to live his life for Christ. He was ever a student and teacher of the Teachers Training class to the day of his passing away.

He was honored by his fellowmen in being elected Trustee of Jackson Township. When the Spencerville bank was organized he became a director of said bank and continued director as long as he lived.

He was united in marriage to Rosa A. Phillip July 30, 1878. To this union was born a daughter, Ina, on February 2, 1880. This little life was spared a short time, as she was taken on October 22, 1886, being past six years of age. These two dear people have journeyed together for over fifty-three years and now what a break of a holy companionship of many years.

On his memory's page the first to be recalled was the first chapter of the gospel of John. God's word is the secret of such a noble life. He leaves to mourn his departure his loving wife, six nieces, one nephew and a host of relatives and friends.

Words cannot express the feelings of our heart in the losing of such a brother, a friend, a neighbor, a citizen of yonder country, for while he lived in the flesh his citizenship was in yonder city.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from the Rehoboth Church with Rev. M. E. Cormican, officiating. Burial was made in Evergreen cemetery at Auburn.

CALF PLUNGES INTO THE SINK HOLE

Last Wednesday, while Gust Hafner was loading a calf at the Chester Loucks farm north of town, another jumped from the rack and started to run. After loading the second calf they attempted to corral the other and it had run to the Henry Shroyer farm, a mile west, and the critter jumped into the sink hole, going down out of sight. Shortly it came up and swam out on the east bank. Here they succeeded in capturing the animal.

BOY SCOUTS ORGANIZING

A meeting was called Monday evening, January 18, at the Town Hall to see if it were possible to organize a troop of Boy Scouts in this community. Twenty-eight boys responded to the first call. If there is a desire among the boys of the community to become a part of an organization of this kind it is to be commended and the community as a whole should get behind the thing. It costs very little (50 cents a year in dues) to be a member, so let's all boost the thing for it is what the boys need.

SUNDAY SCHOOL
REPORTS

Coburn's Corners	.....80—$3.75
M. P.	.....59—$3.19
Spencerville M. E.	.....79—$3.55
Lutheran	.....62—$4.32

ROBERT LOUCKS ADMIT-TED TO SHRINE HOSPITAL

Several months ago the Concord Township Ladies Home Bureau in connection with the Red Cross, decided to sponsor a movement to obtain admittance into the Shriners Hospital for crippled children in Chicago, for little Robert Loucks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loucks, with a view of obtaining correction of club feet. The resignation of the County Red Cross Nurse last fall, threw the responsibility entirely upon the Home Bureau, which they assumed, in keeping with their policy that a complete physical, educational and spiritual development of the child is necessary to the best interest of citizenship.

Six and a half months ago, Robert was examined by a Shriner doctor in Fort Wayne, and paper filed for admittance. Last Wednesday evening, late, final notice was received which was to the effect that Master Robert must be in the Shriners Hospital in Chicago on the following Friday at 2:00 P. M. Accordingly he was taken to the hospital that day, accompanied by Mrs. Mable Baker and Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick, and after final examinations was admitted. He will be in the hospital for approximately six months during which time he will undergo such surgical operations as will be needed to correct the deformity. He is an unusually attractive and friendly little fellow and a pleasing feature of the trip for those involved, was the fact that while he was in the care of perfect strangers, he went thru the trip, and all examinations in the best of humor, making friends of doctors and nurses alike.

The ladies of the Home Bureau feel that the whole community will join with them in wishing for the little fellow a successful correction and a speedy recovery.

DEKALB COUNTY WINNERS
AT PURDUE

DeKalb County won much publicity over the state by having such a large delegation attend the Agricultural Conference at Purdue. Sixty-two attended from DeKalb County. The state is divided into five districts according to the distance from Lafayette. DeKalb County is in the fourth district and won the loving cup presented by the Pennsylvania R. R. for having the largest attendance from this district. DeKalb County also had a larger delegation than any county in the third or fifth district and stood thirteenth in the state. The attendance at the conference was the largest ever recorded and the program for the week consisted of many educational features.

Several men won ribbons and cash prizes with their exhibits in the corn and small grain show held during the week. These men showed in Section 1 in the corn show. 10 ear sample yellow: Harry Shull won 9th. Wm. Boger won 11th. Lester Boger won 14th. Howard Emme won 15th. 10 ear sample white: L. N. Chapman 5th. Single ear: Wm. Boger 2nd. L. N. Chapman 10th. In 4-H Club Show. Single ear. Howard Emme, 2nd. Woodrow Drerup, 3rd. 10 ear sample, Howard Emme 3rd. Woodrow Drerup, 5th. John Stackhouse, 6th. In Small Grain Show. Carl Carpenter won 9th. On Minota Oats, 1st on certified claret corn, 6th on shelled corn and 8th on Soybeans Manchus. In Potato Show. Howard Emme won 5th. in the Albert Miller class. There were 291 exhibits in Corn Show. 167 exhibits in 4-H Show. Altogether there were 509 exhibits which was larger than last year.

MEETING OF THE
HOME BUREAU

The first meeting of the Home Bureau was held at the Gym Jan-

C. E.
McCLINTOCK

Attorney at Law

City National Bank Building
104 West Eighth St.

Auburn, Indiana

uary 15. The president being absent the meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Mary Krise. The ladies sang two songs being led by the chorister, Mrs. Hattie Johnson. Secretary's report was read and approved. About thirty members responded to roll call with a humorous quotation. Reading of constitution and by-laws by the secretary, Mrs. Millie Shull.

A hearty welcome was given the new members by Mrs. Arline Koch and was responded to in a few well chosen words by Mrs. Grace Sheffer. A paper on how to beautify our lawns was ably presented by Mrs. Myrtle Pugsey. The meeting was then turned over to the town ladies with Mrs. Cora Curie as chairman. A silent tribute was paid Mrs. Minnie Peppie, a deceased member. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Jela Northrup. New Year's resolutions, which caused considerable mirth, were given by the ladies of the country. This was followed by various contests and a treat by the town ladies. Club adjourned to meet February 19 at the Gym, entertainment to be furnished by the ladies from the country. One guest, Mrs. Burney Rhodes was present.

THE CASE WOODS BOW TO MODERN WOODMEN

The famous Case Woods, known for many miles around as the hunter's paradise, is now all but leveled to the ground. Only a few remaining small trees are here to mark the pride of the E-nillius Case Estate, who died a few years ago. By the time this article is read by the readers of this paper, this virgin timber tract will be no more. Giant trees, four and five feet in diameter, made a high vaulted wooded ceiling, which made the hunting of wild game a pleasure and a convenience. This tract was among the few remaining virgin timber woods in the vicinity and was looked upon as an asset to the community. This woods was the home of many proud chipmunks and squirrels and a few solitary coons. It had been the policy of Mr. Case while alive to keep the woodman's ax from marring its original beauty and not a single stump was found in violation to his plans. To the observer at a distance this woods presented a walled appearance because of its density and was a source of admiration to the motoring public.

Soon after the death of Mr. Case, this part of the estate was sold to the Peabody Lumber Co., which cut all of the large trees out, and for a number of years the remainder of the tract has been left to the Daniel Boons (wood) choppers, citizens of this community. Thousands of cords of wood have been taken from this woods to warm the toes of all of us and make poor coal dealers.

Ed Pfauwer owns a portion of this estate on the west side of the road. Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ginter are the present owners of the Homestead and have named it "Case Acres" in honor and memory of the original owner.

CARD OF THANKS

For the kindness shown in the recent illness and death of my wife, I wish to thank all. The token of friendship displayed in the many floral offerings is appreciated.

Wm. M. Peppie.

Mrs. Hazel Baltz spent several days the past week at the bedside of her mother in Toledo.

BABY CHICKS!

Chick season is here. Regardless of the low price of Chicks, we have bloodtested and worm treated our Breeding Stock so that we may be able to give you Good, Healthy, Baby Chicks.

Baby Chick Prices:

English White Leghorns	.....8c
Barred and White Rocks, S. C. R.	.....9c
Buff Orpington and White Wyandottes	.....9c

We have Brown Leghorn, Buff M. on special orders only. Order early to get them the date wanted.

Hicksville Hatchery

Mattress Bargains
$4.95 and UP

See our display and all of them offered at attractive prices—It is your one opportunity.

KINSEY
Hardware Furniture UndertakingMaybe We are WRONG---

You have heard a lot about "Setting Up" exercises these days. You ask what they are? Well, we don't know exactly, but presume they must be about the opposite from skating!

Maybe that's wrong. There are so many kinds, you know. If it comes to setting up in BUSINESS, that is something different from PHYSICAL exercises. That's a FINANCIAL affair, and possibly that is where our Bank can help you. Kindly let us know your needs.

4 Percent
SAVINGThe ST. JOE
VALLEY BANK
A STATE
BANK4 Percent
SAVING

THE ST. JOE NEWS, ST. JOE, INDIANA.

The Children's Corner

EDITED BY DOROTHY EDMONDS

Happy Moon Legends

The Finding of Happy Moon.
The Red-children were frightened. The North Wind was angry. Old-man-above-the-sky wakes up, even Na-quill hides. Old-man-above-the-sky was awake because the Moon was gone. The North Wind was angry because the Moon was gone and he could no longer tell how many moons to wait before he brought the ice. The Red-children were frightened because any change in the sky always frightens them. They ran about, crying. Their crying woke Strong Heart, who was asleep in bed. His bed was a hollow place between two hills. At first Strong Heart sat still, wondering why the Red-children were making so much noise. Then he looked up; the Moon was gone.

"Oh, good," he shouted. "Na-quill has taken the Moon for me." All was dark. Strong Heart could see nothing, but he could hear a noise. The noise grew louder. It was a scream. It was the scream of the North Wind. The scream said, "Yee, wooooo, wooooo! I'll get you ooooo!"

Strong Heart shivered. Then he heard another sound. "Thump, thump," said the sound. It was the sound Na-quill's wings made as he flew through the air.

Strong Heart stood on top of a mountain and watched. He saw a strange race.

The starlight shone on the gold feathers in Na-quill's wings. The starlight shone on the North Wind. The North Wind was white and ugly. His feathers were sharp and terrible. He was throwing ice-spears at Na-quill.

Na-quill was flying low. He flew over the trees on the hill where Strong Heart stood. The North Wind was flying after him. The North Wind threw a whole handful of arrows at him. He threw the arrows so hard that when they hit the ground they burst into white powder.

Then suddenly Na-quill rose high into the air. He flew off toward the South. In the South is the Place-of-Hot-Sand where the North Wind never goes.

The North Wind followed Na-quill till all of his arrows were gone. Then the North Wind himself had to run, for Na-quill turned.

Na-quill turned and chased the North Wind. Na-quill had filled his beak with hot sand.

The North Wind's wings are frozen together. The North Wind knew that if the hot sand touched his wings they would melt and drop off. So he flew fast and got safely back to the North again, but was still angry. Strong Heart knew why Na-quill had flown over the forest. He guessed that there he should hunt for the missing Moon. So Strong Heart went into the forest on the hillside. He looked under all the low hanging branches. He even looked inside the sleeping flowers, because he did not know how small a new Moon is. Finally he found her. She was caught in the top of a tree. She was smiling down at him. She was slim. She was golden. She was beautiful. Her long, black hair was caught in the branches of the tree. She did not mind that. She was laughing.

"Help me down, please, Strong Heart," she said. "Surely," said Strong Heart, and he helped her down.

"What is your name?" he asked. "I have no name. I am too new." "Then I shall call you Happy Moon," said Strong Heart. "Every one shall always call you Happy Moon."

Happy Moon laughed. She was always laughing. After a while they heard Na-quill flying over them.

"Oh, there you are," said Na-quill. He stopped on a rock close by them.

TWO OF A KIND

"Cholly said last night you were a nipkin." "The silly fool." "That's what I called him."

My Neighbor Says

Milk bottles need careful cleaning because they go into the refrigerator. They should be dipped in cold water and dried with a clean cloth, with special attention to the paper cap, before entering the ice box.

If the white of an egg is beaten to a froth and added to cream, it will whip more easily and quickly.

When washing lace curtains, if no curtain stretcher is available, hang them while wet on curtain rods, pin to the casing under the window sill and in the cracks on the sides of the window and they will dry perfectly.

Use soap and water to clean white furniture, taking care that the water is not too hot and that the soap is pure, as impure soap will discolor the paint. Polish well with an old silk handkerchief.

(By the Associated Newspapers) (WNU Service)

Army Shows Progress

Made in Gas Warfare
Washington.—"Excellent progress" in preparing gases and protective equipment against gas for use in war was made by the Chemical Warfare service of the army during the last year, Maj. Gen. Henry L. Gilchrist, chief, told Secretary of War Hurley in his annual report.

Gilchrist said that "special emphasis" had been placed on reducing the cost of some of the more expensive items of chemical warfare. Also, he said, the service has devised better protection against chemical agents. During the past year the service made 25,974 gas masks for the army.

Building Collapses; Poor

Cart It Away for Fuel
Boston.—Within a few hours after an unoccupied three-story wooden building collapsed it had almost entirely disappeared. Residents of the neighborhood swarmed onto the premises like ants and carried the boards, planks and singles away for use as fuel.

Scientists State

Belief in Creator
London.—A questionnaire on science and religion has been sent to Fellows of the Royal Society, and some particulars of the replies were given at the annual meeting of the Christian Evidence society.

The questions were:
Do you credit the existence of a spiritual sphere?
A hundred and twenty replied yes; only thirteen said no.
Do you consider that man is in some measure responsible for his acts of choice?
Affirmative replies came from 173; negative replies from seven. Is it your opinion that belief in evolution is compatible with belief in a creator?
A hundred and forty-two said yes; five replied no.

He was breathing hard, for he had flown so hard after the North Wind. "I am angry at Kee Tay. He waited till the Moon was half an hour old before he called me."

"Look!" said Happy Moon. The world around them was suddenly bright. The forest was bright in the moonlight.

"See," said Happy Moon, "Old man has hung up another Moon in my place. Now he has gone back to sleep."

"I shall leave that Moon up there," said Na-quill. "I do not want another Moon," said Strong Heart, and Happy Moon laughed. She was always laughing.

NOT A HERO

Once upon a time there was a little lad. I'm sorry to say he loved to sleep. In fact, with him it had become a habit.

And so one day, his kindly father said, "Son, this is a very bad habit, and surely you will be a hero unless you curb your desire to sleep."

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Slumgullion.—Fry six slices of bacon and a sliced onion together. Add one can of tomatoes, half a pound of chopped fresh meat, or cooked meat may be used. Cook until well done. Add one-fourth pound of cheese cut in small pieces, and when melted serve on hot bread or toast.

Macaroni Parfait.—Put six egg yolks, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla in a double boiler over boiling water and beat with a beater ten minutes. Remove from the hot water and beat five minutes, then place in ice water, fold over until cold. Add three crushed macaronis and fold in one cupful of cream whipped, sweetened with three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and flavored with a teaspoonful of vanilla. Put into paper cases, rounding the mixture in the center. Sprinkle with six crushed macaronis and place in cardboard compartments covered with waxed paper.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK by WALTER TRUMBULL

An ancient sailorman, now ashore in New York, entertained an old friend. The entertainment consisted of considerable liquid refreshment. As the guest finally averted to his feet to go, he picked up something off the table.

"Wait a minute," said the host. "There's my teeth."

"They are my teeth as I put them on the table," declared the guest.

"I tell you nobody can walk off with my teeth," said the host, so much annoyed that he drew back his lips in a snarl.

"You old fool," said the guest. "You're wearin' your teeth."

Doubtfully, the host put his thumb in his mouth and bit it.

"My mistake," he said. "So I am."

Mrs. Al Johnson, who was Ruby Keeler, is one of the most popular of the theatrical colony. I suppose you know the story of her aunt who lived in a small town and rarely saw metropol-

CHAMPION COW SETS NEW RECORDS

By producing 7½ tons of milk and butterfat in 305 days, this prize bovine, bred and owned by W. R. Kenan, Jr., of Lockport, N. Y., has earned the title of America's champion cow. It is called Handleigh Farm Garnet, and set two new American records.

DIDN'T USED BOOK ENDS

"Have you ever bought any book ends for your library table?" "Why, no, I always get whole books, of course."

cream sweetened and flavored. A few marshmallow cherries adds to this heavenly dish.

(Copyright.)—WNU Service.

tan newspapers. Shortly after the marriage, this aunt happened on a theatrical section which carried a picture of Al Johnson in black face. In great perturbation she wrote to her sister, Mrs. Johnson's mother, saying, "How could you let little Ruby do such a thing?"

A young man of Manhattan had a job with a big financial institution, but he decided that there were too many men in line ahead of him and that they looked too healthy. So he looked around for another job and thought he would like to be a window dresser.

He never had dressed any windows, but he talked the owner of an uptown shop into letting him try it. He did so well that others lived him and now he is with one of the large stores and drawing several times his bank salary.

Norman Bel Geddes says that, at the age of nine, he took part in theatrical performances held in a barn in Sag-naw, Mich. That's nothing. At the age of six, I performed in a circus head in a barnyard in Old Mission, Mich. The cows and chickens also performed, but rather unwillingly.

Victor Killian, who was one of the cast of "Desire Under the Elms," and who more recently played in "Cloudy with Showers," has a peculiar hobby. He likes to build chimneys. In fact, he likes to do any sort of mason's work. He ran out of places to build chimneys on his own farm, so built some for his neighbors. When city people stop their cars and ask for directions, Mr. Killian puts on a robe act that would be worth money in the theater.

There is a branch of the public library, on East Fifty-eighth street, which makes a specialty of theatrical literature. It has a special room devoted to books on theatrical matters. Among the least frequent visitors seem to be actors. I never saw one in there.

